Hitler Butchery Fails To End Crisis In Germany

Palestine's Gain Now Threatened By Labor Dearth

Board of Jewish Deputies Cites Grave Need for More Workers

Decries Immigration Ban

LONDON, July 5 (JTA) — The entire structure of Jewish colonization in Palestine is endangered by the grave deficiency of workers, a delegation from the Board of Jewish Deputies told the Colonial Ministry.

Reception of the delegation in the House of Commons by Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, Secretary of State for Colonies, accompanied by his Parliamentary private secretary, Capt. T. H. Dugdale, and by several other permanent officials of the Colonial Ministry, was announced by the London Colonial Office.

Offer Resolution

Isadore Salmon introduced the Jewish group, whose other members were Neville Laski, Israel Feldman and David Goldsmid.

They presented a resolution passed by their board on June 10, in which regret is expressed over the Palestine government's decision on the last immigration schedule.

The resolution calls attention to the ever-increasing shortage of labor, which it claims already has made apparent the schedule's inadequacy. This shortage is giving rise to deep anxiety, it declares.

Hits Entry Policy

The resolution points out further that the immigration policy of the Palestine government is felt to be in accord with the needs of neither the Holy Land itself nor of the great masses of Jewish people.

It calls particular attention to those Jews who are suffering the effects of discrimination and persecution in Germany, declaring that it is of the most vital importance that the doors of Palestine be opened to the widest possible extent for persons such as these.

The board asks that the government adopt the principle of permitting immigration into Palestine to the fullest extent to which the country is capable of absorbing fresh entrants.

The deputation informed the Ministry that it is the feeling of Palestinian and world Jewry that current labor schedules are inadequate for the absorptive capacity of the country, which is therefore unable to exploit the economic possibilities of its natural resources.

Sightless Brockton Youth Wins Highest Conservatory Honors

BROCKTON, July 5 (JTA) — Sightless since infancy and further handicapped by infantile paralysis, Manuel Rubin of this city overcame these seemingly unsurmountable disabilities to win highest honors in the graduating class of 70 at the New England Conservatory of Music.

He has made several radio and concert appearances and has composed works for the piano, a course which he mastered at the conservatory, and for string quartettes.

He entered the Perkins Institute for the Blind previous to his conservatory course and during his last three years at the institute acted as instructor in subjects requiring the use of Braille.

Paper Complains Pope's Intercession Saved Austrian Jews

BERLIN (JTA) — But for intercession of the Pope, the Austrian constitution today would embody anti-Jewish clauses, the Fraenkische Tageszeitung complained last week.

The paper, stating that the head of the Catholic Church had written Chancellor Dollfuss of Austria that the papal bull, the Quadragesimo Anno, on which the Austrian constitution is based, does not permit the oppression of religious minorities, considering the Jews a religious minority and not being aware that they are "a bastard race having their own laws of blood and their religion is an expression of their racial inferiority and have nothing in common with the religious conceptions of Christians."

tail by the deputation, after which a discussion ensued," the Colonial Office's statement said. "The deputation emphasized the fact that there are a number of specially trained youths awaiting permission to enter Palestine."

He was very glad to have the opportunity, said Cunliffe-Lister, for a full practical discussion of "the policy and principles which are not under dispute."

"The rate of immigration must be governed by the economic absorptive capacity of the country," he declared. "Executive decisions in accordance with policy must rest, as hitherto with the man on the spot—the High Commissioner. I plan to send him a full account of this discussion."

Polish Jews Hail Warsaw Mayor As Interior Head

WARSAW, July 5 (JTA) — The nomination of Marjan Zindram Kosciolkowski, mayor of Warsaw, as minister of the Interior, was hailed with great satisfaction by Polish Jewry. The minister-to-be, was formerly mayor of Bialystok, which has a large Jewish population.

He has consistently suppressed Nara attacks on Jews. As mayor of Warsaw he issued an appeal to the population asking them not to be misled by Nara propaganda.

He is regarded as a staunch supporter of Marshal Pilsudski.

The new Minister of the Interior is married to a Jewish woman, the former Regina Wollach of Bialystok, the daughter of a Jewish druggist. When his father-in-law died in 1931, and was to be buried in the Warsaw cemetery, Kosciolkowski, then district governor of Bialystok, attended the funeral services, asking his Jewish friends how to comport himself in consonance with the Jewish ritual.

During his term of office Kosciolkowski acquired general and Jewish esteem for his judicial, non-partisan attitude toward the entire population. He dealt in a friendly manner with Jewish affairs. There were no anti-Jewish excesses during his term of office in Bialystok.

Polish Jews are hopeful that his administration of the ministry of the interior will result in the return of order to Poland and the suppression of the anti-Jewish attacks of recent months.

Kosciolkowski, who belongs to the liberal section of Marshal Pilsudski's government party, is known as a man of firm principles.

Hull's Debt Note Hits Anti-Jewish Policy of Nazis

Blames World Opposition to Hitler Program for Reich Distress

Hints at Boycott Effect

WASHINGTON, July 5 (JTA) — Policies put into effect by the Nazi regime in Germany are responsible for the present financial plight of the Reich, the United States told the German government in the first public statement the American government has yet made touching on the discrimination against Jews and other elements of the German population.

In a bluntly-phrased note delivered to Rudolf Lejter, charge d'affaires in the absence of Ambassador Luther, Secretary of State Cordell Hull protested against the German policy of discriminating against American investors in the suspension of payment on Germany's external debts.

Cites World Boycott

Without direct reference to the anti-Semitism of the Nazi regime and the resultant world-wide boycott of German goods, Secretary Hull declared:

"The German government is no doubt aware that its policies have created opposition in many parts of the world, which has expressed itself in various trade conflicts and the probable reduction of Germany's capacity to transfer."

Denying arguments put forth by Germany as to the reasons why a moratorium on debt payments was necessary, Secretary Hull's note pointed out that the German government was itself largely responsible for the predicament in which it now finds itself because of the policies enforced by the Hitler regime.

Over Billion Held Here

American investors hold about 40 percent of Germany's obligations, approximately a billion and a half dollars, representing, not reparations of any kind, but funds advanced for Germany's recovery program after the war. They have, therefore, the note declared, a "reasonable expectation" of getting their money back.

Plaque Dedicated by Jewish War Vets to Unknown Soldier

WASHINGTON, July 5 (JTA) — The Jewish War Veterans of the United States yesterday dedicated a memorial plaque to the Unknown Soldier at Arlington Cemetery.

United States Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland was the principal speaker at the ceremonies. Others prominent in governmental and veterans' affairs took part in the program.

Other speakers included Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, and Captain Watson B. Miller, chairman of the national rehabilitation committee, American Legion. Proceedings were broadcast over the Columbia Broadcasting System network.

Woolworth Stand on German Boycott Remains a Puzzle

NEW YORK (JTA) — Byron D. Miller, president of F. W. Woolworth Co., sailed Sunday aboard the Bremen, North German Lloyd liner, for Europe. He left without clearing up two questions on the status of the Woolworth concern regarding the Hitler government.

When accosted by the Jewish Telegraphic Agency reporter shortly before sailing time, Miller was profuse in thanking this newspaper for its courtesy, but remained adamant in refusing to answer questions.

"Is it not true, Mr. Miller," he was asked, "that the F. W. Woolworth Company recently announced that it was buying no more goods from Nazi Germany?"

"Thank you for your courtesy," responded the head of the concern, "I am answering no questions."

