Federation Conclave

In a brochure published this week in connection with the annual regional meeting of the Council of Jewish Federations, it is pointed out that President Roosevelt recently stated that America's defense efforts would have to be fought on two fronts, if democracy is to be successfully defended.

In order for our national lines to be strong enough to withstand attack from without, the American community will require fortifications from within. Our social, political and economic institutions must be bolstered so that the American way will be considered worth fighting for.

So with our Jewish community, the booklet goes on to say. For several years now, the Jews of America have been serving on a multiple front—as workers and leaders at home, in their own cities and their own groups. We have attempted to raise funds for overseas and national causes on an unprecedented scale. We have been seriously concerned with the better organization of local efforts and resources to meet these outside needs; and we have striven in our communities to develop and coordinate spiritual, cultural and social welfare programs in order to give significance and strength to the way of life we are now called upon to defend.

But it is essential that from time to time we reconsider our goals, reexamine our weapons and reevaluate our performance in these fields,—if we hope successfully to hold the lines on a constantly lengthening front.

In view of attempts to organize an all-inclusive Federation in Providence, the subjects to be discussed at the conclave should be of general interest and concern to every Jewish citizen. We urge your attendance at the various sessions so that you will become familiar with the objectives and work of Federations that are operating successfully in other cities.

To Use Grynszpan For "Show Trial"

NEW YORK. — Herschel Grynszpan, 19-year-old Polish Jew who killed a German Embassy employee, Baron Ernst vom Rath in Paris on November 7, 1938, has "confessed" that he acted in behalf of "international Jewry" and will be the principal figure in a huge anti-Jewish "show trial" after the war, according to reports reaching Vichy this week.

Arrangements for the elaborate trial, which will allegedly bring to light a world-wide Jewish-Masonic plot to murder ranking Nazi officers, are under supervision of Heinrich Himmler, chief of the Gestapo.

Wheeler Denies Prejudice Charge

WASHINGTON. — Replying to charges that he had struck an anti-Semitic note during the debate preceding passage of the lend-lease bill, Senator Burton K. Wheeler, denied any anti-Semitic tendencies on his part and thoroughly denounced "those who seek to play upon passions and emotions" with "this kind of medieval mendaciousness."

The charges of anti-Semitism arose out of a broadcast address by Senator Wheeler during which he attacked "international bankers," mentioning only the Rothschilds, Warburgs and Sassoons, all of whom are Jewish. In his denial, Wheeler did refer to his attack on "international bankers."

Bucharest Issues Visas to Immigrants

JERUSALEM. — It is reported here that the British Consul in Bucharest before leaving that city issued affidavits for all certified Jewish immigrants to Palestine. ## No Foothold for Gestapo In Americas, Wallace Warns

CHICAGO. — No gestapo or checka must be allowed to get a foothold anywhere on the American hemisphere, for "we must remember that if England loses, the Nazis scheme of things will, unless proper safeguards are taken, come into control within less than a year in certain of the Latin-American republics," vice-president Henry A. Wallace warned last Sunday night in an address before the triennial convention of B'nai B'rith at the Chicago Civic Opera House.

Describing the methods used by the Nazis as "unspeakable," the vice-president said "I know that no person worthy of the name 'American' will ever permit himself to take even the first step on that road of racial hatred, the road which carried the Nazis to power, and the road which will lead them to eventual ruin."

Speaking to a visible audience of 5,000 and to an invisible radio audience that included the people of Latin-America, who heard the address via short wave, Mr. Wallace said "we of the Americas, North and South and Central, must band together to maintain the sacred essence of democracy and religion."

B'nai B'rith Votes $100,000 For Henry Monsky Colony

CHICAGO. — An appropriation of $100,000 to establish a B'nai B'rith-Henry Monsky colony in Palestine, adjacent to the B'nai B'rith-Alfred M. Cohen Colony, created in 1936 through an expenditure of similar size, was voted here today by the national triennial convention of B'nai B'rith as it approved a recommendation from the executive committee.

