Reich is Hit in Church of England Pact

LONDON (JTA) — Strong criticism of the German Government's anti-Jewish policy and sympathy with the Jewish people of Germany is expressed in a resolution adopted by the Church Assembly of the Church of England.

The resolution follows: "The Assembly desires to express its sympathy with the Jewish people and those of Jewish origin in the sufferings which are being endured by many of their number in Germany and trusts that Christian people in this and other countries will exert their influence to make it plain to the rulers of Germany that continuance of their present policy will arouse widespread indignation and prove a great obstacle to the promotion of confidence and good will between Germany and other nations."

The resolution was proposed by the Bishop of Chichester and seconded by the Bishop of Southwark. The Archbishop of Canterbury, forced to leave the chair during the discussion of the resolution, declared before he left that, lest his absence be misinterpreted, he was in the fullest sympathy with the resolution.

Among those speaking in favor of the resolution was Lord Hugh Cecil. The resolution was opposed by Carlisle Davies, an Englishman who acts as the German Consul at Plymouth. The assembly met under the presidency of the Archbishop of York.

Britain Aids Reich Jews to Emigrate

BERLIN (JTA) — The British Consulate at Berlin last week announced measures to facilitate the emigration of German Jews to Palestine under the capitalist category (which requires possession of a minimum of $5,000) despite the shortage of foreign exchange being experienced by the Reichsbank.

The announcement states that German Jews who have applied for Palestine visas as capitalists and have not yet obtained them because the German Government has not turned over to Palestine the necessary $5,000, will be given the visas if they produce a certificate from the Reichsbank testifying that they have paid the money.

Other conditions named by the consulate are: visa holders must enter Palestine not later than January 31, 1936, and they must produce evidence that they will not become a public burden in Palestine until such time as the money is paid over to them.

By the recently announced new regulations governing operation of the transfer agreement between Palestine and Germany, the emigrants must wait at least one year after leaving Germany before they can hope to have the initial sum of $5,000 returned to them.

Novelty Dance at Jewish Center Thanksgiving Night

A Thanksgiving Novelty Dance is being planned by the Jewish Community Center for the younger members to take place next Thursday in the gymnasium of the Center at 65 Benefit Street. The program will include entertainment and a prize walk contest. Dancing will begin at 8:30 o'clock. In observance of Thanksgiving day all regular activities including all work and club will be suspended next Thursday afternoon and evening; the (Continued on Page Two)

Will Address Local Youth

BISHOP G. G. BENNETT

For the tenth successive year the Jewish youth of Rhode Island coming from all the local colleges and the local Jewish youth organizations will assemble at Temple Emanu-El on Friday evening, December 6 and 13 to discuss the vital question "Jewish Youth Faces the Contemporary World." Bishop Bennett, Auxiliary Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Rhode Island and one of the leaders of religious thought in this country, will be the opening speaker at the Service on Friday evening, December 6.

Rabbi Goldman will present the Bishop. This service will be followed by a reception. The co-chairman of the reception committee are Mrs. Samuel Michelson and Miss Dorothy Nutman.

Youth Forum
On Friday evening, December 13 the Youth Forum will be held at which time five young people will occupy the pulpit and speak on the theme of the Conference. The speakers are Miss Marjorie Denzer of Pembroke, Miss Norma Gouse of R. I. C. E., Irwin (Continued on Page Six)

Poles Quiet After Riots Against Jews

WARSAW (JTA) — Quiet was reported as fully restored in all sections of Poland today, following the new outbreak of anti-Jewish excesses, in which two Jews lost their lives. Several scores were wounded during the riots and considerable property was damaged.

All Jewish members of the Polish parliament, including Senators Rabbi Schorr and Trockenheim, and Deputies Rubenstein, Sommerstein and Minzberg, yesterday called in a body upon Minister of the Interior Ladislav Rackiewicz and presented him with evidence of the result of anti-Jewish agitation in various parts of the country.

They demand that the life and property of the Jewish population be given the fullest protection, also pointing out to the Minister of the Interior that anti-Semitic agitation had spread even to the country's high schools.

Minister Promises Order

Minister Rackiewicz declared that has issued "strong instructions for securing order. I shall not tolerate any anti-Jewish excesses." The police today received orders for the suppression of all rioters.

Rectors of the High Schools are meeting today to plan concerted measures against rioters and for the reopening of schools closed down when the rioting broke out next Tuesday.

Deaths occurred in Lwow and Pogan near Sosnowiec. Samuel Rosenberg, a Jewish student at the University of Lwow, died Monday of wounds received in an attack three days ago upon Jewish students. In Pogan, Abraham Rosenblum, 14, died Tuesday of wounds sustained when a bomb was thrown at the synagogue.

Anti-Jewish attacks took place in many parts of the country during the rioting. Enek students in Lodz, burglarized stores in the poor quarter, attacking the proprietors.

Kraditor Advocates Payment of Bonus

"The best way to stimulate recovery would be by the immediate cash payment of the bonus," declared Abraham Kraditor, National Commander of the Jewish War Veterans last Sunday afternoon in an address at the dedication of the new home of the Rhode Island Post, No. 23, Jewish War Veterans at 100 Niagara Street.

"If we turned two billions of dollars into the country all at once it would be spent immediately by service men," Mr. Kraditor said. "The matter of financing the bonus payments, however, should be left to Congress."

