Nazi Foreign Trade Drops in 3 Years Boycott Believed Responsible for Sharp Decline

NEW YORK (JTA) — German exports to the United States have slumped 49 percent in the last three years. The Reich's world export has taken a dip of 37 percent in the same period.

These are, in brief, the fruits of the boycott which anti-Nazis throughout the world have waged against the regime in power in Germany today. The results of the boycott are covered in a statistical report made public by the Non-Secretarian Anti-Nazi League, covering German trade for 1932, 1933, 1934 and the first part of 1935.

The report reveals that German exports of cotton textiles had dropped 75 percent. But other figures are even more startling.

For instance, the once thriving German toy export trade has been cut by 85 percent.

German fur exports have suffered a 60 percent decline.

In a statement accompanying the report, the Anti-Nazi League says: "These figures amply prove the success of the boycott. If more proof is needed, it is furnished by Mr. Schacht himself, the financial dictator of Germany, who has openly admitted that Nazism stands or falls with the success or failure of Germany's export trade."

He has resorted to means which no government has been known to use during peace-time, that is, depriving the industries of the entire country of their profits for the purpose of raising an export fund of one billion marks, avowedly in order to subsidize the efforts of German manufacturers to dump their products abroad at any price.

"It seems, however," the statement continues, "that Mr. Schacht omits one fact from consideration. He may succeed in taking all the profits from German industries and have the export industries attempt to sell their goods at any price. However, he may scarcely expect to succeed in finding outside of Germany a sufficient number of people who would be willing to bargain their reaction to the Nazi system of barbarism for cheap goods."

In the report, for the purpose of comparison, the first four months of 1932, the pre-Nazi year, are compared with the same period of the subsequent years.

The total exports for that period in 1932 were $28,000,000. In 1933 there was a precipitous drop to $20,500,000 and in 1934 there was what superficially appeared to be a rise to $25,750,000. But, it was pointed out, the United States meanwhile went off the gold standard and the figures for 1934 and

Anti-Nazi Meeting Slated for Aug. 12 at Vets' Quarters

Fearing that the present fall in oppression and persecution under Hitler is merely a blind to cover anti-Semitic activities which will be intensified when public opinion "forgets," the Rhode Island Council, American Jewish Congress, last Monday night voted to stage a mass meeting Monday, August 12, at which time they will urge that Providence Jewry continually support the anti-Nazi resolutions they have adopted.

Plans for the general open meeting will be completed at a Council meeting next Monday night, Alter Boyman announced today. Under the direction of Dr. Ilie Berger the protest movement is swiftly pointing to enforcement of the recommended resolutions which were:

That the League of Nations be urged to invoke economic sanctions against Nazi Germany;

That the United States government revoke its present commercial treaties with Nazi Germany and refuse to renew commercial relations as long as the present policy is continued;

That the American public at large support a policy of isolation of Germany through the use of a boycott as an expression of the condemnation of the American people of the revolting practice of the Hitler government;

To establish co-operation between representatives of Jewish interests, of labor interests, of the Catholic Church, of the Protestant Church and of all persecuted groups in Germany in all matters pertaining to the German situation;

That the Amateur Athletic Union and the American Olympic Committee rescind America's conditional acceptance of Germany's invitation to participate in the 1936 Olympics "as a solemn obligation in defense of the spirit of sportsmanship and the principles upon which the Olympic games are founded";

That American educational institutions refuse the exchange of students and professors from Nazi Germany on the ground that such an exchange "must be regarded as the introduction of agents of the Hitler regime within the United States who carry on Nazi propaganda (Continued on Page Six)

City's Jews Must Abhor Nazi Goods

Only by Strict Observance Will Ban be Effective

That apathy and indifference by Providence Jewry will help weaken the present boycott against Nazi Germany was the conclusion JEWISH HERALD investigators reached following a canvass of department and retail stores in Providence as to the active strength of the Jewish boycott against goods of German origin.

In traversing among the various departments where German goods predominated it was evident from examinations of labels and trademarks that Providence business men had been influenced by the storm of public protest which began two years ago and had materially reduced or eliminated their purchases of German articles. Especially during Christmas, when shopping enthusiasm was at its peak, careful attention was given to the toy departments to make sure that no German goods remaining from previous years were placed on sale.

But when Hitler and company supposedly modified their attack on Jews, the local boycott slowly waned; and during the past year, salesgirls said, little or no interest was shown by shoppers about the origin of manufacture of their purchases. If it suited their needs, they bought it, was the consensus of opinion.

Anti-Semitism Will Continue

Providence Jewry should realize from Nazi activities of the past weeks that at no time will their anti-Semitic activities cease. It is a mistake to assume that the campaign is waning or is even being modified. Its outward aspect is being changed; that is all. Individual persecutions are being coordinated into more effective mass action.

Despite the flood of empty promises the battle against Jews is being waged by the state by new methods, the true character and mode of operation of which cannot be so easily perceived by foreign eyes. If world conscience and sympathy is lulled by Hitler's pretty speeches, the position of German Jews will be tragic indeed.

Examples of the new campaign are numerous. Jewish mail order houses have been practically put out of business because provincial patrons fear to receive parcels coming from them. In Berlin most Jewish firms make deliveries in unidentified motor trucks to avoid embarrassment to patrons. Towns in the Cologne district are forbidding Jews to settle in them; nor are they permitted to own property.

Only Aryans may be judges and these must be sympathetic to the Nazi cause. Any co-operation of Germans with Jews brings punishment.

In similar fashion the ruination (Continued on Page Six)

Jewish Papers in Poland Prevented from Printing News Hostile to Hitler or Nazis

WARSAW (JTA) — The entire Jewish press in Warsaw has published a complaint against the police authorities. The papers report that the police have started a new systematic drive against Jewish peddlers, making it impossible for thousands of them to eke out a living.

