Adrian Goldstein Retires; Honored For 35 Year Service

After 35 years as a salesman for the Narragansett Brewing Company, Adrian Goldstein has retired because of ill health. He is hoping that he might be called back occasionally by the company for consultation since, obviously, the idea of complete retirement does not appeal to him.

The Rhode Island Liquor Stores Association, as well as the Coast Guard (he is finance officer of Flotilla 700 of the reserves) honored him on June 21 at the association's annual dinner-dance on June 21.

According to the program book for the dinner-dance: "This year's dinner dance program book is dedicated with a great deal of pleasure to our very good friend Adrian Goldstein. By honoring Adrian, we have deviated from a policy since the inception of this association. . . ."

"This in itself indicates our admiration, our gratitude and the great respect we have for the gentleman we are honoring. He has served the retailers of this state since Repeal, far beyond the call of duty.

"Our intimate and cordial relationship with the Narragansett Brewing Company that he so well represented is due almost entirely to his tremendous desire to help this group and its members to successfully operate a more profitable business. His generosity, encouragement and assistance to this group and the liquor retailers in the state will never be forgotten. His genuine concern and thoughtfulness for the welfare of the retailers and their families won him the great admiration he so richly deserves . . ."

Born in New York, he came to Rhode Island in his teens. He started work as a part-time salesman for the Narragansett Brewing Company, and he recalls that each time, at the beginning, that he walked in and asked to be put on full time, he was told, "Take another raise," and was still kept on part-time.

He and his wife, Sadye, who live on Twelfth Street, have two children. The daughter, Jessie (Mrs. Maurice) Ingber, lives in New York and has three children. His son, Peter, is on the West Coast.

Mr. Goldstein has spent many years working for the Coast Guard Reserves and in 1945 received a citation for "meritorious performance of duty at Port Security in the Providence/Narragansett Bay area."

A golfer, he is a member of the Crestwood Country Club. He also has served as an advisor for the Boy Scouts Explorers.

He is treasurer of Temple Emanu-El, was president of the Men's Club and now serves on the board. He is also a member of the Jewish Home for the Aged and is vice-president of the Kiwanis Club.

Jewish Leaders Call For Formation Of Coalition Of Minority Groups

CLEVELAND — Specialists in Jewish intergroup relations called this week for immediate formation of a coalition of black, labor, academic, religious and white ethnic minority groups to cope with the divisiveness and social ills that confront the nation.

They warned that unless the forces that joined together to help win civil rights legislation in the 1960's renewed their unity, "We may find ourselves irrevocably sundered as a nation."

The Jewish communal leaders from all regions of the country reacted affirmatively in interviews to a proposal by Jordan C. Band of Cleveland, chairman of the National Jewish Community Relations Advisory Council, that the minority forces reunite "because, standing alone, each one is weakened, if not powerless."

The council, holding its annual conference at the Sheraton Cleveland Hotel, is a coordinating body of nine national and 85 local community groups concerned with civil rights, race relations and related intergroup issues.

A restored coalition, Mr. Band acknowledged, "won't be easy" because today "these pivotal groups are for the most part suspicious of and hostile toward one another."

The old coalition, Mr. Band said, never actually dissolved "because its effectiveness eroded at the base — where the backlash occurred."

He stressed that the task now to which most of the 250 conference participants indicated general agreement — "is to help restore the coalition at its base where 'hard hats,' white collar workers, small businessmen 'ethnics,' blacks and poor whites can be made to understand the indivisibility of their problems."

Jewish community relation groups have a "particular responsibility" to enlist into the coalition the "substantial number" of Jews that, as part of "middle America" and sharing many of its "frustrations, have grown hostile to the blacks and the young," Mr. Band declared.

He contended that efforts at black separatism had been a "tactical disaster" and had only widened the polarizations that must be overcome by coalition.

"Standing alone, the black American is indeed powerless," he said. "Standing alone, so is each of us."

Goldmann Confirms Talk With Hassan

TEL AVIV — Dr. Nahum Goldmann, president of the World Jewish Congress, confirmed this week that he talked last Wednesday with King Hassan II of Morocco on the Middle East crisis.

Interviewed by the Israeli radio in Sirmione, on Italy's Lake Garda, Dr. Goldmann said he met King Hassan at his palace after the King had sought the meeting through a mutual friend in Paris to discuss Dr. Goldmann's ideas on a settlement.

Dr. Goldmann said he had met King Hassan as "an individual with specific views on the Middle East conflict" and not as an Israeli citizen.

Foreign Minister Abba Eban said his ministry had not been told of the meeting, though such action is customary. An Interior Ministry spokesman said no law had been violated because Morocco was not officially at war with Israel and special permission was not needed to go there.

The Israeli cabinet last April refused to approve a meeting with President Nasser of Egypt that Dr. Goldmann said had been sought by an intermediary.

TRAVEL

ISTANBUL (ZINS) — American tourism to Egypt fell by 50 percent since the Six-Day War of June 1967, according to local press reports. Prior to the Six-Day War, the average annual number of American tourists to Egypt was 65,000. In 1967 it dropped to 31,000, and in 1968 to 23,000. Last year, 1969, there was a rise to 33,000.

The overall tourist picture for Egypt reveals a comparable decline.

English Jews Paint Stars Of David On Soviet Offices

LONDON — A Star of David was painted last week over a door in the Soviet Embassy by a group of young Jewish students. The students also painted three-foot high Stars of David on the offices of Soviet airline and tourist office, The Soviet Weekly, a magazine in South Kensington, and a shop that sells Soviet-made clothes, trinkets and goods.

Scotland Yard detectives investigated the incidents, but there were no arrests.

A spokesman for the demonstrators — who asked to remain unnamed — said: "This is in protest against the mass arrests of Jews which have been going on in the last two or three days in the Soviet Union, ostensibly in retaliation for an attempted recent hijacking of an airliner in Leningrad."

Council Criticizes State Grants To Be Used For Private Schools

CLEVELAND — The National Jewish Community Relations Advisory Council told this week of a "well organized drive" and "increasing demands" for the use of government funds to assist church-related schools.

In endorsing the principle of separation of church and state, 250 intergroup specialists specifically criticized the proposed "voucher system" — state grants to parents of school children free to spend them in schools of their choice, public or private.