Introduced by Robin Commander Kraditor was introduced by Paul Robin, past commander of the post, who acted as master-of-ceremonies. Others introduced by Mr. Robin were Joseph F. Farrell, president of the city council; Thomas Carroll, chairman of the city property committee, who arranged transfer of the former school to the veterans for a home; Col. Morris J. Mendelsohn, past commander-in-chief of New York; Maxwell Cohen, joint vice commander-in-chief, of Boston; Jean Mathias, of Brooklyn, N. Y., holder of the D. S. C.; the Croix de Guerre; the Navy Cross and the New York State valor cross; Rabbi Morris Schausheim; Rubin Lipson, past commander, chairman of the building committee; Barney Taber, president of the post realty company; Lawrence A. Mooney, department commander of the V. F. W.; William Bechler, commander of the American Legion; Judge Francis B. Condon; Gen. Henry D. Hamilton; Miss Anna Goldstaub, national president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Maj. Charles M. Hoffman, founder of the post in 1926.

Cantor Schlossberg Sings
Cantor Joseph Schlossberg sang selections.

Commander Kraditor warned the veterans to "beware of Communists—or those who favor the overthrow of the present system of American government."

Members of the Workmen's Excise Service Men's League have been asked to disband that organization in a communication from Moscow and the members have received instructions to join established veterans organizations and attempt to spread their doctrines from within, Commander Kraditor charged.

Old and New Generation, Topic For Discussion

The everlasting struggle between the old and the new generation will be the topic for discussion at the next meeting of the Temple Emanu-El Alumni Association to be held in the vestry next Sunday evening, at 8 o'clock.

For the parents, Major Charles M. Hoffman, superintendent of the Miriam Hospital, will speak on "What Parents Can Expect of Their College Children."
For the alumni, Miss Hilda Greenberg and Herz Brown will express their opinions on "What Children of College Age Can Expect of Their Parents."

Palestine Riots Cause Loss of Lives

Municipal Council Files Plans for Jewish Houses

TEL AVIV (JTA) — The Municipal Council met this week to file lodging plans for Jewish popular apartment houses to be built beyond the Yarkon River.

The Palestine government has leased to the municipality, the only all-Jewish city in the world, 700 dunams of land for building the apartments.
The new houses are expected to aid in reducing rents, which have risen to inordinate levels as a result of land scarcity.

Rabbi Shubow to Lecture at Beth-Israel

Rabbi Joseph Shubow, for many years literary editor of the Boston Jewish Advocate, and in recent years director of the New England Branch of the American Jewish Congress, will be the speaker at Temple Beth-Israel, Niagara Street and Atlantic Avenue, this Friday night at the annual Thanksgiving service of the Congregation.

Rabbi Shubow is known as a brilliant and forceful speaker and is thoroughly acquainted with present conditions in world Jewry. His message will be of tremendous importance alone but to the entire community and a cordial invitation is extended to the public at large to attend.

The service commences promptly at 8 o'clock. Participating in the service will be Rabbi Morris Schausheim of the Temple, assisted by Cantor Joseph Schlossberg and choir with the participation of Miss Bella Goldenberg at the organ.

Rabbi Shubow will also be the lecturer at the fourth session of the Study Group which takes place Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Temple. He will speak on the subject "COMMUNISM, FACISM and JUDAISM." This is the fourth lecture in the series, "THE JEW FACIS CONTEMPORARY LIFE." His wide experience and direct knowledge of affairs gained as the director of the American Jewish Congress gives his address the stamp of authority and should call forth a large audience.

In view of the importance of this address a special invitation is extended not only to the usual membership of the group but to all men and women who are interested in this very important subject. Rabbi Shubow will be introduced by Mrs. Joseph Schlossberg and hostesses for this session are Mrs. Joshua Bell and Mrs. Samuel Baker.

JERUSALEM (JTA) — A squad of Palestine police were this week spreading a dragnet over Palestine in the search for a gang of Jewish terrorists whose activities have resulted in the murder of a Jewish police sergeant, a clash in which five Arabs and one British policeman were slain, and a riot in Haifa that took a toll of two policemen's lives and many injuries.

British police, being used exclusively in the search, combed Jaffa with a fine tooth comb for a factory believed to be secretly manufacturing arms, following the arrest of an Arab lending a donkey loaded with bomb parts and bullets.

A wild mob of thousands of Arabs rioted in Haifa at the funeral of three Arabs slain in the Gilboa clash, seriously wounding British Constables Ringe and James in an attack on the police guarding the funeral.

The mob then stormed the Central Haifa Police Station, smashing all the windows and wrecking three police cars. Later the mob overwhelmed the police stationed at the railway depot and broke the windows of a Jewish glass factory.

One of the prisoners wounded in the battle between the gang and police at Gilboa was reported by the (Continued on Page Four)

2000 Expected at Hadassah Convention

(Special to the Jewish Herald)
NEW YORK — More than 1000 delegates and an equal number of observers are expected to attend the 21st annual convention of Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America, and the 15th annual convention of Junior Hadassah, to be held jointly at the Cleveland Hotel, Cleveland, Ohio, from Nov. 23 to Dec. 1, it was announced yesterday at the national headquarters of Hadassah, 111 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

The proposal that Hadassah extend the Youth Aliyah (immigration) movement will be the major consideration by the Senior delegates. The presentation of the plan will be made by Mrs. Edward Jacobs, national president, who spent last summer in Palestine and studied the youth immigration problem.

Among the guest-speakers scheduled to address the convention are Dorothy Thompson, wife of Sinclair Lewis, who will talk on the political and economic conditions in Europe; Dr. Abram L. Sachar of Champaign, Ill., national director of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations, whose subject will be "A Changing World Challenges Jewish Youth"; Mrs. Felix M. Warburg of New York, and (Continued on Page Six)

Warsaw Colleges to Stay Shut as Result of Riots

All schools and colleges in Warsaw closed as a result of anti-Semitic riots will remain closed indefinitely, it was announced last week following a conference of school officials and a representative of the Ministry of Education.

