GREATER SERVICE GIVEN BY MIRIAM HOSPITAL IN FACE OF LESSER BUDGET

Corporation Hears Reports of Officials, Holds Election

Charity Cases Mount

Notwithstanding the fact that the annual income had decreased, members of the Miriam Hospital Corporation heard a report by President Max L. Grant Sunday at the Jewish Center, which revealed that greater service had been given in 1932 than ever before in the history of the institution.

The hospital staff performed 780 operations and treated 374 obstetrical cases, the report said. Its 848 free and partly free patients represented an increase of 14 per cent over the previous year, and 8580 free and part free day treatments were an increase of 16 per cent. Mr. Grant said, patients included 684 Hebrew, 511 Catholics and 194 Protestants, an increase of 45 per cent of Catholics and 24 per cent for Protestants, the report showed. Clinics treated 44 per cent more patients than in the previous year.

Mr. Grant's report on behalf of the Executive Committee revealed the hospital was able to cut operating costs in 1932, although it treated many more charity cases than before. Despite the saving, he said, a deficiency in income resulted from decrease in paying patients and other causes.

Health Official Speaks

Dennett L. Richardson, Superintendent of Health, in a brief address, said he was not pessimistic about the outlook for hospitals, although many have been closed in the past few years. He lamented that many persons are able to attend shows, buy clothing and automobiles and yet not consider payment of doctors' and hospital bills.

Installation of libraries for patients and the staff were recorded in a report by Major Charles M. Hoffman, Superintendent. Credit was given the Department of Public Aid for sending men and women paid by public aid funds to do work about the hospital.

Committee Reports Read

Other reports were given by Harry Beck, financial secretary; Henry Hasenfeld, finance committee; Mr. Boyman, house committee; Joseph Smith, legal committee; Walter L. Sundlin, staff committee; Mrs. Louis M. Grant, nurses' committee; James Goldman, visiting committee; Charles C. Brown, laboratories committee; Mrs. Brown, Miriam Hospital Association, which presented a check for $1000 as a gift to the trust fund, and Dr. Harold Libby, medical staff.

Return of Cohn Lectures Likely

Official Statement Paves Way For Reinstatement of Jewish Teacher

Berlin, Jan. 13—(JTA)—A victory for Professor Ernst Cohn, whose lectures at the University of Breslau were ordered curtailed by the University Senate, is seen in an official communiqué following a conference between Minister of Education Kaelher, Rector Brockelman and a representative of the University Senate.

The communiqué declares: "The anti-Cohn statement was not intended as an encroachment upon the Ministry's domain. It was also not intended as a reprimand of Cohn. It merely established that the Senate following Cohn's reply with regard to Trotsky, cannot continue to carry responsibility for his safety. A consultation shortly, with the entire professorial collegium will clear up the matter," the communiqué concludes.

It is expected that a large majority of the faculty will vote for the continuation of Prof. Cohn as a member of the faculty of Breslau University.

FILENE FAVORS SHORTER WEEK, HIGHER WAGES

Noted Jewish Merchant Sees "One Road Back to Prosperity"

Suggests Trial Period

New York, Jan. 13—(JTA)—A thirty-hour week and an increase in the real wage of the worker are the fundamental principles of a plan to revive industry presented by Edward A. Filene, internationally known Jewish merchant and philanthropist, who is president of William Filene's Sons Company of Boston.

Writing in the New York Times Mr. Filene calls for a six-hour day and a five-day week in his plan to provide work for the unemployed.

"It is pretty generally agreed that there is but one road back to prosperity," he writes. "We may say that it lies in an increase in the worker's real wages—that is in the amount of goods his wages will buy." By increasing the worker's buying power, business is stimulated, Mr. Filene holds.