The Polish-Jewish press is prevented from condemning the Nazi authorities for the renewed anti-Jewish terror in Germany. The agreement existing between the Polish government and Germany, has made it impossible for Jewish publications here to voice a protest against Germany without being prosecuted by the government.

A number of Jewish merchants here are soon to stand trial for writing letters to German firms refusing to represent them in Poland because of the anti-Jewish persecutions in Germany. The Polish government to whom copies of the letters were transmitted by the German authorities has seen in these letters a direct insult to Hitler as the head of the German government.

Lawyers defending the merchants contend that the letters were written before Hitler took the place of the late President Hindenburg. He was then not yet the head of the Reich. Consequently the lawyers argue the writers of the letters could not be held to have insulted the head of a foreign government.

Arabs Insist Jews Should Colonize Land

DAMASCUS, Syria (JTA) — At a stormy meeting of the district council at Alexandrette, a majority of Arab members of the council voiced vigorous opposition to Vice Consul Durieux's proposal to grant concessions for Armenian and Assyrian colonization in the Al Omek area, which has been frequently mentioned as a possible site for Jewish colonization.

The Durieux proposal, which would give preference to the Armenians and Assyrians over the Jews, was greeted with such a storm of protest that it failed to be approved by the council.

Spokesmen for the Arab councilors angrily demanded that Jews be permitted to colonize the territory. They insisted that Jews do not endanger their interests while the others would seriously impair their position.

Palestine's Only Silk Mills Shut Because of Competition from Japan

TEL AVIV (JTA) — The dumping of Japanese goods into Palestine resulted in the shutting of the large Sacks Silk Mills, built and owned by an American Jew, a former resident of Passaic, N. J.

The Sacks Silk Mills, which were built in Ramath Gan, a suburb of Tel Aviv, several years ago, employed 120 workers, all of whom received notice of dismissal on Sunday.

The Sacks Silk Mills were the only silk mills in Palestine. They represented an investment of $400,000. The competition developed by Japan, however, resulted in Japanese silk being sold in Palestine cheaper than it could be produced locally.

The closing of the mills created considerable stir in Palestine industrial circles. A movement was immediately started to induce the Palestine government to ask the League of Nations for permission to introduce special tariffs for goods from Japan, since Japan is no longer a member of the League of Nations, which has jurisdiction over Palestine.

JEWISH SPORT NOTES

By MORRIS WEINER

The American Olympic Stand Time and again in these columns this writer has steadfastly deplored the stand taken by the American Olympic Committee in accepting the invitation of the Nazi government to the 1936 Olympic Games.

The American Olympic Committee decided that it would send an American athletic contingent to Berlin in the summer of 1936 because there was no real evidence of German discrimination against Jews in sports.

At the time this resolution was adopted Mr. Avery Brundage, president of the A.O.C. declared that the pledge of good faith given to him while he was in Berlin by the highest German authorities would be kept. In fact, so convinced was Mr. Brundage that this pledge "that Jews will not be discriminated against" that he employed every device, person and otherwise, to sway the Olympic committee to his decision.

Only last week the Associated Press carried dispatches saying that "Jews may be outlawed by Nazis." This was the bait that Avery Brundage swallowed with the proverbial hook, line and sinker.

We urge once again, as we have pleaded for the past two years, that every Jew and Gentile in this country should fight against the decision of the American Olympic Committee to participate in the 1936 Berlin Olympics.

The A. A. U. Filasco The Amateur Athletic Union of the United States is one of the most powerful sport organizations in the world. Its financial resources, its influence, and its sporting facilities make it what it is.

The A. A. U. meeting in convention in Pittsburgh in 1933 adopted a resolution to the effect that no American athlete would be certified to participate in German sports if the Hitler government continued in its policy of discrimination. The writer was the first to praise the move of the A. A. U.

However, last December, the A. A. U. meeting in Miami, completely shelved the issue. It was decided to commit that the Olympic question should be waylaid until the 1935 convention. The Facts behind the A. A. U. Convention.

When the delegates from 45 states met in Miami in December, they were met by everybody's mind was "What shall we do about the Olympic stand." The Associated Press once again bears witness to these words.

Fourteen Jews were present as delegates. It was expected that these 14 Jewish delegates would lead the attack. Sheriff William C. Haddock, of Pittsburgh, a Gentile, was the champion of this cause. One word to him from these Jewish delegates and he would fight with all his strength for a cause which he was convinced was a just one.

These 14 Jews met in a private session and decided that the issue would not be placed before the house, Haddock, completely baffled by an unexpected move, told the Associated Press that this step completely tied his hands. He claimed that politics was behind the entire situation.

Whether the politics Sheriff Haddock referred to meant:

1. That Charles Ornstein, only Jewish member of the American Olympic Committee, was behind this. Mr. Ornstein, chairman of the Olympic Housing Committee in 1932, may have been seeking the post for 1936. Knowing that the A. O. C. was in favor of participation and the A. A. U. decidedly not, Mr. Ornstein may have swayed the committee of 14 to "Lay off."

2. Avery Brundage, ex-president of the A. A. U., was presenting his resignation as chief of the amateur body. He had been leader of this organization for nearly a decade. His "services were considered invaluable." The report of Brundage, delivered at the meeting of the Olympic Committee, committed him to the stand of participation. If the Olympic question was brought up at the A. A. U. convention, Brundage would undoubtedly have been defeated. To administer a defeat to a man whose "services were considered invaluable" was a slap in the face. Therefore the question of participation by American athletes in Berlin in 1936 was shelved.

Leading Sportwriters of Nation Against Participation

Perhaps, if this writer, a Jew and an athlete, were the only one to raise the standard against which deplorable actions of the part of the A. O. C. and the A. A. U., an adequate charge of prejudice might be leveled against him. But, when Westbrook Pegler, erstwhile sports editor of the New York Post, and present columnist for the Scripps-Howard papers, and Joe Williams, sports editor of the New York World Telegram, and Heywood Brown, former sports writer on the New York World and current commentator for the Scripps-Howard chain, raise their shafts arguing against American participation no such charges can be raised.

