Center Women to Send 25 Boys to Camp Avodah This Summer; Bridge Proceeds to be Used

Fete to be Held April 25, at Benefit Street Gym to Raise Funds

200 Expected to Attend

When summer comes, 25 Jewish boys from this city will have cause to be grateful to the Women's Committee of the Jewish Community Center for the benefits they will gain from rest, sunshine, play and vacation that they would probably not otherwise have.

The Women's Committee, appreciating that many young children this year perhaps more than many others will be forced to go without these prerequisites to a happy childhood because of financial distress, has decided to send 25 youngsters for a frolicsome and healthful vacation at the District 6 camp "Avodah," located on the shores of picturesque Lake Tispaquin in Middleboro, Mass.

To Raise Funds

To raise funds for this purpose, the committee next Wednesday, April 25, is arranging a bridge party which more than 200 persons are expected to attend. It will be held in the Center gym, 65 Benefit street and all proceeds will go to help defray the expenses of a healthful summer vacation for the 25 youngsters finally picked to send to camp. There will be a prize at each table and refreshments will be served.

Mrs. David E. Feldman, chairman of the bridge, has the following committees: Mrs. Louis I. Kramer, Mrs. David C. Adelman, Mrs. Henry Hassenfeld, Mrs. Jacob Ernstof, Mrs. Saul Abrams, Mrs. Isador Feldman, Mrs. Herman Swartz, Mrs. Max Tarnapol, Mrs. Herman S. Galkin, Mrs. Ruth Markoff, Mrs. Isaac Woolf, Mrs. Isaac Gerber, Mrs. Judah C. Semonoff, Mrs. Joseph J. Seefer, Mrs. Milton C. Sapinsley, Mrs. Louis Hurwitz, Mrs. Walter Adler, Mrs. Samuel Starr, Mrs. Paul J. Robin, Mrs. Samuel H. Joseph Marcus Selects Jewish Herald as Ally in Great Sales Drive

As an important factor in his state-wide campaign to install the best and most popular makes of electric refrigerators in Jewish homes, Mr. Joseph Marcus of the well-known furniture store bearing his name has enlisted the cooperation of the Jewish Herald, the only Anglo-Jewish publication in Rhode Island and southeastern Massachusetts.

Beginning with this issue the Jewish Herald brings before the attention of its thousands of readers the merits of refrigerators sold by the Joseph Marcus and Company store.

Button Campaign to be Held Here Sunday; Youth Support Urged

Several thousand Rhode Island religious school children as well as young men and women of clubs and organizations, will be asked to do their bit on the National Youth Day which will be observed Sunday, April 22.

The campaign over the entire country sponsored by National Young Judaea, will be in the form of a button campaign, when every young man and woman will be urged to buy a button, the proceeds of which will be used to settle German Jewish children in Palestine. In Rhode Island the cities of Providence, Pawtucket, Woonsocket and Newport will be covered.

The committee urges every one not to refuse to purchase a button on Sunday and to help rescue several thousand suffering children in Germany.

The local committee consists of Mrs. Morris Sheer, chairman; Mrs. Joseph Keller, treasurer; Morris Block, secretary; Miss Bertha Snell, distribution of buttons; Miss Harriet Winnerman and Miss Lillian Blumenthal, assisting secretaries.

Co-operation will be the keynote for the success of this campaign and Rhode Island Jewish Youth is urged to support this worthy cause.

To Display Work of Jewish Blind at Arcade Next Week

During this week and next, while the sixth annual educational program for the blind is being celebrated throughout the state, all eyes are turned upon Miss Mary J. Cherlin of Providence, herself sightless since childhood but who has so arranged her life and training that she has been responsible for the will to live on the part of many who will never see.

This Jewish woman, for the past six months has been on the staff of the Rhode Island Bureau for the Blind, under the Public Welfare Commission. She travels throughout the southern part of the state, as far as Westerly, teaching Braille and all handicraft to persons who can never see their work. Appreciating the blight of eternal darkness, Miss Cherlin has devoted her life to brightening at least the philosophy and humor of those with whom she has been working.

Some of the physical accomplishments of groups under her direction will be on display at the Arcade next Tuesday and Wednesday when Jewish Day of the educational program for the blind is observed.

