Britain May Extend Facilities to Refugees Entering Palestine

LONDON (JTA)—The possibility of extending further facilities for the entry of German-Jewish refugees is being investigated by the Palestine Government, it was disclosed this week by Colonial Secretary J. H. Thomas in a written reply to a query by Graham Little.

Mr. Thomas points out in his letter that the degree to which more refugees may be admitted will be determined by the High Commissioner for Palestine on the basis of the country's absorptive capacity.

Mr. Little had asked Mr. Thomas if, in view of the continued persecution of Jews in Germany, steps could not be taken immediately to increase Palestine immigration for the benefit of the German Jews.

German Jews Go Meatless; Nazis Prohibit Kosher Meat

BERLIN (JTA)—Beginning Monday orthodox Jews of Germany were forced to go meatless as a result of an order issued which prohibits importation of kosher meat.

With shechita (orthodox ritual of slaughtering animals for consumption by Jews) prohibited in Germany for some time, the only hope orthodox Jews here had left of obtaining kosher meat rested in possible arrangements that may be made with foreign relief organizations.

Since the ban on shechita, kosher meat has been imported from Hungary and Denmark by the various Jewish com-

American Jew Imprisoned for Five Months

NEW YORK (JTA)—An American Jew and his daughter have been held five months in a German prison without trial on a technical charge of exchange law violation, it was learned this week.

Arrest of the two has been acknowledged by James Clement Dunn, Chief of the State Department Division of Western European Affairs, in a letter to Z. Tygel of the Federation of Polish Jews in America, who wrote to the State Department after an appeal from the family.

Every Effort Made
The Consul General at Stuttgart has reported the case to Washington and "every effort is being made in order that the trial may proceed as promptly as practicable," Mr. Dunn wrote.

The prisoners, Samuel Goodhart, 48, and his daughter, Jennie, 23, of 612 Paris St., Philadelphia, were seized in Baden-Baden on July 11 and are being held in Karlsruhe prison charged with violation of the foreign exchange and registered mark laws.

Both have denied the charges.

In a letter to his son and wife, Mr. Goodhart stated that he has been denied legal counsel.

Mr. Tygel reported the visit of the wife and son and said that they were both in "a very depressed state of mind, the former being on the verge of suicide."

Another member of the family is the 50-year-old crippled mother of Mr. Goodhart, Mrs. Rachel Goodhart, who wrote Mr. Tygel that her son was the sole support of the entire family and that "if anything happens to my children there, they not only kill them but also me."

The committee in charge of arrangements for the dinner, to which only paid-up members are invited, includes Jacob S. Rabinowitz, chairman; Mrs. Ilie Berger, co-chairman; Mrs. Joseph Smith, Mrs. Herman Swartz and Mrs. Morris Shoham.

Jews for Zionism Is Goal Of Movement

Lists Achievements

JERUSALEM (JTA)—Zionism was characterized as a bulwark against assimilation and against Communism by David Ben-Gurion, head of the organization department of the World Zionist Executive, in a press conference.

He declared that it is the movement's aim to conquer the Jewish people for Zionism and to develop Zionist comradeship for the sake of inner unity in the movement.

Discussing the recent World Zionist Congress at Lucerne, Mr. Ben-Gurion listed its greatest achievements as follows:

First, the return to the presidency of the World Zionist Organization of Dr. Chaim Weizmann, veteran Zionist leader and noted scientist.

Secondly, establishment of a coalition executive comprising representatives of the leading Zionist parties.

Thirdly, the transfer to Jerusalem of the organization department.

Others who addressed the conference were Rabbi J. Fishman and Isaac Grunbaum, who share with Mr. Ben-Gurion the organization department portfolio. They called for Zionist education as the basis of Zionist work and for increased effort in the upbuilding of Palestine.