One thing must be stated in favor of the A. A. U. The 1935 convention, which will be held in New York City, can act on the resolution adopted by its own body in 1933. This is our only hope. We must bend every effort to see that America does not send an athletic contingent to Germany next year. To do so would be an acknowledgment that the Germans have "acted in good faith" and that all this talk about discrimination against Jews in sports, in business, in politics, and in the synagogues was just so much nonsense.

Activities Galore Enjoyed by Guests at Fritz' Camp

At Fritz' Camp on the sandy shores of beautiful Lake Ossipee in the heart of the mountains, merriment and good fellowship always prevail. During the past week, a well-attended series of activities under the supervision of a capable staff was enjoyed by all the guests.

Bright and early Monday morning the young ladies played the men a game of baseball and after a close and thrilling battle the fair sex emerged victoriously. In the afternoon, there was a horsehoe pitching tournament under the supervision of Director of Athletics Ed Wineapple. Harry Spill of Boston was finally declared the champion of the week. After the general swing period in the afternoon, Director Ed gave his daily exercises on the beach. Ed says that he can make those who want to lose five pounds and gain five gain five pounds, he can also do that.

In the evening, the spirit of competition still running high, the guests were divided into two teams, namely the Schleppers and the Schlumpers, and after several well-contested games the Schleppers were declared the winners. This was in addition to our nightly dancing in our spacious ballroom amid the fragrant pines to the melodious strains of Otto Bradbury and his colleagues. After a hearty breakfast on Tuesday morning, and incidentally there is no chef anywhere that can prepare more tempting dishes than our own Chef Louie, all the guests went on a hike up the Green Mountains. At the top of the mountains they were able to scan the country-side for miles around as well as visit the Ice Caves.

In the afternoon there was both boating and swimming on Beautiful Sunset Bay for which Fritz' Camp is known. In the evening there was a ballroom dance that was enjoyed by all.

Wednesday evening there was a cabaret in the spacious dining hall. The dining hall was transformed into a costly night club for the evening. Both guests and staff took part in the floor show.

On Thursday night, under the supervision of Hal Asner, Fritz' campers enjoyed a very elaborately planned lawn party. At the conclusion, hot dogs were served to all.

Friday night was Amateur Radio Talent night and without a doubt there were some who equalled many paid radio stars.

Saturday night, the Fritz' Camp Players presented from "42nd Street to Broadway and Back." The guests were taken from 42nd Street to Minnicky to Ben Bernie's Cafe de Paris then to Cab Calloway's Cotton Club and then back to 42nd Street. There they saw such prominent stars as Al Jolson and his divine missus Ruby Keeler, Ben Bernie, Cab himself, Step and Pecht, the laziest of the laziest.

So, to old and new campers we pass this word—There's Jolly good company waiting for you at Fritz' Camp. Fine, happy folks from New England, New York and elsewhere. There's health and vigor as well waiting for you. Nowhere else will you find just that rare combination of mountain, pine laden air that is the atmosphere of Fritz' Camp. Spirits rise, shoulders spring back, eyes brighten—just as soon as you get within sniffing distance of Sunset Bay. It's a wonderful place!

Many Features at Park View Hotel

Many and varied were the activities at the Park View Hotel, Bethlehem, N. H., this last week. Under the direction of Joe Brons and his staff the guests enjoyed calisthenics, which usually begins the day's activities here. Tennis, ping pong, baseball and swimming were among the afternoon recreations, while dancing and specially planned entertainments amused the guests in the evenings.

On Wednesday evening a show was put on by the social staff. The well known Cantor A. Kantor, of Cleveland, O., entertained with a few very fine selections, and was well received by the listeners. The Cantor also rendered one of his original compositions, the audience acting as his choir.

On Thursday, a hiking party armed with staffs and cameras left after an early breakfast, and ascended Mount Agassiz. The forenoon was spent at the peak taking snapshots and admiring the gorgeous scenery from atop the observation tower.

The staff is at present busy studying parts for bigger and better theatrical productions, which they expect to present during the remainder of the season. They all promise to be both entertaining and novel.

DEVELOPING PALESTINE

Excerpt of an address delivered by Mrs. Archibald Silverman of Providence at the recent National Zionist Convention

From the time I attended my first Zionist Congress in 1927, I realized then and I realize it even more today, that admirable as it would be if Keren Hayesod could do all the colonization work needed in the land—and the need grows greater year by year as the refugees come pouring in—it is impossible for that organization to cope with the problem in its entirety. Particularly is this true now when, due to the falling off of Keren Hayesod collections all over the world, the money is not forthcoming to cover the monster budget necessary.

Furthermore, and this is most important, there are people with small means who can be, and want to be, settled within already established colonies, and since the Keren Hayesod cannot and does not do this kind of settling, it is well that some one is doing it. These settlers are more than happy to be guided and settled by reputable development companies who do not go in for speculation and misrepresentation—it is to be deplored that there are all too few such trustworthy companies, the while there are far too many leeches and bloodsuckers in the land—so, a private company, reputable, managed, properly organized, can do a tremendous piece of work supplementary to the work of the Keren Hayesod in the land.

During a visit to Palestine in 1933 I became interested in the completion of a plan for the formation of a "Gushat Hamayim" (Water Company) and a Planting and development Company. Wells were bored and, to the rejoicing of the populace, water was found. And with the prospect of really finding water, the Israel Development Company, Ltd., was organized, of which I was appointed chairman.

The Israel Development Company, Ltd., stresses and encourages planting that which is needed in the land for Jewish consumption, namely meat, fruits and vegetables. About 75 percent of the vegetables used by the Jews come from Arab, Christian, German, and out of the country sources. This is a tragic state of affairs. In addition, too, the amount of money sent out of the country is positively staggering. After ten years of experimentation in various sections of the land, it has been found that mixed fruits can be grown almost successfully.

