Jews Show Highest Ratio In Giving To Charities - Individuals

ANN HARBOR, Mich. — Jewish giving to charitable causes is unmatched by any other religious group in the United States, it was revealed in a study by Dr. James N. Morgan, professor of economics at the University of Michigan. American Jews, the survey said, do not however give to their religious institutions as much as other religious groups. The Jewish percentage of giving religious institutions is 55 percent as against 67 percent by Lutherans, 65 percent by Catholics and 63 percent by Episcopalians.

With respect to charitable contributions, the study showed that 51 percent of American Jews contribute $50 or more annually as against 43 percent by Episcopalians, 25 percent by Lutherans and 20 percent by Catholics.

Jews also show the highest ratio of giving to individuals.

The Guadalajara community, consisting of both Sephardi and Ashkenazi Jews, announced that its United Jewish Committee, which includes local lodge of B'nai B'rith, asked only that the school be named after Anne Frank. The Mexican Press hailed the announcement as "a noble gesture".

Sen. Keating Calls Middle East Policies Of U. S. 'Amoral'

WASHINGTON — Senator Kenneth B. Keating, New York Republican, charged the U. S. Government with "treating Israel as a distant cousin while we dote over its Arab enemies like they were our brothers." He said that U. S. policies in the Middle East were "amoral" in that America appeases the Arabs in the name of "neutrality regardless of morality."

The Senator spoke at a dinner marking the centennial of Temple Beth Israel here. He warned against the sabotage of President Kennedy's foreign policy by high officials. He pointed out that Chairman J. W. Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee pushed concepts contrary to the President's views. "While the President speaks like Winston Churchill and may well be prepared to act like Churchill, many of his key advisers speak like Neville Chamberlain and are prepared to encourage the President to act like Chamberlain."

Senator Keating pointed out that "as a result of Arab pressure, our State Department does not assign Americans of the Jewish faith to any posts in Arab or other Moslem countries. Fearing to tread on Arab toes, it has done nothing to protect freedom of navigation through the Suez Canal. It has even refused to come to the aid of American businessmen, of any faith, placed on the Arab blacklist because of trade with Israel."

He held that these conditions should not be tolerated. "If there is to be any international blacklist, I would hope our Government would maintain one against any country which discriminates against Americans of any faith. Our present practice not only gives away American dollars with no strings attached, it actually allows the beneficiary to impose un-American conditions on the aid we are giving them. Such a policy cannot win us any respect. Neither does it serve the cause of peace," Senator Keating emphasized.

SENTENCE MOSLEM

CASABLANCA — Mohammed Diab Abbissi, a Moslem accused of "aiding Jews trying to get to Israel," last week was sentenced here to life imprisonment. The court found him guilty on a charge of "harming the internal and external security of the State."

Anti-Defamation League Claims JWV Report 'Greatly Exaggerated'

CHICAGO — An assertion by an agent for the Jewish War Veterans that there were 75 to 100 "hard core" Nazis living in Chicago was strongly contradicted last week by the Anti-Defamation League midwest office and the Chicago Police Security section.

Herman Hornsby, the JWV informant, told a city-wide press conference that he had found a large active Nazi front under the name of "Fighting American Nationalists." He said the group distributed most of its literature to students in Chicago high schools.

Police Sergeant Burton Lovely of the Security Section, calling Hornsby's report "greatly exaggerated," said that "no more than five or six Nazis are known in this area." William Pinsley, ADL midwest director of fact-finding, estimated that six to ten Nazis were busy in the Chicago area.

Several Clash Over 'Demanding' Leaflets

TEL AVIV — Several young communists were under arrest last week as the result of a clash which developed when they tried to distribute leaflets demanding an investigation into the recent border incidents in which five Arab youths were killed in clandestine efforts to sneak over the border into the Egyptian-held Gaza Strip.

The leaflets, which contained photographs of the bodies of the five Arab youths and a demand for a committee to determine whether their slayings were "crime or accident," were signed by the "Movement of Defenders of Democracy," a communist-sponsored student group.

Oscar Shabet, director of human relations for the Chicago Board of Education, reported that an investigation of the schools mentioned by Hornsby had failed to uncover any new evidence of Nazi infiltration. He said that several weeks ago one boy at the Prosser high school aroused the wrath of fellow students by trying to distribute Nazi literature.

The ADL official criticized the Jewish War Veterans for making the Nazi group front page news. He said that while the group did exist, "they are operating on a shoe string and their members have considerable inability to promote anything approaching a serious mass movement."

Wants Say In Religious Broadcasts

MONTREAL — The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has been urged to name a representative of Canadian Jewry to its Religious Advisory Council and to review pre-Easter performances of the Passion and Crucifixion story presented by the network.

The proposals were made to J. Alphonse Quimet, president of the CBC, by the Canadian Jewish Congress. The requests included the contention that, since there was no official relationship in Canada between the state and any particular church, "It would be fairest to include as wide a representation as possible of different faiths."

Asserting that such action "would in no way be a disparagement of the many smaller Christian denominations" in Canada, the Congress said that in a national group which should include many differing religious viewpoints, "surely a group with as pronounced a viewpoint as our and with as long an historical background in this country, should not be in the position of having its point of view represented by persons who, however sympathetic and well disposed, are not followers of that religion."

'Matters of Conscience'

The memorandum emphasized that "in matters of conscience numbers cannot be the decisive factor," and added that the "criterion of admission" to the religious advisory group "would seem to be that of numbers." Even on that basis, the memorandum asserted, consideration should be given to naming a representative of the Jewish religion to the council "to make it a body which truly reflects its name and intention."

In discussing performances of the Passion and Crucifixion stories, the memorandum noted that the performances have frequently evoked "dissatisfaction or resentment among elements within the Jewish community" who were provoked "either by the technique of presentation or the line taken by the plot, the emphasis frequently following the tradition of seeing 'the Jews' as perpetrators of deicide."

Golda Meir Offers Arabs New Pact

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — A non-aggression pact was offered last week to the Arab countries by Mrs. Golda Meir, Israel's Foreign Minister, addressing the United Nations General Assembly. She also proposed that the UN start the job of attaining general and complete disarmament by using the Middle East "as a pilot project for the solution of the overall problem."

The Israel Foreign Minister also offered "regional cooperation" with the neighboring Arab countries in development programs, particularly with regard to water resources. She addressed the UN Assembly not only on Israel-Arab issues but also on various other major problems facing the current session of the General Assembly.

