They Have a Word For It

Publicity is of all sorts, and of much of it, one may say, to borrow the recently coined parody of H. I. Phillips, the delicatessen dealers have a word for it—boloney. But if you want to see a reasoned argument for publicity of a higher type, read the sketch of Edward L. Bernays, in the current Atlantic Monthly.

Bernays, as you may know, is the nephew of Freud, of complex fame. And Bernays, like Freud, as the writer points out, works along psychological lines, for the moulding of the public mind, in any direction, whether it be to buy more hair nets or to vote wet or dry, is a problem in psychology.

Meet

Mr. Bernays

Bernays, it appears, got into the public relations work, and incidentally, he was the coiner of the phrase, "Counsellor of public relations," by accident. He was to begin with editor of a medical paper, which, when Richard Bennett proposed to played Damaged Goods, came forward outspokenly in support of the play's frankness in dealing with sex problems. Bennett sent for Bernays, and the whole of his career was metamorphosed from editor to public relations counsellor.

We

Reminisce

Some years ago, the writer of these lines, as I have before stated, was working in the publicity department of the Zionist Organization. On one occasion, I took some publicity story dealing with Zionism to the Sunday editor of the New York World.

The Sunday editor was a Jew—a man, who has since obtained some fame as writer of a stage hit, but then known as today for a certain eraticism, and one of those Jews, who is a pretty good anti-Semite.

When I came in with the story, he fumed—he boiled—he spit fire. "Why the Jews," he exclaimed, "if I would let them would fill this whole paper with publicity." Then, turning to me, he shouted: "If you are a Zionist, why don't you go to Palestine."

I might have answered that in a lot of ways, but I replied: "That is, to say, if one comes here with a story for tubercular relief, he should first spit blood."

He paid little attention to my answer, and went on: "Why is it that the Irish don't come up here with so much publicity, or the Germans?"

"Well," I replied, "the Irish have their Free State—it isn't all that they want, but it is still a good deal more than the Jew has, and the Germans have Germany."

But So

Rudimentary

Yet it is true, nevertheless, I believe, that we Jews are pretty prone to this publicity, yet it has always seemed to me, that publicity in its better sense, we have never expelled. Except, of course, when it comes to dealing with matters non-Jewish. When it comes to publicity for Jewish things, we are all right in sending out releases. We send loads of them.

And we know one or two other elementary tricks—such as, that it is always good to hold the meeting on Sunday, for Sunday is a weak news day—and also, if it is possible, it is better to hold that meeting for which publicity is intended, say in Philadelphia or Washington rather than in New York, for in New York, it will be just another meeting, while in a little smaller city, the newspapers will give it more space, and it will be put on the wires, and wire news generally gets more prestige.

JUDGE JOSLIN IS FETED BY TEMPLE EMANU-EL MEMBERS

Congregation Tenders Banquet to Their President on Recent Appointment to Superior Court Bench

Justice Philip C. Joslin of the Rhode Island Superior Court was honored at a banquet last Sunday evening, May 1, tendered him by the officers and members of Temple Emanu-El, of which congregation he is President. The banquet was held in the Temple Vestry, which was filled to capacity.

Nat C. Cohen introduced the toastmaster of the evening, Samuel M. Magid, Vice President of the Temple, who touched on the close association between Judge Joslin and the inception and growth of the Temple. Nathan Hilfer spoke with great feeling of the varied activities and manifold community services rendered by the former Speaker of the House of Representatives during a long and active career. Mrs. Nat C. Cohen, President of the Sisterhood extended the felicitations of the women, and Abraham Jacobs, President of the Men's Club, described Judge Joslin as "friend, leader and exemplary American Jew."

Rabbi Israel M. Goldman praised the guest of honor for his brilliant past history in the professional field, a history made even more brilliant by his exertions and accomplishments in the Jewish affairs of the community. The Rabbi recalled the court room scene when Judge Joslin was invested with his judicial robes and likened the occasion to that of an ancient Jewish sage in Babylon to whom the robes of high office were as admirably suited.

Other speakers included Benjamin I. Sass, Chairman of the Temple School Committee, who presented resolutions from nineteen organizations existing among the children and adults of the Temple; Herman Aisenberg, brother of Mrs. Joslin; Isaac Wolf, former business associate of Judge Joslin's father; Samuel Rosen and Benjamin D. Basok.

