

Report Nazi Scientist Helps Develop Rocket

JERUSALEM — Israel circles expressed grave concern last week over reports that Egypt, with the help of a West German scientist at Stuttgart, has developed a rocket similar to the Nazi V-2 rocket which Hitler used to "buzz-bomb" London near the end of World War II.

Egypt, according to the reports, has already constructed a new V-2 model rocket with a 250-mile range, capable of reaching almost any part of Israel. Israelis fear this new Egyptian rocket program may lead to a renewed arms race in the Middle East region.

According to reports reaching Israel, Nazi technicians, who worked in secret German plants producing the V-2 rocket under Hitler's regime, proposed to United Arab Republic Pres. Gamal Abdel Nasser that they produce a similar rocket for him.

When Nasser supported the proposal, the Nazis approached Prof. Eugen Saenger, head of the Jet Propulsion Research Institute at Stuttgart, West Germany, who provided them with the necessary technical and scientific data.

West German authorities, learning of Professor Saenger's aid to the Nazis working for Nasser, have suspended him from his post, according to information reaching here.

Canadians Ask Clarification Of Article In Anglican Magazine

MONTREAL — The Canadian Jewish Congress Monday expressed "deep regret and concern" over an anti-Semitic article that appeared in the official publication of the Anglican Church in western Ontario. The CJC called upon the bishop of the diocese to "clarify" his views on the offensive article, and to state the official viewpoint of the diocese on the issue.

Questions Loyalty

The article had questioned the loyalty of all Jews living outside Israel to the countries of their residence; attacked Israel for its "injustice" to Adolf Eichmann; and excused the Nazi leadership of Hitler Germany for its program of anti-Semitism.

Monday, the Canadian Jewish Congress issued its statement under the signatures of Sydney M. Harris, chairman of the National Joint Community Relations Council, and M. W. Gasner, chairman of the CJC central region.

"As the central representative body of the Jewish community in the province, the Canadian Jewish Congress feels constrained to comment on an article that appeared in the last issue of the Huron Church News, published in London, Ont., and written by the Rev. H. R. Rokeby-Thomas. The Canadian Jewish Congress expresses its deep regret and concern that such views should appear in an official diocesan organ, thereby, seemingly carrying with them the tacit consent and ap-

Court Upholds Rockwell Right To Stage Rally

WASHINGTON — The United States Supreme Court Monday, in effect upheld the constitutional right of George Lincoln Rockwell, leader of the American Nazi party, to hold a public meeting in New York. The high tribunal refused to rule on a petition by New York City Parks Commissioner Newbold Morris, who had appealed from a ruling of the Court of Appeals.

Rockwell had originally asked for the permit for a rally scheduled for July 4, 1960. On the grounds that such a rally would foment rioting, due to Rockwell's anti-Semitism, the permit was refused by Commissioner Morris and Mayor Robert F. Wagner. On appeal the New York court ruled in favor of Rockwell, declaring the right of free expression is not to be entrusted to administrative, previous restriction for contemplated violations of the law."

State Department Has No Plans For Acting On Arab Boycott

WASHINGTON — The State Department indicated this week that it has no plans to act in the Arab boycott against American Jews and American business firms unless it was shown that the boycott was based on religious discrimination and not an affiliation with Israel.

The statement was made by John S. Hogland, Acting Assistant Secretary for Congressional Relations, in a letter to Rep. Leonard Farbstein, New York Democrat, who had asked for State Department comment on the latest Arab league boycott action against Eddie Cantor and six American business firms.

The State Department official reiterated earlier statements that the United States did not recognize or condone the boycott of Israel, "particularly as it affects American citizens or firms."

He added, the boycott "as it has been represented to us by Arab states, does not use race or religion as a basis for restricting trade with the Arab states, but rather is applied to individuals or firms who have particularly close relationships with the State of Israel."

As examples of activities which were considered "grounds for blacklisting" by the Arab states, the State Department official listed "establishing a factory or branch office in Israel, aiding Israel causes, investing capital in Israel, encouraging the sale of Israel products and providing technical assistance to Israel." He added that the blacklisting of Eddie Cantor and the six American firms "has been applied because the individual and firms concerned violated boycott principles."

