Tidbits and News of Jewish Personalities

By DAVID SCHWARTZ

The Easy Art of Forgetting

How quickly we forget is evidenced by the death of Cyrus L. Sulzberger. Perhaps with the exception of Louis Marshall, no one man played so decisive a part in the history of his generation—as far as American Jewry is concerned, yet how few at his death knew anything of Mr. Sulzberger except that his son had married the daughter of the publisher of the New York Times.

He was a unique individual—a cosmopolitan and self-thinking type. Thirty and forty years ago, American Jewry was of a different mould than today. There was, for example, a much sharper cleavage between the German and Russian Jews. Sulzberger was one of those rare German Jews who was entirely at home in the Russian-Jewish atmosphere, who had a hunger, indeed, to mix with all types of a vivid nature.

A Light That Failed

Sulzberger was the sort of general all around man of that ill-fated journalistic enterprise, the Yiddische Welt, a daily which proposed to devote itself primarily to the Americanization of the incoming masses of Russian immigrants.

Jews from Russia and Poland were coming in at the rate, for two years at least, of half a million a year. Probably the biggest exodus in history, making the historic exodus of the Jews from Egypt numerically, at least, very small by comparison. Jacob Schiff was the financial angel of the Yiddische Welt. Louis Marshall wrote the editorials and I believe it was Philip Krantz, a philosophical nihilist or anarchist of his day, who translated the editorials from Marshall's English to Yiddish. One of the most bizarre staffs that was ever assembled. Cyrus Sulzberger was the intermediary, who kept all of the various elements from jumping at each other's throats.

The paper succeeded remarkably well—in losing money. Losing it, I am told, at the rate of about $10,000 a week.

At the Century's Dawn

Much more successful was Sulzberger in the project of which he was among the leaders, that of distributing the immigrants, as far as possible, over all America, diverting the immigrant stream to all parts of the country. Today, some 60 per cent. of the Jews of America live outside of New York. How much of that was due to Cyrus Sulzberger can not be known, but you may be sure, it was no small percentage.

Sulzberger and his allies not only carried on a propaganda among the Jews to "Go West," but he even got the steamship companies to go to Galveston instead of New York.

A Modern Exodus

I said, Sulzberger was of a self-thinking type. I can best illustrate that by a story that Jacob de Haas tells me of a visit paid to Sulzberger by a Red Cross solicitor, who, knowing Sulzberger's philanthropies, came to him for a contribution to the Red Cross.

"I wouldn't give a red cent for the Red Cross," replied Sulzberger. "I don't believe in your work. To abolish war, make it more horrible."

Coming from another person, such an answer might have been capable of varied constructions, but coming from Sulzberger, one knew that it came from his deep-seated loathing of war.

ENDOWMENT FUND IS ASKED FOR JEWISH COMMUNITY CENTER

Executive Director Stresses Need for Dependable Income at Annual Meeting of Organization

At the annual meeting of the Jewish Community Center, held Wednesday evening at the Center, Jacob I. Cohen, Executive Director, urged the officers and Board of Directors to encourage special gifts and remembrances in wills to establish an endowment fund to offset possible cuts in operating revenue. President, Isaac Wolf; First Vice President, Samuel Steiner; Second Vice President, Henry Hassenfeld; Treasurer, Abe V. Flink; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Joseph J. On Friday evening, May 20, Temple Beth-El will celebrate the Washington Bicentennial. His Excellency,

Gov. Norman S. Case

Norman S. Case, the Governor of Rhode Island, will extend the greetings of the State. The program will also be featured by a reading of Washington's letter addressed to the Newport Congregation, by the President of Temple Beth-El, Mr. Charles C. Brown. Mr. Walter I. Sundlun will give introductory remarks and Judge Ira Lloyd Letts of the United States District Court, and Rabbi Samuel M. Gup will deliver addresses.

Among the honorary guests who will be present is the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Rhode Island, Charles Stearns. Delegations from the chartered commands of the state will attend in uniform, bearing colors. The officers of the Newport command will attend including the Commander, Adjutant and a detail with their colors. This command is the oldest in the state, having been granted a charter in 1741, and taking part in the Revolutionary War. Commodore Perry, the hero of the Battle of Lake Erie, was a member of this company.