The system has been proposed in California and for experimental introduction in one community in the coming year with financing by the Federal Office of Economic Opportunity.

The council also condemned "purchase of secular services" from church-related schools as "indistinguishable in fact and effect from state financing of religious education." The purchase of secular services usually means that the state pays part of the salaries of parochial school teachers.

The council is a coordinating body of nine major national Jewish organizations in 85 local councils. The affiliated groups foster civil rights and civil liberties and seek improvement of intergroup relations. Through the council, they formulate policies and program recommendations as guides.

The sole group dissenting from the adoption of the policy statement on church-state relations was the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America, central body of Orthodox Judaism. Along with Roman Catholic groups and others, the Jewish Orthodox seek public funds to finance certain aspects of secular programs in all-day Jewish schools.

As the council ended its annual meeting, the delegates elected Albert E. Arent of Washington, D.C.

The council termed purchase of secular services "manifestly incompatible with the oft-repeated arguments of parochial school advocates in support of their refusal to send their children to public schools, that religion is immanent in life and cannot be severed from 'education.'"

The council also found "equally lacking in merit" the argument that religious schools, denied public funds, would have to close, thereby adding to the public tax burden.

The campaign for public aid to parochial schools, the council said, was beginning to merge into a demand for full public funding of all but the explicitly religious instruction in church schools.

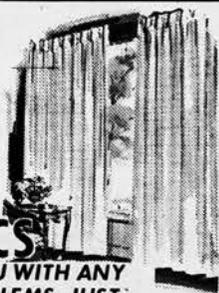

JAPANESE END VISIT
JERUSALEM — Members of the Makoya sect of Japan left for home last week after a visit to Israel. The sect has 70,000 members. They practice Judaism and believe they are descended from the lost tribe of Dan.

Israeli Textiles Down

TEL AVIV (ZINS) — Israel's textile exports are meeting heavy competition in world markets, according to Amos Ben-Gurion, director of the largest Israel textile factory, "ATA". Mr. Ben-Gurion noted that while an "ATA" garment retails in Germany for about $4.00, the Portuguese are offering a competitive item that sells for less than half. "ATA" yard goods, which sell for $2.35 per meter, have to compete with textiles offered by other countries at a mere $1.15 per meter. The price differential is attributed to the much lower labor costs prevailing in the newly-developed countries which makes them so fiercely competitive. As a result, "ATA's" exports have dropped by approximately 35 percent within the last few months.

Coin Contest Open

The Bank of Israel announced a contest for the design of Israel's 23rd anniversary Commemorative Coin. It will be legal tender, struck in sterling silver, with a nominal value of I.L. 10. The new coin is scheduled for issue on April 30, 1971. The contest is open to the general public carrying a first prize of I.L. 2,500 — a second prize of I.L. 1,000, — and a third prize of I.L. 500. The final date for submitting design proposals is July 12, 1970. The two alternative topics for the design proposal on the obverse are: 1.) portrayal of the science-based industry in Israel and 2.) the link between the Jewish communities all over the world and Israel. The reverse will include the following data: the word "Israel" in Hebrew, Arabic and English; 1971 in Hebrew and Roman numerals; and 10 Israeli Lirot. Additional information can be obtained from the Office of the Director, Government of Israel Coins and Medals Department, 850 Third Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022.

ECONOMICS POLL

TEL AVIV — Israel will achieve economic independence in the next ten years, in the view of 47.9 percent of Israelis interviewed in a poll conducted by Rafael Gill, the director of PORI — Public Opinion Research of Israel Ltd. Of the remainder, 26.9 percent consider that Israel will not become economically independent by 1980 and almost as many — 25.2 percent — preferred to reserve their opinion. In the short-term, the picture is considerably different. Only 11.2 percent believe that Israel's economic position will improve during the coming twelve months; 30.6 percent believe it will worsen; 33.4 percent foresee no change; and 24.8 percent have no opinion.

Obituaries

BENJAMIN KAPLAN
 Funeral services for Benjamin Kaplan of 34 Leslie Street, Cranston, who died Monday, were held the following day at the Sugarman Memorial Chapel. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

The husband of the late Rebecca (Weinstein) Kaplan, he was born in Russia on Jan. 21, 1889, a son of the late Myer and Pearl Kaplan. He had been a Cranston resident for the past 14 years, and had previously lived in Providence for over 50 years.

Mr. Kaplan was the owner of Kaplan's Grocery Store on Warren Avenue in East Providence for 30 years, and then on Goddard Street in Providence for 20 years, retiring 14 years ago.

He was a member of Congregation Sons of Zion and the Providence Beneficial Association.

He is survived by a son, Jerome Kaplan of Cranston; a daughter, Mrs. William Solinger of Cranston; a brother, James Canton of Brighton, Mass., and five grandchildren.

Oslo Museum Tribute To Jewish War Dead

OSLO — Norway's "Home Front" Museum was opened here without much publicity. This is the way the authorities wanted it, but the museum has set the whole of Norway thinking of the years of German occupation between 1940 and 1945 which provided the material for its galleries.

The museum is Norway's tribute to the war effort of her people. No one is forgotten and the Jews have their place, for many escaped to Sweden with the help of Resistance workers. Films taken secretly at the time and models show the danger of their journeys.

Here, too, starkly and simply shown on a shiny copper are the names of every concentration camp in Nazi-occupied Europe, with those in which Norwegians, including many Jews, were imprisoned, underlined.

A Norwegian Jewess, who wishes to remain anonymous, spent many years helping to prepare the museum. All the members of her family died in Auschwitz concentration camp and this is, to her, their only memorial.

The reason for opening the museum was simply put by Mr. Knut Haugland, its director, the hero of the wartime raids on the "heavy water" plants in the Telemark area.

He said: "Norway's young people should have a place where they can see what it was like to lose the privilege of freedom, so that they may understand why their parents and grandparents fought for it."

And from the numbers of children from all parts of Norway already visiting this small building beside Norway's war memorial in the grim Akershus fortress, this is what they are doing. They are joining in this pilgrimage visitors from all over the world.

Mrs. Neal H. White

Miss Marjorie Joan Berkman became the bride of Neal Harold White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford White of 235 Freeman Parkway on Sunday, June 28. He is also the son of the late Helen Goldenberg White. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Samuel A. Berkman of Willimantic, Conn., and the late Mr. Berkman.

