GJC Women Prepare for Initial Gifts Affair

Haddassah To Be Host To N. E. Conclave

The Providence Chapter of Hadassah will be host to the New England Region of Hadassah which will inaugurate a series of sectional conferences at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel on Tuesday, September 14th from 10:30 to 3:30 o'clock, it was announced this week by Mrs. Irwin N. Silverman, president of the Providence Chapter of Hadassah.

In the morning session representatives from all the New England chapters will be present to hear Mrs. George D. Rossyn of Malden, Mass., president of the New England Region of Hadassah, give a political analysis of the new State of Israel and lead a discussion of the momentous happenings of the past summer.

The afternoon session will be a regular meeting of the Providence Chapter of Hadassah with Mrs. (Continued on Page 2)

Providence President

The women of Providence are now ready to answer the women of Israel. On next Tuesday, September 9, the Women's Division of the General Jewish Committee will launch a separate and forceful drive of "Sacrifice Giving" in an attempt to match the heroism and hardships of their women-folk abroad. At a garden party luncheon to be given by Mrs. Max L. Grant at her home on Hazard Avenue, the actual machinery for this unique campaign entirely "for women and by women" will be put into the works. Special Gifts Workers, Area Commanders, Squadron Leaders and Officers have been invited to report on their progress, make plans and listen to an inspirational speaker, Miss Valerie Stone of New York.

Cantor Sparkplugs Opening of Campaign

The 1948 "Year of Destiny" fund-raising campaign in Providence opened with a financial bang when $606,625 was pledged at the Initial Gifts meeting of the General Jewish Committee on Wednesday evening of this week.

Eddie Cantor, famed comedian and philanthropist, provided the verbal fireworks when he ignited the 300 community leaders present at Ledgemont Country Club with a dramatic account of the needs of the hundreds of thousands of homeless Jews he encountered on his recent trip to Europe in behalf of the United Jewish Appeal.

The sum contributed at the history-making Ledgemont affair was considerably in excess of that raised at last year's gathering. However, almost $750,000 still must be raised within the next several weeks if the local campaign is to reach its quota of $1,350,000 in behalf of Palestine resettlement, rehabilitation of European DP camp inmates and aid to newcomers to this country.

Electrifies Gathering

Cantor electrified the gathering with his frank appeal for gifts to the local GJC drive in support of the United Jewish Appeal. Alternatingly striking first a humorous—then a serious vein—in his remarks, he time after time was forced to pause because of the spontaneous applause of the audience.

Gov. John O. Pastore, in bringing the greetings of the State to Cantor, aptly expressed the sentiment of those present when he said:

"I don't think I am indulging in exaggeration when I say no man has done more to bring an understanding of charity to the hearts of the American people than Mr. Cantor."

Cantor, in his appeal for funds, also requested that everyone present, "and your friends," wire President Truman to extend U. S. recognition to the new Republic of Israel at once; to lift the arms embargo immediately; and to expedite granting of a $100,000,000 loan "to the first democracy to arise from the ashes of World War II."

Sopkin, Fine Set Tempo

The tempo of the meeting was set when Alvin A. Sopkin, campaign chairman who served as toastmaster of the affair, announced a total gift of $102,500 in behalf of himself and members of his family. A similar total was pledged by Abe C. Fine, chairman of the Textile Division of the GJC drive.

Funds Promised in Labor Zionist Fight

PARIS—Dr. Emanuel Neumann, president of the Zionist Organization of America, promised that the ZOA would make a special grant of funds to help the work of General Zionists in Europe, the Jewish Chronicle of London reported this week.

The report did not indicate how large a grant was involved nor what specific functions of European General Zionists would be aided financially. It was recalled, however, that efforts of ZOA leaders at a June meeting of the European General Zionists to win control and swing both U. S. and European General Zionism behind a program of support for free enterprise in Israel and a battle against labor dominance in the Jewish State were defeated.

Israel Protests U. S. Order on Male DPs

WASHINGTON—The Israeli government has filed a protest with the State Department against orders issued by U. S. authorities in Germany and Austria forbidding male Jews of military age for the present to leave displaced persons camps for Palestine.

The protest was delivered to the State Department during the past few days and is now being studied.

Occupation authorities in Germany recently issued an order setting up two categories of Jews who would not be allowed to leave DP camps:

Men who had military training and belonged to military units.
Men of military age.

Harry Schwartz to Direct BV Campaign

The entire Blackstone Valley Jewish community has been alerted for the largest United Jewish Appeal campaign in its history, Harry A. Schwartz, chairman of the drive, said Tuesday.

The committee in charge has mapped an extensive mailing program designed to acquaint the community with the tremendous needs facing European and Palestinian Jewry.

Formal opening of the campaign is scheduled for Wednesday, September 22 when the Initial Gifts function of the local group will be held in the ballroom of the Naragansett Hotel. A speaker of national prominence will address the meeting.

The community-wide solicitation phase of the campaign will begin Sunday, September 26, when a corps of volunteer solicitors will blanket the community.

"For a community of its size the Blackstone Valley has established a wonderful record of generous giving", Mr. Schwartz said.

"In view of the economic make-up of our potential contributors, we have every reason to be proud of our past achievements. I am sure this year we will more than do our share in getting help to those who are looking to us for assistance."

tive vice-chairman of the national UJA, were the other speakers. In describing his experiences during the tour of European DP camps from which he returned only last week, Cantor declared: "The only difference between these areas and Hitler's concentration camps is the absence of the barbed wire surrounding them. The one question asked by their inmates is: 'When will we be able to live again like normal men, women and children?'" commentator, she interviewed Alfred Hitchcock, Robert Taylor, Henry Fonda and other motion picture personalities. Miss Stone is working as present on a book dealing with the status of women throughout the world. In private life, Valerie Stone is the wife of Stefan Heym, the novelist.

Mrs. Albert Pilavin, chairman of the Women's Division has emphasized that this year's campaign will be unusual in the fact that fewer workers will be required. "Less time to socialize and more time to realize our goal in raising the largest amount ever achieved by the women of Providence entirely on their own as women, as individuals with a real stake in the future of their own people at home and abroad. This business of keeping peace and providing a better life for our people is a responsibility," says Mrs. Pilavin.

The Jewish women of Providence and the nation are being asked to give separately and apart from their husband's contributions, to give from their personal and household funds with a great showing of womanly strength and unity in the 1948 Fall Campaign of the General Jewish Committee.

It was reported to the Herald last week that Mrs. Sharpe would speak at a luncheon session. This is in error, as Mrs. Sharpe will speak during the afternoon session.

Mrs. Sharpe is now visiting in Israel and will tour German DP camps to her return to the United States on September 8th. She will present a report of Youth Aliyah progress and conditions in the new state.

For First Meeting

David Kessler, president of Providence Chapter of Masada, Young Zionists of America, has announced tentative plans for the first meeting of the season, which will be held September 26.

Officers of New England Regional Masada will be presented and Al Tall will speak briefly on Masada's plan for the coming season. A new film on Israel will be followed by group singing, dancing, refreshments and registration. Jerry Bienfeld, Bea Sock, Betty Gottschalk, Max Regensteiner and Dorothy Greene are in charge of arrangements. Members of Senior Judaea will be guests of Masada.

Young Adults Plan Initial Gifts Dinner

Determined not to be outdone by the senior groups in the 1948 GJC campaign, the Young Adults' Division is busy completing preparations for a full-scale Initial Gifts Dinner of its own, to be held Wednesday evening, Sept. 15 at Ledgemont Country Club.

Featuring the evening's well-rounded program of activities will be the presence of a much-decorated member of the famed Hag-anah fighting corps, who recently arrived from Palestine in behalf of the nation-wide United Jewish Appeal.

More than 500 invitations have been mailed to young adults to attend the Sept. 15 affair, which will be in the form of a buffet supper beginning promptly at 6:30 p. m.

Officials of the Y. A. D. urged immediate return of all acceptance cards in order that definite reservations can be made as early as possible.