Commercial Laws Against Jews Effective Christmas

BERLIN (JTA)—Regulations restricting Jews in the field of commerce will be promulgated not later than Christmas, it was disclosed in the German press, which reports that the final draft of the regulations has already been prepared.

The announcement lends emphasis to the statement made at Hamburg by General Hermann Goering, Minister of Air, that "Jews will be isolated in commerce as they are isolated in cultural life." General Goering declared that with the promulgation of the Nuremberg laws the larger part of the Nazi program against the Jews has been settled. He added, however, that "other clauses of our program will also be carried out, but their tempo is to be decided only by the Fuehrer."

The press declares that "the law regulating Jewish activities in economics" is based on the Nuremberg laws and will be effective immediately after it has been promulgated.

According to the press the official interpretations of the economic law have already been printed and will be distributed to the courts before the end of the year.

Meanwhile, the Juristische Wechselschicht, organ of the Ministry of Justice, reports that Jewish lawyers will be (Continued on Page Two) baired from practice even before promulgation of the economic law. Quoting for the first time the secret decisions of the Association of National Socialist Jurists, which have the approval of Minister of Justice Franks, the publication points out that there is no reason why application of the Nuremberg laws to the legal profession should be postponed.

Vedanta Society Leader Speaks Before Hadassah

Featured on the program of the Providence chapter of Hadassah who held their meeting last Tuesday afternoon at the Biltmore Hotel was the address of Swami Achilananda, head of the Vedanta Society, who spoke on "How to Solve the Problems of the Near East and Palestine."

"While modern science has brought different types and groups of people together, it has unfortunately not devised any harmonizing factor for these groups," the speaker told the assembly. In his opinion, conflicting racial, religious and economic interests could only be aligned through common understanding and a true spiritual outlook by the peoples of the universe, and not through the medium of external agencies. It has often been proved that the fundamental practice of the spirit of the "brotherhood of man" could be more far-reaching in effect than the oft-time "interested" services of a third party. A question period followed the discourse.

Reports Given

The following reports were given: Mrs. Herman Swartz, treasury; Mrs. Murray H. Goldfarb, membership; Mrs. David E. Feldman, Junior-Senior relations; Mrs. Charles Temkin, sunshine; Mrs. J. D. Grossman, victory luncheon; and Mrs. M. Sheer, Women's League of Rhode Island.

Current Events was read by Mrs. Sydney.

Announcement was made of the formation of a group for cultural study, also appointment of its chairman, Dr. Clara Laitman-Smith. The latter briefly outlined the intended scope of activity for this new department of the organization. Interested members were invited to convene next Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the residence of Mrs. J. Irving, 35 Upson avenue.

Ullian, member of National Hadassah board, would be guest speaker. The observance will honor Miss Henrietta Szold, the founder of Hadassah. On Saturday, December 28, Temple Emmanuel will be the scene of an "Ones Shabbath" gathering, in keeping also with a national Hadassah observance of the 75th birthday of Miss Szold. Mrs. Archibald Silverman will deliver an address.

MONTE CARLO NIGHT PLANNED BY TEMPLE BETH-EL MEN'S CLUB

HARRY M. MEYERS

Millionaires for a night, might well be the theme of the "Monte Carlo" evening planned by the Temple Beth-El Men's Club for their meeting next Tuesday.

Harry M. Meyers, president of the Casino, stated today that persons with less than two million in their pockets will be ineligible to play. The games for the evening are varied and nearly everyone has had some experience in one or several. Games from roulette to ringtons and from dice to chess will be in progress.

The secret of it all is that everyone starts with the same bankroll and those who have won the most millions at the end of the night's play are awarded prizes. No investments but your own presence plus members of your family are necessary.

To conclude the riot of spending and betting there will be a special supper served. H. David Falk, maître of the Casino, will be in charge of arrangements.

Junior Hadassah Planning Supper- Bridge for Members

Plans for the annual paid-up supper bridge to be held January 6 were furthered at a meeting of the Providence section, Junior Hadassah, at a board meeting last Monday at the Biltmore Hotel. Miss Bella Rubinstein presided.

