Purim Masquerade Tuesday

FREE LOAN ASSOCIATION TO CELEBRATE 30th ANNIVERSARY

LOUIS DIWINSKY

SAMUEL NEWMAN

The convention committee of the South Providence Hebrew Free Loan Association met last Monday evening, at its quarters on Prairie Avenue and voted to hold a banquet Sunday, March 24, at 133 Mathewson Street. The affair is to be in the form of a jubilee commemorating the 30th year of the founding of the Association. Present members of the board of directors, as well as all living members of the first board will be guests of honor.

At the banquet a summary of the activities of the association will be given by the secretaries, Samuel Newman, financial and Hon. Elisha Scoliard, recording.

Officers and members of the board of directors of the Association are as follows: Louis Diwinsky, president; Benj. Reitman, vice president; Samuel Newman, financial secretary; Hon. Elisha Scoliard, recording secretary, and Abraham Zeller-meyer, treasurer; Simon Silverman, Louis Shanbrun, J. Rosenberg, Samuel Wintman, Samuel Adler, Frank Scoliard, Edmund Wexler, Sam Kaufman, Louis Hayman, Harry Leach, Harry Tanenbaum, Jacob Hazman, Joe Sharp, Joe Heller, Jacob S. Rabinowitz, Nathan Wasserman, Chas. Brotman, S. Altman, Chas. Bresler and Mr. Klein.

Leaders Agree on Continuing Boycott

Declaring that "the American boycott of German merchandise should, without any question, be relentlessly continued," Louis H. Zarchen, prominent in Pawtucket communal affairs, and Mrs. Max A. Cohen, president of the R. I. League of Jewish Women both agreed that the Nazi allegations to give commercial rights to Jews were mere publicity camouflage.

Zarchen's Statement

"While I am not an authority on the particular subject involved, I appreciate stating my humble opinion with the idea in mind, that some of your readers, who, possibly are well informed on this as well as other problems affecting our race, may in the future, voice their opinions thru your columns to the extent that it will inspire as many of our race as possible with the realization that a united front is most essential for our people of today.

The American boycott of German merchandise should, without any question, be relentlessly continued, as it is possibly the only means whereby we may eventually relieve the plight of those of our people who still remain in Germany.

Too many evidences still exist and present themselves, from day to day, to allow us to think for a moment, that the condition of the Jews in Germany is being at all alleviated.

Civilization will not stand for the barbaric atrocities, perpetrated by the Hitler regime, and, if this boycott will serve as a means to an end of this type of leadership, it will indeed be a benefit to all mankind.

With the support that is so voluntarily given to us by the various groups throughout Europe and

Future of Palestine Bright, Says Judge Lewis in Speech Here

JUDGE WILLIAM M. LEWIS

The recent loan of $2,500,000 by Lloyd's and two other English banks is an indication that others than Jews have faith in the movement to build up Palestine as a homeland for the race, Judge William M. Lewis, of Philadelphia, said last Saturday night at the monthly "Mlave Malka" of the Providence Zionist District.

The English banks loaned the half million pounds unguaranteed for 15 years at only 4 percent, and that is of some significance when it is taken into account that Italy pays 6 percent, Austria 8 1/2 percent, and Po-

Select Providence Girl to Compete in Jewish Olympics April 2-9

Miss Doris Kelman of 100 Whitmarsh Street, and well-known swimmer of New England, is being sponsored by the R. I. League of Jewish Women to compete in the second Maccabian Olympics to be held in Palestine, April 2-9. In order to insure her passage to Palestine and to join the team that leaves the United States tomorrow on the S. S. Comte di Savoia, the Women's League, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Edward M. Finberg, is now attempting to raise the necessary funds from its member organizations in New England. A farewell party was given to Miss Kelman by Miss Phyllis Finberg and friends last Monday night.

Miss Kelman became eligible for competition when she won first place in the 200-metre breast stroke at the final try-outs for the World Jewish Olympiad, held at the Women's Swimming Association of New York on Feb. 17. Due to a lack of funds, Mr. White, executive director of the United States Maccabi Association notified Miss Kelman that if a fund could be raised, she would be qualified to join the American Jewish Olympic team.

As the only representative from New England to participate in the swimming trials for the meet in Palestine, Miss Kelman has become well-known as a first-placer in various A. A. U. meets and as representative of the Olneyville Boys' Club.

Objection to Berlin

In view of the fact that the World Olympics are being held in Berlin in 1936, and that there has been a great deal of discrimination against Jewish athletes, many of the competitors have signified their desire to participate in the Maccabi events. An international event, the Jewish Olympics began in 1932 and will be staged every three years.

Response Good

As this edition goes to press, Mrs. Finberg reports that despite the proximity of the final date (March 10), there is a strong possibility that the necessary amount will be raised.