To be named in honor of Henry Monsky, president of B'nai B'rith, as the first colony was named after Alfred M. Cohen, former president, the B'nai B'rith-Henry Monsky colony will be created on land to be acquired through the Jewish National Fund, which is the official Jewish land-purchasing agency in Palestine. To be located adjacent to the existing B'nai B'rith colony, where 100 refugee families are already settled, preference for settlement in the new colony will be given to former members of the B'nai B'rith or their children who have been made homeless by Nazi persecution.

Rabbi David Werner presented the opening prayer, while addresses were given by Rabbi Israel M. Goldman of Temple Emanuel, Rabbi Morris G. Silk of the Ahavath Shalom Synagogue, Mayor Dennis J. Roberts, Rep. Samuel C. Kagan, Councilman Justin P. McCarthy, and Edmund Wexler. Talks were also presented by Morris J. Wilkes, president of the organization; David Shore, vice-president; John Schneider, financial and corresponding secretary; Benjamin Mandell, recording secretary; and Mrs. Benjamin Resnick, president of the Ladies Auxiliary.

PRIVATE PAPERS OF A CUB REPORTER:

Irvin S. Cobb, in this year's version of his autobiography, gets pretty persnickitty about today's reporters. The columnists, however, are his great big aversion. . . . Irvin insists the columnists are not accurate and so forth. . . . So what happens? . . . So Harry Hansen, the book critic, decided to give Cobb a little lesson in accuracy. . . . Cobb, it appears, relates how, in Belgium in 1914, his life was threatened. . . . He goes on, for several Dick Tracy pages, to tell how a ferocious German major pulled a gun on him, menacing him worse than Karloff could. . . . Here is Hansen's cold water: "The actual incident was trivial. The officer was a sergeant, and Cobb's life was never in danger. I saw it, and often marveled at the international episode Cobb made of it."

Oswald Marshall heard it in London. . . . About the two Germans who met in Páree, and Carl said to Fritz: "Have you a gute job here?"

"Yah," Fritz fritz'd, "I have a vorry gute job. I zit on top of da Eiffel Towah undt I vatch for da English to vave da white flag!"

"Iss it gute pay?" queried Carl. "Not much," said Fritz, "but idds for life!"

The colyum's I. Elinson recently planed in from Hollywood making his initial flight. . . . He tried, however, to impress his friends who were taking him to the airport by telling them that flying was old stuff to him. . . . When they got to the airport Elinson said to an attendant: "I'm taking the American Mercury. What TRACK does that leave on?"

Columbia's short-wave listening post heard this from England. . . . It is the best illustration of Russia's position in the war. . . . It was memo'd to Churchill by a returned diplomat from Moscow, to wit: "A report came in to the Kremlin which read: 'Nine British planes destroyed. Nine German planes shot down'. . . . Stalin looked at it, rubbed his hands and smiled."

"'Good,' he drooled. That's 18 planes for us."

Alexander Markey observes: "Mebbe the Ill Duce will know better than to Mussolin — the next time."

We hear his chin has retreated six inches!

Joe Reichman, the orchestra man, offers the one about Herr Goebbels who was interviewing a German journalist who applied for an editorial job on one of the Nazi-controlled newspapers in Berlin. . . . "What," asked Goebbels, "are your views on our government and its policies?"

"Well," started the reporter, "I think—"

"Then," interrupted Beagle Puss, "I can't use you."

Ozzie Nelson has one about them too. . . . It deals with the two Nazis in Berlin who were reading their newspapers and gloating over "how terrible" things were in the United States. . . . "Why," said one, "tings iss so bad idd says here in da paypas dot Roosevelt is hiring men for a dollar a year!"

"Iss dot zo?" gasped the other. "Dot's even less dan ve get!"

NOTES OF AN INNOCENT BYSTANDER:

Labor and management are reminded that strikes can never build national defense. . . . If the British, in the name of Liberty, can stick by their guns — the least Americans can do is stick by their jobs.

