Tidbits and News of Jewish Personalities

By DAVID SCHWARTZ

Kidnaping

What went folks do to get publicity? There is a well-known Jewish opera singer of late, who, if you have been reading the papers lately, you will remember has been receiving notes threatening kidnaping.

No one can, of course, say for certain, but on the inside they say these kidnaping stories are written by the singer's publicity man.

Unsophisticated Poet

Here are some stories about Abraham Raisin, the Jewish radical poet. As you may have heard, Raisin's sophistication is just in inverse proportion to his poetic abilities. He can fill line with metaphor and rhythm to delight your senses, but the proverbial babe in the woods is blase in comparison to him. Of course, now he is not so bad. Nowadays, he knows how to take a street car, drop nickels in an Automat slot and other such intricate things, but when he first came to America, it is said, people just couldn't believe that such unsophistication was possible, unless one spent three or four years of hard work acquiring it.

Naturally, many of his friends, practical jokers, could take advantage of his naivete by pouring all sorts of impossible stories into his head. One man gave him a check book, it is related, and told him that all he needed to do, when purchasing anything was to sign one of the checks and hand it to the tradesman. Nothing was said about the need of depositing money to make the checks good.

Well, the idea of signing checks pleased Raisin immensely. He went about everywhere, getting everything he wanted, and signing checks. In a few days, came the reckoning. He was pounced upon by the multitude of people to whom he had given the worthless checks. "What do you mean by giving these worthless checks?" they asked. Raisin was befuddled. "What are all of you talking about?" "See here," he said, pulling out his blank check book. "I still have more money—look at all these check blanks left."

Peter Against Repeaters

A bachelor was being urged the other day, at a little round table gathering, to forsake the paths of the single and embrace matrimony. "It is never too late to marry—what's the hurry?" quizzed the bachelor. "Look at Lord Reading—he just married for the second time at the age of 72."

"Yes," interjected a female friend, "but if you marry now, you will still have the chance of marrying again, like Lord Reading."

"No," said the bachelor. "Ever hear the story of the man who went to the other world. 'You must go to Purgatory,' St. Peter told him. 'But Saint,' said the man, 'I was married.'"

"Oh, if that's the case, you needn't go to Purgatory—you have already been there—you can go into heaven right away."

"Thanks, Saint," said the man. "Yes, I was married—in fact, I was married twice."

"What!" exclaimed Peter, "married twice, eh? You can't go to heaven then, we won't stand for any fools in heaven."

Cardozo Rumors

Is there a behind the scenes story to the Cardozo appointment? There is—if you can believe some of the gossip floating about. According to this story, Hoover did not wish to make the Cardozo nomination, but was persuaded to do so by Senator Borah.

They say that Hoover finally acquiesced when he realized that he would have a difficult time getting

PROFESSOR SCHATZ, BEZALEL FOUNDER, DIES IN DENVER

Succumbs While on Tour of U. S.; Institution He Founded More Than 25 Years Ago Suffered Reverses

Denver, March 25—(JTA)—Professor Boris Schatz, sculptor, wood cut artist and pedagogue, internationally known as the founder and director of the Bezalel School of Arts and Crafts in Jerusalem, died here Tuesday night at the Beth-Israel Hospital where he had stopped for observation and an operation following a tour of this country.

Accompanied by his son, also a sculptor, whom he named Bezalel, Professor Schatz had been conducting a country-wide exhibit of their work. He was 65 years old.

Death came suddenly following apparent improvement from a bladder operation to which he submitted Monday morning.

Funeral arrangements will be made upon the arrival from Kansas City of his son. It is believed that the body will be taken to Jerusalem for burial.

After more than a quarter of a century of effort in which the products which emerged from the Bezalel School won the institution a reputation in many parts of the world, the school was forced to close owing to lack of funds.

Professor Schatz gave up an enviable career as a sculptor widely acclaimed in Europe and as court artist to King Ferdinand of Bulgaria in order to devote himself exclusively to the Bezalel school and his work there.

Professor Schatz made four visits to the United States, where his bas reliefs and wood cuts found appreciation. A group of his works was presented to the National Art Gallery in Washington last year by Jewish women of Boston.

Professor Schatz, with his son, Bezalel, presented an exhibition of their works in Providence last winter at Temple Beth-El. Hundreds of Rhode Islanders viewed this wonderful exhibit with much appreciation and Professor Schatz's sudden death is causing much regret in the community where he made many friends.

AMERICAN JEWISH AGENCIES ASKED TO SHOW UNITED FRONT

Alfred M. Cohen Asserts That Power in Interest of World Jewry Would be Greatly Increased

Cincinnati, March 25—(JTA)—The American Jewish Committee and the American Jewish Congress were invited to present a united front together with the B'nai B'rith in matters relating to the welfare of World Jewry by Alfred M. Cohen, President of the B'nai B'rith, in an address delivered Sunday at the conference of the American Jewish Congress here.

Considerations of age and tribe must be cast aside in the interest of common purposes, Mr. Cohen urged.

"World Jewry asks why B'nai B'rith, the American Jewish Committee and the American Jewish Congress do not realize that their power for its welfare would be immeasurably increased if they presented a united front," Mr. Cohen stated.

"B'nai B'rith hears the cry of World Jewry and will heed it," he continued. "As the oldest it will ask its two younger sisters to join in contriving means by which they shall act in concert in all matters as are of common concern. Age and tribe and prestige must be and shall be subordinated to the promotion of their common aims and purposes," Mr. Cohen concluded.

