SQUARE NAMED FOR JEWISH SOLDIER KILLED IN ACTION WILL BE DEDICATED SUNDAY

Outstanding Leaders to Honor Memory of Jack Cleinman Parade to Precede Event

National, state and city as well as religious leaders Sunday afternoon will take part in the exercises dedicating the intersection of Hope and Olney Streets as Jack Cleinman Square, in memory of a Providence Jewish "doughboy" who lost his life in France during the World War.

The dedication is sponsored by the Rhode Island Post No. 23, Jewish War Veterans. It will be the first square in Providence named for a Jewish service man and the second in Rhode Island, similar action having been taken some time ago in Newport.

Green to Speak

Governor Theodore Francis Green, Congressman Francis B. Condon, Mayor James E. Dunne, Supreme Court Justice J. Jerome Hahn, Superior Court Judge Philip C. Joslin, former U. S. Senator Peter B. Gerry and national and local veterans' leaders are scheduled to speak.

A colorful parade, in which many veterans and fraternal organizations will take part, is to start at Sessions street and Morris avenue at 2 o'clock immediately preceding the dedicatory ceremonies. The procession will march from that point up Rochambeau avenue to Hope street and back to the Olney street intersection. Taking part will be V. F. W. and Legion posts, British-Canadian veterans, Jewish War Veterans, auxiliaries, Jewish Fraternal Association and Boy Scout units. Governor Green is slated to lead the short march.

Commander Harry A. Hoffman of Rhode Island Post, Jewish War Veterans, will be chief marshal; Samuel Mistowsky, chief of staff, assisted by Past Commanders Charles M. Hoffman, Samuel I. Kennison, Abram Halpert, Paul J. Robin and Rueben Lipson, deputies. Capt. William Berman, national commander-in-chief, and Mrs. Max A. Cohen, national president of the auxiliary, will be in line.

TEMPLE EMANU-EL LECTURES BEGIN TOMORROW AFTERNOON

The first of a group of world known Jewish personages, Prof. Alfons Goldschmidt, will open a lecture course at Temple Emanu-El tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock when he addresses an audience in the vestry.

Prof. Goldschmidt, until he was exiled along with other cultural leaders, was dean of the School of Economics at the University of Leipzig in Germany. He has lectured at the University of Cordova in Spain, the University of Mexico and the University of Argentina. The lecture series is part of the Institute of Jewish Studies and will also feature later in the course appearances of Congressman Dickstein of New York, who is conducting an intensive investigation into anti-Nazi propaganda in the United States, and Maurice Schwartz, famous Yiddish actor.

Mrs. Nat C. Cohen is chairman of the Institute with Mrs. Fred E. Markoff, co-chairman; Mrs. Ernest Blazar, treasurer; Mrs. Saul Abrams, Samuel Blazar, Joseph Blazar, Chas. Brier and Herman Bernstein.

All German Jewish Unit Backs Hitler

Urges Affirmative Vote November 12 on Nazi Foreign Policy

BULLETIN

The Reichsvertretung der Deutschen Juden, the All-German Jewish representative body, in a proclamation yesterday urged Jews to vote in the affirmative on the question of the approval of the Hitler foreign policy in the election to be held on November 12.

BERLIN (JTA)—Interested Jewish leaders approached representatives of the German government, seeking some means to permit German Jews to participate in the Nov. 12 Reichstag elections. At the present time, it would be impossible for

Dr. A. I. Schechter Is Installed With Impressive Service

More Than 1000 Attend Exercises Sunday; Banquet Given in Evening

More than 1000 people attended the installation ceremonies given Sunday afternoon in honor of Dr. Abraham I. Schechter, newly appointed rabbi of the Sons of Jacob Congregation on Douglas Avenue. The services were attended by all the rabbis in the city and Newport.

Abraham Awerman, chairman of the installation introduced Max J. Richter, president, who presided at the afternoon's ceremonies. He in turn introduced Max Pearl, chairman of the rabbinical committee, through whose efforts Dr. Schechter came to this city.

Mayor James E. Dunne addressed the assemblage, welcoming Dr. Schechter in the name of the city and its officials, promising him his full co-operation in all undertakings here. Rabbis David Bachrach, Israel M. Goldman, William G. Braude, Joshua Werner, O. W. Werner, all of this city and Rabbi Morris S. Gutstein of Newport, then gave short talks commending Dr. Schechter's ability as a spiritual leader and organizer.

Rabbi Myer J. Rosenberg of Springfield, Mass., father-in-law of Dr. Schechter, in a very impressive manner, installed Dr. Schechter, stating that the latter's modern learning his Doctor's degree, all will help him in solving the many problems facing the Orthodox Rabbinate in this part of the country. The contract (Kesav Rabbonus) was then read after which he blessed the Rabbi.

In addressing the audience, Dr. Schechter thanked the congregation and the Rabbis for the honor bestowed upon him, expressing the hope that he will be given support and co-operation in his new undertaking. He pledged to devote all in his power towards the upbuilding of the Sons of Jacob congregation hoping to uplift the spirit of Jewish youth to learn to adhere to Jewish ideals.

In the evening about 400 congregants and their friends tendered a banquet to the Rabbi at the Swedish Hall. At the head table were Dr. and Mrs. Schechter, Rabbi and Mrs. Myer Rosenberg, and several relatives.