Rabbi Israel Goldman of Temple Emanu-El has already signified his approval of the project and such organizations as the Youth Forum League, Senior Hadassah and the Women's Pioneer Club are aiding the project. Mr. Strong of the Masada Student League has offered his aid in raising the funds. Other organizations are urged to cooperate.

Mrs. Finberg, formerly president of the R. I. League of Jewish Women, declared in a statement to the Jewish Herald, that "in view of the championship qualities of the contestant, Miss Kelman, and her being the only possible representative in New England, it would be a fine thing for all organizations and their members to aid in raising the necessary money and at the same time help make the Jewish Olympics an outstanding international event."

the power of taxation, he pointed out.

The answer, said Judge Lewis, is the knowledge of the English bankers that a million Jews in America are behind the movement to make of Palestine a place of refuge and a home for the race. The British Government knows this, too, he said, and in consequence the doors of Palestine "will be opened wider to Jewish immigration."

President Joseph Smith presented Judge Lewis. Cantor Harry Sender of St. Louis, sang solos, with Arthur Einstein as accompanist. The dinner meeting was arranged by a committee comprising Robert Berstein, chairman; Mrs. Ilie Berger, Jacob S. Rabinowitz, Charles L. Silverman,

Capacity Crowd Expected to Attend Queen Esther Purim Masquerade Tuesday at Elks' Auditorium

The stage is all set for the most unique and elaborate Purim affair ever staged in Providence, the fourth annual Queen Esther Purim Masquerade, scheduled for next Tuesday evening at the Elks' Auditorium, sponsored by the Jewish Center Council and its affiliated groups.

Advance reports indicate that a large gathering will be present from all points of Rhode Island and from nearby Massachusetts cities to witness the climax of the evening, the coronation of Queen Esther. It is expected that a larger number than ever will compete this year for the prizes offered for the most original, humorous, grotesque and Jewish masques.

The evening's activities will begin with dancing at 8 o'clock. Every person entering the hall will be given a ballot which will bear the names of 16 young women who have entered the Queen Esther contest, one vote being allowed to each person entering. The young woman receiving the most votes will be declared Queen Esther of the evening and five young ladies receiving the next highest votes will be named her court attendants. Balloting will be open from 8 until 10.30 o'clock, after which counting of the ballots will begin. About 11.30, the election results will be announced and the coronation will take place.

Queen Esther will be ushered into the assembly followed by her court attendants who will be inducted with proper ceremonies and awarded prizes of free vacations in well known summer resorts. Following the coronation ceremonies, all those who are in costume will follow the Queen and her court attendants in a grand march which will be supervised by Dr. A. Budner Lewis and Nat Roy. Prominent guests will be selected as judges for the best costumes and will announce their decision immediately after the grand march. A free week's vacation is being offered for the best costume.

Joe Riseman and his ten entertainers, well-known throughout New England, are coming from Boston to provide the music for the dancing until one o'clock.

There are 16 contestants for the Queen Esther contest, including: Irene Cohen, Gertrude Finklestein, Rebecca Goldstein, Josephine Horowitz, Rose Klein, Evelyn Kotlen, Jean Rosen, Edith Rotenberg, Selma Schwartz, Ethel Shukovsky, Esther Travis, Thelma Strelow and Lilyan Zeidel, all of Providence; Sylvia Friedman and Sophie Jenkin, both of Pawtucket and Lillian Tauber of Fall River.

The committee on arrangements comprises: Miss Freda Simon chairman, Archie Smith, co-chairman, assisted by Ethel A. Levene and Mrs. Nat Roy, tickets; Queen entries, Dr. Myron Keller and Edgar Dressler; Queen Coronation, Mrs. Samuel Starr and Frank W. Barad; masquerade, Nat Roy and Dr. A. B. ## Noted Opera Stars Will Perform Here

Claudio Frigerio, noted baritone of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company of New York, will sing the principal role in "Rigoletto" to be given at the Metropolitan Theatre by the New England Grand Opera Company, Sunday night, March 24. He will be supported by Giuseppe Barsetti, tenor of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, as the "Duke of Mantua," Guido Guidi, as "Sparafucile," and Dorothy Chapman, who has been heard on the Chase & Sanborn condensed opera programs over a national hook-up on Sunday nights as "Gilda."

Maestro Danilo Sciotti, who will direct the opera, hopes through this performance, to re-establish the confidence of the local public in grand opera. In order to insure a high artistic standard for his newly formed company, he says, he has recruited the best cast available and all the principals are singers who rate among the foremost interpreters of the parts they have been chosen to sing. The chorus will be made up of local singers, and he has been drilling it for several weeks, as he has been doing with the orchestra which also consists of local talent.