Rabbi Amos Edelheit and Cantor Israel Sack performed the 6 p.m. ceremony in Temple B'Nai Israel in Willimantic. A reception followed at the temple.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law Kenneth E. Shane, the bride wore a white silk organza gown fashioned with a high neckline and long fitted sleeves. The bodice and sleeves were designed with peau d'ange lace detail which also extended into the princess skirt and chapel length train. She carried a classic cascade of white stephanotis, white miniature carnations centered with a white cattelya orchid enriched with greens throughout.

Mrs. Kenneth Shane and Mrs. Sam Silversmith were their sister's matrons of honor. The bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sister, Miss Lynn White and his stepsister, Mrs. Jerry Parness. Brenda Shane was the flower girl.

All of the bride's attendants wore floor length gowns of aqua saki. The sleeveless skimmer style gowns were fashioned with high necklines, and double bands of white organza accented with Venise lace, and aqua satin ribbon enriched the A-line skirts and back panels.

Steven R. White was best man for his brother. The ushers were Steven D. White, the bridegroom's stepbrother; Sam Silversmith, Jerry Parness and Norman Kaplan. Steven Shane was the junior usher.

After a wedding trip to Puerto Rico, the couple will live at 1449 Warwick Avenue, Warwick.

West German Poll Taken

DUSSELDORF — A total of 48 per cent of the people questioned in a recent West German opinion poll on the Middle East conflict expressed their neutrality and 8 per cent said they could not answer which side they supported.

Of the remaining 44 per cent of the representative section of the population which took part in the poll, 38 per cent declared that they were sympathetic to Israel and only 6 per cent said that they supported the Arabs.

But 54 per cent of the young people aged between 16 and 18 years questioned expressed their support for Israel and 5 per cent for the Arabs; while 34 per cent said that they were neutral and 7 per cent did not answer.

A total of 43 percent of the 18-21 age group supported Israel compared with 4 per cent who favored the Arabs.

Ecumenical Spirit

MILWAUKEE — Leon Felson has a new job — executive director of St. Mary's Hospital here. It's a position that until now had been filled by a nun during the 122-year history of the institution.

"The fact that they now have a layman, who also happens to be a Jew, as administrator is to me a very personal example of the ecumenical spirit within the Catholic Church. I am deeply grateful," Felson commented.

Felson said the major problem facing hospitals these days is the trend toward specialization — selecting an area of special interest is its major service.

Commenting on the spiraling costs of hospitalization, Felson said two-thirds of the cost is expended in salaries of personnel, the other third in operating expenses and supplied. The day is past of the low salaried, highly dedicated hospital workers because employees have to be "paid a living wage," he said.

Become Your Town Historian

All of us have our own personal treasury and nostalgic memories of the "good old days" and the "not so good old days."

Every grandparent I know, myself included, enjoys spinning yarns of yesteryear — of one-room schoolhouses, box socials, vaudeville — whenever their grandchildren are gathered around them.

Why not share memory's wealth with your community? Becoming your town historian is an ideal way.

It takes more than reminiscing on paper and you're not going to do it in one day. You'll want to begin by outlining your thoughts and facts. Make sure the area is one you know well. And give it a new, exciting idea that no one else has already covered. You can hunt libraries for old records, interview historians and old-timers, and dig up bygone lore and traditions.

Then you'd start to study, write, and polish your material. Much of what you found may be dull old history in data and dates. Now it's time to open your "remember when" storehouse — to weave anecdotes into your history. This is what makes history absorbing and colorful! Photographs and illustrations arouse curiosity, too, so use them wherever possible.

Who's interested in such histories? You'll be surprised at the markets you can find... your chamber of commerce, historical society, magazines, clubs, and local newspapers, among others. Try presenting your history for your town's anniversary celebration.

That's how seventy-five-year-old Ralph Rambo became a noted literary figure and local historian. He's captured the imagination of thousands of readers with his own locale, the Santa Clara, Calif. Valley.

Here's how he feels about writing local history: "I stand firm on general truth. After all, when relating memorabilia sixty or more years old, we enjoy a comforting safety factor — so few of the participants or witnesses are still around to challenge or refute such scribes as this old-timer."

You'll find a personal satisfaction and deep involvement with other people when you compile a local history. In addition you'll enrich the lives of others with colorful history, which sharpens their appreciation for their community. So why not try being your town's historian?

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By Roger E. Spear

High Premium Not Easy To Justify

Q: Why does Madison Fund consistently sell at prices reflecting a much larger percentage in excess of net asset value than most of the other funds? Can you suggest a good fund for purchase? — C.T.

A: Madison Fund is a closed-end fund traded on the NYSE in the same way as any listed security. Its price is controlled by the laws of supply and demand more than by the asset value of its portfolio.

Unlike open-end funds where shares are continuously supplied, closed-end funds have a limited capitalization. Thus it is possible to purchase closed-end shares at a discount from net asset value or at a premium depending on the fund's growth record and/or yield.

Madison's hefty premium of nearly 40% reflects, in part, a superior long-term growth record and a generous yield. However, it is difficult to justify this premium simply on the basis of Madison's past performance. Although this premium may deter prospective buyers, it is advantageous to present shareholders. Dividend reinvestment in shares is permitted at net asset value which means an immediate 40% markup in market value of new shares.

Two open-end funds with excellent records are Mass. Investors Growth and Johnston Mutual. Lehman Corp., a closed-end, has performed well and sells at less than a 10% premium.

Q: Less than a year ago I purchased shares of San Jose Water Works after considerable study of the company's position. It is now down 10 points in spite of a record of growth. I am retired and have a sizable portfolio of income-growth holdings. Have I misjudged this situation? — E.B.

A: No, you have chosen a high-quality issue which fits your investment objectives. Because of the overall upsurge in interest rates last year, money rate stocks, such as utilities, were hard hit in the stock market. San Jose responded readily to the recent slight easing in these rates. With patience these shares should prove worth holding.

Is Recovery Here For Utilities?

Q: What do you think of utility stocks for purchase toward retirement next year? Can you suggest one or two issues for my purpose? — L.A.

