Offers To Sell Hawks To Syrian Government

WASHINGTON — The United States recently informed the Syrian Government that any Arab application to purchase Hawk anti-aircraft rockets of the same type the U.S. agreed in principle to sell to Israel would receive consideration, it was learned here last week.

Meanwhile, reports have been received here on a new address by Egyptian President Nasser proclaiming that Nasser's victory in Yemen is a step toward the destruction of Israel. Nasser declared that, "the liberation of Yemen is a step along the path of eliminating Zionism."

He recalled his prediction that "we could liberate the usurped land of Palestine after we organized our home front and after we eliminated Arab reaction." He said that Israel was "in a state of anxiety" as a result of the Yemeni revolution, and that Israel was defending King Saud and King Hussein. Nasser also charged that "world Jewry" opposed the Yemeni revolution "because the Yemeni revolution opposes Zionism, imperialism and reactionary goals."

Boasts of Rockets

Yemen's new regime boasted that its army possesses rockets, and threatened to use them against the royal palaces of Jordan and Saudi Arabia. The threat was made in a broadcast from San'a the Yemeni capital.

The announcer did not give the type, make, or number of the rockets exhibited at a military celebration staged by the new Yemeni Government, but said they were among the "latest modern rockets in the world." There was speculation that they came from Cairo and actually are controlled by Egyptian troops now present in Yemen. Marshall Sallal of Yemen said in a broadcast speech that the pro-Nasser regime is "building an army strong enough to liberate the entire Arabian Peninsula."

SCIENTISTS HONORED

MOSCOW — Of the 132 people nominated by a Soviet committee to receive the Lenin Prize, 74 are Soviet Jewish scientists.

State Department spokesman Lincoln White said last week that Yemen's boasts of modern rockets and threats to use them aggressively were "not conducive" to peace in the Middle East. White said the Yemeni boasts would not help promote military disengagement in the area.

Bronx Wedding Gets Assist From President, Mayor

NEW YORK — The wedding of a young Marine and a Bronx girl took place Dec. 22, after President Kennedy and Mayor Wagner helped to solve the problems confronting the couple.

Consent Received

Lance Cpl. Bernard Richardson, 19, and Gloria Kassof, 17, were married at Mount Eden Jewish Center, The Bronx, after the President made it possible to bring the Marine back from Guantanamo Bay, and Wagner gained Richardson's father's consent for the ceremony.

The girl wrote to Kennedy on Dec. 3 asking that young Richardson be given leave for the ceremony. Wagner assisted the Marine in obtaining consent for the ceremony from his father because the Marine is under 21.

Rabbi David Hollander described the couple as "hero" and "heroine." Richardson because he served the interests of American and human liberty by serving in Cuba, and Miss Kassof because, "she displayed an indomitable courage and did not permit towering obstacles to deter her from the attainment of this happy moment."

"What you did," he told the couple, "was to reveal the greatness of America and the humanity of our great President, John F. Kennedy."

Hold To Dignity

He said that this is America in its "truest image." He added, "Even in time of national crisis the dignity of the individual and the freedom and the opportunity to live a separate life is not lost sight of."

"This is what America is fighting for all around the world," he said.

Agency To Hear New Director

Herman L. Goldberg, ACSW, recently appointed as executive director of the Jewish Family & Children's Service, will be the featured speaker at the 33rd Annual Meeting of the agency on Sunday, Jan. 20, it was announced by Irving Gertsacov, president. Louis I. Kramer is chairman of the meeting which will be held in the gymnasium of the Butler Health Center at 3 P.M. Mr. Goldberg's topic is "Our Agency. Blueprint of the Future."

A graduate of the School of Social Service Administration of the University of Chicago, Mr. Goldberg has had many years experience as a practitioner, supervisor and administrator.

The Jewish Family & Children's Service, a member of the United Fund, counsels children, families and aged persons. Since its inception, the agency has been mainly concerned with offering individual counseling.

Conference On Religion, Race To Start Jan. 14

CHICAGO — More than 70 religious groups and agencies in the United States—Protestant, Catholic and Jewish — will be represented by 800 delegates at the four-day National Conference on Religion and Race, which will open Jan. 14 at the Edgewater Beach Hotel here, it was announced last week. The conference was convened by the National Council of Churches, the Synagogue Council of America and the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

This is the first meeting convened by agencies of the major U.S. faith groups. The delegates will deal concretely with the impact of religion and religious teaching on racial segregation and will develop proposals for working together to share a commitment for interracial justice. The conference will be a religious commemoration of the Emancipation Proclamation signed by President Abraham Lincoln and made effective 100 years ago.

Serious Examination

"The conference will provide an occasion for a serious and concrete examination of the role of churches and synagogues in meeting religious and civic racial problems," the announcement said. "Every effort will be made to freshly dramatize the moral and spiritual values which are denied by racial prejudice, discrimination and segregation. The commitment of religion to racial integration will be expressed. The conference will be climaxed by the adoption of a statement of conscience representing the consensus of those attending, and the acceptance by the registrants of a series of action recommendations."

Form Committee

A special follow-up committee which will see to it that the decisions of the conference are acted upon in local communities has been set up.