"Dreams Walk" Behind Scenes as Young Reporter Interviews Noted Celebrities Performing Here

By MILTON DUBINSKY

The Ziegfeld Follies came to town last Monday with all its proverbial glorification, glamour and beauty, and with its stars of stars, Fannie Brice and Willie and Eugene Howard. It was a distinct treat to interview these luminaries.

As I was ushered into the Howard boys' dressing room, the Howard boys, themselves, Willie and Eugene, had just dashed off-stage and were busying themselves with costumes and grease paint. I whipped out my little pencil, and proceeded. Eugene was the more loquacious of the two, but Willie managed to slip in a "wisecrack" or two. Yes, the Howard boys are veteran showmen, having started on their careers exactly 30 years ago. They revealed that their father was a cantor and a strict observer of orthodox Judaism.

A New Angle

"Are you both married?" I queried. "Yes," Eugene replied, "I've been wed 13 years and Willie seven, but neither of us has any children." "Why not?" I parried. "Too many one-night stands," ad libbed Willie.

As the conversation continued, I learned that the boys got their "break" when J. J. Shubert placed them in his first "Passing Show of 1914." In this production they registered their initial big hit, and soon producers were angling for their services. But Willie and Eugene are not the kind to forget the one who gave them their real start, so they continued for 10 consecutive years with Shubert. In 1926, George White spotted them and put them into his "Scandals" where they continued to "scandalize" until 1932. Then Billie Burke called them to star in the new Ziegfeld Follies, which engagement they will complete tomorrow (Saturday) in New Haven.

Jewish Follies Dollies
Stage calls interrupted at this point, so I left Willie and Eugene and went in search of Fannie Brice. Miss Brice, however, was on-stage so I planted myself outside her dressing room to wait for the celebrity. Not that I didn't enjoy the wait, — surrounded by the most beautiful girls in the world! And just to prove to you that "our" girls are among the world's best-lookers, there are 20 Jewish girls in the show. Not bad, eh?

Amateurs take note! Miss Brice confessed to this interviewer that her start in the show world was an inauspicious one in an amateur show produced in New York. Then, after a number of years on the vaudeville circuits, the late Flo Ziegfeld starred her. Miss Brice remained with Ziegfeld for 15 years and speaks of him with the greatest admiration and respect.

To Appear in Talkie

After the show closes tomorrow, she returns to New York and her husband, Billie Rose, former owner of the Casino de Paree. Then off to Hollywood to commence work on "The Great Ziegfeld," forthcoming talkie which will mirror the life of the great showman. But at this point, Miss Brice was called on-stage, so we parted with a handshake.

Once more I wandered among the beauties, pausing to pinch myself at intervals that I might reassure my eyes that these were not mere "dreams walking."

MISS KELMAN GOES TO THE JEWISH OLYMPICS

And now comes the entrance of Jewish women into the field of athletics, completely refuting slander that has called the Jews physical weaklings and cowards. We have had Jewish prize-fighters, wrestlers and football stars, but, proverbially, Jewish women have been thought of as rolly-polly matrons, given primarily to such sports as luncheons and bridge-playing. But right in our own city of Providence lives one 19-year-old miss, Doris Kelman, who sails tomorrow from New York to compete in the World Jewish Olympic games.

The Rhode Island Jewish League of Women's Organizations, in sponsoring the sending of Miss Kelman, expert swimmer, to Palestine, accomplished a splendid piece of work under Mrs. Edward M. Finberg's chairmanship, since they secured a goodly number of Jewish clubs in New England to lend their financial assistance to the enterprise.

Miss Kelman expects to return to Providence the first week in May. We sincerely trust she will bring back with her one of the medals for swimming prowess, medals which we understand are hand-made in Palestine. How proud we shall then be of her achievement! Even now, we are greatly pleased that she was chosen in the final try-outs in New York to make the trip to Palestine, and we feel that the Rhode Island League of Jewish Women's organizations did well to undertake the campaign which made possible her journey to the Holy Land.

RABBI GOLDMAN IN FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH PULPIT

A Rabbi was in the pulpit of the First Baptist Church of Providence, to preach the sermon at the religious service last Sunday morning! A Jew bringing the message of the hour to the Christian congregation of the historic Mother Church of American Baptists, founded by Roger Williams! Christian ministers preaching in the historic synagogues of the Jew!

Such events are becoming the order of the day. A great change, truly, and one in the direction of tolerance and good will. Religious organizations, once considered the most prejudiced and unchanging of all human institutions, have moved to the forefront of those bearing the banner of progress. This significant change seems to be the outgrowth of the Good-Will Movement now existing among Protestants, Jews and Catholics — an outgrowth in Rhode Island of the Human Relations Seminars which have been held in this community during the past several years. Perhaps human nature does not change, but prejudice at any rate is changing its field of operations. Bigotry has shifted its banners to the economic and political arena.

