

WAR THIS WEEK

Gasoline, Oil Problem

"There is no hope for any lessening of the restrictions upon the use of gasoline and fuel oil," CBS Director Byrnes said after a conference with the officials in charge of the nation's petroleum program. Mr. Byrnes asked the administrators of the three agencies responsible - the OPA, the OMT, and the Petroleum Administration for War - to submit as soon as possible their suggestions on various phases of the problem, and in meantime to take steps to increase supply and improve rationing methods.

The immediate problem of petroleum is the result of unanticipated demands for military purposes.

Black Market

Meanwhile, a new drive has been launched against black market operations, with 800 investigators in the east coast rationed area working to prevent illegal distribution. This means increased emphasis on strict enforcement of all gasoline rationing regulations, and special attention given to suppliers of T or commercial vehicles. Gasoline dealers have been told that they will be held "strictly accountable" for violations.

Fuel Oil

WPS has approved the large, tugboat building program recommended by the OMT, and construction will begin shortly on 500 wood-on tank barges, 21 steel hull tugboats and 100 tugboats to enable an additional daily Eastward barge movement of 50,000 barrels of residual fuel oil within five months and 100,000 barrels within ten months. Terminals will be built at Jacksonville and Panama City, Fla., and at Cairo, Ill.

Conversion Period

To encourage the use of fuel oil rather than oil, electricity and gas, WPS announced that the production of discipline grades will be permitted during the December 22-January 6 period, and extended for another year provisions permitting such construction as is necessary for the conversion or substitution of heating equipment, and this week the rationing regulations for new coal and oil heating stoves in the 30 rationed States were formally issued by OPA.

Minpower

The Government is preparing a program for the scientific training of civilian specialists so urgently needed in the war effort. The program is similar to that formulated by the Army and Navy for college age men, but the WPC expects to use the facilities of more universities and colleges than the armed services will use.

To combat rumors that Negroes are not being inducted into the Army in percentages comparable to their population, the OWI reported that they are not only being inducted in the same proportion as they are registered, but in 8 out of 14 southern States, inductions have exceeded that proportion. Although Negroes constitute 13 percent of our total population (according to the last census), one out of every ten men inducted into the Army as of October 31, 1942, was a Negro.

Shulkin to Head Hebrew Academy

Michael Shulkin will be inducted as president of the Sons of Jacob Hebrew Academy at exercises to be held this Sunday evening at 7:30 p.m. in the Synagogue, 28 Douglas avenue. Other officers to be installed include Eugene Cornfield, vice-president; Benjamin Fox, treasurer; Louis Kirschenbaum, recording secretary; Joseph Sinda, financial secretary; and Max J. Reiner, chairman of the Board.

Barth Carol Klein will install the officers.

Jewish Service Assists 257 Families in 11 Months; Director, Officers Make Reports

Two hundred and fifty-seven families were helped by the Jewish Family and Children's Service in the first 11 months of 1942. It was announced by Joseph Shulkin, executive director, in his annual report to the Corporation last Monday night. During that period $9000 had been spent on relief but expenditures are dropping, Mr. Shulkin said, because of increased employment opportunities.

"Financial assistance is but one of the many services offered by the organization," Mr. Shulkin said. "More people are coming for help in domestic problems and personality difficulties which require specialized case work services. In the last three months alone, 31 families approached us with problems concerning their children. In two-thirds of the cases, it was possible to make arrangements for the children to remain with their parents. Foster homes, however, are still needed for those children that require a change in domestic environment."

Dr. Joshua Goldberg, U. S. Naval Chaplain and consultant on Jewish affairs was guest speaker for the evening. In discussing the global war, Dr. Goldberg said that people, speaking in global terms, are forgetting that the little values at home, are the very objectives for which the global struggle is waged. He praised the work of the Jewish Family and Children's Service and of the other agencies at home who make possible an abundance of opportunity for every person, the right for the pursuit of happiness.

In his annual report Jacob Tinklin, who was re-elected president, for his fifth term, announced that the Service went on to meet with other Jewish groups with a view to working out a summer camp program on a sound community basis.

Vandals Desecrate Three Synagogues

N. Y. Governor Scores "Hitlerism"

ALBANY—State police this week were investigating destruction of Jewish property in the Adirondack region after Gov. Charles F. Brien had denounced the vandalism as "Hitlerism."

Reuben Leopold Goral, leader of the congregations in Lake Placid, Saranac Lake and Tupper Lake, reported the desecration, particularly widespread at Lake Placid.

"Great damage was done in the sanctuary of this synagogue," said Goral. "The holy articles were

Hamilton Fish Now Worried About Jews - Asks Support of Neutrals

WASHINGTON—The Secretary of State is in receipt of a letter from Congressman Hamilton Fish asking whether there is not "some action that may be taken by the United States Congress and the administration that will stop these pogroms of Jews in Poland and Eastern Europe? Would it be possible to enlist the support of such neutrals as Sweden, Switzerland, Spain and Turkey?"

