British Jews to Ask UN Return Orphans

LONDON—A group of British Jews agreed last week to ask the United Nations to demand that Christian families and monasteries reveal the names and whereabouts of Jewish war orphans they sheltered, and to allow the children to return to the Jewish community.

The decision was taken at a meeting of the Jewish Commission on the Status of Jewish War Orphans in Europe, after some debate.

Dr. I. Grunfeld said it was his intention to place the issue before the UN after Passover when the Palestine situation might be more stable. But Dr. P. Riebenfeld opposed any such delay and urged that the matter be brought before the UN immediately.

Debate also developed on the promise made by Pope Pius to Chief Rabbi Herzog of Israel that he would call on the Catholic Church to declare the Jewish orphans. Rabbi Harris Swift, reporting on an investigation in France, said that the monasteries were refusing to offer information about Jewish orphans in their care.

Abdullah Ratifies Talks With Israel

RHODES—Trans Jordan's formal acceptance, of the invitation to hold armistice talks with Israel on Rhodes reached the Acting Mediator, Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, this week through his representative in Amman.

The date for starting the talks has not yet been fixed and the question of whether an effort should be made to combine them with the current Egyptian-Israeli talks rests with the interested parties.

Dr. Bunche's personal emissary, Constantin Stavropoulos, returned from a flying trip to Jerusalem, Damascus and Beirut but details of his trip were not released. On the basis of unofficial reports Syria and Lebanon are expected to begin armistice talks with Israel soon, but no official information is yet available.

King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan announced as soon as the invitation was delivered Jan. 31, that he would take part in the armistice talks, but the first official intimation came today. It is learned that he had considered that he had accepted the invitation by making his statement while the United Nations mission here was awaiting his formal reply.

The activities on Rhodes remain in the status of carefully guarded meetings on which no information is available. The situation is still considered covered by Dr. Bunche's statement that agreement might be reached in one or two days or two weeks—or not at all. The only footnote to be appended to that statement is that it does not take into account the possible insistence of the Western powers that some settlement be reached.

Baseball Comedian Strikes Familiar Pose

Al Schacht, the Clown Prince of Baseball, is shown here in a characteristic pose. Schacht, the noted baseball comedian and pantomimist, will be guest speaker at the Father and Son Sports Night of Roger Williams Lodge, B'nai B'rith on February 21. Story on Page 5.

(This is the second in a series of articles written exclusively for the Herald on a subject of major importance to the reading public. It is hoped that these articles will be of assistance in helping expose those who solicit funds nefariously, in the name of charity. Ed.)

How Charity Rackets Operate

On the front page of last week's Herald there appeared a story in which an "Israel International Sweepstakes" campaign in the United States was labeled of "questionable legitimacy" by Israeli Consul-General Arthur Lourie who stated that the campaign, "purportedly for the benefit of schools and hospitals in Israel", had been undertaken without the knowledge or approval of the Government of Israel.

There is the story in a nutshell, wrapped up in a live example of how charity rackets are operated and how they can be combatted. It serves as the finest illustration obtainable to point up these articles.

The words "charity for Palestine" always have had an irresistible appeal for the public. The events of the past few years have put a new emphasis on Palestine, or Israel, and, of course, the American Jewish public has responded accordingly. That has been fine for the people and industry of Israel, the UJA, which works largely toward that end, and other agencies that are devoted to sending funds overseas to aid in the rebirth of the Jewish state and the rehabilitation of hundreds of thousands of persons. There is only one drawback to this situation—it plays right into the hands of dishonest charity seekers.

URGES QUOTA FOR ISRAEL

WASHINGTON — Establishment of an immigration quota for Israel was called for this week by Rep. Kenneth B. Keating of New York, in remarks in the House.

Rep. Keating introduced a bill calling the U. S. to set up such a quota.

Morgenthau, Montor to Mobilize Capital

A nationwide effort to mobilize American capital for large-scale investments in Israel has been inaugurated under the leadership of Henry Morgenthau, Jr., (left) former Secretary of the Treasury, who has just been elected Chairman of the Board of the Palestine Economic Corporation, Henry Montor, (right) former Executive Vice-Chairman of the United Jewish Appeal, has been named Vice-President of the Corporation, which was founded in 1926 by the late Felix M. Warburg, Louis Marshall and Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis.

Letter Scores

Silver's Policies

Dr. Ilie Berger of Providence and Arthur Darman of Woonsocket have joined forces with the dissident group which opposes the present leadership and policies of the Zionist Organization of America. Dr. Berger said this week. Both men attended a special meeting in New York last week called by leading Zionists who oppose the ZOA administration.

Dr. Berger announced his and Darman's participation, at the same time explaining the stand taken by the group of which they are now a part, in a letter to the Herald. The letter is reprinted here in full, as follows:

"On my way to Florida, I stopped over at New York last Saturday to attend a special meeting at the Biltmore Hotel to find out why so many of the leading Zionists are opposed to the present administration. When six former presidents and community leaders from all over the country unite against the present Zionist administration, it is time to take notice.

"I listened to the accounts from Nachim Goldman, Harold J. Gold-enberg, Louis Lipsky and Meyer Weisgal. I left early in the afternoon, so I did not attend the full meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Darman were present. It seems they were impressed by what took place, as evidenced by their response to an appeal made for funds to bring

Britain Lets Down

All Migration Bars

LONDON—Britain will permit Jews in its zone of Germany, in Tripoli and in other territories under its control to migrate to Israel regardless of whether they are of military age or not. Under-Secretary Christopher Mayhew this week announced in Commons.

He declared that following the decision to release the Cyprus Jews, the British Government also decided to apply the same policy to all other areas under British control.

to the attention of the rank and file of the General Zionists all over the country the shortcomings and the undemocratic attitude of the present leaders of the ZOA.