A couple of years after she went blind, Miss Cherlin learned through friends of the Perkins Institute for the Blind in Boston to which blind children are sent by the State of

New Education Order Also Hits Enrollment In Secondary Schools

Admittance to Depend on Groups According to "Aryanism" Degree

Discrimination Is Severe

BERLIN, (JTA) — New regulations issued today by Prussian Minister of Education Dr. Bernhard Rust in effect bar Jewish students from higher educations and make certain that the Jewish colleges and high schools in Germany, of which there are a number, are condemned to disappear.

The new regulations, which are a part of the Nazi law for combating the overcrowding of German universities, colleges and high schools, provide that Jewish colleges and high schools must not enroll any new students this year. The Jewish schools affected by the laws are located in Frankfurt am Main, Cologne and Breslau.

Students Grouped

In the German universities and colleges, the regulations provide for the admission of Jews in accordance with their proportion in the general population and in the following order, students of mixed "Aryan" and "non-Aryan" blood, Jews whose families have been resident in Germany for many decades, and finally Jewish students whose families settled in Germany more recently.

A clause in the new regulation stipulates preference in admission be given to "non-Aryan" students against whom there is the least objection from the Nazi point of view.

Preference to "Aryans"

Minister Rust's instructions provide that in case there are more applications for admission to the universities than there is room, preference must be given to "Aryan" students, even if this necessitates the further limitation of the "non-Aryan" quota.

Nazi officials recently announced that the normal quota of 30,000 new students annually enrolling in German colleges and universities would be cut to 15,000 this year.

Jewish students in German universities are severely discriminated against. In the early months of the Hitlerite regime, yellow cards for

Schwartzman, twenty-four-year old son of a local Jewish business man, is a student. He was highly praised in the local newspapers, La Presna and La Nacion, which said that "much is to be expected of this young man, the most experienced of Argentinian chess players."

MacMillan Speaks Tuesday at Beth-El

Noted Polar Explorer to Show Motion Pictures of Arctic Life

The showing of several thousand feet of motion pictures as well as colored lantern slides on his Arctic explorations will feature the lecture of Commander Donald B. MacMillan next Tuesday night before the Men's Club of Temple Beth-El.

Commander MacMillan, one of those who made the famous first dash to the North Pole with Peary 26 years ago, has braved the dangers of the polar regions on 15 separate expeditions and is preparing soon to embark upon another. He will speak on "The Truth About Arctic Explorations," explaining the practical and visible benefits gained from knowledge gained by Arctic explorations. A discussion will follow.

Members and their ladies are invited, President Harry Myers of the club announced. Co-chairmen will be Bert Bernhardt and Dr. Banice Feinberg. The latter will introduce the noted explorer-lecturer. Refreshments will be served after the lecture.

Fate of Olympic Games Doubtful: Official Says

NEW YORK, April 19 (JTA)— In a strongly-worded letter to Dr. Theodore Lewald, president of the German Olympic games committee, doubt over whether the United States will take part in the Olympiad slated in 1936 for Berlin was expressed by Charles L. Ornstein, only Jewish member of the National Olympic Games committee.

Ornstein is charged with arranging for the housing of this country's athletes when and if they go to Berlin and his letter was in connection with reports there that he is soon to leave to make these arrangements.

"I am not at all certain of what the fate of the 1936 Games will be as far as American participation is concerned," Ornstein wrote. "I refer, of course, to the Jewish question in Germany, more particularly as it relates to the 1936 Games.

"I have been unable to find in any reports emanating from Germany that it is possible for a German Jew to participate in the Olympic Games, or for any Jew to visit Germany and maintain his or her self-respect under the conditions created and sanctioned by your government. I am mindful of the series of promises conveyed first to the International Olympic Committee and reiterated to the American Olympic Committee as recently as last November, that Jews would be permitted to participate in the Olympics.

"I am constrained to believe that no matter how scrupulously it is the intention of your government to adhere to the technicalities of that promise there is no sincerity and no real desire to make that participation possible. This is clearly indicated in the news reports which have reached this country from the most important correspondents in the world. Not only has the general situation as it affects Jews become more acute, but deliberate steps have been taken to further prescribe the possibility of Jewish participation in any sports in Germany immediately upon the heels of cabled promises

PAWTUCKET DAY

Pawtucket Visiting Day Sunday proved to be an inspiration to those representative citizens of Pawtucket who visited the Home, as well as to the old people, who enjoyed their visit. Commencing at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, a number of visiting parties were escorted on a tour of inspection throughout the Home. The general opinion of those who were present was expressed by the committee, under the chairmanship of Morris Espo in the following manner: "The Jewish people of Pawtucket feel proud they live in this state, which is providing such splendid care for helpless aged in as beautiful a Home as ours on Hillside Avenue."