The representative, whose views have been the subject of bitter examination in the past few years, said he had always been against "the persecution of minorities here and abroad on account of race, color or creed and shall be glad to co-operate in Congress in any constructive way to stop this wholesale murder and butchery of defenseless people."

Name Joseph Weiner Head of Civilian Supply

WASHINGTON—Donald M. Nelson has appointed Joseph L. Weiner Chief of the WPS Office of Civilian Supply. Mr. Weiner succeeds Leon Henderson, who resigned from that post to devote himself entirely to the job of OPA Administrator.

Mr. Weiner, who served as deputy director of the Civilian Supply Office under Henderson, was formerly assistant corporation counsel of New York city and counsel of the Board of Transportation of that city.

Sell $930,000 in War Bonds at Jewish Rally

Request to Probe Atrocities Refused

LONDON — The Vatican has asked the German government to allow a papal representative to visit Poland in order to investigate the atrocity reports which are causing the Pope great anxiety, according to a report by the Daily Sketch. The paper states that Hitler, explaining that such an investigation would be possible only after the war, rejected the request.

Audience Responds Generously to Appeal Senator Green Heads Speaking Program

Jewish organizations and individuals purchased $930,000 in War Bonds at an all-Jewish rally last Sunday night in the auditorium of the R. I. School of Design.

U. S. Senator Theodore Francis Green, who headed the speaking program asserted that "the people of Jewish faith have more at stake than any other in the winning of the war and you should respond generously to the appeals of the Government for funds to provide the sinews of war for the fighting forces."

He then cited the history of Rhode Island and the tolerance for all religious faiths since the founding of the State by Roger Williams and said that Jewry has always been welcome within the State's borders.

Other speakers in the program included Jacob Tinklin, president of the Jewish Family & Children's Service, who urged the purchase of bonds to provide the material for the armed forces, to prevent inflation and as secure investments; Rudolph Elms, administrator of the R. I. War Savings Staff, who declared that funds for the prosecution of the war must be raised.

Elected Fred Adler Synagogue President

Fred Adler was elected president of the Adas Israel Synagogue on Chester Avenue at a meeting held last week. Other officers elected include Isaac Krasnow, vice-president; Louis Goldstein, treasurer; Max Horovitz, financial and recording secretary.

Members of the advisory board are Abraham Siegel, Max Horovitz, Bernard Greenstein, Louis Goldstein, Julius Schwartz, Maurice Greenstein, Isidor Tract, Rubin Sarnovitch.

Pledges and purchases of $100 in War Bonds were made at the meeting.

Expel Dutch Student For Telling the Truth

LONDON — During a geography lesson in a Dutch provincial school, reports the Nazi paper Volk und Vaterland, a teacher asked, "What does the railway transport?"

Various answers were given, and then a little Catholic boy in the back of the room raised his hand and said, "Jews, Sir."

The teacher expelled the boy from the classroom for his ironic reference to the deportation of Jews.

Meanwhile, it was reported that 12,000 Dutch Jews were transported from the Westerbork concentration camp in the Netherlands province of Drenthe to Poland in the middle of October.

Russian Risks Life to Save Torah in Stalingrad

KIEV—A dramatic story of how a Russian Jew risked his life to save the Torah in a Stalingrad synagogue when the building was hit by a Nazi bomb, was reported last week by the Jewish Anti-Fascist Committee on the basis of a report given by Moshe Feigen, chairman of the Jewish Community in Kailgodes.

Germans Withhold Information on Jews

LONDON — Individual inquiries concerning Jews who have been deported or have disappeared fail to bring any results, it is reported here, because the German authorities in charge of Red Cross branches refuse to divulge any information as to whereabouts of such persons.

The International Red Cross Committee has been entirely unable to trace arrested, disappeared or deported civilians in German-occupied territories for this reason.

Nazi Victims Pay For "Easier" Death

NEW YORK—Gestapo men are utilizing the Nazi massacre of Jews in Europe to extort money from the Jewish victims for "quick deaths," the World Jewish Congress office here was informed this week in a cable from Dr. Ignacy Schermanski, Jewish member of the Polish National Council. Jews are told by Gestapo officials that they will be given "an easy death" if they pay for it, the cable said.

Quisling Gets Approval For Deportation of Jews

STOCKHOLM—Hitler has approved the deportation of 1,000 Jews from Norway after an appeal from Vidkun Quisling, reports from Norway said this week.

The request was turned down months ago because of transport difficulties, it was reported. Quisling sold the idea to Hitler, the newspaper Aftenbladet said, on the ground the Jews were behind the opposition to Quisling's party and the sabotage of military installations in Norway.

Editorials

Remark of the Week

Deploring the use of the word "tolerance" in discussing the relationship between groups of peoples, Wendell L. Willkie stressed this week that "it is not tolerance that one is entitled to in America; it is the right of every citizen in America to be treated by other citizens as an equal."

"No man has the right in America to treat any other man 'tolerantly,' for 'tolerance' is the assumption of superiority."

