Time Out On Resettlement

The British Government's decision to suspend, for duration of the war, its earlier offer of financial support for resettlement of refugees apparently ends hope of a comprehensive solution of this great problem before a peace settlement.

The acuteness of the problem has been reduced somewhat in Britain because refugees have temporarily been almost all absorbed into the war supplies industries; but the problem of immediate resettlement remains acute in Switzerland, Belgium and Holland.

The British decision clearly indicates that to other complicated issues which will appear at a later peace conference must also be added that of the future homes and conditions of Jews and other exiles, mainly from the Third Reich.

A Man and His Dream

Fritz Thyssen, the German steel baron, thought a few years ago that his country was sinking toward revolution. He looked about for a way to check the trend and his eye fell on Adolf Hitler.

Nazism sounded to Herr Thyssen like something that might save the capitalistic system in Germany. So he and his friends made up a pot of three million marks to help finance Hitler's campaign in 1933.

Once Hitler was in power, Thyssen's influence grew tremendously, — for a while. He became undisputed master of the great German steel trust, at the expense of various rivals who happened to be Jews or Catholics. He was, it seemed on top of the world.

But, as John T. Flynn, economist, wrote 20 months ago in Germany, "the state grows so vast, so powerful, so omnivorous that it may devour Thyssen as it devours all else." Today, sure enough, Thyssen is an exile in Switzerland. His "political attitude," he explains in a letter to the United States, "threatened to cause consequences which forced me to leave Germany."

This turnabout for Thyssen should be a warning for those American patriots who are backing rackets like the Knights of Camelia and the Christian Front. They, like Hitler's Brown Shirts, resemble the locust, in the embryonic state.

Now that he has time on his hands, Herr Thyssen should look up a fellow named Frankenstein for a nice chat. The two have a lot in common.

The G. O. P. hopes to capture the Presidency in 1940 in a short, six weeks' campaign. A sort of domestic "blitzkrieg"?

The forty-three men had been seized after an unauthorized military parade in the Beisan Valley on October 9th. Transjordan frontiersmen arrested the marchers and confiscated twenty rifles.

Walker Says Jews Need No Defense

NEW YORK. — Jews would be better off if they had fewer political defenders when "they need no defense," James J. Walker said last week at a meeting of the Jewish Theatrical Guild of America in the Ambassador Theater.

"The agitators only stir up the question and cause more trouble for Jews than would ordinarily be visited upon them," Mr. Walker said. "I think some one ought to establish at last the fact that we don't do Jews, Catholics or Protestants any favor by giving them the place they're entitled to. It implies we're making concessions."

Orthodox Jews Get Kosher Meat Rations

LONDON. — The question of the kosher meat supply when rationing is introduced in Britain has been the subject of negotiations between the Ministry of Food and the Board of Affairs for Shechita (Kosher slaughter).

The board has communicated with every Jewish community in the country, established its precise needs and notified the ministry of their requirements. The ministry is understood to be seeking to do everything possible to meet the Jewish needs, but obviously cannot guarantee that the kosher food supply will be maintained. Jews and vegetarians will have the privilege of obtaining an extra ration of butter or margarine instead of ham and bacon.

German Press Scores Weizmann

An address was also given by Mrs. Archibald Silverman, who had been a visitor in Poland during the summer. "All through my years," declared Mrs. Silverman, "I had heard of the poverty of Poland, but never did I dream I would see the equal of what I saw there just before the war. The death in New York of Prof. Heinrich Neumann, the world-famed specialist who numbered the great of the world among his patients, recalls an interesting anecdote . . . It concerns Count Ciano, Il Duce's son-in-law, and Foreign Minister, who during a visit to Vienna before the Anschluss, came to Dr. Neumann for treatment of a throat ailment . . . The treatment required considerable time . . . Ciano couldn't arrange to stay that long in Vienna . . . So upon his return to Rome, he arranged to have the specialist invited to lecture at Rome University, so that he could be treated by him during his stay . . . Fate, however, in the person of the Horrid Housepainter, intervened . . . Vienna was "Anschlussed," and with it Neumann was jailed . . . Ciano had to content himself with a treatment by a specialist of the home-grown variety . . . And, who knows, maybe the treatment wasn't successful and Ciano holds it against Hitler to this day . . .