Mrs. Peter Bardach and Milton Stallman, who are in charge of transportation arrangements, announced that transportation will be available for all those in need of same by calling Mrs. Bardach at Williams 4563 or Mr. Stallman at Gaspee 4891.

Bernard E. Bell and Ronald Sopkin, co-chairmen of the Initial Gifts committee, pointed out this week that the Y. A. D., realizing the vital importance of the 1948 "Year of Destiny" campaign, is sparing no effort to increase the division quota by at least 50% over last year.

The Y. A. D. intends again this year to conduct an extensive campaign on the campuses of local schools and colleges. A highlight of this year's campaign will be the staging of a special "one-day drive" for funds, the date of which will be announced later this month.

Sugarman Funeral Home last Friday afternoon. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

Glantz came to this country when he was 11 years old. He served overseas with the U. S. Army for 4 years.

He leaves his mother, Jenny Glantz; two brothers, Benjamin and Irving; three sisters, Mrs. Eva Gorobsov, Mrs. Barney Buckler, Mrs. Anna Hecker.

JACOB HAZMAN

Funeral services for Jacob Hazman, who died suddenly at his home at 49 Edgell Road, were held last Wednesday afternoon at the Max Sugarman Funeral Home. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

Hazman, husband of Anna (Charifson) Hazman, had been employed as a jewelry sample maker in this city for 40 years.

Besides his wife, he is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Samuel Millman and Mrs. David Levine, both of this city, and Mrs. Mary Charifson of New York; two sons, David Hazman of this city and Max Hazman of Baltimore; two sisters, Mrs. Pinya Silverman of Newark, N. J., and Mrs. Ruben Guralnick of Roxbury, and 11 grandchildren.

JOSEPH MITTLEMAN

Funeral services for Joseph Mittleman of 74 Eighth Street, who died suddenly last Monday after a heart attack, were held last Tuesday at the Max Sugarman Funeral Home. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

Mittleman was owner of the kosher market at 406 North Main Street, and has lived in Providence for 39 years. He was a member of the Sons of Jacob and of various charitable organizations in the city.

He is survived by a son, Irving, of Providence; three daughters, Mrs. Dora Cullen of Newton, Mass., Mrs. Irene Rosenzweig of Brookline, Mass., Mrs. Sye Feldman of Providence and nine grandchildren.

LOUIS A. WINKLER

Funeral services for Louis Winkler, 58, of 94 Sackett Street, were held yesterday morning at the Max Sugarman Funeral Home.

Winkler, who was brought to this country by his parents when a year old, has been with the UER for more than 33 years and has been prominent in affairs of Street Car Men's Union, Division 618 and represented that division at three national conventions. He was also a member of the R. I. Fraternal Association and the Romanian Society.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs.

Esther (Madick) Winkler; a son, Merrill Winkler and a daughter, Mrs. Blanche Winkler; a sister, Mrs. Lillian Vine of Brookline, Mass.; five brothers, Eli G. Winkler of Pawtucket; George Winkler of Cranston; Harry Winkler, Dr. Herman A. Winkler, and Dr. Malcolm A. Winkler of Providence.

MRS. MINNIE ORLIANSKY

Funeral services for Mrs. Minnie Orliansky of 180 Sumter Street, widow of Rabbi David Orliansky, were held last Friday morning at the Max Sugarman Funeral Home. Rabbi Morris Schussheim officiated. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

Mrs. Orliansky, daughter of Louis and Etta Stolloff, came to Providence 43 years ago. She was a member of the Jewish Home for the Aged and a member of the Anshe Chesed Synagogue.

She leaves a son, Isaac D. Orleans of New York; three daughters, Mrs. Albert Coken of Providence, Mrs. Joseph B. Orleans and Mrs. Max Silverstone, both of New York; nine grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Final Plans Made For A. E. Pi Convention

At a convention committee meeting held last Tuesday night at the home of Leo Katz, 175 Highland Avenue, final plans were made for the Alpha Epsilon Pi Convention next week. The convention, slated to start Thursday night, September 9 will be held at the Beachwood Hotel in Narragansett. With an anticipated attendance of over 400 men from every state, it is expected to be the largest gathering of a national Jewish Fraternity ever held.

Of interest to many Rhode Islanders will be the outcome of the first national "Sweetheart of A. E. Pi" contest. Two local girls, Jane Lee Cohen and Helene Friedman, have been entered in the contest by the Chapters at Rhode Island State College and Worcester Polytechnic Institute, respectively. Other girls will represent colleges from as far distant as Los Angeles, Seattle, Albuquerque, Miami, Atlanta and many other cities.

Olympic Softballers Victorious at Picnic

A softball game and a series of softball contests featured the picnic given for members of the Olympic Club Softball Team and their families by Sponsor "Jake" Kaplan last Sunday at Goddard Park.

The Olympic Varsity defeated the "All Stars" 3-1 in the feature game.

Al Roffer and Merlyn Rodyn starred for the Stars.

Contest winners, who received cash awards from Manager Jack Platkin, were Hy Levin, base-running; Fred Zisquit, fungo hitting and Ralph Winn, throwing accuracy from the outfield to the catcher.

Mal Beatie, commissioner of the Providence Amateur Softball League, was a guest at the picnic.

At the banquet, to be held Sunday afternoon, September 12, Dr. Warren D. D. Smith of Rhode Island State College will be principal speaker. Dr. Smith's speech should prove an unusual approach to the eternal "Jewish Problem." He is on the staff of the Department of English, and serves as an advisor to the chapter at R.I.S.C. S. Harrison Kahn of Washington, D. C. will be toastmaster, and other speakers will include the national president, Louis V. Heller of Milwaukee, and Jacob N. Temkin of Providence, general chairman of the convention.

The banquet is the usually sedate setting for the presentation of awards for the previous year. Annual awards of merit are given to chapters for scholarship, cultural and intra-mural activities, etc. Other awards are made to individuals, both undergraduates and alumni.

In addition to the awards, new officers for the coming year will be installed. Robert Krovitz of Providence, past national president will leave the Supreme Board of Governors this year, and a new man elected. The convention will close immediately after the banquet.

FEPC Violations Attacked in Philly

PHILADELPHIA—The American Jewish Congress, pushing its drive against alleged violators of the city's new FEPC law and the state Equal Rights law, has turned its fire on Pennsylvania's summer resorts.

Through its Commission on Law and Social Action, the Congress charged that almost 75 per cent of a representative group of summer resorts used discriminatory language in seeking customers.

Victor H. Blanc, local attorney and CLSA chairman, said that 72.5 per cent of the resorts examined fell into the discriminatory class.

He said that the CLSA has filed a complaint with the state attorney general's office, asking that the state call to the attention of the offending resorts that they are violating a state law.

He said he had advertising and publicity material from 91 resorts. Of these 66 openly carried such lines as "Christian Ownership," "Gentile Clientele," "Gentile Patronage," "discriminating Christian people."

In recent weeks, the AJC has filed complaints of violation of the FEPC ordinance against the local telephone company, the Yellow Cab Co., and several employment agencies.

WHY should YOUR home be furnished like a carbon copy of many you have seen before ... and will see again? There's no reason why it should—particularly if your quest for individuality brings you to Modern, for Modern is a store that is convinced of the importance of your personality ... and the personality of your home. Modern is an institution with the decorative talent and the knowledge which will help you furnish your home in a manner as exclusively yours as your own signature. To do this, the management must of course offer a variety of furnishings not to be found in the average establishment—and must have a dash of daring tempered with good taste. A store must have a flair for style—plus the courage of its convictions, and you'll find that Modern has these things. So whether you are shopping for a single coffee table or a houseful of furniture, step through this "Doorway to the Unusual" ...

If it is inconvenient for you to visit us during regular store hours, any member of our owner-managed staff, will be happy to arrange an evening appointment. Simply drop us a card or call Fall River 6-8291.

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Gottschalk of 30 Benedict Street, Riverside, announce the engagement of their daughter, Betty, to Carl Adler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Adler of 92 Norfolk Street, Cranston.