A: There is no question that utilities appear to be one of the "in" groups at the present time. From a low reached in late January the Standard & Poor Average of 55 utilities has scored a 12.9% rebound while the S&P 500 Composite stock average has moved ahead only 5.9%. Investors, spurred by scattered evidence of reduced borrowing costs, have found utilities increasingly attractive.

The electric power companies, which are in the throes of massive plant expansion programs that cannot be postponed, would be the biggest beneficiaries of any decisive shift toward easier money. Lower interest rates would be a timely blessing to these companies which by mid-1970 are expected to enlarge generating capacity by at least 33% — about 7% a year. The recent cost of new debt has been so high that borrowed funds — under existing regulatory conditions — could not pay for themselves. Investors apparently have decided that the tide has turned in the money market.

It is no secret that blue-chip equities have been favorites in the early stages of past bull markets. Central & Southwest and Middle South Utilities — both electric power holding companies — are well suited for your needs. The former serves an area rich in natural resources covering parts of Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas and Oklahoma. Air-conditioning and electric space heating are important sources of revenues. Commercial and industrial customers, including Alcoa, American Airlines and General Electric, account for more than 50% of revenues.

Central & Southwest has increased earnings and dividends annually for more than a decade. Middle South Utilities is in an interesting position having spent about $5 per share in new plant over the last 5 years. After 1970's possible $6 per-share spending, additions to net plant should diminish. This is expected to result in a better-than-average earnings performance for Middle South.

Bonds Redeemable At Company Option

Q: I have two B-rated bonds. Under the heading Redemption is a list of dates and decreasing interest and also a mention of redemption at the company's option. Does this mean I can request my money and whatever interest is due if I give ample notice? If not, must I sell my bonds on the open market? Can either of these operations be handled directly with the companies involved or must I go through a broker? — M.D.

A: Only the issuing company has the option to redeem — in this case — a certain portion of its bonds annually. If you need your capital you must sell your bonds through a broker or bond dealer. Unless you hold a high-interest-bearing bond you will probably have to sell at well below par. However, further easing of interest rates appears to be in prospect which would be reflected in higher bond prices.

Q: I am 76, living on a fixed income. I have $13,000 in savings and a credit union drawing 5% and 6%. Should I make any changes? — M.J.

A: I would be loath to see you risk any of this capital for what might be only a very small annual increment in income. Your entire capital, which is readily available, can at least be counted on in times of emergency.

Q: I own 84 shares of Long Island Lighting. Should I sell to buy Pfizer which is going to split 3-for-1? — E.K.

A: If you are interested in income this move would cut your annual dividend income by two-thirds. The 54 shares of Pfizer that you would hold after the split would pay $32.40 against the $109.20 you now receive on Lilco. Even if you are seeking growth, I would delay any action temporarily. A run-up in price prior to a split is frequently followed by an adjustment in the price/earnings multiple after the act. Lilco should share in some of the recovery expected for utilities.

$500,000 GIFT

NEW YORK — A gift of $500,000 to the Israel Education Fund of the United Jewish Appeal, has been announced by Charles J. Bensley, president, and Dr. Aryeh Nasher, executive director. The gift, made by Mr. and Mrs. Alan H. Ginsberg of Lansing, Michigan, has been earmarked for the construction of a multi-stage nautical school in Caesarea, Israel.

Gladstone Re-Elected President

Bernard C. Gladstone was re-elected to a third term as president of the Temple Beth Shalom congregation at the combined Men's Club-Sisterhood Breakfast and annual congregational meeting held on June 28.

Other officers elected include Alexander K. Gladstone, first vice president; Ben Rabinowitz, second vice president; Julius Russ, treasurer; J. Buddy Levin, recording secretary, and Jack Dinin, financial secretary.

Elected to the board of directors for one year are Morris Fishbein, Julius Gold, Bruce Jacober, Milton Kaufman, Mrs. Sumner Woolf, William Brown, Samuel Gan, Joseph Morrison, Morton Paige and Carl Zimmerman.

Dr. Steven Bernat, Peter Traugott, Samuel Lapatin, Philip Paige, Nathan Lury, Dr. Joseph J. Fishbein, Joseph Goldfine, Morton Bornstein, Simon Chorney and Alan Landy were elected to the board for two years.

To serve a three-year term Max Miller, Samuel Rice, Sanford Gorodetsky, Charles Kaufman, Joseph Connis, Leonard Spooner, Joseph Dress, Charles Schwartz and Thomas Rosenfield were elected.

Rabbi Marc S. Jagolinzer was the guest speaker. He also introduced Alexander Gladstone, who paid tribute to the temple's Minyanaires, men who help to make a minyan each morning and evening.

Members of the group who were honored, each receiving a Kiddush cup, were Harry Cofman, Joseph Connis, Nathan Davis, Joseph Elovitz, Alexander K. Gladstone, Joseph Koplan, Frank Koplan, A.B. Levenson, Bernard Schwartz and Philip Paige.

Honorable mention went to Joseph Berson, Samuel Glickman, Herbert Schwartz and Peter Strelow.

Mrs. Lawrence R. Ernst

In a gown made by her mother, Miss Gail Emma Steiner became the bride of Dr. Lawrence Richard Ernst of 95 Governor Street Sunday, June 28. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Eric Steiner of 234 Doyle Avenue and the late Mr. Steiner. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ernst of Maspeth, New York are the parents of the bridegroom.

Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen and Cantor Ivan Perlman performed the 12:30 p.m. ceremony in Temple Emanu-El. A reception followed at the Hearthstone Motor Inn, Seekonk.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Allan K. Deeds. Honor attendants were Miss Susan Charlotte Steiner, sister of the bride, and David Stuart Ernst, the bridegroom's brother.

The bride wore an Empire gown of silk organza, designed with leg-o'-mutton sleeves trimmed with lace, a high neckline, lace bodice and train. Her silk illusion veil fell from a matching beaded Camelot cap, and she carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and miniature carnations centered with blue pompons and garlanded with ivy.

Her matron of honor was attired in an Empire floral pastel chiffon gown designed with short, puffed sleeves, also made by her mother. She carried a cascading bouquet of white carnations and blue pompons, with a touch of pink miniature carnations.