The groups to be represented will include the Kentish Guards of East Greenwich, General Nathaniel Green's Company, the United Train of Artillery, which was the only Rhode Island group that took part in the Battle of Bunker Hill, and the Bristol Train of Artillery. The above mentioned commands will appear in their Colonial uniforms, after the fashion worn in the days of the Revolution. Another group that will be represented is the First Light Infant Commands, of which Colonel Benjamin Levin is the head.

In honor of the occasion, Captain Joseph G. Maier of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, and Major James W. H. Myrick of Boston, both distinguished officers, will be the guests of the congregation. Another guest will be Brigadier General John J. Richards, retired, and the ranking officers of the entire group.

These delegations will enter the Temple as the body-guard of His Excellency, the Governor.

The committee in charge comprises Walter I. Sundlun, chairman; Paul B. Paris, Colonel Benjamin Levin, Jacob Edelstein, Maurice L. Fox, Jean Jacques, Alex Kleinberger, Leo Logan, Isadore S. Low, Harry Rosen, Abraham Kestelman and Rabbi Samuel M. Gup.

World Jewry In Figures

By DR. SAUL LANGNOS

The importance of statistics in dealing with any political, social or economic problem is too obvious to need stressing. All governments maintain statistical departments whose task it is to collect and collate figures concerning every phase of development in the life of the state, and to indicate by their aid the direction in which those developments point. They calculate in that way the rise and fall in trade, the immigration and emigration movements, the rate of births and deaths. At regular periods there is a country-wide census, and this all enables the modern state to tell at any moment the number of its inhabitants, their religion, their occupations, their ages, their standard of life, of education, of health.

The Jewish people, having no state, scattered over almost all the countries of the world, has no official government statistical office, to record the number of Jews in the world, their birth and mortality rates, their standard of life, etc.

If we want to know how many Jews there are we must use the statistical data of all the various states in the five continents, wherever there are Jewish inhabitants, and if we consider that there is hardly a corner of the globe without a Jewish population, and if we consider further that the censuses in the various countries are not taken everywhere in the same year, and that in one country the census figures may be several years later than in another country, we shall realize how extraordinarily difficult it is to obtain really exact statistical data with regard to Jews.

Nevertheless, it is possible on the basis of the latest statistical data with regard to the year 1931 to get a very good idea of some of the vital facts of Jewish life.

What is the total number of Jews now in the world, and in the several countries and cities? What is the proportion of Jews to the total populations?

We shall not be far short of the truth if we say that there are about 15,870,000 Jews in the world. The average annual rate of natural increase among Jews in the last hundred years has been about 120,000, the minimum being 80,000 and the maximum 180,000 a year.

Of this total of 15,870,000 Jews about 9,886,000 (61.98 per cent.) live in Europe; 4,823,000 (30.39 per cent.) in America; 612,000 (3.86 per cent.) in Asia; 572,000 (3.6 per cent.) in Africa, and 27,000 (17 per cent.) in Australia.

If we look into the geographical distribution of world Jewry, we find that the largest and most important place of Jewish settlement is situated in Central Europe, on an area which comprises the states of Poland, Danzig, Lithuania, Latvia, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Roumania, and a part of Soviet Russia (Crimea, Ukraine and White Russia). This area, which we may call the Jewish strip, contains about 7,630,000 Jews. The next most important places of Jewish settlement are in order of importance—North America, with a Jewish population of 4,570,000; Western and South Europe, with 1,675,000; Northern Europe, including the European part of Northern Soviet Russia 533,000; Northern Africa, with 440,000; Palestine and the neighboring countries, 340,000; South America, 257,000; Asia Minor, Central Asia and Northern Asia, with 232,000; South Africa, with 132,000, and Eastern and Southern Asia, with 30,000.

When we examine the way in which Jews are distributed in the various countries, we find that the largest Jewish settlement is in the United States, which has about 4,400,000 Jews—Poland comes second with a Jewish population of over 3,150,000, and Soviet Russia comes third with 2,800,000. (There were 2,672,398 Jews at the last census in 1926, and the Ukraine alone had 1,655,000.)