In the meantime, the German Department of the Jewish Agency organized a group called Rasseco ("Rasseco" meaning Rural and Suburban Settlement Company) for the purpose of settling German Jews on the soil in agricultural colonies not far from towns and cities. Their representatives suggested an alliance whereby we could work together in a broader colonization project, which I was glad to accept.

My appeal and advice to American Jews then is as follows—just as it has always been—if you own any land in Palestine, by all means go there and develop it! If you cannot go there, or do not want to go there—have it developed for you. You will thus make it possible for Jews to work on your land and make a living thereby; you will make it possible for Palestine to have more Jewish-grown fruit and vegetables; and you, yourselves, will have a revenue therefrom.

If, however, you do not care to plant for yourself or have others plant for you—then let us buy your land for the purpose of settling Jews on it! No Jew, particularly if he is a Zionist, has the right to hold land without developing it, at a time when land is so badly needed.

Furthermore, I appeal once again to your Zionist loyalty—that loyalty that made you buy land from the American Zion Commonwealth in 1926—don't sell your land to anyone without first ascertaining who the purchaser is, and what he intends doing with it—don't sell your land to anyone who may be buying solely for speculation! If you are a Zionist, you can definitely help to discourage speculation by selling to Rasseco! Rasseco assures you that each parcel bought by them will be positively settled upon through their colonization project!

NEW YORK LETTER

By H. W.

(Note to Editors: H. W. was managing editor of the Jewish Daily Bulletin and is now editor of the New York office of the Jewish Telegraph Agency and the T. A. Syndicate. His column, New York Letter, will be a regular weekly feature.)

MAYOR LA GUARDIA ACTS HASTILY — With his usual genius for getting himself into difficult situations, Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia, peppery little Latin with Jewish blood in his veins, precipitated a tempest of no small proportions when he stuck a well-meaning and pudgy finger into a boiling hot international situation.

Alfame with indignation over the Nazi persecution of Jews, the little Mayor of the big city, saw his chance to stick a burr into Herr Hitler's hair. And without counting the consequences, he took it.

A German alien, Mr. K., had applied for a license to operate as a masseur. Commissioner of Licenses Paul Moss, who, incidentally, is Jewish, rejected the application. Through the German Consulate here, the mysterious Mr. K. appealed to the Mayor. The Mayor consulted the city's Corporation Counsel, who advised that the license could not very well be refused. The Corporation Counsel agreed with the contention of the applicant that his case was covered by a commercial treaty between Germany and the United States, signed in 1925. In this treaty, Germans are given equal rights with American citizens to engage in professional, scientific, religious and philanthropic work in this country.

"You're right," says the Mayor, "But you're slight wrong."

When Mr. La Guardia read this opinion of his legalistic aide, it must have given him no end of pain. It gave him so much pain, in fact, that he immediately shot back a reply to the Corporation Counsel in which he admitted the existence of the treaty, but contended that since this treaty was reciprocal, and that since Germany had broken faith with America, he felt entirely justified in supporting Commissioner Moss in his rejection of the license application by Mr. K.

Incidentally, Mr. Moss had not bothered himself with any commercial treaties when he refused the application, made as long ago as last May. His rejection was based on the city's Code of Ordinances which forbids the issuance of special licenses to aliens.

The action of Mayor La Guardia in interpreting an international trade agreement as lacking his support of Commissioner Moss upon this interpretation, has made him the center of one of the most interesting storms stirred up in this city in months. The storm has spread to Washington and has had its repercussions in the Third Reich.

As this column was being written, official Washington was mum on what it unofficially was inclined to criticize as unwarranted interference in international affairs on the part of a municipal officer.

The Press Says

The Mayor is on the spot. The metropolitan press, however, has been less reticent about expressing itself on the entire matter. While practically all of the dailies in New York are inclined to sympathize with the emotions that led the fiery official to use this method of striking back at Hitler on behalf of the Jews his regime is persecuting, they universally deplore his action.

The Herald-Tribune, which makes light of the affair, gently chides the Mayor and counsels that "unless all the parties to this altercation are obsessed beyond reason by the hinterland's ancient libel against New York — that it is neither America nor American, but itself an independent sovereign state — they would all ease matters a lot by admitting, as early as possible, that they have bitten off more than they can chew."

The Daily News convinced that the Mayor has made a serious blunder in acting as he did, since his action can only bring additional harm to the Jews in Germany.

"The Jewish minority," the News states, "is one of the weakest minorities in Germany. What further miseries may this incident bring on them?"

In a leading editorial, the Times comments as follows:

"The question raised by the Mayor, is whether Germany has lived up to her part of the bargain. He affirms that she has not. This is a matter of morals and a question of fact rather than of law. But it might well be looked into by our Government."

Believes Issue Should be Settled

After having stated at the outset that "It is hardly the function of a Mayor to interpret an international treaty and then to act upon his own view of it," the Times concludes as follows:

"He may be wrong in his international law, and his opinion may be set aside by the Federal authorities, but he has raised an issue which ought to be settled and settled right."

While this view of the matter appears in the cold light of "the morning after," to be as sensible as any that can be taken, there is the feeling among some of the Jewish leaders still left in this city that it would have been much better if the incident had never happened in just the way that it did.

At first blush, it appeared that La Guardia had made a magnificent gesture. But upon examination, it develops that it is a gesture fraught with danger, since to make it he was obviously trespassing on territory not his.

Earlier in the week, another bit of unpleasantness developed that added to the general discomfort of Jews in the city who are sensitive to public reaction on matters concerning them.

This was the conference called by the American Jewish Congress and the Jewish Labor Committee to protest the new anti-Semitic campaign in Germany. Because the venerable Abraham Cahan, editor of the Jewish Daily Forward, was present and was about to make a speech a small group of leather-lunged radicals took the opportunity to create a disturbance. The result was a general melee that lasted about twenty minutes, brought the local gendarmier and for a time threatened to disrupt a meeting that had been convened for the purpose of denouncing the Jewry's united protest against the actions of a common enemy.

