AJCongress Condemns 'Recourse To Lawlessness'

WASHINGTON — The national biennial convention of the American Jewish Congress called this week on Jews to "condemn and repudiate the indefensible recourse to lawlessness" exemplified by the attacks on three Arabs in New York last week.

In expressing their sorrow over the deaths of 12 Israelis, including eight children, that resulted from an Arab terrorist attack on a school bus near the Lebanese border last week, the 500 delegates at the meeting here adopted a resolution that said:

"Our grief over these incidents must not distort our responses. We cannot allow the horrifying acts of Middle East terrorists to push us into committing or condoning irrational attempts to take violent reprisals against Arab representatives in our country."

The resolution spoke of the possibility that Jewish extremists might have been responsible for the assault in New York. Such groups constitute "a minuscule fraction of the American Jewish community that Statement declared.

In New York, Rabbi Meir Kahane, executive director of the Jewish Defense League, replied last week, when asked if his group "took credit" for the attack on the three Arabs: "If we did, we'd be open to all sorts of problems. We obviously can't."

Rabbi Arthur J. Lelyveld, of Cleveland, who was re-elected president of the congress, compared the attack on the Arab propagandists and diplomats with a beating that he recalled suffering at the hands of "redneck bigots" in Mississippi, while he was serving as a counselor during a voter-registration drive in 1964.

"Mindless violence is no answer, no matter how deep our anguish at those who make innocent children on their way to school the victims of political horror," Rabbi Lelyveld declared.

A group of student delegates to the meeting here walked today in a silent demonstration to the Lebanese Embassy. A school bus, draped in black, circled the Embassy during the demonstration.

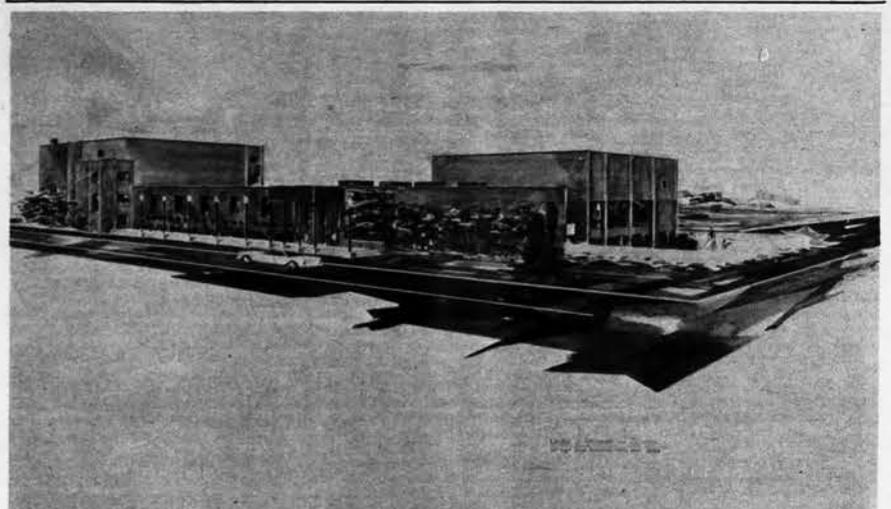

In another action at the meeting, the delegates criticized advocates of racial separatism in the nation's public schools "whether imposed by segregationists or black militants. Separatism, the delegates said, was wrong educationally, psychologically and politically.

Postpone Trial For Students

WASHINGTON — The trial of 19 students who chained themselves to the gates of the Soviet Embassy here last December to protest the plight of Soviet Jewry was postponed in the District of Columbia general sessions court. Charges were brought against the students, all but one Jewish, by the district government at the request of the Soviet Union through the State Department.

Eighteen of the students wore name tags identifying them as representing one of the 18 Jewish families in Soviet Georgia who sent a petition to the United Nations late last year, asking to be allowed to emigrate to Israel.

'Completion Fund' Effort Starts For New Community Center Building

Memorial Day weekend has been chosen as the kick-off date for a "Completion Fund" effort for $500,000 for the completion and furnishing of the new Jewish Community Center of Rhode Island, now under construction at the corner of Elm Grove Avenue and Sessions Street in Providence.

Bertram L. Bernhardt, general chairman of the Center Building Campaign Committee, announced that this brief but intensive effort should put the Center over the top in its $2,300,000 fund drive to build, as he says, "The kind of Center that the Jewish community of Rhode Island deserves." Mr. Bernhardt also stated that the current effort will end on July 4.

Assisting Mr. Bernhardt as top campaign aides will be co-chairmen Sidney Meyer, Merrill L. Hassenfeld and Edwin S. Soforenko.

David Meyers will head the Leadership Gifts Division, Clarke Simonds will be chairman of the Business and Industry Division, Peter H. Bardach will head the Advance Gifts Division and Haskell Wallick will be chairman of the General Solicitations Division.

Others in leading campaign roles will be Max L. Grant, honorary chairman, Joseph W. Ress, chairman of the Board of Trustees, Milton C. Sapinsley, treasurer, and William B. Glass, assistant treasurer.

The new Center building, which includes more than 60,000 square feet of construction, will include many program and service areas that are not found in the present Center facility at 170 Sessions Street and will allow for expanded program possibilities for all age groups.

One of the prime activities areas will be the health and physical education wing. This will house a 30 x 75 foot standard AAU swimming pool with an adjacent outdoor pool terrace and patio for sunning and relaxation.

A full size gymnasium will provide an area for all indoor sports for all age groups, supplemented by a four-wall handball court. The gym, pool and court will have spectator observation facilities.

A complete men's health club and women's health club will also be included in this wing with dressing rooms, locker rooms, lounges, food vending areas, wet and dry saunas, showers and other facilities. There will also be separate locker, dressing and shower facilities for those using the gym and pool.

A modern nursery school, with classroom and play facilities, both indoor and outdoor, will provide for the enrollment of approximately double the capacity of the Center's present nursery school.

Club rooms, lounges, crafts and special activities rooms will house activities for elementary school children and youth. Gamerooms and a snack bar will be included in this section.

Adults, too, will be able to take advantage of special activities rooms including a photo lab, fine arts department, library and reading room with a music listening alcove, and a large social hall which can be used for special activities requiring stage facilities, extended seating or dining.

The Center's senior adults, a steadily growing group, will have many facilities of their own in the new Center building. A senior citizens' lounge and meeting room will be located conveniently on the main level, with a balcony opening to the outside patio area. A pantry, reading facility and comfortable furnishings will make possible greatly expanded programming for this age group.

Soviet Union's Involvement In Israel Threatens World Security, Says Mrs. Meir

JERUSALEM — Premier Golda Meir warned this week that the Soviet Union's involvement in the Middle East threatened not only Israel's security, but also that of all the smaller nations in the world.

"The region has been flung into a new dimension of tension," Mrs. Meir said. She spoke for an hour and a half before the Knesset, Israel's parliament.

"The Soviet Union has added another very grave link to its chain of acts that are dragging the region into an escalation of warfare and killing, and that foredoom to failure any progress toward peace in our region," she said.