Proposes Trial Period

He proposes a trial period, "during which the individual worker's pay for a thirty-hour week shall remain what it was for a longer week, with the understanding that the workers, individually and collectively, shall try during that period so to increase their efficiency that the unit cost of the product will not rise. If at the end of this trial period, which might run from six to nine months, the unit cost has risen, wages shall be reduced until it is restored to the old level. If the unit cost thereafter drops, this pay cut shall be restored."

Mr. Filene believes that no risk would be involved of producing goods in excess of the market demands, if this plan were adopted by the key industries of the United States.

Labor Not Commodity

"A minimum wage based on unit cost admittedly introduces a new element into the relations between labor and capital," he writes. "It means that labor ceases to be a commodity bought in a 'labor market' and becomes a sharer actually, though indirectly, in profits. It means that employers stop thinking of the worker as

Robin Presents Bills to Help Unemployed, Slash Loans Interest

Senator Paul J. Robin, Providence Democrat, yesterday introduced two bills, one designed to give unemployed preference for jury service and the other aimed at high interest rate charges for small loans.

Both measures were favored by Democrats in preceding years, former Senator Isaac Moses proposing the second at last year's session and Judge Maurice Robinson introducing the first when he served in the Senate some years ago.

Under the first act the jury commissioner or his deputy are to list unemployed prospective jurors and give them preference for jury duty in place of those who have regular employment.

Powerful opposition is likely to stand in the way of passage of the small loans proposition. Senator Robin admitted, its provisions call for a maximum interest rate of one and one-half per cent a month on loans of $300 or less. The present state law with regard to these loans allows a rate of interest of three and a half per cent a month, greater than most states in the country.

Arabs May Overturn Plan For Palestine Legislative Council

MOLLY PICON

Previous Unwillingness to Co-operate Aired by Commission

Members Cite Hostility

Geneva, Jan. 13—(JTA)—That members of the Mandates Commission of the League of Nations questioned the practicability of the establishment of a Legislative Council for Palestine, on the ground that the Arabs would not co-operate in it, thus rendering it futile, is revealed in the minutes of the Mandates Commission, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency learns authoritatively. The minutes of the commission will be published two weeks hence.

A heated debate on the subject developed when the Palestine High Commissioner, reporting to the commission in November, made it known that the British Government contemplated the establishment of the Legislative Council after its municipalities ordinance had been carried into effect.

Unfriendliness Cited

Members of the Mandates Commission, of the belief that the Arabs would not be friendly to a Legislative Council, offered as examples of the Arab attitude of non-co-operation the fact that the Arabs had resigned, as a token of their non-co-operation, even from Technical Commissions—the Road Board and the Agricultural Commissions, etc., of which Jews were members. In such circumstances how could it be awaited that the Arabs could co-operate with the Jews in the government of the country, the Palestine High Commissioner was asked.

Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope, it is learned, endeavored to explain that once the Arabs were convinced that the British Government was determined to introduce the Legislative Council, co-operation would be gradual.

In this connection Sir Arthur expressed satisfaction with the relations between the government and the Supreme Moslem Council, declaring that the relationship had been strengthened in recent months.

The question was raised by Prof. Rappard as to why the Jewish members of the Municipal Council of Jerusalem had resigned. He inquired how it came about that though the Jews in Jerusalem constituted a majority of the population, they were a minority in the City Council.

Revisionists Hit By Zionist Decree

Court of Honor Bans Union for Contravention of Resolutions

Berlin, Jan. 13—(JTA)—The Court of Honor of the World Zionist Organization recently voted to suspend the World Union of Zionist Revisionists as a separate Union within the organization, ruling that the Revisionists have contravened the resolutions adopted by the Actions Committee last summer forbidding any of the Separate Unions to conduct separate political activity.

The question of the right of the Revisionists to conduct separate political work was one of the most important items on the agenda of the recent meeting of the Actions Committee in London, when the Actions

Coolidge's Death Recalls Kindness Toward Jews

The sudden death of Calvin Coolidge, thirtieth President of the United States, in his home in Northampton, Mass., which shocked the entire nation, recalls the friendly and sympathetic attitude he displayed toward the Jews during his tenure in the highest office in the land.