"The New Palestine the ZOA publication, is closed to anyone who has opposing views. The aloofness of the ZOA from the World Zionist Agency is disturbing.

"Rabbi Silver backed Governor Dewey during the recent election campaign, and gave out a statement on the eve of the election favoring Dewey and congratulating the Republican Party on their victory. In view of this, it would have been much better had Rabbi Silver resigned as chairman of the Emergency Council, and allowed a man who is closer to the Democratic administration to be chairman.

"The resolutions adopted by the executives of the ZOA condemning Henry Manton, former UJA national officer representing the UJA have done more harm than anything else in years. It reminds me of the same group in 1920 opposing C. Weizmann when the Keren Hayesod was organized. They have never forgotten. If we don't do something drastic now we will regret it later. It may break the ZOA whose united forces are of greater importance.

"The fault is not with the opposition, but mostly the present leadership. We cannot see why Stephen Wise, Louis Lipsky, Judge Morris, Rothenberg, Judge Louis Levinthal, Ed Kaufman, Ezra Shapiro and Charles Rosenbloom should be put in the background. Wise was for 50 years the man the entire world looked up to. He is one of the closest friends of the Democratic Party and the President.

"There is only one Louis Lipsky and there never will be another one. He was the builder of Zionism in the U. S. It is pitiful to see men who have just come to the ZOA and who don't even know what it is all about dictate policies and take a leadership out of all proportion to their merit.

"No one can deny that our president Newman is a brilliant leader, but he and Silver are not in sympathy with Weizmann, as could be seen in Weizmann's biography, as Weizmann does not ever mention Newman and only makes passing remarks about Silver. We certainly must have leaders who are closer to the views of the president of Israel than men who have done more than anybody else to put Weizmann out of the presidency of the World ZOA.

"The present ZOA leaders are not friendly to the Histadruth, the leaders in building Israel. James Heller, a former president of the ZOA, has resigned his member-

"The official organ of the ZOA must be opened to any member of the ZOA. They must keep a place where they can receive letters and answer articles which at times are one-sided. They have refused in the past to open their columns to the opposition.

"The opposition is raising a fund of $250,000 for education. We are asked to contribute $5000 from Providence. Woansackel has accepted a quota of $1500. I am going to be away about five weeks. I would appreciate your getting this to the attention of our readers.

Looking for the Yankee Dolla'

A few seasons ago one of the most popular tunes in the United States was a Calypso song which promoted the philosophy that some people would do nearly anything within reason—and some beyond that—for "the Yankee dolla'." It was a tricky tune, lustily sung, but soon forgotten. The lyrics return to mind, however, with the current headline news that various ex-Nazis are seeking to cash in on their artistic and athletic abilities to invade American spheres of music and sports in order to obtain that Yankee loot which swims so temptingly before their eyes.

Walter Gieseking, the notable pianist; Dr. Wilhelm Furtwaengler, the famous conductor; and two sports personalities, Hein Ten Hoff, heavyweight boxing champion of Germany and Hans Schwarz, Germany's wrestling king, have recently won the headlines because of their visits or planned trips to the United States. Their individual stories make interesting reading for more than one reason. One wonders how they all manage to make contact with eager promoters in the United States; one is equally puzzled as to how they win a clean bill of health from the State Department; and one becomes depressed over some of the sideline supporters of these men.

It is also worth noting that in the clash involving the principle of the boycott of artists and entertainers, the lines cannot be clearly drawn. That a Yehudi Menuhin and an Artur Schnabel should be on opposite sides; that a Harry Markson and a Sol Strauss should utilize a Ten Hoff to develop their own rivalry for promotional power, is an ugly and depressing sight.

Matters would be so much simpler if promoters of culture and sports could recognize the difference between America's friends and America's enemies.

The Israeli Elections

Israel's first general elections have given Mapai, the moderate labor party headed by Prime Minister David ben Gurion, a substantial plurality but no majority. As a result the new Government is expected to be based on a coalition of the leading parties although not on as broad a base as the present Provisional Government.

The elections marked a defeat for the extreme right and the extreme left, and none of the smaller parties emerged from the "splinter" category. The three strongest parties are Mapai, Mapam (which is left wing) and the united Religious Bloc (consisting of four Orthodox parties and which showed more strength than had been expected). Whether Mapai will form a coalition with either of the two runners-up or with the General Zionists or Progressives which ran fifth and sixth respectively is a moot question.

Now that the elections are over, debate will be resumed on the constitution for the new state. The Mapam is striving to make the draft constitution a more socialist document, while the religious parties insist on the inclusion of firmer provisions for the religious foundations of the state.

As was expected, President Truman acted on his promise to extend full recognition to Israel when the official results of the polling were announced. The simultaneous recognition of Transjordan should influence Egypt into more reasonableness on the border issue and should induce the other Arab countries to join the Rhodes armistice talks.

Your Hebrew Lesson This Week

Date: Saturday, the second Sabbath of the month, is the thirteenth day of Shevat.

Monday is a minor holiday in the Hebrew calendar. The name Chamisho Osor Beshvat, (the fifteenth day in the month of Shevat), and it is the New Year for Plants. On this day it is customary to plant young trees and to eat fruits imported from the Holy Land, and to pronounce blessings over them.

Torah Portion of the Week: Sidra Beshalach, in the Book of Exodus, relating how Pharaoh of Egypt finally let the children of Israel go, and how they crossed the Red Sea. This portion contains the Song of Moses.

MORE ADJECTIVES

HEBREW	ENGLISH	YIDDISH
1. Ko-dosh	Holy	Heilig
2. Gi-bor	Strong	Shtark
3. Cha-losh	Weak	Shvach
4. Cho-leh	Sick	Krank
5. Cho-viv	Dear, Lovely	Geliebt

As shown in last week's lesson, the feminine of these adjectives is formed by adding oh at the end of the word. Thus: A lovely boy is Naar choviv, A lovely girl is Naaroh chovivoh.