The toastmaster presented the famous Temple Twins, Ike and Mike, in the persons of Nat C. Cohen and Michael Tieman, who extended in their hearty way, the congratulations of Ike and Mike.

The Hon. Charles Brown, Secretary of the Temple, on behalf of the congregation, presented a unique hand wrought humidor to Justice Joslin. "Every time you open this beautiful humidor," said Mr. Brown, "may you visualize it as a treasure chest, filled with the rare jewels of friendship, more precious to the possessor than all material things contained on earth." Mrs. Joslin, the Judge's wife, was presented a corsage bouquet, and his mother, Mrs. Jennie Joslin, a basket of flowers.

The guest of honor responded to these expressions of praise and joy with words that revealed how deeply he had been moved, although displaying his usual cool demeanor on the surface.

Miss Helene Alper, harpist; William Tieman, vocalist; Herbert Tieman, pianist; Cantor Harry Bettman of the Temple and Arthur Einstein contributed an appropriate musical program.

The committee of arrangements consisted of officers of the Temple, members of the Board of Trustees and representatives of the Men's Club.

PROFESSOR GETS 2 WEEKS FOR JEWISH RELIGION INSULT

Says Beliefs Permit Profiteering at the Expense of Non-Jews

Budapest, May 6—(JTA)—Ludwig Mihaly, a Professor of the University of Budapest, was Tuesday sentenced to a fortnight in prison for inciting against the Jewish religion.

The agitation against the Jews was contained in a pseudo-scientific article, wherein it was stated that the Jewish religion permits profiteering at the expense of non-Jews.

The article also called upon every Hungarian to turn against the Jews. For this Mihaly was reprimanded by the court president.

PLANS BEING MADE TO BUILD HOMES FOR PALESTINE FAMILIES

Palestine Economic Corporation Makes Available £80,000 in Long Term Contracts

New York, May 6—(JTA)—Long term credits approximating £80,000 have been made immediately available by the Palestine Economic Corporation to enable 500 families of Jewish agricultural laborers in Palestine to become independent home and orchard owners during the current year, according to a report made public recently by Julius Simon, President of the corporation, which organized in 1926 for the economic development of the Jewish National Home on a non-philanthropic basis.

The corporation was organized at the initiative of Bernard Flexner, who is now chairman of the Board of Directors. Felix M. Warburg is honorary president; Hon. Herbert H. Lehman and Robert Szold are its vice presidents and Walter E. Meyer, treasurer.

In his report, which deals with his observations during a recent three months' visit to Palestine, Mr. Simon pointed out that the 500 families who are to be settled this year, constitute the first unit of a 1000 family settlement plan which was proposed two years ago as one of a number of projects in aid of the development of Palestine toward which the corporation has loaned and invested to date $2,751,591.

"The procedure in the selections of the applicants for these credits," Mr. Simon declared, "will insure the selection of individuals and families who are considered to be most desirable for this project. We shall provide the water for the settlements, and where needed, erect the houses, consisting of two rooms, kitchen and veranda and stables. The Palestine Plantation Company will provide credits for kitchen gardens and small plantations."

The cost of settling a family, Mr. Simon pointed out, will be about $1500 and will be repayable over a period of 15 years. "The annual payment of interest and amortization for house and kitchen garden will not exceed the rent paid by the borrowers now for less suitable living quarters," he said. "At the International Building Exposition held in Berlin last summer, where 23 countries exhibited plans and models of workmen's houses, it was generally conceded that our houses were the lowest priced of all." The investment of the Palestine Economic Corporation will be secured by first mortgages, bearing interest of 8%.

RAISE MORE THAN $75,000 FOR BROOKLYN CHARITIES DEFICIT

Religious Leaders Plead For Mutual Respect And Sympathy Among Masses

Prominent Catholic, Jewish and Protestant Personalities Exchange Views at Rhode Island Seminar on Human Relationships

Heralds of a bright new day in religious understanding, Catholic, Jewish and Protestant leaders of national prominence agreed, during the Rhode Island Seminar on Human Relationships, held at Brown University and Providence College this week, that the dawn gives promise only if bonds of lasting sympathy and friendliness are bred into the great masses of peoples adhering to the three faiths.