Tribute to Jewish contributions to the history of the United States was paid by Mr. Coolidge as President in a notable address which he delivered on May 3, 1925, at the laying of the cornerstone of a new Jewish center in Washington, D. C.

"The Jewish community of the United States is not only the second most numerous in the world," he said, "but in respect of its old world origins, it is probably the most cosmopolitan. But whatever their origin as a people, they have always come to us, eager to adapt themselves to our institutions, to thrive under the influence of liberty, to take their full part as citizens in building and sustaining the nation, and to bear their part in its defense; in order to make a contribution to the national life, fully worthy of the traditions they had inherited.

"The work of spiritual unification is not completed. Factional, sectional, social and political lines of conflict yet persist. Despite all experience, society continues to engender the hatreds and jealousies whereof are born domestic strife and international conflicts. But education and enlightenment are breaking their force. Reason is emerging. Every inheritance of the Jewish people, every teaching of their secular history and religious experience, draws them powerfully to the side of charity, liberty and progress. They have always been arrayed on this side, and we may be sure they will not desert it. Made up of so many diverse elements, our country must cling to those fundamentals that have been tried and proved as buttresses of national solidarity."

Urge Jewish Unemployed be Settled on Land In France

Paris, Jan. 13—(JTA)—An appeal for the settlement on land of unemployed Jewish immigrants in France was made by Chief Rabbi of Metz, in a communication addressed to a meeting of the Jewish Youth Goodwill Society here.

London, Jan. 13—(JTA)—Dr. Chaim Weizmann, former President of the World Zionist Organization, was re-elected President of the English Zionist Federation Sunday. His election was uncontested.

Dr. Weizmann, in two lengthy addresses, appealed for wider support for the Keren Hayesod and discussed the present Zionist position in the light of the crisis in World Jewry. He declined to discuss political questions, preferring, he said, not further to aggravate an already aggravated situation.

Dr. Weizmann emphasized the satisfactory position in Palestine; the absence of unemployment and the influx of capital.

"This satisfactory situation, does not, unfortunately, affect the Jewish Agency which today is the weakest spot in the structure we are building in Palestine," Dr. Weizmann asserted. "A great many efforts and enterprises have been undertaken in Palestine over the head of the Jewish Agency, which has had the effect of weakening it the more," he said.

The Keren Hayesod and the Jewish National Fund are also experiencing difficulties, he declared. Dr. Weizmann appealed to Palestine colonists to make large contributions to these two funds and called upon the rich colonists to make payments on the loans they have received from the Jewish Agency.

He paid tribute to the Palestine High Commissioner, "who," he said, "has our respect and who has affection for our home, but we are still struggling to attain a fair share for Jewish labor in the Mandatory's public works."

"No Arabs think of employing Jews, so we must insist that Jews employ Jewish labor until there is more cooperation between the three elements for the general benefit of the country," Dr. Weizmann's reference was to the recent disputes over the employment of Arab labor by Jews, particularly in the Gan Sharon orange groves.

CUT DOWN YOUR COOKING COSTS

Reduce your meat shrinkage with ELECTRIC COOKERY

D<sup>o</sup> you know exactly how much it costs you for any meal you serve your family? No, you've never bothered to figure it out! But you do know the roast weighed 7 pounds at the butcher's . . . that it cost 30c a pound . . . that it was cooked and served. And you know, as every woman knows, that meat shrinks when cooking. But do you know meat shrinks less when it's roasted electrically? Yes, the saving in shrinkage alone of a 7-pound roast amounts to more than the actual cost of the electricity to cook it.

This saving isn't all. While the meat is roasting, every other item that you want to serve for the dinner—vegetables and pudding—are cooked in the same oven at the same time without additional cost for electricity. Now—are you really satisfied with anything less modern than electric cookery?