The Ministry's delegate to the conference declared that in the event of a recurrence of the riots when the schools are reopened finally, the government will order a new enrollment as in 1933.

In the government press it was pointed out that the riots in the schools were caused by the Endek agitation and had resulted in the enforced idleness of thousands of instructors, hundreds of whom have been placed in the most difficult position since their salaries have been stopped.

Palestine Film is Acclaimed at Premiere

(Special to the Jewish Herald)
NEW YORK — One of the most distinguished audiences to attend a Broadway premier filled the Astor Theatre last Wednesday night and cheered the first showing of "The Land of Promise," the screen portrayal of the rebuilding of Palestine. With a huge blue and white banner looking down upon the theatre throngs on the Great White Way and ermine, coats, and silk hats crowding the lobby, Palestine came to Broadway in burst of glory that will long be remembered in this great city.

Many prominent Jewish and non-Jewish leaders were in the audience that saw the American launching of a film that has been universally acclaimed by the city's foremost motion picture critics. Professor Albert Einstein, Honorary Chairman of the Committee of Sponsors, was the guest of honor and Nathan Straus, Chairman, introduced the Palestine picture. In a box sat the father of cooperative colonization in Palestine, Professor Franz Oppenheimer, the world famous economist and sociologist who founded the first cooperative settlement in Eretz Israel. Other distinguished figures who attended were Felix M. Warburg and Daniel Frohman.

"The Land of Promise," directed by Judy Lemann and provided with an unusually beautiful score of original music by Boris Morros, brought to the screen a stirring film record of the remarkable achievements of the Jews in re-establishing the ancient land as their Homeland.

The opening scenes depict the Palestine of yesterday, slumbering in its backward, lethargic atmosphere. Then suddenly the Oriental background gives way to a throbbing, dynamic panorama of bustling activity. The pioneers have come to reclaim the barren soil, to build new cities, to establish laboratories and schools, to bring forth out of the neglected soil the rich fruit of "golden apples" and grain. Tractors and huge modern harvesting machines replace the primitive ox-cart and superannuated methods. A new tempo quickens the life of the land and Palestine lives again with the fervor and idealism of its builders, with the courage and heroism of its pioneers.

Beth-El Sisterhood Chanukah Meeting Next Monday

Mrs. Joseph G. Nathanson will speak on "The Celebration of Chanukah in the Temple." The meeting next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rabbi William G. Braude will open the meeting with a brief talk on the significance of Chanukah.

During this Chanukah celebration games will be played and prizes awarded.

Beth-El League Resumes Activities

The Temple Beth-El League, a social and discussion group, will resume activities next Sunday evening when an executive meeting will be held at the home of Mr. Soloff. Boys and girls of high school age are welcome to join the League.

For the first meeting the topic for discussion will be, "Shall We Support the Proposition that the United States Participate in the 1936 Olympics if held in Germany?" Ruth Payton and Herbert Glickman will open the discussions by presenting each side of the case.

Free Loan Ladies Will Sponsor Bridge

At a committee meeting of the South Providence Hebrew Free Loan Ladies' Association plans were completed for their annual bridge to be held next Tuesday evening in Weinstein's restaurant. Mrs. H. Glassman, general chairman, appointed Mrs. H. Kolth, chairman of prizes; Mrs. David Yanouk, chairman of refreshments; and Mrs. David Spahn, chairman of tickets. The meeting was closed with a discussion of the annual dance to be held January 14.

Young Judaea Convention Elects Charles Prombain as Their President

Charles Prombain, of Boston, was elected president of the New England Region of Young Judaea at the fourth annual convention held last Saturday and Sunday at Temple Beth-Israel. Other officers elected were: Carl Alger, first vice president; Miss Harriet Winerman, second vice president; Mrs. D. U. Prombain, secretary and Miss Jeanne Feldman, treasurer.

The Sunday session was opened by Morris Block, president of the Rhode Island Council, who introduced Louis Locker, president of National Young Judaea, Mrs. Rachel Ixman, executive director of Young Judaea and Charles Prombain, president of New England Region, who gave resumes of the activities of the year.

After that the group was dissolved to form the various sessions at the Parent Session, the results were particularly successful that many requested that parts of the program be repeated for the benefit of the others who were not present. At the Senior Session, at which Philip Barron presided, a heated discussion ensued over the possibilities of the Young Judaea Magazine and the formation of a group to care for those Young Judaeans over the senior age limit of 18 years.

Temple Emanu-El

The Annual Thanksgiving service of the Congregation will be held on Friday evening. The guest preacher is Rev. John J. Russell, Minister of the Hope Street Congregational Church. Rabbi Goldman was one of several who installed Mr. Russell in his pulpit and it is especially appropriate that Dr. Russell should be invited to be the guest preacher at this Thanksgiving service.

On next Saturday morning the Bar Mitzvah of Milton Iszerlis, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Iszerlis, will be celebrated. Rabbi Goldman will preach on the subject "The Void of Jacob and the Hands of Esau."

Hospital Association Hears Mrs. Schechter

Mrs. Abraham I. Schechter spoke before the members of the Miriam Hospital Association last Monday at the Biltmore Hotel. Mrs. Joseph Smith, president, presided.

 Novelty Dance being the only event scheduled for the day.