"Is it not true that your branch stores in Germany have widely advertised themselves as being owned and operated by Christians, and is it not equally true that a fair percentage of your stockholders in this country is Jewish?" he was queried.

"Thank you for your courtesy," he replied.

Nor would Miller state whether the trip, which includes Mrs. Miller and their son, Byron S., was for business or vacation reasons.

The F. W. Woolworth Company in Germany is one of the most thriving of the larger department store chains. It frequently has been attacked as being the property

Urge Boycott Be Pushed Despite Changes In Reich

NEW YORK, July 5 (JTA) — Intensification and not abandonment of the boycott on German-made goods was called for by 200 representatives of leading Jewish fraternal, religious, communal and labor organizations, at the Central Jewish Institute. A resolution was adopted, calling on the American public not to be misled when another government comes into power in Germany and not to let up in boycott work until complete freedom and equality are restored to all Germans.

Drafted in the light of recent changes in German government, the resolution was offered following the address of Dr. Joseph Tenenbaum, chairman of the boycott committee of the American Jewish Congress, under whose auspices the conference was held.

The tenor of both the resolution

Hindenburg Seen As Last Hope of Desperate People

Wholesale Murders Turn Millions All Over Reich Against Chancellor

Von Papen Stays Defiant

Hitler's bloody massacres of the past week, it became plain tonight, have failed to end the crisis in Germany, serving instead to "turn the stomachs" even of millions who heretofore had gone along with him in the hope that he might lead them somehow out of their desperate straits.

As a result, the German people are in a more rebellious mood than ever, apparently convinced that the Chancellor is not the "great Fuhrer" they hoped he would be. Although he proclaimed the end of the reign of terror earlier this week, the German on the street is still afraid to talk where he might be overheard. The overwhelming majority, however, look now to President von Hindenburg to take direct action.

Results of Butchery

The net results of Hitler's latest butchery are:

1. Killing of 200 or more leading Nazis and conservatives as well as prominent Catholic leaders, (nobody believes the government figure of less than 60) either by shooting or making them take their own lives.

2. Continued failure to obtain confidence of other nations so necessary to economic improvement.

3. A stage of siege all over the Reich, with the populace fearful and rebellious.

4. Almost complete economic standstill, with 1,500,000 Storm Troopers slated to return to private life and employment, making the unemployment situation even more acute.

5. More than ever determined opposition to the Government, which is Hitler, on the part of the conservatives, big business, the Nazis themselves, the Reichswehr (regular army), Communists and foreign interests.

Von Papen Defiant

Meanwhile, although his political head was expected to be decapitated, Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen clung to his office, refusing to resign, and this fact alone caused a dangerous deadlock because Hitler fears to do away with him as he has done with other leaders. Evidently anticipating that murder might be von Papen's lot, President von Hindenburg himself warned Hitler that he must not harm the vice chancellor.

and Dr. Tenenbaum's speech was that a mere change in rulers instead of in the Nazi system should not lead to the calling off of boycott. Among conditions set down for discontinuing the boycott was the abolition of the "Aryan clause," restoration of all rights to Jews and compensation to them for losses and suffering, freedom of conscience and religious belief to all, freedom of labor from oppression, property restoration to unions, and abolition of spying and persecution for political reasons.

Those present constituted themselves a vigilantes committee for the intensification of the boycott. Trade sections were set up to supervise work in various trades. A special committee was named to deal with importers still doing business in Nazi Germany.

Special Appeal to Those Who Have Not Yet Contributed to the United Appeal Fellow Jews!

Hitlerism has issued a challenge to every Jew in the world. It is annihilating German Jewry, and is now knocking at our own doors.

Eighty thousand of our German brethren have been exiled from their homes, and the rest are being slowly ground to destruction by Nazism.

In order to help them to even a pitiful existence; in order to help the thousands who are flocking to Palestine to establish themselves there permanently; and in order to fight Nazism in this country, it is absolutely necessary to raise a minimum of three millions of dollars, of which the Providence quota is ten thousand.

We appeal to every Jew and Jewess who was not approached for a contribution to this worthy cause because of lack of workers in our campaign, to send his contribution, whatever it may be, to headquarters, 219 Paramount Bldg. It does not matter what divides Jewish opinion in time of tranquility, but when the roof of the Jewish house is crashing about our ears there is no room, no time for ideological discussion. We must join hands in a strong effort to avert a calamity which, if not checked, may be a disaster not only for those directly involved, but all Jews, everywhere.

Our enemies as well as our friends are watching us. Self-respect will not permit us to let this Hitlerite challenge go unaccepted.

We hope you will perform your duty at this tragic hour in the life of our people.

Checks may be made payable to United Jewish Appeal and mailed to 219 Paramount Building.

PLAYGROUND TO OPEN

The Playground season opens Monday, July 9, and will welcome hundreds of children to the attractive grounds in the rear of the Center. Various apparatus is now being installed and the grounds are being prepared for intensive use. The Playground will be open five days a week and the milk station will be open daily at 2:45. Samuel Rosen, A. V. Flink and J. E. Edelstein have made contributions.

TWENTY-FIVE HAPPY BOYS

A group of 25 happy boys will be leaving the Center Sunday morning for Camp Avoda, Middleboro, Mass. The boys will be transported in special trucks and automobiles. The pleasant two weeks' vacation is made possible through the efforts of the energetic Women's Committee of the Jewish Community Center of which Mrs. Louis I. Kramer is president and Mrs. Isaac Woolf is chairman of the Camp Committee. These 25 boys were chosen on the basis of need for building-up physically and for character-building as well. They are Morris Sattlof, Morris Couffman, Nathan Saranson, Melvin Sandler, Isador Nachbar, David Katt, Jack Jacobson, Harry Gordon, Harvey Golden, Israel Fish, Robert Crovitz, Joseph Cleinman, Martin Chorney, Charles Scheetman, Leon Siedel, Philip Weiner, Harvey Wexler, Albert Wexler, Louis Yosinoff, Victor Yanku, Ernest Chorney, Mortimer Simons, Sylvan Simons, Max Simkofsky and Harold Golden.

RAISES $200 FOR GIRLS' CAMP

Through the enthusiastic and energetic efforts of Alfred L. Morse, almost $200 was raised to help establish the girls' Camp Naomi at Billerica, Mass. This Camp is a joint enterprise of all the Jewish Centers and Y's of New England. Girls 7 to 17 are accepted at a very moderate rate. For further information apply to the Center.

The following have contributed to the Camp Fund: A. V. Flink, Charles Brown, Charles Silverman, Charles C. Brown, Henry Hassenfeld, J. E. Edelstein, Milton C. Sapinsley, Samuel Rosen, Saul Abrams, Benjamin, N. Kane, Mrs. A. A. Albert, Ira Marcus in memory of Samuel Priest, Joseph Finkelstein, Walter I. German-Jewish Doctors Now Practice in China

NEW YORK (JTA)—Carl Hirsch, star reporter, for the North China Daily News of Shanghai, who arrived in New York recently, reported yesterday that approximately 100 German Jewish doctors have set up offices in Shanghai.

Hirsch, who is recognized as holding one of the most interesting jobs in newspaperdom as police reporter for the largest English language daily in the Far East, told the Jewish Telegraphic Agency that German refugees have prospered since their arrival in China. He said that during the short time they have lived in the city they have come to be regarded as "Hitler's gift to the Far East" by virtue of the medical skill they have contributed to a territory which has long suffered from inadequate attention.

"German Jewish doctors," said the newspaperman, "have already established themselves as being among the most expert surgeons and general practitioners of Shanghai. None of them seems to be suffering from lack of patronage, while most of them have already established themselves as commanding figures in the city's public health service."