Jewish Religious Life Shows Revitalization In Caribbean Area

MEXICO CITY — An enthusiastic "progress report" of revitalization of Jewish religious life throughout Central America and the Caribbean area as well as in outlying provincial communities in this country, was issued here last week by Rabbi Abraham M. Hirschberg, director of the Central American-Caribbean office of organized Orthodox Jewish communities, which has its headquarters here.

The center represents two separate organizations, established at a conference in Panama City last January, under the names of the Union of Rabbinical Organizations and the Council of Orthodox Congregations. Both groups represent Orthodox Jewish communities in all of Central America and the Caribbean area.

Having just returned from a tour of a number of countries served by both organizations through their common center here, Rabbi Hirschberg reported that new rabbis have been installed in various communities that heretofore had no individual spiritual leadership, expansion of services toward observance of kashruth, an increase in Jewish religious educational activities especially for youth, and increasing demands from Jews in many small communities for still further revitalization of their religious life.

Central Rabbinate at Work

Serving all of the Central American-Caribbean communities, he noted are the new central rabbinate installed here, and the central American yeshiva, now making "great progress" in this city. The rabbinate is the first ever established for the entire region, including among its members all Sephardic and Ashkenazic rabbis, as well as a Beth Din for the entire region. The yeshiva, headed by Rabbi Moshe Raas, a young scholar who came here from Belgium, now has an enrollment of nearly 10 rabbinical students who ultimately will serve the Jewish communities throughout the region.

Another factor benefitting the entire region is a large increase in the number of publications being published or distributed from the center in both Hebrew and Yiddish. The center serves also as the principal contact between this region and organized religious Jewry in the United States where, Rabbi Hirschberg said, it is hoped to enlist more rabbis, cantors and schochetim.

Guatemala City, Guatemala, has been developed as a kashruth center serving with kosher meats a number of other Jewish communities in several nearby countries where there are no facilities for ritual slaughter. Nicaragua and Honduras will be served from this center. From time to time, a ritual slaughterer from Guatemala will visit these and other nearby lands to assure a steady supply of kosher meats.

Communities Seek Rabbis

Applications have been received here from many communities for the filling of vacant rabbinical posts. Dr. Hirschberg said. Among them are petitions for strengthened, individual leadership from Jewish communities at Surinam, Dutch Guiana; Curacao, Quito, Ecuador, Tijuana and other Mexican communities.

To Present Torah — Milton Jacobs and his son Donald are shown above holding the Torah which Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs will present to the Cranston Jewish Center in memory of Abraham L. Jacobs at a Siyum HaSefer which will take place in the course of Sabbath services tonight at 8:30 o'clock. Donald will use this Torah when he becomes Bar Mitzvah tomorrow at the Center.

In Hollywood . . .

By Barney Glazer

Hollywood, California - Pittsburgh's Hank Levine, now deeply dug in here, dropped us this note, "I have produced an album for Liberty which may find interest among your Jewish readers. It's a Yiddish sing-a-long titled 'Sing a Little Something.' I did it while I was in New York and it was a lot of fun. The arranger-conductor is Shalom Secunda, who is very well known back east and his musicians were 'imported' from the Catskills especially for the date."

WHILE addressing children at the Montefiore Home in Sydney, Australia, Sophie Tucker told the youngsters, "Never deny your Jewish religion. Throughout my career I have publicly proclaimed my background and religious beliefs."

SI ZENTNER believes in retaining his individuality. Where other orchestra leaders are currently paying tribute to the big bands of yesterday, Zentner plays it cool by paying tribute to bands he's been fired from.

COREY ALLEN, actor, producer, director is a most unusual person with some most extraordinary accomplishments. While "Time Out of War" was winning the Cannes Film Festival Award, the Venice Film Festival Award and the American Screen Producers Award, after previously winning the Academy Award, as the best two-reel feature of the year, Corey's latest film, "The Chapman Report," was just being released. The oddity being that "Time Out of War" was made in 1955 when Corey was a U.C.L.A. student.

LOS ANGELES Jewry are mighty proud of the Yiddish folks-bine, long associated with Yiddish stage productions. They recently staged Abraham Goldfaden's comedy "The Two Kunelemels" with direction by Benjamin Zemach, formerly a member of the Habimah Theater, national theater of Israel.

Author Goldfaden is noted as the dean of Yiddish composers of operettas and folk music in this country.

MRS. NELL Rosenberg, former president of the Brandeis Institute in the Chicago area, relates that her husband's salesman in the Furniture Mart once requested permission to name his new son after her husband Lester Rosenberg. "Why, of course," replied Nell and Lester in union. "We're most flattered." Two months later, the underground brought the sad news home to the Rosenbergs. The only reason the salesman named his son after his boss Lester was to provide himself with the only opportunity he'd ever have to yell what he had on his mind, "Aw shaddupp, Lester!"

TO OUR younger generation: No, Shelley Berman is not the first comedian to work with the telephone as a prop. In our days, we had a rib-tickler named Georgie Jessel on the Orpheum Circuit who used the telephone as a regular comedy routine to call his momma.

Brother Daniel Asks Permanent Dwelling

HAIFA — Brother Daniel of the Carmelite Convent here has applied for permanent residence as the first step toward naturalization as a citizen of Israel, it was reported here by The Jerusalem Post. A converted Jew, he recently lost a court battle for citizenship under the Law of Return.