THE MIRIAM HOSPITAL

Behind the cold statistical reports of Miriam Hospital officials presented at the corporation's annual meeting this week there is the picture of increased service to humanity despite a drastically reduced income.

Operating costs in 1932 were slashed; yet the hospital took care of many more charity cases than ever before. Like all other health and welfare institutions, Miriam Hospital in these days is taxed far beyond normal with patients unable to pay now or ever. This is a condition which, to a greater or lesser degree, has always existed and always will exist. The hospital anticipates it.

But the inexcusable part of it all is that many hundreds of persons, well able to do so, have no thought of paying their doctors' and hospital bills. Dr. Dennett L. Richardson, Providence superintendent of health, points out that many persons find means to attend shows, buy expensive clothing and automobiles and yet ignore payment of their health bills. A number of hospitals in other sections have been forced to close in the face of the overwhelming load they have been forced to carry. And no small part of that load should have been self-sustaining.

It is fortunate that Miriam Hospital and others in this city do not face this situation. Through kindly philanthropy, the willingness of hospital attaches, nurses and doctors to give more and more of their time and energy, the extra load has been supported and will continue to be sustained.

A charitable view of those persons who take advantage of the institution by failure to pay their bills when they are financially able to pay is to call them thoughtless rather than parasitic. They fail to realize the consequences of their thoughtlessness, the fact that they may be robbing those less fortunate; although seldom has any hospital turned away anyone in need. Moreover, it would be extremely indecent for hospital authorities to call this fact to their attention.

At Miriam Hospital, despite the savings achieved by reducing expenses, the year just passed has closed with a sizeable deficit, chiefly because of the decrease in paying patients although there were other causes. Yet the hospital staff performed 780 operations, treated 374 obstetrical cases and its 848 free and partly free patients represented a 14 per cent. increase over the previous year. A 16 per cent. increase is shown in the 8580 free and partly free day treatments, while clinics treated 44 per cent. more patients than in 1931.

The fact that more non-Jews than Jews were patients during the past year is testimony of the universally excellent reputation of Miriam Hospital. Jewish patients numbered 684, non-Jewish 705, the latter figure including 511 Catholics and 194 Protestants, an increase of 45 per cent. of Catholic and 24 per cent. of Protestants.

TIDBITS AND NEWS OF JEWISH PERSONALITIES

By DAVID SCHWARTZ

A Jewish Trader Horn

Many months ago, this column suggested that there ought to be plenty of material for a Jewish Trader Horn. We pointed to the large number of these old Southern African traders who were Jews and we went further to mention even one man, a former South African trader, but now a newspaperman who, we thought, could qualify for the task. This man, had related to us, in private, some of the experiences he had with the natives of South Africa, and it was the kind of material we thought that good books are made from.

But this newspaperman, battling for his daily bread, with wife and children to support, never got down to it.

Hails From Odessa

But there is to be a Jewish Trader Horn, nevertheless. And the book about the Jewish Trader Horn, it seems, is to be written by Mrs. Lewis, the woman who wrote the life of the original and now immortal Trader Horn.

Mrs. Lewis plans now to write of the life of a Jewish peddler, who came from Odessa, peddled in South Africa, joined the British army at the outbreak of the World War, even though he was sixty-three years old and was wounded at the battle of Ypres.

The old peddler is dead. Says Mrs. Lewis, "but I hope to carry out the task if only to keep green the memory of an embittered and cynical but innately gentle, almost Christ-like old hero and reprobate."

Saint and Reprobate

That phrase, "Christ-like old hero and reprobate," which Mrs. Lewis attaches to this Jewish peddler, is noteworthy. It seems you've got to be both saintly and reprobate — to be worth writing about. In the Kingdom of Heaven, you can enter by being merely saintly, but to get the immortality of the Kingdom of Books, you've got to be a saint, and a little devil at the same time.

Spiritual Qualities

But this Jewish peddler, it appears, had another quality, which Mrs. Lewis rightfully points out, is even more important.