Rabbi Israel M. Goldman of Temple Emanu-El, in a sermon which should prove historic, preached the call of God from the Psalms: "He brought me forth into a large place," — last Sunday morning at the First Baptist Church in Providence. Religion has ever brought man into a large place. It is bigotry, restricted and narrow in the lives of human beings, that has brought man into straits.

WHAT TO DO? WHERE TO GO?

If you're asking yourself these questions regarding the making of a loan for some pressing need — we believe we have the right borrowing plan for you — one that has served thousands and thousands of men and women in just such circumstances as yours — with just about the same kind of problems.

"Morris Plan" loans are easily available to honest, reliable folks.

THE MORRIS PLAN
COMPANY OF RHODE ISLAND

25 Canal Street, Providence

Progress and advancement in human character is desired. It is only universal religion that can bring this development, it seems, for all material progress has resulted in ruin and wreckage, owing to the selfishness, greed, and bigotry of man. And so Rabbi Goldman told the Congregation of the First Baptist Church last Sunday morning that "God is calling us into a larger place," when a Jewish Rabbi may stand in that pulpit to bring a message of brotherhood and religious fraternity.

PURIM CELEBRATIONS ABOUND

Masque parties, such as the Jewish Community Center's fourth annual Queen Esther Purim Masquerade at the Elks' Auditorium next Tuesday night when the biblical story will be enacted; program to be given by the Center children Sunday afternoon, followed by a program for the parents in the evening; costume celebrations with joyous and festive games by children of Temples Beth El and Beth Israel; a Purim carnival with lots cast for Shaloch Monos in Temple Emanu-El Religious School next Sunday afternoon, with reading of the Megillah on Monday night by George Pullman to children of the religious school; a Purim play written by members of the teaching staff and presented by children of Ahavath Sholom Talmud Torah at the Synagogue this Sunday; Sons of Jacob Synagogue also observing the holiday; two affairs to be held by the residents of the Jewish Home for the Aged, one on Tuesday, and the other on March 24; as well as other celebrations of social or organizations and religious bodies — all these have been announced in almost every other column of the Jewish Herald as the Purim season once again approaches.

Spring is almost here, but these joyful preparations are not for the arrival of Spring. They are in joyous celebration of the tremendous deliverance of Jewry some two thousand years ago. The Persian Empire, once embracing all the civilized world, and with it all the Jews, had decreed the extermination of the Jew, root and branch. Ten thousand talents of silver were to be paid into the royal treasury for the consummation of this extermination.

Haman, a general raised out of his class to the position of prime minister, with characteristic violence based upon ignorance and personal pique, had devised the plan to blot out the Jews. Distrust, misunderstanding and subversive accusations against the Jews had been launched by Haman, and the Persian Emperor Ahasuerus, had been deceived into authorization of their destruction.

But fate decreed otherwise. No Jew today requires a repetition of the story here. The account of the deliverance is read in all Jewish houses of worship at this season as part of the celebration. Every child is instructed in the famous events of that far-off region in the fourth century before the Christian era. A Jewess, Esther, took her life in her hands to deliver her people. The story is dramatized and enacted in every community where Jews are found.

Small wonder then that we Jews rejoice at this time. Not in the overthrow of the malefactor, Haman, but in our own deliverance. A whole people condemned to death because of the personal prejudice engendered against one Jew, Mordecai, by the mind of an ignorant army officer, formed the basis of this ancient menace. Since that day to the present Hitler in Germany, Jewry has suffered through ignorance, misunderstanding, and prejudice of various men risen to power.

But Judaism has not been destroyed, and it is to be hoped that the Jewish people will be spared the necessity of once again fighting to save themselves from destruction, as in that distant day, for their ideals and religion have been the salvation of mankind.

WOONSOCKET NEWS

By ZELMOR LEVIN
One of the most pretentious socials ever conducted within the portals of the B'nai Israel Synagogue will be held on March 24 under the auspices of the Woonsocket chapter, Order of B'nai Brith, when the local organization conducts a bazaar for the benefit of the Woonsocket Hebrew School.

Setting a goal of $1,000, the chapter is going over every detail in order that nothing will be overlooked which could possibly prevent the affair from being a 100 per cent success. Joseph Kilberg is chairman of the committee in charge, with the secretarial and financial details in the capable hands of Benjamin Macktaz.

Features during the evening will be the distribution of numerous attendance prizes, which include $50 in cash, and also dancing without charge to music furnished by an augmented local orchestra.

Woonsocket's city solicitor, Morris E. Yaraus, will be one of the honored guests Sunday night at the first annual "roast" of the Frying Pan Club, a newly formed organization in this city composed of newspapermen.