Commenting on the trial, he told the newspaper he thought it was scrupulously fair. "I haven't had the feeling of being Daniel in the Lion's Den," he said with a smile. "The profound earnestness with which the Justices dealt with the case has given me deep satisfaction," he added, and expressed "surprise and pain" at reports of the campaign of slander conducted by hostile groups and individuals who, in the light of the verdict, condemn Israel as a "racist state."

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

by Sylvia Porter

HOME CONDITIONING

The appliance manufacturers constantly dazzle us with promises of a work-free, worry-free home, but when are those "dream kitchens" of the future going to arrive? Appliances are being turned out in ever more intriguing colors, sizes and shapes, but are they really any better than a decade ago?

Here, from Herman L. Weiss, vice president and group executive for consumer products of General Electric, are some answers about home appliances which may startle you.

Porter: Where are those "dream" appliances of the future?

Weiss: Actually, the "dream kitchen" of the future is here today, but 90 per cent of America's households haven't caught up with it.

The future may hold refinements like phonevision or transistorized motor detectors in lawns to turn on sprinklers automatically or home vacuum cleaning systems in which the housewife would merely set a few dials to "program" her vacuum cleaner, then leave the house and come home to find the job done. These are all technically feasible.

While it isn't practical to produce, we have developed a "Rube Goldberg" machine which could take frozen food out of the freezer and put it into the oven before the housewife gets home. The day surely will come when we will have home dry cleaning units to stand next to your washers and dryers. Right now it would be possible to have cooled closets for your furs or clothes conditioning closets in which the heat and moisture are controlled to remove wrinkles.

Porter: I'm a modern housewife, but my kitchen is no "dream."

Weiss: That's the trouble. Most housewives think defrosting is a loathsome chore but the readily available automatic defrosting refrigerators are not widely enjoyed. Very few families are currently enjoying the benefits of air conditioning or of "programmed" ranges with their automatic timers. Many homes have isolated labor-saving appliances, but the kitchens are not properly laid out to make effective use of them.

We are increasingly looking at the home as a system. We ask what are the average housewife's daily chores, what is her schedule, what does she want from us? Then we work with the architects and designers of homes to be built in the future.

It costs far less to air condition or light condition a home when it is being built than it does to do it later, and the same is true of a well-designed kitchen.

Porter: How should consumers shop for home appliance systems?

Weiss: Consumer ignorance on how to buy home appliance systems is a major problem which manufacturers are trying to overcome through educating dealers and through working closely with electric utilities and builders, so we can coordinate appliance products with actual home-building and installation. Many Americans simply do not understand what an up-to-date kitchen looks like or how to go about acquiring one. They should ask questions, go see a modern kitchen before buying.

Porter: Why should appliances cost so much more than they did a decade ago?

Weiss: Because of the constant number of new features being engineered into them which greatly increase the value of the appliances. Actually, taking comparable products—non-automatic defrost refrigerators—prices have decreased. Between 1950 and March of this year, the consumer price index had gone up 25 per cent while the household appliance index had gone down 2 per cent.

Porter: What are manufacturers doing to improve service?

Weiss: We are putting increased emphasis on building better products to start with to eliminate many repairs.

But with appliances becoming more complex, they will continue to need service. Since we realize that nothing is more annoying to the housewife than waiting for the repairman, we now have in major cities radio-dispatched service trucks which enable us to give one to two-day service on most priority calls.

Appliance buyers also should take annual service contracts to allow manufacturers to give them better service and to distribute such routine jobs as changing air conditioning filters through the year instead of facing impossible peak loads on the first hot day.

Oppose Change In Policy On Sale Of Public Lands

JERUSALEM — Opposition to a change in policy that would have permitted the sale of nationally-owned lands to private interests was reaffirmed here last week at a meeting of the board of directors of the Jewish National Fund. The stand was taken in the face of strong lobbying by urban tenants and lessors of other publicly owned or publicly administered properties, who insisted on permission to purchase lands they now occupy.

Some economic experts advocate the sale of public lands in urban areas as the only means for knocking the bottom out of current speculation and discouraging inflation.

Bad Choice Soars Student Transfers

NEW YORK — The high proportion of Jewish high school graduates who take a "blind man's bluff" approach to picking a college is adding to the spiraling transfer problem on American campuses. B'nai B'rith Vocational Service reported this week. Some 12,000 Jewish students are among the nearly 200,000 college undergraduates who will be applying for transfer by the end of this academic year, Dr. Maurice Jacobs, chairman of the B'nai B'rith counseling program, told the annual meeting of its national commission.

FROM FRIDAY TO FRIDAY THOUGHTS OF PROVIDENCE IN FLORIDA

By Beryl Segal

I am not envious of Florida for its warm climate. One can argue that what Providence lacks in warmth it makes up in variety. How sweet is the springtime after a cold winter. How pleasant are the lingering Indian Summer days with their riot of color in the foliage. How refreshing are the summer evenings after the heat of the day. They certainly compensate for the hardships of winter.

I am not envious of Florida for the miles and miles of ocean beaches. The Narragansett Bay in Providence is a thing of beauty and one has only to go a few miles out of the city limits to come to a pleasant ocean beach.

No. I am not envious of the natural assets of Florida. But I am envious of the man-made facilities that add to the enjoyment of life in Florida, and especially in the area of Miami.

You walk along the streets and avenues of Miami Beach, for instance, and the noise of children laughing is constantly in your ears.

