Tidbits and News of Jewish Personalities
By DAVID SCHWARTZ

Capitol Scenes

His name is Dr. M. . . . Around 70, a scholarly American of the old school who has spent his life among the book stacks of the Library of Congress. A genial man and one of great erudition. But his mind goes back to the days of the Civil War, when men were men—and wore beards that would have passed muster in any orthodox synagogue. Dr. M. . . . is not a Jew—but he has developed an obsession for beards.

He pleaded with Dr. Shapiro, chief of the Semitic Division of the Library of Congress that he join him in a beard compact. Then he wrote an article in a medical journal about beards. From Shapiro he had gathered all the Talmudical and Biblical and Rabbinical justification of beards. Then, in addition, he had developed some theories as to the hygienic value of beards.

In this article he maintained that beards were a bulwark against pneumonia and many germ diseases; that the whiskers acted as a broom, sweeping away the germs of bronchitis and sore throat.

Wonderful! He Said

Then he carried theory into practice, and soon Dr. M. was walking about the corridors of the Library of Congress with a full length brush that made the barbers rage.

But a week later, Dr. Shapiro met him. The whiskers were gone as the grass when the snow comes. "What happened?" asked Dr. Shapiro. Dr. M. moaned, "My wife. She wouldn't let me rest—she would give me no meals—she would do nothing—unless I shaved."

Not so long ago, a group of Chasidic Rabbis came to Washington. They were here for a visit at the White House. Meanwhile, they dropped in at the Semitic Division.

They wore beards that were a joy to behold. Dr. Shapiro looked, and decided this was a sight that would bring ecstasy to Dr. M. Forthwith Dr. M. was sent for and he came as fast as the fire department. He looked at the bearded Rabbis, and his eyes swam as a look of ecstasy came over him.

The saliva flowed in his mouth. "I wish I had a camera," he sighed, as he glowed in admiration.

Insane White House Visitors

The city of Washington counts some twelve thousand Jews. Perhaps the most pathetic portion of this population is a group of 150 Jews at St. Elizabeth's Asylum, the largest asylum for the insane in America. All told, there are about 4000 patients at the asylum. Of that number, as I have stated, about 150 are Jews. These insane are largely veterans of the war, and as such, are ministered to in a Jewish way, by George Cohen, the Jewish Welfare Board representative in Washington.

About half of the 150, Cohen tells me, got into the asylum by "coming to see the President."

Scarcely a day goes by in Washington when the guards at the White House do not stop some pathetically demented person coming to see the President. And naturally, among them there are a fair proportion of Jews.

They give all sorts of pretexts for wanting to see the Chief Executive. One of the Jewish insane, who is now in St. Elizabeth's, came to see the President, when Wilson was in the White House.

"The President wants to see me," he boldly told the White House guard. "How do you know the President wants to see you?" asked the guard. "I was at a moving picture," was the

B'NAI B'RITH WILL CALL CONFERENCE ON DISCRIMINATION

Report States Current Conditions in Employment Field Are Pitiful

New York, April 24—(JTA)—A national conference on discrimination against Jews who are unemployed is being planned for some time within the near future, according to an announcement issued by Judge Albert Cohn, President of B'nai B'rith for District Grand Lodge No. 1, as the outcome of a conference on the problem held at the B'nai B'rith Club House.

The national conference will be sponsored by the B'nai B'rith organization as a part of the program being conducted by its Anti-Defamation League. Those who participated in the preliminary meeting at which the decision was taken included Judge Cohn, Dr. I. M. Rubinow, National Director of the B'nai B'rith, who came here from Cincinnati headquarters for the purpose; Alfred M. Cohen, President of the B'nai B'rith, and Louis Fabricant, New York Treasurer of the Wider Scope Committee of the B'nai B'rith.

In making his announcement of the proposed national conference, Judge Cohn said:

"Reports of current conditions in the field of employment have given cause for deep anxiety to all those interested in maintaining the American principle of equality of opportunity. A great deal has appeared in the press recently pointing to an unfortunate discriminatory attitude toward Jews who are seeking employment. It is the purpose of the B'nai B'rith in calling the national conference on discrimination in employment to determine the exact nature of the causes that provoke a racial bias in a purely economic problem. The conference will also attempt to find some cure for the situation."