The women's committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Louis I. Kramer will hold its first organization meeting next Tuesday afternoon to plan the program for the women members of the Center. Mrs. Theodore Rosenblatt will preside at the first executive board meeting of the Jewish Center Parents Association, Wednesday afternoon, which plans activities for the parents of children who attend Center activities. These two groups in addition to the Jewish Young Men's Assn., Young Women's Hebrew Assn., and the Jewish Center Men's Assn. form the Jewish Center Council which plans eight major events through the year.

Jewish Seminary Sponsors Lecture Series

The Jewish Theological Seminary of America, one of the foremost Jewish institutions of higher learning in the world, is presenting to the Providence Jewish Community four Sunday evening lectures sponsored by the Institute of Jewish Studies of Temple Emanu-El and the Study Circles and Men's Club of Temple Beth-Israel.

Rabbi Goldman, in urging the community to attend the lectures of these noted scholars and speakers, stated that: "Just as Brown University attempts to bring down noted scholars who present various fields of knowledge in a popular way through the Marshall-Woods Lectures, so the two Conservative Temples in our city, through the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, present to the Jewish community, scholars of distinction from various parts of the country who present Jewish culture in a popular manner. In short, what the Marshall-Woods Lectures are to the general cultural life of Providence, the Seminary Lectures are to the Jewish cultural life of Providence."

The lecturers, the dates, and the subjects are as follows: Sunday, December 15 at Temple Emanu-El—Dr. Israel Efron on "Poets of New Zion." Dr. Israel Efron is Professional Lecturer at the University of Buffalo and is a Hebrew poet of great renown. He is a famous Hebraist who has helped to compile the best Hebrew English Dictionary available up to the present time. He is an eloquent speaker and is doubtless one of the foremost authorities in this country on Bialik and his works.

Sunday, January 5, 1936, at Temple Beth-Israel, Rabbi Milton Steinberg on "Factors of Jewish Survival." Rabbi Steinberg is now the spiritual leader of the Park Avenue Synagogue, New York. He is the author of the widely read book "The Jewish and the Modern World." He has contributed articles to the Atlantic Monthly and to other magazines. He is a keen thinker and delightful lecturer.

Sunday, February 2, 1936 at Temple Emanu-El, Professor Julius S. Brewer, on "The Permanent Significance of Hebrew Scriptures." Prof. Brewer is a Christian scholar whose contributions to the understanding of the Bible are world-famous. He is a Professor at the great Union Theological Seminary of America which is the largest Protestant Seminary in this country. Prof. Brewer speaks with charm and authority.

Sunday, March 1, 1936, at Temple Beth-Israel, Prof. Abraham A. Neuman on "The Jew and Western Civilization." An inter-play of Historical Forces." Prof. Neuman is Professor of History at Dropsie College, Philadelphia, and is also the Rabbi of the famous Spanish-Portuguese Congregation Mikvah Israel of that city. Prof. Neuman combines in his person deep scholarship and great eloquence. This is Prof. Neuman's first visit to Providence.

Molly Picon in Varied Program Sunday Evening

The interest aroused by the announcement that Molly Picon, famous Jewish actress is to give a recital at the Elks Auditorium next Sunday evening, indicates that the largest crowd that ever attended a Sunday evening program sponsored by the Jewish Community Center will be on hand to greet the idol of the Jewish stage.

Together with her husband manager, Jacob Kalich and Abe Ellstein, pianist-composer, Miss Picon will appear in songs and dramatic sketches in English as well as in Yiddish. The program is scheduled to begin promptly at 8:30 o'clock. Ticket stations have been designated in various parts of the city where non-members may obtain them. Those who are Center members receive this program free of charge. This is a part of ten Sunday evening programs being sponsored by the Center this year in addition to numerous other activities such as physical education, social activities, and club groups.

The nine remaining Sunday evening programs are as follows: Second Annual Center Follies, December 15, Prof. Alfred Adler, December 22; Nicholas Roosevelt, January 5; Jewish Center Players, January 18; James Waterman, January 26; Albert Kappaport, February 5; February 23, Carl Sandburg; Senator LaFollette, March 1; and Ludwig Lewisohn, March 15.

Narragansett Brewery Again Expands; Remodelling Calls for Vast Expenditures

At the Narragansett Brewery in Cranston, Rhode Island, these days one finds a scene of feverish activity, as new plans are being carried into effect which continue the trend of enlarging and constantly modernizing the plant, already the largest brewery in New England. A growing consumer demand has made necessary this corresponding increase in production facilities, a condition being met here by the installation of larger, more efficient equipment of the most up-to-date type.

One of the great problems in such a large-capacity brewery is the provision of ample storage space for the tremendous volume of ale and lager which must be stored during the long ageing period. Although at the present time, The Narragansett Brewery has many vast cellars filled with tanks holding thousands and thousands of barrels, this tremendous capacity is being increased by nearly 50 percent. To provide entrance passages sufficiently large to admit the scores of new huge tanks, entire brick walls had to be torn down, and to transport the tanks to the brewery special trains were required. Even then, the roadbed of the railroad had to be lowered in several places to allow the cars with their load of tanks to navigate various underpasses along the way.

Well over 25 feet in length, and weighing nearly 12 tons, these tanks are so constructed that only four evenly spaced supports are needed to sustain the tremendous load, where formerly great numbers were used. A special, baked "glass-enamel" lines the entire interior surface, which absolutely insures the fine flavor of the contents.

In these mammoth containers Time is allowed to work its singular and indispensable effect, in the mellowing of the brew. The delicate flavor and aroma of the finished product, recognized by connoisseurs, is a contribution which aging alone can give.