Every ten or twelve blocks in Miami Beach are provided with a little park and playground. The park is usually not very large. But it has room for a pair of swings, a slide, a Jungle Gym for the little children. Often there is also a tennis court for young people and shuffleboard for oldsters.

And you think of Providence. You think of the large areas between Brown University and the Pawtucket city line. You think of Broad Street, of Elmwood Avenue, and of Broadway. These are streets I know best. I have walked these streets many a time and I cannot think of any playground on any of them.

I think particularly of a street I know so well — Hope Street. Every Saturday, except when it rains or when snow covers the ground, I take my grandchildren for a walk. We usually end up in the Hope Street Park. There we find many children play at the fountain or climb trees.

Now, there is nothing wrong with playing at the fountain and climbing

The Lyons Den

by Leonard Lyons

FIRST-DATE: Zsa Zsa Gabor sat in the Cub Room of the Stork Club, in a novel role—that of a distant chaperone. Her 15½-year-old daughter, Francesca Hilton, was in the main room with her first college-boy date. Francesca wore her first ball-gown.

"She's such a sweet child, but a child," Zsa Zsa sighed. She was addressing her groom, Herbert Hutner—who had distressed her, incidentally, despite the 25-carat diamond ring he gave her. Zsa Zsa had signed for a role in a movie with Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward. "But ve vere honeymooning," she explained, and Hutner had let her decide.

"He voz so sweet about it," she said, in explaining why she'd quit the movie and permitted her sister, Eva, to take the film-role. If only Hutner had said No, she must not take the role—then she could have rebelled against him. But he'd let her decide.

Francesca entered the Cub Room, her young cheeks aglow from the dancing and excitement. "A Yale man keeps cutting in," the girl complained. Zsa Zsa patted her and sent her back to the dance-floor: "If any young college men want to cut in, sent them to me, dollink."

15½-years-old...Zsa Zsa clapped her fingers over the 25-carat ring, and told of the period when she was that age! "I vos an Excellency already," the wife of the Turkish Ambassador. She had asked him, she said: "Your Excellency, veel you marry me?" And he did. And after their marriage they went to London, on an official mission: "Victoria Station voz closed, just for oss. Anthony Eden voz dair to greet oss."

A few days later she and her diplomat - husband were lunching with G.B. Shaw and H.G. Wells. "I thought I voz a brain, but I voz just a silly little child, really." She mentioned that both Shaw and Wells had patted her knees, under the table—but perhaps this was Hungarian fancy. And nowhere she was, in the Stork Club, a distant chaperone.

Francesca and her beau returned to say goodnight; they were off for a late-snack at the Brasserie. Zsa Zsa and Hutner accompanied them to the door. The youngsters went off in a chauffeur-driven limousine. "And ve," Zsa Zsa sighed, "have to go home by taxi. Hah."

HOLD-OUT: The land on which Rockefeller Center is built is owned by Columbia University. The late Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia, personally negotiated with the lone hold-out, a bar-room at the corner of 6th Ave. Butler reported failure: "I tried every device known to man"... "No," said one Professor. "Did you offer him an honorary degree?"

APPLICANT: James Meredith, the first Negro to be enrolled at Ole Miss, is receiving private tutoring in Math, his sole weak subject, to be sure he passes his exams. No such problem, however, will arise with the next Negro student who will apply for enrolment in the next class. The carefully-screened youngster is a brilliant scholar.

EXPENSE: Mke Romanoff's restaurant in Beverly Hills, now closing its doors forever, was a rather expensive place. One night Groucho Marx dined there, and ordered a steak plus side-dishes of creamed spinach and lima beans. When the the trees, except that the water in the fountain is not always too clean, and the tree branches have a habit of breaking.

The tennis courts in the park have been neglected for years. The wires surrounding them are rusty, and the courts are over-grown with weeds.

What would it take to make of this park a real playground for children and for the young?

Put in a couple of swings. Install a slide or two. Add a few rocking animals. Give the children a gadget on which they can climb or swing. And there you have it. There is no need for a supervisor. No need to guard them constantly against falling into the fountain. And the trees will be much healthier if no child climbs on them. It will also be healthier for the children.

But apparently it does not enter the minds of the authorities in charge of the playgrounds that these are not only summer necessities but are year-round facilities.

And the tennis courts are only an eyesore in the park. Either dismantle them altogether, or have them in shape for play.

Why Miami Beach does it and Providence does not is a big mystery to me, as it must be to others who have visited the Florida city, I am sure.

(Mr. Segal's opinions are his own. His views are not necessarily those of this newspaper.)

plate arrived, Groucho sent it back, stating: "At such prices, I expect the lima beans to arrive peeled."

POWER: Dean Acheson recently angered the British with a statement indicating that Great Britain no longer is a No. 1 Power... When Acheson was Secretary of State, he sent an aide to an Anglo-U.S. Conference, where he began: "Please bear in mind that for the first time in 400 years Great Britain does not control the world's largest bank or fleet."

FORMALITY: Paul Porter, the Washington lawyer and ex-Govt. official, was at a cocktail party where the French Ambassador arrived wearing a full-dress suit. Porter explained to the cocktail guests: "Please excuse the French Ambassador's white-tie. He's come straight from his office and had no time to change."