"Should evidence be presented to the Department that in the cases which you have cited there has been discrimination against the individuals or companies concerned on the basis of religion, you may be assured that the Department would take action appropriate to the situation and in consonance with our national interest," the official concluded.

Sisterhood Director Urges Reform Judaism To Ordain Women Rabbis

WASHINGTON — Reform Jews were urged last week to approve ordination of women as rabbis.

The proposal was made by Jane Evans, executive director of the National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods, the major women's organization in Reform Judaism.

The National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods met in its biennial assembly here, in conjunction with the assembly of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations. About 500 Jewish leaders from 630 reform temples in the United States and Canada participated in the dual meetings.

"The time has now come," Miss Evans said, "for the sisterhoods to take a definite stand on asking reform seminaries to ordain women as rabbis, when they are properly qualified and upon completion of the identical course of study with men."

All three branches of Judaism — reform, conservative and orthodox — now have a strictly male rabbinate. Miss Evans said she realized that ordination of women would be "unacceptable to conservative and orthodox groups, but she hoped that the reform branch would express its "liberal spirit" by granting full equality to women.

Golda Meir To Return For Debate

JERUSALEM — The resolution against admitting Arab refugees to Israel, which was adopted by the Israel Parliament will serve as a basis and guide for the Israeli delegation at the United Nations when the debate on the Arab refugee problem begins at the U. N. Assembly at the end of this month or early next month, it was indicated here this week.

Mrs. Golda Meir, Israel's Foreign Minister, is scheduled to proceed to the United States in time to participate in the debate. The UN Assembly will take up the Arab refugee problem on the basis of the annual report submitted to it by the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for the refugees and on a report to be submitted by the UN Palestine Conciliation Commission.

Mrs. Meir said it was up to Israel as a sovereign state to decide who might enter its territory and that the idea that others should decide the question was as inconceivable as their rights to decide who should immigrate into the U. S. or the Soviet Union. She said that "when we believed that the war had ended in 1949," Israel announced its readiness then to accept up to 100,000 Arab refugees as part of a general peace settlement but this was ignored. The proposal has since lapsed, she added, because the situation has changed.

Israel Buys Planes From France

LONDON — Israel has ordered about 40 French Mirage-3 jet fighter planes "in view of the need to match Arab aircraft," the Guardian of Manchester reported last week in a dispatch from Tel Aviv.

According to the Guardian's correspondent, military tensions in Israel have "eased noticeably" since Syria broke away from the United Arab Republic recently. "The subsequent survival of King Hussein in Jordan, against all the forecasts," the dispatch continued, "and the re-assertion of Syria, has convinced the Israeli military authorities that a shift in the balance of power against them can be ruled out for the foreseeable future."

But the correspondent stresses that the vulnerability of Israel's electric power installations and communications to Egypt's Ilyushin-28 bombers and MIG fighters carrying bombs "is a preoccupation" of the Israeli Defense Ministry. He points out that the United States sells no military equipment to Israel, while Britain "sells only with reluctance and when it appears that no other sources are available."

Soviets Close Yeshiva; Link To Recent Arrests

NEW YORK — The Government has ordered the disbanding of the Vaad Yeshiva, a governing council of the only Jewish seminary in the Soviet Union, it was disclosed here Sunday, by Label Katz, president of the B'nai B'rith, at the organization's 118th annual meeting here.

The seminary, which is affiliated with the Moscow synagogue, trains rabbis and religious functionaries. Katz, who headed a B'nai B'rith group that visited the Soviet Union in August, said he had learned at that time that the seminary's enrollment was 12 students.

Katz said that B'nai B'rith had received "confirming information" of the secret trial and conviction of three Jewish leaders of the main Moscow synagogues. He said that despite the earlier absence of any public announcements, the convictions of the Jewish religious leaders became known among religious Jews in both communities.

German Court Rejects Freed Nazi Protest

FRANKFURT — The recent action of the Frankfurt Court of Appeals in rejecting a prosecution complaint against the release of a former Nazi police officer may have serious consequences for many other cases against former Nazi criminals, Dr. Fritz Bauer, Hessian Attorney General told the Jewish Telegraphic Agency here this week.