"CARRYING ON" DESPITE THE HEAT AND HUMIDITY OF SUMMER

High temperatures and accompanying humidity make most of us aware of personal discomfort and, thinking only of ourselves, we escape to summer homes and resorts where, free from city worries and cares, we conveniently forget that certain agencies must continue their work whether it be summer or winter. Charity, like time and tide, knows no vacation. It is only by dogged efforts that appreciable dents can be accomplished in alleviating the suffering of the less fortunate.

True, during these sticky days, when a plunge in cool water is uppermost in our thoughts, one dislikes to consider the seamy side of life. If everyone, however, were to assume this "devil-may-care" attitude, little progress would be evident. It is gratifying, therefore, to note activities of vacation groups at Barrington, Conimicut and Riverside who, aware of these ever-present problems, have been public-spirited enough to sponsor a series of bridges and parties, the proceeds to be distributed among charities and organizations.

These visible summer results will be distinctly apparent in several months for they will decrease the customary lag between summer indolence and autumn activity.

ATTEMPTING A SOLUTION TO THE REFUGEE PROBLEM

That the League of Nations has recognized the extensive scope and importance of the refugee problem as caused by Hitler's policies was amply shown when James G. McDonald was selected as High Commissioner for the German Refugees two years ago. In his report to the governing council in London last week, Mr. McDonald, widely acclaimed for his excellent work in the movement of refugees, quite properly advocated that an "organization be created by the League of Nations as an integral part of the League system," thus abolishing the high commission at the end of this year.

When it is realized that 80,500 refugees have quit Germany since Hitler's accession to power and with the recent increase in Jewish and Catholic persecutions producing more numbers to swell the refugee class, it is apparent that such an anomalous situation must be corrected by an international group having the authority of the League of Nations. Although two-thirds of the above number of refugees have been aided by the High Commission in its negotiation and direction of international collaboration on behalf of German refugees, there are approximately 15,000 still unplaced. It is this group whose plight grows worse, especially with the present tendency of strongly nationalistic countries to deny to unsettled refugees opportunities to work.

Without doubt, to complete the task undertaken by the Commission, it becomes increasingly necessary to eliminate the autonomous nature of this group in order to give aid more effectively to the voluntary and forced exiles who still remain and will increase with the present policies of the countries causing the problem. Apparently, the German authorities would have no objection to forming a League secretariat for refugees.

In his report, Commissioner McDonald paid tribute to the United Jewish Appeal which is engaged in raising more than three million dollars in the United States. Referring particularly to the work of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, he made clear that the organization has been one of the most active forces in the provision of relief for refugees in many countries. The importance of Palestine in absorbing nearly 30,000 German Jews makes it quite clear that the Homeland is truly becoming a land of refuge for the Jews of the world. The work of the American Palestine Campaign with the Joint Distribution Committee constitutes the organization of the United Jewish Appeal.

In making the work of the refugee settlement an integral part of the League system, it is apparent that such an organization will be empowered to act on behalf of all of the categories of refugees — Russians, Armenians, Assyrians and others as well as Germans. While the Jewish refugees are comparatively few from countries other than those from Nazi Germany, it is no less important that the proper attention and aid be given to the Jewish emigres of the world. At the same time, in dealing with the non-Jewish refugees, the proposed League organization will be better equipped to collaborate with the various Jewish organizations formed to aid the refugees of their race. This non-sectarian feature will go far in proving to the world that the Jews as well as non-Jews are responsible members of the human race and not simply a people to be abhorred by crazed Nazis.

It is quite possible, too, that with the organization of refugee aid made a part of the League system, the fanaticism of the bitterly-nationalist countries such as Germany, may well decrease. Be it as it may, it is particularly pleasing that the international peace authority at Geneva is to be ready to render all the assistance necessary to rehabilitate the poverty-stricken refugees and to place ousted scholars in positions where they may continue to serve humanity.

BOYCOTT MUST BE PROSECUTED

Can the Nazi government in Germany be so naive as to believe that occasional press-agent headlines announcing the easing up of Jewish and Catholic persecutions will convince the world that it really intends to become a moral member of the family of nations? When on one hand the official high command simulates minority protection, and on the other the "drive against the enemies of the State" is intensified, what can world opinion be led to believe? We may compare the soundings of the Nazi rulers to the rattles of a snake — definitely giving warning that danger lurks in the supposed quiet . . . The rattlesnake, at least, is more honest about its deadly thrusts.

The sympathies of Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia as expressed in his refusal of a masseur's license to an alien German and the expressions of American leaders, non-Jew as well as Jew, in condemning the Nazi atrocities have obviously done nothing more than convince the Hitler mob that the world, being in league against its policies, ought to suffer thereby. But to offer a placating wreath with a hand smirched with the blood of its victims, will not give the Nazi rulers what they seek: world sympathy for its "Aryan Cleansing." Quite definitely they have caused the gradual unity of all classes and religions in America as well as in other countries in the fight against the disgusting tactics of the Nazi Government.

With the German economic situation growing worse as a result of the nation's continuing isolation from the family of nations, the time is now here for increasing the general effectiveness of a boycott on German goods by all people, whether Jew, Catholic, or Protestant. The action of the American Jewish Congress in calling mass meetings all over the country to protest the Nazi policies should be electrified by a unified boycott that will stifle the economic pulse of Germany and force Mr. Hitler to recall whatever moral intelligence there may be left in his group of cohorts.

The boycott movement as begun two years ago was effective in notifying the German government that the Jews still have the power to fight back. The call for a mass meeting on August 12, at the R. I. Post of Jewish War Veterans quarters, at 100 Niagara Street must be answered by the rank and file of the Jewish community. It is not enough to stand by and simply condemn Hitler. It is necessary to translate our statements into action — complete and unified throughout the city and state. This meeting should call upon the leading retailers in the city to boycott the Nazi products. There must be no let-up in our private and public war against the Hitler atrocities, for they not only menace the nationals of Germany, but threaten civilization and the place of the Jew in it. Petty squabbles and factional strife have no place in this common cause.