Roumania has 920,000 Jews; Germany 582,000; Hungary 485,000; Czechoslovakia 400,000; England 300,000; Austria 270,000; France 225,000; Lithuania 170,000, and Holland 160,000. All other European countries have less than 100,000 Jews. Outside Europe, the Argentine has 215,000 Jews; Palestine 175,000; Morocco 130,000; Canada 138,000, and Algiers 105,000.

The smallest number of Jews in European countries are in Sweden with 6000; Denmark with 6500, Estonia with 5000; Spain with 5000; Ireland with 3800; Luxemburg with 1800; Finland with 1800; Norway with 1500; Portugal with 1200; Cyprus with 195; Malta with 35.

Outside Europe, China has 13,000; Afghanistan 5000; Suba 3700; Chile 2200; Japan 1000; Venezuela 882; Paraguay 400; Peru 300; Porto Rica 200; Congo 177; Haiti 150; Hawaii 77; Tanganyika 10.

If we consider not the numbers of the Jewish population, but their proportion among the total population, we shall obtain quite a different picture. We shall find, for instance, that although Europe has the largest number of Jews—exactly double the number in America—the proportion of Jews among the total population is larger in America, with 2.05 per cent., against only 1.92 per cent. in Europe.

In Central Europe, in what we call the Jewish strip, the Jews constitute 6.08 per cent. of the total population, while in Western and Southern Europe they constitute less than .06 per cent., and in Northern Europe only .53 per cent. In other parts of the world the Jews in Africa constitute .79 per cent. of the total population, in Australia .12 per cent., and in Asia less than .06 per cent.

Coming to the particular countries we find that the number of Jews in any country in no way indicates the relative strength of the Jewish population of that country. For instance, the largest proportion of Jews in the whole world is found in Palestine, where there are only 175,000 Jews, who constitute, however, nearly 17 per cent. of the total population of Palestine. There is no other country in the world that comes anywhere near to having such a big proportion of Jewish population. Poland comes second, with more than 10 per cent. of Jews; Lithuania has 7.6 per cent.; Hungary 5.5 per cent.; Roumania 5.05 per cent.; Latvia 4.97 per cent.; Turkey 4.7 per cent., and Greece, 1.17 per cent. In all other countries of Europe the Jews constitute less than 1 per cent. of the total population. In Germany they constitute .9 per cent.; in England .66 per cent.; in France .54 per cent.

Historical reasons adequately explain why the smallest percentage of Jews is found in Spain and in Portugal, with .018 per cent. and .016 per cent., respectively.

When we come to calculate the proportion of Jews to the total populations of the various cities, we discover that here again Palestine holds first place, for one town in Palestine, Tel Aviv, is 100 per cent. Jewish.

Says Jews of the U. S. Gave $100,000,000 to Palestine Last 10 Years

New York, May 13—(JTA)—A total of at least $100,000,000 has been put into Palestine by the Jews of America in the form of investments and contributions in the last ten years, according to Nelson Rutenberg, President of the Jewish National Fund and Deputy Police Commissioner, in an address delivered recently over Station WRNY as part of the celebration of the 10th anniversary of the unanimous passage of both Houses of Congress of the Lodge-Fish Resolution, expressing the American Government's approval of the establishment of the Jewish National Home in Palestine.

REFUTE ALLEGED PRIVILEGES FOR JEWISH WRITERS

Bucharest, May 13—(JTA) — The allegation that the Roumanian government railways grant privileged treatment to Jewish journalists when they grant them free railway tickets, was made in Parliament by the Cuzist Deputy Trifu.

The free distribution of such tickets greatly damages the income of the railways, he stated.

These allegations were rejected by Alexandre Mavrodi, President of the Journalists Union, who stated that no civilized person makes any differentiation between a Jew and a non-Jew. M. Mavrodi also expressed the assurance that the Prime Minister never makes such differentiations.

At this point, Premier Jorga arose and declared: "I never make such differentiations because I see none."

Firestone Pioneers On Important Tire Advances

The Firestone Tire and Rubber Company is credited with having played a major part in speeding the development of automotive transportation by pioneering practically all the important advances in tire construction. Firestone brought out for automobile use the first straight-side tire, the first rubber non-skid tread, the first commercial demountable rim, the first patent Gum-Dipper Process, the first balloon tire, and the first construction giving two extra cord plies under the tread.

Each of these improvements marked a new era in tire building. Together they made possible the safe and economical high speed motoring with its important advances in 1932.