The appeals court confirmed the release of Erich Bunke, a 54-year-old customs inspector, who was detained on charges of shooting 22 Danish resistance fighters. The appeals court found that Bunke had acted on the basis of a Hitler order at the end of 1943 to kill captured resistance fighters "in secret."

Dr. Bauer said the decision "may become a precedent in numerous other cases pending which last year we took the precaution of registering before the statute of limitations on homicide charges went into effect."

FBI Probes Minute Men Link To Two Men In Nazi Uniforms

LOS ANGELES — The Federal Bureau of Investigation and California authorities were reported last week to be investigating the nazi equipment worn by two men killed in a mountain plane crash. Their objective was to determine if the victims were linked with the Minute Men, a self-styled guerilla warfare organization emerging in various parts of the United States.

The pilot of the private plane, Ned Giebrick, 24, a Navy veteran, wore a gun holster containing a pistol. His passenger, Max Tushak, 23, was wearing a nazi uniform of the type used by George Rockwell's American Nazi Party. Officials reported that another nazi uniform, swastika armbands and a swastika flag was found in the wreckage.

Sheriff Merrill Culbertson of Inyo County said the plane appeared to have been en route to neighboring Fresno County where 400 leaders of the Minute Men movement in California were preparing to assemble. The group is being organized in various states to deal with "domestic traitors" in event of a nuclear attack.

Eichmann Writes More Memoirs

JERUSALEM — Israel officials reported that Adolf Eichmann has informed one of the officers of the jail where he is held that he has completed writing his "third volume of memoirs."

The former Gestapo Colonel, awaiting a verdict on his trial last summer told the jailer he plans to write several more volumes.

Eichmann has been spending most of his time since the close of his trial last August busily writing. The police officer visiting his cell frequently finds the former Nazi official submerged in his writing activities. Eichmann stands at attention, ready to answer any questions about his voluminous writings, while the officer goes over the latest addition to Eichmann's written material.

Two of Eichmann's guards, both Oriental Jews, asked to be relieved of the assignment. They were understood to have told their superiors that after attending the trial they could no longer stand the sight of the defendant.

leader, is currently in California. A Minute Man spokesman claimed that members include former FBI agents, attorneys and other reputable "anti-communists."

California National Guard officials were reported disturbed by reports that the Minute Men are training with machineguns, recoilless artillery, hand grenades and other weapons. State officials have asked the FBI to investigate the nazi equipment found in the crash in Inyo County, an area bordering Nevada. They had already deplored the "private army" when the nazi aspect developed accidentally in an investigation of the crash.

Book Reveals 500,000 Jews Fought For USSR

TEL AVIV — Figures published for the first time in a new book issued yesterday revealed that more than 500,000 Jews served in the Russian Army during World War II and that 67,000 of them won medals for meritorious performance, bravery and heroism. The medal winners included 50 who were awarded the highest Soviet honor, "Hero of the Soviet Union."

The book, "Face to Face with the Nazi Enemy," was published here by the Association of Invalids of the war against the Nazis and includes data on partisans who fought the Nazis.

The book also reported that at the outbreak of World War II in 1939, there were more than 150,000 Jews in the Polish army and in the period before Poland surrendered three weeks later, 32,000 were killed. The Nazis took as prisoners 61,000 Jewish soldiers in the armies of Poland, Greece, Yugoslavia, Britain, South Africa, the United States, Canada, Italy and Bulgaria.

TO VISIT U NU

JERUSALEM — Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion has decided to act on an invitation by Prime Minister U Nu of Burma and will visit that country before the end of this year, it was learned here last week. U Nu visited Israel in 1955, when he was accompanied by the present acting Secretary-General of the United Nations, U Thant.

Terrorists Kill Old Man; Algerian Jews In Middle

PARIS — Anxiety again gripped the Algerian Jewish community this week when 60-year-old Camille Levy was shot to death by three unidentified terrorists. The killing followed the murders last week of David Zermati, president of the Jewish community of Setif, Algeria, and Dr. Joseph Cohen, a well-known Algiers physician.

Algerian police said they could not determine whether the terrorists who killed Levy were members of the Algerian FLN-rebel organization or of the OAS, the French European under-ground group.

Men are accident victims 3 times more often than women the Automobile Legal Association reports.

