Division, was presented the campaign award in the form of a loving cup for his "devotion and generosity in the 1947 Campaign". Max L. Grant, chairman of the campaign advisory committee, made this presentation on behalf of the Board of Directors. Each of the division chairmen was presented with an appropriately inscribed "Citation of Merit", after reporting the results of the teams.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Rothman stated that "the success of this campaign demonstrates the tremendous force resulting when an entire community is motivated to work harmoniously and energetically for a great cause—that of saving and rebuilding the lives of a surviving remnant of our people in Europe. . . . All of us feel the momentousness of these days. A new and thrilling chapter in World Jewish history is in the making. All the longing of the uprooted people of Europe for a life of peace and dignity, for a normal and secure existence finds expression in their intense desire to go to Palestine. The United Nations decision gives our generation the opportunity to make this dream come true—to put an end to Jewish homelessness."

Following the formal part of the meeting, there was a program of entertainment and dancing.

An independent drive by an organization that already stands to benefit from the proceeds of a campaign that reached its conclusion only this week can accomplish little beyond leaving a bad taste in the mouth of a saturated public.

The General Jewish Committee in Providence and the United Jewish Appeal in Pawtucket should clarify the issue at hand as well as the position of Haganah as a separate fund-raising organization.

Miss Winns Heads Junior Hadassah

Phyllis Winns has become the new presiding officer of Junior Hadassah as a result of the recent resignation of Ethel Kleinman. Miss Winns conducted the meeting held last Monday evening at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel.

THE SPORTS SCREEN

By SYD COHEN

A few weeks ago the column devoted some space to the subject of women sports fans. It was noted that 1947 saw them emerge as a powerful force in the sports picture.

The reaction was not long in coming.

From a member of the staff, Frances Kushner, comes a vehement protest about the column's accuracy. Frances claims the Sports Screen is just "waking up" if it feels women came into their own as sports fans only within the last year.

Pointing to the famed Lolly Hopkins as an example of real fandom, Frances says she has a picture taken in 1942 showing a group of nine women and only four men crowding around a ball player waiting for autographs. Speaking from personal observation, she asserts that Ladies' Day crowds always have been "terrific."

In answer to my question as to what year prior to 1947 did girls attend ball games on their dates, she lists 1942, 43, 44, 45, 46 and 47.

"There have always been just as many girls out at high school games as fellows," Frances argues. "I speak of 1944, 45 and 46; and they didn't sit at games dumbfounded, either. That goes for women school teachers, too."

She sums up her arguments very neatly with the observation: "Men are too smug to realize that women know just as much as they do."

Quite a Case

It must be admitted that Frances presents a forceful argument on behalf of the women. And it is not denied that some women have been devoted sports fans for many years in the past.

I feel, though, that she has unwittingly bolstered my opinion when she points to Ladies' Day crowds. In previous years it took such promotions to attract the ladies, most of whom screamed at everything from a pop fly to a foul ball. I still maintain that it took the advent of night baseball at Fenway Park in 1947 and the fact that both Boston ball clubs were powers in their leagues last year to attract more women as well as men to the games.

Until last year, the only night ball in this region featured a not-too-interesting Braves outfit. Except for Sundays and holidays, when most girls prefer to be some place other than in a hot major league ball park, there was no occasion or incentive for them to attend the games and learn what it was all about.

My point is that the girls who really liked and understood sports, instead of merely tolerating them, prior to 1947, were in the minority. They couldn't quote averages and discuss players' abilities then as they do now. The change has been very definite. And sudden.

Perhaps the column in question should have been prefaced with an apology to that group of girls who have been real fans for some years. No slight was intended to them. It's good to know they take their sports so seriously.

Meanwhile, with an avid fan like Frances in the office I have a pretty good idea as to who will write this column whenever I am unavailable.

SCREENINGS:

During the 1947 baseball season the name of Al Rosen came into national prominence down in the Texas League. One of the outstanding players in the minors, the young Jewish lad was brought up by the Cleveland Indians late in the season for a brief trial.