Philip Goldberg was toastmaster and introduced A. Alpert of Boston, a close friend of the Rabbi, who delivered a most inspiring address on the duties of an Orthodox Rabbi. Other speakers included Mr. Richter, Mrs. Schechter, the Rabbi's wife, Rabbi Rosenberg, her brother, who gave an excellent talk on the "Rabbi and His Flock," and O. Friedman. On behalf of the congregation, Mr. Richter presented Dr. Schechter with a gift.

Spanknoebel, Hitler's Agent, Facing Arrest, Takes "French" Leave

NEW YORK (JTA)—In opening the investigation of charges against Heinz Spanknoebel, Nazi propagandist in this country, of carrying on diplomatic work without presentation of credentials to the United States Government State Department, the Federal Grand Jury disclosed that Spanknoebel had been in New York as late as last Sunday.

In a letter received by Dr. I. T. Griebel, president of the League of Friends of New Germany, dated October 29 from New York City, Spanknoebel recognized the fact that a warrant for his arrest had been issued, stated his refusal to surrender to "unfair Jewish judges," urged German-Americans to fight for their rights of free speech, and said he was leaving the country "for some other place."

British Authorities Take Firm Stand; Jewish Folk Calm

Immigrants Reach Haifa

Surface calm covered a tense atmosphere throughout Palestine today after bloody anti-Semitic riots earlier in the week during which police were forced to fire into mobs of demonstrators killing 30 of them and wounding 200. Two native policemen were slain and 18 British policemen were wounded.

Inflamed Arab mobs in Jerusalem, Haifa and Jaffa rose in protest against increasing Jewish immigration and some semblance of order was restored only after gunfire by police as much to protect themselves as to disperse the mobs.

Police Force Increased

Meanwhile, enrollment in the police corps of the three cities was being rushed and on its heels came a sharp statement from Colonial Secretary Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister from London. Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope, high commissioner of the Palestine Order in Council, proclaimed a rigid censorship to prevent publication of inciting material. The commissioner has virtual dictatorial and military power.

A ship load of 900 Jewish immigrants mostly from Poland was anchored at Port Said, Egypt, and passengers made their way overland to Haifa. Scheduled to dock at the latter port, the ship was ordered stopped at Port Said because of fears of further violence. The Haifa harbor, gateway to Palestine, was dedicated amid simple ceremony which was attended only by a few officials because of the same fears.

To Keep Pledge

Great Britain will discharge its mandatory duties in Palestine "without fear or favor," but law and order must be preserved, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, Colonial Secretary, said today.

The Colonial Secretary spoke very plainly to the people of Palestine in

JEWISH HOME FOR AGED OF RHODE ISLAND

The services last Saturday had a special enjoyable feature for the old folks, when Barney Blumenthal, newly wed, appeared in special services as a "chason." Refreshments were served the old folks by the parents of the newly wed, and the old people enjoyed participating in the event.

A winter program for the old people is being worked out in detail, in order to provide daily routine, as well as special recreation during the long winter months.

The Patronesses' Tea to be given December 6th, is now occupying the attention of the Ladies' Association. A thousand ladies are invited to participate in this memorable event, at which a splendid entertainment program in the form of an operagale will be given by Mrs. Caesar Misch, Mrs. Starr and Mrs. Celia Parvey are in charge.

The names of every donor and Patroness will be inscribed in a beautiful Golden Book, to be placed in the Home, and which will remain as a memento of the tea. Reservations are being made at the office of the Home, and the response has been most gratifying.

The following ladies have subscribed as donors from outlying districts in the state: East Greenwich, Mrs. Joseph Abrams, Miss Dora Abrams, Mrs. John Halsband, Miss Lillian Halsband, Mrs. Herman Fogel, Miss Sadie Fogel, Miss Etta Fogel, Mrs. Israel Waterman, Miss Etta Waterman, Miss Dora Waterman, Mrs. Jacob Kaufman, Mrs. Morris Abrams, Mrs. Joseph Fogel, Mrs. Meyer Abrams, Mrs. Benjamin Solomon, Mrs. Herman Silverman, Mrs. Benjamin Elman, Mrs. Ida Gan, Mrs. Abram Shapiro, Mrs. Ber- man, Mrs. Abraham Spungin, Mrs. Julius Abrams; Newport, Mrs. Max Adelson, Mrs. Joseph Josephson, Mrs. Sarah E. Brown to Meet Undefeated Tiger Team Tomorrow

Princeton's undefeated team in- vades this city Saturday to meet a Brown eleven that has high hopes of staging a comeback after rugged games with Yale and Holy Cross. One important factor that will not be without its relation to this con- test is the word that Brown will probably be nearer full strength than at any time this season.

Elaborate plans are being mapped out by local Brown and Princeton alumni for the entertainment of the visiting Tiger team and followers on the eve of the contest. The Provi- dence Brown Club will hold its an- nual Brown Club fall smoker to- night at Faunce House on the Brown Campus. Dr. Clarence A. Barbour, president of Brown University, will give an address of welcome; H. An- thony Dyer, famous artist and some- time leader of Bruin pep rallies, and known to thousands of Brown men as "Corky," will also attend.

To thwart a rumor in Providence, Boston and New York that the Brown-Princeton game was a sell- out, the Brown Athletic Council an- nounced today that thousands of sideline seats remained for sale to the public, and indications do not point to a sell-out this week.