Dr. Stephen S. Wise, Honorary President of the American Jewish Congress, was the guest of honor at a dinner arranged by local Jewish organizations.

Isaac S. Kibrick

President of the Associated "Y's" of New England, will speak at the New England Educational Conference at the Narragansett Hotel, April 9th and 10th, sponsored by the New England Association of Jewish Center Executives in co-operation with the Associated "Y's."

RAYMOND D. FOSDICK TO BE SPEAKER AT ROSENWALD MEETING

Members of Joint Distribution Committee National Council Will Pay Tribute to Leader, Sunday

New York, March 25—(JTA)—Raymond D. Fosdick, trustee of the Rockefeller Foundation and former Under Secretary General of the League of Nations, will join Jewish leaders in paying tribute to the late Julius Rosenwald at a special memorial meeting, which will be held at the Hotel Pennsylvania on Sunday, March 27th, under the auspices of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee.

The tribute to Mr. Rosenwald will take place at noon and will be part of the program of the annual meeting of the National Council of the Committee which will convene that morning. Representative Jewish men and women, from different parts of the country who will attend the sessions, will participate in the service to one of its outstanding leaders. James N. Rosenberg, vice chairman of the organization, will preside and others who will eulogize the late Mr. Rosenwald, who was the largest individual contributor to the work of the Joint Distribution Committee and whose benefactions to foreign relief and reconstruction totalled many millions, are Paul Baerwald, chairman of the committee, and Felix M. Warburg, dean of Jewish philanthropists and honorary chairman of the organization. A message will be read from Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman. The entire memorial meeting will be broadcast over a nation-wide network of the National Broadcasting Company, through WJZ, beginning at 12 o'clock.

Reports on the work of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee in Eastern and Central Europe, as well as its activities in America, will be presented by officers of the committee at the sessions that will be held prior to the memorial meeting in the morning and during the afternoon. Members of the National Council, which was organized to carry on the program of the organization and who will assemble from all parts of the country, will formulate plans for the furtherance of the committee's social and economic reconstruction efforts among Jews abroad, who, according to reports from Poland, Roumania, Besarabia, Germany and other lands, are suffering acutely because of the severe economic conditions and are in dire need of aid from American Jewry. Among those who will speak at the sessions are Paul Baerwald, chairman; David M. Bressler, Joseph C. Hyman, secretary of the Joint Distribution Committee; Rabbi Jonah B.

From Devils Island to Locarno

Some Jewish Aspects of the Life of Aristide Briand
By JOHN DAVIS

Some thirty-five years ago, a young French officer, Alfred Dreyfus, was being tried for treason. He was Jewish, but with negligible interest in things Jewish. His entire training, background and outlook on life was almost chauvinistically French. He was a flag waving, 100 per cent. Frenchman. He had graduated from the leading French military academy, had already attained a respectable position in the army and every indication pointed to a successful army officer's life for him—going through army drills, keeping the peace in some outpost of a French colony or the like—unconnected in any way with the political and sociological currents of life. If his military training were not enough to bend his life towards the sundered, isolated life of the army officer, the fact that he was the son of wealth emphasized it. The outlines of his future were plainly that he would clank his heels, command a troop of poilus, order them forward march, take a position, fire, etc., during the day and at night with his pretty wife attend the officers' balls, curtesy and dance with the wives of the other officers—and that would be about all. Why need he work up a headache about Judaism, Socialism or any other ism?

But the forces of Fate that work in the secret had planned otherwise. This army officer was to shoot few guns. Instead he was to throw a bombshell, which was to overturn some half dozen of the governments of France, and bring forth into public notice the men who were to lead not only France, but to leave their impress on the world. He was to be used in addition to foster the Socialist movement, and as for the Jews, he was to stir them from their age-long political torpor and inflame their breasts with hopes of a rebuilt Jerusalem.

It was all because this young French army officer was being tried for treason. Never before nor since in modern times, has the world watched so keenly a trial as it watched that of Dreyfus. Among those who watched it was a young newspaper correspondent by the name of Herzl of the Vienna "Neue Freie Presse," who was as much an Austrian 100 percenter as Dreyfus boasted of being an unhyphenated Frenchman. Herzl, who had been writing fuellitons became deeply agitated by it—and wrote the "Judenstaat." Other then young men who were agitated by it were Clemenceau, Anatole France, Zola, Jaures and Briand.

The recent death of Briand removes perhaps the last great figure associated with the Dreyfus case—except Dreyfus himself. He still lives. Perhaps the destiny which selected him to project these new forces into the world has preserved Dreyfus to the last to show him more fully the influence of his life—as a compensation for the ordeal at Devils Island which took a young, vigorous army officer and sent him forth, after an incarceration, marked by unbelievable horrors, a white-haired, broken man.

Aristide Briand did more than watch the Dreyfus proceedings. He helped megaphone the injustice that had been done not only to Dreyfus, but to the Jew. For the truth is, that it was not so much Dreyfus, who was being tried, but the Jews of the world. Even Sheurer-Kestner, who was so largely responsible for the uncovering of the initial evidence, which was to exonerate Dreyfus, had himself originally believed in the guilt of Dreyfus, and had frankly stated as the basis for this belief the fact that Dreyfus was a Jew. Some friends, who had begun to doubt Dreyfus' guilt, remonstrated: "But why, they asked, should he sell this document to the Germans? Has he not plenty of money?"