"The B'nai B'rith has enlisted the co-operation of other national Jewish organizations in this task and preliminary steps have been taken for an intensive study of the various phases of the unemployment problem as they affect Jews."

2 JEWISH SOLDIERS RECEIVE UNITED STATES ARMY MEDAL

Benjamin Roth and Maxwell Weinstein, Both of Brooklyn, Signally Honored

Governors Island, N. Y., April 24—(JTA)—Two Jewish non-commissioned officers of the United States Army were among the eight to whom the first Soldiers' Medals to be presented since Congress added the award to the army list of decorations in 1926, were given Tuesday at Governors Island by Major General Hanson E. Ely, commanding the Second Corps Area. The two Jewish soldiers decorated are Master Sergeant Benjamin Roth of the Air Corps and Sergeant Maxwell Weinstein of the Eighteenth Infantry, both of Brooklyn.

Sergeant Roth was honored for his heroism in fearlessly endeavoring to save material stored on the Barrier Cliff in the South Polar region where he went as an airplane mechanic with the Byrd Expedition. When the cliff gave way, Sergeant Roth heroically sought to save a large cache of supplies. Sergeant Weinstein received the medal for bravery in rescuing a Russian woman emigre from a burning building in Tien Tsin, China, in 1928, when he was stationed there with the Eighteenth Infantry.

Sergeant Roth, who was the only Jewish member of the historic Byrd Expedition, was promoted last year to Master Sergeant in recognition of his meritorious services at the South Pole. While with the Byrd Expedition he had in his possession a Talith and Tefillin as well as a Prayer Book. Sergeant Weinstein has been in the army for 14 years. He has been a Marine and a member of the Artillery corps. He is also one of the best musicians in the service.

CATHOLIC PRIESTS UNITE TO WAR ON ANTI-SEMITISM

Polish Priests Seek to Aid
Jews to Return to Their Homeland

Warsaw, April 24—(JTA)—A movement among Polish priests to combat anti-Semitism in order to speed up the return of the Jews to Palestine and thus assist in the realization of the prophecy of the return of the Messiah, is now under way here.

In Wednesday's issue of Pszeglad Katolicki, Father Montzior, the founder of the movement, published an appeal to all Catholic priests to unite in order to oppose anti-Semitism.

Haint, local Yiddish daily, reports that a group of priests for this purpose has already been organized.

Heads the American League of Nations

By BERNARD POSTAL

One of the least known but most useful of Americans is Dr. Leo S. Rowe, Director-General of the Pan-American Union, generally known as the American League of Nations. His life-long efforts for Pan-American good-will were strikingly climaxed by the recent celebration of the first Pan-American Day, a celebration which called attention to the important public services of this little known American Jew—Editor's Note.

The simultaneous celebration on April 7 in the United States and in the comparatively unknown director-general of the Pan-American Union who has done more than any one other man to bring about a closer union between the United States and Latin America and whose services in this field were climaxed by the celebration of the first Pan-American Day.

Copyright J. T. A.

DR. LEO S. ROWE

the 21 Latin-American republics of the first Pan-American Day served to focus the spotlight of public attention on that modest and comparatively unknown diplomat, Dr. Leo S. Rowe, a native-born Jew, who, as Director-General of the Pan-American Union since 1920, is probably more responsible than any other one man for the present good relations between Latin-America and the United States.

It has been this unassuming statesman working in his own quiet and effective way that has been so largely instrumental in overcoming the anti-American sentiment manifested in such expressions as "dollar diplomacy," "the colossus of the North" and "Uncle Sam." While official diplomats, good-will aviators, the press and international congresses have been talking about Pan-American good-will, Dr. Rowe has been giving a lifetime of earnest and whole-hearted service to achieving just that good-will and his life-long efforts were climaxed with the celebration of the first Pan-American Day.

The career of this little known man, and whose Jewishness is even less known, is an amazing record of diplomatic triumphs, all of which have been of the utmost importance in cementing relations between the Latin-American countries and their big brother of North America. A native of Iowa, Dr. Rowe was admitted to the bar of Pennsylvania in 1897, after which he returned to his alma mater as a professor of political science. A remarkable knowledge of the problems and conditions of Latin-America led to his being selected by President McKinley in 1900 as a member of the commission to revise and compile the laws of Porto Rico. The work of this commission was largely that of Dr. Rowe and that island dependency is now ruled under a legal code framed by him.