Miss Claire Ernstoff was appointed chairman of the supper bridge and Miss Ann Borovitz was chosen general chairman of the public bridge to be held January 22 at the Biltmore Hotel.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By Samuel E. Finegold

SHALL WE?

We had already started this week's chat with a paragraph advocating the purchase of a defunct Bridge Club located in the center of the city, when we received a notice that it had only last week been purchased and reorganized. However, the idea is still with us that it might be a good idea for us to have a club of our own centrally located where one could enjoy all privileges attending thereto. Such a club might help to solve our problem some nights when you are looking for creditable adversaries and don't feel like "just another game." There are numerous other advantages, and it half a dozen readers care to communicate with us we might get together and organize a club, either for profit or for mutual enjoyment on a self-paying basis. Interested?

REVIEW

We are so insistent upon firmly grounding you in the fundamentals printed last week, that we would like to pause and review them by the question and answer method. If you can answer these questions 100 percent correctly (99 44/100 not acceptable), then you are qualified to proceed. Otherwise you may feel lost in subsequent lessons. (The correct answers appear at the close of this column.)

- What is the rule of Eight?
- What is the 4-5-6 yardstick and how does it utilize the above rule?
- Name the complete table of Honor Tricks.
- Name the HT value of the following: (a) KQ 10, (b) AKQ, (c) Kx, (d) QJx, (e) Axx, (f) AQ 10, (g) A 10, (h) AKQJ, (i) AJ 10, (j) Qx, (k) two Kxx's, (l) two Qxx's, (m) two Jx's, (n) KJx, (o) KJ.
- What is the minimum strength of a four card suit? (1) when it is biddable? (2) when it is rebiddable?
- What is the minimum strength of a five card biddable suit?
- Can you REBID a five card suit even though your partner has denied Adequate Trump Support on the first round? If so, what must you hold in that suit?
- What are the minimum requirements for an opening suit bid of One? How do these vary with your position around the table? with vulnerability and non-vulnerability?

100 percents may proceed!

EXCEPTIONS TO THE RULE
"Lives there a rule with soul so dead which has no exceptions to be made its head?"

There are times when you may open the bidding with hands containing below the minimum requirement of Honor Tricks, providing they have the following distribution:

- You may open with 3½ HT providing that your suit is nearly rebiddable (AJxxx) and the HT are distributed in Three Suits.

Example: AJxxx, Kxx, QKx xx.
2. With 2 plus HT and a 5-4 distribution in both majors.

Example: Sp KJxx, Ht, QJxxx, Lx xx, Cl Ax.
3. With 2 plus HT and two broad biddable suits providing one of them is a major.

There are two other occasions which we hesitate to mention for fear that they will be abused and misleading, but here goes:

4. In 2nd or 3rd position NOT vulnerable with AKQxxx and no outside strength. (Suit preferable a major.)

5. Anticipatory bids when in third position. Excepting 4th hand strong and possible play by him at No Trump you may open with 1½ HT and a rebiddable suit. This is solely for lead directing purposes.

ONE NO TRUMP

Opening bids on One No Trump, vulnerable or not, should be made when the hand contains 4 HT distributed in THREE suits and A-3-3-3 distribution even if the four-card suit is biddable. This informs your partner that you have half of the Honor Tricks in the deal and at least three trumps in any biddable suit he may have. With a fairly solid minor of 5 cards you may so bid on 5-3-3-3 hands. With at least 3½ HT you may open One No Trump providing you also have at least 8 cards in your hand higher than the ten (Honor Cards as differentiated from Honor Tricks).