"The safety of millions and millions of car owners is daily entrusted to the rubber tires upon which they ride," according to Mr. Harry R. Rosen of the Franklin Auto Supply Company, Firestone dealers in this city.

"Most people give little thought to the heavy responsibility placed upon their tires, and yet the rubber tires beneath their fleeting motor cars assume the burden of transporting the precious human lives in safety, against all the tremendous stresses and strains of fast travel.

"On May 30 the great International Speedway Indianapolis races will be held," Mr. Rosen said. "Think of the gruelling strain on man and machine in this event. Five hundred miles in the short space of a little over five hours. Approximately one hundred miles per hour average they will travel during the long weary hours of relentless grind around the great oval track. It is a challenge to the character of the tires upon which they tear through space. Last year, as for many years past, all of the winners have come through on Firestones. Not a single life has ever been endangered by the failure of any Firestone tire to perform its heroic task."

Mr. Rosen explained that speeds that were formerly known only on the race tracks are today at the command of the average motorist, and the conquering of the problems of tire construction has made these speeds possible with safety.

"Every time you go out for a ride in your automobile, there are precious human lives depending upon the lasting qualities that are built into your tires," he pointed out. "You may not think about it often, but your lives are in the keeping of the tires upon which you ride."

"It is the realization of this unusual responsibility that has provided the Firestone organization with its great business motive," Mr. Rosen concluded. "Firestone is determined to make tires safe. It is our privilege to send them forth as instruments of service, in which you may have enduring pride and satisfaction."

MOTHERS' DAY OBSERVED

About 500 people taxed the capacity of the gymnasium last Sunday evening to witness the annual observance of Mothers' Day at the Jewish Community Center. For lack of room many were unable to gain entrance.

In an excellent address, Mr. Walter I. Sundlun, a member of the Board of Directors, eulogized the "Mother." The entertainment program was as follows: Selection, by the J. C. C. Concert Orchestra, under direction of Sydney M. Lewis; Children's Dancing Class, direction of Miss Jean Schwartz, with Miss Beatrice Gross as accompanist; saxophone solo, Sylvia Salzman; dramatic recitations, Miss Ida Pollock; chairman's remarks, Miss Claire E. Greenstein; dance and song numbers, Hope B. Marshak; vocal selections, Miss Jessie McRae, accompanist, Miss Saudie Silverman; a playlet, "Mother's Day," children of the Jewish Center Religious School.

Miss Claire E. Greenstein was in charge of arrangements and was assisted by Idah Snell, Evelyn Simon, Belle N. Temkin, Evelyn D. Greenstein and Hannah Scoliard.

CENTER MEN HOLD MEETING

The closing meeting of the Jewish Center Men's Association attracted a large group of men and women last Monday evening.

The high lights of the program were numbers presented by the Kodimoh Club, Young Olympics, Schwartz Sisters and the J. C. C. Orchestra. Professional talent included L. Libby, "one man" vaudeville show, and Lewis and LaPlante, dancers.

The Men's Glee Club, under the direction of Prof. Arthur Einstein, made its first appearance and scored an instantaneous success.

COMPETITIVE EXAMINATIONS HELD

Among the many trophies to be awarded at Koved Night exercises next Monday evening will be the Herman S. Galkin Trophy and the Charles Silverman Trophy to the outstanding member in the Junior and Intermediate divisions.

In order to enable the Executive Director to determine the winner, competitive examinations of the clubs were held last Tuesday evening.

INTER-RELIGIOUS UNDERSTANDING

On one of his visits to Providence, a few years ago, Carl Sandburg, the well-known Chicago poet, read to a group at Moses Brown a story from his book, "Potato Face." It was a simple tale, recounting how a black bug with round white spots met a white bug with square black spots, both of them immediately taking a dislike to one another because of the difference, and determined to fight one another because of the dislike. The end of the tale, however, reveals that after a little conversation the two bugs discovered that they had many common interests, and that despite the obvious differences, they were very much alike, and they parted good friends.