The New Year

As the year 1942 makes its exit, there is one fact clear amid all the conflict of emotions - the new year, 1942, will be a tremendously important one. The question being asked by many is - will it be the most decisive in history. Mr. Churchill has told us that we have but seen the end of the beginning, yet those who are more optimistic believe that it is the beginning of the end.

Certain it is that 1942 has been better than we had a right to expect. The number of men sent abroad by America in the first year of the war was almost twice that sent over during the same period in the first world war. The occupation of North Africa was another big gain and came as a happy surprise, after the loud wail of a second front.

On the other side of the picture is the fact that Germany still holds a vast area of Russia and the continent of Europe. The Nazis, the most predatory nation in history, will fight to the last ditch, we cannot anticipate a dissolution of the German home front.

So many foreign workers have been brought into Germany that even, if the infiltration continues, Hitler will have violated one of his basic precepts - purity of his German folk.

"The mills of the Gods grind slowly, but they grind exceedingly small," President Roosevelt told a delegation of Jews who recently visited him in Intermide for the Jewish victims of the Nazis.

Kerner was a truer statement made.

Better World is on Way, Says Willkie

Now is the Time To Discuss Issues

NEW YORK—Continuing his efforts to rouse nations and peoples to effective efforts in planning the postwar world, Wendell L. Willkie told a Jewish audience here last week end that a finer, better world was on the way, and that "now is the time" to discuss issues, no matter how controversial, which would "make for the future security of all peoples."

Speaking at a dinner celebrating the 100th anniversary of the Congregation Rodeph Shalom Mr. Willkie expressed his desire to see all peoples enjoy the blessings of liberty and stressed that it was for this goal that he was today carrying his message up and down the land.

Gov. Charles Poletti of New York speaking from the same platform, agreed with the titular heads of the Republican party that now was the time to discuss the issues of the postwar peace, whether controversial or not, and advocated the formation of a Jewish army to fight under the United States Command.

Attempts to Embarrass Eisenhower Because of His Name Amuses Him

HOLLYWOOD — Irving Hoffman relays a reporter's tale about the irrepressible General Eisenhower. Exceedingly busy in London, the great soldier managed to sandwich in a few chats with the press. He asked them if they had been listening to the Nazi radio and what the Germans had been saying.

"They say," he was informed, "that it's just typical of the Jew Roosevelt to send the Jew Eisenhower to England!"

The general laughed heartily and said that reminded him of an incident that happened to his brother Milton. Milton Eisenhower, working with Dwight Davis in Washington, was approached by a gushing dowager. "What a wonderful family you Eisenhowers are!" she babbled. "One brother died at Bataan, one brother is in charge of our army in Europe - and you're here doing an important job. A great family. What a pity it is that you're Jewish".

"No, madame," he corrected. "What a pity it is that we are not."

Cossack infantry battalion in Stalingrad — by means of telephoned instructions — when its commander was critically wounded by enemy artillery fire, is cited in the Soviet press as having been recommended for a government decoration.

THE HONOR ROLL

Distinguished Service

Captain George Laven Jr., 26, formerly of Baltimore and now of San Antonio, Texas, has received the distinguished Service Cross for particularly effective work against the Japanese invaders in the Aleutians. One of the first American fighter pilots to send an enemy aircraft to destruction in that region, Capt. Laven won the award for "extraordinary heroism." The incident took place early in September in the first pursuit attack made on an enemy installation at Kiska Island.

To accomplish his deed, Capt. Laven, member of a two-plane unit, flew for more than 600 miles over open water before reaching the objective. Once there the Americans (a) destroyed a huge four-engine flying boat, (b) strafed gun emplacements, (c) shot up a small vessel in the harbor, and (d) discovered and reported the position of a submarine net at Kiska Harbor. All this under hot anti-aircraft flak.

Capt. Laven enlisted in 1940, receiving his training at Kelly Field in Texas. He became a first lieutenant about a year ago and rose to a captaincy during the Aleutians fighting.

Sergeant Milton Kalter, 29, of New York City, has been awarded the Air Medal in recognition of "extraordinary achievement in aerial flight." Sgt. Kalter was one of 27 men who received the medal recently from the hand of Major General Simon B. Buckner Jr., commanding general of the Alaska Defense Command.

Milton, the son of Harry Kalter of 710 Ninth Ave., New York City, is the first son of a member of the Independent Order Brith Abraham to receive an award for distinguished service in the Air Corps. In service since Oct. 7, 1941, Sgt. Kalter is a radio operator, although he was totally unfamiliar with this work in civilian life. A quiet chap, he spent every possible spare moment on his hobby, rather a unique one: weight-lifting. He is built like Charles Atlas: enormous and magnificently muscled, shoulders and chest, tapering down, V-like, to a tiny waist. He can lift a 400 pound weight from a supine position and has been an active Amateur Athletic Union competitor in weight-lifting events, winning many prizes.