Sir A.P. Herbert, the British humorist and Tory M.P., once rushed to the House of Commons for a debate and vote, still wearing his dinner-jacket. "I'll never do that again," he stated. "If a Tory M.P. shows up in a dinner-jacket, everybody says 'Well, what else can you expect?' But if a Labor M.P. shows up in a white-tie, nobody says anything."

LIFE: George Jessel, wearing his powder-blue semi-military uniform, arrived in San Juan recently to perform before the Air Force crews. He told them: "Believe me, Life is like an infant's garment—short, snarled and soiled."

RECORD: Katharine Cornell was approached by a movie producer who wanted her to star in a movie. He told her: "Sign the contract. The motion picture is the only art form in which your talents could be preserved for posterity"... Miss Cornell replied: "Oh, really? Have you seen a movie, on TV, over five-years-old lately?"

YOUTH: Gen. Jimmy Doolittle, the short heroic Air Force leader has sons who are over six ft. tall. He told them he still would box with them—if they'd kneel, as he used to do when he first tried to teach them how to box.

Two Teen-Age Arabs Sentenced To Serve In Jail For Spying

TEL AVIV — Two 17-year-old Israeli Arabs were sentenced in Beersheba District Court recently to six years' imprisonment each on charges of espionage. The youths told the court that they were persuaded to cross over into the Gaza Strip by listening to Egyptian radio broadcasts which described Gaza as a "paradise."

When they got there, they said, they were detained by Egyptian intelligence officers who interrogated them on various subjects such as the Israel water pipeline project and information on military installations.

A LOOK AT SPORTS

by LEON SAPERSTEIN

Next Wednesday night, January 16th, the 13th National Basketball Association All-Star game will be played at Los Angeles. At present the East holds a 7-5 edge but the West has been catching up in recent years.

Last year the East was beaten by the margin of 20 points and I doubt that they will do much better this time. Wilt Chamberlain, who was on the East squad the past three years, is now on the West roster. Now the West team will have four superb rebounders in Walt Bellamy, Bob Pettit, Elgin Baylor and the foremost retriever off the boards, Wilt "The Stilt."

Boston has three men on the eastern side. Bob Cousy, Bill Russell and Tom Heinsohn. Cousy is the only player to have been selected for all 13 All-Star contests and this will be his final appearance in the 'star' game. Look for Cousy to leave the fans with a performance they will not forget so quickly.

Each year the West has been getting stronger so that the East has become the underdog the last two years. Bill Russell is the only outstanding rebounder for the men of Red Auerbach and Red will be chewing his cigar at game's end rather than smoking it.

The NBA All-Star game offers hoop fans the best chance of seeing the greatest basketball stars in action. Even more so than in baseball or football, the pro hoopsters take this game seriously and really exhibit amazing floor play and shooting considering the fact that they can practise together only two days. I saw the first two All-Star games at Boston Garden and I still remember some of the fantastic play.

With the fabled Bob Cousy and Oscar Robertson in the same backcourt, with Wilt Chamberlain and Elgin Baylor on the same forward line and with the reserves consisting of lesser lights like Walt Bellamy and Johnny Kerr, a top contest appears to be in store for the 14,000 at the game as well as the countless television viewers throughout the country. Rhode Island will also have the game on the home screen.

My prediction—The WEST 137—The EAST 124

NBA PLAYOFF PREVIEW . . .

Last weekend the Boston Celtics played successive games at Los Angeles against the Lakers. Two factors made the games significant. First is the strong probability that these same two teams will meet at the climax of playoff action for the championship in a repeat of last year's frantic fight for the NBA crown. Losing both games to LA indicates that the Celtics may be in trouble, especially if the home court advantage goes to the Lakers.

And here was the second reason for Red Auerbach flipping his wig for the umpteenth time. He recognizes the fact that the team which plays the first two games of the playoff in its home atmosphere has a big edge. It places tremendous pressure on the visitors as they have to split these two in order to keep them in competition.

The home court advantage goes to the team with the best won and lost percentage and at the time this column was written, the Lakers held an edge over the Celtics. Both the Lakers and the St. Louis Hawks have been tough at home and Boston will have to improve against them on the road to insure opening the final playoff round in Boston.

Getting back to Auerbach's problems with the fandom of enemy cities, notably St. Louis and Los Angeles, this is nothing new. Red persists in baiting officials, in blasting Hawks fans, in urging Celtics fans to return the abuse his basketeers receive away from friendly Boston Garden and in hopping off the bench at every call against his boys. My advice to Red is to protest, yes, but not every two minutes. The fans, at least to my way of thinking, come to the games in order to witness thrilling basketball not lengthy tirades between coaches and officials.

JERUSALEM

A Coveted City . . .

Jerusalem always has been a coveted city. Its history goes back thousands of years. During this period, its stolid stone walls have been penetrated numerous times and various rulers have established their domiciles here, but it has never lost its synonymy with the establishment of the Jewish nation.

Known in the time of Abraham as "Salem," it is referred to in Genesis, Chap. 14, 18, as the city hospitable to the venerable Jewish leader. When the Israelites conquered the Land of Canaan about the 13th century B.C., the city was in the hands of the Jebusites and was known as "Jebus." Captured by King David, he made it his capital about 1,000 B.C. and later his son, King Solomon, had the Temple built in Jerusalem and the city became a religious and spiritual center of the tribes of Israel.