Note: The A is read as in FATHER, but AY is read as in "May." The E is read as in PEN. The CH is read as in BACH.

"One Man's Opinion"

How They Ate

By BERNARD SEGAL

He was the son of a Protestant minister in a New England town, and this was his first meal at the home of Max, his Jewish classmate at the University. Five years later, as he was telling me about it across the table in the small dining room, he was as excited about it as if it happened only yesterday.

"D—n it, my father was an idealist. He knew of the world and about people as they appeared in his books, and not as they really were. Ever since I was old enough to understand, he would talk to me about Jews, and to him they were always the People of the Holy Bible, the children of the Prophets, the sons of Abraham. I would hear him talk with admiration in his sermons and in the privacy of the home, about the old religion of the Jews, and of the great precepts by which they live.

"So here I am, for the first time in my life away from home in a big city, and the student sitting next to me in English and again in History as well as in Psychology is a Jewish fellow named Max. We became so friendly that on my first Sunday away from my father's table, I was invited to dinner at his home.

"I remembered all the things my father told me about Jewish customs, and was praying that I might not commit any blunders. I was ready to see and to hear things my eyes have never seen before and my ears have never heard before.

Never Told Father

"Now, I never told my father about it. The poor man would have been terribly disappointed. I found nothing that savored of the Prophets or of Holiness at the table of my friend Max. We had a couple of drinks before going to the table, and then, before I knew it, we were at the first course, and at the second, and we talked and we laughed, and Max's father told a couple of good ones about a salesman and his girl friends, and during the dessert, someone turned on the radio, and we dispersed from the table.

"A good dinner, wonderful food, but my poor father surely would have been sorely disappointed in his Sons of the Prophets.

"I had more meals at the homes of other Jewish friends, and I tell you that nowhere did I find a trace of old traditions, any evidence of religious habits. And here you sit, d—n you, and tell me more stories about Jewish customs, just like my father. By God I will not take this nonsense from you."

My friend refilled his pipe, looking at me challengingly, while I continued to doodle on the paper napkin in front of me.

"Well?—he demanded—what do you say? Don't give me that mystifying smile of yours. Come on, give me H— if you think I deserve it."

He Was Right

No, I did not give him H—. He was right. It is possible for a Gentile to dine in many a Jewish home and not find any trace of tradition at the table, except perhaps in some particular dish like Gefilte Fish or Beigel, which have become the badge of Jewishness.

But as I came home that day I opened the volume entitled "Laws and Customs of Israel", a volume which was on the shelves of every Jewish home in the little town of my birth, on the Ukraine. I turned to the table of contents and I found seven chapters devoted to the rules and the manners at the table. Emily Post could not have attended to so many details of proper conduct.

Since I suspect that many sons of Abraham are just as innocent of observing these table manners of the Jewish law as were the son of the Protestant minister and his class-mates at the University, I will mention here some highlights of these chapters.

1. Washing of the hands before each meal.

A full chapter of twenty-two sections describes in detail the manner of this ritual, washing of the hands. You are told how to hold the vessel containing the water, what type of a vessel is suitable for the purpose, how many times to pour the water, and how to get at the dirt behind the finger nails. You are told what to do when you are on the road, how you can use the roadside brook, or the snow in winter; or, in the absence of these sources of water, how you can use wine or another beverage. You are warned not to eat on the road if you are only four miles away from a settlement where water is to be obtained.

2. Benediction over bread.

You are not to speak or to allow any interruptions between washing of the hands, and breaking of the bread. You are told how to hold your hands over the bread made of the five kinds of grain, and how to say the blessing, the Hamotzi, for all to hear and to say Amen. Directions are given how to cut the slice of bread, how small and how thick it is to be, and how to eat it. You are to dip the slice of bread in salt, and to distribute slices of the blessed bread to those with you at the table.

3. Conduct at the Table.

Two entire chapters, rather long ones, are devoted to table manners. How to eat, how much to take in one spoonful, and who is to eat first. What to talk about, and how to treat guests, and how to avoid embarrassment to a guest by not looking at his plate at any time during the meal. What to do if the dish does not taste good to you, and how to be considerate of the feelings of the hostess or the cook.

4. Benediction after the meal.

You are told to wash the finger tips at the end of the meal, and not to leave the table until the head of the house says grace after the meal. If there are three adults at the table, the host says: "Raboisai, Jomir bentshen", meaning "My Masters, let us offer thanks for the food", and a rather long thanks offering it is, as you can find in any Prayer Book.

And of course, the hostess is directed in the art of preparing the food and serving it, in setting the table, and in the arrangement of the places for each member of the family and for guests, each according to his age and station.

Was my friend's father, the Protestant minister, an idealist? Are all these observances in the books only?

Some of them are obsolete, and it is a pity. But most of them are still practiced in millions of homes. I have dined in many homes where there was not a vestige of all this. But I have also sat at tables where each detail is religiously observed, and where the table is an Altar, and the food a Sacrificial offering.

Auxiliary Bowling

By TEDI GREEN

It was a royal battle between the Steingolds and the Levines before the former emerged victorious 3-1, this staying just 1 point ahead of the Hochmans who took 4 points from the Zawatsky gals ... Babe Smith of the Levines tried hard to keep them in the running by bowling high single of 104, but surprising strength from Green, Boren, and Leonard—proved too much.

Estelle Cohen and Lil Zawatsky—267 and 247—tried hard to get their team out of the cellar, but the Hochmans team total of 1273 was too hot a pace for them to follow ... The Steingolds took high three with 1291 while the Hochmans' 447 was tops for one string.