Hurwitz-Cramer

Miss Gloria Lee Cramer, daughter of the late Samuel Cramer and Mrs. Irene M. Lieberman, was married Sunday afternoon, August 22, to Alfred Hurwitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hurwitz of Taft Avenue.

Rabbi Aaron Goldin, of Pawtucket, officiated at the ceremony which was held in the garden of the Touisset Point home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Morein. Victor Gerstenblatt sang the traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, was attired in a princess styled, dotted Swiss organdy gown and carried a prayer book with marker of orchids and stephanotis streamers. A finger-tip veil of French illusion fell from a crown of orange blossoms. Mrs. Harold S. Webber, matron of honor for her sister, wore a Nile green organdy gown trimmed with white organdy lace, and carried a colonial bouquet. Irving Hurwitz, brother of the groom, was best man.

Over two hundred guests from New York state, New Jersey, Connecticut, and Massachusetts attended the ceremony and buffet dinner which followed. Music was furnished by the Ben Kauff orchestra.

After a wedding trip to Canada, the couple will live at 11 Richter Street.

To Live in Chicago

Miss Cora Kotler left this week to live with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kotler of 9040 South Aberdeen Street, Chicago, and of Newport. Mrs. Kotler is the former Miss Eileen Paull of Providence.

DP Movement Stalled

Since the passage of legislation designed to admit 205,000 displaced persons to the United States, the actual movement of such refugees to America has stopped. Inquiries at headquarters of the International Refugee Organization reveal not only that no refugees are being moved out of the camps but that there appears no prospect of an early movement on a scale called for by the law.

The organization is responsible for assisting in the processing of prospective immigrants and transporting them, but it cannot proceed until people have valid immigration visas for the United States. No visas are being granted at present.

According to a statement issued last week in Frankfort on the Main by twelve voluntary relief agencies, 1,500 persons who had been processed fully and found eligible for visas under President Truman's directive of 1947 have now been told they must go again through the entire business. Operation of the Truman directive was suspended when the new law came into force, and the United States consulates are interpreting the law strictly.

Like everyone familiar with the refugee problem, however, officials of the International Refugee Organization are concerned lest persons who have waited for years for a chance to establish themselves in the United States or elsewhere get the runaround from bureaucratic machinery that does not adjust itself quickly enough to the present situation.

As matters stand, it is easier for a former Nazi to enter the United States than for one of the Nazis' innocent victims.

Warning to Beach Parents

In recent weeks a most serious situation has developed at Barrington Beach and if the remainder of the season goes by without tragic consequence, a near miracle will have been performed.

We refer to the widespread practice of children going out on the Bay in skiffs, of which there are a goodly number at the Beach. Most of these skiffs do not have auxiliary motors but that is beside the point. The trouble lies in the fact that too often the boats are overloaded beyond their safe capacity when they are taken out for spins in deep water.

A good example of this was in evidence last Sunday afternoon when several skiffs put out from shore so heavily loaded with young children and teen agers that the gunwales were resting practically on the water. Such a condition is unsafe enough on a pleasant day in calm water. When it exists on a day that sees stiff winds and choppy water, it is downright dangerous. It is not pleasant to contemplate the consequences if one or more of these skiffs should capsize in deep water while loaded with youngsters.

Parents at Barrington Beach, and at other points along the Bay where boats are handy, should make it their business to know what is going on when their children are in the water and should make sure the younger element are properly warned about the perils of overloading.

The Eggs and Wallace

Time was when Henry Wallace could travel through the South to cheers. Those were the days when he was identified with rural electrification; AAA and its parity for cotton, tobacco, corn and soy beans; rehousing, soil erosion control, and other reforms of a New Deal that the South embraced and is better off for. Now, when Wallace goes South preaching a continuity of that New Deal—$4,000,000,000 aid to Southern agriculture and industry on top of federal aid to schools and hospitals and wider social security—he is barraged with eggs and tomatoes.

The whole thing is symbolic; not symbolic of the South as a whole, for we believe most people in the South are heartily ashamed of the egg tossing at Durham and Burlington. The incident rather is a despairing symbol of the way we are tackling our political problems, from Washington down to precinct levels. Don't answer an argument with light and reason, but rather with a smear and the goo of an egg, the ink stains on a candidate's car. Our glorious traditions of free speech and fair play seem to be forgotten when the candidates come to town. It is hardly the American way.

Bernstein to Conduct Tel Aviv Philharmonic

BOSTON—Leonard Bernstein, 28-year-old American-Jewish conductor, has rejected an offer of co-directorship with Serge Koussevitz-sky of the Boston symphony orchestra in order to accept an appointment as conductor of the Tel Aviv Philharmonic. This will not be Bernstein's first appearance in Israel. He appeared there successfully as composer, conductor and soloist, last year.

After a Summer's Pause

By BERNARD SEGAL

Here I am, back at the typewriter, after a three month pause. The summer, alas, is over.

It occurs to me that this is the beginning of my third year at the job of sharing in print my observations of personalities and comments on communal affairs. These have been an enjoyable two years, and I am looking forward to a third one, no less enjoyable.

Birth of a Column

I remember how these pieces came to be written to begin with. Memory brings back a rainy end-of-August afternoon. We were driving in the editor's car and talking, as usual, of people and events in the community. The car stopped in front of the house, and we continued to talk of the functions of a local weekly, and of the task to interpret the local scene to the reader. And then with rain streaking down the windshield and the drops tapping on the top of the car, the editor turned to me suddenly:

"How would you like to do a weekly column of observations and comments on local affairs for the Herald?"

As I hesitated, trying to grasp the meaning of the question, he added, "They are to be your own observations and your own comments. The Herald may or may not agree with them. That would not matter."

And thus, with my hand on the door handle of the car, this column of opinion was born.

The terms on which we agreed to conduct the column were never changed, and will hold true in the future.

THE EDITOR NEVER KNOWS IN ADVANCE THE SUBJECT OR THE CONTENT OF MY WEEKLY CONTRIBUTIONS.

Only thus can one write freely on things that concern the community. Only under such conditions can one express opinions on public affairs, favoring no one, and holding no malice toward any person or group in the community.

Many Topics

As I look through my notebook, I find memoranda on a variety of topics for my column. There are notes on a communal agency that wields a tremendous influence on the Jewish population and yet is little known in the city. There is a reminder to write on the lack of democratic procedures in the selection of officers and directors for too many of our community institutions. I intend to discuss the critical situation in one communal agency, a most important one, because of lack of funds and a curtailed budget. Then there is another agency, far less important, whose funds are unlimited, and who spends them lavishly.

I also hope to add a few more chapters to the story of our first settlers based on documents and stories collected among our older citizens.

So, here we go with "One Man's Opinion" for the third year.

An Anti-Semitic "Oliver Twist"

Reprinted from The N. Y. Star

By ALBERT DEUTSCH

J. Arthur Rank's film production of Charles Dickens' Oliver Twist contains what is probably the worst caricature of a Jew ever to be depicted in an English-speaking movie. The monstrous Fagin, who operates a combined school and stable for juvenile thieves, has long been recognized as an outstanding example of a anti-Jewish stereotypes in English literature. But even the gifted, if prejudiced, Dickens, with his powerful word-imagery, could not make Fagin half so horrible as does this movie version.

The Rank office here informs me that Oliver Twist is scheduled to open in New York early in September, possibly at the Radio City Music Hall. For the sake of good taste and the public weal I hope this picture never reaches the American screen.

Apart from the Fagin portrayal, Oliver Twist is an interesting, at times absorbing, picture. It displays the same splendid cinematography, the ingenious use of camera angles to create and sustain suspense, the warm reconstruction of Dickens scenes and the faithful recreation of the great Dickens characters that made Rank's Great Expectations good entertainment.

Contains Striking Scenes

It is well-acted, too, especially by Alec Guinness, who plays Fagin. There are striking scenes in Mr. Bumble's parish workhouse where Oliver Twist is born, in Mr. Sowerberry's funeral parlor where Oliver is exploited, in Fagin's squalid rookery to which Oliver is decoyed, in the crooked London streets and rowdy bars where sadistic Bill Sykes and his ill-fated Nancy ply their ugly trades. And it is all topped off by a smashing climax.