You may have missed it when the official American League averages came out, recently, but Al got into 7 games and made one hit, a double, in nine trips, for a .222 average. He also scored one run. Playing one game in the outfield, Al made one catch and promptly doubled up a runner trying to score from third.....He is due for a thorough trial in the spring.

The first piece of fuel to be heaped on the fire of Red Sox-Yankee controversy for 1948 was Bucky Harris' reckless remark that the Sox, with their recent acquisitions from the Browns, have become strong enough to battle the Tigers for second place.

Boston writers have pounced on that choice morsel with alacrity and already are steaming up Boston fandom.....They express the hope that the crack will affect the Red Sox as Bill Terry's classic "Is Brooklyn still in the league?" did to the "Bums" in 1934. The resentful Dodgers, second division habitues of that era, waited until the final week of the season before knocking the "Jints" out of the pennant race.

It begins to look like "SRO" signs will be out every time the Yanks invade Fenway in 1948.

Next week for the first time since the famous fire at the bowling alleys, the Temple Beth-El bowling league will resume play.....The boys will roll at the Casino Alleys on Pine street starting next Thursday.

Emanu-El Bowling

By MAXWELL WALDMAN

Pandemonium broke loose at Lenny Cort's Casino Alleys last Monday night when Jack "Pappy" Platkin's Athletics whitewashed Joe Primack's Indians in the biggest upset of the year with every extra bowler cheering them on. The Athletics, who went into the 3rd game 38 pins behind in the 8th box, suddenly came to life with H. Mason, Sam Wintman, Al Goldberg, Morris Kramer and Jack Platkin blasting strikes and spares all over the alleys to gain 76 pins and sweep the contest. We had never heard so much noise before, but the Indians, good sportsmen as they are, accepted the defeat graciously and promised to make up for it next week.

Meanwhile Billy Kagan's sensa-

FBI Probes Sale of Ships for Zion Use

WASHINGTON — The Justice Dept. has begun an investigation to determine if the U. S. A.'s neutrality laws have been violated through the use of former American ships for smuggling Jewish refugees into Palestine, it was disclosed last week.

Authoritative sources said FBI agents were called in by the State Dept. as a result of British complaints that U. S. vessels were being transferred to "dummy" foreign owners and then put into operation as Palestine blockade runners.

The State Dept. was said to be particularly concerned about the recent sale to a Panamanian company of two U. S. ships which are running Jewish refugees from Rumania to the Holy Land.

The vessels, now called the Pan York and the Pan Crescent, are currently listed as owned by the F. B. Shipping Co. of Panama, a firm incorporated by Panamanian Lawyers Angel Vega Mendez and Anibal Illueca.

Originally owned by the United Fruit Line, they were sold to the Panamanian company last March 17 by three New Yorkers, Saul Birnbaum, Morris N. Goldberg and Jacob Katzman.

Under the neutrality laws, officials said, it is illegal for any U. S. citizen to outfit a ship for use against a friendly power—in this case Great Britain. Violators are liable to $10,000 fine, three years in prison, and forfeiture of the vessels involved.

Officially, the Justice Dept. refused even to say it was investigating that or any other ship transfers.

But unofficially, department attorneys said such inquiries were

Mr. Greenberg, a graduate of Boston University law school, is a member of the Newport and

Bronx Warehouse Fails to Solve Mystery of TNT Cargo

Police investigate contents of a three-story warehouse at 4366 Park Ave. in search of the source of 65,000 pounds of TNT found on a Jersey City pier Saturday, about to be loaded into the hold of the SS Executor, bound for Palestine. No combustibles were found in building but search yielded several cartridge loading machines (▲), uncharged cartridge cases and a few live cartridges.