After a mild difference of opinion with the proprietor over what constitutes lobbing, Ann Steingold rolled high three of 283.

yeshivah in Palestine. He probably gets a donation, complains if it isn't big enough, gives a blessing in the name of the yeshivah "bochurs" who will benefit from the gift, and leaves. Should he perchance be asked such questions as what yeshivah?, where is this yeshivah?, who heads it, etc., he very likely will raise an eyebrow and act insulted, as if the person asking the question must surely have heard of the yeshivah, and who dares to question such an appeal, anyway? Credentials—shmedentials, give money for the yeshivah in Israel! Is such a man a fake or not?

How is the housewife to know? Is the money going into the man's own pocket, or does it get to the yeshivah, if there is one? Furthermore, if the money does get to its reported source, what percentage of it does get there? Salaries and expense accounts can be astronomical in terms of percentage if there is no public accounting.

The simple truth is that SOME of these house-to-house solicitors are fakes, and we are throwing away our money, while helping to support and encourage the racketeers by giving to them indiscriminately.

... Without Checking

You may receive a letter from New York or Chicago or some other metropolis, advertising some charitable promotion and asking for your assistance and financial support. It sounds good, it looks good (it should, having been prepared at considerable cost by an artist or advertising agency, and being printed on expensive paper), but who benefits by it? You hate to turn down a legitimate request, and you may be flattered at being one of the "select few" to be singled out for solicitation—so you may mail a donation. Without checking, of course.

Mr. X, a business man, may find among the clients or visitors in his downtown office, a man or woman seeking a donation for charity. The visitor may be distinguished looking or decidedly untidy in appearance. No matter. Mr. X has more important business at hand and other people to see, so he digs into his pocket and silently forks over. Even if he doubts the legitimacy of the request, can he afford to say no while other people are in the office, and risk gaining a reputation as one who does not give to charity? Of course not—and that is what the solicitor thrives on. Can he afford to take the time to question the charity? Certainly not. It isn't that important to him. So he pays—and in paying, gives to crooks as well as to honest, well-meaning charity seekers.

Innocent Victims

A thriving racket that is operated quite profitably is this. A prominent individual or the head of some organization, veterans or otherwise, receives a call requesting permission to add his or its name to the list of donors or subscribers or board members of a certain charitable organization. If you want to send along a contribution, it will be appreciated very much. At least, allow us to use your name.

That permission received, the racketeers are free to call on anyone in your community, pointing to the fact that Mr. Z is a prominent member of the board, or that he contributes handsomely to the agency, and that surely, you, the person solicited, will want to aid in the promotion of any charity that has the support of such a well-known person as Mr. Z.

In similar fashion, Mrs. Y is induced to go around the community soliciting funds for some cause, which may not be local in character and which she has not bothered checking. A sincere, enthusiastic woman, she has gained a reputation for her work in charity. No matter what the request. If it's for charity, she works.

Thus Mr. Z and Mrs. Y unwittingly permit themselves to be used as fols for the operators of various charity rackets.

You'd be surprised to know how successful these schemes can be.

Next week—Charity is an expensive business.

Rabinowitz Honored By General Assembly

Sidney L. Rabinowitz of Providence, a lawyer, and for 14 years assistant in charge of law revision at the State House, was the recipient this week of a resolution passed by the State Legislature, commending him upon his service to the State during that period. Rabinowitz recently retired from the post to devote full time to his private practice.

The commendation, as passed by the General Assembly, extended "sincere gratitude for his State service in this exceptional field, with the realization that his many years of valuable service have entailed considerable sacrifice on his part."

The resolution continued: "His has been a keen and unprecedented grasp of the intricacies of constitutional and statutory law, and the application thereof to legislative and administrative requirements. . . . He has given thought and time to his specific duties far beyond the call of legal duty and moral obligation, ever giving of his valuable time and talent in the service of the State whenever the public welfare might be served thereby."

Cleinman Mistress of Ceremonies. New members were welcomed by the president and a social hour was held after the meeting.

Home to Dedicate Building Addition

Jacob I. Felder, President of the Jewish Home for the Aged, has appointed a committee to make plans for the dedication ceremony. Max Winograd was named chairman of the committee, which held its first organizational meeting on Sunday, January 16. Tentative plans include open house, a speaker's program, and dedication ceremonies for the third floor addition, the new pavillion, the fence and the grounds.

Several sub-committees are being formed to take care of the planning, publicity, refreshments, testimonials, etc. The names of the sub-committees will be given later. The dedication ceremonies are scheduled to be held sometime in June.

Girl Describes Her Visit to Home

By CYNTHIA ZAIMAN
(The author, a 12-year old girl, is a member of the graduating class of the Jewish Community Center Sunday School)

On Thursday, November 25, 1948, I took a trip to the Home. The things which I saw there impressed me greatly.

Starting with the third floor, I first visited the infirmary which was opened in September, 1947. There are, on the average, from 25 to 28 handicapped and chronically ill patients in the infirmary.

Next I visited the second floor, where there is a recreation room on each wing. In one of these rooms the men amuse themselves by playing cards, reading, or just relaxing. The women also have a recreation room. On the same floor there are private and semi-private rooms in which the old people have their belongings and things of that sort. Here they sleep and have privacy to do what they feel like doing.

On the first floor there is a Synagogue, a pavillion, a large dining room, and two kitchens in which the food is prepared. One kitchen is used for dairy cooking, the other for cooking meat. The food served is strictly kosher.

This Home offers so many privileges and freedom that when an old person enters the Home it is considered a privilege to stay there. There are many activities, including spiritual leadership by Rabbi Chaim H. Blau. When Pesach comes around the old folks have a Seder. On Purim and the other Holidays they have parties.

While at the Home I had a lovely chat with two ladies who are founders of the Home. Mrs. Rose Goldstein and Mrs. Sarah Silverstein. They told me about the Home and its founding, and about the original Home which was on 191 Orms Street. I asked them if they thought the new Home was in any way different from the Old Home, and to my surprise they both told me exactly the same thing:

"This Home is like paradise".
I, too, think that from what I have seen of the Home I can agree with them.

