Confirms Administration To Request Aid For Israel

WASHINGTON — The State Department confirmed last week that the Nixon Administration is preparing a supplemental request to Congress for financial assistance to Israel and other countries. Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey said the request would be presented "in the near future," but cautioned that "final details and timing are still under consideration." Other government sources indicated, however, that it was "quite possible" that the package would be presented to the lame-duck session of Congress and that it will recommend an outlay of $1 billion of which $500 million would be earmarked for Israel.

The McCloskey statement was the first confirmation of such an aid request since reports last month that $450 million would be proposed for Israel. Sources said Oct. 4 that Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir had been promised such a sum during his visit here. The week before, the House of Representatives approved by 341-11 the broadening of aid to Israel beyond the scope of a Senate bill giving the President authority to send Israel aircraft or "equipment appropriate to protect such aircraft." Israel has asked the U.S. for $1 billion in credit for the next two fiscal years.

According to government sources, the Administration is recommending that Israel get some 180 M-48 and M-60 tanks — the latter being the world's most sophisticated, plus an assortment of Phantom jets, Shrike air-to-ground missiles and heavy artillery. The administration bill is also said to contain requests for arms aid to Jordan and Lebanon in the amounts of $40 million and $20 million respectively.

McCloskey said he was not sure whether the funds in the supplemental request would cover new weapons or just those already provided or on order. It was also uncertain whether the aid request would be handled by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, headed by Arkansas Democrat J. W. Fulbright, or by the Armed Services Committee, led by Mississippi Democrat John G. Stennis. Sen. Fulbright objected in September to a special section on aid to Israel in the military procurement authorization bill. Arguing on jurisdictional grounds, Sen. Fulbright offered a substitute proposal that was swamped 87-7. The Senate and the House of Representatives voted overwhelming approval of the original bill, which was signed by President Nixon.

On a related issue, McCloskey was asked at his news briefing whether the State Department was thinking of sending American advisors to Israel along with the weaponry. Before he could reply a reporter exclaimed: "Israel doesn't need any," and a smiling McCloskey added, "It would be hard to improve on that answer." The Deputy Assistant Secretary of State and department sources have stress that the U. S. does not have military advisors in Israel, despite assertions to that effect by Yassir Arafat and other Arab spokesmen. The U.S. does, however, train Israeli — as well as Arab — pilots domestically, and has military attaches in Israel as it does in all friendly countries.

On the matter of Arab-Israeli peace negotiations, McCloskey remarked: "I believe nobody has yet found a formula for resumption of the talks." Pressed once again on the American definition of "rectification" of Egypt's missile violations in the Suez Canal zone, the beleaguered State Department official moaned: "I've discussed that to the point where I can't take it any further."

Jewish Students At Brooklyn College Condemn Remarks

BROOKLYN — Jewish students, faculty members and B'nai B'rith leaders at Brooklyn College have condemned anti-Semitic remarks made at a lecture at the school two weeks ago by a Negro educator from Washington, D.C.

James Garrett, Director of the Center for Black Education in Washington, had told a meeting of the Martin Luther King lecture series, "It is the Jew in particular who has kept the black man in chains." He also made other anti-Semitic remarks.

In the wake of the uproar which followed publication of the remarks in the college newspaper, college president John W. Kneller said he was not certain of the veracity of the remarks and Professor Daniel E. Mayers, chairman of the college's Afro-American Institute claimed that Mr. Garrett's statements were "totally distorted."

U.S. Fund Builds 45 Israeli Schools

JERUSALEM — The Israel Education Fund, founded in the United States some five years ago, has so far made possible the building of 45 high schools in Israel. The chairman of the fund, Charles J. Bensley, told the Jewish Telegraphic Agency correspondent here this week that the Educational Fund raised $35 million for this purpose. The local authorities, in whose jurisdiction the schools were built, contributed similar amounts, he said.

The construction of another 30 high schools, five junior colleges and about 200 pre-kindergartens Bensley added. He is now visiting Jerusalem for the inauguration of the latest and most extensive project undertaken by the Education Fund, the "Denmark Comprehensive School," in this city which cost close to $3 million to build. Nearly half of it, $1.4 million, was received from 14 individual donors in the U.S.