Mrs. Meir's 90-minute speech was loudly applauded by many delegations, including a number of representatives of the new African and Asian nations. It was an address which was seen as observing Mrs. Meir's own plea for the avoidance of "bellicose" propaganda and threatening verbal attacks against any and all nations.

Above all, Mrs. Meir pleaded with the General Assembly to re-establish and reaffirm universal acceptance of the principal of negotiations on all international issues. "If this Assembly," she said, "will succeed in rededicating itself to the universal and total implementation of the principle of negotiation — then, indeed, it will be a historic Assembly."

All issues, she asserted, including those dividing the Arab States from Israel, can be settled by negotiations. She expressed Israel's readiness and willingness to negotiate with the Arab states on every issue at dispute between them. Israel's belief is, she emphasized, that negotiation "is the only alternative to war."

"For our part, we remain ready to negotiate at any time or place, with any Arab leader, and without prior conditions, in order to settle the differences between us," Mrs. Meir stressed. Pending "the willingness of the Arab governments to conclude a final peace settlement," the Israeli Foreign Minister told the Assembly, there are no steps that could be taken "to relax tensions, allay mutual fears and pave the road to peace."

These steps, she said, include "an Arab-Israel non-aggression pact, the parties to which would undertake to respect each other's territorial integrity and political independence, to refrain from all hostile acts of a military, economic or political character, to settle all existing and future differences by pacific means, and to cease incitement and inflammatory propaganda."

German Publishing House Is "Literary Pacemaker"

BONN, Germany — Virtually unnoticed by the public, one of Germany's outstanding publishing houses has rounded out seventy-five business years determined to continue its role as "literary pacemaker", according to the N. Y. Times.

For the S. Fischer Verlag of Frankfurt, abuse and persecution by the Nazi regime that necessitated an odyssey spanning oceans were but one chapter in a long struggle against prejudice.

The tenacity that made S. Fischer, founder of the house, fight back and overcome under the Kaiser to suppress literary freedom was paralized after World War II when the present owners returned from their domicile in the United States.

In the eleven years that have passed since then, Dr. Gottfried Bermann-Fischer and his wife Brigitte, a daughter of S. Fischer, have worked tirelessly to bring back to the German reader authors of world renown ranging in the intellectual spectrum from Thomas Mann to Arthur Miller.

Success Is Spectacular

The Fischers' success has been spectacular, particularly among the student or other young reader who wanted quality for prices he could afford.

As did S. Fischer before the turn of the century, his successors met the demand for low price entertainment, literature by publishing paperbacks. In addition, the house introduced paperback series of scientific works that have won wide acclaim throughout the country.

The Kaiser's Comment

Outstanding in the latter category is a thirty-five-volume encyclopedia, twenty-eight volumes of which have been published so far. The success of the series is reflected in the fact that no volume is printed with fewer than 100,000 copies.

Planned for the next three years are two additional series, one on world history, the other entitled "World in the Making."

Of S. Fischer, who introduced Tolstoy, Dostoyevski, Zola, Ibsen, Schuitler and George Bernard Shaw to German readers and was instrumental in making the names of Gerhard Hauptmann and Thomas Mann bywords of literary quality, a nationalistic Kaiser Wilhelm once said: "His trend is despicable."

Hitler, about thirty years later, did not leave it at that. The publishing house was closed by the Nazis as a "Jewish enterprise and disseminator of asphalt literature."

Contributors to this "asphalt literature" at the time included Eugene O'Neil, John Dos Passos, John Steinbeck, Franz Werfel and Heinrich Mann.

Dr. Bermann-Fischer dissolved the concern when his father-in-law died in 1934. A year later the Fischers started their long trek through Switzerland, Austria and Sweden before reaching the United States in 1940.

They were naturalized in 1946 and have retained their American citizenship.

Latin America Seen Rejecting Nazi Attempts At Anti-Semitism

NEW YORK — The conscience of the Latin American peoples would not permit neo-Nazi elements to instigate anti-Jewish excesses, Dr. Moises Goldman, of Buenos Aires, Chairman of the South American Executive of the World Jewish Congress, told World Jewish Congress leaders in New York last Friday. Dr. Goldman and Rabbi F. Winter, of Montevideo, President of the WJC Committee in Uruguay, were guests at a luncheon in World Jewish Congress headquarters.

The two Latin American Jewish leaders have held consultations with World Jewish Congress officers as well as with other major Jewish bodies.

Dr. Goldman said that occasionally conditions in South America present an opportunity for neo-Nazis to generate discord. But the bulk of the South American peoples, "desiring harmonious collaboration between all sections of the population for the advancement of their land and of humanity", rejected such elements.

There might be trouble in Latin American lands, even serious trouble, the WJC leaders observed, "but there is no room for pogroms. Neither would the conscience of South America permit them, nor would they be tolerated by the organized Jewish communities." The unity of Latin American Jewry, fostered by the World Jewish Congress which has affiliates in all Latin American lands, was a factor in the conviction that anti-Semitic elements would have no success.

Rabbi Winter, of Montevideo, who is the founder of the Uruguayan Conference of Christians and Jews, said that he had just visited Paraguay and, with the cooperation of leading Christians and Jews in Asuncion, had established a Paraguayan Conference of Christians and Jews. There were now such organizations in four countries of Latin America - Argentina, Costa Rica, Paraguay and Uruguay — and Rabbi Winter expressed the hope that similar groups would be established throughout Latin America.

I was sitting West. I led the six of spades, South covered with the ten. East took the ace and played the queen. South then tabled his hand and said to East: "If you hold the king of clubs I claim the rest. There is an automatic squeeze." He was, of course, right. Incidentally, the result would have been the same if at trick 1 East had gone up with the jack of spades instead of the ace, for in the end she would have been thrown in to lead away from the king of clubs.

I attempted to console South for the lost slam bonus of $500 by saying that against 6NT I would have led the jack of clubs. In a flash, however, he rightly retorted that 6D by his partner was quite unbreakable against any lead or defense.

The reason facilities were not available until now is that prior to this year, despite all the efforts of the Hillel Rabbi, the university refused to offer reductions in the board fee to those students who desired to observe the traditional dietary laws. This meant that the student would have had to pay twice for each meal, once to the university and once for the meal he actually did eat, and there were never more than two or three individuals willing to incur this financial burden. Now, due both to the university's new policy of offering a substantial reduction to observant students, and to the availability of pre-cooked frozen kosher dinners, there are over a dozen students participating in the co-op; and with the addition of a recently ordered freezer, its efficiency will greatly increase.