With the production of bottled goods alone as high as 20,000 units per hour, it can be readily understood why such tremendous reserves must be held in storage in order that every drop be fully aged before being sent out, to meet with approval, the exacting taste of consumers.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

SAMUEL FINEGOLD

To many people, bridge playing is an idle pastime; to others it is a form recreation wherein a battle of wits takes place and leaves one with a feeling of an inward advantage gained as the result of an evenings good play. To the first class, this game is a matter of mere luck of cards, haphazard bidding, and unsystematic play with no motive for playing other than to pass the time in an idle and inconsequential manner. To the more advanced player a game of bridge is as satisfying as a good book, which leaves the participants with a feeling of something gained after a few hours spent.

The first class rarely seeks to improve their play, while the latter is constantly reading and studying for improvement. To the former class, these articles will appear as a waste of time, which might be spent and devoted to more valuable ends; to the later they will be a service and, we hope, an education.

To the untold thousands who rarely improve their game despite their constant play, we hope to bring a different viewpoint of the game and to show that there is something really worth while and of advantage in good card playing. To the more advanced players, who may find little new in this column, we hope to bring out a point here and there which will tend to improve their bidding and help them in playing the hand, both in offence and especially in defence. We expect to stress defence of a contract as much as attack.

Under new authorship, this column will adopt a change of policy. Instead of analyzing exceptional and unique hands, where the exception is more prevalent, than the rule, we will simply devote our space to attempting to teach the fundamentals of sound bidding and play. The discussion of rare cases of play will be left to those experts whose articles are syndicated in the local dailies. All that this column will attempt to teach will be fundamentals so that its readers may eventually become "better than the average bridge players, if there is such a thing."

The first article of this series which will appear in next week's issue, will be entitled, "the sound requirements for an opening one bid."

HITLER PHILOSOPHY

The Nazi decree which gives the German Jews the political status of aliens and the social status of lepers comes as no surprise. Hitler has been pledged in writing for twelve years to denationalize and disenfranchise Germany's 600,000 Jews and to make a "subject" caste of them. Why he and his party did not come directly to this Gordian measure several years ago, instead of working up to it through a tedious process of lying propaganda and cruel persecution, is the hardest part of their program to understand. It is almost as hard to understand as the pretense that the rules against Jewish-"Aryan" marriages will in some way promote "racial purity." The absurdity of this pretense must disgust any one who even vaguely studies European ethnology or who takes even a faint interest in workable eugenics.

One need only skim the history of the Jews in Europe to know Germany's Jews are no more alien to the original Teutonic stock than 80 percent of the alleged "Aryans" within the Fatherland's present frontiers. Then one need only read Adolf Hitler's "Mein Kampf" to learn that the Germans, as a political unit, are not a race nor are anywhere near being a homogeneous people.

Among the later recruits from the Slavic East to German Jewry, there are, of course, many of the so-called "armenoid" type. Their appearance spells a mixture — Tartar, Slav and Nordic. It happens to be the same mixture, however, that has gone into the make-up of the German population since the Goths and Vandals migrated from their homelands. "Unfortunately," says Hitler in "Mein Kampf," "the central kernel of our German nation is no longer racially homogeneous. . . . On the contrary, the poisoning through the blood which our national body has suffered ever since the Thirty Years' War has not only upset our blood but our soul as well."

So what, in the name both of science and common sense, is all this Nazi anti-Jewish frenzy about?

BETWEEN YOU AND ME

By PAUL A. PETERS

STEEL AND MEN
Not claiming to have any of that priceless inside info, we're giving you this as just a guess. . . . There will not be an ounce of German steel in the Triborough Bridge that's being built in New York with PWA funds. . . . When Bill Green of the A. F. of L., Arthur Brisbane of the Hearsties, Samuel Untermyer and the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League and countless other big and little shots in labor, journalism, politics and industry all raise a howl at one and the same time about the same thing, what chance have the Nazis got? . . . The strange thing about those 50 tons of German steel that had been ordered by the bridge Authority was that three gentlemen of Jewish blood had fingers in the pie. . . . One was Robert Moses, New York Commissioner and executive officer of the authority. . . . Bob would rather his origin weren't mentioned. . . . And his attitude on the steel was in keeping. . . . The chairman of the authority, Nathan Burkan, who made quite a fuss about the order, is second of the trio. . . . And the third is William Goldsmith, secretary of the Woodcrest Construction Company of Queens, who placed the order. . . . His alibi — and it sounded very convincing — was that that particular kind of steel could be purchased only in Germany and no other kind would do for the purpose. . . . However, at this writing he was holding up the order and, to return to our guess, the order will be held up indefinitely until it is found that some other kind of steel, the kind that is made in America mills, will serve the purpose every bit as well as the Nazi product.

RETIRES FROM A GRAVE
The death in Weimar, Germany, of one Mrs. Elizabeth Foerster should not have been allowed to pass unnoticed by both the Yiddish and Anglo-Jewish press. . . . Mrs. Foerster was a sister of the "superman" philosopher, Friedrich Nietzsche, from whose ideas the Nazis admit having drawn freely. . . . While Nietzsche, judging from letters that have been published, was opposed to anti-Semitism, his sister, who, under the influence of her husband tried to win him over to support the mad scheme of creating a colony called Nueva Germania, to be inhabited by the Third Reich — in Paraguay, Foerster was a bigoted anti-Semite, and once collected over a quarter million signatures from a petition in which the expulsion of the Jews from Germany was demanded. Nietzsche loathed Foerster and all he stood for. Nietzsche's hatred and contempt for anti-Semitism were such that even in his last frightful illness. . . . he yet managed to scribble on a card, "All anti-Semites' ought to be shot."