"It is queer and tragic," she writes, "How so few readers realize, it isn't adventure that makes a book, but certain qualities of the spirit. Of eighty-three professed lives and manuscripts, which came from all over the world, only this one seemed to me to have the qualities of good literature."

A Great Mind

A woman dies. She never held public office, yet her obsequies are marked as that of a great statesman and in a fundamental sense Mrs. Henry Moskowitz was a great statesman.

She had the best mind of any person that he ever met, comments Al Smith. Strangely enough, Mrs. Moskowitz has been quoted as disparaging the feminine mind. She believed in feminine intuition, but not in feminine reason. In reasoning quality, she thought, men were superior.

But what is reason and what is intuition? It is so hard to analyze these things that one can't place under a microscope.

A Biblical "Animal"

I came across a good Biblical story the other day, said to have been a favorite of the late Theodore Roosevelt.

Teddy was telling a friend of his, who cherished a warm esteem for the Scriptures and frequently read the Bible to his boy.

One day, this friend took his little youngster to the New York Zoo. The two saw the elephant, the lion and so down on the line. "Isn't there a zebra here?" asked the little boy of his father.

"The zebra—what do you mean by the zebra?"

"Oh, don't you know, daddy. The zebra of thy house hath eaten me up."

No Fun Depression

But speaking about these "gags," there seems to be no danger of any over-production, at least, in their case.

It appears, indeed, that the one profession, which has not suffered from the depression is the comedian. The Cantors, the Holtzes, etc. are paying as high income taxes this year as ever, and even the lowly writers of these gags are lowly no longer. It seems that the man who can turn out a gag a day nowadays can wax fat like Jeshurun. So great is the demand for gags, that alas, some of them that are being turned out, must give the man of any taste a pain in the neck.

One of them that I saw this week in Winchell's column, credited to Holtz, gave me more than that. It almost gave me double pneumonia.

Such An Old One

It is one of the oldest Jewish stories that I ever knew. Three years ago, I was on the point of using it, but I didn't have the heart. It is that old story, about the Jew, who, at the request of his old neighbor, who had moved to another city, visited him at the latter's request. But as his visit was concluded, his old neighbor charged him for rent and board. So the visitor took the case to the Rabbi, and the Rabbi ruled that the visitor must pay, even though he had been invited by his friend.

As the two left the Rabbi, the visitor said to the party of the other part. "You know, nevertheless, that the Rabbi is wrong — that you shouldn't charge me."

"I know," replied the second party, "but I just did it to show you what a rotten Rabbi we have in town."

Wise and Seabury

I was very pleased to hear that Dr. Wise had presided at the Seabury meeting at which the incorporation of proportional representation in the charter of New York was urged.

It seems to me that if there is one outstanding political reform that is urgent, particularly in New York, at the present time, it is proportional representation.

Under the present election system, some million votes are garnered in New York municipal election by Tammany every year, about three-quarters of a million Republican votes, and about a quarter of a million Socialist votes.

Under the present electoral system, however, none but the Tammany votes count. If you don't get a majority, you're out of the picture. Under the proportional representation, minorities would have representation also. The Republicans and Socialists combined could checkmate Tammany. Anyway, what is needed is the creation of some opposition, and proportional representation would do that.

On a Bus

A Jewish acquaintance from another city tells me the following story. Said it occurred while he was on a sightseeing bus in New York. But it seems to me, that I've read it somewhere. Anyway, according to the story, some man from the Middle West, whom we will call X and Mrs. X were listening with interest as the guide was pointing out the various sights:

"That's Vanderbilt's mansion," cried out the guide.

"Cornelius Vanderbilt's?" queried X.

"No, William," came back the guide.

"And that's the Astor mansion."

"John Jacob?" queried X again.

"No, Vincent," replied the guide.