ANSWERS

- The rule of Eight claims that in a normal deal there will be distributed between 8 and 8½ HT around the table.
- Combined hands of 4 to 5 HT will produce one odd (seven tricks) 5-5 about two odd, and 6 HT will yield game. 6½ to 8½ are indicative of a possible slam depending on distribution. For suit bids the above may be reduced by ½ HT if the hands fit.
- 2 HT. AK.
- HT. An Ace, KQ, KJ 10, and Kx and Qx of different suits. ½ HT Kx, QJx, or two Qx's. Plus values or ¼ HT. Singleton K, Qx, two Jx's, and Jx when in such combination as AJx and KJx.
- (a) one plus, (b) two, (c) ½, (d) ½, (e) 1 plus, (f) ½, (g) 1, (h) 2, (i) 1 plus, (j) plus value only, (k) 1, (l) ½, (m) plus value, (n) ½ plus, (o) ½.
- (1) QJxx, (2) never rebiddable.
- Five to the Jack (Jxxxx).
- With five to the AK, or when headed by three Honor cards (QJ 10xxx).
- 2½ HT with a rebiddable suit or 3 HT with a biddable suit. These do not vary with position or vulnerability although (1) we would hesitate opening with bare minimums in 3rd or 4th position when vulnerable, (2) or when opponents have part score.

Lack of Prov. Jewish Choral Group Scored

(Editor's Note.—In the following article, the writer, in response to numerous queries, has gathered information as to the advantages of a Jewish choral group similar to those organized in other cities.)

By WALTER RUTMAN

Many people fail to realize that music has a social as well as an artistic significance. They are inclined to think of music as something performed by highly trained and highly paid specialists, and not in any way connected with their own habits of life.

Yet in every country, where music has flourished as an art it has been strongly built upon a strong social foundation, deeply embedded in the hearts of the everyday men, women and children, who took what part they could in musical self-expression and thus provided a far stronger and healthier appreciation of the work of their professional, creative and interpretive artists.

Social Values

The ancient Chinese philosopher, Confucius, said that "when music and courtesy are better understood and appreciated, there will be no war." If anyone would question the social value of music, it should be enough to point out that it is invariably used when any gathering organization desires to create a community of feeling or harmony and congeniality of spirit.

When we examine the records of ancient civilized nations ("Fundamentals of Music and Art," Schaffner and Spaeth), we discover such a passionate devotion of chorus singing that we must conclude that it satisfied a powerful and innate craving for self-expression by the people and that their leaders recognized its immense value for unifying racial and national consciousness.

After the safe passage of the Red Sea, Moses, deeply subdued in the spirit of government and leadership, fittingly dramatized the event by means of a colossal pantomime dance in which the whole tribe took part.

First Chorus

A selected male chorus led by Moses was answered by a chorus of women under the leadership of Miriam, while a grand chorus of the people thundered out the refrains of jubilation, accompanied by a huge band of instrumental players.

Few nations utilized music so effectively for political and governmental purposes as did the ancient Hebrews. The records of no other nation reveal such a prodigious and impressive use of music for religious, ceremonial and social purposes as well.

They invested their fervent religious rites with great pomp and magnificence. Trained musicians with solemn measures attended the procession transporting the Ark from one place to another. Elaborate rituals celebrating the Passover and other Jewish festivals were devised. A royal chapel, provided with a trained chorus of men and women, was attached to Solomon's court.

Civilization Unkind

But modern civilization has not been kind to the chorus. The automobile and the motion picture theatre tempt both young and old to find their pleasure and recreation elsewhere. It has become necessary to prove to people that there is fun in singing together, even though the performance is not tinged with professional completeness.

It has often been said that if enough people are taking part in a performance, the artistic quality does not matter so much, and it is actually far better than would seem possible. It is quite true that untrained voices can produce distinctly musical effects when massed under inspiring leadership, and individual shortcomings of quality or pitch are literally swallowed up in the general results of the ensemble.

It has been said of such music that it is more fun for the players or singers than the listeners. This is true of all communal artistic effort, but it is all worth while if the participants have derived from such activity the thrill of honest self-expression.