Canadian Editor Traces Causes of Strike in Hospital

MONTREAL (JTA)—"It is sad to admit: Nevertheless, we must say that the only interne in the Notre Dame, Hotel Dieu, St. Justine, Misericorde and St. Jean de Dieu Hospitals who acted not only as a Christian but also as a civilized being was Dr. Sam Rabinovitch," is the conclusion drawn by Oliver Asselin, editor of the French Canadian newspaper L'Ordre, in two articles he has written on the anti-Semitic affair culminating in the internes' strike. The writer boldly exposes the clique responsible for unsavory reflections on the French Canadian element of the population.

The articles concerned were written after a thorough investigation of the incident and after Asselin had received a delegation of the striking internes, who tried to convince him that they were championing the interests of the French Canadians. His inference is that the strike was a plain act of racial hatred strongly influenced by the Jesuits.

Among those who bombarded the authorities of the Notre Dame Hospital, asking them to dispense with the services of Dr. Rabinovitch, relates Asselin, are to be found the Order of the Native Sons of Canada, of which the anti-Semitic mayoralty candidate, Salluste Lavery, is a leading spirit.

The Association of Catholic Travelers, an organization which has been in the forefront of all anti-Semitic manifestations, likewise several sections of the St. Jean Baptiste Society; the Chevaliers de Cavillon; the Maple Leaf Association, and others. Asselin accuses certain elements of exploiting the young internes to further their own nefarious interests.

Asselin brings out some facts worth noting. One point, more or less known, is that the late Sir Mortimer B. Davis had bequeathed $100,000 to the Notre Dame Hospital. The same hospital receives an annual subsidy of $25,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation, of which Dr. Flexner is president. The well-known Jewish communal worker, Lyon Co-

THE "SECOND REVOLUTION"

Somebody — probably one of the press correspondents for a leading service or newspaper — will come back from Germany pretty soon, safe from Hitler's censorship and threats, and will tell the true story of what is going on these days in the Reich. That's about the only way the situation will be accurately portrayed and until then the "second revolution" will remain an unexplicable mystery.

From the jumbled mess of reports coming out of that blood-smearred country—all speak of Hitler's having strengthened his position in phrases so identical that they are not only illogical but boring — a few important facts can be gathered. First, Hitler has realized finally, and his eyes probably were opened by Mussolini in Venice two weeks ago, that he can never hope to restore world confidence in Germany until he forsakes his own radical Nazis. Ruthlessly, he has done so, even to personally directing the execution of men who raised him to power. Der Fuehrer's superlative vanity in sacrificing comrades to save himself is rivalled only by the treacherous and bloody manner that he did away with them.

Second, he has apparently chosen a "middle path," with some leaning toward the conservative. In doing so he has turned upon himself the enmity of the radical Nazis, his erstwhile supporters, and at the same time he has strengthened against himself the monarchist opposition. Both factions will have to be dealt with further before Hitler is safe. The Communists, too, surprisingly quiet since elimination of their party by Hitler edict, cannot be ignored, although there is little sympathy for them. However, the very fact that they are so quiet — and they numbered millions at the polls the last time they were allowed to vote — bodes no good for the Hitler regime.

Perhaps the most puzzling angle of the whole situation is President von Hindenburg's position. If news despatches are correct, the venerable President, ill and confined to his estate, wired his blessings to Hitler and at the same time made the Reichswehr (German Army) responsible for the safety of Col. Franz von Papen, still vice chancellor at this writing although under virtual arrest by Hitler's command. These two acts appear to be directly contradictory when gauged from the viewpoint of trying to ascertain von Hindenburg's attitude. One suspects that the aged former field marshal's heart was not in his telegram to Der Fuehrer, for von Hindenburg had been among the first to congratulate von Papen upon his outspoken attack on Hitler, generally credited with being the spark that set off the uprising. It is also common news that the President has made the vice chancellor his political heir.

Evidently taking his cue from Mussolini, Hitler has decided to turn his face from the cruel extremities which brought down upon him the wrath of world opinion, hoping thus to revive confidence in Germany under him. But he doesn't fool anybody because there can never be harmonious relations with the Reich so long as he rules. His own record has indicted him beyond any amends he may appear to be making.

It is expected also that Hitler soon will again try to make his peace with the Vatican, just as Mussolini did. But the German dictator is not likely to be so fortunate as was Il Duce; for the latter, although bad enough during his ascension to power in Italy, was like a mill pond compared to the tidal wave of religious persecution that swept the Reich, where one-third of the people are Catholic. Mussolini never tried to nationalize religion; he never advocated return to barbarism, his sword was bloody enough, but it was wielded in no religious war.

In short, Hitler's cause is still hopeless; no pseudo-conservative turn can help him in the critical and suspicious eyes of the world. If his most recent murders were the "second revolution," a third upheaval is obviously on the way and this one will be decisive; for his position is not at all as secure as the government-dictated press despatches would have the world believe.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

EL. Note:—Realizing that prejudice is often the result of ignorance and misunderstanding, readers of this publication are invited to send in questions regarding the Protestant, Catholic or Jewish faiths. These questions will be answered in this column as promptly as possible and should be addressed to this publication or to the National Conference of Jews and Christians, 289 Fourth Avenue, New York City.

Q.—Why do Protestants discriminate against Jews and Catholics in economic, educational and social activities?

A.—Protestants are not the only ones practicing such discrimination. It is practiced by all three groups. Positions, business and friends are "in the family." It seems that these things take place on the basis, not so much of religion fundamentally, as on the basis of cultural interests and geographical distribution. It is the popular opinion, in Boston for instance, that an Irish Catholic has about a thousand times better chance in the public school system than does one of another racial or religious group. Positions in the financial realm in Boston are probably held in an overwhelming majority by the old stock, which is largely Protestant, and certain areas of merchandising are carried on almost exclusively by the Jews. Obviously, within these circles they "take care of one another." There are social discriminations and the Jews are undoubtedly sinned against. Time and such seminars sponsored by the National Conference of Jews and Christians will do much to dissipate prejudice and foster friendly understandings and even intimate friendships.

Q.—Is a Catholic free to think out his own opinions?

A.—It is wrong to assert that Catholics, in believing, give up their freedom of intellect. In believing they accept what they deem to be revealed truth; and to Catholics to accept this truth is to be freed from falsehood and error in religion. And outside the domain of faith and morals, Catholics use their reason and have opinions just as other men have. To a Catholic, his faith is no more a hindrance to his freedom than his earth-inductor compass was to Lindbergh in his flight to Paris; it hindered him from losing his way.

Q.—Are Jews boorish and ill-mannered?

A.—The answer to this cannot be made unless one understands the historic background. For many centuries this people lived under restraint and oppression of all kinds. It accumulated immeasurable reservoirs of this vitality and energy which, when the lid was lifted, spends itself. This accounts for the eagerness of the Jew to establish himself, for his independence, even to the sacrifice of some of the finer qualities. But this, too, is a generalization which is unfair. Jews who have not the background of broad culture and education and social experience are just as any other people with a similar background, often ill-mannered and annoying but, at the same time, it would be unfair to generalize about the whole people as there are cultured Jews who are possessed of all the delicacy of feeling, the refinement, and the culture of our contemporary life. It all comes back to the question of generalizations. There are polished Jews and there are cultivated Jews, just as there are boorish Christians and cultivated Christians. The tragedy is in making the generalization.

His Speeches Came True

Ida Flatow tells this one about a Zionist speaker who made his first visit to Palestine last year.