Killed in Action

Captain Jacob Joseph, 22, son of State Senator Lazarus Joseph of New York, was killed in action at Guadalcanal Island on Oct. 22nd. He was the great-grandson and namesake of Rabbi Jacob Joseph, the only chief rabbi New York City ever had.

The captain's father was leaving his home at 910 Grand Concourse, the Bronx, for an appointment in Washington with Lt. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, commander of the United States Marine Corps, to discuss joining the service himself, when a messenger arrived with the grim tidings of his son's sacrifice. Badly hit by the news, the Senator nevertheless declared his intention of keeping that appointment with General Holcomb as soon as possible.

Sergeant Leon Lazar Schwartz, 23, of New Orleans, La., was killed in action at Guadalcanal. His aunt, Miss Estelle Schwartz of 3310 Upperline St., New Orleans, had reared him since the age of four, when his father died. In the Marine Corps since Feb. 1939, Sgt. Schwartz was a graduate of Fortier High School in New Orleans. He had an uncle who served in the last war.

Died in Line of Duty

Colonel James J. Firestone, 59, of Kitkaning, Penna., commandant of the Stockton (California) Motor Base, died while on active duty last month. Chief of the Ordnance Base since February, Col. Firestone, a native of Austria-Hungary, began his military career in 1911 with the Pennsylvania National Guard. During the first World War he served in France as Provost Marshal of the 28th Division. In 1918 he became a National Guard Captain and a year later was made Major Provost Marshal. Entering the regular army in 1929 as a captain, he rose to his majority in 1935, then in 1940 to lieutenant colonel and on December 24, 1941 to the full rank of colonel.

Captain Herman Finklestein, of Roseland, N. J., died while on active duty at Huntsville Arsenal, Alabama. Attached to the Medical Corps Capt. Finklestein had been in service since March 1941. He leaves his wife, Sally, and a son, Malcolm. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Isidor Finklestein of 593 Miller Ave., Brooklyn.

"Those who commit such atrocious acts are traitors to the ideals of our beloved nation. They betray democracy at home while our men and women die for it in battle. Hitlerism and the Ku Klux Klan do not belong in America."

Poletti said similar outrages have occurred in other parts of the state. However, he did not say where.

YOUNG MAN WITH A PURPOSE !

Portrait of a Man
Colyming Blindfolded:

Styles in war books change. First foreign correspondents came back and authored tomes on how things looked in the Old Country, America's chances for staying out, etc. Some said the war wouldn't touch us, some argued that we'd better get something over our chin, but fast. Next came the books on those who'd smelled powder—in Norway, England, Russia, etc. Now there's a third set. These—Harold Denny, Frederick Oechsner, Louis Loehner, and others—all describe their experiences in the Axis clinks they were jammed into when the blow-off came. The way to go nuts is to read one of the latter, and then reread one of the earlier ones which counseled us not to worry, that Hitler wanted nothing from us—except everything. A good example of a "take it easy" book is the The Cong. Record.

It will take a lot of Yankee Doodle victories to make many American dopes realize we've got a pretty scrappy army and navy. These lame-brains keep on resisting good news. When the flash came from the South Pacific that our forces had slapped the kimono off the Japs, they grumbled: "Great—if it's true." Then they'd add, "How can you tell until you get the Tokyo report?" Meaning they prefer to trust the enemy rather than Washington. On the other hand, they swallow rumors like candy. Give them anything that looks bad for us and they polish it up and peddle it eagerly. But that can be stopped. Whenever you hear a jackass selling a rumor, ask him, "How do you know?" It's a quicker smotherer than chloroform.

Doodlings: You can leave money in most hotel rooms and come back with a reasonable chance of finding it there. But leave a razor blade, and it's a gone goose. Are chambermaids growing beards—that they've got to go south with the blades? Please, girls, they're gonna be hard to get. The week's prize patsy was the songwriter who went to see his doc on what was giving him the fidgets. The medico stung him $10 for advice to cut down on coffee. One theater manager said his house is equipped with earphones for the hard of hearing and with smoked glasses for the Pulitzer Prize committee—to keep them from knowing too much about the candidates.

Laval, who is notoriously greedy, rattled for a smaller price than Benito was promised. The way it looks now neither will bet a thing, but when the Duce peddled himself as a slave to Der Fuehrer it looked as though he would pick up a few lira. The Nazis were riding high. They had smacked down the Low Countries, and Norway and Denmark. When France succumbed Duce figured he could share the spoils without risking his skull. So he declared himself in. Look at him now. Laval didn't even have a promise. He went over to the Heel from Berlin when the frantic Fuehrer didn't have a thing to offer him. Maybe he betrayed the French people for the sheer pleasure of being a Louse. His whole record stamps him as a guy who really enjoys doing somebody a dirty trick.

There are a lot of things you can say about Laval—most of them bad—but until now nobody ever accused him of being a chump. And his declaration for a Nazi Victory leaves him all the way out on a limb. Maybe the habit of double-crossing people has become so strong that he's double-crossing himself. Anyway, he's on the record as Berlin's official boot-licker and flunkie. He speaks the wordage Joe Goebbels authors for him. For two years he had to fake his sentiments and pretend to be working for his own nation. When he cut loose last week his words didn't surprise anybody.