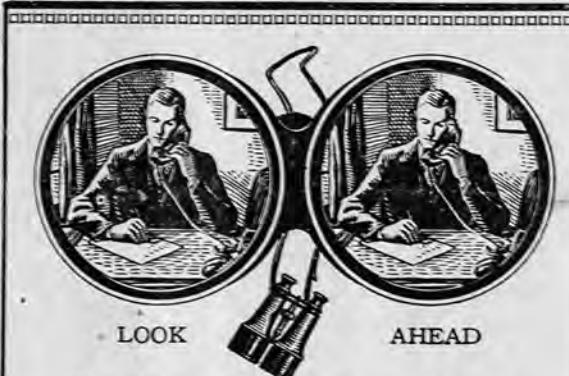

"And that's Christ's church."

"Now, hold there!" cried Mrs. X to her husband. "Don't ask him—he'll probably be wrong again."

Do You Want Your Son's Life Earnings to be

$160,000.?

IT has been stated that the average high school student's life earnings are $88,000. and that the average college graduate earns $160,000.

If you want your little son to have the best chance to make the most of his opportunities, it's pretty clear that you ought to send him to college, isn't it? The question for many of us is: How?

Old Colony presents a sane, simple, commonsense answer in its Educational Plan. By this plan, the astonishing power of money to earn more money in compounding dividends is put to work. It gives the small saver and the person in modest circumstances an opportunity to profit by the same investment principle which large, long-time investors enjoy.

You owe it to yourself and to the boy, (or perhaps it's a girl) to get a copy of our little leaflet, "The Old Colony Way to a Better Education"—NOW!

Ready Sympathy

By BERNARD M. GOLDOWSKY

Being temporarily out of a job, the President of the Jewish Orphanage of Rhode Island, Walter I. Sundlin, who is widely known for his generous impulses, appointed me chairman of the annual meeting committee.

It is the business of my committee to make this annual meeting so interesting that the Jews of Rhode Island will attend it en masse. The women require no better attraction than I. They would travel miles out of their way for a mere glimpse of me—ask them. But it's different with the men. Hence the first good news I can impart at this writing is that lengthy reports of the chairmen of the various committees are tabooed. Each chairman's report will be the size of a Mezuzah—thank the Lord for that.

Then the President of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Orphanage, Mrs. Benjamin N. Kane, has promised an ambitious musical program, vocal and instrumental; and I know of no one who is more capable to handle that part of the day's program than that Kane-sugar lady.

Is that all? Don't ask!

The Superintendent of Providence Public Schools, Alex J. Stoddard, will deliver a most interesting and inspiring address. And won't you be exceedingly happy to see and hear the children of the Home whose foster parents you are? Me thinks, that all in all, there is a grand time in the offing for you if you are willing to spend a little of your time—and that is all you are required to spend—on the day of the annual meeting.

So make a note of the day, date and place: Sunday, Jan. 29th—2:30 p.m.—at the Auditorium of the Jewish Orphanage of Rhode Island, 164 Sumner Avenue, Providence.

And keep this note on your dining room table until the day of the meeting.

Marshall Asks Support For Charter Revision

New York, Jan. 13—(JTA)—James Marshall, chairman of the Republican Advisory Committee of New York County, has issued a call to Republican leaders in the State Legislature to unite to support legislation for charter revision.

Mr. Marshall declared in his communication:

"Our study of the New York City government and the revelations of the legislative and other investigations show that the government of the city has to a large extent been in the hands of an incapable personnel and that the capable officials have been compelled by our form of government to be more responsive to political organizations than to the voters."

News Written for THE JEWISH HERALD by GEORGE JOEL

HECHT WINS THIRD INDOOR TITLE

As I said in this column last week it looked very much as though the proficient racquet wielder young Marco Hecht of New York and now Sophomore at Pennsylvania University, would win the national indoor junior singles championship. He did just that and for the third successive time. His final round opponent, Richard K. Hebard, was disposed of in four sets, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, 6-0. It wasn't much of a tennis match, as Hecht completely outclassed his opponent in all departments of the game. After a lapse in the second set, when Hecht hung back, there was nothing to it.