When he arrived in Palestine, he was greatly pleased with what he saw. "My," he exclaimed, "it's as good as I said in my American Zionist speeches. I never would have believed it."

The Zionist's speeches had come true. It reminds one of William Jennings Bryan's remark during the course of the Florida boom. Bryan said then: "Florida is the only place where a man can tell a lie in the morning, and find at night-fall that he has spoken the truth."

Swimming in Jerusalem Temple

About two years ago, the estimable Mrs. Hanna Salomon, a leader in philanthropy within the Reform wing visited Palestine. When there, she was asked about the Temple with which she was connected.

"Tell me, what do you do in your temple?" she was asked. "Do you swim or do you pray?"

Well, the story can now be about-faced, for the new synagogue erected in Jerusalem under the auspices of the United Synagogue of America is one of those combination synagogues and social centers and now you can even swim in the Jerusalem synagogue.

The Hog in the Temple

Speaking about temples, Bernard G. Richards tells a story. A Jew came into a particular temple for the first time and met the rabbi.

"Do you pray with or without hats here?" asked the stranger.

"Without hats," replied the rabbi.

"Do men and women sit separately or together?"

"Together," replied the rabbi.

"Do you have shikhses in your choir?" continued the stranger-Jew.

"Yes," replied the rabbi, "we go the whole hog here."

Max vs. Adolph

Miss Bortha Pollock writes to suggest that now that the Hebrew boy, Max Haer has won the championship he next meet Adolph Hitler at Madison Square Garden. It's a good idea. Hitler could be assured of a sell-out house for the occasion. Of course, he would have to arrange in advance just where he wanted the remains of his non-Aryan body sent.

It might be an idea to let Max Baer meet Hitler and Dr. Goebbels at the same time. There couldn't be much difference presumably.

Glory For All

A. H. Fromenson writes to deny this column's statement that there was a "run in" between Richards and himself as well as the first Jewish columnist. "There's glory enough for both of us" declares A. H. F. and adds that we were further wrong in saying that Sampson was the first columnist, since he pulled the house down with a column.

"The first columnist," says A. H. F., "was Mrs. Lot. How salty her stuff was. There'll never be another like her."

Well we had always thought that Mrs. Lot was too much of a "pillar" of society to go in for the questionable role of wincing keyholes. But A. H. F. must know.

Palestine Labor

We are hearing a lot these days about the Histadruth—the Jewish Federation of Labor in Palestine. And it is my guess, that we will hear very much more. In fact, it seems to me to be the one thing which may perhaps interest the world generally above everything else in Palestine.

It would take more space than one column to write adequately about the Histadruth, but there is one thing which may be mentioned here and which I believe will in time arouse interest in the non-Jewish world of Labor.

I am referring to the fact that the Histadruth is built on the plan of "one big union," and not on the trade or craft division familiar in our own American labor system.

The Pretzel Polishers

Labor reformers of a more fundamental sort have always advocated the "one big union" plan but they never seem able to get their pet reform achieved. I believe the initial proponent of the "one big union" idea in America was Daniel De Leon, a man, who has before been noted in this department, exerted through his writings, no little influence on Lenin.

The North End Dispensary

At a morning call, live busy clinics greet the eyes of the visitor at the North End Dispensary on Orms Street. Old men and women, young people and little children go there for relief from pain, suffering and weakness. The motherly Registrar, Mrs. Saul Rothschild, receives the patients with understanding and friendliness, in a physical environment of immaculate cleanliness. In fact, all about one there is an atmosphere of cheer and hopefulness. The writer overheard the nurse in charge, Mrs. Gertrude Koch say sympathetically to one poor, bent old woman: "Now, mother, you just take this medicine, and you soon will be well again." A flicker of a smile in answer lit up the wrinkled, troubled old face of the woman as she passed through the doorway and slowly, wearily wended her way homeward.

A thin, little tot of four in one of the waiting rooms was tugging at her mother's skirts, anxious to be out-of-doors again, and her tired mother patiently kept saying: "Just a little while now; the doctor will soon be ready." "You know," the mother confided to a woman next to her, "my little girl has been running a temperature, and her glands are swollen."

An old man in the corridor is waiting his turn. He is the head of a family, and he is confident that the doctor will soon cure his ulcerous condition of the stomach, so that he can work steadily at his factory job.

A shabbily-dressed, worn-looking woman in the early thirties, the mother of a large growing family, is receiving inoculations so that this summer by relief from asthma, she will be able to get much-needed rest after long days of household tasks for her family.

One of the most interesting and humanitarian activities of the North End Dispensary is the treatment of the wan little cardiacs. Not only are these cases studied with modern methods through cardiographs which the sufferers could not otherwise obtain, but treatment is made possible for them through tonics and other prescriptions. Some of the children's cardiac cases are further assisted by the Council of Jewish Women, of which Mrs. Jack Davis is now president, by being afforded an opportunity for Camp and outdoor rest and relaxation in the summer. The Council in Providence has for years carried on this work, happily now centered in one and the same person, the matronly registrar of the North End Dispensary, Mrs. Saul Rothschild, who is camp chairman as well, and has been for the past four years.

Last year approximately 8000 patients were treated at the Dispensary (what relief from human suffering that represents) as compared with about 3000 five years ago, the jump in attendance being due to present economic conditions. About 700 treatments were given last month.

Way back in 1908 the Providence Section, National Council of Jewish Women, founded the North End Dispensary for the relief of poor and needy sick of all denominations. This was under the presidency of Mrs. Caesar Misch. The Council realized then, as it still does, the important part that illness plays in social maladjustment, and so it still sponsors the Dispensary. Mrs. Samuel Markoff is the president of the

Mr. and Mrs. Ed M. Viner of Verdale avenue, recently celebrated their fifteenth wedding anniversary.

Miss Rose Standel of Higgins avenue, this city, and Miss Gertrude Kahn of Bartlett avenue, Edgewood, have left for Hollywood, Cal., where they will spend the summer.

City residents who opened their homes in Oakland Beach the past week-end included Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Levin and family of Pawtucket, Mr. and Mrs. William Sharoff, of this city and Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Weisman of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Alberts of Riverview entertained at a party Saturday afternoon in honor of the eighth birthday of their daughter, Rosalind. Table decorations were in green and yellow. Refreshments were served and games were played.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice R. Preiss of Summit avenue, accompanied by their two eldest sons, Franklin and Harold, are at the Catskill Mountains in New York. Mr. and Mrs. Preiss are celebrating their twelfth wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Ettine of Easton street announce the marriage of their daughter, Sally Ettine Applebaum to Robert Werman of Eaton street. The ceremony was performed Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Werman will make their home at 16 Easton street when they return from a wedding trip to New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Narva and family of Warrington street, are spending the summer at Oakland Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sugarman of Harriet street have as guest, their niece, Miss Blossom E. Ransas of Bridgeton, N. J.

Recent arrivals at Riverside include Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Siegal and family, Mr. and Mrs. Sol Wald and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Robinson, all of Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis S. Goldberg of this city have returned from a wedding trip to Chicago and will be at Narragansett Terrace for the summer. Mrs. Goldberg is the former Miss Sylvia Cohen of Millis, Mass.

KOIRTH-SHEPARD

Miss Eva Shepard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Shepard of Oakland avenue, was united in marriage with Charles Koirth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Koirth, of Atlantic avenue, a week ago Sunday, at Temple Beth Israel. Rabbi Morris Schussheim officiated.