It is not enough, they pointed out, that the priest, the rabbi and the minister shall be kindly disposed to and respect the rights of those who do not believe as he does; there must be mutual appreciation among the laity in each group if tolerance and equality are to prevail and cloudy, overcast skies are to be dispelled.

Three major conclusions were arrived at during the deliberations, which took the form of addresses, discussion groups and "U-Table" conferences, during which many fancied prejudices were probed and dissipated; recognition that religious freedom is not a favor, to be granted by one religion to another, but a right; education and discussion among groups representing different faiths as a means of eliminating prejudice and persecution, and the candid acknowledgment that a variety of religions not only should but must exist if there is to be color, warmth and zest in living.

In his address at the opening session, Rabbi Samuel M. Gup of Temple Beth-El sounded the keynote of the conference.

"We live together; we fight together; we suffer together," he declared. "But we also have to look closer at one another and understand one another better that we may be more just and considerate." He stressed the fact that while much religious intolerance is due to ignorance, a considerable portion of it is attributable to moral apathy. He maintained that there will always be honest differences between the faiths, differences for which the highest respect must be cultivated. Mgr. Peter A. Foley, speaking for the Catholics, and Dr. Arthur H. Bradford, pastor of Central Congregational Church, speaking for the Protestants, echoed this sentiment.

Under the guidance of Rev. Everett R. Clinchy, director of the National Conference of Catholics, Jews and Protestants, a confessional was held, members of the three religious faiths, laymen and women, as well as clergymen, airing all manner of prejudices. These, during the discussion groups and "U-Table," were dissected, analyzed and erased, the real differences at the same time being clarified and acknowledged. Among the leaders in the discussion groups were Charles C. Brown, Mrs. Caesar Misch, Rabbi Maurice M. Mazure, Rabbi Israel M. Goldman, Rabbi Louis Wolsey of Philadelphia, Rabbi Isaac Landman and Rabbi Gup.

At the "U-Table," which consisted of five Catholics, five Jews and five Protestants, were seated Rabbi Goldman, Judge Philip C. Joslin, Rabbi Landman, Rabbi Gup and Rabbi Wolsey.

The latter delivered the feature address during the second day's conference, speaking on "Areas of Cooperation." The fact that true differences do exist between faiths works to mutual advantage and adds a desirable color to life, he pointed out.

"One of the first demonstrations of co-operation for me would be to go out and educate my own group in good-will," he asserted, "and I presume this is true for Catholics and Protestants here present." Widespread political corruption, gangsterism, kidnaping, poverty and other social problems are areas of co-operation in which Catholic, Jew and Protestant can stand shoulder to shoulder, he explained.

Max L. Grant presided over the luncheon meeting in Providence College auditorium following Rabbi Wolsey's address. At the close of this session, groups of various faiths joined in a tour of churches and temples of the city. They visited Temple Beth-El and Temple Emanu-El and guides pointed out and described the religious equipment in each place.

Speaking on a "Layman's Outlook" of present-day human relationships, Judge Joseph M. Proskauer of New York hit out at the "chauvinism, hatred, bigotry and misunderstanding in religion, resulting from man's inhumanity to man." He expressed doubt that education alone would eliminate intolerance.

"At least today we have a legalistic freedom of conscience and worship," he explained. "But I am not content with legalistic tolerance. I dream of a spiritual summit where men shall live together in mutual toleration, forbearance and love. I believe the basis of religious prejudice is to be found in the emotions and early impressions. There is no relationship between ignorance and prejudice."

"See to it that in the minds of our young people there is not lodged the conception that they are especially favored of God. Let us not imitate others, but be ourselves."

The concept of a tribal god, whose aid and protection is withdrawn when the tribesman leaves his clan, or who is hostile to one who pays homage to another deity, the speaker described as the most blasphemous in history. He closed with the plea: "Oh, brother man, fold to thy heart thy brother; where pity dwells the peace of God is there."

The Providence Seminar was described by Rabbi Landman, editor of The American Hebrew, as "an historic day in the history of religions." He paid tribute to Bishop William A. Hickey and President Lorenzo C. McCarthy of Providence College.

"So far as I know the records," he declared, "this is the first time in history that Catholics, Jews and Protestants have met under communal auspices in a Catholic college, at the invitation of a Bishop of the church, for a friendly discussion of those divisive elements that destroy proper human relations."

