BRODSKY'S BOMBAST A JUDGE MAKES A MISTAKE (EDITORIAL)

Opinions may differ on the correctness of the decision of Judge Louis M. Brodsky, New York police court magistrate, in dismissing the case against the five rioters charged with causing a disturbance on the German liner Bremen. There can be no difference of opinion, however, about Judge Brodsky's flagrant abuse of the power of his office when he delivered his grotesque speech characterizing the Bremen as a "pirate ship flying under a pirate flag."

The intemperate language used by the magistrate was resented by the German government, resulting in the German ambassador's protesting to our government. It was also resented by a majority of the people of his own race and rightly so. The views he expressed would have had quick response from any other source. But coming from a judge on the bench they caused only resentment. True, they did win him some notoriety of a sort. Once before he made the front pages, but that time without causing international complications. On that occasion Judge Brodsky proved his utter lack of racial prejudice by severely reprimanding a Jewish physician accused of having tried to have his wife placed under observation in Bellevue Hospital. The man hadn't been convicted, nor was he, but that did not prevent the judge from gratifying his yearning for notoriety.

The magistrate is, of course, immune to rebuke from Washington. Holding office by virtue of an appointment by the mayor of New York he is responsible officially only to him. But unofficially he is responsible to the people of his own race, to the Jews who feel deeply the implication that their race needs the bombast of a Brodsky to defend them against the attacks of Hitler and his Nazi cohorts. Brodsky's action did the Jewish cause no good. The ranting of such as Brodsky can do Jewry nothing but harm. Much to be preferred is the calm, august dignity of a Brandeis.

DEAN OF RABBIS DIES, BELOVED OF JEWS

Rabbis of New England made a pilgrimage to New York Tuesday to pay tribute to "the greatest rabbinical scholar in America" — Rabbi Gabriel Wolf Margolis who died Monday at the age of 85 at his home at 205 East Broadway.

The funeral took place at 2 p. m., Tuesday. Burial was in Montefiore Cemetery, in Springfield, L. I., in a plot owned by the Hebrew Community of New York of which he was chief rabbi for 24 years. Throngs of Ghetto dwellers were grief stricken at the passing of their "Little Solomon," the humble patriarch of the East Side's orthodox Jewry who advised and helped them in their every day affairs. Only a few of the Jewish men and women who came to him to act as judge of their petty squabbles and in problems of their religion were aware that their "Rov," as he was known to them, was acclaimed by world-wide Jewry as an authoritative scholar on religion, scripture and Hebraic lore.

Famous Author

Even before his arrival in this country 55 years ago, the Rabbi was famous throughout rabbinical circles of the world as the author of important religious tracts and as an ardent Zionist. He is a direct descendant of Zehiek Halterem author of the first authentic history of the Jews.

Known as the dean of the orthodox rabbis in America, Rabbi Margolis was president of the Assembly of Hebrew Orthodox Rabbis, an organization of 150 orthodox Jewish leaders in this country and Canada.

Surviving are his widow, Sheima Esther; his sons Rabbi Menasche Margolis, Dr. Jacob Margolis, Leizer and Nehemia Margolis, and his daughters, Mrs. Rachel Saland of Palestine; Anna Margolis, Mrs. Neche Levin and Jean Margolis of New York.

One for the Book

A community center in a western city has announced that it will run a "Post-Yom Kippur Dance" which will include a "Sweetheart Contest Feature" . . . and Dr. Asher Isaacs of Pittsburgh remarks upon "the incongruity of fasting and wondering how the dark blue wrap will look with the evening gown."

MADE MISTAKE

Judge Louis Brodsky of New York who called down censure on himself and his race by his decision in the case of five alleged participants in the Nazi ship Bremen riots.

Lehman Asks Aid of Jews

GOVERNOR LEHMAN

Declaring that the need of funds for relief and rehabilitation of the Jews of Germany and the refugees from Germany is greater now than ever, Governor Lehman called upon New Yorkers to give their support to the project called "Night of Stars," a theatrical program to be presented in Madison Square Garden on Oct. 2, to raise a fund for the United Jewish Appeal, organized agency for the relief of German Jews. In his message to the committee Governor Lehman said:

"I am glad to know that on Oct. 2, at Madison Square Garden, a theatrical performance will be given to raise funds for the United Jewish Appeal, as part of New York's contribution for the relief and rehabilitation of the Jews of Germany and other lands and for the settlement of Jews in Palestine.

"I need not assure you of my very great interest in the success of the United Jewish Appeal. Funds for the relief and rehabilitation of our unfortunate co-religionists are more needed now than ever."

Numerous Novelties and Features Will Make Affair One of Greatest in History of City's Jewry

Committee members in charge of the Jewish Home for the Aged carnival which opens Monday evening on the spacious grounds surrounding the Home on Hillside Avenue, announce that they have completed all details for the affair which they are confident will prove the greatest out-door carnival ever held in the city of Providence.

An executive committee under the chairmanship of Max Siegal has been working several weeks on various and diversified plans to make this carnival a social as well as financial success, and many features new to affairs of its type have been outlined.