With this achievement to his credit, Dr. Rowe became organized as the leading American authority on Pan-American relations. No conference or congress dealing with South or Central America was thenceforth complete without him. Either as delegate ex-official, secretary of a commission, Dr. Rowe has had an important share in every Pan-American congress of any sort in the last 25 years.

Without going into the long record of committees, congresses and conventions in which Dr. Rowe's mastery of the Latin-American problems have played a significant role, it is important to note some of the high spots of this remarkable man's work. The success of the U. S. Panama Mixed Claims Commission, which forever settled all outstanding difficulties between this country and Panama, was largely due to Dr. Rowe's diplomatic ability and his respect and admiration in which the Panamanians held him. When the United States sought to adjudicate its differences with Mexico in the hectic days of 1916-1917, Dr. Rowe's services were again called into service. As secretary of the commission, which eventually ironed out the differences between the two countries, his reputation as a diplomat became second to none.

It was no surprise then that when the post of chief of the Latin-American Division of the State Department became vacant it should go to Dr. Rowe. During the World War, Dr. Rowe was Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. In this position his familiarity with the political and economic conditions of Latin-America was in large measure responsible for the speed with which American trade and industry became the dominating factor in Latin-American markets, replacing the German and English industrialists. Although accepted with major diplomatic undertakings almost from the time he was out of college, Dr. Rowe found time to write innumerable pamphlets and brochures and to lecture frequently on various aspects of South American culture and problems. For nearly 20 years he was President of the American Academy of Political Science and his marvelous command of languages has made him an invaluable adjunct of all government departments.

In 1920 he was appointed Director-General of the Pan-American Union, the body that is the League of Nations of the Western Hemisphere. His selection to this post elicited unanimous praise throughout Latin-America, where his reputation and his familiarity with Latin-American needs and problems was known and as an outspoken advocate of Latin-American harmony he is probably the best loved American in the Latin-American countries.

No finer demonstration of the respect of the Latin-American peoples for Dr. Rowe could be had than the unanimous chorus of commendation which greeted him when he went to Havana in 1928 as one of the seven American delegates to the sixth Pan-American Congress. Although the administration of the Pan-American Union was sharply criticized and there was considerable discussion concerning rotation of the director of the Union who had always been an American, the most bitter critics of the Union refused to consider for a moment the removal of Dr. Rowe, pointing out that they could only wish that every country had a Dr. Rowe of its own.

The policy of an exchange of students and professors between Latin-American and American universities, now so much in vogue, was fathered by Dr. Rowe, who pleaded for it from innumerable platforms and in scores of articles. He saw in such an exchange a fertile field for spreading Latin-American ideas here and vice versa and thus leading to an improvement in relations.

It is unfortunate that Dr. Rowe is not better known to American Jewry for he is one of its most distinguished sons. He has never been connected with any Jewish enterprise, but a year ago he gave voice to his opinion of the Jewish settlements in Latin-America and when he speaks of this part of the world he speaks with unrivaled authority.

Dr. Rowe, who has visited the Baron de Hirsch colonies in Brazil and the Argentine was tremendously impressed with the work done in these settlements, and gave as his opinion that Jewish immigrants will continue to be well received in all parts of Latin-America provided they are willing to become as much a part of the nation under whose government they live as they have in the United States. Any attempt to maintain a linguistic or educational separateness,

NEWPORT AGAIN WINS IN DRAMATIC TOURNAMENT

Newport's Jewish Community Center has again taken first place in the competition for dramatics under the auspices of the District Six, Associated Y. M. and Y. W. H. A.'s, held at the Fall River Technical High School, Sunday evening, April 19th, with five cities competing. The competition was unusually keen, due to Providence presenting the same play.

"When the Whirl Wind Blows" was the winning presentation in which Miss Ida Frant, Miss Alyce Rosenthal and Mrs. Marie N. Smith portrayed the different characters under the direction of Raymond W. Taylor, an amateur dramatist, who has given Newport a number of varied entertainments. This play will be presented at the New England tournament in Boston on Sunday, May 3rd.

Irving Warshawsky, Executive Director of the Community Center, arranged the details of the competition with Eli Kogos, Secretary of the Fall River Community Center, in charge.