Over 100 people came and were graciously entertained by a special committee of ladies from Pawtucket, who served refreshments at a beautifully decorated table in the assembly hall of the Home.

GIFTS

Gifts were received from the following people this week: M. Weisman, Miss Hilda P. Samuels, Mrs. Clara Newburger, Mrs. Samuel Soforenko and Samuel Bliss.

Several hundred people attended the Siyum Hatorah celebration sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Ahavath Sholom Talmud Torah Sunday afternoon. The affair was one of the most successful held by the group this year.

A WORD TO OUR READERS

We beg the indulgence of our readers for a few words on a subject a little closer to home than the usual topics of editorial discussion — The Jewish Herald.

We are prompted to this talk with our readers by similar comment which appears in practically every other Anglo-Jewish weekly paper in the country. They all have the same things to talk about, which is quite natural, for no matter where Jews live they all have the same problems and the same troubles and the same appeals for their solution.

Paragraphs from an editorial that appeared in a contemporary Anglo-Jewish publication are reprinted herewith: "Our publication has received and published recently many letters of thanks for free publicity given to various Jewish organizations, particularly those of our Jewish womanhood. These acknowledgments are both welcome and appreciated . . . We cheerfully print brief records of organization activities. This is within our scope and function as a Jewish journal . . . Unfortunately, some of these organizations fail to remember that in order to be able to conduct an enterprise like a Jewish publication, something more than kind and flattering words are necessary . . ."

"A Jewish journal," states the editor, "is maintained by advertisements and subscriptions. An organization which is benefited through a Jewish publication and receives from it continued publicity week in and week out throughout the year, should feel that something more is due than merely 'thank you.' . . . A substantial way in which to show appreciation is to see that those members of an organization who are not subscribers of the paper lend their moral and substantial support by having them become regular subscribers."

Our contention is that members of Jewish organizations whose notices appear regularly in The Jewish Herald could make the paper better able to serve them by patronizing its advertisers, thereby co-operating with both the advertiser and the newspaper. We believe the Jewish community is sufficiently interested in its Jewish newspaper to give whatever assistance it can to help it continue to serve the Jewish community.

We don't ask for much. Just a word when you patronize an advertiser —telling him you saw his advertisement in The Jewish Herald. Just a word from you that you read The Jewish Herald every week. That goes a long way with an advertiser, especially when he hears it voluntarily from the lips of the reader, and will induce him to continue to advertise his products in The Jewish Herald — on an even greater scale.

We do not ask this favor of members of organizations whose notices appear in The Jewish Herald in any sense of compensation therefor, but merely as an expression of co-operation and good will to this newspaper, which continues to serve the community and every cause every week in the year.

THE NAZI INVESTIGATION

Meeting in executive session this week to perfect organization, selection of counsel and method of procedure is the "Special Committee on Investigation of Nazi and Other Foreign Propaganda Activities in the United States," the commission created by Congressman Dickstein's resolution.

Momentous results may confidently be expected to come out of this inquiry, results that probably will shape American foreign and domestic policy with regard to holding other governments responsible for and treatment of their undesirables. That such undesirables have filtered through our borders, especially from Germany, has been amply demonstrated by the revelations of the Dickstein investigation which was a preliminary to the present probe.

America and Americans are not easily frightened; we are not prone to exaggerate threats against the government, against our traditional freedom of speech, press and religious and property rights. We are inclined to minimize any such menace and the great length and breadth of our land make whatever fears one area might have pretty vague and distant to another.

Yet, enough was uncovered by the scanty preliminary inquiry to cause sufficient concern in Congress to agree to this more far-reaching investigation. The far-flung net of Nazi activity, bared during the past few months; the thousands of Hitlerite agents smuggled into the country while Nazi chiefs have been allowed openly to come in, the scores of thousands of propaganda pamphlets that have flooded the whole nation, all these are not empty threats.

Too easily we have forgotten the sabotage program of German agents here before and during the war. When factories and bridges were blown up with loss of scores of lives; when mines were dynamited and machinery wrecked in all parts of the country; when American shipping was destroyed as submarines lurking off the coast were apprised from shore when ruthly-cargoed vessels were about to depart and where they would be at a given time.

We were at peace then and just as sympathetic toward Germany as toward the Allies. A big trusting child, tremendously powerful without realizing our own strength, but innocent as a new-born infant. It cost thousands of lives and millions in property to clear ourselves of the all-enmeshing system of espionage and destruction that shackled itself upon the country.