She gave an account of the military assistance that the Russians have given to Israel's Arab neighbors, of the ground-to-air missiles that the Russians have been installing in the United Arab Republic, and of the evidence that Russian pilots are flying operational missions over central Egypt.

She also noted with some anxiety that there had been no reply yet to Israel's requests to the United States for additional aircraft and other military equipment.

"In all our contacts we have emphasized the importance of the time factor," Mrs. Meir said.

"Any delay in granting our request is liable to injure our interests and be interpreted by our enemies as encouragement of their aggression, and by the Soviet Union as condonation of its intensified involvement."

Within the last three years, the Soviet Union has supplied Egypt, Syria and Iraq with 2,000 tanks and 800 fighter planes, the Premier said. The military equipment alone cost the Russians about $3.5-billion and there were also thousands of Russians in Egypt training the forces there, she added.

It has become evident that "Soviet advisers were guiding and instructing the Egyptian forces within the units and the bases even during actual battle," Mrs. Meir said.

She added that President Gamal Abdel Nasser had not only encouraged military activity on his own front, but also had encouraged the Arab guerrillas on other fronts to step up their activities on Israel's other borders.

Lebanon is suffering now because she has been unable to keep Arab guerrillas from crossing into Israel from Lebanese soil, Mrs. Meir said.

After a rocket attack on an Israeli school bus last Friday in which 12 people were killed, Israel shelled villages across the border, driving much of the population out of the area.

"Lebanon is jeopardizing her independence as Jordan had done before" Mrs. Meir said.

Great stretches of the Jordan Valley, on the east bank of the river, have been evacuated as a result of raids and shellings from Israel after Arab guerrillas began operating from bases there.

But the weight of Mrs. Meir's speech was directed against the threat from Egypt. Neither the United States nor any other nation can afford to ignore it, she said.

"The lesson of Czechoslovakia must not be forgotten" she said "If the free world — and, particularly the United States, which is its leader — can pass on to the next item on the agenda, without any attempt at deterrence, when the Soviet Union, in its selfish policy, reaches such a degree of involvement in its selfish policy, reaches such a degree of involvement in a dispute with which it has no connection, then not only Israel is endangered by that involvement, but no small or even medium-sized nation can dwell in safety within its frontiers."

Provided she has the equipment, Israel has nothing to fear from the Arab states that are hostile to her, Mrs. Meir said. The Arabs have not breached Israel's lines yet, she said, and they pay heavily for each attempt to do so.

The Premier added: "Three years after the six-day war, we can affirm that two main principles have become firmly based in international consciousness: firstly, Israel's right to stand firm on the cease-fire lines, without budging until the conclusion of a peace under which secure and recognized boundaries will be determined; secondly, Israel's right to self-defense and to acquire the equipment required for defense and deterrence."

ADL Asks For UN Investigation Of Continued Terrorist Attacks

NEW YORK — Continued Arab terrorist attacks in Israel "make mandatory a major United Nations investigation into the extent of support given such actions by Arab member nations," according to the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

In a public plea asking the American government to introduce a resolution in the U.N. calling for an immediate inquiry, the League declared that terrorist activities have reached "critical proportions, compounded by the Security Council's failure to unequivocally condemn them."

Arnold Forster, general counsel of ADL, said that the terrorist attack on a busload of first, second and third grade students which killed 10 and wounded 23 was "a cold-blooded act of murder, in effect precipitated and encouraged by the one-sided attitude of the Security Council."

The Council, he went on to say, "condemned Israel only days ago for preventative military mission in Lebanon against terrorists but always closes its eyes to Arab terrorist aggression that claims the lives of innocent victims."

He pointed out that the school bus, which travels the same route daily, was clearly marked. "The massacre was a deliberate inhuman act," Mr. Forster asserted. "One can only assume that the Arab terrorists relish and desire another major conflict."

INTERVENTION 'OMINOUS'

WASHINGTON — Dr. William A. Wexler, president of the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations, reported on a 45-minute meeting with Secretary of State William P. Rogers by a Conference delegation. He said Mr. Rogers had described the Soviet military intervention in the Middle East as "ominous" and that the U.S. was intensely reviewing the situation. Dr. Wexler said the delegation told Mr. Rogers that the Soviet buildup was "not only an encouragement to Arab intransigence and a fueling of the war of attrition against Israel, but a challenge to America's interests and a repudiation of American efforts to secure a cease-fire and a genuine peace in the Middle East."

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: I'm always in trouble. I have been suspended from school because of my attitude toward teachers. I've also been kicked out of the movie house. I'm back in school, but I get bad grades because I haven't learned anything. They put all the kids who weren't keeping up with their work back in a lower grade — except me. I just keep on getting bad grades. What can I do?

OUR REPLY: You have already taken one important step. You realize that you have problems and you are concerned. Now, you can do something about it. You can make the effort. This means you must concentrate on your school work. Make the attempt to learn. Pay attention in class. Let your teachers know that you are trying. If they think you are trying, they will help you as much as they can. It won't be easy. You may never make up the ground you have lost, but you can make progress. To avoid the things that get you into trouble away from school, just stop doing the things you know that bring trouble to your doorstep. The fact that you are concerned is evidence you want to do better. Go ahead and do it.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss or an observation to make, address your letter to: FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

BECOMES FIRST RECIPIENT OF HOHENEMSER AWARD: Miss Veronica M. Plaziak, a junior at Rhode Island College, last week became the first recipient of the Hohenemser Award, which will be given annually to the outstanding music student of the year. Dr. Raymond R. Smith, chairman of the department, presented the cash award as a feature of the honor student recital, as Mrs. Jacob Hohenemser watched. The award was established in memory of Cantor Hohenemser of Temple Emanu-El and a 1948 graduate of Rhode Island College. Mrs. Hohenemser is the school's scheduling officer.

It's Hard To Be A Jew In Liberia

Twenty-eight of them disembarked from the jet at Lydda, 13 adults and 15 children, most of the children quite young. All of them came originally from Chicago.

They had flown to Israel from Liberia where they had been living for the past two years. All of them were Negroes.

Their leader, Ben Ami, who was formerly Ben Carter (he said they changed their names from the slave days), told the airport police all of them were also Jewish.

The officials at the Ministry of Absorption said they needed a little time to think the situation over. These 28 Negroes had American passports and needed no visas to enter as tourists. But they announced their right to settle in the Jewish State under Israel's Law of Return. It was up to the Minister of the Interior to decide whether these Chicago Negroes were or were not Jews.

Rabbi Hananiah Der-i of Jaffa, who has ministered to many groups seeking to return to the fold, sped out to the airport. Sensibly enough, he saw to it the children got breakfast.

Ben Ami told Rabbi Der-i that he and his followers ate only kosher food, circumcized their male children, spoke passable Hebrew, and wore the traditional prayer shawls. It was good enough for Rabbi Der-i and he went to Jerusalem to argue the case with the Interior.

Ben Ami was leading the pioneers of a group of Negroes numbering almost 400 who, on their own several years ago, converted to Judaism. Though they lived in a Chicago slum, all of them were high school graduates and some had finished college. Mrs. Ben Ami is a highly trained radio and television technician and Elhanaan Ben-Israel is a certified life underwriter.

