Mr. Kenner long had been active in Jewish philanthropic and charitable organizations and was a member of the Sons of Israel Lodge, I. O. B. A., and Baron Hirsch Lodge, I. O. B. S. He was a member of the Congregation of Temple Beth-Israel.

Unrelaxed Tension Exists Throughout Berlin and Provinces Thuringia Bans Union

Berlin, Mar. 10—(JTA)—The general election has passed off both in Berlin and the provinces without anti-Jewish disturbances.

During the whole of the week-end German Jewry lived in a state of unrelaxed tension, which was not diminished by the marching and counter-marching of Nazi torch-light processions and parades throughout the country.

There was, however, a recrudescence of activity against the Central Union of German Citizens of the Jewish Faith during the week-end. At Erfurt, Dortmund and Essen the local offices of the Union were raided by Nazi Auxiliary Police. In these three cities a great deal of alarm was aroused among Jews by these raids, though nothing incriminating was found.

Union Banned
The most decisive action yet taken against the Central Union of German Citizens of the Jewish Faith is the complete dissolution of the Union in Thuringia, ordered by the Thuringian government over the week-end.

The official statement declares that "following a report spread abroad regarding a Thuringian pogrom on Jews, the government condemns this as lies and libels, as if pogroms could ever occur in Germany. The government is determined to protect all of foreign race or origin, but suspects the Central Union of responsibility for the circulation of this false information abroad. It therefore, orders the dissolution of the Central Union all over Thuringia."

Beth-El Women's Unit Holds Party

At the Purim party, prizes for the most comical costumes were awarded to Mrs. Rothchild, Mrs. Leo Logan and Mrs. Harry Glickman. Mrs. Bert Bernhard, attired in her mother's wedding dress, received the prize for the most beautiful costume.

Mrs. Jack Davis was master of ceremonies. Tea and Purim cakes were served by Mrs. Frank Bernstingle and her committee.

$3000 Bequest for Synagogue Is Left By Watchmaker

Easton, Pa., Mar. 10—(JTA)—Although he never was a member of a synagogue and never even came near the synagogue during his 45 years residence in Easton, yet when Harry Zazrin, an eccentric watchmaker, died here, and his will found, a bequest in it for $3000 to the Congregation Children of Abraham Synagogue, and another bequest for $500 for the Easton Hebrew School was provided in his will. A bequest of $500 for the Easton Hospital was also provided.

The bequest to the synagogue was timely, to say the least, for it was heavily in debt, and the $3000 will be used to clear most of the debt away.

Zazrin made his will about a month ago. He left about $1200 to a mother and brother in Lithuania.

PURIM—THE FEAST OF LOTS

Purim, a minor feast in the Jewish calendar, will be observed Sunday. The reading of the Book of Esther from a parchment scroll on that day and on the preceding evening constitutes the principal feature in the synagogue service. The feast recalls the deliverance of the Jews of Esther and her kinsman, Mordecai, from a threatened massacre planned by Haman, the king's vizier. In the words of the Book of Esther it commemorates "the days wherein the Jews had rest from their enemies, and the month which was turned unto them from sorrow to gladness and from mourning into a good day." It was decreed that the day be observed in a joyous spirit that finds expression in sending portions to one another and gifts to the poor.

The feast bears the name of "Purim" because it is recorded that Haman, the arch enemy of the Jews, sought to fix the day of their destruction by casting "Purim," which, according to a popular etymology given in the Book of Esther, means "lots." The feast is more social than religious. It does not require cessation from labor or any special religious ceremony other than the reading of the Book of Esther and the reciting of a few special prayers inspired by the event commemorated.

In former times the celebration, in some places, partook of the nature of a carnival. At present the story of the Book of Esther is frequently presented in dramatized form. The injunction to remember the poor was and is observed faithfully. During the centuries of persecution, the Feast of Purim was quite popular, due, perhaps, to the fact that the story of deliverance from the plottings of the tyrants, which the day recalled, brought hope of a similar deliverance from the evil designs of existing Hamans.