When it was all over, instead of learning our lesson, instead of tightening up in appreciation of the ease with which such a system could be reorganized in the tremendously big country of ours, we were again lulled into seeming security; we returned to the role of the careless, easy-going simpleton. On top of that we found we have plenty of internal difficulties to occupy us.

We got a little stirred up over the Communist program to internationalize the whole world into a Red empire. But we didn't worry much about that because we knew it just couldn't be done. And, finally, we recognize Red Russia, with the reservation that headquarters of its official representatives refrain from propaganda-izing the United States.

Meanwhile, as the Dickstein inquiry showed, Hitler's agents were doing and are doing just what we warned Russia not to do. From the ambassador down, it may be shown that Hitlerite agents are working desperately not only to stir up hatred here against the Jews but to destroy confidence in the government and to block world peace. The Nazi chancellor's own "Mein Kampf" clearly outlines his designs.

Congress has become aroused by what Dickstein uncovered. It now purposes to go much further and there is no doubt that much more can be found. The committee is reported to be considering either Ferdinand Pecora, who sensationally exposed stock market conditions and big income tax dodgers, or Brainbridge Colby, Woodrow Wilson's Secretary of State, as counsel, and upon the man chosen will rest the success of the inquiry. Either one of these men is exceptionally capable and qualified. Pecora, the dynamic "go-all-the-way-through" investigator — Colby, the liberty-lover, experienced in international affairs and diplomacy.

Meanwhile, Germany sues for favorable trade relations. President Roosevelt is peculiarly silent on the situation. In New York, an outrageous Nazi meeting of "Friends of New Germany" is featured by the appearance of Nazi storm troopers in the uniform of a foreign government, a direct violation of the Federal Foreign Relations Law. Truly, much of national and international import may come of the pending investigation.

CAPITOL COMMENT

By NATHAN KOENIG

Backstage of all the excitement and humor surrounding the congressional investigation into statements by Dr. William A. Wirt, Gary, Indiana, educator, that a "plot" is afoot to overthrow the existing form of government, is an attempt to discover just what motivated the brain storm on the "brain trust."

Already several members of Congress have been digging out the records and, presumably on the basis of what they have found, are just beginning to make charges against the Hoosier doctor. Representative Geo. E. Foulkes of Michigan, links Dr. Wirt with a movement in this country to "set up a Nazi dictatorship." He charges that a "conspiracy exists to check the present progressive tendencies in government" and that this conspiracy is designed to "sweep the country into a plutocratic dictatorship."

Representative Foulkes has his suspicions that there is more to be learned about the Hoosier educator. With this in mind, he expects to have Dr. Wirt called before Representative McCormack's Nazi propaganda investigating committee to answer some questions.

Charges that Dr. Wirt was engaged in pro-German activities during the war, made in the house by Representative Bulwinkle of North Carolina, chairman of the Wirt investigating committee, which were denied by former Senator James A. Reed, Wirt's attorney, are being investigated further by certain House members.

Representative Adolph Sabath of Illinois, who recently forgot how to adjourn the House while acting as presiding officer, had good reason for being in a forgetful state of mind. The inside story is that Representative Sabath was thinking about the then oncoming primary elections in which he faced the stiffest fight in the 28 years he has been in Congress. He was scheduled to leave for Chicago that evening. While presiding over the House, the representative from Illinois could not get his mind off his contemplated trip and the job that was ahead of him.

Now that the primaries are over in Illinois, Representative Sabath is more at ease. He was the victor over two opponents.

There is one person on Capitol Hill who will not accept for himself the pay restoration under the provisions of the independent offices supply bill recently passed by Congress over President Roosevelt's veto. His name is Representative Herman P. Kopplemann of Connecticut.

Under the pay cut restoration, Representative Kopplemann's salary will be increased by about $1000 a year. In voting to override the President's veto, Representative Kopplemann did not want to increase his own salary, but he did want to give more money to veterans with presumptive cases and to low-paid government workers, who, he felt, were really in need of the increase.

"When the bill was up for consideration," Representative Kopplemann said, "I voted for the Borah amendment which would have prohibited any restoration in salaries over $6000. But that amendment was defeated and the bill in its final form restored 10 percent of the government pay.

"I was faced with the alternative of not supporting the whole bill or of voting for the measure and thereby voting myself an increase. Because I wanted to boost pay to presumptive veterans and government workers, I voted for the bill. Because I want to correct the situation with respect to my own increased salary, I have decided to give the restored amount to philanthropic organizations interested mainly in unemployment relief, located chiefly in my own district."