Three years ago, Ben Ami convinced his followers to leave Chicago and to immigrate to Liberia where Negroes were free people and where they could prepare themselves for the final homecoming to Israel.

In Liberia they lived in a forest in what can only be called austere circumstances. But they considered this hard life a trial, just as the Israelites faced the trial of wandering in the wilderness before coming to the land of milk and honey.

"We left America for Liberia," Ben Ami said, "in the hopes of living without discrimination. But in Liberia it is not easy to be Jewish. We have been in exile from Israel for the past 400 years, held in slavery for much of the time, and now we are home."

The new arrivals waited patiently for the decision of the Ministry of Interior. It came within 24 hours. The ministry issued these 28 Jews visas and provided a bus to transport them to the desert town of Dimona in the Negev, where the authorities even had ten new apartments available. Dimona's Mayor, Israel Navon, met the dusty bus, attended by the school children of Dimona, eager to see Jewish Negroes. The boys and girls from Chicago were a sensation, to put it mildly.

The Dimona Labor Exchange provided a job for each, most of them in the knitting mills.

These new immigrants have three months in which to petition the rabbinate for final recognition as "completely Jewish." They will be right behind the Beni Israel, the Indian community of Dimona, whose petition is being processed now for the rights and privileges of Jews in the homeland.

Death Camp Survivors To Make Pilgrimage

NEW YORK — Several hundred survivors of the Bergen-Belsen death camp will make a pilgrimage this summer to its site on the 25th anniversary of its liberation by the British Army. What was one of Hitler's major concentration camps is today a cemetery for over 100,000 Jews buried in numerous mass graves.

Joseph Rosensaft, president of the World Federation of Bergen-Belsen Associations, said that "for most participants it will be their first return to Bergen-Belsen." Jews traditionally "return to the graves of their loved ones every year as a token of respect and love," he added. Rosensaft noted that because of their abhorrence of the locale, the great majority of survivors have never been to Bergen-Belsen since they were liberated.

A BAGEL A DAY
PARIS — An apple a day may keep the doctor away, but a bagel a day for more than 10 weeks is only keeping French President Georges Pompidou irritated. Packages containing single bagels have arrived by mail at the Elysee Palace every day since the French leader returned from his visit to the United States following his denial of pre-paid jets to Israel and his approval of jet sales to Libya. Adding to the mystery is the postmarking of each package from a different part of Paris and the fact that bagels are not available in the French capital.

War Against Children

The "heroes of the Palestinian liberation," as they refer to themselves, have committed an act of barbaric savagery with their cowardly attack on an Israeli school bus.

This sickening action, apparently carried out by a small, left-wing fringe of the guerilla movement, can only revolt civilized men everywhere and further discredit the entire Palestinian cause and that wider Arab world which, with intemperate rhetoric and material support, has been encouraging the guerrilla extremists. How can Palestinians and their Arab supporters expect to win sympathy for their legitimate rights when they fail to control—or even condemn—the beasts among them who would murder children under the banner of Palestinian liberation?

Atrocities do not justify counter-atrocities; and so Israel's instant retaliation against Lebanese villages is not to be condoned either. Killing Lebanese children will not redeem the murder of Israeli children. Nor will it punish or deter the criminals, who no doubt are pleased with a reaction that only serves to advance their objective of broadening and intensifying Arab-Israeli hatreds.

The attacks against Arab representatives here in New York were a reprehensible manifestation on American soil of this poisonous climate of hate. The interests of Israel and of the United States are ill-served by such thuggery.

The only way to stop the suicidal violence that is increasingly claiming the lives of the innocent on both sides of the shattered cease-fire line is for reasonable men on both sides to push for compromise and accommodation, as Israel's Foreign Minister Abba Eban urged recently in a speech directed to the Palestinian people.

The fundamental quarrel in the Middle East is between the Israelis and the Palestinians, two claimants to the ancient land of Palestine. Although other countries have become deeply involved, it is these two peoples who have been, and will continue to be, the principal victims of the prolonged conflict. They also hold the master key to peace. It is time they used it.

FROM FRIDAY TO FRIDAY

Dr. Alex M. Burgess, Sr.

By BERYL SEGAL

In the mid-twenties, a man, a woman and their child of a year old came from the Ukraine to live in Providence. The woman was busy bringing up the child, and the man was going to Brown University in the morning and teaching in a Jewish school in the afternoon and evening. They lived in two rooms with a private family, and were content. They did not have much of worldly goods, and needed even less. They had friends and nourished high expectations for a brilliant future, as do all students, in all ages.

Then a cloud passed over that family. The woman felt ill and went to see, for the first time in the new country, a physician. That physician was himself a struggling beginner, Dr. Louis I. Kramer, of blessed memory, who after treating her for a while, decided to call in a consultant. Of course the consulting physician was Alex M. Burgess, Sr., the close friend and mentor of Dr. Kramer. The woman was taken to the Rhode Island Hospital and there she was given all the tests physicians had at their command at that time. At the end of a few days she was given a simple medication, told what she could eat and what to stay away from, and she was returned to her family.

That was the first time we had heard of Dr. Alex M. Burgess, and his name became a household word in our family.

We do not know to this day whether Dr. Louis I. Kramer, the good soul, had anything to do with it, but we never did receive a bill, neither from Dr. Burgess for his services, nor from the hospital. All attempts to pay were dismissed with some excuse.

We were to know Dr. Alex M. Burgess under better circumstances. It was my good fortune to work at the Miriam Hospital with Dr. Burgess, and I came to know him as a physician, and especially as a man.

As I listened to the recitation of forty-four years that Dr. Burgess gave to the Hospital, I asked myself:

"What made him do it? What was there in the new, primitive, almost crude Miriam Hospital that attracted a man like Dr. Burgess? Why did he leave the green pastures of the Rhode Island Hospital and come to Miriam?"

Then I looked around the Sopkin Auditorium of the Miriam Hospital and saw the numerous immigrant physicians whom Dr. Burgess had helped to come to this country and establish themselves here. I saw the grateful shaking of hands and embraces that these men and women so shamelessly exhibited toward Dr. Burgess, and I understood.

I understood that the same humanitarian considerations that took Dr. Burgess away from his home and sent him wandering all over war ravaged Europe in search for doctors, also sent him away from the Rhode Island Hospital and told him to go to the struggling hospital, and give it his Good Name, a name that even then stood for integrity and intellectual honesty.

Dr. Alex M. Burgess understood then that the climate in the other hospitals of the State was not favorable to emerging Jewish Physicians. He knew that a Jewish Physician must prove his mettle by long hard apprenticeship. He had to enter a hospital through the back door, the Out-Patient Department. Only after perseverance would he be allowed to bring in his patients through the front door of the hospital.

Dr. Burgess, and men like himself, went to the Miriam Hospital to give it their prestige. That was a commodity no money in the world could buy. That prestige was given when the hospital needed it most. A Good Name. Once that Good Name was established, others could take over. Once the Miriam Hospital developed its own talents the other hospitals in the State opened their doors for the Jewish doctors.