ANOTHER ECHO
Another recent death that should not have been passed unnoticed was that of Edwin G. Pipp, in Detroit. Those who remember the Henry Ford of Dearborn independent days will recall that Pipp was the man who organized that publication in 1918, but quit in 1929 when Mr. Ford insisted on attacking the Jews. In an interview in 1927, Mr. Pipp explained that he left the paper be-

BOOK NOTES

By Esther Levine

"Miles my boy, this nation was founded by pioneers; it was expanded by pioneers; developed by pioneers. . . . A nation of pioneers is a great. . . . It's time for us to turn pioneering again."
"Work! That's our salvation. Toil! That will get us on the right road again. A lot of us poor bright-eyed Americans have forgotten how to sweat. Your grandfathers and your great-grandfather and your great-great-grandfather knew the value of the things they grew or made; they saw the direct result of their labor. . . . We've got to go back to that."
"How are we going to get back to that?" Miles demanded.

"That's for your generation to work out. . . . You must create a social order where a man can earn his livelihood by the sweat of his brow or by the skill of his hands and get all the work he wants to do whenever he wants it. Such a man has eliminated fear from his life and achieved happiness."

Charles Norris might have called his latest book "Sweet" instead of "Hands." As seen by the above quotations, Mr. Norris believes in labor, preferably sweaty labor. He describes the sort of society which softens people and robs them of their opportunity to work.

Mr. Norris is a better novelist than economist. "Hands" is a story with a punch, direct and forceful. To be sure, he likes a soap box and he has the trick of the "Soap Box orator" of making his arguments so stirring that they sound plausible.

The story covers three generations. There is Michael, a carpenter, who likes his work, especially "handing" in his labor, rearing them into place, shoring them, truing them, nailing them steady, making a building take shape.

According to Mr. Norris' conclusions Michael should have been the happiest of the Baker family. Moreover, he was very unhappy, even though he sweated at his work. He went about hating people — his brother, his wife and his children. The only one he loved was Kate, his brother's wife, and he ruined her life. He was primarily responsible for the trouble which sent his son Martin away from home.

Martin was not like his father content to work for someone. He wanted to be his own boss. "I'm not interested in 'wages' or 'salary'; I'm interested in profits." He wanted to be rich. Well, he became rich but he wasn't very much happier than his father had been. He belonged to clubs and played golf with important people and entertained lavishly but he didn't feel "wanted."
Miles, the third generation, was by way of becoming a golden playboy. He was studying to be an architect not because he wanted to but because his father was set upon it. He didn't mind as long as it didn't interfere with his pleasures. He was handsome, charming, but softened by the luxury which surrounded him. . . . The crash brought Miles down to earth. He found, as so many others do, that a college education was not an "open sesame" to a job. Mr. Norris' argument against the overabundance of decaultery students in our colleges is excellently presented. He says

"There is by far too big a white collar class in this country now. . . . There is no room in the United States today for the young men and young women who have acquired only a smattering of culture and education. . . . Our professors are over crowded. . . . We don't need more lawyers and doctors and engineers. . . . we need less. . . ."

Why should a healthy young man intended by Nature, physically and mentally, to drive an ice wagon, be encouraged to seek a higher education, be urged to choose a profession by a dotting father merely because he, the father, has the wherewithal to pay the bills?"

Miles found no satisfaction in his studies but he exclaimed proudly to Nora: "I've built, all myself, a cabin for me — 4 rooms — a bathroom — and a kitchen with a sink and stove and everything! . . . It's going to be our home, Nora, my love — and every stick of it was built by me, with my own hands."

Radio Halts Speeding in Nablus

JERUSALEM (JTA) — The epidemic of trucks speeding through the ancient Nablus district has reached such serious proportions that a special radio alarm system is being installed to catch violators of speeding laws, the police revealed this week.

Radio stations will be installed along the road in Nablus, Jenin and Tulkarm. Motor trucks suspected of speeding will be halted at one station and the time they pass will be radioed ahead to the other stations with the license numbers. Trucks that make the distance between one station and another in too short a time will be halted by the police.

In Memoriam

Down at the Lincoln valley of tears remote from the clatter of life In solemn stillness we followed to stimpus your departure from struggle and strife

There through the gates of sorrow slowly plodding to the hollow square of earth

In melancholy array we saw you born by hands that fondled you from birth.

Sad were the moments of forlorn hope and bitterly tragic the sight Heart rendings reechoed with whimpering grief when to rest you were laid beathrooled in white.

Sealed were your hopes and ambitions defeated while steering in sight of your goal

Shipwrecked your longings and stilled the yearnings with knowledge to nurture your soul.

There in the Halls of Brunnonia where true revelation of erudite wisdom abides

Your steps are yet freshly imprinted and memory of sterling merits resides

Your spirit there ever abounding though no more rejoins from the bourne

Stilled by the 'Fates' your Heavenly image returned to dust of eternal sojourn.

It was all the reflection of predestined action ordained from on High

Cleaved from your moorings to follow procession no mortal could ever defy.

Veiled are the secrets of Justice and Mercy and dubious figures beset our mind

Least profane abnegation would triumph, faith must reconquer tradition and spiritual confidence find

To Him our eyes we must turn and credence of judgment repose

Solace to your loving bereaved to offer and kindly retrieving their pose.

But no matter what words in abstraction may offer and pensive reflections sustain

Off to infinite spheres you ascended and to posterity virtuous heritage bequeathed to retain.

We shall abide by your wishes and honor the spirit that binds us evermore

Your deeds we shall treasure like the Prophets' Miriam's in the legends of Biblical lore.