JUG Club Holds Opening Meeting

A reorganization meeting of the JUG club was held a week ago Tues- day evening at the Jewish Center. The club leader, Miss Harriet Win- nerman installed the following offi- cers:

Miss Stella Simons, president; Miss Ruth Orzeck, vice president; Miss Frances Gorfine, secretary; Miss Phyllis Littman, treasurer; Miss Ruth Love, cultural chairman; Miss Bella Goldstein, social chair- man assisted by Miss Blossom Su- garman and electives to the house council, Miss Simons and Miss Or- zeck.

MODERN
OIL HEAT

Today's mode of living is a modern mode. Every advancement that adds to its enjoyment creates a convenience — new and greater comfort to make living more worthwhile.

Man has harnessed electricity and turned its magic energy into the silent and automatic performance of duties which meant human toil and labor not so long ago. The sputtering kerosene lamp, the base burner, the flickering gas jet and the old-fashioned ice box... all conveniences in their day, but who would tolerate them now or fail to recognize their out-of-dateness with the modern trend of living.

Just as these conveniences of yester-years have outlived their usefulness, so has the time-worn traditional method of home heating given way to modern automatic oil heat... the home heating method that banishes forever the drudgery and dirt connected with "furnace tending" and replaces it with dependable, clean, healthy automatic heat for year in and year out warmth and comfort.

Jewish Folk School, on Columbia street. The various newly elected officers were installed and donations were received from several Jewish organizations.

The meeting was opened by Saul Odess, the incoming secretary, who delivered a short address welcoming the gathering and then introduced the toastmaster, Louis Hornstein, the new president of the school.

The following officers were installed by Abraham Albert of Boston, who represents the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' union: Louis Hornstein, president; Joseph Hurwitz, vice president; Philip Garrick, treasurer; Saul Odess, corresponding and financial secretary and Robert Rosman, recording secretary. Also installed was the Board of Directors of the school, which consists of: Jacob Hurwitz, Abraham Goldberg, Jacob Kravif, Saul Odess, Benjamin Levine, Harry Newman, Robert Rosman and Abraham Sarat.

The various speakers included: Jacob Kravif of the Jewish National Workers' Alliance; Joseph Hurwitz, representative of the Workmen's Circle; Mrs. Abraham Goldberg, of the Women's Club of the Jewish national Workers' Alliance, who congratulated incoming officers and praised the work of the school; Leon Arkin, of Boston, the manager of the New England Jewish Daily Forward, who is a representative of the New England district of the Workmen's Circle; Mrs. Samuel Dropkin, president of the Ladies Literary Circle, who also praised the work of the school; Abraham Sarat and David Remick, members of the Folk School; Abraham Greenberg, representing the New Bedford branch of the Jewish National Worker's Alliance; Max Hurwitz, New Bedford Folk School and William Bakst of Boston.

Sylvia Granoff gave a violin solo. She was accompanied by the piano by Mary Granoff. Abraham Hamlin, of Boston, led the gathering in several songs. Mrs. Celia Dropkin read selections from her own poetry.

In charge of the arrangements were: Mr. and Mrs. Saul Odess, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rosman, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Goldberg and Mrs. Rose Bilsky.

COMMUNITY CENTER ACTIVITIES

With the presentation of the Yiddish version of Shakespeare's "King Lear" this Sunday at the Talmud Torah Institute, the Community Center's year's activities are definitely under way.

The Yiddish adaptation, which was written by Jacob Gordon, will be produced by the New Haven Jewish Dramatic Club. A cast of 22 will enact the four-act drama and the orchestra will be under the direction of Morris Abert. The curtain will rise at 8.

The play concerns the fortunes of a patriarch who leaves his vast fortune to his children and goes to Palestine to spend the remainder of his life, and the tragedy resulting from his unquestioning faith in his children.

The principal parts will be portrayed by: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Cohen, Louis J. Yolen, Mrs. Fanya Pycone, Mrs. Gussie Poll, Miss Sonya Sagmor, Louis Rozen, Morris Oppenheim, Max Brown and Samuel Shamole.

The Jewish Dramatic Club is an organization formed two years ago for the purpose of presenting amateur Jewish theatricals free of charge for Jewish organizations. Its membership includes professional and business men and women, some of whom have achieved prominence. The club's manager is Saul Sagmor.

"Sweetheart, P" is the title of the annual musical show of the "Y" which will be presented at the Academy theatre on the evening of December 5. A cast of 200 will enact the play, which is the latest product of the John B. Rogers company of Ohio, and of which this presentation will be its premier in this part of the country.

The director is expected in town about the middle of November and rehearsals will be held daily thereafter at the Community Center. A call for talent will be issued shortly.

General chairman is Atty. Joseph A. Cohen, Harry Gottlieb and Mrs. Henry J. Forman head the program committee.

The annual Thanksgiving Eve formal dance will be held at the Eagle restaurant on Wednesday evening, November 29. Those in charge plan a midnight frolic which will last until 2 a. m.