Endearing Music

But the pleasure is not all on the side of the singer. The listener, as has been proved by previous concerts in Providence, gains as much delight in hearing music dear to his heart but which he can only hear once or twice a year, if at all. Providence, as a community, has sufficient Jewish voices to make several choral groups. It is deplorable that both singers and listeners have been deprived of the pleasure that can be gained from a choral society. The singers are available; past concerts show the listeners want to hear what, then, is wrong with Providence Jews that they permit this state of conditions to exist?

INTERMEDIATE GROUP ELECTS OFFICERS

Mrs. Harry Tolpinsky was elected president of the Intermediate Miriam Hospital Association at a meeting at the home of Miss Josephine Horowitz in Blackstone street. Other officers chosen were Mrs. Samuel Tarkay, first vice-president; Mrs. Sarah Bloom, second vice-president; Miss Jennie Lecht, third vice-president; Miss Sarah Pavlov, secretary; Miss Josephine Horowitz, treasurer; and Mrs. Milton Schoenberg, publicity.

It was voted to hold a Bingo party on January 2 at the Hebrew School on Chester avenue. Miss Sarah Pavlov and Mrs. Milton Schoenberg were appointed as ticket committee.

THE CENTER PROGRAMS

We wonder how many took the time and trouble to glance over the Sunday evening programs that the Community Center has arranged for the winter season? The choice in speakers and entertainers makes certain that the diversified tastes of everyone will be satisfied. Included on the list are Dr. Alfred Adler, famous Viennese psychologist; Nicholas Roosevelt, diplomat and lecturer; James Waterman Wise, orator and lecturer; Albert Rappaport, Chicago Civic Opera tenor; Carl Sandburg, poet; Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., and Ludwig Lewisohn.

These men are brought to Providence for the cultural and vigorous viewpoints they are able to discuss. They bring years rich in experience and thought to prick our minds as to what is occurring elsewhere. And it should be from a selfish motive that we attend these Sunday evening programs. We obtain more in exchange for the admission fee than we give. Our mental thoughts are given a joust and our subjective atmosphere is pierced allowing these new and vital ideas to enter. Here is really one instance where you can have your cake and eat it.

THEY MUST EMIGRATE

(Chicago Chronicle)

Disclosure that the German Zionists have changed their attitude on emigration was made in an editorial in the Juedische Rundschau, Zionist organ, which pointed out that the situation of the Jews in Germany has reached the point where Zionist leaders in that country are not particular whether emigration is directed toward Palestine or toward any other country as long as it proceeded rapidly.

Emphasizing that it speaks in the name of thousands of German Jews irrespective of party affiliation, the Rundschau appealed to all nations to open their gates to German Jewry.

"Since the proclamation of the Nuremberg laws," it writes, "this matter has become even more urgent than before. A large part of the Jews have no prospect of maintaining their economic existence in Germany, much less founding a new one."

"No proof is needed for those living in Germany that the desire to emigrate is greatly increasing. All Jewish emigration offices are besieged by those seeking advice."

"Many German Jews look with great anxiety to the future. They must master the enormous experience to which they have been exposed and they stand before the mighty mental and physical demands that finding a new home makes on every individual. It is necessary to visualize uncounted individual fates in order to keep free from all bureaucratic routine."

"These people have gone through much, but their strength is not broken; on the contrary, it has been pushed out into reality."

"For some, Palestine has proved their salvation, but tens of thousands do not know where to turn. Therefore, we appeal to the nations of the earth; open your gates, we want to work and we shall be grateful to you."

Although a Zionist organ, it admits that Palestine cannot take all of them and it says that the League of Nations emigration relief organization, under James G. MacDonald, High Com-

THE WEEK

(A digest of the news events of the week)

Palestine Drives Planned

Three American Palestine moves were launched this week. The "United Front for Palestine" parley joined together for the first time as equal partners the Keren Hayesod (Palestine Foundation Fund) and the Keren Kayemeth (Palestine Land Redemption Fund) in a drive for $2,500,000, supported by virtually every other American Palestine group. The National Labor Committee for Palestine set a $250,000 quota for 1936 in its own meeting.