The old people have every comfort they possibly could want. I am looking forward to making another trip to the Jewish Home for the Aged and have more chats with the old people there.

List Age Groups

Ages of persons under care at the Jewish Home for the Aged as of January 1, 1949 are as follows:

1. 60 through 64	1
2. 65 through 69	8
3. 70 through 74	13
4. 75 through 79	28
5. 80 through 84	16
6. 85 through 89	11
7. 90 and over	1
8. Total 1-1-49	78

Bids Received On Alterations

The Building Committee, under the chairmanship of Mr. Jacob Licht, is now receiving bids on the proposed alterations on the first floor. The matter will be decided on at the next Board Meeting on Thursday, February 24. If the building alterations are approved, eight beds will be added to the Home's bed capacity, increasing it from 80 to 88.

Start Occupational Therapy Classes

Last Monday, February 7th, the first Occupational Therapy class was held in the new pavillion of the Jewish Home for the Aged under the leadership of Mrs. Mitchell Sack, chairman of Occupational Therapy, assisted by Mrs. Fred S. Pinkney. Classes will be held every Monday from two to four o'clock. In addition to Mrs. Sack and Mrs. Pinkney, Mrs. George Ludman and Mrs. David Litchman are participating in this volunteer program.

The purpose of the classes is to stimulate useful activities among the old folks at the Home, including the handicapped and infirm. These activities will not only help the old folks use their leisure time constructively, but will help them psychologically by making them feel useful and productive. About twenty-five residents participated in the first meeting.

Jewish Home for the Aged of Rhode Island

In Memoriam

RACHEL ROSEN

It has pleased Almighty God in His infinite wisdom to take from our midst Rachel Rosen who was one of the founders of the Jewish Home for the Aged of Rhode Island and one of its early Presidents. She was active in the Home's affairs since its early beginning in May 1912 when as a founder and charter member she was among those benefactresses who signed the Articles of Association. Ever since that time she has served the Home and as an active member of the Board of Trustees has given her wise counsel and support, contributing materially to the growth and development of the Home. In her death, the Home has lost a loyal friend, a staunch supporter and a woman with deep sympathy for the underprivileged, particularly the aged and the infirm. Her memory will long abide with us as an incentive and an inspiration. Our Officers and Trustees of the Jewish Home for the Aged of Rhode Island and the members of the organization deeply mourn her loss, and in this spirit have

Resolved, that the Jewish Home for the Aged of Rhode Island extend to the family of Rachel Rosen its heartfelt sympathy, and instruct that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Jewish Home for the Aged of Rhode Island, that a suitable copy be presented to her bereaved family, and that they be published in the next issue of the Home News.

Zionists Announce Program for Meeting

* Tovi Ronni, interpreter of the songs and folklore of Israel, and Jacques Torczyner, prominent in American Zionism, will be featured at the meeting of the Providence Zionist District, February 20, at eight o'clock in the vestry of Temple Emanuel, it was announced this week by Aaron Klein, program chairman. A movie short, "Israel Reborn", and a talk on "Brief Reflections on Chamisha Asar B'Shvat" by Mr. Klein are also included in the program.

Miss Ronni, who has appeared in villages and settlements throughout Palestine and in the internment camps of Cyprus, is making her second appearance in Providence.

Mr. Torczyner, a member of the Zionist Organization of America, is regarded as one of the most responsible officers in the movement today.

Beth El Bowling

By JACK APPELBAUM

Aided and abetted by the very accurate left arm of Lefty Goralnick, Saul Lerman's team knocked off the Weissmans, 3-1. Not detracting one iota from the excellent work done by the rest of the team as a whole, it's still a mighty comfortable feeling having Lefty there at anchor. He is imperturbably calm and unruffled, and if he chops, he simply digs his way out with a nine or ten.

Comparable to his bowling in his quiet, easy charm. Lefty flashes that dazzling smile, and it becomes infectious. He puts everybody around him in a brighter, cheerier humor. His personality just won't be denied, and our league is a better one because he is in it.

Also among the more even-dispositioned members of the league is quiet, unassuming Capt. Leo Kouffman. With unexcelled loyalty, enthusiasm and zest, Leo faithfully shows up every week and plugs along helping everybody have a good time. His activity in the Brotherhood is equally valuable, and he can always be depended upon to carry out his assignments and help make all the Brotherhood affairs successful.

Beth Israel Bowling

By SAUL HODOSH

The crying room was put to good use this week by the Max's, Sussman and Levy, as Phiguring Philbert Sussman still couldn't add up to a point as his Army team blew four points to Sam Segal's Browns. The other half of the Max's couldn't find the handle on a ball and then blew his top on a final 67. Of course, one should not make capital of another's misfortune, but one must report the truth much as it hurts my charitable heart. Princeton took four games from Connecticut by shelacking them to the tune of 211 pins.

On the brighter side, Sam Segal turned in three good strings and took high three with 364, followed by M. Levitt—331, and P. Gladstein—326.

High single went to Milt Levitt, who seems to be suddenly pin mad as he hit 140. Sam Segal and P. Gladstein turned in good strings of 138 and 126.

Emanuel Bowling

By JACK PLATKIN

In exactly nine weeks hence one of the first seven teams on the roster will be the winner and champion of our league, but not until after some capable competition, because here is how they line up. The Cards head the standing by four points, in second place are Wintman's White Sox, Kramer's Athletics and Zach's Cubs are tied for third, one point back, Friedman's Yankees rest one point further down the standing, and Blackman's Dodgers and Lavine's Indians are in 6th and 7th place respectively, but only 7 points behind the leaders.

There were some good three string totals last Monday night, and we find heading the list some of the old time reliables, such as Abe Press—350, Henry Markoff—347, Paynor—358, Sam Chase—340, Lou Chase—346, Blackman—320, and Harold Robinson—327.