To which Sheurer-Kestner replied that "his race was sufficient explanation." Finding, however, that he had not convinced the doubters, he set himself to find the evidence to justify his belief in Dreyfus' guilt. Instead, he became convinced that he was innocent. Although a prejudiced man, he was honest, according to his lights, and after the belief in Dreyfus' innocence was strengthened, he made an issue of it.

It was at this juncture that Briand took a hand in the matter. Briand and Jaures determined to throw the full force of the Socialist party behind Dreyfus. There was some remonstrance upon the part of other Socialists, who felt that this was purely intra-ougeois squabble—an army officer's quarrel which did not concern a party dedicated to the proletariat. Briand and Jaures took another stand. It has been said that Briand and Jaures were primarily interested in making an issue of the case for the opportunity it offered for Socialist propaganda. They planned, it has been said, to capitalize it much in the fashion of the present day Communists, who seek to exploit the Mooney case. There probably is some modicum of truth in this, but the

MEMORY OF LATE MRS. IDA FEINBERG AGAIN HONORED

Friends Continue Her Custom of Presenting Shalach Monos to Children of Jewish Orphanage

In honor of the memory of Mrs. Ida Z. Feinberg, who was for many years interested in the Jewish Orphanage of Rhode Island, as well as in many other organizations in Providence, Mrs. S. Fishbein and Mrs. Annie Bernstein, friends and fellow-workers of the late Mrs. Feinberg, presented Shalach Monos to the children of the Home on Purim day, Tuesday, March 22d.

Generous bags of candy, cookies, fruit, cake and "moon" were brought for an after-school lunch on this Jewish day of rejoicing. Thus the custom long followed by Mrs. Feinberg was continued and the memory of her kindly deeds was recalled in the places she frequented in her life.

SYNAGOGUE SCHOOL CHILDREN TO STUDY CHRISTIAN SERVICES

Philadelphia Religious School Inaugurates Comparative Study Group for High School Children

Philadelphia, March 25—(JTA)—The children of the high school department of the Rodeph Sholom Religious Congregation—about one hundred in number—will have an opportunity to acquaint themselves with the religious services of the various Christian denominations from personal observation, according to an innovation introduced by Rabbi Louis Wolsey, Minister of the Congregation.

To a representative of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, Rabbi Wolsey explained that it is his desire to afford the older children of his school an opportunity to compare the religious worship at Rodeph Sholom with the religious worship of the Catholic and Protestant churches. The best way to do this, he said, is to take the children to these services, and having seen for themselves, point out to them the difference.

The plan as introduced by Rabbi Wolsey calls for visits on Sunday mornings to the various churches in the city. These tours will be conducted by teachers of the Rodeph Sholom School. No advance information will be given to the minister or the religious leader of the church to be visited. The children either as a group or as individuals will meet at the church, attend the services and then reconvene at a later date for discussion. In a sense, Rabbi Wolsey declared, this is a course in comparative religion, and should help to bring about a better understanding between the religious groups of the community.

"I am sending my children to the churches," the Rabbi declared, "so that they might better understand their Christian neighbors." Intolerance, he explained, will live so long as other religions remain a mystery to any one sect.

Face to Face With Foot Facts

By DR. H. I. GOLDMAN

The human body is a wonderful structure of energy and beauty, and like an architectural structure, depends primarily upon the strength of its foundation—the feet.

Instead of receiving intelligent care, they have been neglected and subjected to unaccountable, unreasonable and infuriating fads. This dates back thousands of years, in the instance of the foot-binding of the Chinese.

It is obvious that the first forms of footwear were designed to fill the need of foot protection. Thereafter the idea of decoration was added, and it was not long before decoration became the all-important factor and protection was scarcely considered, save for special requirements.

Ninety per cent. of all the people in this country suffer from some kind of foot troubles, according to the specialists, and many of them suffer all their lives without knowing the source of their ailments. When in 1917, millions of men were called for military services, it was discovered that over 80 per cent. of those who failed to pass the physical examination were rejected because of defective feet. This was an astounding revelation to the general public and may be said to have resulted in America becoming foot conscious.

National Foot Health Week will be held April 17 to 23.

Monte Carlo Comes to Temple Emanu-El

If you happened to enter the Temple Building of Emanu-El on the night of March 17th, I'm sure that if you did not have apoplexy, then you would have run for the nearest policeman. Sacrilege, flaunting of the law of the land, a disgrace to the whole community! Plain, ordinary and fancy gambling within the holy precincts of the Temple!

The Vestry rooms were filled with gambling devices of every description. There were roulette wheels whirring, and wheels of chance spinning, and ivory cubes rolling, and a most ingenious bird cage. Throngs of men crowded about the tables. The croupier sang out in an even monotone: "Faites vos jeux, messieurs," which in plain English meant, "Leg dein Geld auf dem Tisch." And money! Men were wagering thousands of dollars on the turn of a wheel, and if they lost, they did not even flicker an eye-lash.

Your reporter received an envelope containing five hundred dollars in denominations of fifties, twenties, tens and fives. With this sum he went to the bird cage. It really looked like a bird cage, with two bottoms, only there was no bird. Instead there were dice lying on the bottom, and the house gambler turned the cage upside down after the men had made their wagers. Five hundred dollars did not last long with those confounded cubes.