However, Benito, unless he's forgotten how to chuckle, can have one at the expense of the boss. When the invincible Fascist legions got their schnozzolas rubbed in the African sand, Berlin hustled Rommel in there to show Rome how to humble the British. That was the third sneer Berlin had for Benito, the other two having been sneered in Albania and Greece. But now that Rommel has turned tail and sprinted for cover (a stunt believed to be patented by the Fascist forces), Benito must feel better. It gives him and the master a lot in common next time they stage a huddle at the Brenner Pass. Maybe that laugh is all Musso will get out of the war.

The Magazines: Harper's offers a bang-up adventure yarn in "A Long Way from Home." It's Jacqueline Clarke's report on how the neutral ship carrying her to her bridegroom in England was torpedoed by the Nazi water rats. The author is the gal who was so comic as the maid in "Blithe Spirit." Her high days in an open boat, with the Atlantic gale juggling it, are a ready-made flicker. Herbert Hoover makes Collier's with an outline of how we'll have to feed Europe's hungry when the savages have been tamed.

Coal coming up the Bay in rowboats?

WELL, NOT YET... but the giant colliers that formerly brought our gas-making coal have been replaced by smaller craft... ever smaller. It's a tough war-time job, bringing the coal to our docks at Sassafras Point!

It comes from the mines, part of the way by railroad, part of the way by water. The news columns of this paper remind you almost daily of the increasing transportation problems of the railroads. And the hazards of water transportation are well recognized.

We expect our coal will keep on coming... and not in rowboats!

But we do suggest that you avoid waste in the use of GAS... for cooking, refrigeration, water heating. As a matter of fact, it's a war request of our Government.

It is our duty as good civilian soldiers to co-operate!

IN COOKING...

don't turn on the heat until ready to cook and turn it off the minute you finish.

IN REFRIGERATION...

don't leave the refrigerator door open. Always allow cooked foods to cool before putting in the refrigerator.

IN WATER HEATING...

don't let hot water run while washing hands, dishes, or shaving. Don't use more hot water than necessary.

Scientists Blast Nazi Race Theories

NEW YORK — Unreserved condemnation of the racial nonsense which is behind the "Aryan" theories of the Nazis was voiced here in a special resolution adopted at the centenary meeting of the American Ethnological Society, after a series of eminent scientists read papers emphasizing that racial origins bear no relation to traits of character.

The resolution was appropriately accepted at the American Museum of Natural History, where the hundred men of science gathered for their session.

For a Woman's Fancy

From all indications, women will be as well dressed at the end of the war as now - but differently. This is the opinion of Winifred Runshenbach in her book "How to Dress in War-time."

According to Miss Runshenbach, who has been writing mainly about the sociology of fashion for the past 16 years, "the luxurious clothes of the rich will be eliminated and so will cheap, slummy clothes. The government wants every piece of clothing to last its owner several years. It must be sturdy, color-fast, shrink-proof and have solid seams. Although there will be plenty of color - there is no dye shortage and Americans look their best in color - the senseless, trashy little items in fashion are on their way out. Eventually we'll probably have a Victory model, comparable to the English "Utility Model."

Clothes Rationing

"There are no definite facts yet to be had about clothes rationing. But in selecting clothes now, women must remember that rationing will come. Everyone should see to it that there are no gaps in her wardrobe. Most important of all, I think, is one good, warm, long wearing coat. A soft dressmaker coat, which so many women rely upon as the backbone of their wardrobe, is not enough. It's not tough enough."

Temple Alumni Group To Hold Annual Meeting

Mrs. Jack Fox is chairman, and Mrs. Myron Herman co-chairman, of the evening.

Dancing and a social hour will follow the meeting. Leon Tenkin will preside.

Home for Aged Sponsors Bridge, Mah Jong Party

A complimentary bridge and mah jong party, sponsored by the Ladies' Association of the Jewish Home for the Aged of Rhode Island, will take place next Wednesday afternoon at the home.

Mrs. Charles Emers is chairman of hospitality and Mrs. Samuel M. Magid is chairman of prizes. The party is open to the public.

Looking Into the Future

"What will the post-war style trend be? I believe that the dress with the adjustable waistline," concluded Miss Runshenbach, "will turn out to be the post-war dress of World War II, just as the chemise dress was the post-war dress of World War I. It has plenty of action and as it doesn't have to be fitted to every figure, it will save the 100 million dollars which are spent annually in the United States for remodeling feminine clothes."

Dressy blouses and jackets can be worn with different length skirts for either cocktail dates or formal occasions. Single lines and restrained trim are attractive, and are less likely to become tiresome after some wear.

Sequin-trimmed blouses are not as durable as many other trimmed styles, but with care they can last for several seasons. Since evening blouses afford comparatively little wear, it isn't advisable to invest much in this part of your wardrobe.