Twenty-two crates addressed to Palestine (▲) and containing radio equipment, sewer pipes, machine motors, washing machines and other machinery, were found in Bronx building. A crate-addressing stencil linked warehouse to Palestine-bound explosives. Julius Chender, listed as owner of building (see outside view, above), could not be found. His parents said he had been in Paris for two years. Explosives were taken by Coast Guard to Federal Anchorage 49, Raritan Bay. Shipment of ammunition to Middle East was banned by U. S. Dec. 5. SS Executor was scheduled to sail without its lethal cargo this afternoon.

"One Man's Opinion"

Technion

By BERNARD SEGAL

Add this word to your vocabulary. You will be hearing it and reading about it more and more these days.

Technion is the name for the Hebrew Institute of Technology, in Haifa, Palestine. Next to the Hebrew University on Mount Scopus, it is the only other school of university standards in the Holy Land. Technion, however, is the older of the two, the Institute of Technology dating its founding back to 1912. The origin of the school was a humble one. It started as a trade school, with the help of the New York financier, Jacob Schiff, whose many philanthropic interests here and abroad are a lasting memory to his name.

population in Palestine, the Institute grew in size and in usefulness. Twenty-four years ago it was transformed into a technological school modeled after M. I. T., and others in the United States.

Today, Technion consists of a College of Engineering, a Technical High School, and a Nautical school.

The College of Engineering offers college courses in architecture, civil engineering and industrial engineering. This latter department includes divisions of mechanical, electrical and chemical engineering.

The high school trains mechanics and craftsmen in all the fields of modern industry. Similar training is offered through extension courses.

The Nautical school aims to develop a personnel for a seafaring merchant marine. Still another is in the blue print stage. It is a school of Aeronautics, to keep the land in step with present day progress in aviation.

This year Technion has an enrollment of 670 students in the College, 300 in the High School and 95 in the Nautical school. In all, Technion trains over one thousand future engineers and mechanics for the development of industrial Palestine.

Of interest to us in the U. S. is the group of 50 students from this country who came to study at Technion under the provisions of the GI Bill of Rights.

When the birth-pains of the Jewish state in Palestine will be over, and strife and bloodshed will give way to peaceful reconstruction, Technion will have a role of first magnitude to play in the land.

Every school child knows now that Palestine is a small country, and a shamefully neglected one at that. And yet we hear on all sides from experts and authoritative sources that the land can support a population of 4-5 million.

How is this to be accomplished? The answer is in the application of modern technological skill and inventiveness.

Drilling wells in the desert. Laying pipe lines for irrigation of waste lands. Building dams along the Jordan River to supply electric power for industry, and farm, and city. Tapping the natural resources of the land for minerals. Building railroads and manning them. Building ships and equipping them for world trade. Research into new sources of power and development of new products. Creating jobs for millions. Building new cities.

For all this technical skill is needed, and Technion will lead in supplying this skill. It is well equipped to do it. On the faculty of Technion are scientists of world wide fame, among them many who escaped from Germany.

With new settlers coming in such large numbers, and with many more waiting their turn, agriculture alone can no longer be relied on for a livelihood. A large scale industrial development, stretching the capacities of every acre of land, using every tool of modern technology, will provide homes and a livelihood for the hundreds of thousands who flock to the land of Judea.

No wonder, then, that the Institute of Technology in Haifa is assuming ever greater importance. Since the war years Technion has created interest in our country among engineers and scientists. An organization called the American Technion Society is now active in providing money, machines and equipment for Technion in Haifa.

A chapter of American Technion exists in our city. It deserves to be more widely known than it is now. The composition of this society, its purposes, and its plans will be told in the coming issue of the Herald.

PERSISTENT MOSLEY.....

"LEADER": Sir Oswald leaving a "secret meeting" at Memorial Hall after bricks were thrown and police called

Wartime Nazi sympathizer who promised to give up politics plans to organize a new party

THE name of Sir Oswald Ernald Mosley, sixth baronet, brings snorts of contempt from most British subjects. Since 1918, when he returned from France as a war veteran to become first a Conservative M.P., then a Laborite, and later an Independent, he has been reaching out for some kind of power in his native land. As a switcher of his loyalty, he was known as "Britain's outstanding political turnshirt."