But some fellows seemed to have all the luck. Abraham Rotman ran his five hundred up to $57,000.00, the high score of the evening, which entitled him to the first prize, a bridge table and four chairs of fine workmanship. Ben Sass came next, with almost $49,000.00, and his prize was a beautiful leather grip valued in real money at twenty dollars. Aha! the secret is out. They were using bogus, stage money, or in other words, Purim Geld. Well, anyway, these two lucky gamblers donated their prizes right back to the Men's Club, requesting that they be used by the Carnival Committee when the Carnival takes place on the 24th, the 25th and the 26th of May. Other successful gamblers were Abe Goldstein, John Goldsmith, Morris Sydel, Louis Abedon, Samuel Sass, Dave Sunderland, Louis Farber, Nathan Conis, Ben Fradin, John Sullivan and Carl Goldblatt.

Announcement was made that at the next meeting of the Men's Club, Rabbi de Sola Pool of New York would be the principal speaker. To wind up this unique evening of Purim celebration, Hamentaschen and coffee were served to the winners and losers on an equal basis.

Those responsible for the Den of Iniquity in this Temple of Chance were: Nat C. Cohen, Chairman of the Gambling Committee, ably assisted by Gamblers Sam Rosen, Michael Tieman, Louis Abedon, Morris Sydel, John Goldsmith, Carl Goldblatt and Martin Zucker.

GRUENBAUM GOING TO PARIS AT END OF MONTH

Warsaw, March 25—(JTA)—"My decision to leave Poland is prompted by considerations of a personal nature," declared Deputy Isaac Gruenbaum, discussing his plans for the future with a representative of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency.

While it is his intention to proceed to Paris before the end of the month, he has no intention of giving up his mandate as Sejm Deputy, since the present session of the Sejm will conclude at an early date.

Major Charles M. Hoffman Completes Five Years as Superintendent of the Miriam Hospital

By JOSEPH M. FINKLE

It surely must be a source of gratification to the Jewish people of Rhode Island to know that we have, located in Providence, a Jewish hospital, which has not only been accepted by the American College of Surgeons as a hospital meriting the highest rating, but, as is pointed out by medical directors of other institutions, is one of the finest Jewish hospitals of its kind in any community. This is our own Miriam Hospital.

Having completed recently six years of its existence, the Miriam Hospital owes much of its progress and achievements to the fine administration of its Superintendent, Major Charles M. Hoffman, who this coming week rounds out five years of continuous service as the executive head of that institution.

Although the Miriam Hospital is not great in size, it is, nevertheless, great in service, for every day in the year it caters to the unfortunate sick of our community, regardless of race, creed or color, or ability to pay. While this institution is strictly non-sectarian in its scope, it is equipped to meet the specific religious requirements of the more rigidly orthodox Jews, which makes it possible for them, while patients, to observe the tenets and conform with the regulations of their faith.

The Miriam Hospital differs from any large institution of this type, because of the intimate and personal atmosphere that pervades in every ward and room throughout the building. Officials, nurses, doctors, employes and patients all reflect the spirit of mutual co-operation in the endeavor to lighten the burdens of the sick.

The writer has on many occasions made personal visits to the hospital and has observed Major Hoffman's kindly solicitation of each individual's welfare, and many a patient's convalescence has been speeded by this kindly attention. The hospital itself radiates a spirit of good cheer.

Major Hoffman, who came from New York, was for five years executive officer of the Jamaica (Long Island) Hospital, where he established an enviable record, and for a little over a year he served as the head of the Brownsville and East New York Hospital in Brooklyn. He is a veteran of both the Spanish-American and World Wars; was a New York Veteran's Relief Commissioner, with the rank of Major, and at present holds the rank of Captain in the United States Medical Reserve Corps.

Major Hoffman's activities the past five years have not been solely centered in the Miriam Hospital. Since coming to Providence he has actively interested himself in the affairs of the community. Among other organizations, he is an active member of Temple Beth-Israel, the Men's Club of Temple Emanu-El, the Spanish War Veterans, the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and from a Prayer Book in Braille, which was transcribed especially for him by Mrs. Johanna Oppenheimer of Chicago.

Rabbi Aaronsohn brought to the attention of the National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods the need for Braille, and for several years he has watched with interest the gradual increase of Braille work among the members of the organization, which resulted last year in their sponsoring a magazine for the Jewish blind, "The Jewish Braille Review." The first Jewish Braille Library has just been established in New York City and the N. F. T. S. has just sent as its contribution 51 Braille volumes, comprising 3837 pages.

Meeting of General Council After Passover

London, March 25—(JTA) — The meeting of the General Council of the World Zionist Organization, scheduled to take place this month, has been postponed until after the conclusion of the Passover holidays.

This decision was taken in view of the absence of Dr. Sokolow in the United States, and in order to avoid interruption of the campaigns for funds now in full swing.

The time and place of the meeting will be announced at a later date. It will be followed by a meeting of the Administrative Committee of the Jewish Agency.

Rabbis Lauded for Their Aid to J. D. C. Drive

New York, March 25—(JTA)—Commending the Rabbis of America for their co-operation in aiding the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee to carry on a minimum program of relief and reconstruction among destitute Jewry in Eastern Europe, Rabbi Jonah B. Wise, chairman of the fund raising effort of the organization, called on them again to take an active part in the task of raising money from American Jewry for their stricken co-religionists abroad.