I might add that the acquisition and renovation of Froebel Hall will enable Hillel to centralize, broaden and improve upon the facilities for all of its religious, cultural and social activities, and that the purchase of this new building was, in large measure, the result of constant effort and work on the part of the Hillel Rabbi.

In view of these facts, and in view also of the series of comprehensive study groups on such topics as Hebrew, Bible and history led by the Hillel Rabbi and available to the Jewish student body without charge, I find it hard to see how the Hillel Director can be regarded as anything else but a religious, educational and spiritual leader.

Sincerely,

In Hollywood . . .

Hollywood, California -- Don't miss the "Drop of Blood" segment of the "Have Gun, Will Travel" television series in which you will observe Richard Boone, Paladin, as witness for a Chassidic wedding dramatic rite under the chupah. The bride's father is Martin Gabel (he's Mr. Arlene Francis of "What's My Line" fame). The bride is Roxane Berard, who in real life escaped from the Nazis. Rabbi Reb Elya is played by Milton Selzer in this early west setting.

REMEMBER your agonies as a kid trying to absorb the complexities of your Hebrew lessons under the jackhammer prodings of the old-fashioned Talmud Torah instructor complete with lochshen strap or am I pre-dating you, sir? Anyway, I had been thinking these past few years how blessed is the daily existence of the kids in Israel because they obviously know and speak Hebrew so what's left for them to dread? Well, I just learned what -- they have to learn Arabic! Will the tortures of the oppressed never cease?

BLESS Myron Cohen for topping his "Laughing Out Loud" Citadel book with his new "More Laughing Out Loud." When Myron appeared here at the Coconut Grove, he phoned me almost daily to express his gratitude for column items I had used about him. Some of the Yiddish gems I love in his latest volume follow. . . . A man told his partner: "Max, putting something away for a rainy day is foolish." Max: "That's what Noah's neighbors said when he was building his ark."

COHEN also asks in his book: "If it takes two to make a bargain, how come only one gets it?" . . . He noted this sign in a restaurant: "Special Today. What We Couldn't Get Rid of Yesterday" . . . And I like the one about the husband who complained to his wife: "Will you please stop all those suicide attempts? Look at this gas bill!"

THE LATE Jeff Chandler's final picture "Merrill's Marauders," with Jeff playing General Merrill, will be released soon . . . Wolfie Gilbert who, among several hundred song hits, wrote "Ramona," recently celebrated his 76th birthday.

PERHAPS it's typical of your city, too. Here in Hollywood, we have a fashionable Jewish country club. Their ire was aroused recently when a sports columnist on a Los Angeles daily newspaper wrote that they have wall-to-wall carpeting in their showers. So, this gahntzeh macha who likes to stir up trouble, apologized in a later column and said he really didn't see anything wrong with their wall-to-wall carpeting in the showers because they matched the drapes.

REMARKS I'll never forget. At the Gary Cooper Friars testimonial, prior to Cooper's untimely death, George Jessel said: "I've spoken for Catholic, Protestant and Jewish benefits. The Moslems I'm not so close to anymore. However, I'm perfectly willing to get up in the middle of the night anytime and say Kahdish for Nasser."

GJC Campaign Totals $450,965

The 1961 campaign total of the General Jewish Committee now stands at $450,965.

Merrill L. Hassenfeld, general campaign chairman, said this figure represents an increase of $61,576 or 15.8 percent over last year from the same 879 contributors. Last year's total for the same number of gifts was $389,389.

Mr. Hassenfeld expressed gratification with the results thus far but added that contributions for the remainder of the campaign must continue at an increased pace in order for the drive to attain its goal of a 25 percent increase over last year's $640,000 total.

The present total includes all gifts up to October 13. It does not include M-Day contributions or other gifts made to the GJC campaign since October 13.

The remaining final major event in the 1961 GJC campaign is D-Day -- the one-day house-to-house drive -- on Sunday morning, Oct. 29.

Bridge
On TV

In the United States, television bridge programs have been undertaken with great care and skill, and as a result they enjoy tremendous popularity. There is a film series, shown throughout the North American continent, which is produced by Walter Schwimmer (famous for his sports films) and presided over by the best-known American bridge writer -- Charles Goren.

Two well-known pairs play against each other for four hands as if it were rubber bridge. The winning pair receives $1,000 and the losers have to console themselves for their trouble with a mere $500. On top of this, big prizes for slams are given, and the performers are treated with characteristically generous American hospitality.

I recently took part in such a program. The fourth and last hand of these jousts is exciting if the scores are close. With East-West game and South the leader, the bidding went.

Editor's Mailbox Supports Work Of Rabbi Nathan Rosen

Dear Sir:

I am saddened that Mr. Harris Miller, who apparently believes that he is a defender of traditional Judaism, has so far demeaned himself as to belie basic Jewish ethical principles by giving vent to a series of distortions, vicious innuendos and plain untruths incorporated in his letter which you published on October 13, 1961.

If the said Mr. Harris Miller had first made the slightest effort to discover the Truth about the operations of the Hillel Foundation at Brown University, he would have easily found out the following facts:

1. The Hillel Director at Brown (who, incidentally, was ordained as an Orthodox Rabbi) has bent every effort to see that those students who, on religious principle, want to observe Kashruth, are provided with the opportunity to do so. In many cases over the years, this director has placed Jewish students in Kosher homes for their meals.

2. With the extremely limited facilities available at the Hillel House at present, he has arranged for hot kosher meals to be available there each day. This has been

Hillel President Answers Mr. Miller

Dear Sir,

I feel compelled to correct the misinformation in Mr. Harris Miller's letter regarding the religious facilities available at the Hillel Foundation at Brown University. Although I am unaware which "Brown University Student" provided Mr. Miller with his facts, it is clear that the student was totally ignorant of the situation.

The Hillel Foundation at Brown most certainly does have provisions for both religious services and kosher meals. Sabbath services are held every Friday night during the school year at Manning Chapel on the Brown campus. The service is based upon the Rabbinical Assembly Prayer Book used by most Conservative congregations. For the more Orthodox, Saturday morning services have been introduced this year at which the traditional prayer book is utilized. Also, at the beginning of every academic year, every student is informed of the times and locations of all services at the main synagogues and temples in Providence.