After a wedding trip to Nevelle, Ellenville, New York, the couple will live at 95 Governor Street for the summer. In September they will move to New York where Dr. Ernst will be instructor in the mathematic department of Queens College.

Jews Dominate Democrats' Slate

NEW YORK — Jewish candidates dominated the Democratic state ticket here following last week's primary election, in which only 26 per cent of the 3.6 million eligible voters participated. Four of the five nominees on the state slate are Jewish, with the fifth a Negro, and all live in New York City or Westchester County. The ticket is headed by Arthur J. Goldberg, former Secretary of Labor, Supreme Court Justice and ambassador to the U.N.

Mr. Goldberg, who will be 62 on Aug. 8, is making his first try for elective office. The Chicago-born diplomat was the youngest of eight children of Russian-Jewish immigrants, Joseph and Rebecca Jerlstein Goldberg. The nominee, who voted at Temple Emanu-El, defeated Howard J. Samuels, an upstate Jewish businessman and former head of the Small Business Administration.

Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, 31-year-old Congressman of Westchester and Putnam Counties, is the Democrats' Senatorial candidate. Finishing second and third in the four-man race were Paul O'Dwyer, brother of the late Mayor William O'Dwyer and a long-time pro-Israel activist, and Theodore C. Sorensen, former White House aide, whose mother was Jewish. Mr. Ottinger is the wealthy son of U.S. Plywood founder Lawrence Ottinger. He is a nephew of Albert Ottinger, unsuccessful Republic opponent of Franklin D. Roosevelt in the 1928 gubernatorial election, and a nephew of State Supreme Court Justice Nathan Ottinger.

Arthur Levitt, State Controller since 1954, was unopposed—as usual—in the Democratic primary. He will be 70 on June 28. The fifth man on the ticket is State Senator Basil A. Paterson of Harlem, a Roman Catholic and president of the New York chapter of the NAACP.

On the Republican ticket, chosen earlier and headed by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, there is one Jewish nominee—Louis J. Lefkowitz, Attorney General since 1957. He will be 66 on July 3. There are no Jews on the Conservative Party's state ticket. The Liberal Party lineup consists of Mr. Goldberg, Mr. Patterson, Mr. Lefkowitz, Mr. Levitt and Republican Sen. Charles E. Goodell.

Rep. Leonard Farbstein, 76 years old and a 14-year Congressman, was defeated in the Democratic primary in Manhattan's 19th District by Mrs. Bella Abzug, a Jewish lawyer and activist in the anti-war and women's liberation movements. Mrs. Abzug, who is in her 40's, is a first-time political aspirant. One of her most vocal partisans was Barbra Streisand.

Rep. James H. Scheuer defeated Rep. Jacob H. Gilbert for the Democratic designation in the reapportioned 22nd Congressional District of the Bronx. Democratic Rep. Edward I. Koch, a one-term Congressman who has been a leader in the anti-war movement, was renominated in Manhattan's 17th C.D. In the Republican Congressional primary yesterday, Rep. Ogden R. Reid, a former ambassador to Israel, was renominated in the upstate 26th C.D. and will run in November for a fifth term.

Bomb Scare

Father Cuthbert Allen, who has been my friend for as long as I have lived in Charlotte, asked me to deliver the convocation to the graduates of Belmont Abbey, the Benedictine college in nearby Belmont, N.C. Of course I accepted.

Three years ago Father Cuthbert, who is the executive vice president of the college, gave me an honorary degree and this year the college was honoring Max Steele, the novelist who teaches at the University of North Carolina; Dr. Mary Steele Nelson, the director of the Gaston Children's Center in Gastonia; and the Most Reverend Harold R. Perry, auxiliary bishop of New Orleans.

But my acceptance was more than one hand washing the other. Despite everything I believe the classroom is still America's most precious possession and those who are graduated from it our real hope for the future. This sentiment may sound unrealistic to some, mawkish to others, but to me the chance to address these young men and women who ranged in name from Abeyounis to Zukowski was to my mind a signal honor.

The graduation ceremonies started at 3 p.m. on the afternoon of May 17 with the hooding ceremony and then the solemn academic mass, the baccalaureate sermon preached by Reverend Perry.

At 8 o'clock, the graduates, their parents, the faculty, and I convened in Wheeler Center for the graduating exercises. The audience stood during the Processional and the Star Spangled Banner. Every campus didn't change with the advent of the Columbia College riot of 1968.

The students accepted their diplomas from the college president, the Very Reverend Jude Cleary, and I started my spiel, a charitable way of putting it. I was five paragraphs into it, when Father Cuthbert passed a note to the lectern which read, "Cut it short, please. We've heard there's a bomb in the building."

I cut it very, very short with a "Good luck to all of you." With that Father Cleary rose and announced, "A call has been received that there is an explosive device in here set for sometime tonight."

Firemen arrived and found no bomb.

I know the reason for the bomb scare and it came not because I had anything inflammatory to say to the graduates. The scare came because Belmont Abbey had conferred a doctorate on Harold Perry, who is a Negro, and who was on the podium with whites. This is the motive and I believe it is obvious to everyone.

Perhaps this incident serves as a better way of introducing students to the actual facts of the real world than anything convocation speakers could dream up. The Father Cuthberts of the world are going to insist on equality for all men and the bastards are going to keep saying no.

And no one can afford to sit in a building which may be wired with bombs to make the significant gesture. If the bastards are going to make us all abandon the building, we have to take care of the bastards. As Andre Gide put it, "We cannot let the bastards have it all their own way."

Police-Civilian Force To Patrol Jewish Areas Of Boston Suburbs

BOSTON — A police-civilian patrol force is expected to go on duty this month to protect lives and property in the predominantly Jewish areas of Mattapan and Dorchester, areas plagued by high crime.

The project was approved following conferences between Mayor Kevin White and Robert M. Segal, president of the Jewish Community Council, and Robert E. Segal, JCC executive director, and Rev. Arthur Walmsley, general secretary of the Massachusetts Council of Churches.

Reginald Eaves, administrator for the Mayor's Office on Human Rights, said an initial force of about 300 volunteers was planned. They will undergo a 10-week on-duty training program. They will be provided with nightsticks and two-way radios and will be deployed in pairs.

Their purpose will be to report crimes being committed to the Boston Police Department. Volunteers between the ages of 19 and 65 will be accepted.