Mrs. Howard Fox

Miss Roberta Lindenbaum became the bride of Howard Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Fox of New York City on Oct. 22 at 9 P.M. at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lindenbaum of 57 Pinehurst Avenue.

Rabbi William Braude and Burton Leiser officiated at the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attended by Miss Arlien Broomfield.

Jerry Fox, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

The bride wore a bell shaped waltz length gown topped with an alencon lace jacket with a head piece of lace and seed pearls. Her prayer book was marked with orchids an dstephanotis.

Following a wedding trip the couple will reside in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Problem of Names In Denham, England

DENHAM, England — Who is the U. S. Air Force's Jewish chaplain here? Jewish airmen, newly arrived at the South Ruislip USAF Base, sooner or later make a bee-line for the chaplain's office, but it frequently turns out to be the wrong chaplain. The Roman Catholic padre is Chaplain Israel and the Protestant chaplain is Chaplain Klein. To add to the confusion, the Jewish chaplain, Sylvan Kamens, finds his name pronounced "Cummins" by most people. And all three chaplains share the same offices.

Rabbi Aryeh Lev, director of the National Jewish Welfare Board's Commission on Jewish Chaplaincy, which recruits, endorses and serves Jewish chaplains in all branches of the service, found this situation awaiting him when he made a field trip to Europe to confer with Jewish chaplains there. "It's one problem I didn't bargain for," said Chaplain Kamens. Rabbi Lev, an old Army man, might have suggested that Rabbi Kamens do what any GI does when he has a problem — see the chaplain. But which chaplain?

"ART MART"

An Exhibition

Rarely does the opportunity present itself to buy something to decorate the house and still feel that one has been charitable rather than extravagant. But that is just what buyers will be able to do at the "Art Mart."

The Jewish Community Center Nursery School found that a great many children who needed a nursery school experience were unable to get one since their families could not afford the fees. Since the Nursery School receives no financial aid from the United Fund or from GJC, and the school itself could not offer scholarships, many children could not be given the necessary help. However, the solution was brought to the attention of the Center's Board of Directors by Mrs. Jason Siegel and the Nursery School Committee. This was the "Art Mart."

Mrs. Leonard Rumppler was named chairman of the "Art Mart" and on Dec. 2 and 3, the results of many weeks of work will be presented to the public. The proceeds of this art exhibition will be used for Nursery School scholarships. Many talented Rhode Island artists are contributing to this show — the exhibition will include works in silver, ceramics, leather and many other media. The pictures on this page show only a few of the artists and their works.

Among those contributing to the show are: Harriet Arnold, George Arujo, Roland Belhumeur, Helene Bonoff, Jeff Borden, John Bozarth, Paul Celli, Ronald Collier, Gino Conti, Alex Connell, Ken Clark, Alita Cornelius, Herbert Cummings, John Cipot, Anthony Datorro, Gilbert Franklin, Herman Itchkawich, Robert Hamilton, John C. Karrasch, Pauline Ladd, Reva Levitan and Raymond Lavin.

The pieces shown above which will be in the "Art Mart" exhibit were made by Dr. Lyle Perkins, head of the Ceramic Department at the Rhode Island School of Design, his wife, Dr. Dorothy Perkins, assistant professor in the department, and John Karrasch, a graduate student.

Mr. Karrasch is shown above working at a pottery wheel.

With A Purpose

Harriet Rumpler, seated by her painting of children, is chairman of the "Art Mart" and has spent the last few weeks in a flurry of activity trying to put together the many details which go into the arranging of an exhibit such as this.

Gilbert Franklin, head of the Sculpture Department at the Rhode Island School of Design will also have his work in the "Art Mart" exhibit.

Most of her paintings are abstract says Helene Bon-off, and she usually does not name them.

Robert Hamilton, well-known artist, shown with one of his paintings which he calls "Warning." Most of the painters and sculptors do not seem to bother naming their work, seemingly satisfied to let it speak for itself.

Applying plaster to his model of a girl sitting on a drug store counter stool is Raymond Lavin, a senior at the Rhode Island School of Design.

P. Kennedy, but didn't quite get the name or the relationship. He was most impressed with her list of accomplishments of her son—no matter the young man's name.