In a letter to the Rabbinate of this country, Conservative, Orthodox, Reform, he told of the dominant part played by them in bringing comfort to the sorely tried Jews in Poland, Lithuania, Roumania and other lands, and declared that the greater share of the burden will again fall on them for the securing of funds with which to prevent the disintegration of Jewish life abroad.

THE PRO-PALESTINE FEDERATION OF AMERICA

Every intelligently educated man and woman has some general idea of the history of anti-Semitic propaganda. He is aware of the ancient prejudices of the pagan Greeks and Romans regarding the monotheistic religion of the Jews. He knows all about the false, defamatory writings of Tacitus, arising chiefly because it was to the interest of the contemporary Roman emperors to destroy the independent tribes of Judea. He is likewise acquainted with the monstrous legends and baseless calumnies of mediaeval Christianity, as well as with the subversive and inhuman propaganda of many ignorant and foul-souled Christians of today.

There is on foot, however, a movement among Christians today, which is intended in a small measure to wipe out the futile mistakes of the past few centuries. This group, believing in justice and fair play, as well as in the promotion of the noble principles of democratic and civilized America, have set about to complete a generous service to modern Jewry.

Primarily interested in helping the Jews to achieve a national home in Palestine, this Chicago Federation has a program of four points: (1) Good-will and esteem between Jews and non-Jews; (2) To combat the attacks of prejudiced Gentiles; (3) Better understanding of the historical problems of Jews among Gentiles; (4) Defense of the Balfour Declaration and the carrying out of the Palestine Mandate by the Mandatory Power.

This organization will be recognized with gratitude by most American Jews. If only this "voice of Christian America in behalf of the Jewish National Home" can be heard widely enough, particularly by those who need to hear it, then it will have helped immeasurably in the cause of the Jew to regain his freedom and his equality among his intelligent equals. Its chief method of distribution of opinion is through a monthly bulletin, called The Pro-Palestine Herald. This has on its editorial board such distinguished Americans as John Haynes Holmes, Charles Edward Russell, Pierre Van Paassen and George L. Scherger.

The magazine is not endowed, nor is it being sponsored by any wealthy group. Its originators, filled with the enthusiasm of real ideals and with a sincere attitude of helpfulness toward the Jews, have begun it with the hope that there will be many more who may feel about the Jewish problem as they do, and who will help to foster the distribution of the thought and opinion which this magazine will contain. Because of its sincere purpose, because of its obvious need, because it may really do some ultimate good, we endorse and commend The Pro-Palestine Herald as a timely and worthy venture among American publications.

the Senate to confirm two of his nominees, Judge McIntosh and Judge Wilkinson, to the Federal bench. He figured that if he gave some of the rebellious senators what they wanted—by the naming of Cardozo to the Supreme Court, they would let him have his way for the minor appointments.

Of course, this may be just one of those baseless rumors that are always being generated, but anyway, this story is being told.

The Busy Sokolow

It was at a Jewish gathering the other day. On the dais sat Nahum Sokolow. To the side of him stood another well-known Zionist, orating. Sokolow was busy with pen and paper as the Zionist orator was exercising his throat.

"Strange," I said to the Zionist official, standing near me, "how a man like Sokolow, who has been all his life in the Zionist movement, should still be able to retain so fresh an interest in everything said, but no matter what Zionist speaker. Here, I feel like sleeping—yet look, he is taking notes."

"Taking notes—nothing of the kind," said the Zionist to me. "He is working on his diary right now. I was up there and saw."

Which perhaps is stranger still—this eternal business of his. I understand that even on the voyage here from across the ocean—Sokolow did not sit restfully gazing at the placid waters, but completed about half of a new book.

This and That

Taking it from Miss Flatou, in Palestine, since the Arab disturbances, there have been a host of children christened or shall I say—Judaized—by the odd names of "Dafkeh."

If you ransack your Yiddish vocabulary, you'll remember that the word means something like, "Just because of," despite of—or maybe a better definition would be—"Just because he doesn't want me, I will." You get the idea? That's what I call Jewish stubbornness, but in this case, I rather like it, don't you?

Of course, it doesn't make any particular difference, but it may interest you to know that Covici, the publisher, and Bercovici, the writer, are cousins.

So. Prov. Hebrew Free Loan Assn. to Hold Annual Meeting Sunday

The South Providence Hebrew Free Loan Association will hold its 27th annual convention Sunday at two o'clock in Swedish Workmen's Hall, 59 Chestnut street, with election of officers and reading of reports of officers and the Board of Directors.

The book is bound in full blue morocco to harmonize with the Jewish colors, white and blue, and is tooled in gold, with gilt edges. The inside pages are printed on imitation parchment.

The Golden Book Committee comprises: Charles Siegel, chairman; Morris Feinselber, treasurer; Joshua Bell, historical data, and Harry S. Beck, printing and binding.

Local Hadassah Board Members to Meet at Home of Mrs. L. Linder

The Executive Board of the Providence Chapter of Hadassah will hold a regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Louis Linder of Doyle avenue, on Thursday afternoon, March 31.

Mrs. Linder will also serve a luncheon to the Board members, the proceeds of which will go to the Jewish National Fund.

Bridge will follow a short business meeting.