The major portion of the entertainment program Sunday night will be devoted to making 98 per cent of 50 prominent Woonsocket citizens slightly red around the ears and hot around the collar. Yaraus will not be ignored. Other local Jews who are included in the select list of guests are Arthur Kornstein, Siegmund Berger and Abraham E. Goldstein.

The speaker this evening at the weekly Sabbath services in the B'nai Israel Synagogue will be Rabbi Isaiah Rakovsky of the Ahvath Sholom Synagogue in Pawtucket. Meanwhile, Charles L. Miller, principal of the local Hebrew school and spiritual leader of the community, will occupy the pulpit of the Pawtucket house of worship.

Leo Lyons, veteran Boston newspaperman, held the worshippers spellbound last week at the Sabbath services with an address that was a combination of lecture, story and plea. He stressed the achievements of the B'nai Brith organization and termed it the leading Jewish group of its kind.

In addition to making arrangements for the bazaar, plans for the initiation of a large class of candidates late this month were made Wednesday night at a meeting of the B'nai Brith. According to President Goldstein, the class will number at least 15 candidates. The degree work will be done by the newly organized drill team.

Included in Jewish news of interest which will blossom out in the near future are activities of the Woonsocket Hebrew Choral Society and the Woonsocket Hebrew School. The choral society, which is directed by Cantor Anshel Hueberg, has received a tentative offer to sing in Springfield, Mass., early in April, but plans for the appearance of the entertaining singing group have not been completed. Further details will be given out by President Coleman P. Falk.

An elaborate Purim celebration is planned for the Hebrew and Sunday School under the direction of President Joseph S. Eisenberg. This will include the showing of motion pictures taken in Palestine.

Around The Town

With JOSEPH M. FINKLE

JUDICIARY MEMBERS

With great pride we refer to our sons who are serving or have served as members of the judiciary of the state of Rhode Island.

Former Justice Jerome H. Hahn of the Supreme Court has long served our state and our people and we point to him as one of our first citizens.

Philip C. Joslin, another first citizen, is a distinguished member of the Superior Court. He is a former law partner of Justice Hahn and many of us can remember the law offices of Hahn and Joslin, one of the most respected law firms in the state.

Both of these great men have served their state and their own people well and ably. Justice Hahn has done notable work for our Jewish Home for the Aged while Judge Joslin has headed Temple Emanu-El since its organization ten years ago.

Serving as judge of our First District Court we find Max Levy of Newport, a fine example of American Jewry, who has been in public life in many capacities for the past 25 years. Judge Levy is also one of the first citizens of our state and is the most prominent Jew of Newport. He has served in our legislature and in many positions of honor and trust. On our police court bench in the city of Providence sits Judge Maurice Robinson. He has but recently been elected by the board of aldermen to serve his second term. Judge Robinson's politics are Democratic and we look forward to seeing him achieve great honor and distinction in the coming years. His is a shining example of one who with great sacrifice has already climbed many of the rungs in the ladder of success.

LOUIS D. BRANDEIS

The passing of that great liberal Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the Supreme Court of the United States brings more than ever the name of Louis D. Brandeis to the front. The late Justice Holmes and Mr. Brandeis were intimate friends for many years—each had great appreciation and affection for the other and for many years their dissenting opinions were a feature of Supreme Court decisions.

I prize greatly a letter in my possession written in long hand by Justice Brandeis. I received it in 1929 on the occasion of the first issue of THE JEWISH HERALD. I wrote Mr. Brandeis in Washington requesting a message from him. Evidently my letter was capped to Chatham, Mass., on the Cape where the great jurist spends with Mrs. Brandeis his leisure time.

Imagine my surprise when I received his polite brief note written in his own hand in which he expressed his regret that because of judicial office he could not comply with my request. I understand that in the summer months he employs no secretary and personally handles all his correspondence. His writing is the most individual I have ever seen and it took me several minutes before I could decipher it.

A simple great man is Brandeis—he reminds me of Lincoln—as the years take their toll, I wonder who will fill his place.

SIDELIGHTS

Former Senator Paul Robin should be due for something worth while from his party—although many of us have felt that Paul took it "on the chin" last fall when he was refused renomination. He took it all in good spirit and it would not surprise me greatly to find him settled in some good state position before many days pass.

Evelyn Siegal, she with the sweet face and beautiful voice will appear in recital at the Churchill House on Monday, April 8—for many years Evelyn has taken the lead roles in the fine Jewish Center's operettas... Understand that Saul Feinberg, Arthur Kornstein and Ben Macktaz capably represented our little state a week ago Wed., at the annual dance of Boston Unit, Am. Jewish Congress—yes, Dorothy Waldman was there, too.