The bride was gowned in white crepe with a shoulder length veil and carried bridal roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Anna Shepard, as maid of honor, who wore a gown of maize mousseline de soie and carried a bouquet of Tallisman roses. Mrs. Shepard wore blue triple sheer crepe with a corsage of gardenias and Mrs. Koirth was attired in pale blue tulle with a corsage of gardenias.

The bridegroom had as best man, his brother, Murray Koirth.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Georgia and will make their home in Providence, when they return.

De Leon was in the habit of mocking at the trade division of American labor. "The pretzel publishers, the horse tail scrubbers" he wrote, mocking the way labor divided itself here. Not Communistic

While the "one big union" idea has radical implications, the fact is that the Histadruth in Palestine is very moderate. In fact the growth of the Histadruth has almost resulted in completely eliminating what little of Communism there may have been in Palestine.

One of the most novel things about the Histadruth is the way it does things itself rather than calling upon the government. For instance, there is no unemployment relief legislation in Palestine. But the Histadruth itself provides for relief. Further, it does not call upon the government to provide work, but itself goes and provides work. For instance, it is the largest land developing company in Palestine. Let us say you want ultimately to settle in Palestine on an orange grove. Well, you can get in touch with the Yaqin, one of the branches of the Histadruth and they will get a piece of land for you, plant it, work it, and after a few years, when the trees begin to bear, you can come and settle.

Meanwhile, by so doing, they are providing work for the laborers. The Histadruth runs the bus companies of Palestine. They deliver the milk etc., not merely in the capacity of employees, but are responsible for the business end as well. They operate an insurance company, build workmen's suburbs, etc.

In brief the Histadruth is not waiting for any government to do any thing. It is the one labor union in the world that works on the theory that God helps those who help themselves.

This and That

A project is on foot in New York for the establishment of a theatre which will devote itself to Jewish themes, but playing in the English language.

Harry Rosenthal, the Hebrew lad who went on that submarine cruise to the pole—which never quite got to the Pole—is running a restaurant now in New Jersey.

Maxwell Silver, brother of Abba Hillel Silver and author of a column called "Justice" is now doing another book.

Leonard Lyons, the new columnist of the New York Post, is a landsman.

Judge Bernard A. Rosenblatt, who is back in New York, after an extended stay in Palestine, is reported to have done very well there.

Honor Mrs. Leibo at Coming Home Party

Mrs. Jacob Leibo of Atlantic avenue, this city, was honored at a surprise birthday and coming-home party the past week at her summer home on South Shore avenue, Shawomet, by her daughter, Mrs. Florence Schott. The table was attractively decorated in a color scheme of pink and white. Dinner was served to twelve guests.

Bridge was played after the dinner and prizes were won by Mrs. Ben Cohen, Mrs. A. Aven and Mrs. Harry Finberg. The guest of honor was presented with a gift.

BOCHNER-LEBOWITZ

Miss Dorothy Lebowitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lebowitz of Willard avenue, became the bride of Abraham Bochner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Bochner of Chalkstone avenue, Friday afternoon, in the home of the bride's parents. Rabbi David H. Backrach officiated. White roses and carnations formed the decorations.

The bride who was attended by Miss Mae Bochner, sister of the bridegroom, as maid of honor, was gowned in blue satin with pink accessories and carried a bouquet of white roses and carnations. Miss Bochner wore pink mousseline de soie with a shoulder corsage of yellow tea roses.

Sully Solomon was the best man. The bride's mother wore a gown of black crepe and Mrs. Bochner wore navy blue crepe.

Mr. and Mrs. Bochner, left on a wedding trip immediately after the reception, and will make their home at 463 Chalkstone avenue.

RIDICULES THEORY OF "ARYANISM"

Editor's Note: Another scholar, this time Professor Franz Boas of Columbia University, perhaps the foremost living anthropologist, has punched holes into the Nazi theory of "Aryan" supremacy. In an article in the current American Mercury, he explains the reasons why there is no pure German "Aryan" race, nor, indeed, any pure race that has not adopted many of its racial characteristics from geographical environment. Following is an extract from the American Mercury article.

By FRANZ BOAS

The present policies of the German government are based on the assumption that an "Aryan" has certain biological determined qualities which are entirely foreign to every non-Aryan.

There are said to be 6,000,000 non-Aryans in Germany, but since according to the prescribed definition a fourth part of non-Aryan blood is enough to stamp the individual as non-Aryan, the actual number may well be close to 1,000,000 or even more. According to the policy adopted by Germany these are practically excluded from all participation in German economic, social, and intellectual life.

What is an Aryan? Aryan is a linguistic term and nothing else. It means that there was once one language, nowadays called the Aryan language, which gradually spread over a large part of Europe and Asia, and developed into all the different "Aryan" languages spoken today. In this sense an Aryan is anyone who speaks an Aryan language, Swede as well as American Negro or Hindu.

A judgment of the German policy requires the answer to two questions: one, what, racially, are the so-called "Aryans" and "non-Aryans?"; the other, to what extent does the behavior of a single human being and of a people depend upon hereditary traits?

Roughly speaking, we may divide the population of Europe into three groups, which are situated in strata extending from west to east; in the North, the tall, blond, blue-eyed Northwest Europeans; in the middle, in the region of the Alps and east and west of them, the darker Alpine type; and in the south the small, very dark Mediterranean type of Spain, Italy and Southern France. Of course, there are other local types which do not conform well with such a hard and fast classification.

It is a fiction to speak of a German race. We should rather ask what types of physical build are represented among the Germans. Here we encounter a complete lack of unity.

Blonds with long heads in the North, darker people with short heads in the South; broad faces here, narrow faced ones there; noses turned up and aquiline, the general build tall and short, broad and slight. There is no "German race"; there are only local types which are very different one from another, each of which comprises individuals of different characteristics, so that representatives of all these types may be found in any part of Germany and of the neighboring countries. The East German is closer to his Polish neighbor than to the Prussian; the Tyrolean shows more similarity to the East Alpine Slav than to the North German, the Rhinelander more to the neighboring Frenchman than to the German in more distant parts.

Since the Jews are considered as a thoroughly different element, we must define their racial position. There is no more a Semitic than there is an Aryan race, since both terms define linguistic groups, not human beings. We can only speak of Near Eastern types. There are at least two or three very different Near Eastern types; dark Armenians, lighter Kurds, and the long-headed Southern type. As long as we have known Jews at all, all three—and perhaps even other European strains—have been represented.

...sary goes on its way of mercy year by year.

Insulted!

Daniel Frohman, the beloved dean of the American Theatre, a member of the Catholic, Episcopal and Jewish Theatrical Guilds, was asked last week to leave Long Island's Lido Club because he was a Jew.

ented among them. The Jews are not a uniform race. The Armenoid type is very closely related to that of the Dinaric peoples, the inhabitants of the region east of the Adriatic Sea, so much so that in some cases the Tyrolean and the Armenoid can hardly be distinguished with certainty. Similarly, a relationship exists between the Syrian and Mediterranean types. The contrast between the blond Northwest European and the dark Southeast German is just as great as the difference between the later and the Armenoid Jew.

This statement does not mean that there are no finer distinctions in physical build between most Jews and most non-Jewish Europeans; the differences, however, are not fundamental. It is well known that dark Syroid Jews are often taken for Spaniards or Italians, Armenoids for South Slavs or other Alpines, and blond blue-eyed Jews for Northwest Europeans.