In the doubles finals, Hecht's team was defeated by Johnny Nogrady and his partner. Hecht defeated Nogrady in the semi-final round of the singles and was favored to win the doubles, but Nogrady is one of the best doubles players in the junior division.

By winning the singles title for the third time Hecht equalled the record set by Vincent Richards some years ago. These two players are the only juniors ever to garner so many indoor titles.

GOLDMAN LEADS IN BASKET-BALL SCORING

Moe Goldman, lanky City College center, assumed the lead in scoring among the members of New York City's Big Six basketball teams as the first half of the current basketball season drew to a close. Goldman, playing in seven games, one more than his closest competitor, has tallied 68 points, on thirty field goals and eight fouls, to lead his nearest opponent by three points.

Third place is held by another Jewish boy named Len Hartman, veteran Columbia forward, who in five games has scored 62 points.

These three men are well ahead of the rest of the field. The fourth man, Moe Spahn, City College captain, has scored 51; while Owen McDowell of Columbia, and Lew Wishenovitz of City College, are tied for fifth with 49.

City College also leads its five other major rivals—St. John's, Manhattan, N. Y. U., Fordham and Columbia—in the team standings. The Lavender's 42-18 victory over Colgate was its seventh straight; while St. John's has won six in as many parts. Two other teams in the Metropolis are undefeated. Manhattan having won six and N. Y. U. three.

Thus for the fifth consecutive year, City College and St. John's will be undefeated when they meet in their annual battle next week.

These C. C. N. Y. boys are certainly at the top of the basketball heap. With an all-Jewish team, consisting of Moe Goldman, Lou Wishenovitz, Sam Winegrad, Moe Spahn and Danny Trupin, the lads are adding laurels to Coach Nat Holman's already impressive record. Since Holman began coaching at C. C. N. Y. fifteen years ago, his teams have won 124 out of 162 games and against some of the best college fives in the country. Holman never made any attempt to pick his spots, but went out after the best there was.

CHATTERINGS

Wrestling, whether on the up or not, is a gentle sport! Listen to the following description of a bout between Sam Stein and Jim Browning. The account is not at all colored as I was present and vouch for its authenticity:

"Early in the bout Browning knocked out a couple of Stein's teeth with a strongly delivered forearm blow. Twenty minutes later, this same Browning not at all incommoded by the loss of Stein's dental work, cut loose with his flying scissors hold. However, Stein got away from this python-like grip and attempted to butt Browning from the ring. After a few minutes of this goatish conduct, Browning clamped a flying scissors on our hero and whirled him into a semi-conscious state to end the match."

The fans yawned and went out into the night. Me, for a nice, soft game, like hockey, where they at least take time out for a broken leg.

Irving Jacobs, second ranking horse trainee in these United States, learned the racket out of a book. Never hung around race tracks. He was once a pigeon fancier. What relevance that has to horse racing I don't know.

Another Irving Jaffee, former Olympic star, who has turned professional ice skater, made $40 when he raced in Hartford, Conn. He lost the race. No doubt from worrying about the gate receipts.

Harry Block, who is now in Mexico City, writes to say that the natives have taken to soccer in a big way and a team composed exclusively of Jews has been formed and is playing in one of the smaller leagues around Mexico City. The Hakoah influence, perhaps.

Buck Freeman, the only basketball coach, who can come close to equaling Nat Holman's records, is not a Jew, although the name is one that has been called out in many a synagogue.

Harry Cornsweet, ex-Brown football player and more recently professional wrestler, has written a book about the racket, known as "sports." He is looking for a publisher . . . but then who isn't.

Rosenberg, guard on the Southern California football team, is one of the very few members of the team who is a native of Los Angeles.