William Walton, the Kennedys' closest friend, is off in the Antarctic with the Navy . . . Joan Miro, the painter, is in New York for his one-man show at the Matisse Gallery . . . The cast of "From the Second City" will perform for UN delegates Nov. 21, with Adlai Stevenson as host. They will include their Kennedy-Khrushchev satire . . . Madame Furtseva, the Soviet Minister of Culture, has offered Sophia Loren a role in the Russian film of Chekhov's "Three Sisters."

There's a grand jury investigation on in California, checking into monopolistic practices by show business agencies . . . Robert Morley will appear in Mark Robson's "Nine Hours to Rema" for 20th Century-Fox . . . Abe Feder, the lighting expert, was in Kansas City recently to light the War Memorial dedicated by General Eisenhower. Then he flew back to New York to do the lighting for Sonny Rollins' opening at the Jazz Gallery.

When Johnny Mathis went to Brooklyn recently for his Academy of Music Concert, it was his first opportunity to inspect the $1,000,000 worth of Brooklyn realty holdings his manager bought for him while he was in Europe . . . Gen. Charles de Gaulle has never visited Maxim's . . . When Ricky Nelson was asked to name his favorite colors, the young singer listed them, "Redheads, Blondes, Brunettes."

The first preview of "All-American," the new Josh Logan-Ray Bolger musical, was given at Mt. Sinai Hospital. Mrs. Ethel Strouse is a patient there. Her son Charles, wrote the music for "Bye Bye Birdie" and "All-American." One day young Strouse and lyricist Lee Adams wheeled a tiny rented piano into Mrs. Strouse's room at the hospital. The patient invited the floor staff in, and they listened to the first public performance of "All-American."

When Dick Lynch, the Giants' defensive end, marries next month, it will leave Cliff Livingston as the team's perennial bachelor. Lynch is the seventh roommate

Livingston has lost by marriage . . . Leo Kerz will produce two French plays here -- Jacques Audiberti's "The Koehle Effect" and Ives Jamiague's "A Clue Left by the Devil."

Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. was at the White House party in honor of Mrs. Kennedy's sister, Lee Radziwill, wife of Prince "Stash" Radziwill. Roosevelt offered a toast to the guest of honor, and than "to Stash, to Stash." Radziwill was not in Washington. And when Roosevelt, still seeking him, repeated "to Stash," President Kennedy said: "Yes, to Stash—wherever you are."

Set Date For Trial Of Boys In California

SAN FRANCISCO — The trial of 10 San Francisco youths, indicted for conspiracy in the 15-month long anti-Semitic harassment of Mr. and Mrs. William Bowman, was set last week for Dec. 4 before Judge Harry Neubarth.

Nine of the youths pleaded not guilty at a hearing. The 10th defendant, Gerald Kilroy, did not plead because his case was before the California Supreme Court on a technical move to quash the indictment.

Judge Neubarth told the defendants at the hearing that he had read that "the Bowmans are being harassed again. I cannot imagine that anyone standing before me could be so stupid as to be involved in the current incidents. It develops, however, that anyone here has been involved, directly. I consider it my duty to be very severe with you."

The reference of the jurist was to renewal of the anti-Semitic telephone calls and attacks on the Bowman car and home, from which the couple operate a furniture business. The return of the harassment led police to post a 24-hour guard at the couple's residence.

The 15-month campaign of terrorism ended briefly when police sprang a trap and arrested 12 youths, two of them juveniles. The two juveniles were placed on indefinite probation and sentenced to pay a share of the damage they had caused to the property of the couple.

CULTURE ENCOURAGED

NEW YORK — A new emphasis in the program of the America-Israel Cultural Foundation was reported.

In the first 13 years of Israel's existence, the foundation worked to provide support for Israel's general cultural projects. Now that these are firmly established, the foundation was turning to "development projects, the support of new ideas, new talents, new programs, of which the Israel First Music Festival is a good example."

In Hollywood . . .

By Barney Glazer

Hollywood, California — Joey Bishop, who seems to be filling in for everyone in showbiz, substituted for two nights at the Coconut Grove for Sammy Davis, Jr., who left for London to do a Command Performance for Queen Elizabeth.

"Wait till Sammy finds out the Queen doesn't run a kosher house," reported sorrowful Bishop.