His pre-World War II admiration for Mussolini and his "Blackshirt" party made his name notorious. During the war, when the Home Office no longer had the time to supervise his activities, he was jailed. For three years he was in a British prison. But under the guise of ill health and a promise to abstain from politics he was sent back to his country home in Wiltshire.

Now he is back — with a prison record (just like Hitler) and a book written in prison (just like Hitler) — to start rallies and riots (just like Hitler). When melees arise from public opposition to his cause, Sir Oswald dodges the ruckus in the company of husky bodyguards.

He claims he has some 50-odd organizations which would support his party. A time of crisis in Great Britain, he says, will be his big opportunity. Like his counterpart in all forms of autocracy, Mosley is known as "the leader," and it is his goal to form a corporate state. He is married to Diana Freeman-Mitford, whose sister was described by Hitler as "the ideal Aryan woman."

This year Sir Oswald plans to unite all his so-called "book clubs" and other organizations into a "Union Movement." According to the British Home Office, if such a Mosley party is established, it would enjoy the freedom of democracy and could not be condemned as illegal. — RICHARD F. CRANDALL

HACKNEY: Communists battling British League and bobbies when Mosley's name was shouted at a street meeting

WORDS: Mosley distributes plenty

WATCHERS: Two policemen and a boy keep watch over an outdoor meeting

AUDIENCE: Scores of people listen intently to Fascist propagandizing

EXPONENT: Grim-faced F. A. Young harangues the crowd for Mosley ideas

New York-Hollywood Ticker:
Broadway Small Talk: Theatrical unemployment hits its new high in the late fall. . . . So y'wanna be a B'way producer? Out of 5,847 plays (registered last year) less than 75 opened in New York. . . . Billy's, the ancient gaslit saloon, finally went modern and bought itself a cash register—after 70 years. . . . Most hot doggeries have hiked the fee on franx to 15 cents. . . . Warning to druggists, medicos, et al.: All sleeping pills now are listed as dope along with morphine, et cetera. Be careful about peddling without prescriptions. Jails can be oof-ly chilly even in the summer. . . . Many models and actresses (in midtown) live on a "BB" diet (benzedrine and pheno-barbital).

They say there are more than 125,000 scientists (in 18 countries) busy on atomic energy research. How can you keep such a secret with that many?

Other gushers are "Allegro," "High Button Shoes," "Medea," "Man and Superman" and "The Winslow Boy." . . . Most notable personal triumphs among established stars: Judith Anderson and Maurice Evans. . . . The semester's brightest new sparkler is June Lockhart—who blazed the star-dust trail via "For Love or Money." . . . Of course, it hasn't been a turkeyless season. But when the Main Stem sprouts a half dozen solid clicks at this time of year, it indicates the thittir still has plenty of vitamins. . . . All in all, it looks like one of Broadway's more rousing seasons, although there are still some pessimistic producers weeping into their champagne.

Lucille Bremer (whose alma mater is the Copacabana chorus) won swift success in MGM movietown. Stardom, jools and wealth. Then she finally got a phone.

The Stage Door: Fame is like this and the second item: Frank Sinatra's name on the Capitol theater is printed in type two and three-quarters by one and a half inches. The names of stars of the accompanying film (Lucille Ball and Franchot Tone) appear in print one-half by three-quarter inches. . . . Met star Martha Lipton's press agent planted a piece about opera thrushes' quirks and signaturred by her in Park East, a publication for the lifted pinky set in swank midtown New York. Miss Lipton's name came out Martha Tilton. The latter is merely a big click among the peasants who listen to radio shows. . . . The Howard Cullmans (who need money like you need a hole in the head) are backing a dozen Broadway shows.