Yet I was profoundly disturbed by this picture, so much so that I regret its being filmed the way it was and hope that it won't be shown in the U. S. A. Its general appeal makes it particular, if unintended, thrust of anti-Jewish prejudice all the more powerful and dangerous.

True, the word Jew is never once mentioned in the picture. But there is Fagin in life-size reflection of the classic caricature of the Jew, with scarcely an element lacking. There he is in all his sinister ugliness—with a tremendous hooknose that dominates his facial features, flanked by greedy fish-eyes; the alien with scraggy beard, wearing a flat, broad-rimmed black hat and filthy, flapping Kaftan.

For Adults Only

He speaks with a thick guttural accent. He lisps, leers, wheedles and prances. He seduces others to do his dirty work. He corrupts everything and everyone he touches.

Children exposed to this film, I'm sure, would have the demonic Fagin dominating their nightmares for a long time afterwards, and Fagin would be indelibly etched in their minds as a classic representative of the Jew. The British National Board of Review has passed the picture for adult audiences only. In the U. S. A. we have no such official distinction between adult and juvenile audiences.

It will be argued that the Rank production of Oliver Twist follows accurately the original Dickens portrayals. It will be argued further that to depart from the author's descriptions of Fagin would do violence to art. Yet the film in the very nature of things has played fast and loose with the original novel. Many characters have been foreshortened, others blown up and still others omitted entirely.

In the original, Fagin was but one of some score of important characters whom Oliver met along his rocky road. In the film, Fagin is highlighted as one of the three main characters. He stands out not as the corrupt Fagin but as Fagin, the corrupt Jew.

Point Often Missed

It might be argued, too, that the murderous Bill Sykes and the scheming Monks are Englishmen. If the British don't protest their portrayals, why should anyone be disturbed by the fact that Fagin happens to be a Jew? This argument misses the main point: Neither Sykes nor Monks is a caricature of the Englishman.

Those who see the film are likely to recall Sykes and Monks as just another couple of bad fellows; few are likely to recall Fagin as anything but an evil Jew, with the characteristics of the stereotyped Jew.

Most important is the historical element involved in this whole issue of movie caricatures of minority racial or religious groups. Twenty or 30 years ago it might have been merely bad taste to produce a character like Fagin on the screen. It is now only three short years since the gas chambers at Buchenwald and Auschwitz and Belsen ceased operations. Only a few short years ago 6,000,000 humans were slaughtered merely because they happened to be Jews.

Would Contribute to Jitters

A single picture, even one of Grade A magnitude, will not in itself create anti-Jewish riots or demonstrations. But it can contribute seriously to the sediment of group hatred and hostility already over-abundant in our jittery world, a sediment that could be stirred up dangerously to volcanic eruption at a critical moment.

I can find no excuse for the provocative portrayal of a caricatured Jew in a film to be seen by millions at this explosive hour in history. It is regrettable that it has been already loosed on the English people, even if confined only to adult audiences.

SYD COHEN:

Plans A New Sports Program

Now that the dog days of August are gone, we know that Fall is just ahead. To us, that means that the softball season begins its final phase next week and that footballs will be starting to take over the playgrounds, gradually driving away the balls, bats and gloves until, by October, baseball will be put away for the year.

That leads me to wonder about the period from October on. There is no organized outdoor activity scheduled in the Jewish community for that season. Something should be done.

When this column was started back in December of last year one of the first things I said, and something I have repeated often since, was that this Jewish community should some day have a year-round sports program that would function for all sports. At that time, we had nothing. By spring, however, the softball league was in operation.

Insiders know that the softball league had its troubles this year. The general public does not know how much or the extent of the trouble, but that is unimportant now. The point is that the league was organized and operated; and regardless of its shortcomings, is now at full strength with no lack of interest. The complaints we of the Herald have been getting all summer are definitely constructive, not destructive. In other words, players, fans and sponsors may be critical of some phase of the league, but only in order that the league may be improved. No one yet has suggested that it be dropped.

With that firm foundation, and knowing that the league will be stronger this month and next year because of the lessons learned this year, I would like to suggest, and sponsor, if necessary, the next step of expansion in our local sports program.

During the week I have been asking any and all of the fellows I have met if they thought a touch football league would be practical and successful. The response has been fine. The consensus is that it should go over. Touch football is safe, it is interesting; it requires no more equipment than does softball—and the season for it is approaching.

The Herald is willing to give it a try. We would like to get behind such an organization. In fact, if a touch football league is formed, the Herald will volunteer a trophy for the champs.

Again, as with the forming of the softball league, we are not interested in how the league is run as long as it is operated properly. If the softball league administration can be expanded to handle both leagues and others that we have in mind for a year-round program, that will be fine. However, remembering some of our early difficulties with softball last spring I volunteer the Herald as sponsor of the league if that is deemed more advisable.

The sponsor really makes no difference and the Herald trophy is assured, regardless of whether this newspaper is officially connected with the league. In any event, the league should be strictly independent, as is softball, with nothing to buy, nothing to join, no restrictions except by vote of the players.

This is the opening salvo in my campaign for touch football. It may be that there is not enough interest for that sport. However from what I have heard, there should be more than enough players. Before I start to make arrangements to call for an organizational meeting I would appreciate hearing from you fellows who want to play or who represent a group of men or a team. Having a list of names and organizations available at the start will be very helpful.

More on this subject in subsequent columns.

Latest to acknowledge herself as a regular reader of this column is Sylvia Schwartz, whose chief complaint is that I don't make enough mention of the East Side Pharmacy Beachcombers during the softball season. The comely Sylvia is a real fan who attends all her team's games. She is the kind of fan the teams all need—the inspirational type. Come to think of it, if they let Sylvia handle their publicity, the Beachcombers might get more publicity at that.

Beirut University Played Wrong Politics

By J. L. TELLER

The students and some of the faculty of two rival institutions of higher learning in the Middle East, the 82-year-old Protestant American University of Beirut and the ancient Moslem religious Al-Azhar Academy of Cairo, are deeply embroiled in the present and future of Arab politics in which feudalism, international oil concessions and big-power strategy are at stake.

The Al-Azhar Academy, founded in 988 A. D. by Vizier Abu Kales, a renegade Jew who became its first dean, is dedicated primarily to the study of Islamic lore. The more egregious of the two institutions, it is now frequently featured in news dispatches from Cairo telling of riots against non-Moslem foreigners instigated by Al-Azhar students.

These students have a centuries' old tradition of rioting against infidels. Some two hundred years ago the Copt (Christian) community in Egypt was decimated and its property looted by Al-Azhar students who had learned of a contemplated Copt pilgrimage to the sacred sites in Jerusalem. Their consistent and violent resistance to western influence has often been mistaken by pathetically superficial observers for rabid anti-imperialism.

Although the American University at Beirut shuns all publicity about its political doings, members of its faculty, including its past president, Bayard Dodge, and its new president, Stephen B. L. Penrose, Jr., never hesitate to voice their bias against Zionism.

The two institutions have for years been supporting two distinctly separate trends in Arab politics. The Al-Azhar Academy has served as generator of the pan-Islamic movement which seeks to solidify the Middle East in a regional bloc bound by the religious tie of Islam and to impose theocratic rule on the entire area.

The American University at Beirut also supports unification, with secular regional nationalism as the centrifugal force. The mentors of the American University at Beirut quite rightly view pan-Islamism as a threat to Christians in that area, and hope that pan-Arabism, because of its ostensibly secular nature, might serve as an instrument to attenuate Moslem religious fanaticism.

Paradoxically, the university has provided pan-Islam with leaders and intermediaries in the Christian world only because pan-Arabism has too frequently served as a disguise and euphemism for pan-Islam. The university now finds itself, whether its leaders would admit it or not, threatened once again by the same Moslem fanaticism that has put the university to grave tests on many occasions since its founding 82 years ago.

In its relatively long existence the American University has acquired a high degree of expediency and has learned to curb and sublimate its evangelic fervor. Forced by the intransigence of its Moslem and Jewish students to abandon compulsory student attendance at Christian services, the university early in its career began searching for more subtle means of evangelism.