An attempt is being made by those who are in power in Germany to justify on scientific grounds their attitude towards the Jews; but the science upon which they are building their policies is a pseudo-science. No one has ever proved that a human being, through his descent from a certain group of people, must of necessity have certain mental characteristics. A nation is not to be defined by its descent but by its language and customs. Otherwise Germans, Frenchmen, and Italians would not be nationalities. Language and customs are determined far more by the environment in which the child grows up than by its descent, because the physical attributes, so far as they have any influence at all, occur with extraordinary variety within every group.

Just as the Germanized Slavs and French have become German in their culture, as the Frenchified Germans have become French, the Russianized ones Russian; so have the German Jews become Germans.

Treatments in the Asthma and Hayfever clinics are given by Dr. Jay Fishbein, chief of the staff, Tuesday and Saturday mornings. Dr. Fishbein also has the eye, ear, nose and throat clinics Monday and Thursday forenoons.

On Wednesdays, Dr. Stanley Freedman holds pediatric clinics. There have been a large number of operations for tonsils and adenoids recently.

In addition to these special clinics, daily medical and surgical clinics are conducted by Dr. N. Rukatinaky, Dr. Israel Mandell, Dr. Jacob P. Warren.

Last month 601 vaccinations were performed at the Dispensary.

Many diseases which were formerly not attended until they had reached the bed-confining stage, through the existence of the North End Dispensary can and are now diagnosed and cared for in the early stages. Thus the humanitarian work to alleviate pain of sick poor, strengthen the weak, and bring comfort to all those who pass through the doors of the North End Dispensary.

NEWS OF INTEREST TO MEN

COLLEGE — COUNTRY CLUB — SPORTS

FROM NEWSBOY TO CABINET MINISTER

By PHILIP SLOMOVITZ

No longer shall it be said, when a story is related that a man has risen from newsboy and bootblack to a ministerial post, that it is pure Horatio Alger fiction.

David Arnold Croll's rise to political heights proves that what may sound as fiction can also become reality.

Brought to Canada by his parents at the age of six, Croll was in turn newsboy, shoe-shiner and errand boy in Windsor. At 25 he was called to the bar. At 30 he was elected mayor of Windsor, receiving an overwhelming vote in spite of whispering campaigns on the grounds of his Jewishness. He was re-elected as mayor in another fine demonstration of loyalty on the part of his constituents. Now, at the age of 34, he emerges the victor in the Ontario Parliamentary elections — and on top of it has been chosen by Premier-Elect Mitchell F. Hepburn to be the Minister of Labor in his cabinet.

An uncompromising liberal, Mayor Croll has built up one of the strongest followings boasted of by any political leader in Canada. Seeking election to the Ontario provincial Parliament in the Windsor-Walkerville district, he received 9828 votes against the combined votes of 8691 for the three candidates who opposed him.

Mayor Croll was born in Moscow, Russia, on March 12, 1900, the first-born son of Hillel and Minnie Croll. His father was a cattle dealer who found life unbearable in Russia and left to settle in Canada, in 1904. Two years later he brought his family to this continent. Only a handful of Jews lived in Windsor at that time. This city of 60,000, of whom only 1000 are Jews, was then a village compared with the beautiful city of today, which borders on Detroit. It was a hard struggle for the Crolls — but the future mayor and the minister-of-labor-to-be found the hardships to be a school of experience.

Hillel Croll remained in the business, but it was not sufficiently lucrative to educate five sons and a daughter. The boys had to ply for themselves, and David set out to sell newspapers. With Jacob Geller, now the head of the Windsor News Company, Dave acquired a newsstand. He graduated from Patterson Collegiate in 1918, secured a place for himself in the office of the late Frank D. Davis, K. C., and became a law student. It was at Collegiate that he met his wife — Sarah Levin of Detroit, University of Michigan graduate, mother of his three daughters, the youngest born only a month ago.

In 1921 Croll entered in Osgoode Hall Law School in Toronto. He served as a student with Mr. Justice Hughes, now of the Supreme Court of Canada. He graduated in 1925, was called to the bar in May, married in June. Then began the law career and the eventual entrance in politics. A 32nd degree Mason and a Shriner, a member of I. O. O. F., the Maccabees and the Grotto, David Croll never forgot his own people. Always a Zionist, a member of B'nai

Brith, a devotee of Hebrew education, it is easy to see why he should have befriended every Jew in Windsor, without an exception.

Talk to any Windsorite, however, and he will tell you that David Croll has many friends because he is consistent in his politics. He makes no compromises in his liberalism. He is always prepared to sponsor a law which will make for a free life; and he is the champion of the cause of the oppressed and the poverty-stricken, whether in time of prosperity or depression.

He was elected Mayor of Windsor in 1930 because he had very decided ideas on how to run a city of 60,000 people. And he missed not a single opportunity to tell the voters what his views were. When he became mayor, Windsor suffered from the tremendous burden of caring for the unemployed. About 10,000 who had previously commuted to Detroit were barred by United States laws from retaining their positions. Tax collections were declining, but the cost of running the government was mounting.

Croll managed to save the city. Not only did he solve the various problems which oppressed his government when he assumed the reins, but he made of Windsor a model of good government, now being copied by mayors throughout Ontario. It is no wonder, therefore, that he was re-elected by the largest clear majority in the history of the city — a majority of 6780 in a field of three.

A most spectacular incident marks the career of Mayor Croll. He visited the land settlers in Northern Ontario in the spring of 1933. He visited the homes of settlers from Windsor in the course of a motor tour and discovered lack of attention by the government, inadequate supplies of food and equipment, an oppressed feeling of discontent. His published findings rocked the province and secured considerable relief for the sufferers. It is an interest in the welfare of the people, as manifested by this incident, that won for Mayor Croll, the affection of tens of thousands of Canadian citizens.

On the day of Mayor Croll's elevation to a ministerial post, the Border Cities Star of Windsor paid him a high editorial tribute. Calling his election one of the outstanding features of the provincial contests and labeling the record of his life a thrilling one, the Border Cities Star concluded the two-column editorial by stating:

"Why did Dave Croll win two mayoral elections and the Provincial contest today? Because the people knew an able man, a fighter, a true son of democracy when they see one. The general Liberal sweep helped Mr. Croll, of course, but even it was not enough to roll up the majority he secured. That was a tribute to his personal popularity as well as a condemnation of the tactics of his principal opponent.

At Toronto Mayor Croll will give the people the same sterling representation he has given them as chief magistrate of this city. He can be depended upon 24 hours of the day to battle for the rights of his people and of humanity generally. His many friends welcome the opportunity that now comes to him to serve in a larger field. They know he will make good there just as he has made good here. The interests of his people, his Province and his country will always be nearest to his heart. And especially will he be working for the poor and the sick and helpless and the oppressed. Dave Croll is no mere politician looking for votes. He's a true friend of all people, and as a Minister of Labor and Municipal Affairs there will be no doubt where he stands."

Antin Burke, Well-Known Jewelry Man Taken by Death

Funeral services for Antin Burke who died early Monday morning at his home on 127 Prairie avenue were held Tuesday noon, with burial in the Lincoln Park Cemetery. Rabbi Morris Schussheim of Temple Beth Israel, who was in New York, hurried here Tuesday to officiate at the services.

Mr. Burke conducted a jewelry and optical business in Providence for more than thirty years and retired only last November.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Joshua Bell and Mrs. Florence M. Burke of Providence and three sons, Dr. Samuel J. Burke, Dr. Mark M. Burke and Louis E. Burke, all of Boston, and five grandchildren.

Agudas Achim Men's Club Picnic Sunday

The Congregation Agudas Achim Men's Club will hold its annual picnic at Lake Massapaug, Sharon, Mass., at the Sharon Bathing Beach on Sunday, July 8.