The judges were Mrs. Myron Bullock, Mrs. J. T. C. McGuire and William E. Fuller, all of Fall River, voicing a unanimous verdict to the Newport group.

Miss Creed's Shops

Through many years of study and practical experience, Miss Creed has achieved the art of assisting the modern mother-to-be to retain her youthful appearance and smartness throughout those months which women used to so dislike and dread from a style standpoint.

Miss Creed is constantly making new models. Her creations are, therefore, always authentic in quality, color and texture, as well as style. So fashioned are her gowns that you can, by simply adjusting a concealed tuck, provide needed expansion. And even after baby arrives your gown may still be smart by readjusting these same little tucks.

All of Miss Creed's frocks are made of the very highest grade materials—rich heavy crepe de chine, fine silks and imported fabrics. The selection of printed patterns can easily be left to her good judgment and refined tastes.

Gowns can be ordered ready to wear or to your measurements with complete confidence. Should you for any reason be dissatisfied, Miss Creed will gladly refund your money.

In the Providence store Miss Jule Dinand will assist any one in her problems and will give the service for which Miss Creed's is noted.

Mr. Myer M. Cooper, one of the owners of The Jewish Herald, also delivered a short address, briefly summarizing the policies and achievements of the publication.

Mr. Everett I. Hess, President of the Judah Touro Lodge, presented the speakers. The committee included the President, Dr. Simon Ozarin, Dr. Bernard C. Friedman and Mr. Herman Podrat. Mr. Irving Warshawsky Executive Director of the Community Center, arranged the program which was greatly appreciated and enjoyed.

Jewish Audience Applauds Gentiles Debating Zionism

New York, April 24—(JTA)—"I am not here to discuss Zionism as an ideal. I am interested primarily in the question of practical success. Palestine offers a refuge for the oppressed Jews of the world; it is a center for Jewish culture and it is a symbol of the unity of the Jewish people," declared Dr. John Haynes Holmes, who took the affirmative side of the question, "Will Zionism succeed or will it fail?" in a debate sponsored by Avukah, American Student Zionist Federation, last Monday evening, at Mecca Auditorium. Clarence Darrow, noted Chicago lawyer, opposed Dr. Holmes and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise acted as chairman.

An enthusiastic audience applauded both speakers and laughed when Rabbi Wise, in his opening remarks, declared, "I am here only as impartial chairman. Let the 'Goyim' fight it out."

Dr. Holmes declared that there was ample room in Palestine, for all the Jews who desire to go there and sufficient natural resources to allow them to live there and even to prosper. He pointed out that Palestine in the past, had supported a population of millions and could undoubtedly do so again. "Here in this country," said Dr. Holmes, "we judge Palestine from a purely commercial standpoint. In Palestine, however, there is a new spirit, a lofty idealism, a hope for Israel, a great spiritual adventure."

Mr. Darrow said, "I know a great deal about Palestine. I stayed there two days and made a thorough study of the subject. I lingered for another day—there was no train out. Palestine is a barren country and always has been. Less than one-fifth of the soil can be tilled. The ancient stories of the great population Palestine held are fables. It cannot even support its present population in comfort," Mr. Darrow, "there are no industries in Palestine. Take the hand of England away from Palestine and all the Jews will have their throats cut. All the Jews who go to Palestine, are actuated by religious motives," declared the speaker and launched into an attack on all religions. The mission of the Jew, he declared, is to mix with all peoples in all lands and to remain a practical dreamer in a practical world.

In order to meet its own ends, the Polish Merchants' Association, which is responsible for the suggested ban, is now planning to suggest the compulsory licensing of traders only for certain districts, and hopes in this manner to push the Jewish traders into the poorest districts.

ARE WE PREPARING JEWISH YOUTH FOR LEADERSHIP?

Those of us who read of the deliberations of the Zionist organizations and other important Jewish bodies throughout the country and some of us who have been fortunate enough to attend their meetings cannot but notice the meagre participation in the work of these important bodies by our younger Jewish element. Workers of an older age, true and tried veterans, are still at the helm and doing all the work. These men and women will not be with us forever and the serious and important question confronts us, "Who will take their places in the next decade?"

This situation must be faced by leaders of American Jewry today. It is most important to the welfare of the next generation who are the youth of today.