The Funds' program calls for who paid $100,000 each. The school is intended to commemorate the saving of the Jewish population of Denmark from the Nazis by the Danish people in World War II.

Peace And Understanding

Rabbi Marc H. Tannenbaum, national director of Inter-religious Affairs of the American Jewish Committee has urged a "Manhattan Project," much like the crash program which was used to develop the atom bomb. This time, however, he wants it to be used for peace in religion.

What he feels is needed is an "effective communications center, well staffed, well financed, and of high status" to help focus, coordinate, augment and disseminate the thinking, writing and research of Christian and Jewish scholars which has been growing since the promulgation of the Vatican's Conciliar Statement on the Jews five years ago. The document, adopted by the Ecumenical Council, rejected anti-semitism and repudiated the charge of the collective guilt of the Jews for the crucifixion of Christ.

According to Rabbi Tannenbaum, the Vatican Council which drew up the statement (addressed to Catholics, not Jews) was "the most extraordinary seminar in Jewish-Christian relations held in the past 1,900 years."

It resulted, he says, in "an emergent new Christian structure within which anti-semitism can no longer find official Church sanction, and in which the Jewish people are being perceived in their own terms, rather than as candidates for conversion." At the same time there has been a "growing relaxation of suspicion and defensiveness toward Catholics and a respect for the validity of Christianity . . ."

Rabbi Tannenbaum is right in suggesting an "Institute for Advanced Studies in Jewish, Christian and Islamic relations," but he also makes sense in calling for much wider dissemination of the interfaith discussion, "discoveries," and action lines in this field.

Lack of understanding another person or his way of life, leads to fear and thus to hate. If all people understood one another's reasons for doing as they do, there would be less hate in the world.

For this reason, there is a need to learn why there is a lack of understanding among the highest Christian leadership, as well as the Moslem, of the impact of the rebirth of Israel on Jewish life in our age, particularly against the background of the Hitler years.

Ecumenism will get nowhere between Christians and Jews until that matter, as well as many others, are examined openly and honestly, and honestly resolved. By understanding perhaps peace will be brought a little closer to reality.

Only in America

By Harry Golden

Every year I get the same telephone call from a neighbor who asks me to subscribe to a certain magazine. Out of my subscription, the magazine will give $1 to the Babe Ruth League. Faithfully I have subscribed. I am for the Babe Ruth League and for any organization which will keep red-blooded American boys away from hubcaps and the hard stuff.

Somehow or other I missed paying my subscription although the magazine which shall be nameless except to say its title isn't Look kept coming with regularity. I confess I didn't worry about my dilatory response. What the devil, the season was over for the Babe Ruth League and I was going to get around to that bill as soon as I got around to some others that were waiting my attention.

Then I received a letter which informed me not only was my name stricken from the list of subscribers but if I didn't pay what I already owed, my case would be placed in the hands of a Collection Agency.

Ah, what fond memories this letter brought back! For I used to mail out the same urgent missiles to my subscribers who hadn't renewed and I want you to remember I wasn't giving anything away to the Babe Ruth League. No siree, the Carolina Israelite was a 100 percent profit organization. My letters were more threatening. To Southern subscribers who were late, I used to threaten to put the matter in the hands of a justice of the peace. In the South, JP's serve warrants and chase down all sorts of mischief and malfeasance. To Northerners, I threatened to put the matter in the hands of my Chicago or New York or Baltimore attorney.

There is a war that goes on without pause between the housewife and the butcher and there is an equally desperate war that goes on between the publisher and the reader.

To recruit a $3 subscription costs most publishers $4. The expense is not justified until a publisher has collected enough new subscribers to raise advertising rates. The advertising boys are no one's sucker. They take your

FROM FRIDAY TO FRIDAY

All About Nasser

By BERYL SEGAL

The mail brought me a new journal from Tel Aviv, Israel. It is a "Biweekly Review of Israeli Opinion" and is called the "Tadmit News Letter."

The journal offers a selection of significant social, cultural and political trends in Israel.

This particular issue is devoted almost entirely to the death of Nasser of Egypt. From this department we will select some items.