Hadassah women reported in convention at Cleveland real progress toward the new Rothschild Hadassah University Hospital being built in Palestine, and budgets for this year, December 21, birthday of Hadassah's founder, is to be observed as Hadassah Sabbath. Miss Szold is coming to America for this and other matters, including a further harmonization of Hadassah's work with that of the Zionist Organization.

Meanwhile, in Palestine, Jewish groups asked for protection from Arab terrorists, and Arab workers asked for permission to demonstrate against Jewish pickets, "spreading Jewish influence" and Jewish immigration. Heavy rains led to floods in low lands in the Sharon Valley and on Tel Aviv's outskirts.

J. D. C. Gives Report

The American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, which has particularly concerned itself with the status of German refugees during the past few years, along with its extensive work in retraining Jewish youths in various lands for functional occupations, issued its annual report. It discloses that $2,654,000 was spent on European Jews for relief in Germany and Eastern Europe from Spring, 1933, to September, 1935, including emigration to Palestine and relief in refugee countries. The condition of Jews in Europe was described as becoming increasingly worse, and the need as greater.

Felix M. Warburg, honorary chairman of the J. D. C., stated that "we will continue, as we have from the beginning of our work in 1914, to include Palestine in our efforts, but we will have to concentrate on bringing aid to the German and Polish Jews."

New Terror in Poland

While official circles continue to condemn attacks by Endeks and other anti-Semitic groups upon Jews, these assaults continue to such an extent as to terrify vast number of Jews throughout Poland. Jews have been killed or seriously injured within this period, and new attacks upon Jewish students have been made by student anti-Semites in Poznan and Lwow.

Rumanian Anti-Semites Unite

In Rumania new attacks were made upon Jews, particularly at universities. The Premier and the Minister of the Interior both gave assurances of doing all within their power to curb extremists from attacks and increasing anti-Semitic agitation in Rumania. Meanwhile the three anti-Semitic parties joined together to form a powerful parliamentary bloc, to act against Jews.

Other News...

The Anglo-Nazi soccer game passed without incident although vigorous protests prevented a parade of the Nazi players and 10,000 Germans who accompanied them. . . . The Manchester Guardian backed the version reported by the Jewish Telegraphic Agency of the "Railbor" game, which occurred in Breslau, Germany, rather than in Ratibor, Silesia, and led to the slaying of Edmund Baumgartner, a Jew, by a Nazi mob. . . . Berlin Jews are now subject to arrest if seen with "Aryans" in public. . . .

missioner for German Refugees, has proved a "complete debacle." Mr. MacDonald is reported in the paper to have resigned from the relief organization, the resignation to take effect December 15.

BOOK NOTES

By Esther Levine

"Mrs. Astor's horse." (By Stanley Walker. (Frederick A. Stokes Co.)

Are you one of those people who are too stuffy high-minded to relax comfortably and enjoy a dish of gossip seasoned with the right amount of good humored malice and decorated with jovial barbs or irony? Or, do you, being comfortably normal, like to hear about the people who, for sundry reasons, make the headlines?

In a light, graphic style Mr. Walker has recreated the America of the 1920's and 1930's with its exaggerations and giddy escapades. He calls these "examples of curious Americana, particularly in the field of the ornate and overstuffed." However, he identifies himself with the times by admitting to a taste for "tattersall waistcoats and riding in red taxicabs."

In the old days, Mrs. William Astor was the real queen of Newport. The practices of her "court" caused people to describe anyone slowly belted as "dressed up like Mrs. Astor's pet horse." This book is America "dressed up." It is like an extended "Did you know that?" column in a newspaper with the answers written by an expert. Mr. Walker is the city editor of the New York Herald-Tribune.