At the last meeting of Hadassah, which was held at Temple Emanu-El, the following members of the Sisterhood were the hostesses:

Mrs. Nat C. Cohen, Mrs. Israel Edelstein, Mrs. Max Temkin, Mrs. A. T. Goodman, Mrs. Joseph Blazar, Mrs. William Shore, Mrs. John Solomon, Mrs. Harry Beck, Mrs. Maurice Felder and Mrs. Louis Rubin.

whole life story of Briand is sufficient to demonstrate also that he must have been sincerely concerned in the abominable miscarriage of justice which the Dreyfus case represented, and the wrong too done Dreyfus and the Jews as a whole.

And Briand helped pour petrol on the flame which soon burst throughout the length and breadth of France. Meetings for the defense of Dreyfus were arranged everywhere. Every night Socialist speakers addressed gatherings at pro-Dreyfus demonstrations. By the light of this flame, it was no longer possible to hide the innocence of Dreyfus.

What must have been Briand's thoughts when shortly before his death, he presided at a meeting of the League of Nations, when some aspect of the British Mandate of Palestine was under consideration. He, who had been at the birth throes of the Zionist movement, who had indeed, acted as a midwife to bring it forth! The Briand "walde" (forest), which French Zionists are proposing for Palestine, is a tribute richly earned by the services of the great French Premier.

Yet strangely enough at Briand's passing, there was little mention of his services in the Dreyfus case. Prosperity, as Mr. Darrow says, has troubles enough of its own and seldom looks back to pay merited encomia. Perhaps a more specific reason for the seeming short memory in the Briand case, is the fact that in later years, Briand had acquired such fame in other fields, particularly in his work for peace, that the spotlight was centered on these later endeavors.

From Devils Island to Locarno and the Briand-Kellogg pact—that in a phrase bounds the life story of Briand. It should be pleasant for Jews to remember that in his later achievement for world peace—in the Briand-Kellogg pact, there was a Jewish factor of considerable importance. It will be recalled that following the peace treaty concluded at Locarno, Briand proposed to America a similar pact for the outlawing of war between France and the United States. Whereupon Mr. Kellogg proposed that other of the great powers be joined in the pact. Mr. Briand hastened to accept the amended proposal, and Mr. Kellogg submitted the plan for outlawing war, largely formulated, it will be remembered, by the Chicago Jewish lawyer, S. O. Levinson. So that the Jews qua Jews share in this glory.

And it is a glory, though today in certain circles, there are those who point to the fact that Japan, a signatory to the Briand-Kellogg pact, refuses to guide her steps by it in the present Chinese trouble. The fact that it may have failed in this instance cannot be said to completely negative it. Briand was continually insistent upon the importance of taking little steps. "It is alright to take a little step, if the next day you take another little step," Briand was wont to formulate his technique of action. And who shall say that this slow, step by step method is not the way by which war will be finally abolished? Certainly, as a result of Locarno, as a result of the Kellogg-Briand pact, and as a result of Briand's preaching of a United States of Europe, the idea of peace has been universalized. And all common sense must testify that before there can be action, there must be the preliminary general understanding and meeting of minds on the subject.

When historians complete the review of Briand's life, we shall probably meet with many interesting sidelights on Jewish life touching the great Frenchman, for he contacted with Jewish life at many points. I understand that Nahum Sokolow, President of the World Zionist Organization, has had many dealings with him, recorded in his diary.

A very interesting interview was given by Briand to Jacob Landau, chief of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, last summer. In this interview, the French Premier revealed a thorough knowledge of Jewish life and activities. Speaking of the Dreyfus case, he declared, that far from showing any heavy percentage of anti-Semitism, the Dreyfus case proved France's passion for justice, and comparative freedom from prejudice. "Where," he asked, "in what other country, would there have occurred such a political overturn as was occasioned in France by the Dreyfus case?" In France, he pointed out, some half dozen governments had been overturned by the case. Would the public of any other country have taken so drastic steps as the result of an injustice to a Jew?

Further, said Briand, France was the first nation to politically emancipate the Jews, as it was the first to officially recognize Zionist aspirations.

French-Jewish leadership, he held, had pioneered in behalf of world Jewry. Briand cited the work of the Alliance Israelite Universelle, the first organized body of modern times to interest itself diplomatically in the amelioration of the condition of the Jew throughout the world.

French Jews further have been exceeded by none in contributing financially to the relief of world Jewry. The two French Jews, Baron de Hirsch and Baron Edmond Rothschild contributed no less than $120,000,000 for Jewish relief and colonization.

As you would your Physician

PHYSICIANS for many years have expressed their confidence in the dependable reports of analysis coming from this laboratory which specializes largely in pathological work. (Urinary analysis, blood chemical analysis, stomach contents, smears, human milk, general bacteriology, etc.)

It is a recognized fact that certain diseases of the kidneys and pancreas (Nephritis and Diabetes), are increasing with the years, and are discovered mostly by the chemist thru routine urinary examinations or when the individual is examined for life insurance. In their early stages these conditions respond favorably to medical treatment and advice as to dietary and right living. Other conditions, often amenable to treatment, are also shown by routine analysis.

Prominent physicians throughout the land are advising quarterly or semi-annual analysis of the urine as a means of safeguarding health. We have made more than fifty-thousand such analyses.

The two-dollar fee has been maintained thru the years. In many other cities from five to ten dollars is asked for a like service and they have no greater clinical value, nor do they represent more careful or pains-taking work.

These reports are not superficial analyses of two or three lines; they present not less than twenty lines on the typewritten page and are "worth while" analyses.