In accordance with his stand, Representative Kopplemann turned over the restored portion of his salary for February to the Hartford, Connecticut, Community Chest. The restored pay cut for the month of March went to the New Britain, Connecticut, Community Chest.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

I believe that the merger of the two Hebrew Free Loan Associations is one of the most essential projects at the present time.

The entire membership of both organizations is not more than 1250 paid members. Out of a population of about 30,000 Jewish people in the community, it should be able to procure at least two or three thousand members by merging.

The entire savings of both organizations for 1933 wasn't much more than $800, whereas by merging, a saving of about $1000 or $5000 a year could be realized and added to the capital funds.

With the increase of membership and thereby funds, which I believe the merger would effect, loans could be made up to $500. I am most wholeheartedly in favor of Harry Rosen's plan.

PURELY PERSONAL STUFF
(In which I use the pronoun "I" 1000 times!)

This week marks the passing of a year, since I resumed writing this column for The Jewish Herald. Those of you who have read our paper since its first issue, will probably remember that I started with the second issue, quit the weekly rabble after about a year to devote myself to the writing of a play, (which I have not yet finished) and returned April 28, 1933.

All told, it was a pleasant year of writing. I'll be truthful, and tell you that I DID NOT expect the goodly number of verbal and written compliments that I have received from my readers during the past year. I am human enough to appreciate these sentiments of approval. I feel that to have ever so many cultured, well bred and critical ladies and gentlemen as my constant and interested readers, is in itself more than remuneration for all the efforts that I have put forth in grinding out "copy" week after week.

There have been a few occasions when something that was stated in this column took effect the wrong way . . . even though these occurrences were very few and rare . . . I nevertheless wish to assure you all that it has never been my intention to be offensive. "If you can't say something good, it's policy to be silent" . . . I believe in it, and as a result will probably never make a good "scandal" columnist . . . and at any rate, remember that the editor and all his henchmen censor this pillar, and if they, with their ever constant alertness let a thing go by, be assured that it's lilly white!

Here's the oddest thing of all. When I first began, I was in constant fear of not being able to gather enough material for the following week's column. "Zol ich azei vissen foon tzores, vi ich vos tzu schreben!" . . . It always preyed on my mind, and several times I said so publicly here . . . Now, it is the other way around. I have so much I'd like to write about, that I am tempted to send in ten times as many sheets as I usually do . . . Please understand me — I didn't get smart all of a sudden! . . . the thing of it is—that in writing, as in other physical and mental efforts — the more you do, the more you can do.

Writing is a very fascinating effort . . . IF . . . one is not lazy! (I AM!) Writing does not have to be the difficult task that many people imagine it is, if one will THINK, and put his thoughts down on paper without bothering a great deal about form, style, correct grammar, (I'll be stoned for this!) and a lot of the other bunk that we were told about in high school and college. Was it Socrates the Greek philosopher who said . . . "First . . . KNOW THYSELF!" . . . Well, I, Jack Silverman, the Russiain philosopher, man of letters, (from my creditors!) and poet laureate of that vast organization, "DE OREMEH LEITEH" . . . say unto you . . . "BE YOURSELF" . . . in writing and in everything else. If you have something to say, say it in the least few words, clearly, forcibly, concisely, and tahell with the big words! . . . Speech and writing are the mediums of thought transference . . . the easier the medium, the better the transfer.

My favorite subject has been, is, and always will be . . . LIFE AND PEOPLE! I smile, sneer, laugh, and weep over the INSINCERITY of so many of the world's inhabitants . . . I get a real "kick" out of the folly of humans who have more money than I, a better home or automobile, a job that they think is "the nuts" and who class themselves above me and you! . . . Now don't get me wrong . . . THERE CERTAINLY ARE millions of people who in my estimation are more worth while than I am . . . But not because they are richer, better looking, or have that silly possession called "social standing" to a higher degree than yours truly . . . I doff my worn-out chapeau to the men and women who are more honest, kind, forgiving, understanding, charitable and patient than I. . . . They are nearer to the Divine conception of a human being than I . . . I consider as my superiors the people who can think more clearly, differentiate between right and wrong, and are capable of correct summation and judgment, better than I can . . . I admire them, and pray to Jehova that I may find strength enough to climb to their high standard before my life on this earth comes to an end.