Now that it is old-hat, let's not forget that the Lend-Lease battle — one of the fiercest in the senate's history was waged in the interest of unity! . . . America would be a lot safer if all its aviators got into the air force — and out of politics.

Films favor titles suggesting thoroughfares. There were "Back Street" and "Dead End" and now "Side Street". . . . They're steering clear of "alley," as it might remind too many box offices where business has been lately. . . . The British have a delightful sense of timing. The London Palladium featured a revival of "No Time for Comedy". . . . NBC has two former foreign correspondents, who just finished a corking radio serial named "Special Correspondent." A half-hour show about an American reporter with the world at his beat.

"Hearses Don't Hurry," the title of a new crime novel, would be a good wall motto for some of the madder motorists.

Betty Compton, the former Mrs. Jimmy Walker, is taking a dance teacher's training course. When she graduates she will get a franchise to conduct an Arthur Murray branch in White Plains. . . . John Hubbard's description of a perfect gold-digging doll: "She's a woman who has no heart — making a fool of a man without a head."

The United States now has about 32,245,000 people living on farms, which is close to the all-time record of 1916—32,530,000.

The ceremony, performed before members of the immediate families, took place at the home of the bridegroom's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Feinstein, 33 Taft avenue, with Rabbi Israel M. Goldman of Temple Emanuel officiating.

Wedding music was played by Arthur Einstein, and Cantor Jacob Hohenemser sang "Still In the Night." A dinner followed the ceremony.

Miss Lilyan Levin of Newport, attended her cousin as maid of honor, wearing a gown of shell pink satin, with a short sleeved jacket of quilted design. Her tiara was fashioned after that of the bride, and she carried a white bible with gardenias and violets. Nathan Perlman, a cousin of the bridegroom, was best man.

The bride's mother was attired in a black afternoon frock, as was the bridegroom's mother. Both wore corsages of gardenias.

The bride was graduated from Pembroke College in 1939, and is a social worker for the state, while the bridegroom attended Rhode Island State College and Northeastern University.

For a WOMAN'S fancy

BY EDYTHE JAY

Always remembered in a pleasant place
Is a girl who possesses social grace . . .

The most charming girl at the party . . . That's what she wants to be . . . That's the ultimate wish of the most sophisticated young beauty who ever pretended not to be scared before a big dance, party, tea or any kind of soiree . . . And now when big things are looming on her social horizon, she has the right to the assurance of being an absolute stand-out . . .

Because she is aided and abetted not a little by her clothes and her poise . . . Maybe it's her long waisted suit of soft handling twill—pleated all around the skirt . . . Shirtwaist collar on the jacket . . . Maybe it's her pure silk imported dress of a maddeningly beautiful print . . . Lush, colourful, imaginative . . . Then again it could be her lyric, lighthearted lacey hat of imported hand-crocheted straw, interpreted into a heart-stealing bonnet . . . You know, the merest wisps of hat, inspired by the romantic little hat you found once when rummaging through your great aunt's attic-trunk mementos . . .

It might be her suede gloves of high pink, and the mists of lacey pink veiling she ties under her chin and the long-stemmed pink rose she wears at her shoulder . . . Perhaps it's merely her Chinese-green pagoda-shaped calf bag, as welcome to the sight as a green light . . .

Perhaps that gown she wore was the conversation piece . . . Wide-open eyelet pique peplum over a crepe rayon skirt of flesh colour . . . Or the one of black mouseline-de-soie, with a flesh tinted midriff, that looked like her own torso, naked and unashamed . . .

Even her perfume could sent roomsful of people into a ripple of excitement . . . Maybe as she walked by, it seemed that lilacs were blooming on the very spot, and everyone began to see purple . . . Or perhaps she seemed to be walking on air with her choice of Helena Rubinstein's "Heaven-sent" scent . . . An ethereal fragrance if there ever was one . . . Ever put your face down in a great bunch of field flowers fresh-cut after a rain? . . . Then you know how sweet and disarming the scent is . . .