Isaac Moses is Candidate for Congressman

By MAXWELL HOBERMAN

As the only independent candidate for Congressman from the First District, former Senator Isaac Moses of Bernon Street, Providence, is urging a fair deal and social justice to all. His nomination papers, filed with the Secretary of State, bore the names of 303 electors, 53 more than the number required to place the former state senator's name on the ballot for the special election August 6.

Long active in Jewish communal activities as a Zionist, Mr. Moses has been prominent in relief work since he came to Providence from Rumania 30 years ago. Running as a Good Government candidate in opposition to Judge Charles F. Risk, Republican choice and General Treasurer Arthur D. Prince, Democratic candidate, former Senator Moses declared in a statement to the JEWISH HERALD that he will carry his campaign throughout the district, from Block Island and Jamestown to Woonsocket. According to reliable sources, Mr. Moses is the first member of the Jewish faith in Rhode Island to run for Congressman in the national House of Representatives.

The candidacy of Moses is endorsed on the nomination papers by residents of Providence, East Providence, Pawtucket, Central Falls, Woonsocket, Bristol, Barrington, Newseton, and Jamestown.

Candidacy is Protest
The cautious and conservative "It is regrettable," Senator Moses said in announcing his candidacy, "that the Governor of our State has made it necessary to call a special election in the summer month of August when a majority of the people are disinterested in the affairs of the State. It is now a question whether half the people will visit the polling places designated for the Aug. 6 election.

"My candidacy," he continued, "is a protest against the present system of elections and conventions. Under present conditions, an ordinary person has very little chance of going out and getting delegates because the bulk of them have city or State jobs and are obliged to vote by delegate. An ordinary individual will never be considered as a candidate at a convention. There is a very great need for a State primary law in Rhode Island.

"There are many issues which I hope to explain during the campaign. One of them is the reason why the people should be independent and disregard party lines. I am after a fair deal and social justice to all. I hope to campaign through the district, from Block Island and Jamestown to Woonsocket, and explain why the people should support my candidacy on a Good Government Platform."

"Equality, Justice, Fair Deal"

Among the Good Government issues, he added, are equality, justice, and a fair deal.
Senator Moses was four times a candidate for the General Assembly from the old Seventh Assembly District. In 1924 he was nominated for Congress in the Second District Democratic convention, but was defeated by Charles M. Hall for the nomination.

In 1931 and 1932, he served as State Senator from the Third Senatorial District in Providence. He was four times a member of the Democratic State central committee. He organized the Rhode Island Voters Civic League, of which he is president.

GOING AWAY

This column is being written on Tuesday and by the time the mail man leaves this issue of the Jewish Herald on your front door step, this individual will be at his favorite vacation spot in the White Mountains at Bethlehem, New Hampshire, 200 miles away from Westminster Street, and 230 miles from the shores of Narragansett Pier. Here at Maplehurst I shall try and forget my everyday worries and cares in my native city, Providence, and let Rebecca Brenner and her able staff wean my thoughts for a fortnight from the routine duties of a working man. I always look forward to my vacation days which pass all too quickly, but I know I shall return freshened in spirit and rested in body, eager to tackle the labors of the months ahead.

SUMMER COLUMNS

When I agreed to write this batch of words every week, little did I know how scarce information is in the summer time—down town streets are deserted, people are away, organizations suspend for the warm months, so please bear with me if I do not altogether please you. However, in the following paragraphs here is what I find is happening of some interest in our "world" these days.

DOINGS

Isaac Moses, that perennial office seeker, who several years ago was elected State Senator from Providence, has again thrown his "hat" in the ring. This time he is after big things, namely being the post of Congressman to Washington. Isaac is campaigning under the colors of his own "ready named" party, the Good Government ticket and according to his own words, he expects to be elected and thus be the first Jew named to Congress from Rhode Island—if he campaigns and speaks in your district, be sure to make it a point to listen and I assure you that it will be a "treat."

They tell me that the best dancer in Washington is Ben Cohen, counselor to the Chilean embassy... his tango is the talk of the capital city and has all the ladies aflutter... Sol Rosenblatt, former NRA "big shot" in charge of all the amusement industries codes, is said to be in line for the big job of United States District Attorney for the Southern District of New York.

And here is real news—Isador Lubin, Worcester boy, and Commissioner of Labor Statistics at the United States Department of Labor is considered to be the best ever to hold that important post. Mr. Lubin is a graduate of Clark University in Worcester and before being a member of the President's New Deal "little cabinet" he was associated with the important Brookings' Institute in Washington. Naturally, Worcesterites point with great pride to their native son... and this reminds me that our great son, the late Colonel Harry Cutler, was a warm personal friend of the late President William Howard Taft, and carried much influence with him.

ton and Narragansett these days... Walter Adler has returned to town, brown as a berry, after his tour of duty as captain in our army at Fort Wright—this is how Walter spends his vacation days and worthwhile, I'll say.

Sam Lazarus' new oil plant is the talk of the industry and Sam is wearing the smile that will not come off in his new spacious offices on Fox Point Boulevard... Max Siegal as chairman of the carnival for our Jewish Home for the Aged is sitting up nights planning bigger and greater events for this annual event which begins this fall—they tell me that a La Salle automobile will be the "big" prize and all proceeds go for one of our worst cases— we shall tell you more about this awaited event in the coming weeks.

Here is Sam Goldin, one of the best laboratory men in town and whom I do not see very often... Our best wishes to Roland Bloch and Moe Prisker on the opening of their own offices for the practice of accountancy—these two popular young men should do well... Sam Strong, leader of our Masada group and a great many other youth groups is burning the "midnight oil" in Palestine where he is studying at the Hebrew University... We hope that Bernie Bous, popular head of Foster's is getting the rest he so richly deserves on his vacation... Sophie Ellis and sister of N. Y. say that Cedars is one fine vacation place... Dr. Gerald Feinberg says that business is good from his new offices in the Alice Building.