Until the Palestine reprisal of 1929, very few of our native-born Jewish young men and women knew of the activities of the Zionist organization in the United States; very few are familiar with the excellent work of the B'nai B'rith, the largest and greatest Jewish fraternal body in the world, and very few know or are interested in any Jewish activity other than that of petty social events happening in the cities in which they claim residence.

The young Jew and Jewess of today should be encouraged and taught by their parents to study and to learn of Jewish happenings throughout the world. Parents should not be content that the only Jewish learning is that which is taught in the Sunday or Religious Schools.

It is true that we have Avukah, the student Zionist organization and the Hillel Foundation, supported by B'nai B'rith, in some of our colleges and universities, but they reach a small percentage of our youth.

Jewish young men and women should attend meetings of our Jewish national organizations. Leaders of these bodies should make places on their executive boards and committees for young people, who should be given an opportunity and encouraged to take an active part in the deliberations and plans for these organizations.

If Zionism is to continue in America after the present day leaders have passed on, and if the important work of our other Jewish organizations is to be continued fifty years hence, we must pause and consider, "Are we preparing our Jewish youth for leadership?" If not, now is the time to begin.

reply, "and I saw the President on the screen, gesturing to me with his finger to come."

Mr. League of Nations

During Wilson's administration, there were any number of these insane who came with grandiose schemes, and believed that they were divinely inspired, geniuses, Messiahs and Napoleons.

One day, Cohen on his routine visit, called on one of the Jewish inmates.

"Hello, Mr. Goldberg," said Cohen. "Mr. Goldberg is dead. It's Mr. League of Nations," replied Goldberg. And he would answer to no other name than "Mr. League of Nations."

Sceptical of Others

Yet, strangely enough, Cohen tells me, that while each of them is convinced absolutely of his own delusion, each is sceptical of his fellow inmate's hallucination. Thus, almost all of them are prone to hear voices. And yet, in the asylum, when the fit comes on one of them, those around him will laugh and say, "He is hearing voices," and burst out into a loud guffaw.

Deceived War Department

Some of them are so rational in most of their moments that they deceive the most sober. There is a Jewish inmate in the asylum, a man of some considerable education, particularly versed as a linguist. He speaks some half dozen languages. Jewish, though he is, he thinks he is a Mohammedan, and has an obsession for numbers.

Thus, should you mention, say, the number twelve—he will immediately reply, that in twelve months, the Mohammedans will capture New York. Irrational as all of this is, yet not so long ago, he went up to the War Department, convinced the officials there, that he was a Government Secret Service Agent, specially assigned to war matters and was assigned a room, stenographic service and the like. It was there that his insanity finally was discovered, and he was transferred to St. Elizabeth's.

Talking Is Insanity Cure

Many of them when they recover, get a shock when they learn they are in an insane asylum. "How did I get here, Mr. Cohen?" is their query.

Cohen tells me that the principal means of effecting their cure is getting them to talk "out their hearts" to the physician. Once they can get them to loosen up their tongues and unload their mental burdens, the prognosis is hopeful.

I suppose there is a hint here, even for those of us that are sane. We need someone to listen to our troubles. A good conversationalist, I suppose, would never go crazy.

She Was a Tea-Kettle

Some odd stories are told of these types of the insane who fluctuate between sanity and the loss of reason. The best story along that line that ever came to my ears was a Yiddish one.

She was a Jewess, who at length began to talk so sanely and soberly, that application was made for her release. She was handed her discharge papers. She took them, looked at the doctor and said: "Und az ich vill, bin ich a cheinik." "And if I want to, I can become a tea-kettle."

What—No Ham!

Several weeks ago, the Jewish Welfare Board at the Washington Community Center, tendered a Seder for the Jewish veterans in the hospitals and asylums about Washington. There were about a dozen patients of St. Elizabeth's Asylum present.

The Seder was going along very nicely, and even some of the insane patients joined in the chanting of the Hagaddah songs. Just as the part of the Seder, where all the wonderful miracles are recounted, one of the asylum patients arose excitedly: "I won't stand this longer, I have been waiting long enough for my ham and eggs."

His male nurse, who accompanied him, seized him and led him back to St. Elizabeth's.

Stage Favorites to be Guests at Carlton, April 30

Leon Blank, Aaron Lebedeff and Betty Frank, popular Jewish stage favorites, and their entire National Theatre supporting company, direct from New York, will make their joint debut in Providence this season as guest artists of the Carlton Theatre for one performance on Thursday evening, April 30th.