The large and energetic committee has been working diligently, soliciting merchandise and selling tickets, and they report great success. Practically everything in connection with this carnival has been donated. From present indications, the committee is confident that the desired goal of $10,000 will be reached.

A complete tent city has been erected housing the booths where one will find everything from a can of beans to an electric refrigerator, not forgetting the LaSalle automobile to be given away on closing night of the carnival.

Governor Green

Governor Theodore Francis Green and Mayor James E. Dunne will officially open the carnival at 7 o'clock on Monday evening. A reception committee headed by Hon. J. Jerome Hahn, Judge Philip C. Joslin and Sam Magid, president of the Home, will receive them.

A band concert, furnished through the courtesy of Sam Silverman, will be given from 7 to 8 o'clock and will also provide music during the latter part of the evening's entertainment. Special entertainment feature for the week will be the famous Diving Gordons, an act comprising three young ladies and two men. It is recognized as the outstanding act of its kind in the country, thrilling, sensational, and death-defying. Opening the act with a series of trick and fancy dives into a tank 5½ feet deep, the terrific climax is reached when Captain Sky-High Gordon leaps 110 feet through space, ablaze from head to foot, into the tank which is also ablaze.

In addition, there is a comedy stunt by the clown who performs what is commonly known as a walk-off from a 60-foot pedestal. Captain Gordon also does a full Gainer from the 85-foot pedestal. It is an act worth going many miles to see, and will be shown each evening during the carnival. Other entertainment will be supplied by local theaters and theatrical agencies. A unique guessing contest sponsored by a leading gasoline concern will be another feature, and those who are lucky enough to guess correctly will carry home many gallons of motor lubricant of the finest type.

Teddy Max, general director of the carnival, advises that he has received splendid co-operation from business houses as well as from individuals, and takes this opportunity of thanking all those who have contributed so liberally.

The various booths include: a complete grocery store with Herman Schwartz in charge, assisted by Sam Michaelson; complete florist shop where cut flowers and potted plants of every description will be on sale with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Resnick in charge; candy booth with Saul Feinberg in charge; complete fruit and vegetable market with Sam Shore in charge; mammoth bingo game with Barney Taber, Sam Magid, (Continued on Page Three)

BOOM SEN. METCALF FOR VICE-PRESIDENT

A boom for Senator Jesse H. Metcalf for the Republican nomination for Vice-President, was launched at the first annual outing of the Republican Club of Johnston at Chopmist Hill, Sunday. Judge James E. Dooley, the principal speaker, suggested that the Rhode Island senator would make an ideal candidate in a speech that was greeted with applause by the crowd of more than 1,000 present.

The outing, which was attended

Danzig Answers Jews' Protests

DANZIG (JTA)— Replying to Jewish protests against the anti-Jewish attacks at the Danzig Beach, the Senate last week issued a statement charging that the attack was provoked by the "insolent behavior of Polish and other Jews."

The Senate statement also holds that the police have ordered the removal of anti-Jewish placards from automobiles. However, placards are still prominently displayed on Nazi autos.

by many prominent republicans, had not anticipated the announcement and the ovation was certainly not pre-arranged. Urging the chairman of the Republican State Central Committee who was present to "consider seriously the contacting of the National Republican Committee with the idea that Rhode Island has a strong candidate for Vice-President in the next Presidential campaign in the person of Jesse H. Metcalf," Judge Dooley continued: "Throughout the Roosevelt administration Senator Metcalf has, in the press and on the Senate floor, fought courageously against the policies of the administration. When other Senators were silenced, when they yielded to threats, when they were kept from speaking their mind and voting in accordance with their convictions, he stood steadfast, repudiating the policies of the administration, showing the danger to the American people and protesting by his voice and by his vote."

Senator Metcalf was unable to attend because of a vacation which he had planned before being notified of the outing.

NEW YORK LETTER

by H.W.

With Dr. William Feinbloom it's the old, old story of building a better mousetrap and the world will beat a path to your door if it be in the heart of a forest.

Dr. Feinbloom, whose age we'll have to guess at about 32 since he made a point of not revealing it, isn't building mousetraps of course. He's building or rather rebuilding eyes. They're the eyes of human beings. And he's quite literally rebuilding them, for when he takes their owners in hand their optic orbs have long ago ceased to be of service.

You may have been reading something about this fellow Feinbloom. He's the inventor of a contraption known as "microma-vision spectacles." If not for all the to-do about Ethiopia and Il Duce (incidentally a matter in which many an eye will suffer) the press would have given him considerably more space than it did.

A better name, if less scientific, for the "micro-vision" spectacles might well be "miracle vision." For there is indeed something of the miraculous about the way Dr. Feinbloom can take a person who, to all intents and purposes is stone blind, and make him see not only objects, but even enable him to read newspaper type.

Such miracles, of course, have been accomplished by means of surgery before. But never before without it.

The young optometrist's office is in the East Thirties. It's on the ground floor of one of those rather fashionable apartment houses. A simple little bronze sign is the only indication that Dr. Feinbloom has his office here.