Incidentally, don't hesitate to use any afternoon or informal blouse that you already own with a dressy skirt. You can use accessories to prevent the formal note.

Many people have asked us about the vitamins that turn gray hair into black. While there is evidence that this transformation has taken place, the vitamins necessary should only be administered by a physician for there is no conclusive evidence that a deficiency of pantothenic acid causes gray hair in humans or that an excess of that vitamin will restore previous color to gray hair in humans.

If it's vanity that compels your interest in gray hair "cures" turn your inability into an asset by playing it up with attractive hair-dos and by wearing colors that flatter rather than obscure silver ones in the hair.

To Send Envoys To Neutral Countries

Hope to Rescue Nazi Victims

JERUSALEM—Dr. Bernard Joseph, acting chief of the Political Department of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, told a press conference that Palestine Jewry was planning to send special envoys to the neutral countries in an organized effort to effect the rescue of the victims of Nazi oppression.

Dr. Joseph, temporarily acting in place of Moshe Shertok, Political Chief, who is now visiting England, reported on the activities of the special committee for aid to European Jewry which was recently established by the Jewish Agency in co-operation with the Vnaad Leumi. He said that communications had been addressed to the United Nations and to the International Red Cross regarding proposals for the salvation of Jews in the grip of Nazi persecution. He expressed the hope that positive results would follow from these appeals.

Authorize Reprints Of Jewish Literature

LONDON — Nazi-burned books of Jewish authors will reappear under a liberal grant of the Soviet Government, which ordered the printing of 30 million copies of all books destroyed by the German invaders of Russian soil. The reprinted Jewish literature will be distributed throughout areas liberated from the Nazi invaders.

Soldier's Identification Is 14 EEE - His Shoe Size

PINE CAMP, N. Y.—"Nobody looks at me," is the complaint of Pfc. Gerald Rosenbaum, stationed here, "they look at my feet."

And who wouldn't look at Rosenbaum's feet? Supply sergeants and the Quartermaster have been looking at them for weeks now, stymied by them. They're size 14EEE. You can't keep a thing like that quiet. The United Press has already notified 610 radio stations about it, by teletype.

As a result, people Rosenbaum never heard of are calling up his folks, writing him fan letters and sending him corn plasters.

United Jewish Appeal Junior Division to Have Rally; List District Heads

The Junior Division of the United Jewish Appeal will have a rally this Sunday night at the Jewish Home for the Aged at which time Isaac E. Feinstein, executive director of the Home, will address 200 young men and women on the importance of the Appeal campaign.

Miss Florence Zwoden, chairman of the division, announced this week that the city has been divided into 10 districts and the appointed captains for each section are Morris Keller, Miss Evelyn Block, Mr. and Mrs. Israel Karten, Miss Betty Goldin, Miss Harriet Feinstein, Irving Chuenin, Miss Jennie Cohen, Miss Molly Moses, Miss Beatrice Vengorow and Miss Estelle Goldin.

The Junior Division has already covered 120 cards resulting in $500 in pledges.

Scene Around Town

Bond Rally

Last Sunday night's Bond Rally garnered close to a million and, with the Johnny-come-latelys hopping on the bandwagon, the gross will be more than the quota. It was a great turnout and a fine exhibition of team work everyone must admit—that is, all but a few men who did their best to cancel the event. Why?—we don't know.

Members of the committee who worked hard for the success for the rally include Alter Boyman, the chairman, Louis Rosenbaum, Abraham Ponce, Louis Kovinsky, Joseph Grossman, Morris Shoham and members of the Kane family.

Round Trip

Lou Schwartz dropped in to say hello. He was granted a ten day furlough from his Denver post at photography school. When he arrived in town he found a telegram ordering him right back to Denver. Lou will soon come East to complete his training at Yale University. Melvin Shore and Arnold Rudnick are new enlistees in the Navy. Bucky Barad who, when last heard from was on the West coast, wrote friends that if they shipped him out he wished it was the Solomon, because it had a good Jewish name.

Boomerang

When you see Frank Golemba ask him about the stranger he invited to play pinocle who, during the evening, turned a sure bate of 500 in spades into a paying hand. Frank is still shaking his head in bewilderment. The records show a girl to the Kurt and Ann Webbers and also a girl to the Sid and Rose Kahns. Both births occurred at the Miriam Hospital. A note from Captain Sam Pritsker, who's stationed in Tennessee, says he's learning to fly and will soon be soloing. A college sophomore, listening to an argument between two litterateurs, commented: "It was a battle of words and they retired with split infinitives."

Music Department

Arthur Einstein has recently published his new organ prelude "And the Heavens Were Created." A story making the music rounds tells of Leopold Stokowski visiting a high school and watching the music prof conduct the school orchestra. Asked by the school maestro if he would like to conduct for a few minutes, Stokowski said certainly. and he conducted the school orchestra for a few minutes but he rehearsed the students first for three hours. Fred Allen had the best-gag line this month when, in response to the question, "Is that new Russian sabbie you gave your wife genuine?" he answered, "Is it genuine? It still has the Nazi soldier in its teeth." American radio-listeners missed a rare treat which was accorded only to troops overseas—a special OWI recording of Jack Benny and Jascha Heifetz playing a violin duet.