General chairmen of the committee are Mrs. Oscar Bloom and Harry Gourse, with the following comprising the committee: Mrs. Samuel Madowesky, Mrs. Israel Mittleman, Mrs. Frank Anapol, Mrs. Leo Meltzer, Mrs. Leo Ostason, Miss Ella Stone, Miss Lena Poll, Miss Aida Epstein, Alex Rabinowitz, Joseph Madowesky, James Kane, Milton Epstein, Cyrus Sherwin, Charles Soforenko and Samuel Liss.

The membership committee is now making a strenuous drive for the payment of delinquent dues and the enrollment of new members. To further their objective a series of four entertainments will be given during the year, admission free to paid up members.

Miss Julia Daine Jacobs, well-known interpreter of Yiddish drama, will give a reading of "Jew Suss," from Feuchtwanger's novel "Power," as the first of the series.

Tuesday night a business meeting of the YWHA was held at the Center, with President Mrs. Samuel Madowesky presiding. Following the meeting a demonstration of Jewish cooking was given by Mrs. Lena Goldstein, assisted by the following: Mrs. Benjamin Rubenstein, Mrs. Ida Kahn, Mrs. Louis Ginsburg, Mrs. Henry J. Forman, Mrs. Benjamin Leavitt, Mrs. May Madowesky and Mrs. Jack Weiner, Jr.

The various clubs affiliated with the "Y" are having their first meetings and formulating their program of their year's activities. Among them are the Sigma Beta Nu, the Y Youngsters, the Seder Moe and the Boy Scouts.

The first appearance of the Center's newspaper will be made shortly. It will be a 6x9 printed folio.

PALESTINE IS THE ANSWER

The time for constructive planning to meet the problem of the Jews in Germany has arrived. The protests and the demonstrations, essential and wise for directing public attention toward the tragedies created by the Nazi regime, must now be complemented by a program of action which shall emphasize more concretely the physical needs of the German Jewish population. The wreckage of the Hitler storm must be salvaged.

Competent objective observers, after first-hand examination of the German situation, are agreed that new quarters must be found for tens of thousands of German Jews. For centuries have the Jewish people been confronted with a task of transmigration so vast in scope and so difficult of accomplishment. In the meantime, many thousands have found temporary refuge in lands adjacent to Germany. Jews everywhere must feel grateful for the generosity and sympathy displayed by the governments of France, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Switzerland and other lands. But the problem has not ended there. Its ultimate solution has merely been delayed.

It is to be regretted that the place of Palestine in the world Jewish scheme was not realized until after its consideration had been made a necessity by the violence of Nazi terrorism in Germany. But now that Palestine has come into the forefront of international Jewish discussion, the energies of the whole people must be harnessed to a comprehensive and far-seeing program that will not be satisfied with filtering through a few thousand Jews, but which will definitely and adequately prepare Palestine for the reception of great numbers of the homeless Jews of Europe.

A program in that direction is now being worked out in London by an International Jewish Agency Commission headed by Dr. Chaim Weizmann. Financial, economic and political problems bound up with this program are being considered by recognized experts. The final plan will be ready for submission to the National Emergency Conference that is to be held in New York City on November 19 under the auspices of the American Palestine Campaign of the Jewish Agency. Leaders of all shades of thought will be present to voice their sympathy with the plight of German Jewry, and to give definite pledges that their energies will be placed at the disposal of an intensive effort to provide the Jewish Agency with adequate means to carry out its purposes.

Constructive and permanent use must be made of funds raised for the relief of German Jews. The part that Palestine must play in meeting the German Jewish problem was emphasized a few days ago in London when the committee charged with the allocation of funds raised in the joint campaign in Great Britain allotted two-thirds of the sums thus far raised to the Palestine cause. The committee is composed not only of Zionists but of non-Zionists, all of whom realized that upon them rested the responsibility of expending the money in those channels where the most permanent good can be accomplished.

What responsible public opinion feels with regard to Palestine today was reflected at the recent meeting of the Assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva in the address of M. Lange, representing Norway. He spoke of the favorable economic situation in Palestine and said that both the Mandatory Power and the Jewish Agency were to be warmly congratulated on the satisfactory state of affairs. He pointed out that "the population is increasing both naturally and thanks to immigration, the number of immigrants for 1933 amounting to 25,000 as against some 9500 in 1932 and 4000 in 1931. These immigrants, bringing with them capital and other resources, are of benefit to Jew and Arab alike." He added that "the successful creation of a national home for the Jewish people is of special significance in view of recent events in Germany. The Jews are numerically the most important of the persons expelled from that country; Palestine, thanks to its present prosperity, provides a solution for their settlement."

The League of Nations in appointing James G. McDonald as High Commissioner for German refugees has shown that it understands the problem and is prepared to take concrete steps for the coordination of settlement plans for German Jews. In the working out of this problem, the Jewish Agency for Palestine will have to take a paramount place, for, under the League of Nations Mandate to Great Britain, it is the supreme Jewish body for facilitating Jewish immigration into Palestine. American Jewry looks forward eagerly to the National Conference of the Jewish Agency on November 19, hoping that its representatives will understand the temper and the spirit of the Jewish people and make plans that will utilize the sympathy and the energy which they are ready to contribute to the settlement of German Jews in Palestine.

Bolitho, The Noble
The B'nai Brith or whoever it is that gives that annual prize to the man who has rendered the greatest service to Jewry should remember Hector Bolitho.