The highlight of next Monday's bowling, will be the match between Dwares' Cards and Kramer's Athletics, but the odds are on these aged bowlers who presently appear to have hit their stride.

B. & P. HADASSAH

Aaron Klein, director of religious education at Temple Emanuel, will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Business and Professional Division of Hadassah, Wednesday evening at eight o'clock at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel.

Union League Elects Mrs. Gussie Nelson

Mrs. Gussie Nelson was elected president of the Ladies Union League for Consumptives at a meeting held Tuesday in the Hebrew Sheltering Home.

Others elected were Mesdames Harry Goodman, honorary vice president; Louis Spader, first vice president; Eugene Kornfield, second vice president; Samuel Sandler, third vice president; Harry Malin, treasurer; Morris Kelman, financial secretary; Frank Youngstein, recording secretary, and Charles Bograd, corresponding secretary.

At the same meeting $1000 in U. S. savings bonds was pledged by the League to the building fund of a hospital for tubercular patients to be built in Israel, and $1000 in bonds was given to the New England Jewish Tubercular Sanatorium in Rutland, Maine.

Abe Lobel and his boys had a hot nite and rolled 1623 for top honors—and this with one man absent . . . The Cohens, however, still managed to roll the top mark of 555 for team single, and Capt. Howie tied Joe Schwartz for the personal single string score with 132, while Joe's 368 was best for total pinfall.

The Rodyns 3-1 win over the Schwartzes enabled them to retain their two point lead over the Levines who took three points from the Avens in a match that saw anchor man, Irv Levine, perform brilliantly for the losers.

Mention of the Leading Rodyns reminds me that they have a very neat team average of 102, composed by Rodyn—112, Cofman—104, Chernack—100, I. Zatlhoff—99, and Kadsivitz—94 . . . Talking of averages—the following had good three string scores: B. Cohen—326, J. Hochman—321, I. Levine—314, Zatlhoff—313, and N. Schwartz—304.

Hebrew Union Aid Give Oneg Shabbat

Deploring Gym Facilities

This is a heck of a time, right in the middle of the indoor season, to lodge a complaint about existing conditions. Yet, since this is a complaint about the lack of facilities available for the winter months, this is as appropriate a time as any to get the thing off my chest. Furthermore, I dare to predict that it will meet with favorable response, especially among the men folks.

To get to the point—we need more and larger gymnasium facilities for the boys and men and girls who want to participate in athletic activity from late fall to early spring.

Right now, we have one (1) gym, at the Center. It is small, and narrow. It can accommodate only one game of basketball at a time. All other activity must wait while ten men are on the floor. At its best, it could be used for more than one activity only in this hypothetical regard: there could be a volley ball game in progress near the center of the floor, and possibly a game of handball at one end. At the other end, someone might be practicing foul shooting. At his level best, Athletic Director Abe Lobel cannot hope to satisfy all those who want to use the floor, simply because the gym isn't big enough.

Other Gyms Available

That will raise the argument that the Center does have other facilities—the junior high schools of the city. That is true, but it must be remembered that the availability of these gyms for Center use is extremely limited. After all, we are not the only ones who want to use them. Second, it is not at all like having our own facilities, that we know are our own, that we may apportion to suit our own needs.

The ideal situation, of course, is a gym that has baskets on the side walls as well as the far walls, so that two or three games of basketball could be played at one time, so that other gymnasium activity might be carried on, even while a game (or games) is in progress. Most modern gyms are constructed that way.

Indirectly, I am trying to get across the point that there is more to the winter season than just basketball. Yet, so limited are our facilities that we are virtually forced to close shop on everything else and concentrate on basketball. Now, before you hop all over me, you hoop adherents, that is not meant as a slap at the court game. It is merely a regret that our inadequate facilities limit the number of persons who participate in our program—who might like to take part in some activity other than basketball. It is a complaint that we don't have room enough to stretch.

A Useless Complaint?

A useless complaint, you may say. We are stuck with this gym and we are going to be stuck with it for a long time. Why tease us with a vision of a gym that is imaginary?

Here is why. As long as we are content to go along with this set-up, we—that is, the Jewish population of Providence and vicinity—will get nothing better. Until we rise in protest, get out and work, and carry our complaints far enough, strong enough, and often enough, we will never get additional or improved indoor facilities. That is for sure.

The population is growing steadily, which means that our need for new and more gyms is also increasing steadily, and that our present set-up is growing steadily smaller and more restricted.

What are we to do about it? Any comments?

A Fruitful Campaign

Softball, baseball and football enthusiasts will be interested in the news that an effective one-man campaign to force enactment of a law legalizing the issuance of permits for fields before 12 o'clock noon is being carried on by Harold Hersch, the originator of the idea.

Harold first traced the law to its source at the State House, and spoke to several influential persons, to see if there would be any objection to repealing the present law. Finding none, he approached Senator McCabe, the majority leader, and that legislator promptly had an amendment to the law prepared and submitted to the Senate.

Assuming the Senate agrees, the amendment will go to the House, and that is where Hersch will need assistance. Every Representative we know must be contacted and impressed with the need and the reason for the bill, so that it may be successfully carried through the lower chamber and passed into law.

Remember—if the bill is passed, any athletic group may obtain permits to use the state fields as early as 10 o'clock on Sunday mornings.

Note to those who would like to see a new Center gym: The above should be proof that you get nothing without working for it. Get it?

Clown Prince Schacht Listed by B'nai B'rith

He has traveled more than 525,000 miles in the last ten years just to make appearances before the baseball public.

He has entertained at 23 World Series and in 40 minor leagues, as well as at many special baseball functions.

He was a winning southpaw pitcher with the Washington Senators, and a capable coach after his playing career ended.

He is a baseball legend. That brief summary doesn't begin to describe Al Schacht, who will be featured speaker and comedian at the annual Father and Son Sports Night to be sponsored by Roger Williams Lodge, B'nai B'rith on Monday evening, February 21 at the Plantations Auditorium.