Inter-religious feeling during the last few centuries has been based on the first incident of the story only. Groups with but obvious differences have been observing other groups, and they have been criticizing and hating those other groups for no more logical reasons that can be accounted for by prejudice. In the Middle Ages we find the Jews despised by the Christians because they were different in their religious beliefs. All through the course of English history, we find the Catholics hating the Protestants, and the members of the Church of England condemning the Dissenters. All these people were essentially alike; they had the common human emotions, joys and sorrows of human beings, but all they could see were the square spots or the round spots, and for this stupid blindness there was rapine and murder and outrage.

Today, we are beginning to realize how foolish and how ignorant were our ancestors. They thought there was little good except in those who were like themselves. The Gentile saw no good in the Jew, and the Jew saw no good in him; the Catholic thought he was the anointed of God, and he saw no salvation for the Protestant. Much of this prejudice has carried over, however. There are still members of all groups, Protestant, Catholic and Jewish, who retain the antiquated ideas and hates of their fathers. They are still able to see only the square spots and the round spots.

The seminar in Providence of last week is the beginning here of the latter part of Carl Sandburg's story. The end in view may some day be attained. The sympathy and friendliness of different groups can certainly come by no other magic than that of understanding. When rabbis and ministers and priests meet to explain their faiths to one another, in the hope that they may foster a spirit of friendship and understanding among their various congregations, they realize the truth of the slang expression that "people are always down on the things that they are not up on." Let us hope that gradually the hypocrisy of religious charlatans may be wiped out, and that religious leaders will everywhere be sincere in their attempts to create true sympathy by establishing a true understanding of other religious groups.

Samuel Magid Announces Appointment of Home for Aged Superintendent

Samuel M. Magid, President of the New Jewish Home for the Aged, has announced the election of M. P. Ostrow as Superintendent of the New Home.

Mr. Ostrow comes to Providence from Philadelphia, where he was Superintendent of the Foster Home for Hebrew Orphans. Prior to that office, Mr. Ostrow had been the Executive Director of the Eureka Society of San Francisco, one of the oldest philanthropic social service departments. He has been actively engaged in social service work since 1905.

Mr. Ostrow received his training at the Intermunicipal Research Committee, in New York. He handled a number of investigations dealing with emigrants. In 1900, he proceeded to Galveston in connection with the Industrial Removal Office and remained there until he left for Houston, Texas, to organize the Federation of Jewish Charities. In 1916, he was appointed by the Jewish Welfare Board to take charge of war activities on the Pacific coast.

The new Superintendent has assumed charge of the new building of the Jewish Home for the Aged on Hillside avenue, and is making final preparations for the occupancy of the building by the members now residing on Orms street.

The women of the Jewish Home for the Aged Association have been active in the past with financial assistance and have been the sole support of the Home. This organization has again pledged its entire interest in the New Home and also the substantial aid which they have been giving towards this worthy cause.

In order, however, to supplement the increased budget of the Home, a committee of one hundred men has been organized to solicit members for the association in order to raise the additional necessary funds for the maintenance of the new Institution.

Nominated For Office

I don't know why Sulzberger never reduced his kaleidoscopic experiences to the form of an autobiography. It would have made a marvelously interesting work, ranging from the utmost of pathos to pungent humor. What more interesting and more racy chapter could there have been than that of Sulzberger's nomination for Borough President of Manhattan. The story of it could well have been made the theme of a Broadway stage hit.

Sulzberger was nominated by the Good Government ticket, a fusion of varied forces to defeat Tammany at the time.

How They Beat Sulzberger

Tammany recognized that it would be a hard matter to defeat Sulzberger. What they finally resorted to reminds one of the recent instance in Nebraska to defeat Senator Norris by putting up as a competitor on the ticket, another unknown Norris, a little small town grocer.

The comparison is not of the best, but in the case of Sulzberger, Tammany did something even more ridiculous, and yet it worked. At that time, the meat packing firm of Sulzberger and Schwartzchild was very much in the public eye in an unfavorable way. It was, you remember, the days when Upton Sinclair was to leap to fame by an expose of the various meat packers.

Well, the meat packing firm of Sulzberger and Schwartzchild at the time was having plenty of troubles, as far as public opinion was concerned and even more so among the Jewish meat consumers. There were frequently strikes—boycotts against exorbitant prices, and the like.

Tammany Won

Although Cyrus Sulzberger was not even remotely related to the Sulzberger of the meat packing firm, the attempt was made to identify him as the meat packer. And it succeeded notably.