It isn't exactly that Mr. Bolitho has particularly rendered a great service, as it is that he sought to do so, or perhaps not exactly that. What he tried to do was free himself from a prejudice against Jews, and to do that, he went so far as to make a special trip to Palestine.

Now, he didn't succeed. He's still an anti-Semite, he admits, but shall we be so puny as to judge results only? Was it not enough that here was a man so eager to be free from Jew hatred, that he made a special trip to cleanse his soul?

It strikes me as a most noble action. This act of Hector Bolitho moves me as no act since Hector was a pup.

That Salty Taste

Think of it, folks. I can almost visualize the scene. Mr. Bolitho wakes up one morning and notices a salty feeling in his mouth and a stain on his soul.

I hate the Jews, he says to himself. It isn't right he adds that my soul should be stained with so mean a vice. I shall try to rinse it out with turpentine and lemon juice, aye even with Ivory soap. He tries them all. But still that dirty hate remains.

But Hector does not give up. "I shall go to Palestine itself and there perhaps the waters of Jordan will wash out the blot, as the prophets of old washed out the iniquity of Israel."

No, He Says, Duty Calls

Perhaps it was one of those beautiful days, when it is oh to be in England. A much too nice a day to be going to Palestine, when the sun was shining and he could go to the golf links.

But duty is duty. As Wellington said: "England expects every man to do his duty." Shall it be said that Hector Bolitho has failed? Nay, it shall not.

And yet thoughts of golf plague Hector's heart. And there comes Meadows—"Shall I get you tea and then your golf attire?" asks Meadows.

"No," says Bolitho solemnly. "No, Meadows. No. No."

Meadows wonders what has come over Bolitho. He sees a sadness come over Bolitho's face. Never was his master like this, thinks Meadows. Ah, he does not know, that Bolitho is wrestling with his soul. He does not know, that golf and tea and the English countryside are tearing Bolitho's heart strings, but that Bolitho is determined to be adamant to all this—and go to Palestine and cleanse his soul of Jew hatred.

Went to Wrong Place

But my personal opinion is that Bolitho went to the wrong place. Instead of going to Palestine to relieve himself of hatred of the Jews, he should have gone to some place recommended by physicians for reducing a swelled head. For what can be more arrogant—what more superlative egotism can there be—that reaches indeed to the boundaries of idiocy—that he should think that his opinion of the Jews or of any other people is of such general consequence, that he must make a trip to free himself from it and then write a book about it.

I wonder what Bolitho would think if I were so presumptuous as to go to England for the same purpose, and then write a book of the same purport as he has.

He would laugh at me. So I laugh at him. In a year, when there is so little humor, he is indeed refreshing.

That Terrible Vigor

Mr. Bolitho simply cannot stand, he confesses, the vigor of Zionist agitation.

If you leave out the word 'Zionist' and substitute American, the same thing was said by the fore-fathers of Mr. Bolitho, when the American colonists protested circa 1776.

Indeed, I would not have to trouble myself very much to quote even stronger terms.

Perhaps, Mr. Bolitho, this Jewish vigor is required to offset the vigor of John Bull's bull headedness.

Perhaps, this vigor of agitation, might not be present, if England had faithfully kept the promise it made during the war, when it needed the Jews, as to the rebuilding of the Jewish Homeland.

His Other Hates

Mr. Bolitho does not like other things. Tel Aviv, he declares, is an aesthetic blunder. Perhaps. But perhaps it is no worse than Whitechapel and other sections where the poor of England dwell. And it seems to me, that even with his ineradicable hate, he might admit that under present circumstances, it is better than the more beautiful hell of Udden den Linden.

And perhaps if Mr. Bolitho's fair England had given the state lands of Palestine, it promised in the days of its distress to the Jews, or if it did continue to hamper Palestine progress as it did only several months since, by refusing the purchase of land in Trans-Jordan, the settlements of the Jews would be more spacious and more beautiful.

Shaw and Schwartz Agree

Some time ago, this column expressed a certain scepticism anent the glee with which some of our American liberals hailed Hitler's sterilization project.

We pointed out that this business of sterilization of the unfit was a decidedly risky affair, and we instanced among others the case of Bernard Shaw. We pointed out that Shaw's father was an alcoholic inebriate, and if the unfit had been

Fraternity Talk Given at Meeting of Zeta Epsilon Pi

Edward Goldberg member and vice chancellor of the former Sigma Pi Fellowship gave a speech on "Fraternalism" before the Zeta Epsilon Pi fraternity at the weekly meeting held Sunday in the home of A. Sherman. Not only did the pledges have the privilege of listening to the talk but they were allowed to take part in the discussion which followed.

Joseph Golditch, William Klitzner, Al Gordon and Joseph Berger new pledges entertained during the social hour.

A committee has been appointed to secure a fraternity house in the vicinity of the downtown section.

A new social committee consisting of Leo Swartz and Bob Hardwick gave plans for a social event which will be held in the near future.

A drawing in charge of Bob Hardwick will be held on December 3.

sterilized, George Bernard Shaw, and numerous others of the world's greatest, would not have been produced.

Now comes George Bernard Shaw and disposes to the same effect. Commenting on a sermon by the Bishop of Birmingham, advocating sterilization of the unfit, Shaw said:

"I should not be here, if sterilization of the unfit had been carried out. People should be allowed to live after they prove themselves unfit."