Dorothy Markoff is another stamp collector but she does all the collecting for her little sister... Doc Bud Lewis is following in the shoes of his colleague Doc "Connie" Berger as one of our best minstrel men. Do you remember Connie Berger? No minstrel show in town was a success without him and now and then he finds time from a busy dental practice to do his "stuff" as of yore.

Barney Fradin's place on Eddy Street or Harry's Delicatessen are the eating houses where you can always meet at least one of your pals... Visitors in town, especially the actor folk, turn with tender memories to Providence... I remember meeting the now famous vaudeville team of Block and Sully at one of those eating places last year when they were appearing here at Loew's. Little did I realize then that they would soon be nationally-known radio stars.

Radio success brings to mind Harry Einstein, better known as Nick Parkyourkarkas. Until a month ago Harry was advertising manager for the Kane Furniture Store of Boston. He is the former husband of a former localite and received his great chance on the Kay Jewelry program from WEAN. Now he is a feature of Eddie Cantor's program and getting "puhenty" of shekels.

You will see him in the movies with Cantor. A brilliant chap, he originated the Greek character which is now bringing him fame and fortune.

Beth Israel carnival committee has selected Jack Levitt and Sam Baker to serve as generals, two important jobs and I know the committee has made excellent selections... Talking of Temple Beth-Israel also brings to mind the name of Mrs. Leo Weiner, one of the best workers for that congregation—President of the Sisterhood, she contributed greatly to the success of the recently-completed anniversary program. Active in all other Jewish women's organizations and causes, Mrs. Weiner indeed typifies the best in our Jewish women.

Myrtle and Eva Korenbaum, Pawtucketites, are seen at most of our cultural meetings and Eva illustrates excellently for the Sunday Journal... One of the best-liked men in town is smiling Barney Taber. He is the commander of our local chapter of Jewish War Veterans... Dr. Sam Morein was an interested observer at the recently-performed operation at Truesdale Hospital of Alyce Jane McHenry... Doc Harry Dimond tells me that Valencia Lapsitz certainly lives up to all the good things said about her.

A representative group sat in at the Villard lecture at the Jewish Center Sunday night. Sam Workman introduced the speaker in his usual fine style and Sol Rothstein asked many questions during the question period. Seen were Doc Biderman just back from Florida, also Harry and Dave Gourse, two of Fall River's leading citizens. These two fine individuals never miss anything worthwhile here and Harry has one of the finest collections of first editions in this part of New England—he is also head man of the Fall River Jewish Center.

Dr. Winkler, an interested listener, Ed Halpert with a sweet girl... Israel Press with his better half, the former Mollie Fineman—haven't seen her in such a long time... Jack Abrams very seldom misses a Center affair and reads this column... Dr. Sol Rubenstein... Rebecca Goldman with mother and dad... Dr. Wolfenson probably agreeing or disagreeing with the speaker.

Here is Arthur Basok, that fashion plate, and he calls me Walter Winchell (curses). I sure do like that green tie, Arthur... Harry Greenspan, one of our best golfers, and Milton Rosenberg discussing Investors Syndicate... Herman Aisenberg, brief case in hand entering the Lincoln Trust. Herman is doing a good job as president of Emanu-El Men's Club... Earle, aged 8, and Sheldon, 2½ years, sons of the Auburn Ben

INTERSTATE STORES EXECUTIVE IS WED

Florence Turkel, daughter of Mrs. Lena Turkel, formerly of Woonsocket and now of 314 Riverside Drive, New York, and David Robinson, comptroller of the Interstate Furniture Co. stores, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Robinson of Worcester, Mass., were united in marriage Monday in New York. Rabbi Edward Lissman officiated. The newlyweds are now residing at the Biltmore Hotel.

Woolfs sure kept dad busy during the snow season and what fine looking youngsters they are.

Did you hear about the new Brothers-in-Law Club? Four of our newly married men are the charter members. They say that they will meet each week to discuss ways and means of getting along with their wives... Saw Sam Garr today. He tells me that he is determined to break the afternoon coffee habit. He's going to substitute orange juice. Ever hear of Sanka, Sam?

Lou Sonsky has a new all-wave radio set. He was going to let me listen to Russia the other night... Aaron Roitman and Howard Presel traveled to Boston last Saturday to hear the Boston Symphony concert.

Harold Morton's music is being heard at our best parties—Harold is none other than Harold Kelman and he is one of our better musicians.

Roger Williams Lodge, B'nai Brith is planning the finest meeting of the season Monday night at the Jewish Home for the Aged. The meeting is open to every interested Jewish man... Dr. Joe Smith was seen the other evening singing lullabies to his youngster... never knew you could, Joe... Hear that Jewish Herald is eagerly awaited by locals at Florida... Louis M. Grant, father of Max never misses his copy, and then it goes to dozens of others.