But simple as the sign is, obscure though the address be, and young the doctor, the world is already beating a well worn path to the door and the miracle that is being wrought behind it.

It was an ordinary afternoon in midweek when this writer called to have a chat with the man who is returning sight to the blind. His waiting room was jammed. Children, young men and women, middle-aged and old sat patiently waiting their turn. In the few minutes the young doctor gave up for the interview, the following was learned:

He was born into the profession, his father having been an optometrist.

"I was born with an optical instrument in one hand and a lens in the other," he said.

Now he is married to a woman who is an optometrist — and a good one — in her own right; his sister (older than himself) is an optometrist — "far better than I am" — and his three-year old daughter is going to be an optometrist if he has anything to say about it.

When he was six he was helping his father. At 12 he examined his first pair of eyes through an instrument. And 12 years ago he was graduated from Columbia University.

Shortly after graduation he began experimenting with lenses. The principal of a high school came to him. His eyes had failed him to the extent that he had to give up his job. Young Feinbloom experimented with various lenses and finally developed one that succeeded in restoring almost perfect vision. The principal regained his job and holds it to this day.

Since that time, Dr. Feinbloom has made rapid strides in his researches. Several years ago he developed a telescopic lens that helped in restoring sight to persons with as little as two percent of normal vision.

His latest invention, which he has refused to patent although it is patentable, is the "micro-vision" spectacle which gives sight to those whose vision is even less than two percent normal.

The glasses are queer-looking things. The lenses look something like bottle-stoppers made of thick, frosted glass. Only the tiniest portion of the lens is made of clear glass.

Dr. Feinbloom disclosed there are altogether 70 persons now wearing them. There are in the United States about 500,000 who are classified as blind. Most of this number, he said, can be helped. Many of them are in institutions for the blind. About 120,000 of the half million are classified as completely blind. Half of this number, Dr. Feinbloom said, can be helped to see.

The young miracle worker's most sensational success thus far has been with the case of a practicing attorney, Isadore Cohen, of Brooklyn, who became partially blind at the age of five when he lost about 50 percent of his vision as a result of several illnesses. The story of Cohen's struggle to obtain an education and his ultimate success is another story. Practically sightless at the age of 12, as a result of the treatments at the hands of Dr. Feinbloom, and the "micro-vision" spectacles, he can now read newspaper type, write simple words and walk about the streets unassisted.

Dr. Feinbloom and his two assistants have, since 1931, he estimates, treated a total of 3,000 cases of sub-normal vision. Thousands of letters have flooded his office from all over the country. In answering them, he specifies that the applicant for treatment must be prepared to spend at least a week or ten days in the city, during which time tests are made.

About vision in general he has this to say:

A Little O' This and A Little O' That

By AL DANIELS

Maybe we're infringing on the movie critic, but after seeing "Call of the Wild," nothing will ever convince us that Clark Gable was cut out for a Jack London hero... add to the score for Walter Winchell—because the little Jewish boy made so much noise about it, the death sentence given Clyde Holford in Oklahoma, has been commuted... Senator Jesse Metcalf, running for Vice President, if Judge Fooley is right — about time Little Rhody landed in the Capital... and why don't Providence cops have raincoats — aren't they onto the trick of parking them in stores convenient to their beats?

ECHO OF 1917

He reaches that Pine St. restaurant every morning about 9 o'clock... shortly afterwards, an old fellow, probably 60 years of age, reaches the same destination. The old fellow buys the young fellow's breakfast and they sit there until the noon crowd begins to come in. Then they leave to go to a picture show. Every day the process is repeated. About 5 o'clock the pair return to the restaurant. A few drinks, supper, and they depart. The young fellow is blind — he is a veteran of the World War — the old fellow used to be a judge. He is retired and has a far from modest competency — the young fellow was with the old fellow's son in the Argonne Forest when a German shell killed the latter. The young fellow was blinded by the same shell. Just an echo, that's all.

DO YOUR PART

Have you been making preparations to attend the carnival for the Jewish Home for the Aged that starts Monday night — if you are not there you'll be missed — and you'll never have an opportunity to help a better cause. Come on, do your part!

THE BEERS HAVE IT

A little Irishman downtown has skum a scheme. He operates a small restaurant with a bar and is he up against competition. On either side of him and across the street, competitors blantly advertise large glasses of beer for five cents. The Irishman has been charging 10, but he found the going too tough. So what did he do? He did this. He bought a couple of dozen stone steins, put them in his refrigerator and hung up a sign — "chilled steins, 15 cents." Now everybody wants a chilled stein — and they never seem to notice that the chilled mug holds just exactly the same amount as the glass the competitors are selling for five cents. Barnum was right.

One thing about the shooting of Senator Huey P. Long that strikes us is the number of bullet holes punctured into the body of his assailant. No less than 40 according to press reports. Apparently the poorest armed man in the crowd had at least two guns — and what shots they were. Halie Selassie ought to recruit his army in the Bayou State.

"Talk about saving vision is the bunk. Use your eyes to their full capacity — as long as there is no pain."