Golda Meir, Prime Minister of Israel, said:

"I think he was a great patriot. Yet, if we attempt to make up a balance sheet of his life, we must note that he left his people miserable and he mortgaged a large part of Egyptian independence, for which he had previously fought bravely."

Yigael Allon, assistant Prime Minister of Israel, said among other things:

"Nasser was the most capable, talented and dangerous enemy of Israel; he wanted to destroy the State of Israel. But after the Six-Day War, Nasser came to the conclusion that there is no military solution to the Middle East conflict.

"The Soviet presence in Egypt is the greatest danger to the sovereignty of Egypt. It endangers Egypt much more than Israel."

And here is an interesting story about Yigael Allon who was the Commander-in-Chief of Palmach (the attack force of the Israeli Defense Army) and who also was in charge of the Southern front in the year 1948.

During the surrender arrangements of the Egyptian Army, one young officer, who participated in the meeting, asked permission of his superior officer to ask a question of Yigael Allon. He was an intelligence officer and his place was to sit in on the proceedings and not to ask questions. But before the superior officer could say anything, Yigael Allon turned to the young officer and said:

"Please ask. I will answer anything that does not apply to military secrets."

The intelligence officer then said, pointing to the symbol in Allon's lapel. It was two ears of grain and a sword, the symbol of Palmach.

"Isn't that symbol in your lapel that of the Palmach?"

"Yes," replied Allon with a smile. "That is the sign of the Palmach."

The officer then said as if talking to himself:

"Now I understand the reason for our defeat. The Palmach and its Commander reached the front."

The commanders of Egypt always stayed behind . . .

That officer was Gamal Abdul Nasser, who later became President Nasser of Egypt.

"Ha-olom Hazah" (This World) says in an editorial:

"It is difficult for an Israeli to understand the blind adulation tens of millions of Arabs held for Nasser."

"Did Nasser give these masses anything but suffering and tears?"

"He gave them what is most precious to every Arab: HONOR."

"After generations of corrupt, miserable, contemptible leaders like Farouk, King of Egypt, he proved that an Arab leader can be honest, conscientious and modest both in his public and private life.

"I am convinced that at the end of his political career Abdul Nasser strove to reach a peace settlement with Israel.

"We cannot rejoice over his death."

But we cannot end this review of Israeli opinion without quoting the words of David Ben Gurion, in his radio broadcast from Sdeh Boker, the Kibbutz where he lives and works.

"The publication of secret material concerning contacts with Nasser will reveal that he was a UNIQUE LIAR," said Ben Gurion.

When asked when these secret materials will be made public, Ben Gurion replied that when "he said that I can publish them, I will."

That "he" is a man whom he promised secrecy.

I am sorry if my "piece" in the Herald, as Rev. Charles A. Baldwin refers to this column, has offended anybody. That was not my intention.

The 23 years of Rabbi Nathan Rosen's service at Hillel on the campus are well known to me. In fact, at that time one of my "pieces" entitled "Hillel Comes to Brown University" appeared in the Herald. If I gave the impression that a Chaplain coming to Brown would in any way displace, supplant or interfere with the work of Rabbi Rosen, I apologize. Rabbi Rosen is the Head of Hillel. The new man, if he comes, would be the Jewish Chaplain. If I am wrong, again I apologize.

As to the role of the Radical Zionist Alliance in the search for a Chaplain, I know full well that they are part of a committee consisting of chaplains, of the faculty and students. The reason I mentioned only the RZA is simply because I wrote about them and I said that part of their program is the search for a Jewish Chaplain. Rev. Baldwin denies them a place on the committee. He probably knows best. The members of the RZA do not wear any insignia on their lapels.

Beware Deadly Toys!

You can easily buy in stores across the land today toys which can horribly mutilate or even murder your child — despite the fact that the Toy Safety Act has now been on our Federal statute books for 11 months, despite the fact that the National Commission on Product Safety urged banning of three of the toys still on the market as far back as February 1969 and despite the fact that the Secretary of Health, Education & Welfare has the authority under the 1969 law to order off the market any toys which pose an "imminent hazard."