Mrs. Louis Smira is leaving Saturday on the "Comte de Savoie" with daughter Muriel, for Palestine. She expects to stay in the Holy Land for about three months.

David T. Wilentz, great attorney general of New Jersey who successfully prosecuted Hauptman, is known as the "Jimmie" Walker of his state. Dapper, affable and democratic, his snappy clothes were a source of much copy for the harassed reporters who covered the great trial. Even "Women's Wear", organ of the cloak and suit industry did an article on Wilentz' clothes. Some man, we say, and what a future... Youth Forum of Temple Beth-El planning a "Spring Fever" Carnival a week from Sunday eve... Israel Edelstein is recuperating from a major operation and we are glad to hear he's well on the road to recovery.

The marriage of Dave Robinson, comptroller of the Kane Furniture Stores, to Florence Turkel, sister of the famous opera singer, was a great big surprise to even his closest friends. One of the most successful of our younger business men is Norman Cohen of the Providence Electric Co., a concern that has won nation-wide recognition for its success in popularizing the Crosley Refrigerator in Rhode Island.

"Power" to be Shown at Modern Theater

The Gaumont British picturization of Lion Feuchtwanger's novel, "Power," which has enjoyed such widespread popularity both here and abroad (except in Germany) will open at the Modern Fine Arts Theatre, Providence, Thursday and will play there for three days closing Saturday night.

Remarkably photographed, acted by the finest cast assembled by a British company, it is a picture that every Jew in Providence should see. It is the only showing billed for Providence.

The story is of a Joseph Suss Oppenheimer, known after his rise to fame as Jew Suss, who becomes one of the most powerful statesmen in Germany of 1730. The senec of inferiority that he has pushed him forward, to success after success. Then he learns that he is really a Gentile, he had been adopted by a Jew, but circumstances are such that he clings to the Jewish faith. For him, it is his faith; to it he keeps his allegiance, even to death.

It is a strong and moving drama, produced lavishly, and carefully.

To Exhibit All-Jewish Talkie Here Sunday

Showing for the first time in Providence, the famous Jewish all-talking film "Laughter Thru Tears" will be at the Swedish Workingmen's Hall next Sunday. In adopting Sholom Aleichem to the talking screen, Worldkino has missed none of the fine human touches that have made him the most colorful writer of Jewish folk lore of his day.

The N. Y. Times critic declared: "Laughter predominates the story and was heartily echoed by the audience... The chedar scene is especially hilarious... The work of the entire cast is first rate."

Fraternity to Initiate Lampport, Textile Leader

Phi Chapter of Pi Lambda Phi Fraternity at Brown will, in connection with its annual initiation of freshmen, initiate Samuel C. Lampport, Brown '06, as an honorary member, tomorrow. This will be followed by a testimonial dinner and reception to Mr. Lampport and the other initiates at the Biltmore Hotel tomorrow night, where undergraduates and many alumni members of the local chapter, as well as delegates from other chapters are expected to attend. Among the speakers of the evening will be Dean Samuel T. Arnold of Brown, Judge Philip C. Joslin of the Superior Court, and Herbert Kaus, Supreme Rex of the fraternity. Samuel Temkin, local attorney, president of the R. I. Alumni Association, will act as toastmaster.

Mr. Lampport is widely known in the textile field. He is president of the Lawton Mills Corporation of Plainfield, Conn., president of the Lampport Manufacturers' Supply Company of New Bedford, Mass., and president of the Lampport Export Company of New York and has extensive holdings in cotton mills throughout the country. Recently Mr. Lampport submitted to a committee of the United States Senate the so-called export subsidy plan, also known as the "Tolerance" plan, as the basis of a bill to rescue the United States cotton goods export trade from complete destruction. Mr. Lampport was recently a mediator of the New York strike of elevator operators.

The committee in charge of the initiation and testimonial are: Morton H. Darman, '37, of Woonsocket, chairman; Arthur C. Hellman, '36, of Cleveland, Ohio; Alvin I. Goldfarb, '35, of Long Island, N. Y., and Alfred H. Joslin, '35, son of Judge Joslin, who is an honorary member of the fraternity.

Discuss Jewish Problems at Confab

Over 600 young men and women from all sections of New England, meeting at the second annual Youth Conference in Boston last Sunday, voiced skepticism of the general opinion expressed by the speakers that "exaggerated anti-Semitism is a personal liability" in vocational, professional and social life of the Jew.

Locally, the Youth Forum was represented by approximately 50 people at the conference. Samuel Strong, leader of the Masada League, described the theme of discussion as a problem of "Jewish Youth at the Crossroads."

Declaring that "personal failure should not be attributed to anti-Semitism," Daniel Bloomfield, manager of the Retail Trade Board, further expressed his disapproval with any forms of isms. Opposition was voiced from a rebellious audience, but Mr. Bloomfield replied that "we need revelation and not revolution."