"To many Protestants, Catholics and Jews this information is unbelievable. It is good news that should be heard around the world. It is a new thing in the religious life of the world: Protestants, Catholics and Jews, under a Dominican roof, seeking to understand each other's religions in order to lay open causes of inter-religious prejudices so that by understand we may dissolve them and create bridges of mutuality."

JEWISH LEADERS CONTRIBUTE TO CATHOLIC COLLEGE FUND

New York, May 6—(JTA)—Davis Fineberg and J. I. Kislak, two prominent Jewish leaders of Hudson County, New Jersey, are among the contributors to the $750,000 new building fund campaign for St. Peter's College, Jersey City, a Roman Catholic institution. The Rev. Joseph S. Dineen, President of the college, announced that Mr. Fineberg, who is a member of the Hudson County Welfare Board contributed $1000 and Mr. Kislak, $500.

Two other Jews donated $11; one a $10 bill and the other one dollar. The latter promised to get pledges from nine of his friends for the building fund, "because the Jewish boys at Fordham University are treated in such a fine manner."

LAYMEN'S SERVICE HELD

A laymen's service was held under the auspices of the Men's Club on last Friday. It was unique in that two laymen occupied the pulpit and the message of the Rabbi dealt with the topic, "If I Were a Layman." The service was very largely attended by members of the club and the congregation and proved unusually interesting, evoking the loyalty and the spirituality of all present.

Mr. Harry Loeb Jacobs, former Chairman of the Public Welfare Commission, spoke on the theme, "The Religion of the Business Man." The other speaker was the Vice President of the Congregation, Mr. Adolf Meller. Both talks were of the finest and most interesting ever delivered from the pulpit by laymen.

Every member must bring his son, or if he has none, a borrowed son from some friend or from the Orphanage. The committee, headed by Charles Silverman and Harry M. Myers, has worked for weeks to arrange something unusual and worthwhile.

The affair will start with a dinner at half-past six, in the Vestry of the Temple, and will be followed by a program of unusually meritorious entertainment. Tickets may be obtained by mailing checks to Harry Myers, 276 Niagara street.

PARENTS OF CONFIRMANTS MEET

The parents of the members of the Confirmation Class met with the Rabbi recently and it was decided to continue the practice of fostering the home reception on this day. Rabbi Gup expressed the hope that the parents would impress upon the children the need of continuing at the school during the two years following their Confirmation. He pointed out that Confirmation was a religious exercise and could not, in any way, be construed as a graduation from the school. The curriculum of the high school classes, he averred, was designed to help the children adapt themselves to the life of the Jewish community.

Jew Saved From Lynching as Ritual Murder Charge Excites Salonica Crowd

Salonica, May 6—(JTA)—A Jew named Moses Levy was nearly lynched recently when the charge of a ritual murder attempt was spread against him at Cavalla.

The wife of a boot maker, Theodidu, spread the rumor that Levy had extracted blood from her six-year-old son. She pointed to bruises and punctures on the body of the child as proof of her charge.

Thongs gathered to hear the woman's story. The excitement against Levy reached such a pitch, that lynching was avoided only by the timely arrival of the police.

Levy was arrested and an inquiry conducted by the police authorities. Levy was able to prove his innocence and was released.

DR. MENDES' THREE R'S

The Rabbinate still remains for most Jews the loftiest position which a sincere Jew can achieve in society. In his work as a doctor of the spirit, the Rabbi has unlimited opportunity to elevate and to fashion the clay of a man into something lovely and worthwhile. How well he does this in his career determines in his own mind the extent of his own success.

Last week Dr. H. Pereira Mendes of New York celebrated his fifty-fifth year as Rabbi and Rabbi-Emeritus of the Congregation Shearith Israel. At present, eighty years of age, Dr. Mendes is able to summarize his fifty years of Rabbinical work under the title of the "Three R's" . . . regrets, reveries and resignation.

In speaking of his past dreams and ideals, Dr. Mendes shows how conscious he was of his mission, and how conscientiously he tried to achieve some of those dreams. In the beginning he wanted to impress the young with the sacred beauty of Judaism. Later he attempted to maintain the glamour of the influence of the Spanish Jews by Sephardic union to that end. Still later, he dreamed the dream of separating the house of worship from its congregational activities. Last he fervently desired to proclaim the beauty of the Jewish religion to those of alien faith, because they were so profoundly ignorant of it.