This is a shocking indictment and do not ignore it! As you shop for your Christmas toys in the next several weeks, beware of such lethal playthings as toy ovens which heat up to 600 degrees, lawn game darts with pointed two-inch steel tips, cap guns with the potential to deafen their user or a nearby child, any toys with easily shattered glass or noisemakers which present the risk of throat laceration or even strangulation.

If you find you have unwittingly bought either a poisonous toy or one dangerous from a mechanical, electrical or thermal standpoint, check to see whether in the next few days, the HEW secretary tags it as an "imminent hazard" and orders it off the market.

If so, ask for a refund plus reasonable shipping costs from the manufacturer. You — the wholesaler, retailer or individual consumer — have this right under the law once a toy is so tagged.

And despite HEW's appalling inaction for 11 months, the department is now likely to act. For last Wednesday Consumers

Union and the Children's Foundation filed a petition in Washington demanding that HEW order eight specific toys immediately off the market.

You will, in the next 20-25 days, help boost this year's spending on toys to $2.5-$3 billion, an all-time record. And you will, as you shop, find these key toy trends:

Educational and scientific toys are increasingly in. Among 1970's fascinating offerings: program med teaching typewriters; star finders and sky charts for future astronomers, weather stations for tomorrow's meteorologists.

Manipulative toys for preschoolers to practice such manual skills as locking, threading, zipping, turning, balancing, etc.

Plants and animals to raise and observe. Window sill greenhouses, see-through ant cities, cricket farms, mini zoos.

Handicraft kits and materials, more and different musical instruments, ever more lifelike dolls with many more black dolls.

In this alluring maze, you must follow the basic guidelines.

Beware the dangerous toys! Make sure any electrical toys bear the seal of Underwriters Laboratories.

Pick "child proof" toys for younger children, always remembering that to a child, a toy is meant not only to be watched and used according to instructions but also to be chewed, sat upon, ridden and dropped — in short to be played with wrong as well as right.

Sapir Predicts Trade Deficit

JERUSALEM — Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir predicted a $1.3 billion foreign trade deficit for Israel by the end of the current fiscal year, a $200 million increase over his original prediction. Addressing the presidium of the Economic Conference for Israel here this week, he said that $800 million of the deficit represented imports for defense. Sapir saw no improvements in Israel's foreign trade position until 1975. By then, he said, it was hoped that industrial exports would contribute an additional $500 million to Israel's side of the trade balance and that imports valued at $300 million would be replaced by Israel-made goods.

He said that if the cease-fire continues for any length of time, there may be a decline in Israel's defense requirements. "We must be ready for such a hopeful outcome and I have already asked my staff to study the question," Sapir said. The Finance Minister warned on a recent radio broadcast that switchover from a war to a peace economy could have serious repercussions and might create unemployment for the first time since the June, 1967 war.

If you can't afford mink, give her the Herald.

ARMS IMPORTS TO RISE
JERUSALEM — Israel's total arms imports totalling $800 million this year, will rise to $1 billion next year, Finance minister Pinhas Sapir said. For the sake of comparison, Mr. Sapir noted that in 1966 and 1961 the arms import figures were $160 million and $11 million respectively. He explained that the expenditure of $1 billion next year would depend on the approval of all Israeli arms requests from the United States.

Hello Again!

News of the Sports World by Warren Walden

ANOTHER THANKSGIVING — When the Brown "Ironmen" were thankful for a tie with Colgate that enabled them to go through the 1926 season undefeated. One of the bigger crowds for football in Providence sat in on that thrilling duel on a bright, crisp, sunshiney day at Brown Stadium. It was the annual Thanksgiving Day morning game accompanied by the yearly stories that read something like, "Little Andy Kerr, the wily Scotsman, will lead the Red Raiders out of the Chennango Valley, etc., etc. —"

ONE PLATOON! — The Brown team, being coached for the first time by Tuss McLaughery, had used eleven men all season, the same, of course, for offence and defense. The same lineup had been used all season in each game. They had established themselves as "Iron Men;" had established immortality in Brown University history; they were undefeated going into the Thanksgiving morning game. What a story! Could they do it today? Could eleven players cope with today's brand of the gridiron game? My answer is "yes." What do you think? Anyway, the Ironmen and Colgate attracted a crowd that filled every seat on both sides of the Stadium. It overflowed on the field behind the goal posts and was a most impressive sight in Providence. How many were there? Twenty-five thousand, a figure that is not astounding when compared with big football crowds elsewhere.