The project comes under the Federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration. The Jewish Community Council is seeking $150,000-$200,000 from the Federal Government to finance the patrols under the Safe Streets Act.

Patrol members will be neither paid nor uniformed. Expenses such as the purchase of radios will be paid by the city.

The funds sought from Washington are to pay the salaries of additional policemen, for policemen's automobiles and for trying out innovative methods of law enforcement.

The local Police Department will be in full control of the civilian patrols and is responsible for their organization, administration, deployment and training. Crimes such as mugging and robbery have reached high proportions in the Mattapan and Dorchester areas.

Two neighborhood synagogues were recently set afire by arsonists causing heavy damage.

Your Money's Worth

Big Rise In Take-Home Pay Ahead

Starting last Wednesday, July 1, there will be more take-home pay left in your pay envelope and more take-home profits left in your profits statement.

How you will use this extra money — running into several billions for the nation as a whole and into some impressive individual chunks of cash for you too — will be vitally important in determining whether we are now into the bottoming out phase of the 1969-70 recession. Specifically:

(1) As of Wednesday, the 5 per cent surtax, imposed on our incomes to help finance the Vietnam war, dies. This is equivalent to an income tax cut, of course.

(2) Also as of Wednesday, each of our personal exemptions rises to an "effective" rate of $650 — also meaning a decline in the amount withheld for the first half. Politics before the November elections? Sure — but economics as well!

(3) And as of July 1, all of us who earn $15,600 or more will stop paying Social Security taxes. We will have paid our maximum $374.40 for '70 and will be off the tax rolls until next Jan. 1.

Saying it mounts into billions really says nothing — so here is what the end of the surtax and the higher personal exemption will mean to YOU, assuming you are married and have two kids.

If you earn $150 a week, your withholding will drop from $15.80 to $14.50. This will add $5.20 to your take-home each month and $135.20 to your spending money during the balance of the year.

If you earn $250, your weekly withholding will drop from $34.70 to $32.40. This will leave $9.20 additional in your pay envelope each month, a total of $239.20 during the rest of '70.

If you earn $500 a week, your withholding will fall from $94.70 to $89.40. This will leave $21.20 more in your take-home pay, a respectable $551.20 during the next 26 weeks.

Now consider what the end of the Social Security tax will mean to you. For many weeks now, taxpayers earning $30,000, $25,000, $20,000 have been going off the Social Security tax rolls and now come the millions in this $15,000 middle-income group.

Income	Weekly Soc. Sec. tax
$15,000	$13.83
$20,000	$18.46
$25,000	$23.04

NEW YORK — Lord Macroft, head of the shipping line, says no Cunard liner ever again will use the Suez Canal because of the risk. Besides, ships now travel at such speeds the shortcut isn't worth it. Going around the Cape of Good Hope to Australia takes only one day longer.

During Artur Schnabel's current concert tour of Europe the pianist heard this advice to intellectuals in Moscow: Don't think; if you must think, don't speak; if you must speak, don't write; if you must write, don't sign; if you've signed, recant.

Jack Palanca is launching his first record album, standards plus his own songs. He says of his lyrics: "I've been writing rotten poetry for years. But put it to music and it becomes tolerable"...Carol Channing probably will star in "Four on a Garden," a French play adapted and directed by Abe Burrows...Retiring FCC Commissioner Kenneth Cox may join Western Union...Clive Barnes, the Times drama critic, is becoming a U.S. citizen.

'70 rolls on will be millions earning $10,000 a year: $9.23 a week. And earning $12,000: $11.04 a week. These are fat sums.

On top of this too are these two basic shifts in policy.

The Federal Reserve is adding cautiously but regularly to the supply of credit now in order to avert a dangerously destructive shortage of money in our banking system and our economy generally. (This refers to the "liquidity crisis" beginning to hit the front pages).

And the federal budget has swung decisively back into the red, reflecting continuing spending and lower tax collections. This is hardly a cause for rejoicing but it is a stimulant.

Guessing what you'll do with the extra take-home is no cinch this time, for you have been scared by the evil combination of recession, galloping inflation and a stock market crash. Every survey of consumers indicates your confidence is low and you are inclined to save a high percentage (6.6c out of every $1) of your money.

But at the very least, this release of funds into our economy will be a potent force working against a deepening and broadening of the current recession. And it could mark the start of the end of the fifth recession of the post-World War II period.

CARE Programs Still Aid Israel

This is to correct an error in your May 29 edition in which you state that CARE has discontinued the distribution of food parcels in Israel.

While we have ended the sending of designated CARE food packages for specific persons and institutions in Israel, it is because public requests for this form of service had declined to a point that indicated it was no longer necessary. But our many other CARE programs in Israel are continuing.

CARE is still feeding about 60,000 school children and preschoolers in Israel per day. We are also still sending to Israel a wide range of self-help materials, including educational materials, programs for the construction of schools, health clinics and vocational training centers.

Since CARE arrived in Israel in 1949 that country has experienced significant economic improvement. However, we want to assure your readers that they can still send vital aid to Israel through CARE.

One track minds or blind sports, call it what you wish - either one was responsible for many Declarers failing to make today's hand. Of course, some Defenders did make it easy for them by taking an Ace too quickly. Even then some failed to take advantage of this and used their entries wastefully.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Horowitz were North and South, no one vulnerable, East dealer. The bidding:

P	INT	P	2NT
	3NT	End

Some Norths passed their partner's opening One No Trump bid because they had but six points. There are points and points, a fact that so many do not take into consideration. North has such a fine five card Diamond suit that it might even produce four or five tricks. Certainly it is worth the try. South, with a top No Trump carried on to game when given the chance.

Most Wests led the Spade 10, a seemingly safe lead. The Jack should be played from Dummy just in case the lead is from the interior sequence containing the Queen. This didn't work so most Souths did not hold up their Ace as they were even more afraid of East switching to a Heart right through their doubleton Ace-Queen.

Now they started on the Diamonds hoping that one of the opponents would either have to take the Ace by the second round or do it by mistake. If they did, the third Diamond in Declarer's hand would enable him to get back to Dummy for the rest of the suit.

But the Defenders did not cooperate. Either because they carefully watched their partner's signal giving the count or they were simply confirmed holder-uppers until the bitter end, they did not take the Ace at once. A high-low from partner means a doubleton in this case giving Declarer three, so a hold-up until the third round is necessary.