Here is a word of greeting to our friends in Los Angeles, Cal., Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Workman, father and mother of our own Sam Workman and also to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kleiner, who with sons Sam and Ed and daughter Shirley Uditary are having the first reunion in years—these people are all former natives of our city and if this column reaches them, it speaks the greetings and loving thoughts of their friends in Providence, 3800 miles away.

Dorothy Sharpe and Claire Smira have been showing the sights to Gertrude Berger, their friend from Northampton... Dorothy Raphael, too has been next to cousin Fudis all the way from Hartford... it is pleasing to hear of the appointment of Joe Schein as head coach of the Hope High football team—Joe, a former product of Newark but now a real resident of our city, was one of the best all around athletes ever turned out of Brown, where he figured prominently as a member of the first team in football and basketball—this appointment is testimony to his ability as a teacher at the great college sport and we look forward to his teams of the East Side school to be up among the leaders.

Do any of you remember Milton Torgan, who about ten years ago was a leading athlete at East Providence High and at Rhode Island State?... this young man is now director of athletics and coach of the well known teams of the James Madison High School, of Brooklyn, N. Y.—one of the largest schools in the United States... his teams are always pennant contenders and many times have won championships... we noted Harry Pinkerson sunning himself at Narragansett on Sunday... also saw Lou Davis tossing a baseball with Harold Moskoff on the sidelines... Al Pinkerson, formerly with Shepard's, is now holding down a big job with a Chicago Dept. store... everyone is congratulating Bill Malkner on his winning that case before our Supreme Court... a de-

May Erect Tariff to Protect Industries in Palestine

JERUSALEM (JTA)—The government protection of Palestine industries against dumping from Japan, Czechoslovakia and other countries, was urged by a special delegation of leading Jewish industrialists in an audience with the High Commissioner, Sir Arthur G. Wauchop.

The delegation pointed out that several industrial enterprises in Palestine are being seriously affected, by the competition from these countries, and that unless tariff exemptions are permitted by the government on machinery and raw materials, many of them will be forced to shut down.

In an interview with William Joseph Johnson, treasurer of Palestine, 16 shirt manufacturers intimated that Japanese dumping in Palestine may force them to shut down and fire more than 300 workmen in their employ.

Johnson assured the manufacturer that he will look into the situation. He also ordered an inquiry into the closing of the Sachs Silk Mills here last week. The mills, owned and operated by an American Jew, from Passaic, New Jersey, were shut down last week because, it was declared, Japanese dumping had ruined their business.

At the annual meeting of the Palestine Chamber of Commerce, earlier in the week, Mr. Johnson had declared that Palestine is the only country in the world that is contemplating cutting taxes.

This is made possible, he said, by the fact that the government surplus has this year been increased by 89 percent. The government is reserving its funds to help it meet any possible depression in the future, he stated.

In his report, Mr. Johnson praised the efforts of the Jews, stating that it is undoubtedly the influx of Jewish immigrants and capital, combined with Jewish initiative, that have made possible the prosperity now being enjoyed by Palestine.

Abelson's Hungarian Restaurant in Worcester is receiving much acclaim from its patrons. Of local interest is the fact that Mrs. Abelson is the former Ann Sutton of Providence.

FROM HERE AND THERE

Barney Roltman generally sees the sun rise as he is one of our early birds... on Sunday if Jim Saneck has as yet fixed up that blue tag... those "cops" have no mercy... Phil Glanzman, Saul Feinberg, Syd Hanel, and Ben Macketz will also be enjoying the pleasures of Maplehurst, at Bethlehem, when you read this... Murray Brown likes those moonlight excursions so well on the Naugatuck that I understand he bought the first season ticket ever sold in these parts... Celia Mellon, after a two weeks' vacation has left for her duties in N. Y. while in these parts she also visited brother Harold in Portsmouth, N. H.

Irene Finkela's annual big bride Monday at Narragansett was a great success—this event was for the Jewish Home for the Aged... those young lawyers had a merry time in New Bedford on Sunday... we wake up Providence lassies... a happy group of young matrons seen at the Pier on Sunday were, Mrs. George Bickwit of N. Y., the former Ethel Deutch, Mrs. Frank Jacobson, Mrs. Edna Berzowicz, Mrs. Herman Baker, the former Sally Torgan; and Mrs. Ira Blum, the former Janet Deutch... Dave Adelman also enjoyed the Pier waters and found time to chat with me over the present political situation which subject Dave surely knows.

Also saw jovial Jack Gertz and family and Irwin Silverman all the way from Great Neck, L. I... Others seen in fine fettle were the Joe Smiths and the Abe Blackmans who are spending the season at the Massachusetts coast... the niece of the J. D. Grossmans with cousin Arthur and wife... and all the way from Brooklyn... Selma Curt, member of Maplehurst's social staff has just returned from N. Y. where she signed a contract to appear with Rudy Vallee—this young lady hails from Boston... Dave Goffner, Nat Dwares, and Dan Miller had a sand dune all to themselves at the Pier on Sunday and no mention was made and the next time you probably read this column it will come from the White Mountains.

Terrorism and Unrest Reported as Result of Nazi Rule in Saar

LONDON (JTA)—The Nazis have ignored every treaty and agreement to respect the rights of minorities in the Saar and are persecuting the Jews and Catholics there in the characteristic Nazi manner, according to Max Braun, leader of the Saarland battle against the Nazis in the Saar plebiscite last January.

Braun, who is not Jewish, is now a refugee living in Paris. He made his accusations while visiting London in connection with an investigation of Nazi terrorism directed against refugees.

"The Chief Rabbi is in prison," he is quoted as declaring, "Jewish deputies and some of the Jewish youth leaders are in prison. Shops are being persecuted. None of the treaties for the safety and fair treatment of non-Nazis is being kept. They are simply ignored."