Revisionists Hit By Zionist Decree

Committee acceded to the Revisionist application for recognition as a Separate Union. This new form of organization was made necessary for the Revisionists owing to the change in the constitution of the Revisionist Union adopted at the conference. This change opened Revisionist membership to Jews who did not adhere to the Zionist Organization, so that there were henceforth two classes of Revisionists, those who accepted membership in the Zionist Organization and those who did not. It is the Revisionists who adhered to the Zionist Organization who organized themselves in the separate union which is affected by the decision of the Congress Court.

Arabs May Overturn Plan for Palestine Legislative Council

Election Scheduled

In reply Sir Arthur stated that elections would soon take place under the new municipal ordinance and that changes would thus be effected.

Dealing with the subject of the projected Legislative Council, the High Commissioner said that the Arab extremists would not be satisfied by this constitutional change though the moderates would approve of it.

The discussion on the Legislative Council also evoked the information from Sir Arthur that the Council would be introduced only after the municipal ordinance was in operation. Negotiations would then be set on foot between the Palestine leaders of the various sections with a view to arriving at some adjustment which would make possible agreement on the question of the Council.

Replying to the question of the Mandatory relations with the Jewish Agency, which is a regular part of the Commission's annual questionnaire, the High Commissioner said the relations with the Agency were excellent.

Of particular interest is the High Commissioner's reference to the quality of the Jewish immigrants from Russia and Poland, which were described by him as a diligent element

Arthur Gusa, Open Golf Champ, Appointed Pro at Ledgemont Club

Louis F. Rosenberg, President of Ledgemont Club, has announced that Arthur Gusa, considered one of the outstanding professional golfers in New England, and open champion in Rhode Island in 1930 and 1931, would be the new professional at Ledgemont. Fred Knight, Evening Bulletin sports writer, in commenting upon Gusa's acceptance, said:

"One of the most popular pros ever affiliated in this state, Gusa will take over his new berth, March 1, as successor to Lewis Myers, who resigned last month."

"Although it has been generally known in local golf circles that Gusa would not return this season to Point Judith, where he has been pro for six years, the announcement that he has definitely reached his decision to take over the Ledgemont berth came as a complete surprise to his many friends and admirers in the state golf fraternity."

"Gusa is a native of Bayside, L. I., and started his golf career as a caddy and then as assistant pro at the Bayside Country Club. He is 28 years old. Gusa's competitive record includes two victories in the state open championship, for which he holds the tournament record, qualification in the National P. G. A. championship for the past two years, twice winner of the amateur-pro title at Daytona, Fla., holder of the course record at White Sulphur Springs, Va., with a 67, and participation in Southern tournaments for the past three years."

"After winning the state open title impressively two successive years, Gusa was the favorite to repeat again last August, but due to a fracture of a small bone in his left hand he was forced to withdraw at the end of the third round. The injury also prevented Gusa from playing in the P. G. A. championship at St. Paul a fortnight later, after qualifying high among the New England sectional test."

Before returning to his home in Long Island, Gusa is quoted as saying that he is "More than pleased to have been selected for the Ledgemont post."

which was working successfully—a tribute which is of special importance in view of the fact that in the anti-Zionist propaganda rampant after the 1929 outbreak serious and baseless aspersions were cast on the quality and value of immigrants from Eastern Europe.

Filene Favors Shorter Week, Higher Wages

a producing machine and begin to think of him also as a consumer. It means that some of the benefits of inventions and of improved methods of management, which in the past have gone almost wholly to employers and owners, will be distributed in the form of wages. It introduces a balance wheel to prevent production from outrunning consumption.

Possibly this is a modification of the capitalistic system as Adam Smith and other classical economists saw it. But nearly everything that has happened since classical economy was invented has been a modification of capitalism. The system survives, like plants and animals in the long processes of evolution, by being constantly modified. If evolution is to hold its own against revolution, capitalism must somehow manage to transfer to labor some of the benefits of technological progress," Mr. Filene asserts.