In growing apace with these dreams, whether realized or not, Dr. Mendes may allow himself his regrets, his reveries and his resignation. Yet, to his own honor, no one can fail to recognize that he was progressive and vital. He had convictions and ideals. Whatever he may imagine has been lacking in his achievement, at least he aimed and hoped. He may have seen his faith as a greater worker of miracles than he was able to prove it. A half-century of the Rabbinate must have been a glorious adventure; there was in it vast ambition, there must have been in it some magnificent failures.

Our modern Rabbis may see in Dr. Mendes' three R's no cause for discouragement. The higher the dream, the more impossible it is of achievement, and therefore the more worthy of the attempt. Each Rabbi, instead, should attempt to make some special effort in his separate congregation to revitalize and refresh some phase of Judaism. The young still need improved methods of religious education, the Temples can still be stripped of their hypocrisy and golden calves, and the Rabbis themselves can be reminded that theirs is a godly and not a mercenary mission.

By the Way

Tidbits and News of Jewish Personalities
By DAVID SCHWARTZ

We know those simple rudiments, but of publicity in the sense that Bernays does it—in the sense, not so much of sending out releases, but of engineering events, so that the papers rush themselves to write it up — I think, the record will show for Jewish achievements.

Throwing Modesty Aside

I am usually, as you may have guessed, an exceedingly modest man, but for the nonce, let me be egotistical. What I am referring to, is that while in the same Zionist employ, I suggested some years ago that one of the Palestine coins be of Hebrew inscription with some reference to the Jewish Homeland.

At that time, the British government was entirely favorable to the Jewish settlement. I got the idea, I am frank to say, from the Stone Mountain Memorial in Georgia, which was partially paid for by having the government mint a special Stone Mountain half dollar, which was sold throughout the South for a dollar. I proposed that we do something like that for the Hebrew University or the Jewish National Fund. I suggested possibly that something might also be done in the way of a special stamp. It would have created publicity and brought money—at least, I thought so, and still think so.

At the Chicago Fair

Well, maybe they were right in rejecting it, but I abound in ideas—and now I am going to make another proposal. There is a world's fair going to be held in Chicago. I propose that Palestine have some sort of representation at that exposition. There is plenty that might be exhibited. Palestine oranges, grape fruit, olives, figs, olive oil, myriads of exotic and beautiful Palestine flora, salts from the Dead Sea, exhibits of the handicraft schools—maybe some exhibits of Palestine dancing. And right alongside of them, I would put a few of those tin boxes or some receptacles for shekels. I believe it would furnish splendid advertisement and pay for itself. For the fact of the matter seems to be, that Jewish Palestine, as far as I can gather, is pretty much of a success, but who knows it?

He'll Live Long

If you want some good Jewish laughs, there is a whole book of them out now, by Harry Hershfield. Here is a sample:
"I hate to insult our child, Beatrice, but he is a very dumb boy."
"Might'll if we send him to Sunday school, it'll help."
After a week's religious schooling, the proud papa quizzed his offspring.
"Now, Samuel, what did the Sunday school teacher teach you?"
"He's teaching me Kaddish — you know, papa, the prayer for the dead."
The father rushed to the phone and called up the tutor. "Phooey, you," he yelled, "what's the idea of teaching my son Kaddish? Am I dying or is my wife passing away?"
"Don't get excited," answered the other. "You should live so long till he learns it."

Back to the Old Days

Well, I see by the New Republic that Lee Simonson, famed designer, declares that the corset is coming back—indeed, that it is already back, judging from the corset business, which seems to be the one business making a profit in this depression. Well, if you will pardon a pun—that is bracing news.

And with the long skirt back, it seems like the good old days for the ladies.

I hope that we men at least get our beer back. We men are entitled to something back.

This and That

Walter Winchell has had a breakdown, due to overwork, and now Louis Sobol is substituting for Winchell on the radio and Paul Yawitz on his column.

Menorah Journal is out again as quarterly.

Did you know that there is in New York a new religious society which takes Spinoza as its major prophet?