Succeeding Jewish rulers worked on the further development of the city, and its fortifications were strengthened. But in 587 B.C. Nebuchadnezzar, King of Babylon, conquered the city and destroyed it. In later years, the Jews returned from their Babylonian captivity and began the revitalization of Jerusalem.

The city's history is one of many conquests. It fell into the hands of the Greeks, was restored to Jewish rule by the Maccabees only to fall to Herod the Great who did not destroy the city but added many attractive buildings and fortified it. After the destruction of Jerusalem and the sacking of the Temple in 70 A.D., the city became a Roman town, Aelia Capitolina.

But, outside rule did not end with the Romans. The Arabs held it for 500 years, erected many mosques and made it one of their important religious centers until the Crusaders captured the city in 1099 only to be overrun by Saracens who, in turn, were ousted by the Turkish armies.

In 1917, British rule became effective and Jerusalem became first their military and later civil administrative center until the State of Israel was proclaimed in 1948.

Today, after withstanding numerous assaults, Jerusalem is the capital, as it was 3,000 years ago, of the Jewish nation. However, today the city is divided, with the New City in Israeli territory and the Old City held by Jordan.

With the restoration of Jerusalem as the capital of Israel, the city once more began to flourish. The new buildings of the Hebrew University became an important part of it as is now the complex of structures designed to house the government offices and agencies, the "Haki-riya." And, in one of the suburbs of Jerusalem, Ein Kerem, is located the modern Hadassah hospital, where the famed Chagall windows have been installed.

Yet, the "newness" of Jerusalem casts but a small shadow on this oldest of cities. Perhaps the grandeur of the city is symbolized by the stone construction of most of the buildings; stone hewn from the surrounding hills which have withstood the abuses of centuries.

As one ascends Mount Zion, there is the feeling that personal contact with history will soon be made. Atop the Mount are the buildings of the Dormition Monastery and close by, the structure in which rests the tomb of King David. This site was revealed as the tomb of the revered leader in 1158 when a wall of a church on Mt. Zion collapsed. The tomb is one of the most sacred sites in Israel.

In the upper part of the same building is the Coenaculum, which according to tradition, is the site of the Last Supper. The Dormition Monastery stands on the spot where Mary is reported to have fallen into her eternal sleep.

Throughout the city of Jerusalem, the visitor will be a witness to history. A present-day symbol, presented by members of both Houses of the British Parliament, is the giant Menorah (Can-leabbra) which stands in the Knesset Garden along King George Avenue. This bronze work, decorated with 29 panels, depicts in its relief figures highlights of the history and revival of the Jewish people. Nearby is the largest and most beautiful synagogue in Jerusalem, Yeshurun, and not too far distant is the Ratisbonne Monastery founded in 1874. Also on King George Avenue is the tall, impressive building housing the Chief Rabbinate of Israel and the Supreme Religious Centre.

For the contemporary view of architecture the Hebrew University provides this distraction. Guided tours of the campus are available daily, including a visit to the vault which contains the famed Dead Sea Scrolls. The University, one of the leading educational institutions in the Middle East, has also provided the meeting grounds for scholars from the Western, Asian and African nations.

Back near the center of Jerusalem, stands a majestic dome-topped building. This is the YMCA building which was built in 1928. Its tower is open to the public and it offers a panoramic view of the city and its outlying areas.

Jerusalem's history is traced in numerous archaeological findings. A notable one is Herod's Cave, off King David Road. Here are the remains of an ancient mausoleum in which Herod's family was buried. At Ramat-Rahel, archaeological excavations have disclosed remains of an ancient settlement.

The Sanhedrin Tombs are a magnificent testimony to the reverence held for learned men. The Sanhedrin was the Supreme Court of olden times. It had 71 members and according to tradition, the members are buried in a cave struck out of rock and their coffins are made of stone. Above the entrance of this well-preserved tomb is a beautifully-carved relief.

Just as numerous structures in Jerusalem reflect the contrasts of the city, so do the inhabitants reflect this diversity. The Bukharian Quarter is the home of the Jews of Bukhara, a region in the heart of Asia. In the Mea Shearim quarter, the highly Orthodox Jewish community dwells. This area, which is unto its own, has many synagogues and schools for religious studies and its people retain the dress and mode of living of their European ancestors.

Among other sites the tourist will want to visit are the Biblical Zoo which contains many of the animals mentioned in the Bible and on each cage is a quotation referring to this fact in this holy book.

Also on the list of places to visit are Mount Herzl, site of the tomb of Theodore Herzl, founder of modern Zionism, Ein Kerem, on the outskirts of the city and birthplace of St. John the Baptist, Church of the Visitation and the Church of St. John in the Mountain, Yad Veshem, where the archives of the Jewish dead during World War II are kept. Binyanei Ha'oomah (The Hall of Nations), and the 6th century Monastery of the Cross.

Jerusalem Landmark — YMCA

A walking tour of many of the points of interest can be made for the air of Jerusalem is exhilarating; the city being located in a hill region. For those who prefer the leisurely manner of touring, there are municipal buses in the city, as well as organized tours by tour bus or hired car.

Israeli To Speak To Center Group

Asher Podhorzer, a fourth generation Sabra, son of the former mayor of Safed, Israel, and the newly appointed International Tour Director for the Zionist Organization of America, will be the guest of the Jewish Community Center at its next "Flight to Israel Tea", this Sunday at 4 P.M., at the East Side Center building.