Rest Thou, fair maiden, on the laurels of gold your earthly sojourn had woven

In bliss Eternal and peace everlasting your spirit divine shall be proven.

Wet are the eyes of your mother and father, brother and sister and friends

To your memory, Miriam, we dedicate prayers and of Him ask for mercy that never ends.

Players Score In First Show

A well-balanced and entertaining performance was provided by the Repertory Players in their first production, the three-act play, "Good-bye Again," presented last Monday night at the Barker Playhouse.

Arthur Kaplan, whose sardonic interpretation of Kenneth Bixby, a lecturer on tour, was particularly effective especially when pictured by the protectiveness of his secretary, Evelyn Siegal and the belated love of Julie Wilson, capably acted by Pearl Kaplan.

The story opens in the hotel bedroom of Bixby and swiftly gathers momentum when Julie, believing herself to be the heroine of Bixby's newest book, appears at the apartment quite willing to leave her husband for Bixby. In the attempt to get rid of Julie, which provokes amusing situations, Anne, his secretary, turns on Bixby leaving him to work his own way out of his predicament.

The third act finally works out the plot. Julie goes back to her husband and Anne, under Bixby's threat that he will jump out of a 20 story window, retents and they leave town happily reunited.

The Gilboa clash occurred between police and the same gang suspected of having murdered Sergeant Rosenfeld.

THANKSGIVING DINNER
Rhode Island Jews take no back seat in the way that Thanksgiving Day is celebrated here. The holiday brings the college boys and girls back home to the family fireside and brother, sister, uncle and aunt again join the family group if it be for part of the day. A typical Turkey Day includes the Brown-Colgate game at eleven in the morning, then home for the holiday dinner and then a rest period before the festivities of the evening which is the highlight of the day.

Probably ninety per cent of Providence society and the other ten per cent which consider themselves society will be found at the Biltmore at the annual dinner dance of Temple Emanu-El which usually attracts hundreds. Other affairs conducted by fraternities and sororities will attract the younger set. Up to a few years ago, the Thanksgiving Night event was sponsored by our Jewish Orphanage but when that institution was included in the Community Fund, this date was secured by Temple Emanu-El's Sisterhood who now conduct one of the finest affairs of the season. If you take a "peek" into the Biltmore ballroom on Thanksgiving night you will see "who is who" in Rhode Island Jewry.

JEWISH WAR VETERANS DEDICATE NEW HOME

Our Rhode Island Post, No. 23, Jewish War Veterans fittingly dedicated their new home on Niagara Street on Sunday afternoon when the National Commander, Abraham Kraditor, was the guest of honor. This event climaxed a two day visit of the commander and staff during which time they were received by our Governor and the Mayors of Providence and Newport.

The Rhode Island Post since its organization but eight years ago has made itself a vital force in our community and is entitled to the congratulations and good wishes of all of us on the dedication of its new home. The schoolhouse on Niagara Street which it purchased from the city has been completely remodeled and has an auditorium seating over 300 people, and meeting rooms for the Post and its Ladies Auxiliary.

The Jewish War Veterans have 164 posts throughout the country with 20,000 members. The local post has a membership of 157 war veterans with a fine Ladies' Auxiliary. This year it has also organized a 30 piece military band which made its first appearance in the Armistice Day parade. Barney Taber is the present commander.

Paul Robin was the chairman of the Sunday festivities and noted were: the Irving Pastors, Maurice Moskols, Max Blumenthals, Aaron Mellons, Irving Epstein, Maurice Lipson, Joe Schlossberg, Reuben Sugarman, Leo Wine, George Silberman, Joe Fields, Joe Elovitz, Council Frank Scholard, Abe Halpert, Sam Michaelsons, Dr. Jack Rouslin, Irving Glantz with that trick moustache, Dr. Carl Jagolinzer, Walter Adler, Rabbi Schussheim, General Henry De Witt Hamilton who has long been a good and sincere friend of the local post, and Mrs. Rose Halpert who is the present head of the local auxiliary.

A collation was served and I spotted Esmond Borod and Max Ball doing the serving in fine fashion... the boys looked fine in their khaki uniforms... and all in all it was a splendid affair. I would like to see the national convention brought here next year... it would be a fine feature of our Percentenary celebration and the local post would prove fine hosts.

YOUNG JUDEA CONVENTION

It was inspiring to see the more than 200 young people who attended the sessions here at Temple Beth-Israel over the week-end. They came from all sections of New England. Young Judea is the junior organization of the Zionist Organization of America and numbers in its membership more than 20,000 young people who belong to more than 600 clubs scattered throughout the country... Morris Block is the president of the Rhode Island Council which is the senior body and has supervision of the activities of the 11 clubs which comprise the local state group and which includes 200 young people on its membership roles.

Joseph Keller, prominent local Zionist was instrumental in organizing the local group and is its supervisor... the convention sessions opened with a dance on Saturday night and a mass meeting featured the Sunday sessions... the local clubs meet at the Temples here and at other places throughout the state... prominent speakers addressed the convention sessions, including Louis Rucker of New York, who is president of National Young Judea... the sessions closed on Sunday evening with a banquet at which Mrs. Morris Sheer, honorary president of local Hadasah was chairman... Young Judea is a world-wide whole movement and the local group are entitled to our congratulations for the stimulating sessions which were held here.