Sylvia Lewis, formerly of the New York World staff, is now on the New Yorker.

Temple Emanu-El Choir to Present Program at Music Festival, Sunday

The Temple Emanu-El Choir, under the direction of Prof. Arthur Einstein, will sing at the Religious Music Festival, Sunday afternoon, May 8, at Sayles Hall, Brown University.

The following program will be presented with Mrs. Joseph Webber as soloist:

"Mah Tov." Novacowsky (How Goodly Are Thy Tents, O Jacob). This prayer is spoken on entering the Synagogue and consists of verses from the Book of Numbers and from the Book of Psalms. The text, "How goodly are thy tents, O Jacob," is applied to the Rabbis of the Talmud to the Synagogues and Schools; and the phrase, "In an acceptable time," to the period of Public Worship; "Lecho Dodi." Novacowsky (Come My Friend to Meet the Sabbath Bride). A hymn chanted at the Friday Eve Services to welcome the Sabbath. It was written by a famous Jewish liturgist, Shelomo Alkabetz, who lived in Safed, Palestine, in the 16th century; "Adon Olom," Sulzer (He Is Lord of the Universe). This is one of the most widespread and beloved hymns of the Jewish Liturgy and is general sung at the close of the Sabbath and Festival Morning Services. Its charm consists in the subtle manner in which Jewish dogmatics are associated with the simplest spiritual thoughts. Its authorship is not definitely known. It has been attributed to the master of Jewish liturgical composition, the Spanish Jewish poet, Solomon ibn Gebiral. (1021-1070).

Jewish Inmates Express Their Appreciation to Warden R. H. Walker

The Jewish inmates of Rhode Island State Prison at Howard expressed their appreciation of being allowed by Warden Ralph H. Walker to observe the Passover. They also expressed their satisfaction with the improved conditions in the prison kitchen and dining room, which have been remodelled, as well as for "other improvements too numerous to mention for the betterment of conditions of the men here."

Rabbi Israel M. Goldman and Rabbi David Bachrach were thanked for supplying kosher food for the Passover.

There are only six Jewish prisoners, according to the letter.

Hadassah Members to Plant Trees Sunday in Honor of Mothers' Day

New York, May 6—The members of Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America, will observe Mothers' Day, May 8, by planting trees in the Hadassah Wood in Palestine. This ceremony has been a tradition among Hadassah women for several years since through it they honor their mothers and at the same time help to reforest Eretz Israel, making habitable again a once barren land. Thousands of trees have already been planted in the Hadassah Wood near Kiriath Anavim, a very flourishing colony in the Hills of Judaea.

The planting of this grove is one of the phases of Hadassah's participation in the work of the Jewish National Fund, since Hadassah has also undertaken to redeem the 33,000 dunam (a dunam—1/4 acre) of the Haifa Bay Land in the Plain of Acres, which is being developed as the terminus of the great oil pipe line and as a result will be a most important commercial and industrial center. Both of these responsibilities were assumed in addition to Hadassah's chief project of maintaining a system of preventive and curative health activities in Palestine. Hadassah supports four hospitals, thirty-three polyclinics, two Nathan and Lina Strauss Health Centers, 22 Infant Welfare kin, presiding.

tain with a group of recitations. Mrs.

Mrs. Louis H. Borod Is Elected President of Jewish Council Women

Mrs. Louis H. Borod was unanimously elected President of the Providence Section, National Council of Jewish Women, at the annual luncheon-meeting in the Narragansett Hotel Parlors, Monday, May 2d.

Other officers elected were:
First Vice President, Mrs. Pierre
Brunschwig; Second Vice President,
Mrs. Charles Hoffman; Recording Secretary, Mrs. John J. Rouslin; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Leo Cohen; Financial Secretary, Mrs. Louis Sackett; Treasurer, Mrs. Max Siegel; Clerk, Mrs. Abraham Miner, and Auditor, Mrs. David Gilman.

The slate of officers was presented by Mrs. Harry Wachenheimer, Chairman of the Nominating Committee, which was composed of:

Mrs. David Adelman, Mrs. Jacob
Ernstof, Mrs. E. Gardner Jacobs, Mrs.
Frank Markensohn, Mrs. Philip Marcus, Mrs. Leon Semenov, Mrs. Louis
B. Wolfenson and Mrs. Isaac Woolf.