This is the greatness of Dr. Alex M. Burgess.

For this he was honored. For this an overflowing auditorium came to pay tribute to him.

Dr. Burgess saw the Miriam move from Parade Street to a new building on Summit Avenue. He saw it add another wing and he became the Director of Medical Education, and again through his prestige he brought scores of doctors from Europe and Asia to the Miriam Hospital. Now he witnessed the opening of a Medical Research Building and the affiliation of the hospital with the Brown University Bio-Medical School. The hospital is still growing, and in all this Dr. Burgess had a hand since he stood at the birth of the Miriam as a healing institution.

And now at the conclusion of forty-four years the hospital came to honor Dr. Alex M. Burgess. It honored him by bringing together so many medical minds, each one testifying to the humanity of the honored guest. It honored him by assembling a distinguished family of sons and daughters and grandchildren of the honored guest. But the greatest stroke of genius was the presentation of a portrait of Dr. Burgess sitting at his desk, painted by his wife, to decorate, for time to come, the wall of the Miriam Hospital.

Nothing would have given Dr. Burgess and his family greater joy than this gesture.

Nothing would have given the Miriam Hospital greater recognition than its afternoon with the Burgess family.

Credit Card Crackdown

Is the "instant electronic bank loan" available through millions of bank credit cards in the U.S. today dangerously reducing your instinctive resistance to taking on excessive debt? Is it fueling even more inflation at a time of climbing unemployment, mounting bankruptcies, a very sick stock market?

Is the average American who blithely uses his bank credit card to pile charge on top of charge aware that this privilege is costing him a fat 18 per cent in interest a year?

How much of his extra costs does the merchant who accepts your credit card in payment of goods and services pass on to you and me in the form of higher prices?

These are crucially important questions — to each of which I would give an adverse answer. But the disgraceful point is that I would be guessing — for serious studies of the impact of the credit card avalanche on our economy are still to be made.

Oh, you can hear gruesome stories on every side illustrating the casual manner in which credit cards have been mailed out to and used or misused by millions of Americans today.

For instance, there was the Parade magazine reporter who rang up credit card charges at six different automobile service stations and signed the charges with names ranging from Omar the Tentmaker to Jean Harlow. His patronage was welcomed at each stop.

And there was the citizen of Troy, Michigan, who recently mailed a credit card application for his pet Dalmation, listing her occupation as "watch dog," but omitting her Social Security number and income. The dog received a credit card and also was designated a "preferred customer."

And there was the upstate New York 96-year-old lady who discovered earlier this year that somebody had stolen an unsolicited credit card mailed to her by a local bank and run up charges of more than $1,600 — before she even received the card.

You probably can add a horror tale of your own, for you, an adult, almost surely are among the millions who in recent years have been bombarded with credit cards and charge cards you did not request, do not want and will not use.

About 50 million bank credit cards alone are now in circulation, a majority distributed within the past two years. That's on top of the tens of millions of other types also in

BRIDGE

By Robert E. Starr

Today's hand could be used to illustrate perfectly several chapters on Bridge, two especially. First, the usage and value of preempts in the bidding, second, in the play of the hand, the avoidance play. I think the hand is very interesting for no matter what the opponents do after the contract has been decided, a good Declarer can counteract every move.

Joseph Giard, of Pascoag, was South playing with Elliot Slack. East and West were Vulnerable, South Dealer. The bidding:

South had what we call favorable vulnerability meaning that his side was not vulnerable where as the opponents were. Under those conditions certain liberties may sometimes be taken. One is that you can slightly stretch preempts. Normally a preemptive bid shows exactly a certain number of winners depending on the vulnerability. They should bid as high as they can telling their partner they are down three if they are not vulnerable and down two if vulnerable assuming they get nothing from their partner. They never should bid again, guarantee no defense and the partner takes over from there.

In the hand above, South has six Spade tricks if that suit is Trump with the Diamond King extra. He also says that he cannot be depended on to take any tricks if any other suit is Trump. His high level bid put so much pressure on West, as it was intended, that West was unable to chance any bid at all. As you can see, East and West can actually make five Hearts yet never opened their mouths. The vulnerability had helped stop them.

Now the play of the hand in four Spades. Every West led the Heart King and continued with the Ace. Right now comes the crux of the whole hand. All but one Declarer ruffed (as almost everyone would), drew Trumps and eventually had to lead unsuccessfully up to the Diamond King. They lost one Heart, one Club and two Diamonds.

When they asked me if the hand could be made I said yes if they played it as I later found that Mr. Giard had. The idea is to try to set up the Club suit while keeping East out of the lead if possible so that he cannot lead through that Diamond King. That card can always be led to later but only if necessary and no other scheme works. Instead of ruffing the second Heart simply discard one of those two Clubs. Now watch what happens:

What West leads now doesn't matter. Win the trick and play the Ace of Clubs and ruff a Club as both opponents follow. Now play a Spade to one of Dummy's high ones. This happens to draw all the outstanding Trumps but even if it didn't, one other pull would. Now another Club, ruffed again by South. If they break evenly and they do the rest are good for Diamond discards and the other two Spades in Dummy are high enough for entries to get there. If they happen not to break then enter Dummy and lead finally to the Diamond King. The Ace will still be wherever it was and if on the right side of the King you will still be all set. The important deed had been accomplished, keeping East out while establishing the Clubs.

Moral: When an honor, such as the King, is vulnerable, do everything possible to keep it from being led through. This is called an Avoidance Play.

NAMED TO FRATERNITY: Robert Morse, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Morse of 249 Gallatin Street, has been selected as a brother in the Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity at Syracuse University.

Mr. Morse, a 1968 graduate of Classical High School, is a sophomore at the College of Liberal Arts, majoring in Creative Writing. At the university he is an associate editor of the Promethean, the campus news magazine; writer for Around the Town magazine; chairman of the Minority Group enrollment committee, and an intern in the university News Bureau. He is a former elections commissioner for one year, news reporter for WAER-FM, the campus radio station, and chairman of the freshman class project "Aspiration 72."

FOREIGN ARMIES

JERUSALEM — "A prior condition for peace in the Middle East is the evacuation of all foreign armies from this area," according to Minister of Immigrant Absorption Shimon Peres. Mr. Peres demanded that "the Russians get out of Egypt, the Iraqis out of Jordan and the Syrians out of Lebanon." He said when that happens, "each side can appoint representatives who can then sit down at some agreed place and start talking peace."

CONTINUE FAST

WASHINGTON — Teenage Russia and the refusal of the students still quietly outside the Soviet Embassy, continuing the "fast for freedom" to protest discrimination against Jews in the demonstration.

Hello Again!
 News of the Sports World by Warren Walden

TOO BAD, INGEMAR - Professional Boxing has been banned in Sweden and what ever became of Ingemar Johanssen, the heavyweight who threw the invisible punch? And what has become of "Gaseous Cassius" who was probably one of the greatest competitors ever? It's only the pro brand of the game that is under the Swedish ban and so it is probably all right if you get your block knocked off if you're an amateur, eh.