For ten years a journalist on the staff of "Hakober", one of Israel's largest dailies, Mr. Podhorzer served in the Israeli underground prior to the State's independence.

During the Israeli War of Liberation, Podhorzer served as official war correspondent with the Israeli Army. From 1950 to 1953, he served as foreign correspondent in the U.S. and the UN for "Yedioth Ahronoth", independent evening daily in Israel.

Mr. Podhorzer will discuss some of the many features of the Center's 22-day flight to Europe and Israel at this Sunday's session. The Center tour, planned from March 3 to 25, will include sightseeing in Israel during that nation's celebration of the Purim Adloyada.

Admission to this Sunday afternoon's tea is open to all interested adults.

Brazilian Gives Tract Of Land To State Of Israel

SAO PAULO, Brazil — Assis Chateaubriand, one of Brazil's wealthiest men, last week donated a tract of land comprising 2,471 acres to the State of Israel, naming the area "Nova Israel" (New Israel), and requesting that the land be used for "transplanting to Brazil Israel's successful agricultural experiments" by founding a settlement on the land.

Chateaubriand, former Brazilian Ambassador to London, one of the largest land-owners in this country and the proprietor of a number of newspapers, radio and television stations, announced his gift in a letter to Aryeh Eshel, Israeli Ambassador here.

Eshel, thanking the magnate, said he would turn the land over to "the Brazilian people." He informed Chateaubriand that Israel would be happy to provide experienced technical aid to help develop agro-technical experimentation at "Nova Israel." Because such an offer of land to an embassy is without precedent, it is not yet known in whose name the deed will be registered.

Two New Directors Elected To Board

Two new directors, George W. Miller, president of Textron Inc., and Erskine N. White, Jr., vice president of Gorham Corporation, have been elected to the board of the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Company, according to an announcement by Harry B. Freeman, president.

Mr. Freeman also announced two promotions and the election of one new officer. Leonard J. Curan, assistant vice president in charge of the bank's installment loan department, was made a vice president and Charles W. Connors, Jr., assistant auditor, was promoted to auditor. Clark D. Pitts of the bank's mortgage department was advanced to officer status as an assistant secretary.

NEW YORK — Zosa Szajkowski was honored at a reception sponsored by the American Academy for Jewish Research and the National Foundation for Jewish Culture recently to mark the appearance of his book Franco-Judaica.

Bibliographical Work

The work is an annotated bibliography dealing with materials available in French libraries and archives pertaining to the Jews of France from the year 1500 to the French Revolution.

Dr. Salo W. Baron, president of the American Academy for Jewish Research, in interpreting the value of the book to the field of Jewish scholarship explained that there was material on Jewish history in France in the several centuries prior to the year 1500 and considerably more material pertaining to the years following the French Revolution. The great gap for the historian has been precisely in the period covered by the work of Szajkowski, he stated.

Dr. Baron said that the actual division between Ashkenazic and Sephardic Jews had occurred in France and it was interesting to note that at the present time the large French Jewish community is a combination of both Jewries, especially with the influx of so many Jews from North Africa.

Termed "Indispensable"

For the French Jewish community of today to be adequately related to its past, it is necessary to have the full details of what happened to Jewish life in the period from 1500 "Szajkowski's volume must be regarded as indispensable to any Jewish scholar working in the field of French Jewish history," Dr. Baron said.

This was the first important scholarly volume produced by a major grant from the National Foundation for Jewish Culture and is expected to set a pattern for future additional contributions of this kind.

MAPAM IN TURMOIL
TEL AVIV — New friction erupted in the leadership of Mapam caused by the "left wing" of the party. Among the bones of contention are expressions of sympathy for Cuba in the present crisis; identification with the aims of Communist China vis-a-vis India and charges of denial of free expression of opinion within the party.

Give for the life of a child!

SEE the difference your dimes made in Jamee Schmoll's life! She is just one of the 42,000 children stricken by arthritis or rheumatic disease. Yesterday's Jamee was withdrawn and unhappy when examined at the March of Dimes-supported Arthritis Clinical Study Center at the University of Rochester (N. Y.) Medical School. Today's Jamee looks into her mirror with a smile, thanks to the change your dimes helped doctors bring about.

All over the country, your dimes support research scientists seeking causes and cures. Your contributions help train medical workers, by financing a rapidly growing network of study and treatment centers, that bring the best of medical care to those like Jamee who need it so desperately.

But there are still thousands of other Jamees across the country, victims of arthritis, birth defects or polio. Won't you give for the life of a child in your town?

Problem Of Jewish Aged Forces Comprehensive Study In Camden

CAMDEN — The Jewish Federation of Camden County will conduct a comprehensive population survey of the Jewish community of Camden County and neighboring areas of Burlington County. The study will serve as a guide in future planning for all federation departments as well as the basis for planning by the community to develop a blueprint to meet the needs of the aged.

It is contemplated that in the development of this survey, an opportunity will be made available to synagogues and other major parts of the Jewish community to indicate what information they would like to know about the composition of the Jewish community of Camden in order to assist them in their planning for the future.

The board of directors approved the recommendation of a survey based upon a comprehensive report of a special committee which was appointed to explore the need for such a program. This committee, under the co-chairmanship of A.J. Rosenfeld and Sam Kalikman and coordinated by Moses Lavinsky, consulted with experts in the field who are knowledgeable in community population surveys and planning.