Concerning kosher meals, a kosher co-op is now functioning at the Hillel Lounge on Angell St.

going on for almost two years.

3. Having acquired Froebel Hall, one of the first concerns is the establishment of a Kosher kitchen with proper facilities to provide kosher meals for all students who want to maintain this basic religious practice.

4. Since traditional orthodox religious services depend entirely on the existence of at least a Minyan who want such services, it is interesting to note that only this year was there a sufficient number of students who indicated an interest therein. The Hillel director immediately arranged for such Sefar Torah, Taleisim and Siddurim, and, coincidentally, the first such service was held on October 14, 1961, in the Hillel Lounge.

5. For many years Friday night services have been conducted at Brown by the Hillel director, using a prayer book, which while used at Conservative synagogues, contains all the prayers used in "traditional" services. I do not believe this is the place to discuss the format of services -- we all know that differences exist even as among orthodox synagogues. But I wonder if Mr. Harris Miller really realizes the implications in his statement concerning certain traditional services which satisfy everyone.

The real violation of the traditional code of Jewish manners committed by Mr. Harris Miller, however, lies in the nastiness in which he phrases his loaded question: "What is the purpose of a Hillel Rabbi at a college -- to give religious guidance or act as a social director?" Having been close to the Hillel movement for over a decade, I can only say that Mr. Miller is completely ignorant of both the functions and the practices of Hillel Directors -- and especially of the manner in which they are carried out in this city. He should have talked to the many students -- and their parents -- whose serious personal problems have been the dedicated concern of the Hillel Director. He should have inquired about the many study groups concerned with basic Jewish thought which are conducted several times a week by the Hillel Director.

But above all, may I recommend to Mr. Harris Miller that he attend the class in Pirke Avoth (Ethics of the Fathers) which is given by Rabbi Nathan Rosen at Brown's Hillel House every Thursday evening at 7:00 P.M. Then, on the next Yom Kippur, perhaps Mr.

Harris Miller might say a special "Al Chate" for the good of his immortal soul.

Rabbi Disputes Priest's Words

NEW YORK — In an article by the Rev. L. C. McHugh, associate editor of the Jesuit magazine "America," entitled "Ethics at the Shelter Doorway," the declaration was made, "If you are already secured in your shelter and others try to break in, they may be treated as unjust aggressors and repelled with whatever means will effectively deter their assault."

Not specifically singling out this article, a leading rabbi has labeled as "blasphemous" and "unspeakable" any use of violence by a family to keep a neighbor from breaking into its fallout shelter during a nuclear attack.

Rabbi Maurice N. Eisendrath, in an implicit attack on such a statement, said the government should build community shelters to ward off even the temptation to violence.

Dr. Eisendrath, president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, offered his views on the idea of violence to protect family or private fallout shelters at a luncheon by Promoting Enduring Peace, Inc., honoring him for his contributions to peace.

He did not single out the article by the Rev. L. C. McHugh, but his remarks could be construed as aimed at the article's thesis that man has a moral right to use violence to prevent an unprepared neighbor from entering his shelter during attack.

"Our mandate is not to place a stamp of morality on the unspeakable and blasphemous—neighbor shooting neighbor—in order to protect the inviolability of his shelter in the ruins" said Dr. Eisendrath at the luncheon in the Community Church, 40 E. 35th St.

"It is the morality of men and affairs which challenges us, not the morality of moles or other underground creatures, slithering in storm cellars," he said.

In his article, Father McHugh declared "The father of a family is tied to his wife and children by bonds of both love and justice. He may not idly stand by and then explain that his cowardice is actually a wholehearted obedience to the Biblical injunction to overcome evil by good."

Our Younger Set — Gary Marc, five and one half, and Lori Beth, 2 years old, are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kosofsky of Providence. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kosofsky and paternal great grandfather is Abraham Reminick, all of Providence.

Prominent Soviet Writer Defends Russian Poet

MOSCOW — A disputed poem by Yevgeny Yevtushenko: "Babi Yar," which was published recently in Literaturnaya Gazeta implies that latent anti-Semitism persists in the Soviet Union. Ilya Ehrenburg, the Soviet writer, dissociated himself last week from an attack on this popular poet who has stirred much controversy here by denouncing anti-Semitism, according to the New York Times.

Mr. Ehrenburg is the latest prominent figure in the Soviet literary world to indicate his support of Mr. Yevtushenko despite sharp criticism of the 28-year-old poet in the Soviet press.

The poem, "Babi Yar," takes its name from a ravine at Kiev capital of the Ukraine, where tens of thousands of Jews were slaughtered by the Nazis during World War II. Mr. Yevtushenko set the theme of his poem by protesting that no memorial had been erected at Babi Yar.

Ehrenburg Opposes Article

In a two-sentence statement published by Literaturnaya Gazeta on the bottom of its back page, Mr. Ehrenburg made plain his opposition to an article reprimanding Mr. Yevtushenko.

The article, written by D. Starikov, a Soviet critic and published in Literature i Zhizn, organ of the Union of Writers of the Russian Republic, accused Mr. Yevtushenko of blacksliding into bourgeois ideological sins of chauvinism and nationalism because he had paid special attention to the Jewish victims of the Nazis.

To support his thesis that sympathy must go out to the Nazi victims irrespective of nationality, Mr. Starikov quoted from poems and articles written during the war by Mr. Ehrenburg, who is a Jew. The extracts from Mr. Ehrenburg's works emphasized the Nazi genocidal approach to many nationalities.

Extracts Questioned

In his rejoinder Mr. Ehrenburg

said: "While abroad I received an issue of Literatura i Zhizn of Sept. 27 in which there was published an article by Starikov. I deem it necessary to say that Starikov quotes from my articles and poems according to his own desires, abbreviating them so they correspond to his ideas and contradict mine."

Mr. Ehrenburg has spoken out in the past against anti-Semitism in the Soviet Union. During the celebration last January of his seventieth birthday, he said in a broadcast:

"I am a Russian writer. But as long as there is even one anti-Semite I will respond and I will have it written in my passport: I am a Jew."

The Soviet Union requires that its citizens indicate their nationality in their internal passports.

Poet Weathers Tempest

Mr. Yevtushenko whose poems have aroused the ire of the Soviet authorities before, seems to have weathered his latest tempest well.

Friends of the poet said he was expected to leave soon for a two-month visit to Cuba.

Mr. Yevtushenko's poems have continued to be printed and recited publicly. The poet was warmly applauded by thousands of persons in Moscow's Mayakosky Square on Poetry Day, when he read two of his works.