Here is where the one track mind came in. Almost every Declarer continued Diamonds until finally East won the Ace but now there was no entry to Dummy to cash the rest. They had to play the rest of the hand leading from their own honors and went down. The erroneous analysis of most of them was that they had been fooled by that alert Defense they ran into. Such was not so.

Mrs. Horowitz decided to use the Dummy's Diamonds for entries cashing as many as possible if the Ace came up while this was going on. She realized that if that Ace were held up twice the Diamonds could give her no more than two tricks. Here is what she did. Her first play was a low Diamond to Dummy's 9 which held. Now she turned her attention to her other long suit, Clubs, and played one toward her hand. When she played the Jack she was elated when West had to win that trick with the Ace. Another Spade did knock out her last stopper in that suit but now she was able to make the hand.

After winning the second Spade a second Diamond is played to Dummy. If East ducks again that suit is forever abandoned, another successful Club finesse taken and nine tricks cashed; four Clubs, two Diamonds, two Spades and the Heart Ace. If East takes the Ace on the second lead the Defenders can cash two more Spade tricks but that is all. The hand will still be made.

PRO PLANES FOR ISRAEL
NEW YORK — Editorial comment in newspapers throughout the United States is overwhelmingly in favor of selling planes to Israel in the wake of recent Russian incursions in the Middle East, according to a survey released by the American Jewish Committee. A study of 55 newspapers, located in 36 cities, revealed that 41 papers called either directly or indirectly for the sale of jets to Israel.

News of the Sports World by Warren Walden

BOMBS BURSTING IN AIR! - It's the "Glorious Fourth!" It's the birthday anniversary for Uncle Sam, for the greatest country in history and for the best system of government ever established. Happy Birthday, Uncle Sam! And that means you and you and me, too. And when the bombs burst in fireworks displays, let's be thankful, grateful, that they're only make-believe and that because some have given so much in far-away places, we can celebrate. So let us renew our patriotism in every way, dedicating ourselves with every effort for making the future better and greater when we'll all be together again, strongly united in accomplishing a "one for all and all for one" atmosphere.

ONCE UPON A TIME - "Fourth of July" once upon a time meant that everybody waved flags and blew horns. It was when we'd all go and sit on newspapers while watching a fireworks display that was put on somewhere in the vicinity of Kinsley Avenue and Acorn Street in Providence; it was when there'd be a balloon ascension at Dexter Training Grounds when tremendous cloth bags would be inflated with hot air from kerosene burning in a trench; it was and should be when people proudly celebrate the birthday.

RED HOOKS AND BLUE - The 4th was a special day for baseball, the City providing funds for games between outstanding teams. I haven't been able to find out why baseball teams, back there in those dear, dead days beyond recall, were called "Hooks." Two of the outstanding Rhode Island teams were known as Blue Hooks and Red Hooks. And, like the Paul Revere poem, hardly a man is now alive who remembers the famous day and year when the Red Hooks played the Olneyville team in a Providence Amateur League game that went 22-innings one Fourth of July morning at Tockwotton Park.

ONE FOR THE BOOK - That was only half of it for one of the teams in that historic duel of the diamond, had to hurry across the City to fulfill an afternoon engagement at Merino Park, that one also going well into extra innings. Such stalwarts! Tim O'Neil was so proud when he'd tell that reports of those grueling duels got into the big time record book. Ah yes. Memories of the Glorious Fourth! Steamboats on the Bay! Shore dinners and clambakes! Cap pistols and Bulldog! Pin Wheels and Skyrockets and Roman Candles! Parades and Patriotism! Celebrating Uncle Sam's birthday.

BASEBALL DICTIONARY - It's an old story in advertising that tells that your story is ever new because a new generation is always moving up. Maybe some explanation of terms being used by baseball broadcasters should be distributed. Franticsance, it seems that some announcers insist on calling pitchers, "workers! e.g. - "Such a one will work tomorrow; and such a one worked to three batters." And also, when the ball is hit to the pitcher, (ahem, beg pardon - to the worker) it is announced, "He could have gone to second with it but he went to first." That means, I think, that the pitcher could have thrown the ball to second but he threw it to first. In other words, he didn't go anyplace, he threw the ball. And when some say "Baw Game," they mean, of course "Ball Game."

THE SPACE WILL ALLOW - And now for the news that the space will allow: National roller skating championships will be held at Lincoln, Nebraska, in August and 442 skaters are expected to compete for entry in the big event at Riverdale Roller Rink, WARWICK, R.I., from July 7th thru the 11th....The City of Pawtucket will present the annual fireworks display at McCoy Stadium tonight (Fri.) after the Red Sox-Manchester baseball game which will start at 6 P.M. instead of 7:30....

FOR WHOM THE BELL TOLLS - The late Arthur McElroy whose death was accidental and so untimely last week had one of the finest collections of chessmen in the world in addition was a literary genius who never boasted of his knowledge. Chess, being such a great game for thought and literature being so important in these days of diversion, Mr. McElroy was truly a giant in our midst which reminds that the bell tolled for all of us.

WELCOME - It's nice to think of hockey on a warm day. The R.I. Reds new coach, Larry Wilson, appeared on a day that could have been called "beach weather." It's a good idea to keep hockey before the fans all year "round. Baseball has done it for a long time. Coach Wilson, formerly played with the Buffalo team and successfully coached the Dayton, Ohio, team the past couple of seasons. He's from Ontario. "CARRY ON!"

one-year terms are Malcolm Bromberg, Joseph Weisman and Milton Winkler, vice presidents; Lewis Korn, treasurer; and Kenneth Resnick, assistant treasurer.

Also, Paul Chernov, financial secretary; Alan Brier, assistant financial secretary; Arthur Robbins, recording secretary; and Mrs. Milton Winkler, assistant recording secretary.

Mrs. Edward P. Fink

The New England musical premiere of Gershon Kingsley's "A Jewish Wedding Ceremony for 'Now'" highlighted the wedding ceremony of Miss Cory Helen Well and Edward Phillip Fink Tuesday, June 30. Included was the welcome for the bride and groom as they met under the traditional canopy.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manfred Weil of 29 Holly Street, Providence and Nannaquacket Road, Tiverton. Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Fink of 63 Lenox Avenue are the parents of the bridegroom.