In my estimation the real aristocrat, the man and woman worth while . . . Is he or she who does his given work in life in a manner better than the rest of his fellows . . . I have more admiration and respect for a street cleaner who is the best in his line, than I do for a mediocre King or President . . . The sincere and honest ignoramus who tries his utmost to be just in his dealings and contact with his fellow man is a far better man than the glib, polished college graduate who imagines that the world owes him a living, and he'll collect it in the easiest manner he can.

I like sports such as boxing, wrestling, baseball, football, etc., because of several reasons. First . . . there's an enviable democracy in sport that is more than desirable for the rest of life's activities and endeavor. Black or white, Jew or Gentile . . . you are on an even footing with your adversary . . . Sports demand clean living, and clean living is necessary to possess a healthy vibrating body, without which you can not truthfully enjoy life no matter what your other possessions are . . . In sports I see a competition of men who have greater physical strength than I have, strength which I don't mind admitting to you I envy! (Little J. S. wants to be a big strong man so's he can go over and beat up the Nazis!)

And say . . . did you ever see a lazy man? . . . well, look at the picture at the top of this column . . . I'm so lazy that I don't even read what I have written . . . I figure that if there's a mistake in spelling (there are hundreds of them in every copy I submit!) you'll blame the printer! . . . Grammatical inaccuracies? Oh, that's Mr. Silverman's unique and unconventional literary style! . . . Lazy? why man alive, I'd like to take a vacation for 20 years! (Of course, THIS part you may take with a grain of salt!)

I like the arts, especially the drama. My greatest enjoyment is to write and direct plays. Unfortunately in Providence there is very little, if any, opportunity for an outlet of this desire. There are no talented amateurs in this city who have a sufficient knowledge of the dramatic art to stage a play with, in the manner that I like to stage plays. Maybe some day we'll be able to get together a group of serious minded men and women to form a high class community theater guild. As for professional actors — they do their "starving" in New York. None to speak of can be found anywhere else.

I like to see some good in all human beings. My belief is that if a man or woman is bad, heredity and environment, over which they had no jurisdiction, had a great deal to do with it. I sincerely advocate the statement attributed to Christ, "Let ye who are without sin cast the first stone."

I am a Jew, and really glad of it. I have stated in this column that as a Jew it will be my lot to go through life being persecuted and unjustly dealt with by many non-Jews. This does not frighten me. I sincerely believe that we Jews have an important mission in this world, that we have contributed more than our share to the world's progress and civilization, its religions and culture, and its lengthy march toward the advancement from a primitive to a civilized place of habitation. I am merely one link in the long chain of Jewish survival. My father was a Jew, his father and forefathers before him, and my greatest wish in life is to leave a child after my death who will carry on the long line of the Jewish Silvermans.

I write as I feel, I can't mince words, "Whatever is on my lung, comes out on my tongue" . . . I know of only one infallible rule in writing . . . "Be interesting" . . . there can be no other rules.

This is an anniversary column . . . Millions of thanks to my many kind readers, the editors of the Jewish Herald, the printers and compositors, and to all the others who have made my existence and survival possible. I assure you that you have done more for me, my self-development than I ever could possibly do for you . . . and so the days pass.

Dr. Myron Keller is Honored by National Podiatry Fraternity

At the New England Regional Council meeting of the Phi Alpha Pi, the national Podiatry Fraternity, held in the Hotel Bond, Hartford on Sunday, Dr. Myron Keller, Alpha of the R. I. Alumni Association was named Kappa Rho.

Other officers elected were Dr. Thomas T. Boyd, Boston, Alpha, Dr. Morton Blass, Brooklyn, N. Y., Beta and Dr. Jack Kay, Hartford, Kappa Tau. Delegates were present from New England, New York and Pennsylvania. The Rhode Island delegation comprised Dr. Keller, Dr. Benjamin Silverman and Dr. Joseph Markowitz.

The next regional conference will take place in Providence some time in October.

Jewish Students Barred

Jewish students were introduced and they were forbidden to use university libraries and to live in university dormitories. At one school, Nazi students staged a hostile demonstration in the class room of an "Aryan" professor accused of having spoken favorably about the Jews. The teacher was compelled to resign his post.

Jewish medical students are not permitted to receive their diplomas unless they waive their rights to practice medicine in Germany.

A few days ago Reichminister of the Interior Dr. Frick announced that all doctors, dentists and chemists applying for licenses to practice would not be admitted unless it is shown that there is no reason to suspect "their national and moral trustworthiness." It is understood that the phrase merely provides another weapon whereby the Nazis will be able to prevent Jewish graduates from entering these professions.