All persons who phoned for Grove reservations on those two evenings were advised that Sammy Davis wouldn't be on hand but Joey Bishop would. "We know," was the standard reaction. "That's why we're coming."

Joey Bishop is one of a family of eight. He owns a home in Englewood, N.J., where his neighbors include Buddy Hackett, Dick Shawn, Phil Foster and Corbett Monica.

His wife Sylvia and their 14-year-old Larry are presently living in Englewood while Joey stays here in Beverly Hills with his older brother Morris Gottlieb and his wife Marsha. Morris, whom Joey still affectionately calls Moyshe, is production manager for a Hollywood handbag company.

Joey Bishop is an individual breed of comic who reminds of no other individual entertainer but of many in composite. He maintains a poker expression as unconcerned as Fred Allen, Ned Sparks and Hoagy Carmichael, but retains the warmth of Poodles Hanneford, Larry Semon and Harry Langdon. He tells gags with the hush of a Whispering Smith, but gets explosive returns like Milton Berle.

Joey even filled in a few times for Jack Paar and many were of the hope that it would become a permanent replacement. Joey had obviously hit the Jact Paart.

In Yiddish, Bishop's mannerisms are best described as "geshmack." My brother Billy Glason used to have it when he was an Orpheum Circuit vaudeville headliner. I remember momma when she'd beam and describe Billy's every little movement with a smack on her fingertips and then she'd "kvell ohn;" "Everything my son does is mit shaynkite."

Milton Berle once told me at Morris Lansburgh's Las Vegas

Flamingo Hotel that to be a success, a comic must maintain continuity in his routine. By Berle's standards, Joey Bishop should be the flip flop of '61. His routines ramble like the potted ivy.

Joey will include in his act a brief dance with two reluctant left feet. He'll admit he has no voice, but will proceed to sing notes that only a Jewish dog can hear. He'll mimic Ted Lewis so that any resemblance is purely coincidental. He may even strike up a conversation with a 75-year-old grandmother at ringside, kiss her gently on the cheek, and then make us cry when he knows darn well he's supposed to make us laugh.

Bishop is also the gentle ribber. When his turn is concluded he may say: "I invite you all to dance. Now give me a chance to laugh." If he sees some waiters standing together, he'll bark: "Alright, break it up. That's the way strikes start." He even kids his own television program "The Joey Bishop Show." He "shockles" his head and acidly observes: "Some rating my show has!" Bitterly, he'll admit: "Two guys who work on the show don't even watch it!"

When gentleman Joey tells a funny with a Yiddish twist and the expected laughter is not forthcoming, he usually comments wryly: "I see that many of you are not from my parish." This is always sufficient to invite the missing laughter.

It was inevitable that Bishop would one day be asked to do his first TV commercial. His show is sponsored by a toothpaste company and a cigarette firm. Came the eventful moment. Joey slipped a cigarette out of the pack, inhaled deeply, blew out the smoke with satisfying pleasure and then proceeded to goof: "Man! That's toothpaste!"

One of these days when Queen Elizabeth gets around to requesting Joey Bishop for a Command Performance someone will have to turn the tables and substitute for the beloved little comic.

Substitute yes, but nobody will ever be able to replace him.

Israel 'Market' For U. S. Goods

NEW YORK — Israel is a significant market for raw materials as well as finished products made in the U.S., Arthur Settel, official of the Department of Commerce in Washington, told the American-Israel Chamber of Commerce and Industry at a luncheon meeting recently.

"The American people take pride in the progress and development of all nations which are devoted to peaceful growth, and Israel is a pre-eminent example," Settel said. "She has set an example by the astonishing revitalization of the land and people in less than 14 years of independent existence."

"She has set an example by having exerted great moral influence in the new African and Asian States which have seen in Israel a model for their own development — since Israel, like them, had to start from scratch and weld together a heterogeneous population in a short time."

WRECK CEMETERY
NEW YORK — Vandals destroyed more than 30 tombstones in the Jewish cemetery at Curitiba, south of Sao Paulo, Brazil, according to information received by headquarters of the World Jewish Congress here.