Perhaps if the German-American Technologists' Association had had the help of those "micro-vision" glasses referred to above, they would have had less difficulty than they had in finding a place to park their annual convention in New York City.

They were turned down first by the Hotel New Yorker. "No swastika waving here," they were brusquely informed.

They went from there to the Hotel Astor, which announced it was okay with them if the swastika were waved at a convention on their premises. But came a wave of protest and the Astor changed its mind. They decided against the swastika.

The technologists, with their convention scheduled within the next few days, turned to the swanky Downtown Athletic Club. The A. C. deliberated very briefly and said no quite firmly.

The technologists, or rather Rudolph Wildermann, their president, finally turned to Yorkville and the Turn Halle, a well-known rendezvous for the pro-Nazi elements in this city.

Of course, the Turn Halle hung out the welcome sign.

At Wildermann's office an inquirer was informed there are about 30 or 40 Jewish members in the association and that it was expected that several of them would attend the convention. By this time the meet-

Greek General in Nazi Speech

SALONICA (JTA) — Greek Jewry was greatly upset last week by the speech of General Popadapoulos, commander of the military division at Sorrai, in the course of which he declared: "Our country has two enemies — communists and Jews."

He charged the Jews with being enemies of Greece because "the churches in Russia have been converted into stables by Jews, while Jewish synagogues are untouched." "Jews wish to destroy Christianity," he said. "I advise you not to let yourself be influenced by the Jews because they are enemies of Christianity."

Addressing the Jewish soldiers in the division, he said: "I regret that I have to make you suffer, but these facts are unhappily true."

The Jewish communities of Sorrai and Salonica have lodged indignant protests with the authorities.

Jews of World to Raise $5,000,000

LUCERNE (JTA) — An appeal to the Jews of the world to raise $5,000,000 in the next two years to finance the colonization of 2,000 workers' families in Palestine, was issued by the Council of the Jewish Agency for Palestine at its opening session here last week.

The appeal was issued following an address by Dr. Arthur Hantke of Jerusalem, head of the Keren Hayesod, Zionist colonizing fund, concerning the urgent colonizing needs in Palestine today.

Lady Erleigh, who was first speaker in the general debate, declared "our task in Palestine is not only to build up Palestine, but to raise the Jewish spirit."

Sholom Asch, noted Jewish author, described the suffering of Jews in Eastern European countries, and demanded "the institution of hachshara training farms, not only for prospective pioneer workers for Palestine, but also for the so-called capitalist categories of Jews who can scrape together $5,000."

They Reached The Top

By I. D. CLAIRE

It isn't the size of one's ears, it's simply having something in between them. A gorgeous pair of cauliflowers count for naught if a one-way street connects them. For a gorgeous pair of mainsails, we give you, gentlemen, Amster Spiro. A lotta folks don't know Am — a lot do. Conservatively speaking, we would say that Am is known to about 2,000,000 people. It is certain at least that he is known to 10,000 reporters, re-write men, copy desk men, district men, ship news men he has hired and fired.

Amster's story begins, as the story of most successful New York newspaper men begins, in the sticks. Amster, the son of a Jewish watchmaker in New Haven, Conn., early evidenced a desire to get himself all daubed up with printer's ink. So while at Hillhouse High School, he affiliated himself with the New Haven Times-Leader as correspondent.

An old guy with whiskers named Sloane, (he is still there) was the boss man. Col. Osborne also had something to do with the operation of the sheet. Amster, after leaving school, became a regular reporter. That is, he was as regular as his fiery temperament would permit. He was tops with the powers that be until the newspapermen of New Haven decided to go out on strike. Without waiting to organize a union they did just that. Spiro, of course, was one of the leaders. The publishers were adamant. They got together skeleton staffs and proceeded to publish their newspapers despite Amster and his cohorts.

So Amster and cohorts, started to publish their own newspaper. It was successful, too, until old reliable John Day Jackson decided things had gone far enough. When John Day decides things have gone far enough, that, generally is as far as they go. Lucrative offers to some of the key-men busted the insurgent lineup. Spiro, with Gary Finlay, found themselves without any cohorts. You can't get out a cooperative newspaper without cooperation.

Lacking jobs, Amster and Finlay decided a Saturday night scandal sheet would provide them with specie and amusement. So they started the Saturday Herald. For a time this venture flourished. Then the automobile registration lists published in the Herald — obtained by careful observation of shady lanes and eventime necking places, began to attract attention. They attracted so much attention that suggestions were made to Amster and Gary, that a change of scenery wouldn't harm them. Tar and feathers were mentioned in this connection. Amster was open to suggestion. Also a horsewhip had been mentioned — so Amster migrated to New York.

Here he wound up on the Evening Journal. For a time he covered routine assignments. Then his big break came. He got the idea that there was something not exactly beautiful about the Atlantic City bathing beauty contests. So he started probing around. Soon he came to the conclusion that there were other things in Atlantic City even less beautiful than the beauty contest. In short he uncovered a mess of graft in the administration which resulted in several grafters going to jail.