After World War I, when nationalism swept the Arab countries, leaders of the American University quickly embraced the nationalist creed. In a book on the history of the American University, President Penrose devotes a special chapter to "working through nationalism."

When it had to choose between Arab nationalism and the mandate governments, the university often aligned itself with nationalism. Its leaders' support of Arab nationalism was unqualified and entirely uncritical of the feudal governments.

When Zionism emerged as a third force alongside feudalistic pan-Islam and Anglo-French imperialism, the university's leaders immediately joined the anti-Zionist crusade.

The nationalism that the American University has helped nurture, and which it has reinforced by spawning an entire colony of uncritical Arabophile officials in the State Department, has finally caught up with the American University and has acquired a new arrogance reminiscent of a much earlier day.

Applied Christianity as it is advocated by the true intellectuals of the various Christian denominations, men like Jacques Maritain and Reinhold Niebuhr, has its mission in the Middle East. It apparently is alien, however, to the mentors of the American University in Beirut, which symbolically and in fact is fast losing ground to Al-Azhar, because of its failure to encourage the nation's third force in the Arab countries complementing Israel. The university leaders may fall back on the argument that a university should be neutral. Too often, however, some of its spokesmen have been anything but that.

Solomon's Proud of His Palestine Tour

JERUSALEM — Izler Solomon, once a St. Paul, Minn. child prodigy, now is 38 and he's happy over a new experience.

Within nine weeks he directed 36 concerts, was under enemy fire, and at his farewell performance received one of the greatest ovations ever recorded a musician in Palestine.

Even Solomon agrees he has covered a lot of ground since his debut in St. Paul as a 6-year-old prodigy. This year as conductor of the Columbus, O., Philharmonic Orchestra, he was invited to take over the Palestine Philharmonic for its Summer series of concerts.

He ripped through diplomatic red tape and was one of the first three Americans to land in the new Jewish State.

His pert, young wife and an RCA communications expert were the other two first visitors. Before they arrived, they had to run a gauntlet of enemy fire to reach Tel Aviv.

He immediately went into rehearsals and gave his first concert a few hours later.

His Israel debut was a "standing room only" affair. After that his Palestine concerts were sold out days in advance.

Next the busy American conductor decided that the Jews in besieged Jerusalem deserved music. So he cajoled Israeli authorities into allowing him to make the trip over the winding and tortuous road from Tel Aviv to the Holy City.

Tired and hot, the members of the Palestine Philharmonic gave their first Jerusalem concert under Solomon's baton less than two hours after their arrival.

Solomon, who began his conducting career in Lansing, Mich.,

in 1931, was high in his praise for the Palestine Philharmonic.

"They are all top-flight musicians," he explained, "who've come here from all over the world. There's a lot of 'democracy' in the orchestra and that makes it a little difficult for an American conductor to adjust himself."

"There are 4400 subscribers in Tel Aviv to the Palestine Philharmonic," he said. "That's just about equal to what we had in Chicago except that there are less than a quarter of a million people here."

Between You and Me

By BORIS SMOLAR

A Zionist "New Deal": Although it is very quiet on the American Zionist front, there will be lively action here next month, after the American delegates return from the current session of the Zionist Actions Committee in Israel . . . The issue will be whether the Labor Zionists in the United States should practically merge with the Z.O.A. under the leadership of Dr. Abba Hillel Silver or not . . . Such a possibility is foreseen in connection with the forthcoming parliamentary elections in Israel . . . Without the aid of the General Zionists in Israel the Labor Party, led by David Ben Gurion, may not gain sufficient strength to keep Ben Gurion and Shertok in their present leading positions in the Israeli Cabinet . . . Dr. Silver, who is now in Israel, is willing to secure the support of the General Zionists in Israel for Ben Gurion providing the Zionist Laborites in the United States reciprocate . . . Such reciprocation would involve putting the Labor Zionist movements in this country under the domination of the Z.O.A. leadership, including such institutions as the Geverkshaften campaign, the fund-raising organization of the American Labor Zionist movement . . . Some of the Labor Zionist leaders in the United States are inclined to accept Dr. Silver's terms, as long as this strengthens the position of Ben Gurion and his Labor Party in Israel . . . Others oppose these terms . . . The issue will become ripe in New York with the approach of election day in Tel Aviv . . . Who said American Zionists will have no influence on the march of political events in Israel?

Attention! Attention!: There is a good deal of confusion now in this country, in connection with continued arrival of persons from Israel who claim that they represent the Jewish state . . . Some of them release statements to the press which cause embarrassment to the authorized representatives of Israel . . . No wonder that the Israeli Office of Information in New York is now warning the press not to accept any statements before checking whether the persons making them really represent the Government of Israel . . . Is it true that an Egyptian, Nokrashi Pasha, is now concluding the purchase in the United States of 12 jet fighters, available within a month? . . . Would such a transaction not fall under the U. S. arms embargo order for the countries of the Middle East? . . . And is it true that Turkey is delivering to the Arab states weapons and war material coming from the United States?

DOLLARS FOR SURVIVAL

What can money buy that means so much?

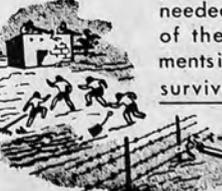

The survival and the future hope of the Jews in Palestine and Europe depend on what happens in 1948 — depend on what you do with your dollars now!

The United Jewish Appeal needs $250,000,000 minimum for the tremendous tasks of immigration, settlement, and defense in Palestine, for the necessities of life and rehabilitation in Europe, and for helping the refugees who are coming to America.

This is a price list for survival. What you give can save them. What you don't give can mean their doom.

Now as never before your dollars count.

$36<sup>50</sup> ...through the UPA will give a child good food and loving care on a farm settlement in Palestine for one month. 24,000 children are going to Palestine this year. 	$100 means that two Jewish children, orphans, can be maintained in a JDC-supported home in Belgium or France for a month. Today, 12,350 children in these countries alone depend on JDC care. 	$365 will provide one meal a day for a full month for 60 hungry men, women, and children. Hundreds of thousands of destitute Jews must receive food through the JDC, by cash grants, supplies, or in canteens. 	$500 will enable JDC to purchase 1,181 vials of penicillin, each containing 200,000 units of the life-saving drug for shipment overseas. This medicine is helping the Jewish survivors win their fight for health.
$1,000 will enable United Service to support for a year one of the 2000 orphaned Jewish youths who are under its care or who will arrive in America in 1948 — will pay living expenses for their first full year in the land of the free. 	$3,500 will bring two Displaced Persons from Europe to Palestine, and settle them permanently in an agricultural settlement — will wake them up from nightmare, and make their greatest dream come true. 	$5,000 buys equipment for one ear, nose and throat clinic in a JDC hospital where Jewish survivors can be treated for respiratory and allied ailments. The health of the survivors must be sustained. 	$10,000 will construct two three-room houses, with bathrooms and kitchens, for two families in Palestine. They will build the houses themselves, build the new nation. We must provide the means.
$15,000 will resettle 150 new immigrants in the United States including transportation and two weeks maintenance in their new hometown somewhere in the U.S.A. They need only a chance to get on their feet. 	$25,000 will bring 135 children as certified emigrants from Europe to Palestine — will pay transportation costs, maintenance, and furnish food, clothing — will give them a security they've never known. 	$50,000 for the UPA will pay the cost of irrigating 1,000 dunams (250 acres) of land in Palestine. They can turn desert sands into a land of milk and honey — if we don't let them down. 	$100,000 . . . 20 gifts like this will provide the block houses and emplacements urgently needed for the defense of the Jewish settlements in Palestine. Their survival depends on your dollars.

Cantor Thrills GJC Givers at Ledgemont

Seated at the head table during the General Jewish Committee's Initial Gifts dinner at Ledgemont Wednesday evening were, left to right, Alter Boyman, Isador Coons, executive vice-chairman of the UJA, Walter I. Sundlun, Joseph Ress, Archibald Silverman, GJC president, Eddie Cantor, Alvin A. Sopkin, 1948 campaign chairman, Gov. John O. Pastore, Benjamin Brier, Abe C. Fine, Sydney Kane, Arthur Kaplan, Joseph Galkin, GJC director (standing) and Samuel Rapaporte, Jr.