Plans are under way for a fitting celebration of Purim and rehearsals of a play by the children are being held. On Sunday morning several of the children will take part in the Purim Pageant at Temple Emanu-El and all of the Home boys and girls have been invited to participate in the Temple Purim festivities.

The presentation of "Peek-a-Boo" a play in three acts, by the Intermediate Miriam Hospital Association last Sunday afternoon, in the Orphanage gymnasium, was well received by the children because of its excellence. The cast was directed by Miss Irene Finkelstein and Mrs. George Gould. Ice cream and cake were served the youngsters at the close of the performance.

Sunday evening's basketball game in the gym was refereed by Joe Schein, former Brown, and at present Steam Roller football star. The Home children not directly engaged in playing were in the "cheering squad."

In the week's "amateur nite" the characters portrayed by the Orphanage children ranged all the way from a colored Mammy, Little Sambo and a black-faced comedienne, to a princess and a king.

Ladies' Union Aid Celebrates Forty-Sixth Anniversary

The true spirit of the members of the Ladies' Union Aid was exemplified by the overflowing gathering assembled in Zinn's Banquet Hall last Thursday afternoon in celebration of their 46th birthday. In spite of the inclement weather such a crowd stormed the hall, that the committee had a task to place everybody and seats were at a premium. The tables were decorated with beautiful flowers, which later went to a hospital to cheer up others less fortunate—and the head table held an elaborate birthday cake, built in tiers. Seated at this table were Mrs. Ephraim Rosen, President; Mrs. Isaac Woolf, toastmistress, and the committee. The founders of this organization of whom three remain, also had places at this table. Mrs. Bromson, Mrs. Sugarman, Mrs. Silverman, Mrs. Clara Lipis of Fall River, past president, Mrs. Einstein, a member of forty years standing, Mrs. Sam Silverstein, Mrs. Benjamin Feiner, sat here, too.

During the luncheon, Rabbi William G. Braude, main speaker, addressed the guests most interestingly. His talk was heartily enjoyed. Entertainment followed the luncheon, consisting of a violin solo by Mrs. Anna Solomon Lewis, accompanied by Miss Edith Lewis; a reading by Miss Florence Shapiro, and tap dances by June Fine, Ethel Kurtzer and Dorothy St. Lawrence, all of whom were accompanied by Miss Ruth Rubin. At the close, Mrs. Adelberg, on behalf of the organization, presented a beautiful electric clock to Mrs. Rosen, in appreciation of her wonderful work and untiring efforts for the association.

Saving is a Matter of TEMPERAMENT Not of Income

Some people think that they must have a certain income before they can start to save. They set up an ideal financial scheme and promise themselves to save a certain definite part of their income when, as, and if they ever reach that goal. They emphasize income.

Other people . . . realists . . . always save part of what they earn. They live in the present, but with a thought to the future. They do not "wait for their ship to come in." They draw their ship nearer and nearer to them every day by diligently saving what they can. They know that saving is more often a matter of temperament than of income.

No matter how much you earn . . . no matter how irregular your income . . . there is an Old Colony Plan, or combination of Plans, to help you make progress with your saving.

SPORTING WORLD

NEWS WRITTEN FOR THE JEWISH HERALD BY GEORGE JOEL

LEVINSKY LOSES BUT FELDMAN COMES THROUGH

The slug fest at Madison Square Garden last week gave two popular Jewish heavyweight fighters a chance to show their wares to a packed assembly of fight fans. King Levinsky, nee Harry Karnow of Chicago, managed to allow himself to be beaten by an old veteran, Johnny Risko, of Cleveland, while Abe Feldman kept his record intact by decisively defeating Johnny Rousseau.

Feldman stole the show. Although Levinsky was the headliner, it was Abie who got the cheers. Meeting Rousseau in a return bout, our new East Side hero, put on a slam bang battle for six hectic rounds. The bell saved Rousseau in the fourth when Feldman knocked him down with a right uppercut to the chin. The French philosopher was wobbly thereafter. Feldman earned his decision and there was no doubt about it this time. In their previous meeting the crowd thought that Feldman had been given a present, but now they are convinced who is the better fighter.