The Brothers Nathanson, Phil and Leon, have added another unit to their Chain Candy stores . . . Monday is opening day at the Eddy and Weybosset streets location, which will be as modern as eating bar as these plantations have seen in many a meal time . . . Helen Stanzler is readying a lending library and card shop in the Alice building . . . Friends of Leona Smith will have to tune in Thursday instead of Tuesday next week, to hear her with Carl Tatz and his orchestra . . . If Sam Finegold acted a bit cocky early this week, charge it up to the high string of 150 he bowled on Monday night . . . From Sidney Skolsky comes the tale of the Berlin Jew whose shop was invaded by the Gestapo . . . While the Nazis were beating up their victim his parrot, perched high above their reach, kept up a running fire of derogatory comment on the Fuehrer and his cohorts . . . Finally the Nazis, having had their fill of fun with the Jews, started after the bird . . . Moaned the victim of assault and battery: "But if you catch him, remember that the views he expresses are his own, and not mine . . ."

Undefeated Rutgers To Clash With Brown

The undefeated Rutgers eleven, with a record of 12 triumphs and one tie in the last 13 starts, will clash with Brown on the morning of November 30, Rhode Island Thanksgiving Day, in one of the final classics on the 1939 Eastern Inter-Collegiate Football front.

To Brown, the game presents an excellent opportunity to close the season by toppling the hitherto unconquered Scarlet eleven into the ranks of the beaten, and thus end the campaign on a successful note.

The clash has equal importance for Rutgers, as Brown is the sole remaining obstacle blocking the Scarlet team from becoming the first team in Rutgers grid annals to complete a campaign unbeaten.

Teams representing the two universities have twice previously met in 1916 and 1937 with Brown victorious in both encounters after bitter struggles.

Goralnik - Reizen

In a setting of white flowers, fernery and palms, Miss Sylvia Reizen, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Reizman of 155 Fifth street, became the bride of William Bernard Goralnik, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Goralnik of Ray street, Fall River, on November 12. The nuptials were performed at Sunset Lodge, with Dr. Israel M. Goldman of Temple Emanuel, and Rabbi Jacob Freedman of Temple Beth-El, Fall River, officiating.

The bride's gown was a long-sleeved, full-skirted model of white faille taffeta. The high neckline was fashioned with a collar of white paillettes, and her finger-tip veil fell from a Juliet cap of matching white paillettes. She carried a white bible with a shower marker of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. David Freedman as matron of honor. She was attractively dressed in a draped gown of ice blue lame and net, and wore a hat to match. Her Colonial bouquet was of American beauty roses, surrounded by ruching of net to match her gown.

Becomingly attired in a gown of royal blue crepe was the mother of the bride, and she wore a corsage of gardenias. The bridegroom's mother was dressed in a gown of teal blue, and also wore gardenias.

Leonard Goralnik, brother of the bridegroom, attended as best man. Serving as ushers were Dr. David Freedman, Leo Kopit, George Reizen, brother of the bride, and Alfred Steiner of this city, and Philip Feldman and Henry Goldberg of Fall River. The reception which followed the ceremony was attended by relatives from New York, Newark, Troy, Hartford, Boston and this city. Close friends of the couple also attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Goralnik are now on a motor trip to St. Louis, and on returning will make their home in Fall River.

Sunset Lodge in Sharon, Mass., was the scene last Sunday of the marriage of Miss Bertha Factoroff, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Factoroff of Pinehurst avenue, to Milton Mezoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Mezoff of Revere, Mass.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a fitted gown of white satin, fashioned with a V-neckline and very wide skirt. Her finger-tip veil was held in place by a tiara of pearls, and she carried a white bible, covered with white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Miss Mildred Factoroff, sister of the bride, attended as maid of honor. She was smartly dressed in an old-fashioned gown of aqua taffeta, and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of baby roses. The bridegroom was attended by his nephew as best man.