JEWISH SPORT NOTES

By MORRIS WEINER

German Jewess in Olympics

Amid scenes that are reminiscent of the fiery glamor of old Heidelberg, your sports commentator met Miss Helene Mayer, the German Jewess who won the Olympic fencing title at Amsterdam in 1928, at the Fencer's Club in New York City.

Discussing her plans, this tall, blue-eyed, blonde fraulein said that she will try out for the next German Olympic team despite the fact that she is Jewish and "non-Aryan." She cannot compete for any other nation but Germany inasmuch as she has already represented her native country twice before in Olympic competition. The Olympic ruling prohibits her performing on the strips for any other nation because of her previous athletic registration. However, the love of fencing is so strong with her that she would like to participate once again in international competition.

Discharged from German Fencing Club

Fraulein Mayer, very serious for the moment said, "I have been assured that I shall be permitted to try out for the German Olympic team. The pledge made at Vienna that Jewish athletes would not be discriminated against, I have been told, will be adhered to."

This charming young lady who has amazed Europe for the last ten years with her skill and finesse in fencing competition, was "kicked out" of the Offenbach Fencer's Club, thereby precipitating a furore in international competition. Laughingly Miss Mayer referred to what she termed the "little ironies of life." She has in her trophy case at home a framed letter from the Offenbach Club congratulating her on winning the championship at the Amsterdam Olympics. The letter also states how proud the officers of the club are in having her as a member. This letter placed side by side with the epistle she received when Hitler came to the front would appear rather incongruous. For the second note, she stated, "told me in plain language that I had been kicked out of the club."

Won American Title

She is attending school at Scripps College, California, and is fencing under the auspices of the Los Angeles A. C. Though in this country only a very short time, she has already won the American outdoor title for women. Her most recent conquest was the championship of the women's national indoor fencing title for which purpose she expressly came east.

A Real Tough Game

Sidney Heitner, the present table tennis titleholder of America, scoffs at the ferociousness of football or lacrosse. He laughs at the rigors of rugby or ice hockey. And it is with a sneer in his voice that he condescends to speak of water polo or wrestling. Give him a man's sized game, to wit—table tennis, and he is well satisfied.

Sidney is a tall, 23-year-old Jewish lad who came to this country from Austria 11 years ago. He has the well built body of a table tennis player, due to years of strenuous practice at this arduous sport. The tiger look that comes into his eye as he advances to the field of honor is enough to unnerve a less formidable opponent. Well has he merited the appellation of the "Amazing Austrian."

Wins Championship Again

He has retained his crown again this year by defeating the four players whom the judges considered good enough for seeding out of an entering field of 200 contestants. With whirlwind strokes and lightning-like sweeps of his racquet, he has defeated Sol Schiff, the tiger of table tennis tournaments, Marc Schussheim, and Abram Berenbaum. "Marvelous Marcus" was considered Heitner's chief rival but lost to the champ in the final round.

Boxing Bits at Home

Last week in these columns we announced that Barney Ross had signed with Tony Canzoneri for the guarantee put up by the Italian scrapper, $35,000. The fight was to have taken place either in May or June. However, Barney's managers, Sam Pian and Artie Winch, have pushed this Canzoneri bout back a couple of months. In its place they have set up the McLarnin fight.

Barney will meet Irish Jimmy in the Yankee Stadium for the welterweight crown of the world. Besides this fight, the national boxing association has exerted its pressure and forced Barney to sign to meet Frankie Klick, junior lightweight title holder, within the next 90 days in defense of his lightweight title.

So it seems that with three good money fights in the offing everything looks pretty rosy for this 25-year-old Jewish boxer from Chicago. That is, providing he comes through with a win in all three scraps.

Boxing Bits Abroad

Harry Mizler, the British lightweight champion, was defeated on points in a recent boxing contest in merrie olde England by a comparative unknown. His rival was a lad from Chester, known as Jimmy Walsh.

This was Mizler's first defeat since he entered the professional ranks. Sportsman as he is he was the first to congratulate Walsh on his victory but said that he could defeat this Chester fighter should they meet again.

Still Across the Sea

What we call soccer, the fans on the Continent call football. However, a cable flash informs us that the Jewish team from the north played against the all-Hebraic combination from the south of England. The Association for Jewish Youth, the team from the higher latitudes of Britain came out on top to the tune of two goals to one.