At the round table discussion of professions, Prof. Norbert Weiner, mathematics professor at M. I. T., agreed with other speakers when he pointed out that "anti-Semitism attacks those who feel it most." The youthful audience, faced with a growing discrimination in the professions, could not agree with the sneaker, who continued to warn that "the person who expects to find anti-Semitism starts with one hand tied to his back."

The local delegation to the conference was sponsored by the Sisterhood of Temple Beth-El where the group meets bi-weekly on Sunday evenings under the guidance of Rabbi William G. Braude and Mordecai Soloff, educational director.

Refreshments, in charge of the hospitality chairman, Mrs. Philip V. Marcus, will be served at the close of the afternoon. Hostesses will be members of the Council's International Relations Group. A brief business session will be conducted by the president, Mrs. Jack Davis, preceding the program.

"Herald" to Publish Articles on Life Here

The Jewish Herald announces a series of articles by Dr. Charles S. Bernheimer, director of study with the Jewish Welfare Board of New York, written especially for this paper.

Dr. Bernheimer made a special survey of Jewish communal life in Providence about a year ago and these articles are the result of his observation. They are most interesting and important in their conclusion.

The first article will appear in an early issue.

A radio broadcasting program will feature the next meeting of the Men's group of Temple Emanu-El to be held next Thursday. The program is being arranged by Morris Sydel and Dr. Albert Berger as co-chairman. The ladies will be invited.

Among those taking part are: Daniel Jacobs, Sam Garr, Moe Borod, Jack Lighter, Martin Curran, Dr. Berger, Joseph Schlossberg, Henry Weiner, Leo Miller, Etta Fireman, Sam Berdich and a chorus of fifteen.

Hello everybody, this is Sat Knith taking you and the moon over the mountain top! Are yuh listenin', huh?

Flash:—Providence, R. I. — Bill Botvin that great punster who helped make gasoline stations what they are today, has declared himself out of circulation . . . Me thinks Blanche Jagoliner is going to be a June bride, and Bill is a very lucky man.

Flash:—Miami Beach, Fla. — Guertie Ross has finished writing the last of her hundreds of cards to her hundreds of friends up here in the North. Have you received yours yet? If not, write to the station to which you are listening and we shall take care of the matter.

Flash:—Providence, R. I. — The Observer has some inside information for the Y. W. H. A. Get your Sunday's best out of the moth balls, girls, because the Men's Club at the Community Center are planning to invite you to their coming variety night. So, keep your eyes and ears open.

And speaking of the Men's Club, we shower great big orchids upon Bert Pickar and Frankie Barad who started this association which is steadily growing. Any of you who saw their performance of the "Follies" know what good times they furnish. The Observer is looking forward to seeing their future productions.

In selecting one of the up-and-coming of college hill, this week I pick on Morris Fabricant. He came to R. I. State College after making a name for himself at Virginia Military Academy. He is now starring on the basketball court and will soon continue his activities behind the bat on the baseball field. He is only a freshman so he has three great years ahead of him yet. Keep your eyes open for this lad. By the way, Morris, have you heard or seen anything of "Tarzan?"

Human Interest Stuff

Far away in the town of Kingston, R.I., there were two fellows who went to school together, (R. I. State) and these two fellows were very good friends. Well it seems that one night as the boys were discussing their personal affairs, Jack, as we shall call the first, was telling Saul, the second, all about his lovely girl friend and how fortunate he was in having a girl-friend who saved all her dates for him and only him.

Well, Saul tells Jack how foolish he is, and in order to further convince him, he "ups and says" he would bet ten bucks that he could take his, so true, girl friend to the approaching dance even though he had not made her acquaintance as yet. This was carrying things too far, and Jack declared that he would pay all expenses of the evening including pasteboards to the ball if Saul proved his boast. The rest my friends is part of the history of two lives, for it not only cost Jack a couple of weeks' allowances, but also his, so true, girl friend.

The moral of the story is: When you want to break a date with one of your admirers, call your best friend first.

Before closing, I want to convey regards to Wally Serge, Sumner Cohen and Normie Horovitz from their old friends in New Bedford.

And now, so long, toodle-oo, etc. I must go out and get me a stooge to carry my hat in the coming summer days.

Mrs. Cohen Upholds Boycott

In a telephone interview with The Jewish Herald, Mrs. Cohen voiced her hearty approval of the stand of the American Jewish Congress and the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League that the Nazi commissars, Dr. Schacht and Julius Lippert, were not sincere in their statements to grant equal commercial rights to German Jews. The Jewish women leader further declared that the boycott ought to be vigorously pushed until the conditions of the Jews be righted and the blot of Hitler leadership eradicated.