WOONSOCKET O.K. - There's no ban on the ring game in Woonsocket where Charlie Lagor has scheduled an attractive boxing show for Wednesday, June 3rd which is this week. It will be held at Mt. St. Charles Arena and receipts will go to the Woonsocket Jr. Police. It's a much better way than sending the little fellows out with collection cans. Listed for appearance are names that have been emblazoned in lights as headliners in the past. The list is dazzling.

F'RINSTANCE - Police Juvenile Officer Al Costa and Sgr. Joe Solono are working with Lagor arranging the show. When Al Costa boxed as a welter-weight, he was rated among the top ten in the whole world. Among the referees will be Al's brother Tony, who was rated one, two, three in the list of world featherweights. Nuff? Not at all. Joey Angelo, Jackie Weber and the great Ralph Zannelli are listed for appearances, too. And there are more.

STAR PROGRAM - Among the boxers who will see action are Dennis McNamee, the N.E.A.A.U. Light-heavyweight Champion and also the popular Tommy Dragon. And no boxing program is complete these days without Joe Celletti. This one will be complete because Joe will present his latest discovery, Carl "C.J." Nordstrom, a South Providence heavyweight. Mr. Celletti says that "C.J." is another Rocky Marciano. He even has a little on Rocky, according to Joe, because "C.J." can box as well as hit hard. Nordstrom will meet Mark Grundy, an all-around heavyweight athlete who plays football, is a skier and who has a college scholarship. Mr. Celletti also says that another of his heavyweights will be on the Woonsocket card and he refers to Barry O'Neil, a gentleman of the ring who can hit like dynamite. So there it is, the Woonsocket Jr. Police Boxing Show, And, as tiz said, "All roads lead to Mt. St. Charles Arena on June 3rd which is next Wednesday night."

DARING PREDICTION - Vic Vecchiarino predicts that "Kasko will be out and the new Red Sox manager will be Billy Martin before the all star game break." How does he arrive at such a prediction? I asked him and his answer, "I like Billy Martin. Vic manages the Outlet Tire Shop and maybe someone drove in with that hint. Ken Berman, also of the tire place, was the Little All-American goalie in LaCrosse while playing at N.E. College in New Hampshire. His coach was Dr. Laurie Cox, the very first to be listed in the LaCrosse Hall of Fame. Ken is always ready to demonstrate the proper manner in which to defend a La Cross goal. He's at Garden City."

Right-Wing Preacher Hails Israel During Victory Rally

WASHINGTON - Israel was hailed at a mass demonstration deamding victory in Vietnam. The organizer of the demonstration, Rev. Carl McIntire, a fundamentalist preacher, told the crowd at the Washington Monument, "We stand for Israel. In fact we wish we had a one-eyed general in the Pentagon," an obvious reference to Israel's Defense Minister. Included in the crowd variously estimated at between 15,000 and 50,000 were about a dozen swastika-wearing members of the National Socialist White Peoples Party, formerly known as the American Nazi Party. They carried placards denouncing President Nixon as a "No Win Swine" and proclaiming,

"Marxism is Jewish."
 Mr. McIntire is widely known for his anti-Communist radto commentary and his association with the radical right. His rally drew contingents from such extremist groups as the Minutemen, National States Rights Party and National Youth Alliance. In the main, the marchers appeared to be followers of Alabama's former governor, George C. Wallace, who was an unsuccessful candidate for the presidency in 1968. Many Confederate flags were seen in the crowd and demands for victory in Vietnam were coupled with denunciations of liberals, socialists, sex education in schools and anti-segregationists.

Time To Spare

Fun with the Stars
 Whenever I'm with Ed Morris, the word "out" usually means precisely that.
 Sometimes we don't travel beyond his backyard. Often we make for the hill on the outskirts of town. Once in a while we end up in the mountains or at the seashore.
 But always, it's night. Each of us spreads a blanket, lies on his back, and gazes up at the sky. For conversation, we talk about the stars.
 You see, Ed is a devotee of one of the oldest sciences known to mankind. He's a naked-eye astronomer. I get a kick out of joining him from time to time.
 A typical bit of dialogue might go like this:
 G.A.: "Let's see now, there's the Big Dipper. Even I can spot that, with its stars in a line pointing toward the North Star. Where do we go from that point?"
 E.M.: "Well, across the way you can pick up four stars joined together to form two right angles. Cassiopeia. Further out, Andromeda. The arc of three bright stars."
 G.A.: "Seems that Andromeda has waltzed back over the horizon since my previous observation. Wasn't even visible the last time."

 E.M.: "That's why you should come more often. It's great to see the star formations on a single night. But the real fun is watching the whole shebang swing around the celestial sphere month by month. When a year has gone by, they're right back where they started."
 G.A.: "You must think of them as old friends by now."
 E.M. (enthusiastically): "Of course. It's like a rendezvous when a star I'm looking for puts in an appearance right on schedule."
 G.A.: "Reliable, aren't they? I suppose you have your favorites."
 E.M.: "Sure. There's an example, the bright star you can locate by extending the curve in the handle of the Big Dipper. That's Arcturus. Now we can zero in on Vega, Regulus, Sirius..."
 And so on and on until the pattern overhead seems as familiar as a map of the borough.
 This is one hobby that requires a minimum of expenditure. After all, Mother Nature provides the "paraphernalia." Master a few star charts and you're ready to go.

ALSO AT MELROSE - George Slavin of East Providence writes about Joe Hauser who rattled homers against the fences at old Weston Field while playing for the Grays in the Eastern League. Hauser moved the American Association where he hit more homers than either Ruth or Maris in one season. From there he went to Connie Mack's Athletics but was bothered with a "trick knee" which prevented him from reaching major league immortality. Slavin says that Chester Collins, who was well known in Mickey Devine's day, is an Ea. Prov. neighbor. And may I add that there will never be another Mickey Devine who will never be forgotten by those who knew him.

OFF TO A GOOD START - The "Brewers 57" speedy softball team is getting away to a good start. Its Narragansett sponsors outlined big plans at a well-presented buffet get-together the other night. Barry Sullivan, G.M. for the team is just a little heavier than when he played hockey for the R.L. Reds but appears to have even more enthusiasm for the softball team.
A COUPLE OF QUESTIONS - Someone asked, "What is a flap-skate?" Someone also asked, "What is a Pen-Wiper?" Someone will ask, "What was a trolley car?" - CARRY ON!

EXPUL PUBLISHER
 LONDON - David Kessler, publisher of the London Jewish Chronicle, a London weekly, was expelled from Egypt on one hours notice. It was not known on what grounds he was ordered out.

Oceanography Still In Its Infancy

Q: I would like some information concerning oceanography stocks. My investment club is interested in this as an area for possible commitments. — C.S.

A: Oceanography — a hot "concept" in the late 1960s — has cooled considerably, primarily because it has become increasingly apparent that the course to profitability is neither calm nor swift.

The oldest of the ocean industries — fishing — is estimated to bring in $8 billion annually. Offshore oil, the second largest of the ocean's harvests, rang up $4.5 billion in revenues last year to account for 17% of the world's crude production. The mining industry, still in its infancy, is represented at this juncture mainly by sand and gravel dredging worth about $150 million annually.