GENOCIDE THE GREATER CRIME

Genocide—the Greater Crime is a new film strip produced by the United Nations. The pictures and text on this page are excerpts from the original film and script, edited by Jerome Oberwager, assisted by Michel Delman, of the UN Films and Education Division. UN film strips in English, French, Spanish, Russian and Chinese are free to any group anywhere in the world. Schools, churches, clubs have only to write to UN and the strips will be sent to them together with lecture notes.

1. Killer was a dangerous man. He didn't live with his fellow man according to the rules of his community.

2. He killed a man and took what he wanted.

3. Before long the police arrested him. He was tried before a court.

4. He was found guilty. The judge pronounced sentence according to the law, which was clearly defined in the law books of the land.

5. The law books listed the nature of the crime, the tribunal and the punishment for such a crime. So, because Killer violated the law, he was sentenced. Society is protected from such crimes.

6. There are other dangerous men, in high public office—and others who support them. To maintain their political positions these men appeal to prejudices.

7. They single out one group of people for persecution and destruction. Perhaps because of their nationality, or the color of their skin, their religion, the language they speak, or their particular customs.

8. Press and radio start their campaign. Let us call the victims Extabians. The attack is joined by those who see a way to satisfy their deep-rooted prejudices.

9. Henceforth no Extabians may own a store or participate in business or trade . . . all Extabian schools will be closed. Special policemen are deputized to enforce all decrees.

10. All Extabians not fit for hard labor will be sent to camps to be exterminated. Among them is perhaps a doctor who knows the cure for cancer.

11. Killer's crime was small compared to the crimes against the Extabians. For Killer there was a law and a conviction. But men who commit crimes against an entire group of people are received with honor in many capitals of the world.

12. There is no legal protection for the Extabians under their own national law. Only an international law can protect society from such crimes. It is up to the peoples of the world to see to it that such a law is ratified in their own countries. . . .

13. So that those who commit crimes against any human group can be brought to trial and the courts can find them guilty under international law. . . .

14. So that the guilty are punished like common criminals and the world protected from the crime of Genocide. The peoples of the United Nations are going forward, building a world of law and order.

6 Technion Lists Added Speaker

William Fondiller, honorary president of the American Technion Society and assistant vice president of the Bell Telephone Laboratories of New York, will appear along with Dr. Walter C. Lowdermilk, soil conservation expert, at the meeting to be sponsored by the Southern New England chapter of the organization on Monday evening, January 19 at 8:30 o'clock at the Rhode Island School of Design Auditorium.

Lowdermilk, who is featured speaker on the program, will discuss "Palestine—Haven for Millions of Settlers." The author of the Jordan Valley Authority Plan for Palestine has claimed that the development of his plan would enable six million people to live in the area "in a state of well being."

The winner of numerous scientific honors, Fondiller for the past seven years has devoted his energies to the work of the American Technion Society in sponsoring and promoting the cause of the Hebrew Institute of Technology in Haifa, Palestine. Under his leadership, the American Society has grown from its original six members to an organization with chapters in every important city in the United States and Canada.

The program will be open to the public. There will be no admission charge.

Our Film Folk

By LEON GUTTERMAN

HOLLYWOOD—Europe is the greatest reservoir of story material in the world today, according to Lionel Shapiro, noted war reporter and now CBS Rome correspondent, who arrived in Hollywood this week for a visit at Paramount studio which is filming his first novel, the dramatic "Sealed Verdict," with Ray Milland in the starring role.

Harry Kurnitz, veteran scenarist, has been signed by Jack L. Warner to write and produce for Warner Bros. "The Story of Eddie Cantor," based on the life of the beloved comedian. This will be Kurnitz' initial assignment under his recently-signed long-term producer-writer contract at the studio. Some of Harry's top writing credits include "The Web," "See Here, Private Hargrove," and "Something in the Wind."