Miss Phyllis Bloomberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Bloomberg of 243 Poplar Drive, Cranston, was married on Nov. 12 to Irwin S. Manekofsky, son of Samuel Manekofsky of 164 Gallatin Street, at the Cranston Jewish Center.

Rabbi Saul Leeman and Rabbi Abraham Chill officiated at the 6 P. M. ceremony. A reception, attended by 300 guests, was held at the Center.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a light ivory silk organza gown, fashioned with a sculptured neckline, short sleeves and fitted bodice of pure silk satin. Her dome skirt was highlighted with silk satin panels of re-embroidered alencon lace pearls and sequins, ending in a chapel length train. Her fingertip illusion veil fell from a halo of blossoms accented with silk organza. She carried a bible marked with white orchids and streamers of stephanotis.

Mrs. Alan Knasin, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore an intermission length gown designed with a sabrina neckline.

Miss Sheryl Joan Knasin, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a light blue dress of peau de soie.

Jacob Hoffman, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man.

The ushers were Jerry Manekofsky, Alan Manekofsky, Marvin Manekofsky, Richard Yosinoff, Chester Feldman, Alan Knasin.

Following a wedding trip to the South the couple will reside in Cranston.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

by Sylvia Porter

NON-SENTIMENTAL JOURNEY

Jerusalem -- The reason Israel is economically alive in this, her 13th birthday year, is because she has been fed continuously and generously by "sentimental money."

From the instant on May 14, 1948, that her independence was proclaimed, the sentimental dollars have flowed without interruption into the reclaiming of her arid land, the building of her houses, the development of her agriculture, the creation of her industries -- in the form of U.S. Government and private loans and contributions, German reparation and restitution payments, tourist expenditures by people from all over the world making a pilgrimage to the sacred sites where the Jewish and Christian religions began. Without this financial help, the plain fact is that Israel simply could not have made it. Actually, she still imports twice as much as she exports. Her accounts with other nations would be drowning in red ink were it not for the offsetting, black ink provided by this extraordinary cash inflow.

Now, though, for the first time "non-sentimental money" is starting to come in, and this is occurring in the face of the Arab boycott and the Arab threats to cut the financial throat of any company or country which dares to do business with this brave little nation on the eastern shore of the Mediterranean.

The totals are comparatively puny, far from sufficient -- but the investments are rising, and in 1960 foreign investments were the highest in Israel's history to date. This non-sentimental cash is in the hands of investors seeking to establish new corporations or take over existing ones for the sake of a profit and nothing else. It's the type of capital Israel desperately needs and wants to attract because only via hard-headed, long-term industrial development can Israel successfully make the transition from an heroic, pioneering state to a new cycle as a going concern standing on her own economic feet and able to solve her massive problems of trade expansion, inflation control, currency stability.

"There are 100 potential investors touring Israel today looking for opportunities," said one government official in Jerusalem. "I'd be exaggerating if I said there were 20 here two years ago."

"We date the breakthrough in 1958," added another official, recalling that this was the year after the Sinai Campaign awakened the whole world to Israel's determination to live and to the fact that she was surviving despite her incredibly uneconomic basis.

Incidentally, "an incredibly uneconomic basis" it certainly was -- consisting of a tidal wave of immigrants, many "directly out of the seventh century" flooding into a small neglected land at war with rich, powerful neighbors, sworn, in Nasser's words, "to annihilate that germ, Israel."

The gigantic obstacle to foreign investment is not Israel's economic potentials; they're recognized as intriguing. The obstacle is the Arab hatred, and this no one here underestimates. A few years ago, for instance, Renault, the French auto company, opened a plant in Haifa and for a while it was doing a thriving business selling the Renault Dauphine. But in late 1959, the threats of Arab reprisals were too much; the company yielded to the pressures, ended its operations in order to assure the Arab's trade. (The ironic backfire is that since then, Renault's sales to Israel's neighbors can be counted on your fingers!)

The breakthrough is clear. The Arabs are talking and threatening as fiercely as ever, but sensitive, authoritative sources say there is a lessening of pressure which foreign capital "feels" too.

Israel is closing her fifth pioneer phase, opening another. Industrialization is the prime goal now, the bulldozer is as much the symbol of the nation as any religious mark of ancient or modern times, the informed forecast is half her work force will be in industry before this decade ends.