Without mentioning the controversial poem "Babi Yar," Vera Inber, a Soviet poet, has published a favorable review of Mr. Yevtushenko's works.

TRAVEL TAX

JERUSALEM — The Finance Committee of Israel's Parliament approved an Israel Treasury proposal for an increase of 40 pounds in the foreign travel tax. The increase will replace the 40 pound fee charged for exit visas, a source of revenue which was terminated when abolition of exit visas became effective.

Congregation Mishkan Tefilah Purchases Property On East Side

Congregation Mishkan Tefilah, whose original synagogue on Howell Street was torn down to make way for the Lippitt Street development, recently signed the papers for the purchase of land on which to build a new synagogue. The land, shown above, from the Howard C. Barber Realty Corp. is located at the southeast corner of Eighth Street and Summit Avenue. The congregation which has been without a synagogue since April 1960 has held its services at the Jewish Community Center. Abraham Linder, president, said that they hoped to be able to hold services for the High Holidays next year in their own building.

The congregation expects to spend between $60,000 and $65,000 on the building, furnishings and upkeep of the synagogue, which will include a synagogue, a chapel, a coatroom, a kitchen and lavatory facilities. The land cost approximately $35,000.

The property includes a two-car garage and four lots of land. Since there is a great deal of land at the side of the house, the house and garage will not have to be razed, according to Mr. Linder. The name of the architect and of the builders have not yet been decided on, although a board meeting of the members of the congregation held after the deed went through, approved consultation with an architect.

According to Mr. Linder, the congregation now has 35 family members. He feels that there is a need for an orthodox synagogue on the East Side of Providence and believes that when the building is completed the congregation will grow to more than twice its present size.

Present at the signing of the papers for the land purchase were Mr. Linder, Sidney Pickar, vice-president of the congregation, Aaron S. Helford, attorney for the congregation and Jacob S. Temkin, attorney for the Howard C. Barber Realty Corp.

First Israeli-Made Car To Be Shown In R. I.

The first Israeli made car can now be purchased in Rhode Island. The Sabra, the only utility vehicle built from fiberglass, is on display at Summit Sales, Inc., 9 Post Road, Warwick, sole distributor of the car in the state.

Leo A. Swann, owner of Summit Sales, feels that it is particularly appropriate that the car was built in the 13th year of Israel's statehood — its Bar Mitzvah year.

The Sabra lineup, in addition to its station wagon, sedan and panel truck, includes a two-seat sports roadster with sleek graceful lines and a removable hard top. Priced in the lower brackets, the Sabra does 43 miles to a gallon of gasoline.

The car will be shown for the first time in Rhode Island at the 1962 Mobilrama which will be held from Oct. 25 through 29 at the Cranston Street Armory in Providence.

HEADS TECHNION

HAIFA — Dr. David Ginsberg, a 41-year-old native of New York, assumed his new duties as acting head of the Technion-Israel Institute of Technology. A professor of chemistry at the Technion, Dr. Ginsburg temporarily replaces Gen. Yaacov Dori, who has taken a year's leave of absence for health reasons.

Israel High Court Test Authority Of Rabbinate

JERUSALEM — The High Court of Israel, the supreme judicial authority, has ordered rabbinical authorities to explain their ruling that a man may take a second wife when his first wife, taken in a civil marriage, will not agree to a divorce. The religious authorities appear determined to force a test of strength against civil authorities in matters of marriage and divorce, according to a report by Lawrence Fellows of the New York Times.

Rabbi M. J. E. Wohlgelemer, general secretary of the Chief Rabbinate, said today that Chief Rabbi Yitzhak Nissim has ruled that the High Court's order is interference in an area clearly within the competence of rabbinical authorities and has forbidden them to respond to it.

There is no civil marriage in Israel. Under a law passed in 1953, rabbinical courts have sole jurisdiction in matters of marriage and divorce as they have in most other matters of personal status.

Jurisdiction Debated

Problems of jurisdiction still arise over marriages contracted before the law was passed or performed outside Israel, as was the case with a Jaffa couple whose status is now being contested.

Mr. and Mrs. Zalvi Mashiah were married nearly fourteen years ago in a civil ceremony in Bulgaria. She was a Christian but converted to Judaism six months later. Two years after that they emigrated to Israel.

Last year, Mr. Mashiah applied to the Rabbinical Court in Tel Aviv for a divorce, contending that his wife had not borne him any children and that Jewish law permitted divorce on this ground after ten years of marriage.

Mrs. Mashiah offered to accept a divorce provided that she was granted alimony. Her husband would not agree to this.

Last March, the Rabbinical Court ruled that Mr. Mashiah had no claim to alimony as there had not been a religious marriage ceremony. The court also ruled that unless Mrs. Mashiah agreed to a divorce within two weeks, her husband could take a second wife.

Mrs. Mashiah took her case to the Rabbinical Court of Appeals in Jerusalem, but on Aug. 9 it upheld the decision of the Rabbinical cal Court in Tel Aviv.

She then petitioned the High Court as a civil authority, and contended in her application that in the thousands of civil marriages that already exist in Israel, the ruling would permit husbands to take second wives if they wanted.

CENTER ORCHESTRA TO MEET

Jail Hate Peddler On Bribe Charge

SAN FRANCISCO — Frank L. Britton, ranked as one of the worst of the professional anti-Semites in the United States, has been sentenced to a term in San Quentin prison after conviction of trying to bribe two San Francisco police officers.

Britton, who came from Los Angeles last year to San Francisco, where he tried to revive his hate sheet, The American Nationalist, became involved in a fight in a tavern. He allegedly made the bribe offer to the police who were taking him to jail on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. He was carrying a .38-caliber revolver for which he did not have a permit.

Between his arrest and conviction, he issued pleading letters for funds to one-time followers, despite the fact that at his arrest, he was found to possess $3,000 in cash.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

by Sylvia Porter

HOT STOCKS GET ICY

This past spring, a brilliant executive in the advertising field did a fine job of ruining my luncheon date with him by talking at length about the fabulous fortunes he was making by buying the "hot" new issues flooding Wall Street at the time. He named four he had bought -- two had doubled in price within 48 hours, one had tripled in a week, one had more than quadrupled. "I got chunks of each and I'm holding them for a long-term capital gain," said he and he chuckled at how easy it was to get rich quick in new stock issues.