Strong grosses being racked up by RKO's "Crossfire" in all parts of the country are giving encouragement to 20th Century-Fox in plotting its campaign on "Gentleman's Agreement." While the anti-Semitism angle of "Crossfire" is minor compared with "Agreement," Fox executives have been

IT HAPPENED THIS WEEK

The Herald's offer to send a year's free subscription to newly married couples going into house-keeping has had an enthusiastic reception. . . . Due to the many inquiries we have had on the subject we must add that this offer is necessarily limited to those newlyweds residing in Rhode Island.

Returning from Japan

PFC David M. Goldman, son of J. Samuel Goldman of 94 Taylor street, who has been serving with the occupation forces in Japan for more than a year, is returning to the U. S. for terminal leave and eventual discharge.

Vacationing in Southland

Among the winter vacationists in the news this week are the Misses Doris Bieder of Bellevue avenue and Dorothy Klemer of Mitchell street, who have left for Miami Beach and Cuba. We presume they "escaped" from the frozen North during the slight lull between storms.

Rosens Welcome Daughter

Janet Ruth Rosen and Betsy Ellen Rosen announce the arrival of their sister, Nancy Pulver Rosen, on December 31. The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rosen of Memorial road. Mrs. Rosen is the former Miss Hope L. Pulver.

watching the RKO picture carefully. RKO sales chiefs declared this week that "Crossfire," despite its controversial aspects, has run into nothing but the most isolated opposition.

"Gentleman's Agreement" has opened in only New York and Chicago and is tallying heavy grosses in both. It will probably open in Los Angeles soon and go into general release some time during the first three months of 1948. The advertising campaign is not yet set, but will probably resemble the New York and Chicago copy which made no mention of the racial theme directly, but played up the fact that the film was made from the widely-known Hobson novel.

The death of Ernst Lubitsch cuts by one the list of motion picture directors whose names carried box office drawing power on theatre marquees. During the '20's and '30's, the "Lubitsch touch" became a special box office lure. As late as last year, his "Cluny Brown," starring Charles Boyer and Jennifer Jones, won critical accolades for "the touch."

MONTEFIORE MEETING
The Montefiore Ladies Hebrew Association will hold their annual meeting and complimentary bridge next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at Temple Beth-El. The annual drawing will be held.

Shown above is a "Citation of Merit" typical of those presented to Division Chairmen at the closing celebration of the General Jewish Committee. In making these presentations, Mr. Sopkin indicated that he wished it were possible for such a presentation to be made to every worker and contributor in the General Jewish Committee Campaign. He felt that the Jewish community of Providence itself deserves a "Citation of Merit" because of its outstanding performance in the 1947 General Jewish Committee Campaign.

Beth Israel Bowling

By SAUL HODOSH

The 1947 bowling season ended for Beth Israel last Tuesday and after checking the records I must rectify a serious error before going into the New Year as Edward Berren was not given credit for a string of 121 on December 16, which was second high for the night. I probably did see the record but my subconscious couldn't believe it so I disregarded the unbelievable, and it is that for Berren.

As of the close of the year, Princeton took over first place by 2 games as they beat Dartmouth in a "crucial series" 3 to 1.

Excellent strings were turned in by E. Lovett and A. Berman with 120, and Abe Robrish who, I understand, kept score, with 116. High-3 went to Esmond Lovett with 324 followed closely by Howie Nelson with 323. Sam Segal, who has really been hot, rolled off early and wound up with 309.

Humorist to Address People's League

Seymour Kleinman, Jewish wit and humorist, will be presented this Sunday evening at the second annual community night held by the Young People's League of Pawtucket in the vestry of the Ohave Shalom Synagogue, Pawtucket, at 8:15 o'clock.

Admission is free to this program.

The annual cocktail party of the League is scheduled for the latter part of this month.

TO ATTEND CONFERENCE

Mrs. Ethel J. Cohen, past national president, and Mrs. Mildred Schleffer, department president, will leave January 13 for the Women's Patriotic conference to be held in Washington, D. C. this month.