ANOTHER LEAGUE — William "Wish!" Sullivan can tell you about Thanksgiving Day football on another field, a most unusual one. It was Grosvenordale Field and it was right along the street line of Taunton Avenue in East Providence. It was the home field for East Providence High School teams, both football and baseball and it was where one of the greatest of all coaches, Wally Jameson, directed some of the greatest of all high school teams in schoolboy history in R.I.

"400" CLUB — It was great to belong to the "400" in those days of football on Grosvenordale Field, meaning the "400 Club" of East Providence. That Club sponsored a football team that provided the big interest on Thanksgiving. "Wish!" recalls such star performers as Henry Dodd and Don Dodd and George "Happy" Evans who ran a broken field like Red Grange as the fans lined the four sides of the Grosvenordale Gridiron cheered loud enough to be heard all the way to Olneyville Square.

HAVE YOU NOTICED? — The ancient sport of boxing, down many times but never entirely out, is making another comeback. Eddie Imondi is doing a valiant job bringing the ring game back at R.I. Auditorium and discussions are rampant concerning the relative merits of Joe Frazier and Cassius Clay. Joe Cellitti reports a benefit show that was held in Ponagansett High School Gym and Charlie Lager directed. Young Montreal, the original R.I. Red and all-time "great" in boxing, attended. "Monty" obliged with a specialty that involves trying to lift him off the floor. It just can't be done, tiz said. Also, Leo P. "Admiral" Bradley, known in the world of boxing from coast to coast, expects to announce the name of a middleweight he will pilot in the near future.

COMING AND GOING — Ice Capades is both a theatrical and a sport. Champion skaters gain places in its cast through winning titles. It's coming to R.I. Auditorium soon and, unless approval is voted for the proposed new arena and convention center, Ice Capades may be going away from Providence. Ice Follies, the Shipstad and Johnson extravaganza, doesn't come to R.I. Auditorium because the capacity is too small and Ice Capades may follow that pattern. It would seem that there is dire need for the new and larger arena if we Rhode Islanders are not going to abandon effort for keeping alive in the picture of progress. Have you tried to get a ticket for R.I. Reds hockey recently? — CARRY ONE!

RZA Resembles Poale Zionism Says Reader

Your distinguished Beryl Segal's article on Radical Zionism is truly Poale Zionism by another name. The idea saw the light at the end of the last century in Europe and at the beginning of the present century here. You might add to the Radical Zionist teachings of Ben Borockow, A.D. Gordon, Dr. Syrkins, Bert Katzenelson, and Azarov and others. Poale Zion theoreticians past and present.

But we sure had no hand in creating the Arab refugee problem that was the sole doing of Arab politicians, and as yet Radical Zionists, other Zionists, the world Jewry in general found no way to cope with the problem. We hope the Radical Zionist Alliance will find a solution to the problem.

NAME NOW OPHIR

EILAT — The name 'Ophir' has now been officially designated to replace that of Sharm-El-Sheikh, strategic point controlling the Tiran Straits at the entrance to the Gulf of Eilat. The formal redesignation took place at ceremonies marking the opening of the recently completed highway linking Eilat to Sharm-El-Sheikh (now Ophir.)

CELEBRATE WEDDING ANNIVERSARY: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Silverman of 141 Woodbine Street celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary with their family and friends on Saturday, November 21, at the Ledgemont Country Club in Seekonk, Massachusetts. The couple have one daughter, Mrs. Maxwell W. Waldman of Pawtucket; two grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren. Guests were present from New York, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

BRIDGE

By Robert E. Starr

Most Conventions mean a gathering of a certain group such as Doctors or Insurance men but a Bridge Convention does not mean a meeting of Bridge Players. Rather it means that a normal-sounding bid has a specialized artificial meaning to the pair using this Convention. If it should differ from the normal they must alert their opponents to this fact. Some of these conventions are just another way of utilizing a bid whereas others can only do some good. Today's hand illustrates one of the Conventions that can only do something useful. It is the Double of a Three No Trump Contract. If not doubled the hand will always make but if partner does what the Doubler tells him to, the hand is easily set. One pair set this hand at the recent Duplicate where it was played.