Mailing cases with bottle and preservative are a convenience for out-of-town patrons and are supplied gratis. As far as possible analyses are made and reports sent out the same day as the samples are received.

Bill to Prevent University Disturbances Introduced in the Prussian Diet

Berlin, March 25—(JTA) — A bill designed to prevent disturbances in German universities, of which there have been many against Jewish students in recent months, has been introduced in the Prussian Diet.

The bill would create an independent body to regulate any disagreement and would empower the Minister of Education to introduce disciplinary action against the disturbers.

The Minister of Education, in explaining the measure, stated that the university authorities are unanimous in their agreement with his intention of employing all necessary measures to insure the maintenance of peace and order.

He pointed out that there has recently been an increasing number of student disturbances endangering the liberty of teachers and pupils.

The Social-Democratic Deputy, Dr. Chajos, at this point, stated to the Minister that his department has recently displayed an increasing tolerance toward student disturbances, and that no vigorous measures have been employed to suppress them.

CHILDREN CELEBRATE PURIM

Long before the Purim program was scheduled to take place last Sunday afternoon the doors of the gymnasium had to be closed in order to avoid further overcrowding. MEGILLAH ANNOUNCEMENTS AROUSE INTEREST

The most unique piece of advertisement that was ever revised in the city was the "Megillah" announcements mailed to all members of the Y. W. H. A. to the Purim meeting. The announcement was made just like a scroll and was cleverly made of wood and tumb tacks on each side to resemble the "Magillah." A great deal of favorable comment has been aroused by this announcement, which resulted in a large attendance at the meeting.

CAR OWNERS DEMAND VALUES—not Claims!

MOTORISTS are finding the Greatest Values in Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. Ever since Firestone and Firestone Dealers began advertising the true facts about tire quality and construction and actually demonstrating the Extra Values in Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires, distributors of special-brand mail-order tires have grown bolder and bolder with misleading claims and comparisons in the desperate effort to interest car-owners.

Car owners bought more Firestone Tires in May, June and July, than in any like period in history. This clearly shows that car owners are interested in Firestone Extra Values and are not interested in comparisons based on an almost obsolete tire size—confusing laboratory analyses—meaningless definitions—impractical challenges with unfair claims of twenty-five per-cent savings—and deceiving price comparisons.

Why risk a tire of unknown manufacture when you can get the Extra Quality, Extra Strength, and Extra Safety of the special patented construction features of Firestone Tires—Gum-Dipping, and Two Extra Cord Plies under the Tread?

You get these Extra Values—plus our Service and the DOUBLE GUARANTEE of Firestone and ourselves—at no more cost!

Drive in today.—We have sections cut from Firestone Tires, special-brand mail-order tires and others.—See the evidence.—Take nothing for granted.—Judge for Yourself.

Impressive Athletic Record Attained by Jewish Fraternity

The latest issue of the Zeta Beta Tau Quarterly, the organ of the oldest of the Jewish college fraternities, has at last found its way into my hands. Publications of this sort are usually pretty dull stuff, concerned with nothing more than informing the palpitating brethren that Brother Cohen is married or Brother Ginsburgh of Alpha Alpha Alpha sold more insurance, etc. However, the present issue contains a detailed account of what members of the fraternity did in college athletics during the past year. It is an impressive record and gives some indication of the state of athletic activities among Jewish students in American college. Being the largest and most powerful of the fraternities this record is especially important. Certainly Zeta Beta Tau hasn't any particular edge on the other Jewish fraternities and if it shows great activities, all you need to do is multiply and you have a pretty good picture of the entire scene, not only athletically, but in many other respects.

In compiling a directory, Lee Dover, the general secretary, found that there were about 4500 members distributed over every section of the country, but the membership is an almost exclusively urban one. New York, Chicago, Cleveland, Los Angeles, New Orleans, Boston and San Francisco, in the order named, supply the bulk of the brothers.

About 1000 students, attending 24 colleges, are active members. Of this number more than 150 of them went out and made athletic teams. This figure does not include boys who played on class teams, but only performers representing the college. This average of 10 per cent. compares favorably to the total number of students in a college that make teams. In other words the Jewish boys show definitely that they are physically fit and able to compete on equal terms with all other types of students.

Many Stars

Analyzing the statistics I find that many of these 150 were more than just "on the team." There were 13 Varsity captains, two in football, Saltzman of Franklin & Marshall and Stoneberg of Syracuse; one in golf, Rosen of Washington (Seattle); one in lacrosse, Aronowsky, N. Y. U.; one in soccer, Luckman, Syracuse; three in track, two of whom were college record holders—Cohn of Union and Weil of North Carolina, the third, Bernhardt of Boston University; two tennis captains, Schwartz of Vanderbilt and Dritz of Syracuse and Capt. Wertheimer of the Syracuse boxing team. Syracuse walked off with the captain honors.

Besides these leaders there were such performers as Fred Sington of Alabama, since graduated, who played baseball and football; Bernard Wein of Chicago, who played both football and basketball; Max Hammerschlag, who captained the C. C. N. Y. fencing team; such football stars as Grossman and Firstenberg of N. Y. U.; Rosenberg of Southern California and Gilman of Ohio State. One of the best handball players in college, Paul Grossman of Nebraska; two polo players, Allen Marin of Chicago and S. Metzger of Missouri; track team and a legion more. No sport was without its Z. B. T. participant.