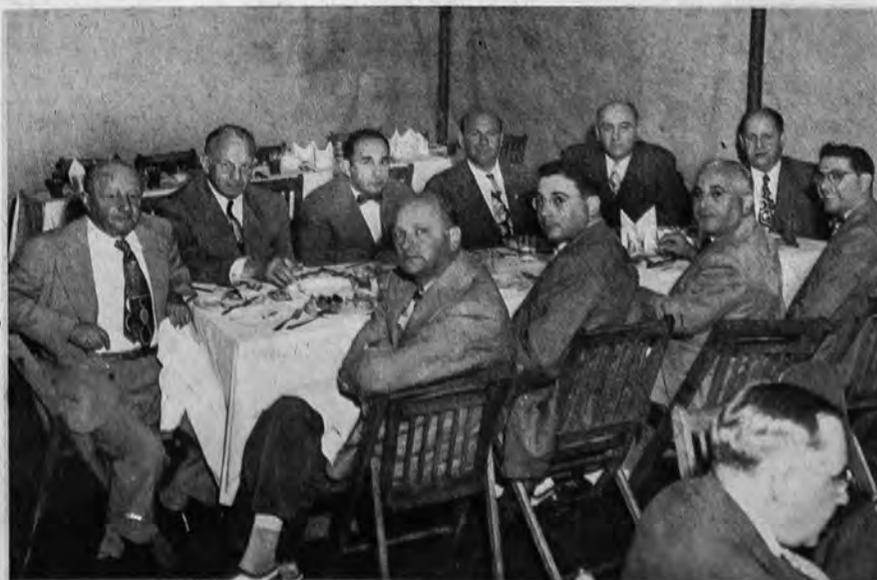

Eddie Cantor was the object of everyone's attention during his visit to Providence. Here he is shown with Gov. John O. Pastore, who brought him the greetings of the State of Rhode Island; Alvin A. Sopkin, 1948 campaign chairman, and Archibald Silverman, GJC president.

Eddie Cantor tells one of his stories to Abe C. and Harry Fine, who made a contribution of $100,000 to the GJC campaign at Ledgemont Wednesday evening.

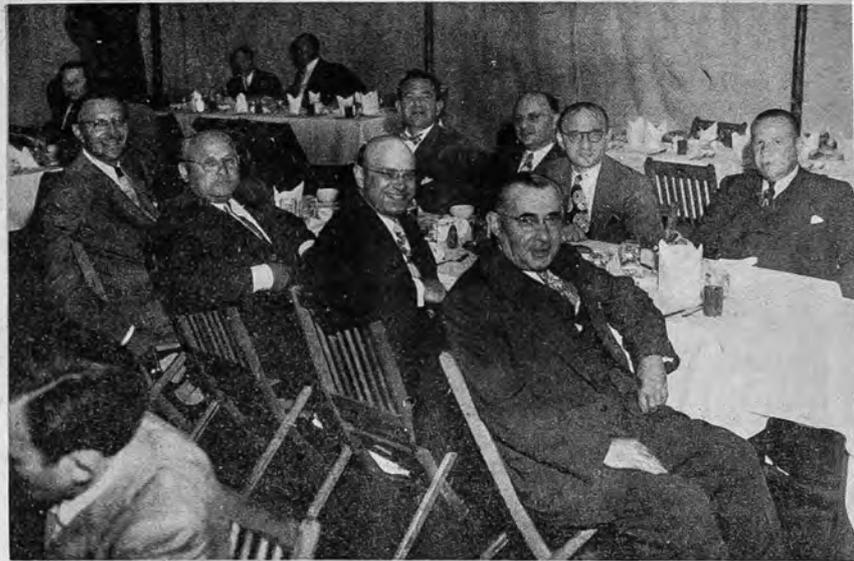

The evening would not be complete without the signing of autographs by the celebrated Eddie Cantor. Eddie is shown here performing that function before the start of the program. Left to right, Archibald Silverman, Cantor, Alvin A. Sopkin and Gov. John O. Pastore. In the background are Irwin N. Silverman and "Jake" Kaplan of the Automotive Division. Samuel Lazarus looks on.

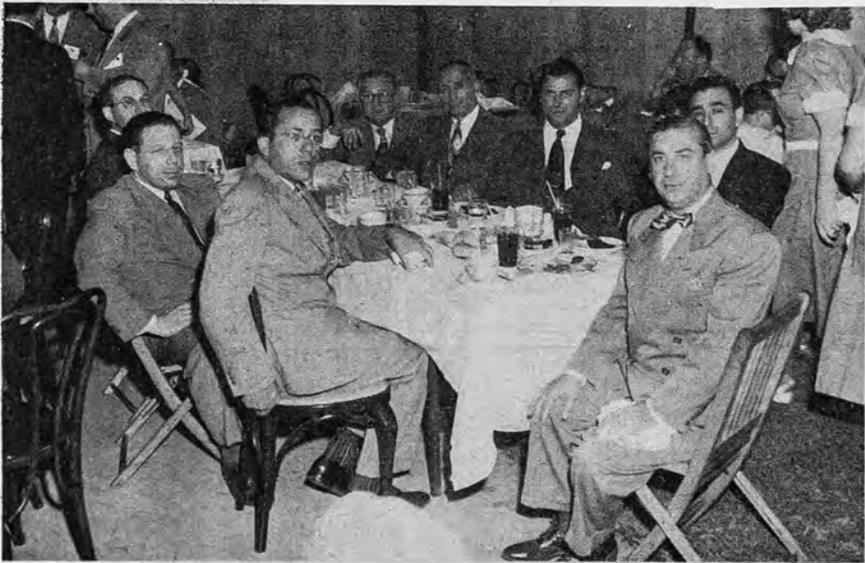

Included among the guests were Max Segal, Charles Rothman, Harry Blacher, Max Kestenman, Ben Ruttenberg, Dr. Joseph Miller, Dave Morse, George Gerber, Bud Gerber and Louis Garfinkel.

In attendance at the Initial Gifts dinner were Milton Leand, Irving Gertsacov, Morris E. Frayman, Jacob Sydney, Jack Levitt, Arthur Galkin, C. Sydney Silverman, Irving Cokin, Charles Silverman, and Dr. Herman Grossman.

In another group were Abe Belkin, Arthur Reinherz, Maurice S. Cooper, M. Louis Abedon, Samuel Michaelson, Saul E. R. Feinberg, Dr. Banice Feinberg and George Trieman.

Seated at the table in the foreground are Roland C. Block, Victor M. Weinreich, Fred Kenner, Paul Kenner, Samuel Malkin, Sanford Zarum, Ralph Shuster, Benjamin Wyzansky, Paul Heymann and Harold Sydney. In the background are Fred Pinkney, Dr. Leo Stone, Harry Sklut, Archie Fain, Ernest I. Dauer, Marshall Dauer and Sydney Flanzbaum.

Watching the proceedings from one of the tables are Samuel A. Hamin, Lew Myers, Albert A. Taber, Hank Kahn, Barney Kay, I. Cotton, Herman J. Aisenberg, Leonard Levin, Merrill Hassenfeld, Irving Fain, Nathan Samors, Rabbi Abraham Chill and Joseph Schlossberg.