The Journal played the story for all it was worth. Probably for more than it was worth. Great scare-heads emblazoned the infamy of certain politicians. They threatened suit — but Amster had learned his reporting in a hard school. He had the goods on them. The work of the little (he was little then), came to the attention of Hearst. Soon Amster was assistant city editor, an important post on the Journal. Soon he followed a long list of top-notch men into the editorial chair. He became city editor.

Today he sits on that throne, surrounded by 27 telephones, surrounded also by Gary Finlay whom he brought down from New Haven as assistant city editor. His telephone tenacles cover New York like those of a giant octopus. He hears everything, knows everything, before it happens. Some of his "beats" have astounded New York. The capture of two-gun Crowley was a case in point. The Journal had papers on the street telling of the gun battle in mid-town New York even before the gas from the tear bombs had rolled away. The covering of the Lindbergh kidnaping and of the subsequent capture of Hauptman, his trial and conviction cost the journal more than $500,000. And Amster supervised the spending of the money.

His next step will probably be the managing editorship now held by Bill Curley. Hearst likes Amster's work and for good reason. He is a crack newspaperman. He is a "regular fellow." He has climbed a long way in a few short years. And those who know him will tell you that he is still climbing. A fine example of a Jewish boy who reached the top.

Next week — Milt Gross, whose "Nize Baby" brought him fame but who would rather draw funny pictures.

UP TO 3 YEARS TOPAY

It is excitingly different, as tremendously improved over the old combination ranges as the new stream-line trains in contrast to the rapidly disappearing steam locomotive. And, like the new trains, it is far more speedy than its forerunners. Its left oven, which bakes and heats with either coal, oil or wood, is steel lined so that it bakes faster and more evenly. The gas top is equipped with new Super "Speedlux" burners that light automatically. The gas oven is fully insulated; has automatic heat control, and a very effective gas broiler. You must see it to fully appreciate its incomparable usefulness and its modern beauty that set entirely new standards in this type of range. Do it — today!

Glenwood Ranges are moderately priced, too — combination ranges for $115, coal ranges for $59.50, gas ranges for $42. Circulating Heaters and Furnaces at reduced prices.

Mr. Leekoff briefly expressed the opinion that Masada has a very definite part in the Zionist movement, which, though indirect in method, is as meritorious as that of a pioneer or settler. Sydney Ballon, who conducted the installation, introduced the following officers for the coming year: David Hassenfeld, honorary president; Frank Licht, president; Walter Chucnin, vice president; Paul Cohen, recording secretary; Harold Tregar, cultural chairman; Milton Horowitz, corresponding secretary; Arthur Hoffman, publicity secretary and Herbert Ballon, treasurer.

PUBLISHER PRESIDENTS

Announcement of the probable candidacy of Senator Jesse Metcalf for the Republican nomination for the Vice-Presidency discloses an interesting possibility. Should the Metcalf boom survive the rigors of the early campaign and should the growing move to win the Presidential nomination for Col. Frank Knox weather the storms of early Fall, there is the possibility that the Republican ticket will be headed by two newspaper publishers and both from New England. The last publisher to occupy the White House was Warren Harding. The last Democrat publisher to assay that high office was James M. Cox. The results in both cases are history. And history has a habit of repeating itself.

Leading the Way

The State of Pennsylvania has set an important precedent for other states by enacting a law prohibiting discrimination against any person in any public place, because of race, creed or color. The law, already effective, makes it illegal to refuse equal rights to anyone in restaurants, hotels, hospitals, bathing beaches, theatres, schools, libraries, universities and conveyances. This characteristically American measure is so framed that even the employes of such public places may not refuse equal rights.

It is a sad commentary on the state of civilization in our country when legislation is required to prevent Americans from withholding from fellow-Americans elementary human rights. There will be many, of course, who will oppose this law as an arbitrary interference with human rights and denounce it as unconstitutional. Already the hotel and restaurant men of Pennsylvania are preparing to test the measure in the courts. The fact remains however, that the prejudice which made the law necessary exists and if such discrimination can't be eradicated by educational methods, then it is fighting with legal weapons.

OPPOSITION TO GERMAN OLYMPICS

[Editorial in Worcester (Mass.) Telegram]

America's participation in the Olympic games appears by no means as certain as it did a few weeks ago. In Philadelphia, the other day, the local Olympic Association held a sports program, with Governor George H. Earle in attendance. The Governor made a speech.

Naturally he had something to say about the ethics of sport. He might have stopped with that, but he didn't. He went on to remark that the policies of Nazi Germany were contrary to Olympic ethics. And he called upon the American people to direct the American Olympic Committee to withdraw our team from the 1936 games, if these are held on German soil.

This demand was conditioned on Hitler's refusal to abandon his persecution of racial and religious groups. The same condition was attached to a like demand made, on the same day, by the New Jersey state convention of the American Legion. And, since the Nazi policy is not going to be abandoned, these two demands for America's withdrawal from next year's Olympics will stand.

There will be further action on the Legion pronouncement when the national convention meets in St. Louis. Once the opposition gets fairly under way, the Olympic Committee may see a new light. The Olympic games are designed to foster international friendship, but they are also designed to uphold certain principles of sportsmanship.