I always knew the Jewish boys could be relied upon to make good in sport, but the large number of Zebs who were able to make a mark in other extra-curriculum activities came as a pleasant surprise. I found that there were no less than 16 team managers listed. Team manager honors were, in my day, rarely given to Jewish boys. The honorary clubs and class societies seemed to have let down the bars because I noticed a full page of names of the officers and members in these organizations. Looking at the whole survey in one glance, you can't help but feel that a much improved spirit is prevailing in American colleges, and if there is prejudice, it is kept pretty well hidden. I guess we can't ask for more than that.

"In Answer to Your Letter"

Whenever possible I answer letters in these columns. Mr. J. H. B. of Rochester takes exception to my columns, especially the one about writing a sport column and the piece about my daughter. He also thinks I have maligned the Maccabees and ought to give up "the task of keeping Jews informed throughout America concerning Jewish athletes."

I'm sorry you don't like my column. In the ten years I have thus far missed writing for newspapers and magazines, I have received quite a few similar statements of sentiment and I have taken them very much to heart. In fact, my acid disposition is easily traceable to those letters. You tell me that I am peculiar in not having been able to obtain enough information from the Maccabee news releases. And didn't I know that 13 Maccabees were sent to Europe? Mr. B.—I wrote almost a whole column about just that, but like the list of names of athletes you sent me, I, too, was unable to find in that list the first names of some of the teams, even though I asked many times for full information. Was I supposed to pay admission to the various meets before the team sailed? Evidently, because nobody ever sent me any tickets, I've worked on a number of daily sport pages and often we were invited to attend the events we were supposed to report. What makes you think I was belittling the U. S. Maccabee Association? Nothing wrong with it, except that its publicity department hasn't the faintest idea of keeping writers informed of what is going on. By the way, I did a piece on the Administration Committee you mention. I'm very sorry you didn't like my outburst about "my kid." I thought it was pretty good. It brought me the largest fan mail I've had in years, especially from your section of the country, where I was born and have a large circle of friends. You see Mr. B., this is a very personal column and if I don't like anything, I simply say so.—I'm sorry I offended you and hope you will pardon my informal way of answering your letter. I also hope you will reconsider your decision about reading my stuff. In these tough times I need every reader I can get.

Chatterings

Lou Bender, captain of the Columbia University basketball team, was chosen as a forward on the All-Eastern team. It was the third time Bender gained this distinction. The only other Jewish player to be mentioned was Captain Rosenbloom of Princeton, who received the call as substitute guard.

Harry Wolf won the squash championship of the United States for the third consecutive year.

Did you know that Hirschberg, captain of Pittsburgh's crack football team last fall, attended another college before going to Pitt? His football ability was recognized at that particular college and he was urged to go out for the team. He went out and the coaches fell on his neck, but Hirschberg refused to take the game seriously enough. He insisted on smoking and often failed to turn up for practice. This so horrified the paid football mentors that they would have no part of the Jewish boy. He left college in disgust and registered at Pitt.

THE NEW BALL

All clubs throughout the country have passed rulings whereby all players in competition must use the new size and new weight ball, which is 1.62 in weight and 1.68 in size.

The Sand Wedge:—A great many of the leading golfers have found the Sand Wedge very beneficial as a stroke saver in playing out of traps, cuppy lies, rough and short approach shots over hazards where tremendous back spin is required.

Armour, Sarazen and a host of others can thank the inventor of this club for the difficult positions this club has gotten them out of, giving them an edge over players who were not smart enough to take advantage by using this stroke saver. The Sand Wedge is the same as an ordinary niblick, except that it has a flange back on the sole of the club about 1 3/4 inches in diameter, which concentrates the weight in this part of the club.

The Clipper:—This is another club added to the manufacturer's family and is used from off the edge of the green to a distance approximately as far away as twenty to thirty yards and some times further, also where the player finds a clear run to the green. It is used on the same basis as a putter and the distance is judged according to the backswing in regards to the stroke played; for a short shot play it as a short putt; for a long shot play it as a long putt.

A little practice with the Sand Wedge and Chipper will cut a number of strokes off the average player's game the same as they helped the stars score so low.

At this writing I am back on the job with a complete line of golfing equipment. After a four months' sojourn through the Sunny South, I have worked out some new ideas in the line of teaching whereas my pupils will receive playing lessons in addition to the regular standing on the practice field and hitting out balls.

Appointments are in order; become a real golfer this season and chop off at least ten strokes of your games. I'll work if you will.

Al Zura Opens New St. Regis Restaurant

A new St. Regis Restaurant will be opened in the Albertha Arcade on next Tuesday, March 29. Al Zura announces that this new, beautiful restaurant will occupy the entire second floor of this building located opposite the Outlet Company on Weybosset street. With a seating capacity of 650 people the new St. Regis promises to be the talk of Providence, because it will present each evening a real Harlem colored orchestra for dancing and a floor show cabaret nightly. Mr. Zura announces that there will be no increase in the regular St. Regis reasonable prices with the same quality of food as in the past. The second floor of the Albertha Arcade has been beautifully decorated with mural paintings on the walls and will include a separate men's grill and a large banquet hall for private parties. The Harlem colored night club idea is a new one for Providence people and should make a big hit with the thousands of regular St. Regis patrons and attract many others who enjoy dining and dancing with cabaret features. Many of Mr. Zura's friends are planning special parties for the opening night.