Hollywoodiana

A. P. Chong, the Chinese actor who is playing the role of the Japanese ambassador in "Mission to Moscow" was complimented by the Director on the shiny medals and decorations he was wearing. "How do you keep them shining like that?" he was asked. "Very simple. I take them off every few minutes and spit on them," Chong explained. Lou Costello of Abbot and Costello checked his khaki-colored raincoat at the Stork Club. When he left he accidentally was given a khaki-colored raincoat belonging to Arthur Treacher. Costello is a fraction over five feet short. Treacher is over six feet long. Costello started to put on Treacher's coat which practically enveloped him. "What!" he was heard to scream. "What I am doing in this pup tent? I'm 3-A." That's all for now.

Charlie Chaplin Reveals Japs Plotted His Death In 1932, to Force War

BEVERLY HILLS — Working on the theory that the United States would go to war with Japan to avenge the death of its greatest film idol, the military clique in Tokyo plotted to kill Charlie Chaplin ten years ago.

This story was disclosed by the film comedian in a newspaper interview. He said that while he was visiting Japan in 1932, the terrorist group placed his name on their list together with that of Premier Tsuchi-kai who was assassinated in May of that year.

Chaplin said his life was spared because he was attending a wrestling match with one of the Premier's sons on the night the assassins struck.

"Dear David" - A One-Way Correspondence With a Nine-Weeks-Old Son in Philadelphia

NEW YORK—There's an American army captain stationed with the Medical Corps in Australia who's been carrying on a one-way correspondence with a nine-weeks-old son in Philadelphia whom he's never seen. Captain Bernard Lipman left the United States for overseas service six months before David Michael Lipman was born. Operating on the theory that you're never too young to learn, he has already, in his letter, begun explaining to the young man what the shooting is about.

In his most recent letter to David, the Captain wrote:
"Today you are 56 days old, and it is time that your old dad had a heart-to-heart talk with you, although you are much too young to reciprocate."

"Your father misses both you and your mother very much. When the years roll by and you become a father, you will know just what I mean, although I hope that when you become my age the world will have learned that those who seek to destroy all that is fine in this world he dealt with before they attain power sufficient to cause the earth to be stained with the blood of men who wanted nothing more in life than to worship God in the way they choose and to enjoy the sanctity of their own homes."

"Your dad is just 15,000 miles away from you right now, but he knows, without ever having seen you, that you have the inner stuff of which Americans are made. Perhaps you won't realize for quite a while just what it means to be an American."

"You are still much too young to appreciate the thrill that comes when the flag goes up at reveille and comes down at retreat, and you feel that lump in your throat and you know deep down inside of you that your country symbolizes the really decent things in life."

"David, your mother and I spent many thrilling hours talking about you, how we wanted you to get the best education possible, have all the good times that life has to offer. That is why I am here in Australia. Because someone with a depraved mind says that all men are not created free and equal, and that a nation of blood-thirsty squareheads are going to run the show and decide who is going to be a doctor and who is going to be a slave."

ROYAL NAVY OFFICER

JERUSALEM—According to a report in the Hebrew daily Haaretz, a Palestinian Jew, formerly employed as an engineer in the Palestine Potash, Ltd., has become the first Jewish officer in the Royal Navy. He was recently promoted to the rank of lieutenant-commander, after serving in the Royal Navy a few months.

Seek Declaration Of Post-War Goals

Say Now is Time For Religious Sincerity

CINCINNATI, Ohio—A broad declaration of principles for postwar rehabilitation, including absolute racial equality, international co-operation of Christians and Jews, and democratic control of all natural resources was issued here by the American Institute on Judaism and a Just and Enduring Peace.

The declaration was a summation of conclusions reached at a four-day meeting under auspices of the Commission on Justice and Peace of the Central Conference of American Rabbis.

Spokesmen described the meeting as a Jewish counterpart of similar conferences held by Roman Catholic and Protestant leaders in this country and in England. Sixty representatives of Reformed Orthodox, and Conservative Jews attended.

Describing the present time as possibly "the acid test of religious sincerity," the Institute proposed immediate convening of a "World Council of Christianity and Judaism" to speak "in one mighty voice for the application of the universal ideals of righteousness and brotherhood in the postwar world."

"Unless all religions eschew sectarianism and learn to unite upon their essentials," the declaration said, "they may well forfeit their right to the allegiance of men. They will not otherwise play their due roll in the making of the world after this war."

either by war bond purchases or taxation and termed the former as the "American way"; and Archibald Silverman who described the purchase of war bonds as the "safest investment you can make."

Benjamin N. Kane was master of ceremonies. The meeting was opened by Alter Borman, chairman of the rally committee, and he introduced Dr. Israel M. Goldman who gave the invocation. Miss Harriet T. Feinstein sang the national anthem after which tribute was paid to the 1109 men of Jewish faith now in the armed services from this community with the display of a service flag and the national colors.