That German Celebration

The spirit behind Mayor O'Brien's refusal to permit the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the settlement of Germans in America is admirable. If there is any chance that it will be made into a Nazi festival, it should be stopped.

Yet, if I were mayor, I think I would do it differently. I think I would merely insist that the celebration should be complete. That is, to say, for instance, among the other floats commemorating German activities in America, I would insist on a float showing the German mercenaries who were hired by the English to fight American independence. And I would also show the King of England at the time, who was German raised.

And perhaps there might be a float also showing the American dead as a result of the last war against Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Schwartz of Prospect Street announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Rose A. Schwartz, to Robert Berlin-sky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Berlin-sky of Gallatin Street.

More than 50 guests attended a surprise linen shower given by Miss Lillian Abrams of Public street, a week ago Sunday at her home in honor of Mrs. Louis Kahn, the former Miss Nettie Richmond, of this city. The rooms were decorated in brown and orange chrysanthemums. Bridge was played and prizes were won by Mrs. Mollie Pressel, Mrs. Rubin Reuter, Mrs. D. Sandler, Mrs. Esther Sorgan, Mrs. Dora Elman, Mrs. Herbert Reuter, Mrs. Mollie Levy, Misses Honey Goldstein, Frances Herzog and Gertrude Goodman.

The hostess was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. Joseph Abrams, Mrs. B. A. Villany, Miss Louise Jacobs and Miss Sally Jacobs. Guests were present from Boston, Fall River, Attleboro, Westley and New York.

Mrs. Kahn is living at 59 East 96th street, New York.

GOLDSTEIN-PRESSER

Miss Sadye Presser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Presser of Jenckes street was married to Adrian Goldstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Goldstein of Adelaide avenue, at an attractive wedding ceremony a week ago Sunday noon. Rabbi Morris Schussheim officiated.

The bride was attired in Chinese blue velvet with a matching turban and nose veil. She carried a white ivory prayer book with streamers of white sweet peas. The maid of honor, Miss Sylvia Presser, sister of the bride, wore a Chinese red taffeta gown with matching turban and also carried a prayer book with streamers of red roses. The best man was Simon S. Greenberg.

Mrs. Presser, mother of the bride, was gowned in black velvet and the mother of the bridegroom wore black crepe. They both wore shoulder cor-sages of gardenias.

More than one hundred guests from New York, Connecticut, Mass-achusetts and this state attended the reception which followed the ceremony at Zinn's Restaurant.

Mr. and Mrs. Goldstein left on a wedding trip to New York, after which they will make their home at 73 Cedar avenue, Riverside.

KLAYMAN-KNIZNIK

Mr. and Mrs. David Kniznick of 36 Vassar avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Estelle Kniznik, to Max Klayman, son of Samuel Klayman of Haverhill, Mass. The ceremony was performed Tues-day evening, October 24 at 16 Glen road, by Rabbi Israel M. Goldman.

GALKIN-TANENBAUM

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Tanenbaum of Bogman street announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Gladys Edith Tanenbaum to Morris Galkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Galkin of Woonsocket on Sunday afternoon, October 22. The wedding took place at Temple Beth Israel with Rabbi Morris Schussheim officiating. Miss Bessie Blumenthal was maid of honor and Morris Morgan of Pawtucket was the best man.

Upon their return from a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Galkin will make their home in Pawtucket.

FISHMAN-SAMUELS

Miss Hannah Pearl Samuels, daughter of Joseph E. Samuels of 203 Alabama avenue, became the bride of Nathan Fishman, son of Mrs. Sarah Fishman of Salisbury street, Tuesday noon, October 24 at Temple Emanu-El. Rabbi Israel M. Goldman officiated.

The couple left on a wedding trip and will reside at 40 Harriet street when they return.

TANENBAUM-CONIS

Miss Charlotte Conis, daughter of Nathan Conis, 94 Eaton street, was united in marriage with Joseph Tanenbaum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Tanenbaum of New York City on Sunday afternoon, October 22 at Temple Emanu-El with Rabbi Gold-man officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Tanenbaum will make their home in New York City following a wedding trip.

YOUNG JUDAEA

Under the sponsorship of Dr. Abraham I. Schechter, Rabbi of Sons of Jacob Synagogue, a new Young Judaea Club Zophin was organized to meet at 49 Orange street. Martin Cohen was unanimously chosen as leader, and the following slate of officers was elected: Pres. Israel Zuckroff, vice pres., Jos. Silberman; secretary, Sydney Cohen and treasurer, Joseph Markowitz. Commit-

Martin Cohen and Abraham Marks were selected as delegates to the New England Regional Convention at Boston.

RECHTER BAR MITZVAH

Harold Rechter, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rechter of 25 Burnside street, was Bar-Mitzvah at impressive services last Saturday morning in the South Providence Congregation.

The youth gave an interesting address in Hebrew and English with Hebrew readings from the Bible. Other speakers: Barney Schneider, the boy's instructor, Rabbi Joshua Werner, spiritual leader of the Congregation and Benjamin Stone, pres-ident. A reception followed in the vestry.

Rabbi and Mrs. Abraham I. Schechter will be at home to their friends every Wednesday evening, at their residence, 58 Eaton Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Siegel of Ex-eter Street announce the birth of a daughter, Sara Libby Siegel on Oc-tober 3.