Probably admired were the tiny aqua feather earrings clipped to the lobe of her ears . . . No doubt you liked that shine to her face—as if she'd just scribbled it with soap . . .

She captured the coquetry of the Latin American siren, didn't she with her eyes flirting from beneath the scalloped edge of her mantilla . . . Made of enticing black net, with a rumba ruffle at the edge . . .

Maybe she made her impression when she entered the room, because she didn't falter . . . She either stood where she was or went directly to where she wished to be . . . She didn't meander, slow motion like, all over the room—finally to wind up in her rightful place with the flowers on the wall . . . Perhaps she spoke softly, while others fairly shouted . . . The contrast would be enough to fascinate anyone . . . Ever see a man leaning his ear to hear what a woman was saying . . . You thought she must be pretty interesting to get his com-

Scene Around Town

It'll be big doings this Sunday, with the N. E. Federation Council Conference here, during the day, and the Zionist reception to their National president in the evening. In connection with the latter, Horace Dryfoos will give a cocktail party at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Narragansett Hotel, in honor of Edmund I. Kaufman, at which time some seventy-five leaders in the community will be introduced to the Zionist chief. One of the results of the scavenger hunt sponsored by the Temple Beth Israel Men's Club amazed the members. Told to obtain a marriage certificate, the contestants ransacked homes on the South side of the city to no avail. Very few knew where their marriage licenses were hid. One woman, married thirty years, sharply rebuked her questioner with "Young man, I don't need a marriage certificate to know that I've been married thirty years."

Moniker Trouble

The London Jewish Chronicle reports a furore in Hitler's official family, when it was discovered that a group of non-Aryans had the name Goebbels. An order, coupled with blood-curdling threats, was issued immediately to surviving members of the family to change their name. The new name is Glibes. With Passover just a week away, late-stayers in the South are reluctantly making their way North. Expected home next week are the Benjamin Chasets and the Jacob Felders. Max Pullman returned this week, sporting a beautiful tan. Mrs. Anna Goldenberg is also home. She visited her sister in New Jersey on her return trip.

Nite Scenes

Our stay-awake reporter spotted the following at the nite spots. A cozy party of four were Frances Bander and Joe Priest, Pearl Brotman and Leonard Chaset, dancing the conga at the Beachcomber one nite last week. At the Studio Club Sunday nite, the Saul Hodosh's... the Sid Wax's... Dotty Selinder... Ben Wexler... In the Indian Room Saturday nite... the Sigmund Saltzmanns... Dotty Kellman... Max Meller... and many more. One of the bon mots in Syd Perelman's play, "Night Before Christmas," now playing in Boston prior to its New York opening, goes something like this... A Jeweler complaining of bad business, says, "That's my place across the street... If you look now, you can almost see the receivers..."

Of People and Places

Joslyn Presser, now stationed at Fort Bragg in North Carolina, was the first Jewish school teacher from town to enlist in the army. Sam Spigle is at Camp Wheeler in Macon, Georgia. Dr. Stanley Freedman and Grace Rome were quietly wed last Sunday. Frieda Gertsacov, who recently appeared as trumpeter with a road show at Fay's theatre, is being married on Sunday. Dr. Nathan Chaset and Rosalind Kimball have set their nuptials for May 15th in Boston. The recent news from the Eastern Mediterranean indicates that March went out very much like a British lion.

Reunion

Arthur Einstein was quite thrilled this week, when he received an air mail post card, notifying him that Mischa Kourilsky, a class-mate of his at the Odessa Conservatory in Russia, had reached this country. Arrangements were made for a visit here this past week, and the two had much to discuss, for they hadn't seen each other for twenty years. Kourilsky has developed a new method for teaching piano, and has just signed a contract to teach in Hollywood. Prior to coming to this country, Kourilsky had his own music academy in Paris, but managed to escape, via Spain and Portugal.