Music during the program was provided by the symphony orchestra under the direction of Benjamin Premack. The rally entertainment program included five acts of vaudeville contributed by professional singers, dancers and comedians appearing currently at local theatres.

England to Admit Refugee Orphans

LONDON—The British Government will admit Jewish refugees from France who have lost their parents and have relatives here to whom they can come, it was announced by Colonial Secretary Viscount Cranborne in the House of Lords. He further stated that the High Commissioner of Palestine, Sir Harold MacMichael, would be willing to take 1,000 children if they could be transported to Palestine.

ETHIOPIAN ADVISOR

JERUSALEM — Nathan Marica, Jerusalem lawyer, who represented the Abyssinian community here during its years of exile, has left for Addis Ababa, the capital of Ethiopia, to take up the position of legal advisor to Emperor Haile Selassie, it was announced here.

Bond Rally Secretary

Sydney Hoffman, who acted as general secretary of the Jewish War Bond Rally held last Sunday night in the R. I. School of Design auditorium. Organizations and their members purchased $930,000 in War Bonds.

The Naval Adventures of the Isquith Brothers and a Jewish Prayer Book

NEW YORK — Lieutenant Commander Samuel Isquith, Medical Officer aboard the United States cruiser Vincennes, was in the sick-bay of that ship attending to his patients, during the opening battle of the Solomon. In the pocket of Isquith's shirt was a Jewish Welfare Board prayer book, containing two pictures of his family, carefully wrapped in wax paper, his most cherished possessions.

Suddenly an enemy torpedo crashed into the sick-bay.

Isquith, who miraculously escaped injury, rushed to the aid of the wounded, gathering ten of them together and launching a small raft for their use. When the wounded men were safely afloat on the raft, he gave his attention to the others. The order to abandon ship had been given, since the Vincennes, having been struck several more times, was sinking rapidly. Isquith was too busy with the wounded to hear the orders. Finally, having done his best for the injured survivors, he himself plunged overboard. It is believed he was the last man to leave the ship.

Isquith swam about in the water for six hours. At length he was picked up by a rescue ship. On board he refused to rest. His clothes still wet, he worked for long hours over the wounded who had been rescued.

Then he remembered the prayer book. It was still there, thoroughly wet, but intact.

"I dried this cherished book," he says, "and though its binding cover had become oil and water soaked, yet the print was readable and the paper remained in good condition." The pictures, too, had come through the incident unscathed.

Several months later, Isquith was on his way home, after many further adventures, to New York City.

"While homeward bound on the transport," he recounts, "during New Year's, one of the wounded men in the sick bay had asked the ship's chaplain for a Jewish prayer book, but the chaplain had none aboard. Well, the Chaplain soon learned my faith and he inquired of me whether I had a prayer book and this gift served another worthy cause. I shall cherish this prayer book for all time and pass it on to my sons as it sure has a wonderful history."

Today Samuel Isquith is on duty in the Naval Hospital at the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Samuel is the brother of Solomon Isquith, who holds the Navy Cross for Bravery at Pearl Harbor, where he is credited with having saved 90 percent of the crew of the sunken target ship Utah last December 7 by his "cool and efficient manner of directing abandonment under the bombing attack," according to the Commander of the Pacific fleet.

Solomon Isquith also received a promotion recently - from his former rank of Lieutenant Commander to that of Commander. The Commander is still on active duty in the Pacific area.

Two N. Y. Vandals Sentenced to Jail

NEW YORK — The New York courts dealt their first blow against the anti-Semitic hoodlums and vandals that have sprung up in the city during the past few months when Presiding Justice Frank O'Connor of Special Sessions gave thirty day sentences to a 19 and a 21-year old youth who had been convicted of attacking Jewish air raid wardens in the Bronx for no other reason than that they were Jewish.

British Adamant On Jewish Army

See No Reason To Change Policy

LONDON—Sir James Grigg, the secretary for war, told Commons this week that the government had studied the question of forming a Jewish army "and it is not considered that any departure from the present policy is justified."

Jews are admitted to the British army individually in Great Britain and the Middle East, but the government announced previously that it opposed the formation of a separate Jewish army.

(Numerous signers to a petition in the United States recently called for the organization of a separate army).

Sir James' statement came as an answer to Ian Campbell, Conservative, who proposed that Commons form an interdepartmental committee to confer with an American delegation on the question.

Seymour Cocks, Laborite, asked "if the Jews are to be murdered in this war, have they not the right to form an army to avenge their fellows?"

Sir James did not answer.

Pioneer Women Send $40,000 to Palestine

NEW YORK—The Pioneer Women's Organization has sent $40,000 to the Working Women's Council in Palestine for its war training program during the last few months, according to the announcement of Miss Dvorah Rothbard, national secretary. These funds have been used to train large numbers of women for war production as well as for service in the PATS (Palestine Auxiliary Territorial Service), the women's corps which have now reached the total of 2,000.