Schacht will head an array of leading sports figures, led by Warren Walden, WEAN sportscaster. Also included on the program are approximately 75 gifts of all kinds that will be given away to the boys who attend the affair.

Gov. John O. Pastore and Mayor Dennis J. Roberts, each of whom has accepted an invitation to attend, will be introduced by Bertram L. Bernhardt, president of the Lodge. Bernhardt also will introduce Schacht. Benjamin Ruttenberg is chairman of the evening and the program committee.

The Clown Prince of Baseball, as Al Schacht is known, has a record unparalleled by most entertainers. During his career, which dates back some 40 years, Schacht has played in practically every park in the country. More than 60 million persons have watched his antics, including two and a half million GI's in New Guinea, Dutch East Indies, Sicily, the Philippines and Japan during the war years. No audience has been too small for the toughpaw comic, no village too remote. He has rightly become a baseball legend.

DAY SCHOOL MEETING

A raffle-drawing will be held at the meeting of the Ladies Association of the Providence Hebrew Day School Wednesday evening in the school building. Guest speakers will be Mr. and Mrs. Kennison T. Bosquet, psychologists, who will discuss "Through Children's Eyes".

Refreshments will be served and the public is invited to attend.

Around Town

With ARLENE SUMMER

Double Engagement

Nice things happen in two's—at least for the Bermans! Last Thursday Seymour Golden gave Arlene Berman an engagement ring and the same night sister Ruth Berman promised to marry Al Woolf, of Worcester. Loads of luck to all of you.

All In the Family

Twenty years ago Rabbi Morris Schussheim officiated at the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Goodwin, so it was an added pleasure for him to officiate at the marriage of their daughter, Jean, who became Mrs. Joseph Silverstein on January 16. The newlyweds are living in New Bedford.

New Home

Best of luck to the Morris Resnicks, formerly of 48 Eaton Street, who moved into their new home at 137 Oakland Avenue.

Combination Party

Sandy Paster was hostess at a double celebration party held at her home January 29. The party was in honor of Mort Gleckman's birthday and the inauguration of Bernie Buckler, newly-installed president of Pawtucket AZA.

Anniversary

Congratulations to the Hy Levines who are celebrating their 15th wedding anniversary today.

Visiting

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cohen and their year-old daughter, Francine, were visiting friends and relatives in Providence last week. The Cohen's (she's the former Eleanor Greenstein) are living in Mount Vernon, N. Y.

"Sweetheart"

Shirley Bigney was chosen "Sweetheart of AZA" at the Annual Winter Conclave held last weekend in Fall River.

Proud Parents

The Charles Steingolds are proud of their son, Kenny, a freshman at Clarke University, who made Dean's list.

Over 21

Florence Grossman was feted January 25 at Club 65 by a group of her friends who, headed by Elsie Gorman, presented her with a birthday cake with 21 candles.

Double Celebration

The Dick Sondlers have a double celebration this week. They'll be married one year Tuesday and Dick graduated from Bryant Thursday.

Hail and Farewell

Mrs. Jack Queler and Mrs. Shepley Gray left Wednesday to spend a month in Florida... The B. Butlers, the Jacob Millers, the Charles Lishners, and the Harry Greenbergs are all in Florida... Welcome home to Mr. and Mrs. David Land, Mrs. Harvey Stone and son Billy, and Mrs. Nathan Stein who return today from Florida... The Benjamin Pulners were guests of honor at a Bon Voyage party held in the Glass Hat Room of the Belmont Plaza Hotel in New York City. After the party, the Pulners sailed on the S. S. De Grasse for a cruise to the West Indies and South America.

Don't forget that your news and views are welcome too.

Bristol Synagogue Installs Officers

Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen was guest speaker at installation ceremonies of Chevra Agudas Achim Synagogue in Bristol Sunday, it was announced this week by Ben Hazen, secretary.

Those installed by Max Phenes were Dr. Leo Jacobson, president; Joseph Feinberg, vice president; Ben Hazen, secretary, and Herbert Eisenstadt, treasurer.

A gift to the retiring president, Ira Stone, was presented by Dr. Jacobson on behalf of the congregation.

Refreshments were served by a committee headed by Miss Shirley Meyerson. The program was arranged by the program committee, consisting of Ben Hazen, Joseph Feinberg and Herbert Eisenstadt.

Daughterhood Bowling

By RUTH TANENBAUM

Good starts and poor finishes featured last week's sessions. Helene Preblud began it. After a fast start, she bogged down and won the first pool with a mere 87. Doris Graubart won in her division with 101. Doris was wound up for the second string, rolling a classy 109. El Jacobson tried to keep up with her but settled for 100.

The third string developed into another tight battle. Harriet Keller took one with 100, while Dee Chorney looked like the other winner with 107, until the smoke cleared away and it was found that Doris Levin had compiled 108.

Ball, Chain Club Valentine Party

Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Rafeal and Mr. and Mrs. John Fishman were guests for the evening of the Ball and Chain Club at their Valentine Party held Sunday at the Jewish Community Center.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Troberman, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Haler, Mr. and Mrs. Pincus Pearl and Mrs. Lottie Arbtsman.

All married couples are invited to the next meeting, February 20 at the Jewish Community Center.

Hersch Asks Support Of Playground Bill

An appeal to all Representatives in the General Assembly to support a bill permitting the issuance of permits for the city's play-grounds and fields as early as 10 o'clock on Sunday mornings instead of the present starting time of 12 noon was made this week by Harold Hersch, sponsor of a drive to effect the change.

Hersch urged all the legislators to back the bill, which would directly benefit Jewish and other athletic groups that are able to play only on Sunday mornings, when it is brought up in the lower chamber. Senate approval is expected shortly.