They will be seen here under the direction of Michael Saks, who will present them in "A Village Wedding," a colorful and tuneful new Yiddish operetta by Herman Wohl and William Siegal, which proved the outstanding Jewish musical hit of the current season in New York.

The original principal supporting cast will include Isidore Feld, Vera Luboff, Boris Rosenthal, Peter Graff, Sam Gertler, Sally Schorr, Max Rosenblatt, Paula Klida, Nadia Dranova, Harry Hochstein and a large ensemble of singers and dancers under the direction of Mr. Wohl, noted Jewish musical composer, who created the score for this play and will also conduct a large orchestra of picked musicians.

Although Lebedeff and Blank appeared here last season at the head of respective touring companies in which both scored a great hit, this will be the first time local playgoers will have an opportunity to see these celebrated Yiddish stage stars in one stupendous production.

Council Women to Sponsor Camp for Undernourished

Efforts to Secure Funds to Begin
Week of April 27; 80 Girls Sent to Camp Last Year

The Council will again this year sponsor a summer camp for undernourished girls from seven to fourteen years old. Plans are being formulated for carrying on the project at Barrington, instead of Quidnesset, as formerly. Last year eighty little girls, sent to the camp through the co-operation of the North End Dispensary and the Jewish Family Welfare Society, were cared for by the Council, the same organizations continuing their aid again this year. With the school department also interested in the project the Council is anticipating another successful season, provided it can raise money enough to finance the camp.

To secure funds for ways and means, Mrs. E. Gardner Jacobs and Mrs. Pierre Brunschweig, as co-chairmen, will inaugurate a move throughout the city starting Monday, April 27, to interest public-spirited men and women in the need among children at present for such camp life as the Council offers. Mrs. Sol Rothchild is chairman of the camp. The work will be carried on depending on the amount of money subscribed in a quietly carried out campaign.

Local Community Concert Campaign Is Held This Week

One hundred and ninety workers, marshalled in teams of ten each, are campaigning for the Providence Community Concert Association during this week. It is their assignment to enroll Rhode Island music lovers who wish to participate in next season's activities under the Community Chest plan.

Announcement of the engagement of Lawrence Tibbett, baritone, and lovers who wish to participate in next year's concert series, was made by Mrs. Carl B. Marshall.

The Community Concerts Association will sponsor a minimum of four concerts, according to Mrs. Marshall. The other artists will be of an importance equal to Tibbett and Pons, she stated, adding that their names will be announced shortly. Tibbett, popular through his appearance at the Metropolitan Opera House, on the screen and on the concert stage, has been an American favorite for a number of seasons. Mme. Pons has been the sensation of the recent Metropolitan season, her first in America. The talented young French soprano has never sung in Providence.

The drive is limited to but a single week, after which there will be no opportunity to take out membership in the concert association until the following year's campaign. In becoming a member of the Providence Community Concert Association, the individual will pay $5 annual dues and be assured a seat at each concert presented by the association without additional expense. A sustaining membership of $10 or more will entitle a member to a reserved seat, and these members will thereby permit the association to issue student memberships at $3 each.

Only members of the association can attend the concerts. No single admissions are to be sold for any attraction under the plan as outlined. Memberships also admit without additional charge to concerts in any city in the United States which is operating under the Community Concert Association.

The names of the team captains for the campaign were announced by the General Chairman, Mrs. Carl B. Marshall, through her Publicity Chairman, Mrs. Paul C. De Wolf. They are as follows:

Mrs. Preston F. Arnold of West Barrington, Mrs. Alex M. Burgess of Providence, Mrs. George H. Crooker of Providence, Mrs. Edson Gallaudet of East Greenwich, Mrs. Isaac B. Merriman of Nayatt Point, Mrs. Robert H. George, Dr. Carlotta Golini, Mrs. William B. Greenough, Mrs. George Hall, Mrs. Norman D. Harvey, Mrs. F. Ellis Jackson, Mrs. Albert L. Kenyon, Mrs. Duncan Langdon, Miss Ethel Murphy, Mrs. Harry Parvey, Benjamin Premack, Mrs. W. H. Reynolds, Mrs. Joseph B. Webber, all of Providence, and Rev. Walter Williams, St. Dunstan's College of Sacred Music.