However, mining for more esoteric mineral resources is expected to reach $19 billion by 1980.

The legal aspects of sea floor rights is a subject that is receiving increasing attention. Involved in the battle of how far a nation's ownership extends are the United Nations, the U.S. Departments of the Interior and Defense, the National Petroleum Council and Scores of other private interest groups.

All things considered, I would select offshore oil drillers as the most promising oceanography investment both in terms of immediate profitability and future potential. Ten publicly held companies account for about three-fifths of the total market.

Of these I like Offshore Company and SEDCO, Inc. About 70% of their revenues come from offshore drilling contracts and each has a record of annual earnings growth. SEDCO is a leader in semisubmersible rigs which combine the advantages of mobility and stability with drilling capabilities in water depths exceeding 200 feet — allowing a high utilization rate. In addition, the system's capability has been importantly expanded with the acquisition of Houston Contracting, a leading pipelaying firm.

Offshore, controlled by Southern Natural Gas, pioneered in the development of jack-up drilling rigs which are highly stable and used almost exclusively in the Gulf of Mexico. The choice between these two companies will provide some interesting discussion for your club.

Eban Says Arabs Rebuff Peace Offers

JERUSALEM — Foreign Minister Abba Eban said last week that "nine or ten times" Israel has made serious overtures for peace with the Arabs only to be rebuffed. He said one of the attempts involved certain Christian and Moslem leaders in East Jerusalem who were asked to make peace contacts, but these efforts too had failed. Eban was one of several cabinet ministers and military leaders addressing the nation on the eve of Independence Day.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said in a radio interview that Israel would not tolerate the installation of Soviet anti-aircraft missiles in the Suez Canal zone.

To Join In Variety Of Sporting Events

NEW YORK — Competitive sports will be the big feature at Israel's first International Youth Welfare Board.

About 100 American boys and girls between 15 and 17 would join some 400 other Jewish youths from South America, South Africa and Israel in a variety of sporting events and tours of Israel this summer.

Sports activities at the Festival will include track and field, tennis, volleyball, ping pong, swimming, basketball, soccer and wrestling. There will also be a chess competition.

TO MAINTAIN VIGILANCE TEL AVIV — Israeli defense forces will maintain constant vigilance over Israeli fishing boats operating in dangerous waters, it was disclosed. In the aftermath of the sinking of the Israeli trawler Orith by an Egyptian missile boat off the northern Sinal coast last week, all fishing boats have been given new instructions concerning communications and identification. The instructions are to be followed whenever the boats enter potential danger zones such as the waters of northern Sinal.

Beverly Enterprises In Strong Growth Area

Q: What is causing the weakness in Beverly Enterprises? I would appreciate knowing whether to hold or take my loss. — C.D.

A: These shares have recently been among the most actively traded on the American Exchange, dropping about 20 points. In addition to general market weakness, BEV has been subject to pressure from fears that the government's proposed changes in Medicare and Medicaid will hurt nursing-home operators.

There has been no fundamental weakness in company operations. Beverly has maintained an aggressive expansion policy, and in fact announced in January that it was planning five acquisitions involving 15 additional extended-care facilities. The company also operates a chain of retail pharmacies in California.

For the nine months ended September, 1969, revenues advanced 68% year-to-year, while income jumped 127% on wider margins. Share earnings, on a greater number of shares outstanding, were 55 cents versus 27 cents the previous year. Management has estimated that earnings for 1969 would be 75 cents a share, with $1.10-$1.20 looked for this year.

Harmful effects of any probable government action have been fully discounted at recent share levels. Long-range prospects in the health-care field justify retention of these shares.

Q: Since the recent ruling to increase the minimum denomination of Treasury bills to $10,000 has frozen out the small investor, what about Treasury notes? How are these purchased? What maturities and interest rates are available? — L.B. & B.S.

A: No cash offering of Treasury notes has been made since August, 1968. Recent financing has been through exchange offerings to holders of expiring notes. Maturities on notes, which are available in $1,000 denominations, are restricted to not less than one year nor more than seven.

Actively traded on the open market, notes are available in maturities of one month to 7 years. Yields to maturity range at present from 6.1% to 7.3%. A commercial bank, stockbroker or bond dealer will handle transactions for a fee. You would be wise to shop around since fees vary.

Q: Over the past two years I purchased 200 shares of Avco Corp. Do you think this is worth holding for the long-term? — A.B.

A: Because of Avco's image as a conglomerate, shares have been unduly beaten down. With the acquisition of 95% of Seaboard Financial Co. in 1969, a large portion of Avco's earnings are now derived from the financial services sector, which includes Paul Revere Corp., an insurance holding company. Avco also owns 91% of Carte Blanche, the worldwide travel and entertainment credit card company.

Consolidated earnings of $51 million or $3.12 per share were reported for the fiscal year ended November, 1969. This is in comparison to $57 million or $3.76 a share for 1968. This decline primarily reflects a reduced volume of government business which in fiscal 1968 accounted for about 23% of earnings.

Developments such as Avco's entering assembly-line production of low-cost houses, its stepping into the recreational land-development field with Avland Development and its forming of Avco Savings and Loan Assn. should boost earnings over the long pull.

Fiscal 1970 earnings may show little improvement over 1969 due to a softness in government billings and pressure from the present monetary situation. However, your shares should be held as a speculation on long-range prospects.

Q: Can you tell me why Northern Pacific Railway 4 1/2s of 2047 are trading at 110? — W.M.

A: The high price of this bond issue is related to a merger which has been in the works since 1955. The merger track was finally cleared of all obstacles by a Feb. 2, 1970, Supreme Court decision which allowed Great Northern, Northern Pacific and their affiliated lines to join forces as Burlington Northern. Because mortgage terms of the two major participants conflict, NP agreed to call at 110 its 4 1/2s of 2047 1st Refunding and Improvement Mortgage bonds. As soon as it became apparent that the merger would be consummated these bonds began a 17-point rise. The bonds have now been called.

New Community Center Building

Plans call for the razing of the present JCC building at the completion of new construction so that the recreation field, which will now be behind the Center, will be restored to approximately its former size.

Special Task Group Committees in every area of the Center's program and administrative functions are meeting now, under the general chairmanship of Philip Segal, Jr., to complete all plans and arrangements for the building's opening.

Program Task Group have already completed their deliberations so that the opening activities of the new Center building are clearly blueprinted and preliminary schedules and room reservations are already tentatively outlined.

Administrative Task Groups are now engaged in such areas as personnel, membership, office management, house regulations and budget so that the new operation will function as smoothly as possible from its opening date.

Mr. Bernhardt has announced that the coming "Completion Fund" effort will make available a limited number of opportunities for individuals and families to establish Memorials and Honorials in the new Center. A listing of specific remaining Center facilities which may be dedicated in the name of an individual or family is available at the Campaign Office in the Center building.

Mr. Bernhardt stated that since the Center's completion is of interest to the entire community, the Campaign Committee will furnish a running report on the progress of the current effort so that the community will be able to see how the Center is progressing.