After the election, at a dinner given Sulzberger, Mr. Sulzberger remarked smilingly, "Well, one thing I have done, even if I have not been elected, and that was, I've proven that I am not the meat man."

Jewish Council Women Art Dept. Will Award Prizes at Jewish Center

The Art Department of the Providence Section, National Council of Jewish Women, announces that the Annual Award Night of the Jewish Community Center will take place Monday evening, May 16th, at eight o'clock. Charles T. Worrell of the Worrell Studios Now at 112 Point St.

Mr. Charles T. Worrell, long associated with prominent interior decorators in this city and formerly with John Wanamaker & Son in New York City, has now located at 112 Point street as senior partner of the Worrell Studios. He is assisted by his son, Frederick T. Worrell in the development of a decorative service that is unique and practical for the home owner. Their services are supported by an up-to-date workshop with modern equipment for doing high-class work at a nominal price. Home owners desiring anything in the line of furnishings, alterations, painting or wall paper, and consulting this firm will find that every effort is made to satisfy as to quality and price. Folks that are moving will find that a decorator can often revamp their used glass curtains, draperies and portieres to fit new conditions, thus saving the cost of new fabrics. Another thought is the protection of the furniture of the summer traveler. Fine assortments of new and reasonable slip cover materials are being shown this year and as labor costs have been reduced, it is a good time for the home owner or tenant to take advantage of these conditions. Another feature of this firm is the refinishing or renovation of bed room, dining and living room furniture, etc.,—new and beautiful effects being obtained in enamels and lacquers. The summer months, when these are not in use, is the time to have this work done, giving the new finishes plenty of time to set properly before being used. The telephone number is Gaspee 6415 and a call will bring prompt service.

The I. C. T. Co., Inc., who operate bus lines to Fall River, New Bedford and Hartford, is under the personal direction of Mr. Hyman Schoenberg, one of the pioneer bus operators of Rhode Island. Mr. Schoenberg was the first to personally drive busses on the Providence to Pawtucket line in 1915 and operated the first 24-passenger bus on the New Bedford line in 1924. Mr. Schoenberg now directs the operation of 22 seven-passenger Pierce-Arrow sedans on his Fall River, New Bedford and Hartford lines. These seven-passenger cars are operated by careful and courteous operators, who pay particular attention to children and elderly people and to those who are not able to read and speak English. The I. C. T. Co. buses leave from their own terminal in Providence at 1 Fountain street, corner of West Exchange street, opposite the big bus terminal. The Fall River buses leave on a 15-minute schedule beginning at 6:15 a. m. and until 6:15 p. m. After that time they operate on a 30-minute schedule until 11:45. The New Bedford buses leave every hour on the hour, while the Hartford buses make three trips a day for the Connecticut city at 9 a. m., 12:30 p. m. and 5 p. m. The fare to Hartford is $2.50 and $4.00 for a round trip; running time is two hours and 20 minutes. Mr. Schoenberg has always made it a policy to afford transportation at one-half fare to members of the Rabbinates.

SPORTING WORLD

NEWS WRITTEN FOR THE JEWISH HERALD by GEORGE JOEL

Jewish Woman Wins Golf Trophy
By winning the Mortimer M. Singer Trophy at Atlantic City, Mrs. Leo Federman of Glen Oaks committed an act of poetic justice. The trophy, put into competition by a prominent Jewish sportsman, was the object for the golf of some sixty women who participated. Mrs. Federman, who captured the initial tourney of the new Women's Metropolitan Golf Association, carded a 261 to register the low gross score for the 54 holes. The matches were held on the links of the Seaview Golf Club and attracted a large field of Jewish players. Catherine Singer, Beatrice Gottlieb and Marion French were some of the ladies of our faith who stepped and pumped the little white ball around.

I don't like to get editorial at this point, but you can't deny that our ladies are flocking to the links in ever increasing numbers and before long one of the spirited damsels will break through and lead a field home in a major tournament.

Baroness Levi Reaches Finals of Tennis Tourney
This sounds almost like a woman's page, but I can't let the news of Baroness Levi's tennis pass unnoticed. The American-born girl, one of the ranking players of the country, went through the current Westchester championships at Briarcliff Manor like a bottle of whiskey in the Keeley Institute. As we satisfy the clamorings of the impatient linotyper, she has reached the final rounds in the singles and parried with Mrs. Philip B. Hawk in the semi-finals of the doubles.