In the present case we can better afford to sacrifice a little friendship than to abandon the spirit of fair play and free competition which is the basis of all true sportsmanship.

WOMEN SCORN OLYMPIC GAMES

Either the women of the species are really more deadly than the male or they read their newspapers, even to the sports pages, more thoroughly.

That is the impression gained after tabulating the ballots received by the HERALD this week on the controversy as to whether or not the United States should send a team of athletes to compete in the Olympic Games scheduled for Berlin in 1936.

A total of 331 ballots were received, 79 of them signed by women, and two women even climbed to our editorial cubbyhole to register their opinions. The women were 100 percent against participation in the games.

The men were almost as unanimous although nine did urge that we participate and show Hitler that Jewish athletes are the best in the world.

The vote now stands—
Against taking part . . . . . 970
Favor of taking part . . . . . 12

TO BURY HERZL IN PALESTINE

LUCERNE (JTA) — The newly elected Actions Committee of the World Zionist Organization, last week held a brief session to discuss transfer of the remains of Dr. Theodor Herzl, founder of the World Zionist Organization, from Vienna to Palestine.

Dr. Reichenberg, former personal secretary to Dr. Herzl, testified that the Zionist leader shortly before his death in 1904 had expressed the desire to be buried at Hadar Hacarmel, a suburb of Haifa in Palestine, overlooking the sea.

The Actions Committee decided to effect the transfer of Herzl's remains to Palestine before the end

WELCOME HOME

This column extends a most sincere "welcome home" to all our good friends who have returned to the city from vacation places far and near. Activities of the fall, winter and spring will soon resume their normal swing. Houses of religious worship are making plans for the New Year which will soon be here; secretaries of lodges, men's clubs and sisterhoods are sending out notices for first meetings of the season; activities at our Jewish Community Center will be welcomed by hundreds of members, young and old; rabbis have returned to the city from conferences where they listened to the thoughts and papers of others from every section of the country — in fact everyone I have talked with predicts a year of progress and great accomplishment.

STAGE SET FOR JEWISH HOME FOR AGED CARNIVAL

The stage is set and the curtains ready to part for the first important event of the season the widely heralded carnival of the Jewish Home for the Aged which begins this Monday night and which will continue for one week with the exception of Friday. This mardi-gras, three ring circus or what-have-you has been planned during the past year by an exceptionally able committee headed by Max Siegal and Ted Max who have left no stones unturned to make this event one of great interest for every member of the family.

NOTES FROM A CARNIVAL COMMITTEE MEETING

I attended last Thursday's carnival committee meeting at the Home . . . Max Siegal and Ted Max presided . . . Of course, in the front row of chairs, I spotted Mrs. Siegal and Mrs. Max, while at the head of the room was Ben Ruttenberg performing his duties as secretary . . . Before the meeting began, I heard the noise of a hammer meeting board and nails, and upon inquiry was told that it was Ted Max essaying the job of carpenter, constructing booths, etc. . . . Ben Kane and Reubie Lipson came late and were soon surrounded by brother Zionists Alter Boyman, Rep. Charlie Brown, and Sam Michaelson . . . I had the pleasure of meeting the new superintendent and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Feinstein, who already have created a fine impression with those they have met.

Barney Tabor, who will be in charge of the "giant" bingo game, gave an encouraging report . . . and said that among his able workers will be Sam Magid and Ben Kane promises to spin the wheels for the whole week if necessary . . . Others noted were Mrs. Samuel Deutch, Charlie Burke who will be in charge of the jewelry booth, Nat Landy, and amiable Morris Cooper, the big ice cream man from West Barrington . . . Ben Trinkel . . . and in a corner is Sam Soforenko who once more is leading agent for the New York Life Insurance Company throughout the country and will take a leading part at the convention to be held in Swampscott next week . . . all in all, it was a most enthusiastic meeting and the reports presented by committee heads were revelations to me . . . and the carnival itself will bear me out.

AROUND THE TOWN

Many members of B'nai Brith will journey to Boston this Sunday night with their ladies to attend the installation dinner and dance of Boston's new lodge, Haym Salomon, at Bradford Hotel . . . Frances Goldstein is still telling about the fine time she had on that trip recently to N. Y., Philly and Atlantic City . . . Woonsocket notes are here aplenty, so here goes — President-elect Sam Kornstein of Woon. Lions Club was duly installed last Wednesday . . . while Ben Greenberg, manager of Stadium Theatre is arranging a party at Winnesauket Country Club next Friday, Sept. 20 . . . Mrs. R. Macktaz Angell and children of Brooklyn, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Macktaz . . . while Ruth Holman, pretty Newark miss, has been making the hearts of Woon. boys skip a beat during her visit. They tell me that Woon. misses, Anne Dunn, Anne Susel, Mary and Anne Kornstein, Freda and Ruth Shaver were amongst those present at art colony Provincetown over Labor Day . . . Al and Mrs. Brown, she the former Dolly Reyn of Prov. are receiving congrats on the arrival of a baby boy . . . Al is Exalted Ruler of Woon. Elks . . . and so Woon. activities have begun in fine style.