Dr. Rothschild, the chief rabbi of Saarbrücken whom Braun declares to be in prison was recently reported to have been released.

Describing conditions in the Saar, Herr Braun declared that food prices have jumped while wages have been reduced. Unemployment, ac-

"50 Percenters" May Serve in Nazi Army

BERLIN (JTA)—A new decree was issued here jointly by Wilhelm Frick, Minister of the Interior, and General Werner von Blomberg, Minister of Defense, excluding "non-Aryans" with two parents or three grandparents of Jewish origin, from military service.

The decree, which is published in the Reich Gesetzblatt, states that absolutely no exemptions will be made.

This new decree is believed to have been promulgated in order to dispel rumors that the German Ministry of Defense is disregarding the "Aryan Paragraph" in the conscription of army recruits and is enrolling youths of Jewish descent. A lengthy article to this effect, containing the testimony of several Jewish youths who had been conscripted in Germany, appeared recently in the New Weltbuecher, a usually well-informed German publication which appears in Praha.

According to Nazi statistics, has increased from 34,000 to 74,000.

The workers of the Saar, he said, were "quickly disillusioned" by these conditions.

Nazis Working to Break Jewish Hold in the Film Trade

BERLIN (JTA)—The "National Socialist Monthly" contains an article by Dr. Alexander Jason on Jewish influence in film production.

In 1930, there were 95 authors of 146 scenarios, of whom 46 were Jews, he writes, making 47 percent. In 1931 there were 119 authors for 144 scenarios, of whom 57 or 46 percent were Jews. In 1932 there were 116 authors for 130 scenarios, of whom 47, or 41 percent were Jews.

Out of 40 composers of the music in 101 talkies produced in 1930, 31 were Jews, which is 62 percent. In 1932 the number was 64 for 142 talkies, and of these 39 were Jews (39 percent). In 1932 there were 129 films, of which 49 composers, of whom 22 were Jews, 45 percent. Out of 81 registrars for 140 films produced in 1930, 35 (43 percent) were Jews. For 144 films in 1931 there were 53 registrars for 144 films, of which 40 (48 percent) were Jews. In 1932 there were 73 registrars of 130 films, of whom 34 were Jews (37 percent.)

Of the German film producing firms, there were in 1929, 83 firms, of whom 62, or 74 percent, were under Jewish direction. In 1930 there were 63 firms, 41 (61 percent) being Jewish; in 1932 there were 64 firms, 45 (70 percent) being Jewish. There were 32 film-renting firms in 1929, 27 of whom (82 percent) being in Jewish hands. In 1930 there were 29 firms, 27 or 82 percent in Jewish hands. In 1931 the number of firms was 28, and of the 24, or 86 percent were Jewish; 1932 there were 26 firms, and 21 of them, 77 percent were Jewish.

So that when the government was taken over by the National Socialist Party, Dr. Jason points out, Germany possessed a film industry which was spiritually and economically under "race-alien" influence. The National Socialist government, therefore, he continues, directed its special attention to the film industry to release the German film production from the hands of the Jews.

"In 1932," Dr. Jason concludes, "the entire film industry was practically and economically under Jewish influence; in 1933 this fell to 33 percent. It must be added that a great proportion of the films which were passed in 1933 had been produced in 1932. Examination of the films for 1934 shows that film production has changed very little. If the Jews have been pushed back so far that it no longer has any direct influence on cultural life, since it allows only those who are members of the Reich Film Chamber to work in film production, the effects of 20 years of Jewish domination are still noticeable everywhere, and it will take a very long time before we are able to create our own artistic style."

Hadassah to Give Up its Dispensaries

JERUSALEM (JTA) — Hadassah, American Women Zionists Organization, which has been active in Palestine, will shortly begin to liquidate its clinics and dispensaries here, it was disclosed in an announcement made public here.

In making the announcement, Mrs. Edward J. Gans, president of the American Hadassah, who is now on a visit to Palestine, declared that Hadassah will concentrate all its efforts on the erection of the large hospital at the Hebrew University. All other institutions organized and maintained by Hadassah, such as its medical and dental clinics, its dispensaries and preventoria, she said, will gradually be transferred to the direction of the Jewish Community in Palestine, which she feels is now able to provide for them itself.

of Jewish manufacturers, wholesale and retail merchants, etc. is being accomplished. Of course, efforts are made to circumvent these measures. Names of firms are changed, Christian partners are taken in, Jewish representatives try the most curious disguises, hair is dyed blonde or white, spectacles are worn. But nothing helps, or at best for only a short time.

The Nazi organization is so penetrating, so all-embracing, the control it exercises is so severe, that a store's own employees act as spies and denouncers; thus the shutting out of the Jews and the annihilation of their economic existence in business and social life, in school, theater, literature, journalism, etc., has become an automatic and irresistible process.

All this going on through apparently legal methods tends to quiet world opinion, only to be occasionally stirred by spasmodic mob outbreaks, and artificial blood-letting. An effective curb to Hitler's policies is a world-wide economic and moral boycott against Nazi Germany. Failure to enforce the boycott will give Nazis the opportunity to argue that the world approves their actions. Raw material and credit go hand in hand and if the effectiveness of the boycott is lessened Germany will be able to reestablish itself through the misery and suffering of world Jewry.

If Providence Jews renew their ban on German made goods, local purchasing agents will be forced to consider their stand. No Jew can afford to miss this opportunity of helping fellow Jews in Germany.

DEVELOP HAIFA HARBOR

HAIFA (JTA) — The Palestine Government announced that the Harbor in Haifa will be enlarged to accommodate ten ships instead of four.

The harbor, now considered one of the best in the Near East, was completed a year ago. During the last year, however, its activities were so great, that its enlargement became a necessity in view of the growing Jewish trade and also because of the Mosul oil pipes which terminate in Haifa.