Indifferent as I am to stock tips -- hot, cold or medium -- it was no fun to admit that I hadn't been in on a single hot new issue. Although we owned one lulu -- a stock sold in 1960 which had astounded us by the extent of its rise -- the performance of our portfolio of stocks of established, strong corporations listed on the New York Stock Exchange was most mediocre in comparison with my friend's record.

"You'll be caught one of these days and give a lot of it back," I remarked as we parted. "It always has happened this way."

This past week, I checked my friend's stocks. If he stuck to his intention to hold the stock at least six months so his long-term profits would be taxed at no more than a 25 per cent rate, he was certainly given plenty back. The stocks he mentioned are far below their spring levels. Many new issues have plunged below their offering prices. The beating the most glamorous of the great glamor stocks have taken in the market in recent months must be a shattering experience for the newcomers to Wall Street who wouldn't believe a stock with "electronics" in its name could crash as well as climb. The lulu we owned then -- which we have sold since at a fat profit, but still well beneath its peak price -- is back at the level at which we bought it in 1960. Let's put it plainly: Countless thousands of gamblers in new stock issues of corporations about which they knew nothing have been taken to the cleaners.

As it has happened before, so it has happened again. In four periods since World War II, there have been wild bull markets in new stock issues -- in 1945-46, in 1950-51, in 1953-54, in 1959 and 1961 -- and in each case, the markets boiled over and scalded the innocents, the greedy, the followers of the "mob" on tips and rumors.

Have those of you who have escaped to date learned the fundamental lesson that the cheapest stocks in price can be the most expensive to own, the most costly in price can be the best bargains? I wonder . . .

In mid-September Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, wrote an article for a nationally circulated Sunday newspaper supplement in which he commented on a review of 31 new stocks issued during the postwar boom of 1945-46. Said Funston: "Fifteen of the 31 companies are no longer in business. Twelve were selling at less than their original price at the time of the survey. One of these, issued at $3 a share, can actually now be bought for a penny. Only four of those 31 stocks were selling at prices higher than the initial offering."

Funston's point and warning couldn't have been clearer. Yet, in the past couple of weeks, startled Stock Exchange officials have received letters from innocents asking for the name of the $3 stock which can be bought now for a penny a share because they'd like to buy it. How gullible and greedy can a person get!

(To remind you of some of the disasters of 1945-46. There was an issue of Gloria Vanderbilt stock, sold at $3; the charter was forfeited in 1952. There was an issue of Anchorage Homes sold at $60.25; the company was liquidated in 1948. There was an issue of Cosmo Records at $4; it went bankrupt in 1948.)

It's easy to avoid disaster -- and I mean easy -- if you obey the simple rules on ignoring tips, buying stocks only after careful investigation, having a reasonable objective and looking for steady, solid growth of your funds, not sensational, quick gains.

You'll come out ahead through booms and busts if you obey these rules. You'll not have hot luncheon talk, but you'll sleep well at night.

FROM FRIDAY TO FRIDAY OF STONES, WELLS AND MASTERS

By Beryl Segal

Today let me ask you some questions. They are very easy questions if you know the answers. I couldn't answer them. Yet somewhere in Jerusalem, and somewhere in Brazil, there are two people who answered these questions with the greatest of ease. And maybe you can answer them too.

Here are the questions:
"1. Many things happened in the Bible near a stone or a rock. What are these events? Where in the Bible does it tell of these events?"

Altogether there are eight such references to stones, big and little. How many do you know?

"2. Many events in the Bible took place near a well of water. What are the events, and where in the Bible does it talk of these wells?"

You are to name eight such events.

"3. In the Five Books of Moses mention is made of master-craftsmen, and the tribes to which they belonged. Who are these master-craftsmen?"

Three simple questions. Yet I knew only three rocks to speak of, and I could tell only about three wells where somebody met someone, and I could name only one master-craftsman mentioned in the Five Books of Moses.

Yet two people knew all the answers, and it took them less time to answer them than it takes me to write them down.

One was a Rabbi Yehye Alshikh from Yemen, the other was a woman, the wife of a minister from Brazil, Yolanda DeSilva.

They astonished the audience with their cold knowledge of these and other facts of the Bible. The people of Israel were particularly impressed with the lady from Brazil who answered without hesitation all the sixty-five points in the contest.

They were participants in the International Bible contest in Israel, where eighteen nations had their Bible experts, including one from the United States.

They were facing a panel of judges, and an audience of three thousand people. Among them were President Ben Zvi, and Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion and their wives. Among them were the judges of the Israeli Supreme Court, the members of the Israel Congress, many authors and poets, and many officers of the Israel army.

For the annual Bible contest is a great event in Israel. It prides itself on being the Land of the Bible, and the people live up to it. Not a soul was seen on the streets on that night -- neither in Jerusalem, nor in the land. All programs on the radio were cancelled for that night, and everybody was glued to his set to listen to the contestants.

One by one, the eighteen contestants were eliminated. Only five survived. Now the three questions that would determine the outcome were being asked. This is the most exciting moment in the contest. The evening is wearing on. They have been listening for six hours now. It is two o'clock past midnight. The three questions are always the last ones to be asked. They are questions traditionally supplied by the President and by Ben-Gurion. The one about the wells of water was given by Ben-Gurion, and the one about the master-craftsmen, by President Ben Zvi.

Of the five remaining contestants, there are now only two. First the lady is called out of her cubicle. She answers the questions about the stones and the wells and the master-craftsmen one by one, as if they were questions about things in her own kitchen. Then came the Rabbi from Yemen. He, too, astonished the audience with his cool answers. Neither of them had to think it over. The answers just came out as something that was always with them.

Now the suspense has heightened. Both are the same. Both are winners. Both have 65 points. The lady from Brazil and the Rabbi from Yemen. Who will be the winner?

The judges were at a loss. They consulted the president of the land. And there in the auditorium and by the radio sets, a nation waits in rapture.

Soon the verdict was given. There is yet another question to be answered. The answer will determine the winner.

And here is the question:
"In the Bible there are several places where they speak of the exile of the Jewish people, and of their return to the Land of their Fathers. Give seven such passages where the Exile and the Redemption are mentioned."

Again the lady from Brazil comes first. She enumerates five such places. She can think of no more.

The Rabbi from Yemen comes next. Only twelve years ago, he and his family came to Israel with the mass migration from Yemen. He himself was witness to Exile and to Redemption. On a "magic carpet," by plane, he was brought back to this land of Israel. Of course, he knows all the seven places where the Jewish people are sent to Exile, and where they are returned with the help of God to their land. He knows them all.