Officiating at the 6:30 p.m. ceremony in Temple Emanu-El were Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen, Rabbi Joel H. Zalman, Rabbi Jacob Handler, and Cantor Ivan E. Perlman. The welcome was sung by Cantor Perlman, who was selected to introduce that music at the Cantors' Assembly Convention last May. The premiere also consisted of the processional and recessional music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white organza gown accented with peau d'ange lace and a matching chapel-length train. Her elbow length veil was held by a Dior bow of white organza and lace, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations, purple baby carnations, gypsophila, stephanotis and ivy.

Miss Linda Fink, the bridegroom's sister, was the maid of honor. She wore an orchid linen gown designed with a jeweled neckline, and a matching headpiece, and carried a cascade bouquet of pink asters and baby carnations.

The bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Fey, Miss Iris Brass, Miss Charlotte Luporini, and Miss Joan Weil. Miss Judith Well, the bride's sister, was the junior bridesmaid. They wore gowns of pastel embroidered organza designed with full sleeves, and wore matching Dior bow headpieces. They carried cascade bouquets of purple asters and baby carnations.

Howard Fink was best man for his brother. The ushers were the bride's brother, Simon Weil, Sanford Fink, Herman Greenwald, Ronald Tippe, Jeffrey Sutton and Alan Dritz.

After a reception in the temple social hall, the couple left on a wedding trip to the Maritime Provinces and Montreal, Canada. They will make their home in Evanston, Illinois.

Israel's Lebanon Policy

JERUSALEM — The Israel government set forth the four principles that guide its policy toward Lebanon in a note of the United Nations Security Council. The note was in reply to a complaint lodged by Lebanon over Israeli incursions against guerrilla bases on Lebanese territory.

The four principles stated in the Israeli note are:

- Respect for the political and territorial independence of Lebanon and non-intervention in its internal affairs;
- Negotiations on a final peace settlement based on the present territorial boundaries; scrupulous maintenance of the cease-fire by both parties on the basis of the 1967 cease-fire agreements and reciprocity, including the unequivocal responsibility of the Lebanese government to prevent armed attacks from its territory against the territory and population of Israel;

And the right of self-defense against all armed attacks by all appropriate means.

Name Samartano Exec. Vice President

Joseph G. Samartano has been elected executive vice president of Columbus National Bank by the bank's board of directors. Mr. Samartano has served as senior vice president since 1966. He joined the bank in 1950 as assistant vice president in charge of business development. He was appointed the first branch manager of the Charles Street office in 1955 and the Cranston office in 1963. In 1965 he was elected vice president and assigned to the bank's main office. He is senior vice president of National Columbus Bancorp, Inc., the one bank holding company of which Columbus National Bank is a subsidiary. Mr. Samartano's responsibilities include direction of the bank's current branch office expansion program under which four additional offices have been added to the Columbus system during the last fifteen months. He is a graduate of Bryant College, American Institute of Banking and Williams College School of Banking.

He is former president of the Providence Clearing House Association and currently chairman of the Providence Clearing House Committee, and a member of the executive council of the Rhode Island Bankers Association. Mr. Samartano is state treasurer of the Rhode Island Chapter of the National Foundation and a member of the executive board of the Rhode Island Arthritis Foundation. He is a trustee of St. Ann's Church, and a member of the Retail Trade Board and the President's Council of the Providence Chamber of Commerce. He is also a member of the Sales and Marketing Executives of Rhode Island and the Turks Head Club of Providence.

Theatre-By-The-Sea Opens Summer Opera

Rhode Island will be the first state in the nation to have grand opera in a summer stock barn on Sunday, July 5, when Tommy Brent, producer, presents Puccini's "La Boheme" at Theatre-by-the-Sea in Matunuck. This will be the first of five operas for the summer season.

Marguerite Ruffino sings the role of Mimi. Miss Ruffino has appeared in Providence for her two seasons. Luigi Cevettello will sing the tenor role of Rodolfo. Musetta will be sung by soprano Evelyn Russell, and appearing as Marcello will be the baritone from the Philadelphia Lyric Opera, Anthony Becerril.

The music dramas will be fully costumed and staged, with a live orchestra. Curtain times for the operas are alternate Sundays at 3 p.m., and the Sunday curtain for "Man of La Mancha" is 7 p.m.

The second opera-by-the-sea production will be "Madame Butterfly," at 3 p.m. on Sunday, July 19.

TO PRESENT PLAY
 The Just As We Are Players, a summer theater group composed of young people from the city of Cranston, will present Rodgers and Hart's "The Boys From Syracuse" on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings, July 24, 25 and 26 in the Cranston High School West auditorium beginning at 8 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at Ladd's Music Center in Garden City or at the door. Reservations may be made by calling 942-0469 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

BLACKS VISIT ISRAEL
 TEL AVIV — Seven black American community leaders are in Israel for a seven-week look at irrigation methods, technology and other aspects of Israeli communal life.

Sponsored by Histadrut, they are studying the applicability of Israeli methods to their own communities in Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and Georgia, where they are active in the all-black Southern Cooperative Development Program.

Supreme Court To Rule On Validity Of Gov't Aid To Parochial Colleges

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Supreme Court has agreed to rule on the long standing issue involving constitutionality of federal construction grants to church-related colleges and universities.

The court will hear arguments in the fall or winter in a test case from Connecticut which involves grants made to four Catholic institutions in the state.

A suit attacking the validity of the grants was instituted by 15 Connecticut residents, supported by the American Jewish Congress and the Connecticut branch, American Civil Liberties Union.

The case is the first to reach the country's highest tribunal since the 1963 Higher Education Facilities Act became law. The U.S. Office of Education has estimated the government has allocated $2.3 billions in loans and grants since the act became effective.

Involved in the Connecticut case are Fairfield University, conducted by the Jesuits; Sacred Heart University, lay-administered diocesan institution in Bridgeport; Albertus Magnus College, conducted by Dominican nuns in New Haven, and Annhurst College, operated by the Daughters of the Holy Spirit in South Woodstock.

Under the grants, the institutions erected a library, a fine arts center, a science building and a language laboratory.