HERE, THERE, EVERYWHERE

They tell me that the quiet Cape town of Hyannis was visited by our friends Archie Smith, Dave Geffner, Nat Dwares, and Doc Jay Fishbein over the holiday week-end . . . Popular Barney Tabor led more than 30 members of our Prov. Post, Jewish War Veterans to the annual encampment held at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., over Labor Day . . . and Paul Robin tells me that it was one of the most successful and enjoyable events held in the history of this growing organization — the local post is organizing a military band under the direction of Esmond Borod, which will probably be the first all-Jewish band in the history of the state . . . Members of Prov. Post would like to bring the next encampment to our city again and this will be decided soon . . . I remember the last held here by this military group at the Biltmore and it was a splendid affair . . . let us hope it comes again . . . Congrats to the Pearlman on the opening Saturday of their beautiful new Sterling Shoe Store at Temple Place in Boston.

The Irving Pastors have been entertaining at Oakland Beach their southern cousin, Betty Zipperman from Atlanta, the home of Coca Cola . . . Al Brenner, Bethlehem's Maplehurst Hotel manager, will soon open his new eating place on the campus at R. I. State, while Danny Drayson, social director at this same place, is stopping off in Prov., on his way home to N. Y. and was entertained Mon. night by the Barney Kenners, who yours truly says are "some fine hosts" . . . Bill Bachrach, now an attorney in the nation's capital, Washington, was a visitor in town over the week-end . . . Rep. Charlie Brown, Walter Sundlun, Walter Adler, and Sam Workman were amongst those who delivered radio talks this week for the carnival . . . Saw George Katz in his trusty Ford surrounded by six or seven boys from our Jewish orphanage, where George does a nice piece of work as boys' supervisor.

Lou Davis, Harold Moskol, Phil Lieberman, Bill Matzner and Lou Sonkin having a hurried "bite" at Guny's . . . Ira Marcus also seen at this spot . . . Phil Glanzmann, busy as the proverbial "bee" arranging plans for that Elks' golf tourney and at the same time completing details for Monastery Wines . . . Best wishes to the Harry Goldshines on the event of their new and first arrival, a baby girl . . . The Den, Boston Chinatown's newest eating place is where a great number of our locals can be seen enjoying an Oriental dish . . . Bert Bernhardt is all out of breath telling of coming plans for the Repertory Players — eight plays are planned, the first to be presented later in Sept., with over 100 sponsors . . . I'll be seeing all

Jews in Sports

Baseball Banter

Hankus Pankus Greenberg, star slugger and first sacker on the league leading Tigers, was picked in a poll of the nation's foremost baseball writers as the outstanding player in the American circuit. The Bronx player received 30 votes out of a possible 46. At the same time it was conceded that Hank would be their choice as the "Most valuable player in the American League for 1935."

Should Greenberg receive this honor he will become the only man in baseball history to achieve such a distinction with only three years of big league ball behind him.

Connie Mack, veteran pilot of the Philadelphia Athletics, told this department that he expects the heavy hitting of Hank to prove a major factor in the world series . . . "Greenberg is far ahead of any player in both leagues in the number of home runs poled out and is way out in front in the matter of runs batted in. This Jewish lad is a born baseball bambino."

Tennis Chatter

Mrs. H. Walter Blumenthal, the former Baroness Maud Levi, fifth ranking women's tennis player in America, was not even seeded in the national women's matches last week. They contended that the foremost Jewish tennis ace in this country should have drawn a bye along with seven other American women and five English girls. More than that, as a result of not being seeded, Mrs. Blumenthal found herself pitted against Miss Helen Jacobs, the national titleholder and the No. 1 ranking player in the country in the opening round.

The question raised by many of the sportswriters at Forest Hills last week during the championship titles was "why did the committee seed only seven American women, an odd number, omit the name of Mrs. Blumenthal and yet seed Mrs. John Van Ryn, ranked nationally No. 13, and Mrs. Catherine Wolf, of Chicago, No. 10?"

Mrs. Blumenthal has created an enviable record for herself this past year. She has won three State and regional clay tournaments thus far this season and was beaten only once, by Miss Eunice Dean, of Texas, at Sea Bright, New Jersey. The match was played on a grass court, hidden from rain and Mrs. Blumenthal, who places her whole reliance on a net attack, was not permitted to wear spikes and therefore was severely handicapped in her attempts to gain her volleying position.

Football Frolics

Benny Friedman, head coach of City College, in New York, expects big things of the Lavender eleven this fall. Already he has taken his squad to a retreat in the Pennsylvania hills. Scrimmage was held on the third day of practice.

Benny will also coach a professional football team this year during the moments when the Beaver grid-ders are not garnering touchdowns. However, the team the great Benneh will coach is a member of a "three I" league in Brooklyn, and not one of the major grid outfits.