This will be in the form of a regular old fashioned picnic and those attending are asked to bring their own family basket lunches and be on the grounds at noon time.

The holder of a card secured at a nominal charge is entitled to bring his family for the price of the one admission. The social committee is planning many sports and games and prizes will be awarded to the winners. Everyone is invited.

Morris S. Waldman to Head O. H. C.

Morris S. Waldman was elected president of the Order of Hebraic Comradship at a meeting of the organization held at its club 37 Weybosset street, the past week.

Other officers named are Samuel Shindler, vice president; Joseph Wuraftic, treasurer; Edmund Wexler, recording secretary; Joseph Waldman, corresponding secretary, and George Labush, publicity.

Members of the executive committee comprise Samuel Kagan, Leo Miller, Maxwell Waldman, Jack Alprin and Daniel Freedman.

JEWISH SPORT NOTES

Chicago Extends Tremendous Ovation to Barney Ross

As we said some time ago, the world will be shouting for years to come at the things Barney Ross did to Jimmy McLarnin at the Garden Bowl. Witness the reception handed him when he blew into the Windy City recently fresh from his New York triumph. Sixty thousand people jammed the Stadium to say hello to the Jewish lad, who has accomplished what no other man in pugilistic history has done, though many have tried, to hold the lightweight and the welterweight titles at the same time.

The synagogue that Barney Ross attended in Chicago presented him with a huge loving cup as a symbol of esteem and appreciation for what he has done for American Jewry.

Barney Very Religious

While we were watching young Barney go through his training at Ferndale, N. Y. in preparation for the McLarnin tussle, we talked to one of his managers. This gentleman told your sports commentator that Barney Ross is very religious. This thing has not been publicized to any great extent because of the champ's wishes. But it is a known fact that this great little fighter from the Windy City adheres to the Talmud law, he "dovins" regularly and said Kaddish for his father after the elder Mr. Ross had been killed by Chicago gangsters. This does seem a bit different from Ring Lardner's "Champion."

Should America Participate in the 1936 Olympic Games?

The question of American participation in the 1936 Olympic games at Berlin in the face of racial discriminations against the Jews has been broached more than once. The Jewish Telegraphic Agency offers specific proof of such discrimination and as a result goes on record against America's participation in the Olympic Games in Germany.

Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic Committee, was authorized two weeks ago to visit Germany on behalf of that body to investigate the charges of discrimination. It is understood that the United States will decline to participate in the forthcoming competitions in Mr. Brundage's judgment Germany has not kept its pledge of complete freedom of opportunity for Jewish athletes.

Many Notables Against Such Participation

Charles L. Ornstein, only Jewish member of the National Olympic committee in America, has repeatedly gone on record against American participation in the Berlin games in the face of discrimination. Congressman Emanuel Celler is of the same opinion. However, on Mar. 7 at Madison Square Garden, Gustavus T. Kirby, former president of the Amateur Athletic Union, testified for the World of Sports at the "Case of Civilization against Hitlerism."

Mr. Kirby said in part: "My position here is as an advocate of the only true democracy in the world—that of sport—which knows neither race nor creed nor color—where it matters not whether you are rich as Croesus or poor as Job's turkey; where all start from scratch and the race is won without fear or favor.

"Any country receiving the award of the Olympic games must not only subscribe but live up to these principles and ideals of the democracy of sport. Germany did so when it made application to the International Olympic committee for the award of the games in 1936 to Berlin... and Dr. Theodore Lewald assures the committee, of which he is a member (since this speech Dr. Lewald was forced to resign—ed. Note) THAT THERE IS NO PRESENT EDICT NOR WILL THERE BE ANY FUTURE DISABILITIES ON THE PART OF JEWS TAKING PART IN WHAT WE IN THIS COUNTRY CALL ATHLETICS IN GERMANY."

We Offer the Proof

When Germany was awarded the Olympic Games for 1936, a true democracy of sports may have existed. However, since the Nazi regime has taken control, the democracy no longer exists. If the American Olympic committee wants proof of this, we offer here in chronological form "the laws and acts of the Hitler government affecting Jews in sports." We are not publishing this list in detail but only the more important items.

The Laws and Acts from 1933

April 26 — Jews barred from German sports organizations.

May 8 — Jews excluded from Tennis.

July 9 — None but Germans and "Aryans" permitted to join Greater German Chess Association.

Aug. 24 — The German government officially forbids the Maccabi team from proceeding to Prague to participate in World Maccabiad.

Oct. 10 — The Rotweiss, Berlin's most exclusive tennis club bars Jews.

Oct. 14 — Jewish sport Association, "Hagibor" banned, property confiscated.

Dec. 1 — Nazi sports units given free hand to reject or accept "non-Aryans"; but only Nazis are admitted to executive board.

Dec. 4 — New ruling virtually bars participation of Jews in German sport activities.

Dec. 12 — German sporting groups expel Jewish members.

Dec. 15 — Acts of Nazis mock pledge of fair play to Jewish athletes. Diplomats watching for legal disavowal of promise to let Jews compete in Olympics. Stadium to hold 200,000 being built. "Non-Aryans" and Jews barred from getting employment on project.

Dec. 29 — The Association of Life-guards expels all Jews, decreeing that Jews may not be engaged on municipal beaches.

Dec. 29 — Sport group in Berlin expels all Jewish members.

Dec. 29 — The Deutscher Turn Verein orders all its affiliated branches to expel Jewish members.

Dec. 30 — The Mayence sport association expels all Jews from the skiing club.

Jan. 4 — "Non-Aryan" horsemen are barred from competition.

Feb. 10 — Munich — Jewish sports organization dissolved in Bavaria.

Feb. 22 — Berlin — The Maccabi Jewish sports organization and the Schild, sports organization of the Union of ex-soldiers, which were recognized in November by the German government as the only two Jewish sport organizations allowed to function in Germany, are dissolved.

May 19 — Athens — The International Olympic Committee meeting in Athens pledges non-discrimination against Jews in Olympics.

This brings up to date the more important items against the participation of Jews in athletics in Germany.

Some Sidights on the Situation

The American Amateur Athletic Union met at a convention in Pittsburgh last November.

Nov. 20 — The A. A. U. takes a firm stand against participation in German 1936 Olympics.

Nov. 21 — The American Olympic Committee shelve vote on A. A. U. resolution.

Nov. 22 — American Olympic Committee considers switch from Berlin.

Nov. 26 — American participation in German Olympics awaits change of Nazi ways to Jews.

Morey Pearl and His Tent Orchestra

Expect Many From Rhode Island at B'nai Brith Social Tuesday

One of the outstanding affairs of the summer season will take place Tuesday night at bal-a-fair in the form of a show and dance sponsored by Worcester Lodge, B'nai Brith for the benefit of the Worcester Jewish Home for Aged and Orphans. Judging by the number of tickets sold in all parts of Massachusetts and Rhode Island one of the largest crowds ever to attend a dance at bal-a-fair, located on the Boston-Shrewsbury turnpike, will be present to dance to the music of Morey Pearl (in person) and his Tent orchestra, featuring Jimmy the singer and numerous outstanding radio performers.

Low Caron, who has been in the show business for 15 years, playing show houses from Maine to California and who will enter the movies this coming fall, will act as Master of Ceremonies for this great event. Another feature act is the "Town Talk Hill Billies," famed throughout the country for their Hill Billy songs. There will be five other acts of such high calibre.