Back on the Ice

McGraw had tried for many years to bring a Jewish baseball player to New York City. He realized the value of such a player to the box office. However, Lester Patrick, owner and manager of the New York Rangers, has just purchased Alex Levinsky, left defense on the Maple Leaf team in the National League.

Levinsky is the only Jewish player in the national league today. Kalbfleisch and Kaminsky are in the American League. Incidentally, aside from the fact that Alex will be a box office bolster, he is a crack man to have on the Rangers. This team is no longer what it used to be and a good defense man to aid Ching Johnson along can and will work wonders and eventually bring the Stanley cup back to N. Y. C.

R. I. Flower Show at the Auditorium Tremendous Success

Attracting throngs of enthusiastic spectators, the Rhode Island Flower Show at the Providence Auditorium is proving to be the most successful and elaborate event of its kind ever staged in New England.

The Auditorium is a veritable fairyland for nature lovers. The rink floor is a mass of fascinating displays vividly emphasized against the eight foot hedges of hemlock and further strikingly contrasted with the green bank of evergreens which extends completely around the arena.

Over 250 individual displays of cut flowers are on display in the upper aisles which are curtained off from the rest of the show. These exhibits are divided into separate classes with many prizes offered for the best entries.

The show will continue till Sunday night. The opening hour each day is 10 a. m. and the show closes at 10 p. m.

Display Work of Blind

Rhode Island, and she was entered as a student. She had just become enrolled when her family moved to a Connecticut town and she was transferred to the Institute for Blind in Hartford. Her three years' course there gave her a training of high school standard. After that term, the Cherlin family moved to Newport, so that again, with the State's assistance Mary went back to the Perkins Institute.

In order to complete her training for the home teachers for the blind, the Teachers Training Institute for the Blind in Overbrook, Pa., seemed the ideal place for her to learn her profession. But she couldn't be sent there at the state's expense. Here, a great deal of credit for their interest and work in making this possible, is due Jarvis C. Worden, director of the State Bureau for the Blind, the Lions Club, The Montifiore Ladies' Hebrew Benevolent Association and Mrs. Moses Einstein. They worked indefatigably to procure funds to provide her the opportunity of completing her education.

While it is possible to use a Braille pad and write in that way very nearly as rapidly as an ordinary person can in longhand, Miss Cherlin prefers a Braille typewriter. She can also use an ordinary typewriter for she was taught the touch system.

The hostesses in charge of the two Jewish days will be Mrs. Ira Iris, Mrs. James Openheim, Mrs. Jerome Fleisher, Mrs. Fred Adler, Mrs. Kleinberger, Mrs. Ephraim Rosen, Mrs. Morris Berry, Mrs. Benjamin Saks, Mrs. Charles Alexander, Mrs. Leo Logan, Mrs. Herbert B. Caffrey, Mrs. Charles Colitz, Mrs. Meyer Tanenbaum, Mrs. Louis Flink, Mrs. Ben Salter, Mrs. Samuel Blacher, Mrs. Irving Fain, Mrs. Herbert Rogell, Mrs. Milton Pliner, Miss Mollie Goldfarb, Mrs. Irving Gertsacov, Miss Elinor Shein, Mrs. Samuel Dubitsky, Mrs. Edward Altman, Mrs. Samuel Markoff, Mrs. Theodore Markoff, Mrs. Herman Bennett, Miss Carrie Blumenthal, Miss Benjamin, Mrs. Harry Goldshine, Mrs. Milton Silverman, Mrs. Harry Parvey, Mrs. Ben Levin, Mrs. Jennie Goldsmith, Mrs. Haskell Frank, Mrs. Ben Zetlin, Mrs. Max Viner, Mrs. Lyon Marcus, Mrs. Fred Markoff, Mrs. Leo Weiner.

Mrs. Moses Einstein is general chairman of arrangements.

Center Parents' Unit to Sponsor Bridge on Monday for Library

The Jewish Center Parents' Association will conduct a bridge Monday evening, April 23 at the Center, the proceeds to be devoted to the enlargement of the Center Library. Blumenthal, Mrs. Samuel Littman, Mrs. William Zelniker, Mrs. Sigmund Robinson, Mrs. Benjamin Falcofsky, Mrs. William Cohen, Herman S. Galkin and Benjamin Rakatansky.

On Sunday morning, Mrs. Paul J. Robin, president of the Association, visited all the classes in the Jewish Center Religious School and urged the children to bring the bridge to the attention of their Parents. Junior and Intermediate clubs have also been visited and urged to help in the event.