East cashed but they could not set. Still a few other pairs did bid as shown above but only one was doubled. Those not doubled also had an easy time of it when West led the Spade Jack but Mrs. Finkle, East, had other ideas. She felt that if she could get her partner to lead a Diamond on the opening lead they might set the hand whereas if he didn't they would have no chance.

Her thoughts were that even should Dummy have both the Jack and 10 of Diamonds two leads through by her partner would give her four tricks in the Diamond suit. Where would the other lead come from? She felt that her partner must have something so she would win the first trick and then shift and wait until he got in again to lead through the second time. Strangely enough, if Mrs. Finkle had held another high card she would not have Doubled for now she would be certain her partner could never get in the second time.

The double in this case was not just because she thought she could set the contract. Definitely not. A Double of Three No Trump when not on lead yourself is absolutely a lead-directing Double. Here is how it works: If you have bid a suit you demand that partner lead that suit. If partner has bid one you ask for that suit to be led. If each of you has bid a suit you now tell partner to take his pick but he must lead one of those. If neither of you have bid anything you now say lead Dummy's suit as in today's hand. The problem comes when Dummy has bid two suits. Now you must make an agreement with partner as to whether your Double means the first or the second suit bid by Dummy.

I have watched in horror when a partner has an excellent holding in a certain suit and Partner Doubles Three No Trump. These lead their own suit feeling that if partner can Double and they have this suit they will "murder" the opponents. They always end the same way, not setting the hand. This leads to the moral of today's article.

Moral: When partner either leaves you to your own devices or mildly suggests something, you are on your own, but when he absolutely commands you to do something, do it.

Dr. and Mrs. Phillip Finkle were East and West (Defenders), South Dealer, no one vulnerable. The bidding:

1♣	P	1♦	P
2NT	P	3NT	Dble

Every pair did end in the same Three No Trump contract but the bidding did not always go as shown. One South opened One No Trump, a bid not recommended with a worthless doubleton. She was promptly raised to three which she made with an overtrick. A few others opened One Club with North making a response of One No Trump, a bid I thoroughly agree with. It shows over one Club a balanced hand with no four card Major and exactly 9 to 11 points. With that holding in both Spades and Hearts, North could see that it would be to his advantage to have the lead in No Trump come up to him. These players also made either three or four depending on how many Diamonds

Charges No Black Jewish Groups In United States Are Genuine

Robert Coleman, president of Taharas Yisroel — a multi-racial organization of converts to Judaism — charges that there are no genuine Black Jewish groups in America, in an article in the November issue of the Jewish Observer.

Coleman, who converted to Judaism five years ago, claims that through his exhaustive investigation of all groups of Black Jews that exist in the New York Metropolitan area he found "that invariably the leaders of these groups have perpetrated nothing short of a fraud on unsuspecting Blacks as well as on those of the Jewish community who have given sympathy and financial support to their Black 'brothers.' The truth is that there is not one genuine Black Jewish synagogue or rabbi in existence in this country."

In his article, Coleman points out that many educators and philanthropists are aware of the lack of integrity in these fraudulent claims, but prefer to avoid controversy with an increasingly militant Black community.

Moreover, many of these Black groups preach a form of Black supremacy, claiming that they are the original Jews, and that the Caucasian Jews are actually Edomites who usurped the Jewish religion from the "genuine" Black Jews.

Untold havoc can result from the perpetuation of this fraud, according to Coleman's article. He said: "The children of the Black Jews are admitted to Jewish schools as Jews, inviting either inter-marriage or heart-breaking revelations of their true status in later years. Funds earmarked for Jewish education and worship are fraudulently appropriated to their functions. Their 'synagogues' are often attended by well-meaning Jews who are actually being duped into attending services that are of a different religious group."

Coleman relates of his own social difficulties — both with other Jews who question some of his pro-Black sentiments, and with his fellow Blacks, who label him an "Uncle Tom" for his pro-

Jewish commitments (especially in international affairs).

Coleman's investigations were prompted by the numerous articles and books that have dealt with the Black Jews as a sociological phenomenon, but have failed to examine them for the authenticity of their claims. He plans to publish the results of his investigations in book form in the near future.