Hersch, who originated the idea and persuaded Senator Raymond A. McCabe to introduce the bill in the Senate, also suggested that all those interested in the matter call or write their Representatives to explain the reason and need for the revision, and to gain their support.

In directing his appeal to the lower chamber, Hersch pointed out that the bill has already been referred to the judiciary committee headed by Sen. McCabe, and that approval there is virtually certain. The Senate is expected to go along with the committee's recommendation.

Comets to Name "Miss Valentine"

Selection of "Miss Valentine for '49" will be the highlight of the annual Valentine Dance of the Comet Club tomorrow evening at the Jewish Community Center auditorium. Every girl present at the dance will be given equal opportunity to win the award.

Dave Cohen heads a three-man committee that will select "Miss Valentine". The judges will base their selection on the poise, grace and personality, as well as beauty of the girls. The winning contestant will receive a gift from the Comets.

Arnold Nadelberg is chairman of the arrangements committee. He is assisted by Jacob Chaiken, decorations; Sanford Phillips, checking; Lenny Lerner, tickets; Harold Ludman, refreshments, and Dave Goldman, Fred Fishman and Nat Ludman, publicity.

KALEIDOSCOPE

NEWS FROM HOLLYWOOD

By LEON GUTTERMAN

HOLLYWOOD—In a land where fabulous personalities abound, Eddie Cantor is one of the most incredible and one of the best loved. Ask Eddie how he keeps his boundless pep after 40 years of ceaseless activity in show business and he will tell you he lives on laughter, the joy of bringing pleasure to others.

At a time when others might think of retiring he was busy with screen and radio work and giving tirelessly of his time to benefits and the entertainment of wounded war veterans. But that wasn't enough so he became a movie producer. "If You Knew Susie," in which he also starred, was the second picture which he produced; the first was the very successful "Show Business."

Eddie lives on nervous energy, eats vitamin pills like candy and smokes denicotined cigars. He has a gift for organizing his daily life and an amazing memory for details. He dislikes loud clothes and noisy people; dresses conservatively in neat blues and grays. He eats often but sparingly, likes hot dogs, malted milk and cold showers.

He works tirelessly for charity if the cause is worthy, regardless of race or sect sponsoring, and is noted for his ability to raise funds. But of this he does not like to talk.

Many people seek relaxation in a night club, but you'll seldom find Eddie in one. His idea of relaxation is doing a half dozen shows in a hospital, recharging his energy by making people laugh!

Getting giggles around town is the tale of a girl who was transferred from the New York offices of a big studio to the Hollywood headquarters. The morning she reported at her new post, the big chief called her into his sanctum and said: "I hope you'll be happy here. The work will be practically the same as you did in New York." "Okay," the girl replied. "Kiss me and let's get started."

Theatre managers have used all sorts of methods to get audience reactions, from preview cards to going right up and asking the customer. Eavesdropping has even been resorted to, and the neatest trick in that line for getting the public's opinion is about to be employed here by a Hollywood movie house.

The idea came from Saks Fifth Avenue. Saks, unknown to most people, has microphones concealed around the store fronts to catch the comments of window gazers concerning their displays.

The movie is installing mikes, connected with a loud speaker in an office where a secretary will record the criticism expressed by people leaving the theatre. If the criticism gets too abusive, a mate secretary will do the recording!

Comic Abe Burrows has a novel party theme! Come as you were before you were psychoanalyzed.

Epitaph on a tombstone in Hollywood Cemetery: "Have Gone to Join My Teeth, Kidneys, Appendix, Gallstones, Hair, Tonsils and Adenoids."

Visiting an old character actor, known locally as the Sage of Hollywood, on his 98th birthday, I asked him the secret of his long and happy life.

"Well," said the Sage meditatively, "every morning I get up out of bed and go over to the window. There I take a look out and I say to myself, 'This is just the kind of day that I wanted!'"

Here's a Story of "Big Business"

Any story of Canada's largest life assurance company—the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada—is a story of "big business" because more than one and a half million people the world over are safeguarded by the protection and security of Sun Life policies.

The ever-growing goodwill which is enjoyed by the Sun Life of Canada is due to the diversity and liberality of the Company's life assurance policies, to the character of its representatives, and to the promptness and efficiency of its service to policyholders, throughout its entire 78 years' history.

Last year alone, payments amounting to more than $100,000,000 were made to Sun Life policyholders and beneficiaries.

THE SUN LIFE STORY of 1948 is made up of many thousands of individual records, each a simple human document, yet of vital importance to those concerned:

The Story of Mrs. M.B.H.

... is a tragic one. She lost her husband in an automobile accident and was left alone with three young children to care for.

But to her husband, responsibility reached beyond death, and his Sun Life Family Income policy provides for the family until the youngsters are grown up, and then gives to the widow a regular income for life.

C.J.S. Was a Good Salesman

... who all his life looked ahead. Thirty years ago he paid his first premium on a Sun Life Retirement policy. Last October he made his final business trip and now, at 65, he enjoys the leisure that his foresight made possible.

T.L.M. Bought a Business

... and is now his own master. He planned this when, on graduating from college, he took out a Sun Life Endowment for assurance protection as well as systematic and easy saving. The Endowment matured recently, providing the means which enabled him to take advantage of a great opportunity.

No Need of Charity

In the small industrial plant owned by D.B.L., 100 employees never have to pass the hat when a bench pal dies.

Like hundreds of thousands of workers in other industrial and business organizations large and small, they are protected by Sun Life Group Assurance, an effective instrument for good employee-employer relations.

Yes, there are thousands of such cases in the Sun Life story of 1948—a story of service to the public, repeated year in, year out.

From the 1948 Annual Report

- Benefits paid to policyholders and beneficiaries during 1948: $105,046,413
- Total Benefits paid since the first Sun Life policy was issued in 1871: $2,126,737,233
- New Assurances issued during the year: $374,652,547
- Assurances in force: $4,089,234,182