The following members of the Phi Gamma Sigma Sorority were initiated at a meeting held Monday evening in the home of Miss Minnie Mack, Elmwood Avenue: Miss Ruth Schechter, Miss Pearl Avrutsky and Miss Ann Goldstein.

The drawing which is held weekly was won by Miss Avrutsky.

The guests of the hostess were Miss Kay Mushlin, Miss Tillie Mark-owitz, Miss Lillian Feinstein, Miss Sadye Ruby, Miss Evelyn Perry and Miss Eva Pullman. The Misses Fein-stein and Markowitz entertained with songs at the social hour which followed the meeting. The refresh-ments were carried out in holiday fashion.

A capacity audience greeted Leo Glantz of New York, assistant editor of the "Kempfer," Jewish week-ly, at the mass meeting last Sunday evening held in the Jewish Com-munity Center under the auspices of the Women Pioneers Club.

Mr. Glantz's address centered about the 18th World Zionist Congress which took place in Geneva. Having been a delegate, he made clear to his audience every problem presented at the Congress, point by point. He is active in Paole Zion circles and is very well known as an orator and keen observer. At the conclusion of his talk, Mr. Glantz answered ques-tions at an open forum.

Several vocal selections by a local radio artist were given before the close of the evening.

It is obviously impossible for the Jewish citizen to answer this in the affirmative because by so doing he would voice approval of the government policies towards the Jews which have reduced the Jews to a second-class citizenship or worse.

And So The Days Pass

By JACK SILVERMAN

(That very interesting gentleman, Mr. Silverman—gets funny spells every now and then . . . This week he is not in the mood for anything but poetry! . . . "Jack, my good lad," we pleaded with him, "Your readers want names, gossip, jokes—yes, even a little refined dirt or scandal would be welcome" . . . Could Mr. Silverman be moved from his avowed intention of devoting this entire space to a long (but nevertheless original and interesting) poem? . . . Can you move a mountain? . . . He insists that he is a full-fledged poet! . . . "Am I not poor? . . . Don't I need a haircut?" . . . Oh, well . . . we shall let it go . . . We know you'll like this . . . Editor's note.)

A DREAM AND ITS MEANING

Caliph Abdula slept, when lo, there came
A dream to him, which, when the dawn was near,
Fled not, but stood clear-pictured in his eye.
The manner of his dream was this: he sat
'Neath a tall tree of spreading foliage,
Screened from the sun's overwhelming ray,
When, of a sudden, across the desert broke
A wild typhoon that crashed upon the tree
And reft of its branches, that they lay
Shivered, and of its erstwhile leafy pride
Bared, left but the garbled unlovely bole.
So, when he woke, he marvelled at the dream,
And bade them call his soothsayer to him,
To ravel out the portent of the dream.

"Sir," quoth the Sage, "Allah (his name be blessed)
Hath sent this dream to tell thee of his will—
Know, then, that even as the tempest bared
The tree of all its branches, so grim death
Shall strip the branches of thy august line!"
Wroth was the Caliph, and the mandate went
To seize the sage, lay on a hundred stripes,
And then, to fling him in a dungeon vile,
Where he should hide until the end was come.

Then came another Sage, and he was bid
To ravel out the portent of the dream,
And he, for that he was full worldly wise,
In honeyed words bespoke the Caliph thus:
"Thou, my good lord, thou art the mighty tree;
And therefore Allah (may his name be blessed)
Hath sent this dream-born vision, that thereby
He may acquaint thee of his wealth of love.—
Know that his will is, that thy stem shall live
Forever and forever, when grim death
Has stripped the branches of thy august line!"
Glad was the Caliph, and the mandate went,
To dower the Sage with raiment and with gold
And to proclaim it in the market place
That he of all the sages should be chief.

Thus it befell that, though the Sages twain
Put ONE interpretation on the dream,
The one got fame, the other but the lash.
So, brother, if thou canst but read aright:
'Tis not thy words but HOW thou speakest them
That leads thee to the pleasant things of life.

And so the days pass . . .

JEWISH SPORT NOTES By GEORGE JOEL

Mysterious Disappearance of Goldstein's Opponent Solved
Some weeks ago Ruby Goldstein, dimmed idol of the east side was supposed to fight Frankie Petrolle. The night of the fight drew around and Ruby was in his dressing room waiting to be called to the scene of action but Petrolle failed to appear in the Broadway Arena where the fight was to be held. He had disappeared. The answer to this vanishing act has now been made public.

It seems that Petrolle's manager, a gentleman named Jimmie Betts had arranged with sundry people that Goldstein was to win the fight. He instructed Petrolle to lose the fight or as the boy says "take a dive." Frankie had been losing fights with monotonous regularity and it was thought that one more loss would pass unnoticed and incidentally help Goldstein make his ninth or tenth comeback a trifle more effective. Petrolle, however threw the well used monkey wrench into the proceedings by going honest. He refused to throw the fight, averred that he would try his hardest and would not accept the bribe of $150. He finally compromised by failing to show up for the bout.

All this came out when the N. Y. Boxing Commission called Petrolle, his manager, Goldstein and his manager before them to explain what it was all about. No doubt vigorous action will be taken, there will be wholesale suspensions and within a few months the whole thing will be forgotten. It does, however, give you an idea of how the great game of sock is being run.