Doctors 'See Sound' In Diagnosing Patients With Cardiac Conditions

Doctors at The Miriam Hospital in Providence are "seeing sound" in their diagnosis of patients with cardiac conditions.

Actually, the doctors are able to study photographs of ultrasonic patterns during the examination of the patients. The equipment in use at The Miriam was first given intensive clinical use in Rhode Island by Dr. Max Bloom, Director of the Cardio-Pulmonary Laboratory and a physician in the Department of Medicine at the hospital.

It is possible, with the diagnostic ultrasonoscope in use at The Miriam, to send high frequency sound waves through the body, measuring the echoes to obtain valuable information about the structure and the function of heart valves and muscle, the flow of blood from the heart and about the condition of the linings of the heart.

"In other words," Dr. Bloom noted, "we are able to tell if any of the heart valves are damaged, how they are working and how much blood is being ejected from the heart."

The ultrasound equipment, which is portable and can be moved to the bedside or a cardiac patient in an emergency, includes a transducer, which is applied to the chest of the patient and serves as both a sender of the ultrasonic sounds and as a receiver. Very high frequency pulses are sent into the body many times each second, and they send back echoes which are read on a calibrated oscilloscope and photographed by a technician at the direction of the attending physician.

Three technicians at The Miriam including Francis W. Kelley, the hospital's Chief Cardio-Pulmonary Technician, have been trained by Dr. Bloom in the operation of the ultrasound instrument.

Commenting on the use and the value of the instrument, Dr.

Robert P. Davis, Physician-in-Chief at The Miriam, said that actually only a small percentage of patients who are examined with the ultrasound machine require open-heart surgery. Dr. Davis noted that Dr. Bloom has used the instrument on an average of 10 times per week in his study of cardiac patients and that there is a growing demand for these tests.

General Jewish Committee To Hold Quarter Century Ball

The 25th Anniversary year-long observance by the General Jewish Committee of Rhode Island will be inaugurated next Tuesday evening, June 2, with a Quarter-Century Ball at the Biltmore Hotel Ballroom.

A feature of the evening will be the presentation of a calvalcade of events of the past quarter century. It will be a panorama of the history of the General Jewish Committee since its inception in 1945 and will highlight the services of those men and women who played an important role in the past 25 years of GJC existence.

The story of this milestone in the Rhode Island Jewish community will be told in a unique and multi-media style with a cast of hundreds of Rhode Island personalities.

Written and narrated by Mrs. Henry W. Markoff, the presentation will be under the direction and supervision of Lester Keats, WJAR-TV director. He will be assisted by James Sherman, a radio and television technician, with the cooperation of WJAR radio.

The gala event will take place in the same ballroom where the GJC was organized on May 28, 1945.

Marvin S. Holland, vice president of the GJC, is chairman of the Quarter-Century Ball, and Mrs. Stanley Grossman is co-chairman.

Another highlight of the affair will be the installation of a new slate of officers for the 1970-71 year headed by Max Alperin, who has been nominated for a second full term as president.

Gov. Frank Licht, first secretary of the GJC and past president, will be a guest of honor and will deliver a few brief remarks. Joseph W. Ress and Merrill L. Hassenfeld, past presidents, also will speak briefly.

A special commemorative book will be distributed at the affair. The book was prepared with the assistance of Harold Tregar and contains a detailed history of the GJC written by Beryl Segal.

A resolution will be presented at the meeting to change the by-laws to change the name of the General Jewish Committee of Rhode Island to the Jewish Federation of Rhode Island.

Neo-Nazi Group Meets In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES — An indoctrination meeting for new members of Tacuara, the officially banned neo-Nazi organization in Buenos Aires, was held in the Argentine capital over the weekend, it was learned this week.

Tacuara, which claims 5,000 members in the country of 23,000,000 population, says its activities essentially involve secret meetings and anti-Jewish slogan-painting on building walls. But Jewish groups and others have linked it to murders, bank robberies and arson.

The Delegation de

Asociaciones Israelitas Argentinas (DAIA), Argentina's largest Jewish organization, has called Tacuara "a small group of mentally sick youngsters," unrepresentative of the general Argentine population. Informed sources contend, however, that some of the members are sons of top military officials.

Jewish Defense League Accused Of Attacks

NEW YORK — The Jewish Defense League, since its founding in 1968, has pursued its vision of militant preparedness with karate classes and neighborhood patrols, despite the criticism of most major Jewish organizations.

The group, which sees itself as a spearhead of active resistance to anti-Semitic attack, now stands accused by three Arabs of having directed the assault against them in their offices near the United Nations last week.

A flyer left in the offices explaining that the attack was in retribution for the killing of Israeli schoolchildren by a Palestinian guerrillas ended with the phrase "Never Again." The words, referring to murders of six million Jews in World War II, serve as the motto for the Jewish Defense League.

Asked whether the league took credit for the attack, the organization's founder, Rabbi Meir Kahane, replied: "If we did, we'd be open to all sorts of problems. We obviously can't." An investigation of the assaults is being conducted by the New York police.

Rabbi Kahane, a 39-year-old Orthodox rabbi with a degree in international law, to hasten the growth of the league, has left his job as a columnist for the Jewish Press, a weekly English-language newspaper, to devote most of his time to organizing chapters.

In his speaking engagements throughout the country, Rabbi Kahane starts in a quiet voice, explaining his view of the position of American Jews. Anti-Semitism, he says, is "exploding" and the traditional Jewish organizations, he maintains, have failed to protect American Jews, particularly those middleclass and lower-class Jews who, he believes, are vulnerable to attack from black militants and radicals of the left.

His voice rises to a homiletic crescendo. By the time he ends his address his voice is booming, "Never again."

The league claims a membership of about 7,000 with chapters in Boston, Philadelphia, Montreal and Los Angeles. There are adult and youth divisions. Rifle practice and karate instruction are held regularly.

Last year, the group opened Camp Jedel in Woodbourne, N.Y., a Catskill Mountain resort. About 50 youths have been trained there in the martial arts. In many cities the group has organized patrols to escort Jews who feel that they are being harassed. Other members ride through some poor neighborhoods to keep an eye on businesses owned by Jews.

A New York rabbi who said he had no sympathy for the group, noted that the league's organizational work had enabled it to unite people quicker than any other group. "They can get 50 people out in the garment center almost instantly, or 70 college students," he said. "They work very efficiently on the phone and they have people responsible for mustering units of several dozen men."

In addition to its activities in the Jewish neighborhoods, the league has organized some large demonstrations. One of them, at the Metropolitan Museum of Art was to protest what the group called an anti-Semitic introduction in the catalogue of the "Harlem on My Mind" exhibition. In another protest, 40 members bearing sticks and chains lined the front of Temple Emanu-El on Fifth Avenue, to block James Forman, a black activist, from demanding reparations from the congregation, following rumors that he would make such an attempt.

During last fall's mayoral campaign, the group sponsored advertisements opposing the reelection of Mayor Lindsay, saying that he was indifferent to anti-Jewish hate.