FROM FRIDAY TO FRIDAY THE GOD OF OUR FATHERS

By Beryl Segal

I wish to tell you something that I have read in the newspapers. And I will also tell you about a person who builds a wall around himself, a spiritual wall. They are both related, these stories, and both are very important to us in these days of searching for the wind.

An Israeli Scene

A reporter on an Israeli newspaper was traveling in the land, and he came upon a scene that caught his eye.

It was in the Galil, a district in Israel, that he saw a young man singing and dancing and playing on the guitar. People were gathered around him, and some of them joined in the singing. It was mid-day and the sun was beating down on the dancer and on the audience. But they apparently did not care. They were so enthralled by his singing, dancing and playing the guitar, that nothing mattered.

As he approached nearer, the reporter recognized the words of the song:

"I will lift up my eyes unto the mountains;

From whence shall my help come?

My help cometh from the Lord,

Who made heaven and earth."

This is the opening verse of the 121st Psalm. In the midst of A-bomb and H-bomb scares, in the face of dangers of fallouts and of air poisoning, he sang of his help coming from heaven.

"The Lord is thy keeper,
The Lord is thy shade upon

The sun shall not smite thee by day

Nor the moon by night."

The sun was burning mercifully. He was perspiring and sweat ran down his brow. His very shirt was drenched by perspiration. But he went on singing and dancing and playing the guitar. He was in an ecstasy that reminded the reporter of the Hassidim when they danced before their Rebbe, in the days of the Hassidim in the towns of Poland and the Ukraine.

And the people who stood and listened, and those who kept up the song, were just as enthralled and filled with rapture.

Who was that young man who looks up to the mountains for help; who is not afraid of the heat of the sun, nor the cold of the moon?

He is a Rabbi. An American Rabbi. This is his third time in Israel since he graduated from the seminary, which cannot be too long ago since he is now thirty-one years old. He comes back to the land of the Psalms to find his inspiration there. At home he is a Rabbi in a small congregation. There he would not dare to dance and sing and play on the guitar. People would shrug their shoulders and wonder what kind of a Rabbi he is? But here, in Israel, in the Land of Psalms, he is free and he is as natural as the tree by the road, as the bird on the wing, and the sand of the seashore.

So in the summers, he comes back to sing his heart out to the Lord.

He Builds a Wall Around Himself

The Lyons Den

by Leonard Lyons

The man was the ILGWU's David Dubinsky.

Menotti sat next to Mrs. Joseph

This story was told to me by a friend who is a superb story teller, and a great scholar besides.

"When I enter the Synagogue," my friend tells me, "I build a wall around myself and I go my own way."

He does not mind the fur coats to the right of him. He does not care for the mink stoles to the left of him. He does not see the latest creations in hats which the ladies exhibit in front of him, nor does he hear the whisperings of the people behind him. He is alone with his God.

It does not matter what he does. Sometimes he prays, and sometimes he just meditates. But in prayer or in meditation, he is alone with his God.

In both of these stories, the one about the singing Rabbi, just as in the one about my friend, there are no questions asked about the essence of God. The less questions asked, the better. He is the God of their fathers, and that is good enough for both of them. To Him does the Rabbi dance in ecstasy, and to Him does my friend address himself in prayer or in meditation.

Neither of them is much interested about the nature of God. Is He personal or universal? Is He made of matter, or is He matter itself?

Is He energy? Is He the wheel behind the world? Such questions are for people who doubt. The believing person does not question. To him he is a God who hears, a God who sees, and a God on whose shoulder one can lean and pour out his heart whether in song or in an honest to goodness cry.

Why did I tell all this? Because of all the talk we hear on all sides nowadays, and because of the articles being published on the nature of God and the place of God in a modern Atomic Age.

The God of our fathers, and you can have your own God, is the same now just as He was in the days before the Atomic Age. No revisions are needed. To Him nothing has changed. Let man probe in space, let him climb to the depths of the ocean. He will find nothing there that will either topple down the God of the Rabbi who dances by the road to the Galil in Israel, or will confirm the existence of the God of my friend who builds a spiritual wall around himself when he wants to be alone with Him.

(Mr. Segal's opinions are his own. His views are not necessarily those of this newspaper.)