The following are also assisting on the committee:

Mrs. Harold Libby, Mrs. Adolph Gorman, Mrs. J. G. Nathanson, Mrs. Abraham Kestenman, Mrs. Leo Cohen, Miss Irene Finklestein, Miss Esther Stone, Mrs. Philip V. Joslin, Mrs. F. Bernstingle, Mrs. Pierre Bruenschweig, Mrs. Herman Bernstein, Mrs. Louis I. Kramer, Miss Elizabeth V. Davis, Mrs. David D. ### SPORTING WORLD

NEWS WRITTEN FOR THE JEWISH HERALD by GEORGE JOEL

LEVEY OF U. S. MARINES PLAYS WITH THE BROWNS

"Marine" Levey, the former U. S. Marine and star football and baseball player of the Corps, has made good as a professional baseball player. In the opening game of the season he played shortstop for the St. Louis Americans against Detroit and turned in a creditable day's work, getting two hits, making three putouts and the same number of assists. Of course it's pretty early to do any shouting about Levey as a ball player, but I couldn't pass this opportunity of reporting his debut in the national pastime. After all he showed enough stuff to stand the gaff of the training season and win the call for the infield position.

RUGBY INTRODUCED AS COLLEGE SPORT

The old kicking game, rugby, father of modern day football, has been introduced into the collegiate sport curriculum. Popular in England and on the continent and played instead of football by the Canadian colleges it has never been played to any extent in American colleges. This spring Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Syracuse and a few other colleges formed teams and have been busily engaged each Saturday on the rugby field. Of course there are Jewish rugby players. In the Syracuse lineup I found four of our boys playing—Gordon, Stern, Rubowitz and Elowitz. As far as I know they are the first Jewish boys to receive official recognition as rugby players.

How popular the sport will become is difficult to guess. It seems to me that in time it will outdraw college baseball 2-1. If you have never seen the game played try to watch a contest. It is similar to football. Each team consists of fifteen men; lateral passes are allowed at any point of the field. The piling up as it is seen in football is missing, as only one man at a time can tackle the ball carrier. Kicking can be done beyond the line of scrimmage and is a very important part of the game. It is a combination of football, basketball and soccer. It also solves the problem of college football players who don't know what to do in the spring.

JEWISH FARM SCHOOL HAS BIG ATHLETIC YEAR

The National Farm School, located in Philadelphia, boasting of an almost entire Jewish enrollment, has completed athletically one of its most successful years. Under the leadership of Coach Samuel B. Samuels, former Massachusetts Aggie basketball star, who coached both the basketball and baseball teams, the boys turned in 30 basketball wins without dropping a game and went through the baseball season of 1930 without finishing a single contest on the losing end.

With a student body of only 185 boys Coach Samuels was able to put winning teams of this calibre in the field. The Jewish farmers can also play football. Last season the eleven lost but one game and that one by the slim margin of a single point. The school's football teams have always been good and next year, I am told, the boys will play one of the hardest schedules ever undertaken by a "prep" school.

"CHRISTIANS ONLY"

Among other things this column is not—is a book review column, but I can't pass up the opportunity of begging you to get next to a copy of George Britt's and Heyward Brown's book—"Christians Only," which was recently published by the Vanguard Press. If you don't want to read it all, and I think if you ever start it you'll want to finish—read Britt's chapters on prejudice in the colleges. Some of the stuff therein will make you open your eyes, especially when you learn such things as a Jew can go out for baseball at Penn but is wasting his time when he tries to make the football team. Or how athletes are treated at Yale and what happened to the Jewish boy who was the only man eligible for the crew captaincy at one of our colleges.

It is true that I have made some statements in these columns about prejudice against Jews in college, but each time I have made a break some Jewish Rabbi has quickly come to the defense of the college mentioned. I can never forget the case of Phil Rakov, Syracuse University basketball player. He was taking a medical course, three years of university work and four years in the medical college. During his first five years he went out for the basketball team and was cut from the squad each year. In his sixth year a new coach was installed, Phil went out for the team, made it easily and played for two years on one of the best teams ever turned out by that school.

It was plainly a case of prejudice on the part of the coach. At Pennsylvania I personally knew two fine football players who never got into a game simply because they were Jewish. At Colgate, a college which boasts that it never has more than six Jews attending at one time, there was a football player named Maxie Meyer, who was a star as a Freshman but couldn't stand the anti-Semitic feeling and left college.