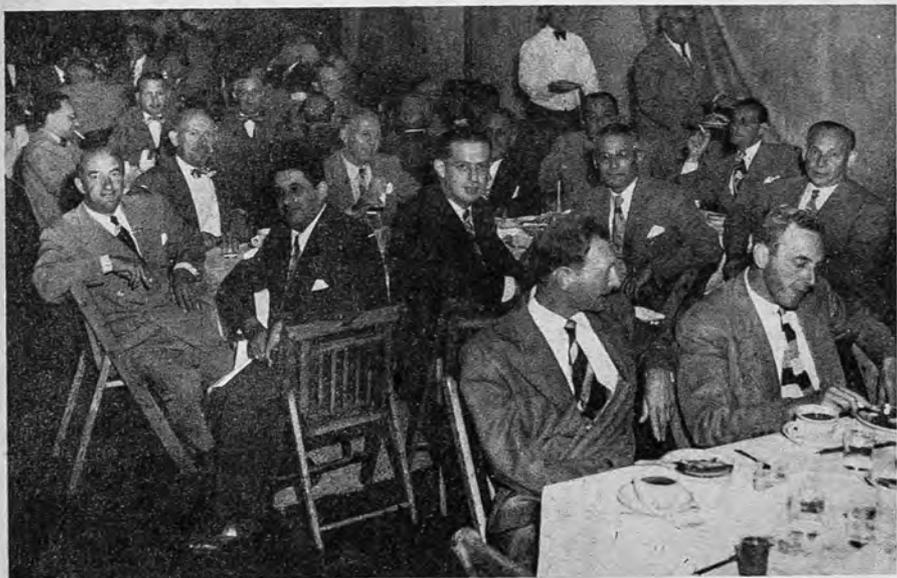

Sitting clockwise around this table are David S. Schneierson, Edward Adaskin, Archie Finkle, Irving Baker, Maurice Fox, Edward A. Bosler, Paul Barbach, Harry M. Myers, Alfred S. Sherwin and Sydney S. Feinberg.

Henry Levaur, "Jake" Kaplan and Irwin N. Silverman are caught in an informal pose before the start of the evening's program. Silverman is chairman and Levaur and Kaplan co-chairmen of the Automotive Division of the GJC 1948 campaign.

This general view of the audience which packed the big tent at Ledgemont Country Club Wednesday evening shows how intently Eddie Cantor (seen standing in background) held his listeners. Cantor, in fine form, was fast with the gags all evening and carried the Initial Givers along from comic to serious vein with him.

Here is another general view of the proceedings at Ledgemont. It is easy to see that Eddie Cantor did not suffer from lack of attention during his address at the Initial Gifts Dinner.

Sundlun's Career Aids in Campaign

THE PROVIDENCE JEWISH HERALD, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1948

Termed Leader Around Whom "Liberals" in GOP Can Rally; "Bandwagon" Starts Rolling

Walter Sundlun's life has been one of continuous excitement and activity. From his early boyhood or down through his business and legal life; from the Willkie presidential campaign of 1940 to his current drive for the Republican nomination for U. S. Senator, Sundlun has never been idle.

He has known the honor of being admitted to the bar two months before his graduation from law school; he has been chief trial counsel in a number of noted trials in this and other states; he has conducted cases before the Supreme Court of Rhode Island in which new procedural law was established; he served as a member of the personal staff of the late Wendell Willkie during the Indianan's bid for the presidency in 1940; and he has known the torture of waiting for six months for news of his son, listed as missing in action during the war.

The story of how that son, Bruce G. Sundlun, survived to become one of the managers of his father's senatorial campaign is in itself a thrilling and important chapter in this story.

Bruce, a captain with the famous Eighth Air Force during the war, was pilot of a Flying Fortress named "Damn Yankee" which was shot down over Germany on December 1, 1943 with the loss of four of the crew. The rest, including Bruce, serving as co-squadron leader, were badly wounded.

Missing In Action

Captain Sundlun was missing in action for six months, during which time he lived stealthily in Nazi-held Europe. It was only through the aid of the French Maquis that his life was spared after various encounters with the enemy. After twice trying to crash the Spanish border he finally made his way to Switzerland where he was restored to good health and attached to the U. S. Military Attache's office at the American legation at Bern.

Later, Bruce made his escape from Switzerland and came under the protection of the Seventh Army, following which he was reunited with his combat group in the Eighth Air Force in England. The younger Sundlun actually flew again in combat before being assigned to the Ferry Command, flying the giant C-54s and other planes to India, South America and various sections of the vast Pacific area.

After the war Bruce returned to his studies at Williams College, was graduated, and immediately started studying law at the Harvard Law School.

Aids Other Parents

While all this was going on, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sundlun, here in Providence, waited with anguished hearts for news of their only son, listed officially as missing in action over Germany. Grief-stricken though he was, Walter Sundlun was hardly the type to wait for news to come to him—he went looking for the news, and by so doing earned the undying gratitude of many parents throughout the country, whose periods of grief were cut short by his resourcefulness.

Knowing that short wave radio was the best means of getting information about missing Allied personnel, Sundlun availed himself of such a set and then began a nightly vigil to listen for news of his son. That news was not forthcoming for months, but in the meantime, other American soldiers were turning up and sending messages to the U. S. via short wave.

Sundlun, anxious to help others even if he could not help himself, sent letters and telegrams and made phone calls all over the country to notify distressed parents that their sons were alive. It was only fitting and proper, then, that Bruce should turn up alive and well following his harrowing experiences.

Sundluns Lose Son

This happy ending was in sharp contrast to what had happened in 1938. Tragedy struck the Sundluns just when Walter's election as Lieutenant Governor of Rhode Island was assured. The campaign went by the boards as the family became overwhelmed with grief over the death of Wally Sundlun Jr., second son of Walter and Jan.

Wally, 14 years old and a high school freshman, developed an acute attack of appendicitis and died of peritonitis, the spreading of the poison from the appendix to the rest of the body. It was a bitter blow that was aggravated when the family learned that penicillin was discovered just two months later. Had Wally's attack held off but a short while he might well have lived.

Completely broken up, Sundlun withdrew from the political arena after he had already cinched the GOP nomination as lieutenant governor. That was the year that William Vanderbilt swept into the governor's office—and Sundlun should have been there with him. Only the death of his son kept him from enjoying the fruits of his political labors.

The war episode was not the first time Walter Sundlun had displayed his resourcefulness. If not for a liberal sprinkling of that trait, he never would have gone to law school—and becoming a lawyer had been his greatest desire since early boyhood.

It has been related how Sundlun went into business for himself and married. Yet, despite a growing family and the necessity of devoting a great deal of time and thought to the operation of his now extensive business holdings, he was determined to resume his interrupted education.

Shortly after the signing of the Armistice of World War I, the ambitious young man started to study law in the office of Judge J. Jerome Hahn, then a practicing attorney. This system was finally discarded as impractical and Sundlun decided to enroll at Boston University.

It now developed that entrance examinations had changed in the years since he had left high school and he did not have the required number of units to matriculate. This obstacle was hurdled through the aid of the Dean of the Law School, who made it possible for him to take examinations at Lincoln Preparatory school on the subjects lacking, as fast as he could prepare himself.

Sundlun wasted no time. He took 13 exams in a period of 26 weeks and was enrolled in B. U. in the fall of 1919—ten years after he had been graduated from high school.

... And Mrs. Sundlun, Too

Determination and ability—and a lot of both—were required for Walter Sundlun to get through law school. There was another important factor, too—Mrs. Sundlun, without whose help and patience and sacrifice Sundlun might never have become an attorney.

The business man—family man—student combined all three careers in impressive fashion. He commuted to Boston daily to attend classes and did a great deal of his studying on the trains to and from school. He resumed his studies at home late in the evening, usually working until one o'clock in the morning. On terms when his classes came in the morning, he arose at five o'clock in order to catch the 7:15 train, and when he had afternoon classes he spent the morning hours at his business, now a chain of highly profitable jewelry establishments in Providence, Pawtucket and Woonsocket.

Here Mrs. Sundlun made her important contribution to her husband's public career. Mother of two sons, she nevertheless helped in the management of the jewelry business and sacrificed the social activities and evenings "out" that the average young wife considers an important part of her life.

A Lawyer Before Graduation

In 1922, following three hectic years of activity, Sundlun was graduated from Boston University School of Law with the degree of

L. L. B. True to the Sundlun form, however, even this was not accomplished in routine fashion. Having taken the bar examinations three months before graduation, Sundlun was one of six men out of 28 applicants who passed, and he climaxed his school days with the crowning achievement of being admitted to the Rhode Island State Bar two months before receiving his degree!