THE END OF A SYNAGOGUE

The members of Congregation Sons of Zion at 45 Orms Street, the oldest orthodox congregation in Providence, were warmly welcomed when they brought their Torahs and other holy objects to Congregation Sons of Jacob at 22 Douglas Avenue on Sunday morning.

About 70 or 80 persons formed the procession which walked to the congregation's temporary new home. The old synagogue, in existence since 1892, will be demolished to make way for the Randall Square renewal project.

Jewish Orthodox law requires that the Torah scrolls and scroll crowns, the memorial tablets and other religious objects be carried on foot from the old location to the new.

A brief ceremony was held at Congregation Sons of Zion before the procession started, led by Rabbi Morris Drazin, its spiritual leader for many years, and Frank F. Swartz, president of the congregation.

Jacob Glantz, chairman of the board of Sons of Jacob welcomed the members of the Sons of Zion synagogue, saying that all that was asked of them was their attendance at daily prayers so that there would always be a minyan; Rep. Sam Kagan, D-Dist. 1, a member of the board of Sons of Jacob, also welcomed the newcomers. Mr. Swartz, Rabbi Drazin, and Syd Cohen, corresponding secretary of Sons of Zion, also spoke.

The congregation hopes eventually to build a new synagogue, according to Mr. Swartz, and there has been some talk of a central location on the East Side, perhaps in the Blackstone Boulevard area. However, at this moment, future plans are quite indefinite.

Report Nazi Doctor Living In Paraguay

TEL AVIV — Dr. Joseph Mengele, the notorious Nazi doctor of Auschwitz, is living in Paraguay, and the authorities there have refused all demands that he be tried there or extradited to West Germany, according to West Germany's president, Dr. Gustav Heinemann.

In a written reply to a request by Nazi-hunter Tuvia Friedmann, head of the Haifa Documentary Institute, that he use his influence in the case, Dr. Heinemann indicated that Paraguay's strongman president, Gen. Alfredo Stroessner, has given Dr. Mengele his personal protection. But Dr. Heinemann noted that although Dr. Mengele maintains Paraguayan citizenship and a Paraguayan passport, he is always on the run and stays mainly among the Nazi colonists deep in the Paraguayan bush.

Friedmann said he believes the culprit can be found and that international pressure can force the Paraguayan authorities to release him to a world court. His suggestion that Israel deal with Dr. Mengele the way it dealt with Adolf Eichmann has been rejected by authorities here. They are seeking to avoid an international incident such as the one created when Eichmann was kidnapped in Argentina and brought to Israel for trial. Argentina severed relations with Israel over the kidnapping and other nations regarded the kidnapping as an illegal act.

ENCOURAGE ALIYAH

TEL AVIV — The chairman of the Jewish Agency urged a convention of Moroccan Jews to encourage immigration to Israel of their fellow Jews still in Morocco and of thousands of other North African Jews who have found "temporary settlement" in France and Canada. Louis Pincus told the 200 delegates that efforts must be made to bridge the gap that still exists between the earnings and educational standards of immigrants from Asia and Africa and those from Western countries.

circulation figures from the amount you pay the Post Office each month. Nor can you play games with the United States mail. It may be cheap but it is very difficult to mail a magazine to no one.

It is therefore sad to lose a reader for so trivial an oversight as nonpayment. After all, he has a letterbox which makes him worth his weight in a .038 second-class mailing frank. It is wise to play along with a reader until you are absolutely sure he is a deadbeat.

I conducted a correspondence for six years with a rabbi in Philadelphia before I put him down as a lost cause. He held three pulpits in this time and changed his address each time he moved. I waited until he took the pulpit at Huey Rock, N.C., and then I sent him my justice of the peach threat.

REITERATES SUPPORT
TEL AVIV — U. S. Senator Henry M. Jackson, a member of the Armed Services Committee, has reiterated his support for American arms aid to Israel. The Senator said the Russians were attempting to control the oil supplies to the West and dominate the Middle East. He urged Israel not to return to the Jarring Peace talks until the Egyptians "roll back" their missiles and sites in the standstill zone.