Speaking of football reminds us of a letter received some time ago from a rabid Jewish gridiron fan. The writer, Sam Shapiro of Austin Texas, informs us that Midshipman Robert Mandelkorn, who caught the winning touchdown in the Army-Navy game last year will once again grace the middle line this season. Likewise, Dave Smukler, sensational sophomore halfback on the Temple eleven during the football campaign of 1934, is being groomed as the spearhead of the Warner attack during the coming season.

Mickey Kupperberg, member of the Big 10 basketball team last year, will don a gridiron outfit for the first time and try to follow in the footsteps of his older brother, Mike, who was captain of the C. C. N. Y. eleven some years ago. Mickey, while a sophomore, became the outstanding basketeer on the Minnesota quintet.

League Official Reaches Moscow

MOSCOW (JTA) — James G. McDonald, the League of Nations High Commissioner for Refugees arrived here last week.

In an interview with the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, he said he came here to negotiate with the Commissariat for Foreign Affairs to gain its support for his proposal to establish a League refugee organization.

He will not, however, he declared, raise the question of admitting refugees from Germany and other countries to Russia.

Fort Hamilton Army Post, Brooklyn, is the only Jewish polo player in the country with a three goal rating. In fact he is the only Jewish polo player of note in the United States. Captain Jacobs was born in the far west and raised on his father's cattle ranch. He has been in a saddle since early childhood. As a result he is the most daring rider on the field and plays a fast, furious, and highly accurate game. Jacobs carries the entire brunt of the Fort Hamilton attack. Because of the increased popularity of the game in New York City this past summer Jacobs has become the idol of the polo fans in the metropolitan area. Reports at the United States Polo Association have it that Captain Jacobs will be raised to a four goal rating next season.

Golfing Gambols

Miss Jean Bauer, the Jewish girl who created such a stir some time ago by appearing in shorts during a game with His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, recently won the eastern championship. Mrs. Leo Federman, of New Jersey, placed third in the same meet.

Herman Barron, outstanding Jewish golf professional, is diligently practicing for the next open meet. Two seasons ago, Herman came very close to beating Sarazen in the national open. Last year he did vanquish the great Gene but lost out to a student from Carnegie Tech.

Herman was at one time a caddy. He claims that this experience gave him a greater insight into the game and did more than anything else, except practice, to improve his game. His recommendation to the Jewish youth of America is: "To become a good golf player takes years of playing. However, a year of caddying will promote you from the duffer stage in no time. If more Jewish boys and girls would do caddying in their first year of golf we would have more Jewish golf champions today."

Temple Beth Israel

Activities have been resumed at Temple Beth Israel in preparation for the coming High Holy Days. Extensive alterations are underway to further beautify the Temple along plans begun last year. A program of activities comprising religious, educational and social events is being arranged to bring to further realization the extensive program launched last year. Great confidence is expressed by both Morris Chusmir, president of the congregation, and Mrs. Isadore Singer, president of the Sisterhood, for the coming year in view of the unusual success achieved last year. Under the new presidency of Hy Lisker, the Men's Club is also looking forward to a year of successful contributions to the welfare of the congregation.

Invitation to Membership

A cordial invitation is extended those of traditional point of view in Jewish life who yet want to be alive to modern conditions, to join as members the first modern conservative synagogue in Rhode Island. Samuel Baker, membership chairman, will be glad to explain membership details to all who are interested.

An innovation this year is the assigning of numbered seats to members and their families for the High Holy Days services.

Seats will be assigned in order of application. The High Holy Day Committee will sit at the Temple daily commencing next Sunday morning, at 10 o'clock, and every evening of the week.

Religious School Opening

The opening of the Religious School will follow the plan of the public schools in the city and registration will commence on Sunday, September 22. All former pupils of the school and new applicants are requested to be present at 10 o'clock on that day, when registration and assignment of classes will take place.

For the benefit of those children who are ready to attend Hebrew School, Mr. Shoham will be at the Temple every afternoon from 3 o'clock throughout the afternoon.

Congratulations

Congratulations are extended the Sherman family on the marriage of Dorothy to J. Eisenberg.

Congratulations are also extended Mr. and Mrs. Saul (nee Helen Levitt) Hodosh on the birth of a son.

Condolences

Heartfelt condolences are extended Mrs. Alexander Agronick on the untimely passing of her husband, and to Samuel and Fred Silverman on the loss of their mother.

HITLER NOW FAIR MARK FOR WALTER

WALTER WINCHELL

Ace columnist is again at liberty to take pot shots at Hitler

Hearst has taken the wraps off Walter Dinchell who has muzzled for a period of over a year after he was the first to tell the world how ridiculous Herr Hitler was. The great columnist is once again free to use his caustic phrases in chronicling the doings of the Nazi chieftain.

Word came exclusively to I. D. Claire of the Herald early today that "Velvet" will shortly dip his trenchant pen into a new pot of vitriolic ink and that he will paint Hitler in his own inimitable way. This is good news to the thousands of Winchell's Jewish readers. His column, published in the New York Mirror and syndicated all over the world, may shortly be expected to contain some of his pungent allusions to the little guy with the little moustache.

His message to I. D. Claire simply said, "from now on, everything goes." Messages of sympathy to Mr. Hitler are now in order.