It is very nice to learn that a Jewish lady is active on the court, but Baroness Levi is no newcomer to the game. Her ability is pretty well known and she is not a true top ranking player. If there is any outstanding Jewish female net star, she has yet to make her appearance in the public prints.

Benny Leonard Wins Again
The 37-year-old Benny Leonard continued his upward comeback climb the other night at the expense of Eddie (Cannonball) Garfalo. The bout took place in New York City and was scheduled to go ten rounds, but in the fourth, Benny knocked out his opponent. The opening rounds of the bout were listlessly fought and Cannonball looked more like an exploded buckshot, but after Benny found his range, the action quickened and Leonard soon had Cannonball looking for a gun to dive into.

The crowd spent most of its energy egging the boys on and making raucous remarks about Benny's ability, but after the K. O. they sang a different tune and applauded with gusto.
That fight with McLarnin or Pettrole that Leonard is angling for will take place—well, your guess is as good as mine.

Chatterings at Great Length
Of course I know where Moe Berg is. The former catcher on the Chicago White Sox is doing the same for the Washington Senators. Mr. E. A. Mann was one of the four gentlemen who told me about Berg's change. Incidentally the Jewish catcher is playing regularly.

In re Jewish ball players—Ike Goldstein is still travelling with the Detroit Tigers. I don't think he will survive the June cut, but for the present he is getting more valuable experience. . . . Al Cohen of the Brooklyn Dodgers has been pulled out of the lineup, but Rosenfeld of Alabama is back in the garden for the bewildered club. And don't fail to follow Ring Lardner's baseball stories in the Saturday Evening Post. His cruel, bitter merciless stories of the young rookie ball player are worth all the outbursts of the ex-patriates of the Left Bank. . . . T. R. Jarvis asked me to name an All-Time All-Jewish baseball team. Imagine my embarrassment when I found that that there had been no big Jewish first or third sackers. I know Solomon and Jacobson were first basemen for the Giants, but neither player made the grade. Of course the second baseman would have to be Andy Cohen and the shortstop Jonah Goldman. The catcher would be Moe Berg and the outfielders Al Cohen, Jacobson and (fill in your own), the pitcher—the old time Kramer.

Thirty ladies and gentlemen of the stage formed a chapter of the Maccabees in New York the other night. It will be called Alamac Chapter and will have its headquarters at Lake Hopatcong.

Mrs. John Hertz, wife of the Chicago taxi magnate and horseman, is writing a series of articles on horse-racing.

Bill Barron, once Junior Massachusetts tennis champ, has moved to New York and affiliated himself with a local club. Until he takes off 20 pounds he refuses to divulge the name of the outfit.

A Jewish girl is rowing on the Wellesley College Sophomore crew. Her name is Miss Bergman.

Providence Fraternal Association Observes Mothers' Night

An elaborate program was given after a regular meeting of the Providence Fraternal Association, Tuesday evening, in observance of the annual Mothers' Night.

Alfred Finklestein, chairman, took charge of the entertainment, which was as follows:
Vocal selections, by George Weissman and Miss Sylvia Kaufman, WEAN radio star, both being accompanied by Miss Eva Tannenbaum; piano solos, by Miss Evelyn Isserlis, and an address by Chaplain Max Levin on "Mother."

The feature of the evening was a sketch portraying "Mother" with Mrs. T. Rosenblatt and Cantor Harry Bettman of Temple Emanu-El taking the leading parts. This act was presented in song with Miss Bettman at the piano and John Meyers playing the violin. Cantor Bettman also rendered several Jewish Folk Songs.
Flowers were distributed to all and refreshments were served followed by a social hour.

The committee, which assisted Mr. Finklestein consisted of Louis Reuter, Louis Nochemson, Louis Yuloff, Charles Sentler, Harry Levine, Charles Dickens, Irving Epstein, Mrs. T. Rosenblatt, Mrs. D. Mayberg, Mrs. L. Blumenthal, Mrs. N. Ostrow and the officers of the lodge.