Levinsky's defeat was a disappointment, even though Risko had earned two decisions before this meeting. Risko has been receiving beatings for years and is getting no younger. If Levinsky was unable to take him, it means he is at best just another heavyweight with no chance of getting into the championship class.

But getting back to the fight—it was an exciting affair, much more a fight than a boxing match, both men punching at every opportunity.

At this business Risko was not as wild as Levinsky. He did not miss so often. He blocked most of Levinsky's wild right handers with his elbows, while the King did his blocking with his face, and I am told that it is not an efficient way to win a boxing bout. The only thing in Levinsky's favor is his gameness. He can take it and he had to.

The crowd was delighted with the spectacle. Both boys showed a willingness to mix it. Even when the bell rang announcing the end of a round the boys would continue to throw punches. At one point the referee and some of the seconds had to pry the two fighters apart. You'd think the boys enjoyed feeling leather.

Residents of New York and Chicago will have the opportunity of seeing real prize fighting in the next month. The annual Golden Gloves Tournament, sponsored by the New York Daily News is putting on its show. In Chicago and New York eliminations will be held, after which teams from each city meet in a dual match. The kids are all amateurs and fight for the honor of it—and that, strangely enough, makes a good fight. There will be a number of Jewish boys fighting for the metal that so many of us are trying to get.

CHATTERINGS

Moe Berg, catcher of the Washington Senators, arrived at the Senator's training camp in Mississippi after a trip around the world. Berg started out to teach baseball to Japanese school boys when the 1932 season closed. After six weeks in Japan he continued on through China, Manchuria and back through Europe. He missed the big fight now going on between our slant eyed cousins.

A young man named Cohen entered the six day bike race, which was held in New York last week. After three days of continuous riding he got dizzy or should I say dizzy, and decided that he had enough. He gracefully retired from the grind. This same Cohen did the same thing last year. I guess he has finally discovered that he doesn't like bike riding in large doses.

Another Cohen, Al, who was a utility outfielder for the Brooklyn Dodgers these last seasons, has been released to the Jersey City club of the International League. As he is a native of Newark, N. J., where his father is a Rabbi, he should find his surroundings very familiar. Mr. Rosenfeld, the other Jew on the Brooklyn squad, will remain with the team for the time being, but what's happened to Andy Cohen? Jonah Goldman is still in the American Association and reports say that he is contemplating matrimony.

I never could figure out why so few Jewish boys have taken to squash racquets. Any number of them play squash tennis—Harry Wolf, the champ, and a few ranking players from the City A. C., but in the racquets game you can't find me one. Same kind of court, etc. I guess it is just one of those things.

Looks like the Jockey Club stewards have gotten cold feet over Mary Hirsch's application to train horses professionally. To date the stuffed up boys have refused to OK the gal.

Nat Lazar of St. John's is a certain choice for All-American basketball honors. The All-Team will be picked within the next fortnight.

Abe Goldstein, a little known Jewish lightweight, won his highest purse in a local gymnasium by punching the bag 10,000 consecutive times without a miss. He did it on a bet with a lightweight contender, who had been standing around sneering at the boy's efforts. He bet Abe $1000 that he (Abe) couldn't do the trick. Abe accepted and won. Why I would like to know is what he would have done had he lost?

Talk about running records—Albert Parry, who just wrote a book on Bohemianism in America, tells the story of the time he was sentenced to be shot by a squad from the White Army in Russia. Some sixty men were lined up. 53 took the final count, the other seven, one of whom was Parry, made a dash for it and outran the White's bullets.

Jewish Communities Urged to Press for Unemployment Relief

New York, Mar. 10 — (JTA) — The members of the Jewish Conference of Social Service are being urged to mobilize public opinion and support in their communities for measures for Federal aid to the unemployed, now pending in Congress, as well as for unemployment insurance bills which have been submitted to a large number of State Legislatures now in session by the Committee on Social Policy of the conference.

This committee was appointed two years ago at the Minneapolis conference to use the influence of the conference in behalf of social legislation.

The committee is headed by Dr. Ben M. Selekman of Boston, chairman, and includes the following: Dr.