Rosenbloom to Defend Title
Maxie Rosenbloom is at last ready to defend his title in New York state. Next week he will wear his crown when he steps into the ring at Madison Square Garden to meet Mickey Walker, a 32 year old ring veteran who has held two titles himself. If he is able to knock Maxie's crown away he will have done a stunt that hasn't been performed in this generation. Walker started as a welter-weight champ, grew large enough to fit the middleweight throne and has had a few cracks at the heavyweight title.

New Jewish Racing Idol Arising
Horse racing patrons have a new jockey idol. The latest apprentice rider to become a favorite with the regular is Joey Rosen, son of the former flat and steeplechase jockey, Frenchy Rosen.

The "Jewish Sande," as he is called by the crowd that gathers around the judges' stand after a race, first came into prominence last week when he scored a victory on Godfrey Preece's Energetic Boy.

The youngster put up a masterful ride to win, taking the measure of Eddie Yowell, on Dornoch. What made the victory all the sweeter for Rosen was the fact that Energetic Boy was the medium of a big killing that day, being backed down from 40 to 1 to 10 to 1.

Since that day Rosen has ridden six winners, including a double with R. Greene's Black Patricia and Earl C. Gray Thermopylae. The latter was a 30-50-1 shot and got up in the last stride under a powerful finish by the young rider.

Rosen is a hard worker. He scales a little over 90 pounds, has a strong pair of hands and appears to be a good judge of pace.

Pet Superstitions of Some of Our More Famous Sportsmen
Jackie Berg's talisman can't be carried. It is a newsway known as Nochem, whom Jackie insists must be in the arena when he fights.

Andy Cohen always steps in front of the catcher and umpire when he goes to bat, instead of walking around them as other players do. Sounds impolite to me.

Al Schacht, comedian and Washington coach goes through the ritual of waving his hands over an opposing player's head. It is supposed to put an effective Litvak curse on said players. Evidently something went wrong when Washington played the Giants a few weeks ago.

Head of Jewish Federation of Social Service Appeals to Jewry for Community Fund Campaign

Max L. Grant, president of the Jewish Federation for Social Service, and chairman of the Jewish participation in the Providence Community Fund Campaign, made the following statement on the eve of the drive for funds commencing Monday, November 13:

"A challenge is presented to the Jewish Community of Providence during the next two weeks. Upon our answer to that challenge depends the standing of every Jew in Providence in the eyes of his fellow-citizens and neighbors.

"Five Jewish social agencies join with 32 others in seeking funds with which to operate during 1934. They are the Jewish Orphanage of Rhode Island, the Jewish Community Center, the Jewish Family Welfare Society, the North End Dispensary and the Miriam Hospital. We have reason to be proud of them and of the efficient, helpful, useful and absolutely essential work which they do.

"Two thousand Jews out of 25,000 attempt to pay the bill for their support by contributions to the Providence Community Fund. At least 1500 other Jews in the community buy their charity for nothing, with the result that our non-Jewish friends and neighbors have to pay thousands of dollars each year for our charities.

"If a Jewish need arises across the water, we organize campaigns to raise funds immediately, enthusiastically and generously to succor our foreign brethren. We overlook an equally important need right in our own community. If we continue to fail in our duty to our own here in Providence, not only may our charities have to neglect their own important work for lack of funds, but every Jewish business man, professional man, employer, employee, housewife and school child may lose prestige and standing in this community at a time when the respect and good will of our fellow-citizens is of the utmost importance."

WOMEN PLAN PEACE MEETING NOVEMBER 12 IN SAYLES HALL

Plans for the annual Armistice Day observance, to be held this year in Sayles Hall, Brown University, Nov. 12 at 3 p. m., were being pushed today, with Jewish women taking a prominent part. The exercises, at which President William Neilson of Smith College will be the principal speaker, are sponsored by the Rhode Island Cause and Cure of War committee. Miss Alice Hunt is chairman.

At the home of Mrs. Henry Whitmarsh, 102 Prospect Street, plans were made recently for "commemorative exercises designed to express gratitude for peace and a desire for the continuance of friendly relations with all other peoples" as embodied in President Roosevelt's Armistice Day proclamation. "The World Crisis" is to be the subject under discussion at the November 12 meeting.

Community Fund during the next two weeks.

The five major Jewish social agencies in Providence all participate in the distribution of funds thus raised, with budgets allotted for 1934 totaling $77,779 divided as follows:

Federation for Social Service	$200.00
Community Center	13,155.60
Family Welfare Soc.	12,410.50
Orphanage of R. I.	18,327.40
Miriam Hospital	31,236.00
North End Dispensary	2,449.50

It is pointed out that the amounts allocated represent the absolute minimum needs of these agencies for the year, without in some cases taking into consideration rising prices of food, fuel, household supplies and other things. Every single economy was taken advantage of in making up the budgets. But in spite of the reduction of these budgets to an apparently irrefutable minimum, they will have to be cut further and very substantially if the Community Fund Campaign does not reach its goal.

Service Losses Feared

The orphanage will have to deprive the children of certain definite essentials in their care and upbringing, the Miriam Hospital and the North End Dispensary will have to turn away patients and perhaps abandon certain valuable departments, the Family Welfare Society will have to turn away families from its doors, and the Community Center may have to give up certain of its valuable cultural and educational activities, it was declared.