After the Council members were assembled at the U-shaped table,
Mrs. Philip Marcus, the Hospitality
Chairman, welcomed those present.
The decorations were carried out in an orchid and yellow color scheme, flowers being donated by Miss Dorothy Jacobs, in memory of her mother, Mrs. Harriet E. Jacobs. The invocation was given by Mrs. Saul Rothschild. Mrs. Harold Cohen, the retiring President, presided. Mrs. Caesar Misch, formerly President of the Local Section of the Council, and an officer of the National Organization, was the guest speaker.

Mrs. Misch sketched the rise of women's club work, from the citywide organization of women in Philadelphia, inaugurated by a Jewess, Rebecca Graetz. The sections of the Council of Jewish Women, Mrs.
Misch stated, are outgrowths of the general organization of the National Council of Jewish Women, established at the Chicago World's Fair in 1893. In Providence a number of important movements were initiated by the Council in the past, Mrs. Misch said, such as night schools, Americanization classes, and the North End Dispensary, to be later assumed by governmental units or agencies.

At present, Mrs. Misch declared, the Council has again inaugurated a movement, a nursery school, predicting that although begun under private auspices, would some day be taken over by the city schools.

A group of piano selections rendered by Mrs. Harold Libby, were very well received.

The newly elected President, Mrs.
Louis H. Borod; the outgoing President, Mrs. Harold Cohen; Mrs.
Caesar Misch, and Mrs. Harold Libby were presented with corsages of gar-denias.

The business session, commencing at 2:30, featured annual reports, which showed the highly successful activities of the various departments of the Council during the past season.

Tel Aviv last month. Schneider, one of 15 American representatives in the "Jewish Olympics," has returned in advance of the rest of the team.

A total of 12 first places were won by the Americans in the track and field games, Schneider reported, and he modestly admitted that he accounted for four of them. Continuing his training after his graduation from N. Y. U., a year ago in the hope of making the Olympic team in the discus throw, Schneider reached a new peak when he won this specialty in the old world with a throw of 158 feet.
His own Metropolitan A. A. U. record is 148 feet.

Schneider also won the 16-pound shot put with 45 feet 4 inches and the javelin throw with 155 feet. In all three events he beat Dave Adelman, former Georgetown athlete, who took three seconds. Schneider also won the triathlon, putting the shot 45 feet 4 inches, high jumping 5 feet 2 inches and running the 100 meters in 12 seconds which is remarkable time for a 235-pounder. Schneider, a member of the Millrose A. A., came home with renewed hope of representing the United States at Los Angeles in the discus throw. His throw of 158 feet places him among the country's top-notchers.

Gus Heymann, former P. S. A. L. sprinter from Evander Childs High School, won the Maccabee 100-meter title in the splendid time of 10.7 seconds. Arthur Feiden, of New York, won the high jump with a leap of 6 feet. Dave White, former Harvard athlete, won the broad jump with 20 feet 6 inches, and Leslie Flaksman, also a former Harvard runner, won the 1500-meter championship in 4:19.

Harry Werbin, also of the Millrose
A. A., was second in the 500-meter run and third in the 10,000-meter run, Schneider said.

Miss Syd Koff, of New York, equalled Schneider's feat in winning four championships in the women's games at Tel Aviv. She won the 100-meter dash in 13.4 seconds, the high jump, broad jump and triathlon.

The only other news I have been able to gather was that the German team won the relays. By the scarcity of news concerning the biggest event in the history of modern Jewish sport
you would imagine that the whole meet was conducted under the cover of darkness and everyone participating was pledged to keep what transpired a deep, dark and hidden secret.

Jewish Athlete Murdered
Sidney Harris, amateur heavyweight and football player for New York University, was killed in New York last week when he apprehended a burglar in his sister's home. Walking into the bedroom he found a prowler ransacking the room. Harris, a big husky fellow, grappled with him. The bandit was armed and put two bullets into Harris' abdomen. A friend, who was in the apartment, heard the shots, ran into the room and got the gun away from the murderer. Using the pistol as a club he knocked him out and rushed for help, but by the time he returned,
the murderer had regained consciousness and had escaped. He was not caught.
Harris died in the hospital a few hours later.