Providence Chapter of Hebrew University Friends Is Formed

Rabbi Goldman was instrumental in forming a Providence Chapter of the American Friends of the Hebrew University, which this week has sent out an invitation to about one hundred people, inviting them to join.

Joseph Smith, Rabbi Israel M. Goldman, Rabbi Samuel M. Gup and Rabbi Maurice M. Mazure. Dr. S. N. Pennine, President of the New England College of Podiatry, was the speaker of the evening. Other speakers were Clinton T. Brady, Past Alpha; Maurice J. Mellion, Past Solon, and Myron Keller, Clinton T. Brady was appointed Solon for the year 1932-1933.

The committee of arrangements comprised Louis Goldberg, Benjamin Rocchio and Clinton Brady.

THREE JEWS ARRESTED; FACE DEPORTATION FROM CUBA

Havana, May 13 — (JTA) — Three Jews, Josef Fine, Chaim Bialy and Jacob Abruch, were arrested by the Secret Police recently, in connection with the first of May demonstrations, it is believed.

Fine was recently arrested as the general secretary of the Cultural Union, which was closed down on the assumption that it was a Communist nest, but later re-opened.

According to the Secret Police, the three Jews will be deported from Cuba. Their case is already in the hands of the Minister of Interior.

Ruby Goldstein, the fighter around town looking for bouts. With things the way they are, fighters don't have to worry about keeping the beef down. Most of them are not eating regularly and by letting nature take her own sweet course, find they can eliminate the heavy training.

THE KORB BAKING COMPANY

WISHES TO STATE THE FOLLOWING FACTS IN REGARD TO RUMORS BEING CIRCULATED CONCERNING THE SO-CALLED LABOR TROUBLES WITH OUR UNION BAKERS:

On May 1, 1931, I, Philip Korb, of the Korb Baking Company, entered into an agreement on behalf of my company with Local No. 122, of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union of America, with the following wage scale, which was to be in effect until May 1, 1932:

FOREMAN	$55.00 per week
SECOND MAN	$50.00 per week
BENCH WORK	$9.00 per day
FOREMAN	$10.00 per day

Besides the above wage scale, the Bakers in my employ were to be furnished, gratuitously, with all bread that they might require for their families. To some of the more skillful bakers, I voluntarily added ($5.00) five dollars more per week than the agreed scale.

On April 29, 1932, I was requested to appear at a meeting of the union held at 128 North Main Street, Providence, and here I was presented with a copy of a new agreement drawn up by the union and which was to go into effect on May 1, 1932. This agreement contained the same wage scale as the previous one but specified that our company was to release from our employ two (2) ordinary bakery helpers and in their places we were to engage regular union bakers at the union scale of wages. One of these helpers has been in our employ for 13 years and the other 6 years. The union scale is twice the amount of wages paid helpers.

Because of the present economic conditions, I informed the union at this meeting that I could not agree to this additional demand of replacing my ordinary helpers with union bakers. They informed me they would give this matter further consideration and inform me of their decision in one hour. I returned to the meeting room in the hour and was told that I must meet this additional demand. I pleaded with them to reconsider and to leave the final decision to three disinterested men of their choice and selection. This request they also refused to consider. I then left the meeting room.

At 4 o'clock P. M. of that day, April 29, 1932, the regular hour for them to begin their work, and without any notice, they did not appear, contradicting the terms of their agreement, which was to continue until May 1, 1932. The public can somewhat appreciate my predicament at this state of affairs and our inability to prepare our products for our regular trade. After great effort and much expense, we finally secured enough outside help to somewhat straighten our affairs.

THE KORB BAKING CO. IS DESIROUS THAT THE PUBLIC KNOW THAT THESE MEN LEFT OUR EMPLOY AT THEIR OWN VOLITION AND NOT AT OUR SUGGESTION, NOR WERE THEY OFFERED A REDUCTION IN WAGES.

We should like to bring to the attention of the public, the wage agreement. It can be seen that Jewish bakers in the employ of the Korb Baking Company have been paid more than bakers employed elsewhere, selling and making the same line of bakery products, in some cases more than 50%.

The Korb Baking Company believes that it has a distinct responsibility to the Jewish people and to the public and wishes to bring out the above true facts, thus dispelling any untrue or false rumors that might have been circulated.

(Signed) KORB BAKING COMPANY,

PHILIP KORB, President.