For example, did you know that there are four sets of society and each set has decidedly different ideas on who are the right people? The international set, led by Vincent Astor, can be crashed if you are clever or amusing enough, but it is not so easy to marry into. Mrs. "Jimmy" Corrigan did what all of us dream of doing in one form or another. She wasn't accepted by Newport so she went abroad. Now, she likes to send postcards to her friends from all the exclusive houses where she is entertained.

There is an interesting chapter on the souvenir hunting tendencies of the American people. The Morro Castle disaster attracted a host of people who actually paid admission to get a clear view of the burning wreck. A change of direction in the wind put an end to the sensation seekers when the stench of the burnt green hides which the ship carried reached them. New York's reception of the visitors are reviewed. They were hardly exclusive—channel swimmers, foreign statesmen, heroes, trans-oceanic fliers and royalty were all welcomed by being showered with discarded ticket-stubs and other waste-basket debris. Queen Marie of Romania said, "sure I like to return to America next time and see America." This time America saw me.

Even the gangsters, or perhaps it should be especially the gangsters caught the fever of "showing off." Frankie Yale's coffin was reported to have cost fifteen thousand dollars. Clocks with the hands pointing dramatically to the hour of death made entries of flowers were popular accoutrements at such affairs.

There are many fascinating accounts of these "dizzy" times. In a chapter called "Fishwives in the temple," Mr. Walker recalls the Long-Coughlin-Johnson argument. He thinks honors went to Hugh Johnson as a master of invective. . . . The astonishing "Daddy" Browning is described as a hard business man with a predilection for young girls and publicity (good or bad).

Rudly Vallee's rules for house guests at his lodge are amusing and may explain his marital difficulties. . . . Sally Rand has a chapter of her own called "Fassion fanny."

Mr. Walker thinks Aimee Semple McPherson the most successful evangelist of her time. She has sex appeal.

The book has a delightful intimacy. Over and over again above the irresistible chuckles, rises the thought, "this all happened right around me—indeed, I am a part of it. I am really laughing at myself and my times."

READING SUGGESTIONS
"I write as a pleasure," by Walter Durranty. (Simon and Schuster). An intensely interesting autobiographical account of Mr. Durranty's fourteen years in Russia. Reviewed last week.
"The untold story of exploration," by Lowell Thomas. (Dodd, Mead Co.). In this Mr. Thomas has collected exciting stories of little known adventures and adventures. Names little known and deeds not always appreciated for their full value are described dramatically and picturesquely. A good book for the bedside traveler on a cold wintry night.

Around The Town

With JOSEPH M. FINKLE

FLASHES—HERE AND THERE

William Cardinal O'Connell of Boston, great and beloved prince of the Catholic church and always a friend of the Jews was awarded, last week, the weekly carnation of the Jewish Advocate of Boston on the occasion of his 76th birthday. In making the award the Advocate said, "a great religious leader and a living exponent of the brotherhood of man."

As predicted in this column several weeks ago, the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States in convention in New York over the week-end, recommended to the American Olympic Committee, United States participation in the coming games to be held in Germany. This is a severe blow to the forces, both Jew and Gentile, who have fought against our sending teams to the Hitler nation, but their efforts has tendered to focus the attention of the nation to the undemocratic principles under which the games will be held which are a direct violation of the Olympic code for which the games were created. Even though participation was voted, sentiment has been so aroused that the Olympic committee will be hard pressed to obtain the funds to send the United States teams to Germany.

The United Palestine Appeal will begin here on January 12 with a showing of the motion picture "The Land of Promise" at the Carlton Theatre. This graphic film depicts the story of the Jewish homeland. Dr. Ilie Berger, prominent local Zionist leader, is temporary chairman of the committee. The U. P. A. appeal is very much recommended and its workers should receive a cordial and welcome reception in every Jewish home.