Although young Harris had attended N. Y. U. for only two years, he was well known on the campus. He played on the Freshman team and the next year was a utility linesman on the Varsity. His best sport was boxing and his failure to return to college for his Junior year was felt keenly.

The comeback attempts of Benny Leonard may not be such artistic successes, but they have proven very satisfactory financially. Benny, so the dope goes, has netted himself $30,-

A Jewish boy from Roumania—Frankie Nour—has come to these shores to make himself a piece of Change in the prize ring. The young man is a fly-weight and his manager, Mr. Tom O'Rourke, says that Frank is the champion fly-weight of Roumania. Such modesty is commendable.
Not knowing the racket and being unaware that fights are arranged through political alliances rather than the will of the parties involved, Frankie is finding the going rather tough. I did not see his opening bout, but from reports I under-

HINTS AND SUGGESTIONS

1. Saturday afternoons and all day Sunday play four-ball matches.
2. Ask the fellow in the next locker or the next aisle to play a game of golf with you.
3. If you only have a three-ball match, inquire in the Pro Shop or Locker Room if there is a single player who wants a game.
4. Don't hit your golf ball till the players ahead are out of range. Some players have the idea they can play when the player ahead has played a second shot, but they can't do that idea. (Players ahead must be out of range).
5. If you are being held up, don't ask the party ahead to permit you to play through unless they have a clear hole ahead. A polite request deserves a right of way. Fore!
6. If you can assist in cutting expenses on the court by replacing divots, smoothing over footprints in traps, marking ball properly on green and not scratching the same, (according to U. S. G. A. Rules, a player

- can not bend, brake or scratch anything growing and this rule is broken

FALL RIVER Y. M. AND Y. W. H. A. NOTES

"Y" PLAYERS TO PRESENT "HIS CHILDREN"

On Saturday evening, May 14, at 8:30 o'clock, the "Y" Players of the Y. M.-Y. W. H. A. will present at the Jewish Community Center, 456 South Main street, Fall River, the one-act play, "His Children," written by Rufus Lears. Dancing will follow.

"His Children" was awarded first prize by the Committee of Judges, Messrs. Gustav Blum, Elias Lieberman and David Pinski, in the Jewish Play Contest, conducted in 1924-1925, by the Jewish Welfare Board, which is the national organization for Y. M. H. A.'s, Y. W. H. A.'s, Jewish Community Centers and kindred associations in the United States and Canada. The first performance of this play was given at the Forty-ninth Street Theatre, New York City, on Sunday evening, Nov. 29th, 1925, by the dramatic group of the Bronx Y. M. H. A., under the direction of William W. Schorr. Since then, it received first prize a number of times in dramatic contests throughout the country.

The local production is under the direction of Louis M. Shanok, Executive Director of the Y. M.-Y. W. H. A., and the cast includes Seymour Filler, Milton Lincoln, Anita Chavenson, Herman Garrick and Morris Lepes. The proceeds of the play and dance will be used for the purchase of a rug and radio for the Center.

Y. M. AND Y. W. TO PRESENT "FRIVOLITIES OF 1932"

With a cast of about two hundred people the Y. M.-Y. W. H. A. will stage its annual revue, "Frivolities of 1932," early in June, under the direction of Mr. Joseph T. Cloutier. Rehearsals are being held daily at the "Y" building at 456 South Main street and a huge extravaganza is being prepared for the glorification of Miss Fall River. There will be a complete show of song and dance hits with skits, comedy and blackouts. Additional talent can still be used in the choruses and leads and all boys and girls desiring to try out will be given an audition at the "Y" Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The next rehearsal for the kiddies will be held on Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The chairman for the revue is Joseph Madowsky and the co-chairman is Miss Ada Epstein. Morris Horvitz, Jr., is rehearsal pianist. Revue committees will be formed at a meeting of the Board of Directors.

stand that the young man is rather handy "with his dukes."

Our Mr. Al Cohen of the Brooklyn Dodgers ran into a lot of bad baseball the other day, accounting for new fewer than three errors, but then it is better to get it out of his system all at one time. His hitting is not so bad.

Make your bets now—America will win the Davis Cup this year; the Yankees will win the American League pennant; Roosevelt will get the Democratic nomination, and Mr. Hoover will be just an ex-President next year this time.