Partly as a result of such tactics the group has come under repeated attack from major Jewish organizations. Rabbi Maurice N. Eisenrath, president of the Union of Hebrew Congregations, has called the league's patrols goon squads. And the Anti-Defamation League referred to the league as "a group of self-appointed vigilantes whose protection of the Jewish community does not need or want."

Jewish Groups Try To Block USSR Bid

LOS ANGELES — Tow local Jewish groups are trying to block Soviet Russia's bid to be the site of the international Olympic Games in 1976.

The Southern California Council for Soviet Jews and the California Students for Soviet Jews said this week that the International Olympic Committee should not give serious consideration to Moscow's application as long as Russian Jews are repressed and denied freedom to leave.

Si Frumkin, a spokesman for the groups, said "We feel...that it is an affront to the spirit of the Olympics to seriously consider an application from a government which consistently violates the UN Declaration of Human Rights... (which) states that all people will be permitted to leave any country for any destination, and this is exactly what the Soviet Jews are not permitted to do." He said a nation-wide campaign of letters and telegrams to the International Olympic Committee has been started by Soviet Jewry councils all over the country.

Somalia Considers It Is At War With Israel

JERUSALEM — The Foreign Minister of Somalia, Omar Arteh, has stated that his country is in the forefront of the Arabs' anti-Israel battle and considers itself at war with Israel, according to the Cairo newspaper Al Akhbar.

The report said Arteh was interviewed in Geneva where hearings on Israeli treatment of Arab prisoners were being conducted by a United Nations commission comprising Somalia, Ceylon and Yugoslavia.

The Somali Democratic Republic almost totally Moslem, is located in Eastern Africa, run by an army-and-police junta that seized power last October after the assassination of President Abdirashid Ali Shermarke and the arrest of Premier Mohammed Ibrahim Egal.

REPORT COPENHAGEN, Denmark — 4,000 Egyptian Jews have received exit permits, according to a report filed by Kopat Hansen, correspondent for the "Berlinska," who just returned from a visit to the U.A.R.

The laser beam could well be the garbage disposer of the future. It won't grind, mulch or burn; it will simply disintegrate any substance placed in its path.

 use; the old fashioned travel-and-entertainment cards, oil company, air travel, department store charge, hotel chain and car rental, telephone credit cards, etc., etc.
 You even may be among the increasing numbers whose unsolicited credit cards are stolen and used before they get to your home (dishonest postal employees are reported to be supplying the underworld with credit cards stolen from the mails). And you well may be deeply disturbed about what such misuse of a card in your name might do to your credit rating in this era of the computer.

 But while the age of the credit card is clearly here, the crackdown is clearly coming too. In mid-April New York State passed a law banning the mailing of unsolicited credit cards.
 The U.S. Senate has also just passed a bill which would regulate the mass mailings, force bankers to screen prospective credit card holders more carefully, limit card holders' liability in cases where cards are stolen. Legislation of this nature is given a good chance in 1970. Meanwhile, many states have

Mr. Falcofsky was graduated from Hope High School and Hebrew Teachers' College in Boston. A Nov. 22 wedding is planned.

Billie Burke, who died recently, was "technical adviser" on the film biography of her late husband, Flo Ziegfeld. She complained that in Hollywood nobody listens to advice from technical advisers. In the banquet scene the problem was how to show the guests coming to the table — ladies first, or the host, or couple by couple.
 "They solved it rather well," said Miss Burke, "by phoning Mary Pickford's butler."

For the first time in his career, Jan Peerce, the opera star, will officiate at High Holy Day services in a Chicago synagogue in September...Martina Arroyo, of the Met Opera, will receive Austria's top decoration, the Golden Cross...King Hussein posed the other day in a U.S.-built Starfighter jet. When Sam Spiegel was filming "Lawrence of Arabia" in Jordan, Hussein asked him to obtain for his Majesty a U.S. spy plane, the U-2.

Through the years I've made mistakes, but none as inexcusable as Women's Wear Daily's report from Cannes the other day: "Leonard Lyons flew in and his wife regaled other journalists on the way in from the airport with her very strong Agnewesque ideas about the student "bums."

My wife is vehemently for the U.S. students, and furthermore, we were not at the Cannes Festival.

passed laws relieving would-be recipients of unsolicited cards of liability for charges made before the cards have been accepted.

So perhaps before a wide-open scandal breaks, you'll be protected from the most obvious dangers and crimes.

But I find it hard indeed to excuse our nation's banks for indiscriminately coaxing you with easy-easiest credit at a fat 18 per cent a year — when they're supposed to be leading the fight to curb the inflationary use of money. I wonder if they even dare try to explain.

Automatic Carts Deliver Supplies Within Hospital

CINCINNATI — Electronically-controlled carts deliver supplies along routes laid out by magnetic tape buried in hospital corridors at the Jewish Hospital in the nation's first completely automated hospital distribution system.

Hospital officials reported on the unique installation in an announcement of completion of a pavilion which brings the hospital's total of beds to 630. Major features of the new pavilion are a 12-room surgery suite, a 31-bed special care section and greatly-expanded emergency and out-patient facilities. The two floors below street level which house these and other facilities, including computer and cardio-vascular pulmonary departments, are each one acre in size.

 The automated carts move through service corridors closed to the public. They move from the Central Service Office to predetermined points in the new building, deliver supplies and return to their starting point, hospital officials said. Sterilizing machines in the central service office also are completely automated. A special safety feature in each of the four patient floors provides that each half of each floor is shut off automatically from the other half in case of smoke, fire or even a false alarm. At each bedside there is an individual console with controls for lights, room temperature, television, intercom with the nursing station and similar needs.

Sorenson Says Soviet Union Should Allow Jews To Leave

MOSCOW — Former Kennedy aide Theodore C. Sorenson, the choice of the New York Democrats for the Senate nomination told the group that invited him to Moscow, that the Soviet government should let its Jews emigrate to Israel if they wanted to do so, agree to a freeze on testing and deployment of weapons, press Arabs and Israelis to negotiate, and allow more free speech in Soviet society.

From the questions that followed his formal presentation, Mr. Sorenson said he could tell that the audience had reacted negatively, particularly on the "Jewish question."

Mr. Sorenson hoped to have American newsmen cover his speech to the institute, but its director Georgi A. Arbatov, turned his request down. He did the next best thing, however, by tape-recording his speech.

In his talk to the 150 specialists at the institute, Mr. Sorenson said that both the Soviet Union and the United States should let people come and go freely.

"In this same vein, the Soviet Union should not keep in adherents of the Jewish faith who have been invited to settle in the state of Israel," he said.

TO PROPOSE SANCTIONS
JERUSALEM — Israel will propose sanctions amounting to a virtual ban on all air traffic to countries involved with aerial hijackers or saboteurs, when the International Civil Aviation Organization meets in extraordinary session in Montreal June 16-30, it was disclosed here. The Israeli proposal will include the suspension of all air traffic to and from such countries and the denial of all air services to its national airlines and other aircraft. It has already been circulated in advance to the members of the ICAO along with the draft of a suggested resolution "condemning the criminal acts recently perpetrated against international civil aviation."