One month following graduation, Sundlun became a member of the law firm of Baker and Spicer in Providence. He had been a practicing attorney for only ten days when the occasion arose for him to attack the constitutionality of the Sherwood Prohibition Act, the prohibition law of the state of Rhode Island. The case attracted widespread attention and got the legal career of Walter Sundlun off to a booming start.

In 1933, when repeal finally was voted and the state again became "wet", Sundlun was one of the delegates elected to the state convention at which Prohibition suffered its death blow here.

Sundlun has had a considerable amount of appellate Court practice in U. S. Federal Courts and in courts of several states. He was admitted to practice before the U. S. Supreme Court in 1930 and has since practiced before that court.

Member of Many Courts

Among the several Bars of which he is a member are the U. S. Supreme Court, U. S. Circuit Court, U. S. Custom Court, U. S. District Court for the District of Rhode Island, State of Rhode Island and U. S. Treasury. He has conducted a number of cases before the Supreme Court of this state in which new procedural law was established. In 1924 he was appointed Public Defender by the Superior Court.

As he had during World War I,

Son Missing, He Aided Other Parents

Walter Sundlun gave all he had to the war effort on the home front during the recent world conflict. He served as chairman of the Oppressed Minorities Campaign in Rhode Island, and aided materially in the successful sponsorship of several Bond rallies. It was Sundlun, as reported last week, who was responsible for obtaining the services of Jascha Heifetz, famed violinist, for a bond rally concert in 1943.

In Tribute to FDR

When the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt died in 1945, Sundlun was chosen to be guest speaker, along with the then Gov. J. Howard McGrath and Dr. Carl H. Woodward, president of Rhode Island State College, at the Roosevelt Memorial Program that officially closed the state's 30 day period of mourning for the President.

Nor has Walter Sundlun limited his activity to the war. He has served, on several occasions, together with a Protestant minister, Catholic priest, and laymen of the same faith, on three man panels, in behalf of the interfaith effort now being made under the auspices of the National Conference of Christians and Jews. He served on similar panels conducted as part of the U. S. Army's Orientation Program. He has been a guest speaker for the Providence Community Chest, the Red Cross and other civic and national endeavors.

Among the organizations in which Sundlun maintains membership are Barney Merry Lodge No. 29, A. F. & A. B., of Rhode Island; B. F. O. E. No. 14, of Providence; Roger Williams Lodge, B'nai B'rith; Ledgemont Country Club, and Meadowbrook Club (honorary member). He has also served as president of the Boston University Club of Rhode Island.

Remembered the Hospital

Unlike some men, Sundlun is not forgetful of past favors and he has more than once made up for the times when he was befriended. Following is an illustration of that trait:

As a boy working on the Block Island boat Sundlun once shot himself in the finger with a blank pistol while celebrating the Fourth of July. He incurred a serious injury and was treated at once by a doctor. When the boat docked in Providence he was rushed to the Rhode Island Hospital where he was given extensive treatment and care without charge.

So grateful was Sundlun over this kindness that he resolved never to forget it. And he never did. Many years later at a meeting held during the Hospital's drive for funds to construct new buildings, Sundlun said:

"I owe a debt to the Rhode Island Hospital of long standing. It is time that I should pay for an operation and medical service I got free from this hospital about 45 years ago."

With that he made a payment on the debt—with a check for $2100.

The Sundlun Story: He Passed Up Certain Election As Lieutenant Governor in 1938

ter Sundlun so many years ago has not yet ceased to pay rich dividends. To this day he has never passed up an opportunity to be of service to all hospitals that serve the poor and needy. He became one of the founders of the Miriam Hospital and helped in various drives sponsored by other hospitals in this state!

Fitted for the Senate

This, then, is the story of the man who is waging such a determined campaign for nomination and election to the United States Senate.

By all standards of senatorial measurement, Walter Sundlun is eminently qualified to hold the high office to which he aspires. His legal and business backgrounds are both extensive and sound. He has been close enough to the people and institutions of his state to make himself thoroughly familiar with their desires, needs and opinions. His political associations have been carefully chosen, and his contributions to politics have been impressive and timely.

Of him Charles A. Curran, the officially endorsed candidate for the Republican nomination for Mayor of Providence in the coming election, has said:

"After a careful survey of the candidates for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, I am firmly convinced that the selection of Walter Sundlun of Providence will aid the Republican Party to victory in November and give the people of the state of Rhode Island the kind of liberal and active representation they so vitally need in the United States Senate today."

Walter Sundlun's active, vigorous campaign has brought him organized political support from all over the state. Veteran politicians have been amazed at his progress, which today almost has reached "bandwagon" proportions. Liberal Republicans throughout the State see in Sundlun a leader around whom they can rally in their effort to rid the Republican Party in Rhode Island of the Old Guard leadership which has contributed to the party's defeat for most of 16 years.

The success of Sundlun's campaign against the endorsed slate of candidates may well determine the utility of the new Primary Law in Rhode Island, for it is sure that no one will ever wage a better organized, more spirited campaign against the policy of endorsements than that now being carried on by Walter Sundlun.

It should be the duty of all those who recognize Walter Sundlun's contributions to the Jewish community in Rhode Island, and who are fighting with him in his effort to liberalize the Republican Party, to go to the polls on September 20 to assure his victory in the Primary Election.

B'nai B'rith Women
Send $5000 to Home

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Upon receipt of a radiogram reporting serious damage to the B'nai B'rith Children's Home in Jerusalem during the final hours of Arab attacks, Friday, July 16, the Women's Supreme Council of the Order immediately cabled a contribution of $5000 to repair damages and restore this famous haven for maladjusted children, victims of Nazism and war in Europe.

The check was sent in behalf of the 110,000 B'nai B'rith women in this country and Canada.

In their radiogram officials reported that the Arab attacks had scored direct hits on the home causing considerable damage to the building and equipment. Fortunately, the message stated, there were no casualties among the children or members of the home personnel.

The B'nai B'rith Children's Home opened in 1943 with youngsters aged 7 to 14 years. They came from Europe as victims of Nazi persecution and required the attention of psychiatrists. They had lost their parents and families during the early war years.

Today there are about 40 children in the home, support of which is one of the major projects of the Women's Supreme Council of B'nai B'rith.

From: Friends of M. Louis Abedon:

To: The people of the State of Rhode Island

A public Servant should be honest, sincere, able, and just. Louis Abedon possesses all of these qualities, and more. For many years we have been urging Louis Abedon to "run" for public office.

This year, impatient with the inadequate enforcement of the laws in Rhode Island and ashamed of the many scandals, we prevailed upon Louis Abedon to accept the "call" and seek the office of Attorney General.

Serving the community is not new to Louis Abedon. He has been, and still is, active in civic and communal life. Let us list but a few of his activities: Past President, Zionist District of Providence; Past Vice President, Rhode Island Zionist Region; Director, Rhode Island Zionist Region and Zionist District of Providence; Past Director, General Jewish Committee of Providence, Inc.; Past Director, Ahavath Sholom Synagogue; Past Director, Touro Fraternal Association; Former Financial Secretary, Temple Emanuel Men's Club; Former Chairman, Social Committee, Rhode Island Bar Association; Past Director, B'nai Brith; Member, Republican State Central Committee.

He also is a member of the Temple Emanuel, the Jewish Home for the Aged, the Jewish Community Center, the Gemilath Chesed, the B'nai Brith, Touro Fraternal Association, and Redwood Lodge.

Louis Abedon is a candidate in the Republican Primaries to be held on September 20, 1948. His name appears in the second column.

Vote for Louis Abedon to become the Republican candidate for Attorney General.

Your votes will elect him, and his election will assure for you a more efficient administration of justice. He will be a fearless prosecutor, protecting the innocent and convicting the wrong-doers.

Respectfully Yours,

The many friends of M. Louis Abedon,
Our candidate for Attorney General in the Republican Primaries September 20.

P. S. We always get the government we deserve. Voting in the primaries does not prevent you from voting any way you want in the general election. The primary voting merely insures for you the selection of the best candidate.