SIDELIGHTS

Dr. Maurice Mellion, adjutant of the Jewish War Veterans is also a member of our State Board of Chiropractic and is one of our many locals who hold public office... Murray Brown they say keeps his radio on all night so softly and it serves as an alarm clock in the morning which of course pleases boss Phil Glanzman very much... the Nat Ross never miss a wrestling match at the

State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations

A Proclamation
By His Excellency
Theodore Francis Green
GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, for almost three hundred years it has been the custom here to set aside at harvest-time a special day of Thanksgiving;
NOW THEREFORE, I, THEODORE FRANCIS GREEN, Governor of the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, do designate
THURSDAY, THE 28th DAY OF NOVEMBER, A. D. 1935
As a Day of

Public Thanksgiving

so that we the people of this State may not only individually but collectively offer our heartfelt thanks to Almighty God for his care and guidance of us through the trying days of the past year. We are thankful for the wisdom and strength He has given the people and their leaders to contend with the extraordinary demands of a great economic emergency and for the success which is crowning their efforts. Let us not only offer thanks for what we have received and for what has been accomplished, but prayers for His continuing aid to this State and this nation and the world at large. Let those who are blessed with family ties join in strengthening them by family reunions according to ancient custom. At the same time let us remember those who are without family ties or who are unable to hold such reunions, especially our neighbors who are underprivileged. We are thankful for the manifold advantages we as citizens of Rhode Island and America have. Let us resolve to place public service above private gain; the general welfare of our fellowmen above our mere private advantage; and humanity above mere material prosperity. On this day let our national and State colors be appropriately displayed on the public and private staffs.

In Testimony Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and cause the seal of the State to be affixed this sixteenth day of November in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five, and of Independence the one hundred sixtieth.

GOOD BUSINESS

When Mrs. S., who keeps roomers, went to insert a newspaper ad to fill two vacant rooms, a helpful clerk suggested—
"List your telephone number. Some people like to ask questions before they go looking. Besides, most men want to be sure of a telephone address."
That's why Mrs. S. ordered her telephone at once.
"Even if it only helps hold the roomers I have now, it sounds like good business. It doesn't cost much more and I can use it myself to get errands and to talk to my friends once in a while."
How about you?

Two Feature Productions Open at Majestic on Friday

To see 20th Century romantic comedy, "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo," starring Ronald Colman and coming Friday to the Majestic Theater, is like taking a trip through the gayest and most interesting European centers.

The picture opens in the famous Sporting Club in Monte Carlo, the gambling center of the world. Smartly gowned women and their sophisticated escorts gaze in awe as Ronald Colman, an impoverished Russian Prince, runs a few francs into 10,000,000 francs and breaks the bank.

Then the plot takes Colman back to Paris — the Paris of dazzling cabarets, boulevardiers and Opera de Paris.

In the meantime, Colman has fallen in love with Joan Bennett, hired by the gambling syndicate to lure him back to Monte Carlo. A merry chase ensues which takes Colman through capital after capital until he and the girl whom he is trying to win land in Interlaken, Switzerland, world-famous for its winter sports.

The final scenes are laid in Monte Carlo with Colman losing his fortune, but happy in the achievement of his goal, romance.

In support of Colman and Miss Bennett are Colin Clive, Nigel Bruce and Montagu Love.

Noah Beery, Jr., at Fay's Friday in "Stormy"

Heralded as one of the scenically most beautiful pictures ever filmed and said to relate a most unusual and engrossing story of wild animal life, "Stormy" Universal's spectacular drama of the great outdoors featuring Noah Beery, Jr., and Jean Rogers opens Friday at Fay's Theater.

"Stormy," the title character, is a homeless wanderer who intensely loves horses. Thrown from a speeding train, on which he had stowed away to be near a small colt he had cared for since birth, he later saves the colt when the train is wrecked and its mother is killed. Stormy, himself, is living on a ranch operated by two brothers, one of whom loves horses so much he maintains a huge herd of wild horses on his share of the range. The other brother, a totally different, unscrupulous character, wants to kill the herd of wild horses and use the range for cattle.

Stormy builds a secret corral for the colt, whose father was a wild horse, and trains it but permits it to run with the wild herd. The colt always comes to him at his whistle or call, although no other man can get near him. The part this colt plays in the life of the oddly assorted group of persons and their primitive struggle for the survival of the fittest, makes a most engrossing and fascinating story.

In addition to Miss Rogers and Beery, the cast of "Stormy," which is the picturization of the popular novel by Cherry Wilson and was directed by Louis Friedlander, includes J. Farrell MacDonald, Fred Kohler, Raymond Hatton, Walter Miller, James Burtis.

Mizrachi Parley Features Famed European Leaders

(Special to the Jewish Herald)

NEW YORK—Reports from Mizrachi chapters throughout the United States indicate that the Mizrachi Annual Convention, to be held in Washington, D. C., on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, January 12, 13 and 14, will be the most widely attended parley in the organization's history. Not only will this occasion mark the 25th anniversary of the Movement in America, but it will also be featured by the presence of a distinguished group of European Mizrachi leaders, coming to this country especially for this event.

Heading the European delegation will be Rabbi Meyer Berlin, who is regarded by representative Jewish personalities in all fields of political and religious thought, as one of the greatest living Jewish leaders and scholars.

An old NEW ENGLAND Custom...

.. an old New England Ale

From that first historic feast in the wilderness, in gratitude for the fruits of a year's hardship and toil, comes the fine old New England custom of a day of Thanksgiving, now observed in millions of American homes. . . . In the spirit of that day the Narragansett Brewing Company is grateful to the people of New England . . . grateful and proud because they have chosen The Famous Narragansett Banquet Ale as their favorite. By popular choice this rich, creamy, mellow brew is New England's foremost Ale.