Needs of Aged

The need for the survey became obvious as a result of considerations during the past year by the federation of needs of the aged in the community. The federation is aware that Camden County has not been subject to the same pressures which most other communities of similar size have experienced in providing facilities to those who need some assistance in their living arrangements.

Several years ago, the federation entered into a contract with the Jewish Home for the Aged in Trenton and a total of four beds is now available for Camden residents. Last year Jewish Family Service had requests from 20 persons for some form of care. Committees of Jewish Family Service and the federation have been studying this problem.

On a temporary basis, to meet this pressure, the federation authorized Jewish Family Service to negotiate with Trenton, or any other community, for additional beds to meet the needs of residents of this community. However, Trenton, which has an institution for 35 people, is now filled to capacity and is not able to give Camden any additional beds. It also was not possible to work out a satisfactory arrangement with Atlantic City.

Temporary Arrangement

It was recognized, however, that any such arrangements could, at best, be only considered on a temporary basis. Before any permanent plans on a long-range basis can be developed, a great deal more must be known about the population of Camden, including age and family size data, officials said.

Another part of the survey is a specialized phase concerning numbers of aged in the community who have problems which make it difficult for them to maintain their own households. This phase is being undertaken by the staff of Jewish Family Service in cooperation with a special committee which will be organized among the physicians in the community.

As part of this study, an attempt will be made to determine numbers of Jewish persons presently patients in various public institutions in an effort to ascertain the services needed.

Gain Sets Record For Local Bank

The Industrial National Bank of Rhode Island reported net operating earnings for 1962 of $4,705,841, an increase of 6.4% over 1961 and a record high for the fourth year in succession. John Simmen, president, also reported that total resources, deposits, loans and capital funds all reached new peak levels at the year-end.

Net earnings, which were up $284,376 from the $4,421,456 recorded last year, were equal to $3.92 a share on the 1,200,000 shares outstanding compared with $3.68 in 1961 and $3.66 in 1960. Since 1958, when net earnings were $2.79 a share, the increase has amounted to $1.13 a share, an improvement of 40% during the four year period.

Total deposits as of Dec. 31 amounted to $530,903,000, a gain of 5.7% over the 1961 total of $502,207,000. Both demand deposits and time deposits showed increases, with the former aggregating $255,910,000, up 9.4% or $21,954,000 and the latter $274,993,000, an increase of $6,742,000 or 2.5% over the same date last year.

West was the dealer; East-West were vulnerable. The bidding went:
 West North East South
 Pass Pass 1H 1S
 Pass 4S Pass Pass
 Pass

West led his singleton heart and declarer put up the ace. The right play now is to finesse the spade queen, because if the king of spades is well placed one club finesse will then be sufficient to make ten tricks. But the hand becomes more interesting and difficult when the spade finesse fails.

As dummy is short of entries the first entry with the ace of hearts must be used to finesse the spade. As the cards were placed West won the queen of spades with the king and switched to a diamond. That trick should be taken in dummy with the ace and the club finessed to the queen; then declarer must play the ace of clubs and trump his losing club with the high spade. He then plays three rounds of trumps, finishing in his own hand, and now on the last trump lead East is in trouble with his discards:

Shut Down Only Lvov Synagogue

LONDON - The only synagogue in Lvov, capital of Western Ukraine in the Soviet Union, has been closed down, leaving the 30,000 Jews in that city of nearly a half-million population without a single house of worship, according to a report published here last week by The Sunday Telegraph.

The shutdown, according to the newspaper, was the culmination of a year-long campaign carried on by the communist press and by authorities at Lvov, topped by a demand in the Lvov Pravda, organ of the local Communist Party, which stated, "the time has come finally to close the synagogue, which has become a shelter for idlers, speculators, parasites and moneygrabbers."

Last spring, The Sunday Telegraph reported, articles appeared in the controlled press of Lvov linking the synagogue with "economic crimes." Pointing out that the local authorities were making of the Lvov Jews "a scape-goat in the campaign against economic offenses," the newspaper reported that letters from "honest workers" and from "disillusioned believers" were printed in the Lvov press as part of the drive to discredit the synagogue.

Later, several members of the synagogue's board of directors were arrested and charged with "profiteering and hooliganism." Finally, the local Pravda printed a slander to the effect that the "synagogue's saints are dividing the profits" allegedly resulting from their economic crimes. The demand for absolute closure of the house of worship ended the campaign.

DR. BERNSTEIN DIES

NEW YORK - Dr. Simon Bernstein, 80, eminent veteran Zionist and journalist died. He was editor of "Dos Yiddishe Folk," Yiddish organ of ZOA, from 1922 until 1953.

Accepts Offer Of TV Project

JERUSALEM - Against the reported opposition of Prime Minister Ben Gurion, the Cabinet accepted the offer of the Rothschild Trust to finance an educational television project in Israel. Abba Eban, Minister of Education and Culture, was instructed by the Government to present the issue to the Knesset (Parliament).

Under the terms of the Cabinet's mandate, the educational television project will be conducted experimentally for period of two to three years. After that, if it is decided to continue educational-TV broadcasting here, the television set-up will become part of the Government's responsibility, similar to the Government ownership of the present radio and postal services. The project is expected to have tough opposition when it comes before the Knesset.