Britt makes the obvious statement that has proved so cruelly true—for a Jewish boy to make good in college sport he must be a great deal better than his Gentile opponents.

CHATTERINGS

In "Christians Only" it is said that Harry Greb, the great middleweight, was really a Jew named Berg—Greb spelled backward. I've heard that story before, but the official boxing records say that Greb was a German-American.

Al Cohen is playing the outfield for the Brooklyn Dodgers—he missed the opener but got into the second game and came through with a flock of hits.

You will be glad to know that professional sport is most free from prejudice that might account for the large number of Jewish football players who are making college teams. A big gate in the offing will cure prejudice any time. It tickles me to observe that those colleges noted for prejudice against Jewish athletes are not noted for the excellence of their football teams—to wit—Columbia, Pennsylvania, Yale, Washington & Lee.

Reading "Christians Only" has had a bad effect on me. All I can think of is the hundreds of cases of injustices concerning Jewish students that I myself have seen. It's so damn stupid and so hard to do anything about!

LUBIN NAMED SACRAMENTO'S FIRST CITIZEN FOR 1930

San Francisco, April 24—(JTA)—Simon J. Lubin, pioneer Jewish merchant and civic leader of California, was signally honored by his state, recently when Governor James Rolph, Jr., presented him with a diamond-studded medal in recognition of his selection as the most outstanding citizen for 1930 in Sacramento, the capital of California.

Mr. Lubin, who is a son of the late David Lubin, founder of the International Agricultural Institute in Rome, is a recognized authority on agricultural marketing problems. His work in connection with the recent Pan-American Reciprocal Trade Conference, held in Sacramento, was declared responsible for the success of that venture.

EX-KING GAVE JEWISH ACTOR PASSOVER MEAL

Munich, April 24—(JTA)—So great is the admiration of ex-King Ferdinand of Bulgaria for Max Pallenberg, German-Jewish actor, that in order to dine with him on April 4, which was the third day of Passover, the former monarch prepared a real Passover meal for his favorite actor with matzoth, wine and all the other Passover foods.

The one-time King of Bulgaria made a special trip to Munich to see Mr. Pallenberg's performance and then invited him to dinner. Knowing that Pallenberg and his wife, Fritzi Masari, are both devout Jews, who keep all the Jewish holidays, King Ferdinand provided his guests with a full course Passover repast.

The admiration of the former King for Pallenberg is so great that he has often made flying visits to various German and Austrian cities when he knew that Pallenberg was playing. The Jewish actor was born in Vienna.

RHODE ISLAND STATE COLLEGE

Last week Phi Kappa Phi, the national honorary scholastic fraternity, elected Ralph L. Belmont of Newport to its roll of members. Mr. Belmont is a Senior at State and has been as active in extra-curricular activities as he has been in his class work. During his four years at Rhody, Mr. Belmont holds keys in the Glee Club, Chem Club, Biology Club, De Molay Club, as well as being a brother in the Order of Masons and Alpha Epsilon Pi Fraternity. His studies are to be continued this fall when he enters the first-year class at Tufts Medical School.

Interscholastic Day is two weeks from today. The day is always a banner event at Kingston, since every preparatory school in Rhode Island visits Rhody on that day. Every fraternity house on the campus is holding dances in honor of the visiting students. Jack C. Anhalt has been elected chairman of the A. E. Pi affair and an interesting program is planned in conjunction with the festivities of the day.

Tonight the Freshman class will hold their annual banquet. The Freshman "Beacon" was published this week, with Hy Fine in the capacity of editor-in-chief. He was ably assisted by Bernard Jensky, Milton Bassing and Hy Horvitz.

Harold Golden of Woonsocket is back at college after a short illness.

MR. LOUIS HANNOCH, BUSINESS MANAGER NEWARK CALL, DEAD

Eatontown, N. J., April 24—(JTA)—Louis Hannech, former business manager of the Newark Sunday Call and one of the best-known figures in newspaper ranks in this state, died here at the age of 76.

Mr. Hannech joined the Call at the age of 19, working as a printer during the day and society reporter at night, and spent 57 years with that paper, retiring last year. His son, Herbert H. Hannech, is prominently identified with the Conference of Jewish Charities in Newark.