The mother of the bride was chic in a gown of black lace, complemented by a corsage of gardenias. Black velvet was worn by the bridegroom's mother, and her flowers were also gardenias.

Dinner and dancing followed the ceremony, and was attended by guests from Lawrence, Boston, Brockton, and this city. The couple left for a wedding trip to New York and Washington, after which they will reside on Following dinner, forty tables of bridge were in play. Guests attended from New Haven, Worcester, Newport, Fall River, Bristol, Warren and this city.

Miss Greenberg will become the bride of Samuel Eisenstadt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Eisenstadt, of this city on December 24. Mrs. Greenberg and Mrs. Eisenstadt were hostesses for the affair.

BY EDYTHE JAY

Fashion with her whimsical ways
Keeps us constantly in a daze . . .
But we must give her credit where it's due
Everything she plans is planned for you . . .
Her new craze started with the snood
She's now going through the "cover-up" mood . . .

Where are you? . . . We're not playing a game of hide-and-seek, or anything as infantile as all that . . . We're just telling you where you are (or should be) if you're following the newest decree of Dame Fashion . . .

You're hidden beneath magnificent clothes that make the most of you this season . . . They cover you up practically completely . . . Witness the photograph to the left . . . Your dress is "painted on," from neck to hem . . . It's-in at your tiny waist, and out over the curves of your figure . . . Your long-sleeves come right down to your wrist . . . Your hat — well it completely covers your hair, except your widow's peak, if you've got one . . . Your cover-up shoes, which cannot be seen on the model pictured, give your feet Chinese delicacy . . . You'll be a triumphant success in such an outfit for formal afternoons, or informal evenings . . . Madame Fashion practically gives a written guarantee to that effect . . .

Colorama

Germaine Monteil, who showed her resort collection to the fashion press in Gotham on Monday, scored a startling hit with her new colours . . . For evening wear, she launched the combination of the Algerian shades of red and turquoise . . . She featured a clear sapphire blue, and a champagne diamond tint that has more of a yellowish cast than ivory . . . Not to be treated lightly is that new Chinese tea colour—it will strike you at first as being a bit insipid, but after wearing it, you'll declare it mellow as a cello and definitely on the exotic side . . .

Council Meeting

Well, now to get down to more tangible things, we covered the meeting of the Council Women last Tuesday afternoon at the Narragansett Hotel . . . The news story you'll find in another column of this issue, and the style notes follow now . . . Mrs. Pierre Brunschwieg wore an interesting black frock, with large puffed sleeves of beige, embroidered with flowers of cheerful colours . . . Her hat was a draped beret . . . Mrs. Edwin O. Halpert contrasted her wool frock of nile green with a felt hat of dubonnet . . . The matching snood was of velvet . . .

Mrs. Perry Bernstein was wearing a bottle green suit, contrasted by a cashmere cardigan of beige . . . Her hat was a darling little thing of sheared beaver . . . Mrs. Nathan Levitt appeared in frock of that new snuff brown . . . Her accessories were of the same colour, and she topped the outfit by a jacket of longish brown fur . . . Mrs. Leo Cohen had on a black frock, which was given a lacey-look near the shoulder line, with its cut-out and appliqued design . . . Mrs. Adolf Meller wore a trim frock of black wool . . . With her Persian coat, she selected a black toque, trimmed with matching fur . . . That was all we had time for at the Council meeting . . .

Chill Winds

The season's smartest coats came out in all their glory this week, when the chill winds began to blow . . . Mrs. Isaac Weiser wore a very pretty one of black, trimmed with mink, and a charming chapeau of black resting on her brownish blonde hair . . . Ann Fishman in a sophisticated black coat with a graceful collar of silver fox . . . A pom pom of the same fur perched itself on top of her becoming hat . . . Molly Weinberg appeared in an elegant leopard coat, and her uppid hat of black, was banded with leopard in a sort of halo effect . . . Charlotte Scherer in a coat and hat of beige cleverly trimmed with skunk . . .

Well, we've chattered sufficiently for one week, so you may call this the FINIS . . .