There will be free parking and refreshments may be purchased on the terrace. If you haven't yet been to bal-a-fair to dance under the moon and stars, here is your opportunity to do so.

Bal-a-fair is only 39 miles from Providence. Those planning the trip by motor car are advised to take the Louisquisset Pike or the Douglass Pike on the road to Worcester. Upon reaching the Boston-Hartford highway which is on the outskirts of Worcester, turn right towards Boston and after five miles you will reach bal-a-fair.

TALMUD TORAH PICNIC
At a joint committee meeting of the men's and women's organizations of the South Providence Talmud Torah held Monday, plans were made for an old fashioned picnic to take place Sunday, July 15 at Goddard Park, Plot No. 1. The public is invited.

Mr. David Yanku is chairman of arrangements.

Mr.-Mrs. H. Lazarus to Hold Open House

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lazarus of 144 Sumner Street, will hold open house Sunday, July 8, at their summer home on 52 South Shore Road, Shawomet, in honor of their son, Henry Lazarus, who returned Wednesday from Europe for the summer vacation.

Mr. Lazarus has been studying votes in Vienna for the past two years, coming to the States in July and leaving for Europe again in September. An invitation is extended to all relatives and friends.

Unveiling for Late Isaac Nathanson to be Held on Sunday

On Sunday afternoon, July 8 at 2 o'clock, a monument will be unveiled in memory of the late Isaac Nathanson, at the Lincoln Park Cemetery. An invitation is extended to all relatives and friends.

Mr. Nathanson was a resident of Central Falls for many years and was active in charitable organizations throughout the state.

RACIAL FASCISM IMPOSSIBLE

By JOSEPH FISHBERG

British "Racial Fascism" has at last had a really good free advertisement in the London Press. Of course it is not the first time that articles have been written about Fascism and anti-Semitism, but so far, British Fascists, adopting German racial methods, have been treated with contempt.

On Empire Day morning, though, two members of the Imperial Fascist League succeeded in performing a spectacular feat which always impresses the British public. They climbed to the top of County Hall, Westminster, and hoisted their Union Jack centered with a large black swastika in a white circle.

A replica of the flag was printed in the London Press and many a Jew who saw it must have pondered over the curious design. Perhaps those suffering from forebodings immediately saw in this flag the future emblem of England. But let us consider "this strange flag"—as a national newspaper termed it.

First of all, what is the Union Jack? It is a combination of the crosses of the three patron saints of Great Britain, namely St. George of England, St. Andrew of Scotland and St. Patrick of Ireland. It was not by chance that this happy emblem was chosen. Englishmen are religious. They may not all fill their acres of worship but the religions practised in England have a vital force. The Archbishop of Canterbury is more than a churchman; he is a leader of the people, and the religious heads of English communities are respected by conservatives and socialists regardless of party politics.

There is every reason to look for a religious significance in the Union Jack. It appeals all the more odd to cut up the three crosses at their union point and stick a heathen sign in the middle of the flag. No wonder people talk of "this strange flag." But the idea of "racial fascism" for which the flag stands seems just as strange to the average Englishman. All the pet German theories about Nordic types, racial purity, mixture of blood, strike most English people as a mere heap of balderdash. The old motto of "Live and Let Live" replaces all this junk. The more exaggerated forms of German anti-Semitism are received in England with disgust and ridicule. Such occurrences as the spreading throughout Germany of the "Stuerner Ritual Murder" number do more to alienate the man in the street here against Nazism than any amount of propaganda by anti-Fascist organizations.

The racial terms adopted in Germany are simply incomprehensible in England and are therefore treated as a joke. "Non-Aryan Grandmother" is an inconceivable phrase for England. That is why the British Press is only too pleased to write of "New Inventions in Germany—Discovery of an Aryan typewriter" or "Aryan Hens—guaranteed racially pure."

If a political party with an anti-Jewish bias wishes to appeal to Englishmen, the only way it can do so is by proving successfully that the Jew is not making common cause with England. It is just here that the cry of Sir Oswald Mosley's British Union of Fascists "Jews must put Britain first," drives home. There are a good many Jews in England who, during the last few decades, fled from persecution abroad and have not yet got acclimatized. These people quite rightly feel that it is their duty to defend the word "Jew" to the last ditch. But probably just because they suffered only too recently from persecution elsewhere, they exaggerate opposition or unfriendliness in England. Only too often, the more recently arrived Jews tend to regard English people in an unfriendly spirit, considering them as their would-be persecutors. In this way they create that very anti-Semitism which they are trying to combat.

It is only a quiet form of anti-Semitism that can make headway in England. The more loudly the Jews cry against such anti-Semitism, the more rapidly it will spread.

It is so easy though, for the Jews to combat anti-Semitism in England without shouting about it! The Englishman, in spite of his insularity, will get on very well with a foreigner as soon as he has discovered that he is a "sportsman." Still more so a Christian here will soon be on the best of terms with an English Jew whom he considers a decent fel-

PICNIC In Our Lovely Shaded Groves

Hitler's Rule Threatened by Increasing Discontent

Germany's excellently trained regular army of 100,000 men, under the President's order, has become von Papen's personal bodyguard although the latter is under arrest in his own home.

The much bruited compromise between Hitler and the vice chancellor, whose speech two weeks ago coincided with the "revolt," failed to materialize on Wednesday when von Papen demanded a showdown on the massacres, daring Hitler to prove that the "revolution" had necessitated wholesale murder. Meanwhile, Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering still waits to be named vice-chancellor in place of von Papen, who has twice submitted his resignation and which Hitler twice hasn't dared to accept.

Cancels Vacations
Hitler on Wednesday made a sudden visit to von Hindenburg after receiving von Papen's ultimatum. On his return to Berlin he cancelled all vacations of the Cabinet.

While the German press remains muzzled and even foreign correspondents are unable to send to their papers the real story of the upheaval, observers point out that Hitler is near the end of his rope. He is confronted with problems that cannot be solved with firing squads, summary executions or involuntary suicides, the methods he used to get rid of his friends and enemies alike.

The political "revolution" is insignificant, for instance, when compared to the economic disaster confronting Germany under Hitler. The ruthless extermination of 200 leaders and sub-leaders within the Reich had no effect upon the moratorium Germany recently declared, and the retaliatory measures contemplated abroad; nor did they increase the money situation, with the mark sliding downhill at toboggan speed; nor did they ease the stifled trade with other nations who appear determined to have nothing to do with the Reich so long as Hitler remains in power; nor has the widespread violence encouraged tourist trade for which Germany has been making such a strong bid and which is a vital factor in Europe's economic welfare.

Foreign Press Hostile
Practically all foreign newspapers condemn these latest murders, the London Times being especially bitter against Hitler's savagery and declaring the Reich no longer belong among the family of nations of Europe. The boycott, intensified by the new outrages, is hurting more than German economic leaders dare to admit and Russia, the Reich's best potential customer, is particularly bitter over the swing to the conservative.

European veteran observers appeared to be agreed that, all things considered, Hitler has now gotten into a position he can't wiggle out of because any concession in one direction will mean increased animosity from the other. Defied by von Papen, criticized by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, hated by the Communists and now a foe of millions of Nazis who put him in power, the chancellor, it is generally conceded, faces a greater crisis than the supposed revolution he claims to have suppressed.

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (JTA)—More than 2000 persons gathered at Rose Hill Cemetery last week at exercises marking a pilgrimage to the grave of Thomas Kennedy, Washington County legislator, whose efforts succeeded in removing proscriptions against Jews holding office and giving the race other civil rights.