And he was declared the first prize winner in the International Bible contest for the year 1961, or 5722.

Let me add another note to the contest.

On that same night, in neighboring Syria, something else was taking place. On that night, the Syrian people shook off the yoke of partnership with Nasser of Egypt and declared their independence in bloodless revolution.

(Mr. Segal's opinions are his own. His views are not necessarily those of this newspaper.)

The Lyons Den

by Leonard Lyons

Recently Brandeis University had a convocation to mark its admission into Phi Beta Kappa. One of the speakers was a Lowell from Boston. He began by quoting the line about Boston, where the Lowells speak only to Cabots and the Cabots speak only to God. "So you can see," Lowell told the audience,

"how difficult it is for me to speak to you."

If Warner Bros. buys "My Fair Lady," the stars will probably be Audrey Hepburn and Cary Grant, although Laurence Olivier still has a chance for the Prof. Higgins role. . . David Susskind has persuaded Clare Boothe Luce to appear on his "Open End" TV show. . . Bernie Hart, the stage manager-producer, read about the U.S. recognizing the new Syrian regime, and shook his head: "That's not enough. After all, Jack Paar hasn't recognized Syria yet."

Mary Lasker took Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy to visit Marc Chagall's studio in Venice. Another guest at the painter's home wondered about this first family interest in art. Mrs. Lasker mentioned the cultural change in Washington: "We have a Secretary of Labor whose office displays contemporary Americans, and a Director of the Budget who likes Georgia O'Keefe."

Peter Fonda, who was married recently, can't wear his wedding ring in "Blood, Sweat and Stanley Poole," because he plays a bachelor. He wears the ring for the curtain calls. . . Frank Yerby, the American novelist, will settle on

RADIATORS AND BASEBOARD HEATING UNITS

Heat rises. If there is dust on your radiators or baseboard heating units, it will rise with the heat, soiling walls, drapes or ceilings . . . regardless of the type of fuel used. Your heating units and nearby walls should be cleaned periodically with soap and water. Oil Heat is clean because the fuel moves from an enclosed tank to an enclosed burner, producing a flame within an enclosed chamber. This chamber is not open to any part of the home except the chimney. However, the heat in your home . . . any heat, definitely provides a means for dirt and dust to circulate regardless of the fuel used.

the French Riviera. He's buying a home there. . . At the Yankees' victory party here recently, Yogi Berra wept because he received news of his father's sudden illness in St. Louis. Yogi flew there.

The Duke of Bedford was at El Morocco the other day and spoke of his son, the Marquess of Tavistock, who is in his senior year at Harvard. The Duke wants the young man to study accounting and estate management, so he can help run the family home, Woburn Abbey. . . The Duke mentioned the confusing fact that in the British peerage, the sons' names are different from their fathers'. The offspring uses the sire's secondary titles.

The Marquess, therefore, could use Baron Russell of Chenies, Baron Howland of Streatham or Baron Russell of Thornhaugh. The Duke said: "Makes it hard on initialed luggage."

Pablo Casals will dine and play at the White House next month. . . Willi Frischauer is in New York for the sale of his two books -- one on Himmler, the other on Otto John, the intelligence officer who defected to East Germany and then returned. . . Leland Hayward, at Voisin, mentioned his hope to use the three Fondas -- Henry, Jane and Peter -- in a TV spectacular next spring. The title would be "The Family."

The Office of Price Administration, headed by Leon Henderson, was one of the most controversial bureaus of World War II. Last week Henderson received a clipping about the OPA from a friend, who circled one sentence. It mentioned that Bishop James A. Pike had worked on the legal staff of the OPA with two other young lawyers, Richard Nixon and G. Mennen Williams. "Leon," he wrote, "now for the first time, I understand OPA."

Look magazine's cover story is on Marlene Dietrich's new "ABC" book. She refused to permit Doubleday to make any cuts until the publisher -- recognizing her weakness for combat soldiers --

Last week the Health Dept. ordered the shutting down of New York's tattooing places because of a link to hepatitis. It's high time, too for tattooing, like the use of four-letter words, usually is a counterfeit way of asserting masculinity. Furthermore, it's an irrevocable act. Once, in Naples, I asked Lucky Luciano if he had any regrets. "Only about this," he said, indicating his tattooed forearms, "I can never wear short-sleeved shirts."

A few years ago I took Miro, the painter, on a tour, and showed him an 8th Av. tattoo parlor. The tattooer apologized to Miro, as one artist to another, for using stencils: "They all want the same kind of artwork". . . It was Alex Fondas, during that tour, who offered a valid reason for tattooing: "If Mr. Miro would draw the sketch, I'd love to have my chest tattooed -- just to ask ladies, 'Would you like to see my Miro?'"

The White House will send Administration teams to conduct conferences throughout the nation on government needs and future programs. The New York conference will be held Nov. 16 and 17. Mayor Wagner was asked to make the arrangements.

Averell Harriman, who may seek the nomination for the Senate next year, will be indorsed this month by the Affiliated Young Democrats. . . Arthur Levitt insists on sitting out the mayoralty campaign. . . Thirteen-hundred still photos were taken of the Laurence Olivier TV show "The Power and the Glory." One editor, sifting through the photos, said: "This is the only TV show on which I'll spend more time in selecting a photo than in watching the performance."

Hammarskjold Planned To Translate Jewish Philosophy

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — When he died Sept. 18, Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold left an unfinished literary project that had occupied his mind even as he prepared to depart for the Congo, according to the New York Times.

The project was a translation he had planned of a work by the contemporary Jewish philosopher Martin Buber, "Ich und Du" ("I and Thee").

The day before he took off for Africa, Mr. Hammarskjold wrote to Dr. Georg Svensson of Stock-holm's leading publishing house, Bonnier's, that he planned to work on the translation in the months ahead and would have it completed by January.

He wrote that he anticipated that the project would not be easy because it would be necessary to have Buber's meanings clear and to find just the right linguistic form for what he termed "Buber's intensely beautiful, intensely personal and Old Testament German prose."

The letter to Dr. Svensson reflected Mr. Hammarskjold's admiration for the Vienna-born Jewish philosopher, whose essays have a marked mystical element.

The Secretary General said that he wanted to do the translation because it would mean something of a personal declaration for him. He indicated that he had found that Buber's ideas often corresponded to his own.