The whole town is waiting with baited breath the forthcoming appearance of this Sunday night at the Plantations Club of the "1925 Jewish Centre Follies." Harry Herbert, director of this year's production, is well pleased with the results already achieved in rehearsal and incidentally this talented coach who hails from Lawrence, Mass., is the director of the Lawrence Jewish Community Center and is a former Syracuse University football star who gained nationwide publicity several years ago when he played through part of the gridiron season with a broken neck. The results of his work will be seen by a large audience on Sunday night.

I understand that the "Florinda Sextette" is hard at work on a new and better version of what the public likes and let me mention to them that Providence audiences are a critical lot and would be to them if they do not live up to advance notices. They tell me that Milt Sapinsky, that southern gentleman and exponent of the dance, together with that musical comedy star, Arthur Basok, will "bring" down the house. Sam Workman will officiate as master of ceremonies and this is a guarantee that the performance will run off smoothly—a capacity house is expected, so arrive early for good seats.

TIMELY GOSSIP

Harry Marinsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Marinsky, has been made art director of the magazine "American Home" and another local boy makes good in the "big city." Archie Faine, Syd Hamel, Jack Temkin, and Fallriverie Phil Kaplan were among those noted on the bridal paths last Sunday morning around Seekonk way—remember "bridal" in this connection means "horries" so please do not get me wrong. Mrs. Herman Roth, the former Hazel Kewler was in the town the past week visiting the family and friends and looking so happy and the triplets are doing fine, thank you. The best of wishes to Dr. Phil

"Metropolitan" Offers Drama, Comedy, Music

America's favorite baritone, Lawrence Tibbett, returns to the screen in "Metropolitan," the 26th century production, coming today to the Majestic Theatre, as the star of a picture that sets new high standards in musicals.

In the course of the dramatic comedy, which traces the adventures of a young singer in pursuit of fame and romance, Tibbett sings selections from the operas, "Carmen," "Pagliacci" and "The Barber of Seville," as well as a duo of popular numbers.

Romantic complications beset Tibbett's path in "Metropolitan." In love with Virginia Bruce, he cannot reveal his attachment because Alice Brady loves him. She is a temperamental prima donna, and Tibbett's fate, and that of the company, hang on her good will.

The temperamental tantrums and diatribes of operatic celebrities who surround Tibbett furnish many of the picture's comedy moments.

When Tibbett decides that he cannot pretend for Miss Brady's sake any longer, the company faces a crisis, without money or supporters.

The climax shows how this gallant band of performers rally round their leader and come through with a crashing success.

Personally produced by David E. Zanuck and directed by Richard Boleslawski, "Metropolitan" features Cesar Romero, Luis Alberni, Thurston Hall, and George Alanby, Sr. in its supporting cast.

"Hitch Hike to Heaven," a Merry Comedy, Opens at Fay's Today

The old arguments as to whether the screen needs stage stars, or whether it can get along very well with its own trained talent, is settled very amicably by Inevitable Pictures Corporation. Settled, it is hoped once and for all.

In casting its latest picture, a comedy-drama entitled "Hitch Hike to Heaven," which opens at Fay's Theatre today, Inevitable has taken its players from the cream of both the stage and screen, and just to prove that it doesn't show any favorites, it has also employed the services of some well-known vaudeville stars.

Coming from the stage, are Henrietta Crossman, Herbert Rawlinson, Al Shean, and Lela Bliss. The screen's contribution is Russell Gleason, Polly Ann Young, Crawford Kent, and Anita Page, who has also taken a fling at vaudeville. Lastly, the variety stage adds Syd Saylor and Harry Holman to the "hitch hikers." And, this idea of combining the talent of stage and screen also extends into the technicians, who worked on the picture: for Lon Young, the production manager, is a product of the stage having gained fame throughout the country as the master magician, The Great Lorenzo. The story was written by an ex-actor, Robert Ellis but the film's director is a thorough Hollywood product, Frank R. Strayer.