Mr. Hammarskjold also requested the publisher to arrange that the earnings from the translation be given to some worthy charity.

The publishing concern received the letter a day after Mr. Hammarskjold was killed in an air crash in Northern Rhodesia. To fulfill the Secretary General's wish, the concern intends to arrange for the translation of the work.

'Salami Method' Goes Through Russia

NEW YORK — Jews in Russia have coined a new phrase to describe the anti-Semitic policies of the Soviet government.

It is the "Salami Method." Writing in the current issue of Look Magazine, American Rabbi Joshua L. Goldberg said that under the "Salami Method" a Russian Jew's position is "diminished slice by slice until there is nothing left."

Goldberg, recently returned from a trip to Russia, reported that official Soviet policies are aimed at stamping out Jewish culture and that the nation's three million Jews "have become a community of whisperers in a kingdom of fear."

Peace Corps To Shun The Biased

WASHINGTON — Director R. Sargent Shriver, Jr., of the Peace Corps, made known last week that despite elimination of anti-bias provisions from the Peace Corps Act, the Corps will refuse to operate in nations that discriminate against American personnel on a basis of race or religion.

In a letter to Rep. Leonard Farbstein (D., N. Y.) Shriver clarified the Peace Corps policy toward discrimination. He said, "the House-Senate Conference committee did delete an anti-discrimination clause from the Peace Corps legislation," but he stressed that "this act will not change the Peace Corps policy of selecting volunteers without regard to race or creed. Neither does it change the Peace Corps policy of not going into any country which might discriminate against Peace Corps volunteers because of race or creed."

Farbstein, a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, raised the question with Shriver. Shriver had testified before the Foreign Affairs Committee that the Corps would shun any nation that tried to impose religious or racial restrictions in selection of personnel.

Canadian Town Needs Calendar

MONTREAL — The Canadian Jewish Congress reported last week it had been asked by the town of Mount Royal for a Jewish calendar to avoid a repetition of a meeting of taxpayers called on Yom Kippur eve to vote on a loan bylaw.

Mayor Dawson extended an apology for the date, which made it impossible for many Jewish residents to attend and vote on the bylaw proposal. He said the error was "unfortunate but innocent" and that the town council had been instructed to obtain a Jewish calendar "so the mistake would not be made again."

Vatican Orders Covers For "Miracle Pictures"

REGENSBURG, West Germany — Catholic worshippers who made a pilgrimage to the Deggendorf church last week reported that they found medieval anti-Jewish captions on pictures of a "ritual murder" covered with cloth or otherwise made unreadable.

Thousands of Catholics make the pilgrimage annually. The captions, which were covered on recommendation of the Vatican, described the contents of 12 "miracle pictures," which show the alleged ritual murder of a Christian child by Jews in Deggendorf in 1337.

The pictures and captions also depict the subsequent slaughter of Deggendorf Jews as a "God-willed act."

Mrs. Leonard Schreter

In a candlelight ceremony at 6:30 P.M. in Temple Emanuel on Oct. 8, Miss Carol Phyllis Riffkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Riffkin of Glen Drive, became the bride of Leonard F. Schreter of Newton, Mass. son of Samuel Schreter of Brookline and Mrs. Ann Schreter of Newton, Mass. Rabbi Eli Bohnen officiated and a reception was held at the temple social hall.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She was attended by Miss Marilyn Kirshenbaum as maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Susan Schreter, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Ann-Joyce Rosenberg.

Michael Schreter was his brother's best man. The ushers were Mitchell Riffkin, brother of the bride, Marchall Schreter, brother of the bridegroom, Allen Kirshenbaum, Larry Freedman, Stanley Cohen, Stanley Keller, Carl Turin and Kenneth Sheffer.

With her peau de soie princess gown, the bride wore a five-tiered fingertip veil which was arranged from a queen's crown of pearls and crystals. Appliques of Alencon lace medallions accented the bodice and front panel of the gown and the bouffant skirt terminated in a chapel train. She carried a cascade arrangement of orchids and stephanotis.

After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will make their home in Brookline.

Investigate Fire
 In Buffao Temple

BUFFALO—The Buffalo Fire Department began an investigation last week of a blaze that destroyed Temple Beth Zion and its school. Damage was estimated at about $1,000,000.

The fire apparently began among painters' supplies stored in the synagogue basement. The structure, which seated 1,400 persons, was remodeled this summer at a cost of $50,000. A total of 35 pieces of apparatus and 125 firemen fought the spectacular blaze.

Dr. Joseph L. Fink, rabbi emeritus, had voiced hope, as he watched the blaze, that the synagogue's sacred articles could be saved but most of them were lost in the fire. Swastikas were painted on the walls of the temple in April, 1960.

The Automobile Legal Association reports that there are enough automobiles in the United States to provide every man, woman, and child with a ride simultaneously without crowding.

Verdict On Eichmann
 Due In November

JERUSALEM — The long-awaited judgement in the trial of former Gestapo Colonel Adolf Eichmann is tentatively scheduled to be handed down in November, the Government Press Office indicated last week.

The tentative date was disclosed in connection with a decision by the press office to open negotiations with overseas film and television companies to record the verdict, Capital Cities Broadcasting Company, the American firm which televised the lengthy trial from its start last April 11 to its end on August 14, will not be among the bidders because of financial losses it incurred.

It was reported that the press office was setting the same terms for filming the delivery of the verdict as those on which Capital Cities obtained the rights to televising the trial. The terms include a non-profit "public service" clause and one stating that the film must be made available to any company interested in distributing or showing the proceedings.

Hess Remains To Get Israel Burial

COLOGNE — The remains of Moses Hess, German Socialist, and Jewish nationalist, whose theories of the role of Palestine as a center of Jewish survival influenced later Zionist-political leaders and intellectuals like Dr. Theodor Herzl and Ahad Haam, will be removed to Israel for reburial on the shores of Lake Tiberias, it was announced here.

Hess, who was born in Bonn in 1812, and educated at the University of Bonn, was a collaborator of Karl Marx, but deviated from Marx's socialism by advocating ethical concepts based on Spinozism. In 1843, he wrote a book entitled Rome and Jerusalem, in which he developed his concepts of practical ethics with the re-establishment of the Jewish people in Palestine.

Hess died in Paris in 1875, but he was buried in the family burial grounds in the Jewish cemetery at Cologne. Recently, a special committee was organized here for removal of his remains to Israel.
