Softball Season Gets Flying Start

The 1949 season of the Jewish Softball League got away to a flying start Sunday morning with the playing of a full card of ten games. Clear, though windy, weather attended the openings, which resulted in three teams winning doubleheaders and four others splitting the day's honors.

With Senator Frank Licht throwing out the first ball, the Comets of Mal's Baby Stores began their title defense with an 11-7 win over Krasnoff Creamery. Timely hitting by the Comets spelled the difference in this free hitting contest, in which the Comets had a 12-10 advantage in hits. That was just a warmup for the second game, however, which featured 27 hits, 15 by the Comets, and 28 runs—15 by Krasnoff's.

Fall River's Kavodians made their debut in the league an auspicious one with a brilliant 1-0 win over Miller's Delicatessen, last year's runners-up. Don Gittleman was the winning pitcher, Myer Jarcho the loser. In the nightcap, Harold Hersch pitched Miller's to a 5-2 win. Councilman Edmund Wexler threw out the first ball to start the teams off.

At Collyer's Field, Councilman Al Brown, himself a pitcher of local renown in his high school days, twirled the first pitch as Arden Mfg. Co. and the Orioles began their league play. Arden's won both games, 8-6 and 8-7. The Arden club overcame a five run Oriole lead in the opener.

"Handsome" Jack Swartz' Old Timers thumped Pinkerson's twice at Roger Williams Park, 13-3 and 16-5, rolling up the highest scores of the day. Councilman Joe Schlossberg was on hand to do the honors with the first ball.

Richard's Clothes jumped away to big early leads against the Olympics and swept their double bill, 9-7 and 4-0 at Hopkins Park. After pulling away to a 6-1 lead in the second, the winners had to score three in the sixth inning to break a 6-6 tie. A seventh inning Olympic rally fell short. In the finale, Jack Fradin kept the Olympics popping up while Richard's got all its runs in the first two innings off Abe Lobel. In the opening lineup was Sen. Frank Licht, who strode out to the mound to deliver the first official pitch.

Neglect in Local Institutions

The dissatisfaction which has been growing in many influential sections of American Jewry with the neglect of Jewish cultural and educational institutions in the U. S. because of the concentration of all efforts on Israel and overseas, has found another powerful supporter this week in the person of Rabbi Maurice Eisendrath, President of the American Hebrew Congregation.

In a powerful article in the current issue of Liberal Judaism, Dr. Eisendrath makes the astounding claim that only four tenths of one percent of the monies raised by the Jewish Welfare funds is allocated for Jewish religious, cultural and educational purposes of American Jewry. Ninety nine and six tenths percent goes overseas and to Israel. Rabbi Eisendrath, although a leader of Reformed Jewry, is highly respected in American Zionist circles (he was for a time the leader of the Jewish Conference) and he cannot be accused of anti-Israel sentiment.

But Dr. Eisendrath was not alone in voicing his protest against this abnormal situation. No less a personage than Dr. Samuel Belkin, head of the Yeshiva college, issued a similar warning against the neglect of Jewish education in this country as did also Rabbi Harry Essrig, one of the younger and more progressive of the reformed Rabbis of America.

Hadassah Holds Annual Donors Affair

The Providence Chapter of Hadassah approached the closing of its 25th anniversary season with satisfaction this week, following its annual Donors Affair held Sunday evening at Rhodes-on-the-Pawtuxet.

Approximately 1600 persons attended the dinner affair, at which the work being done by Hadassah to aid in the growth of the State of Israel was explained by local leaders and the requirements of the Jewish nation were detailed by Mrs. Daniel Miller, just returned from Palestine.

Mrs. Miller the former Maureen Percelay of Providence, was featured speaker at the Donors Affair. Marking her first day at home since her departure for Israel nine months ago, she told the gathering that the infant nation is "fluid and quite able to maintain its standard of living." "Nobody is going hungry," she added.

Making her initial public appearance on a projected nationwide speaking tour under the sponsorship of Hadassah, Mrs. Miller reminded her audience that "Israel still needs you desperately."

"We contributed in the past to destruction," she said. "Now we are contributing to construction."

Speaking of the refugee problem created by the fleeing of Arabs from Jewish villages during the fighting, Mrs. Miller said firmly: "The Arabs will be paid for their property, but they won't be back in Israel. There will be a population shift—Jews for Arabs—and everyone will be happy."

Disproving the tales of Communism being rampant in the Jewish state, she said that during the hard days of fighting, the Jews never saw a piece of Russian equipment or a Communist leader, that the Communists have always been anti-Zionist and that the recent election proved that Communism is a very minor issue. She added that "Our people are having to escape from Eastern Europe."

In another vein, she warned Americans that, while their dollars are so desperately needed, Israel should be permitted to decide its political life for itself.

"Contribute to its upbuilding and its upbuilding only," she concluded.

Other speakers, all of whom emphasized the role that Hadassah is playing in the medical life of Israel, were Mrs. Maurice Robinson, chairman of the Donor Affair committee, who opened the program and introduced the speakers; Mrs. Irwin N. Silverman, president of Providence Hadassah; Mrs. George Rossyn, New England Regional president of Hadassah; and Mrs. Kurt Hasterlik, president of the Business and Professional Group.

Mrs. Robinson also introduced committee chairmen who were seated at the head table. They included Mesdames Harry Albert, Abraham Blackman, Eli A. Bohnen, William G. Braude, David Dressler, Irving I. Fair, Harry Fowler, Haskell Frank, Max L. Grant, Henry Hassenfeld, Kurt Hasterlik, Israel Mandell, Samuel Michaelson, Abraham Percelay, Albert Pilavin, Nathan Samors, Howard Schneider, Alvin A. Soppin and Joseph Stanzler.

Treasure in the Desert

By BERNARD SEGAL

They have found a precious treasure in Israel.

No, they did not come upon a rich gold vein in the hills of Judea. Nor did they discover uranium deposits in the valley of the Jordan. The excitement is not even over underground lakes of oil.

They found books. Yes, books of great antiquity, written on crude scrolls of leather, by unknown scribes. And to judge by the space given to this find in the periodicals reaching us from Israel, one gathers that these scrolls of leather are as precious to them as all the gold and the uranium and the Oil in the world.

I have before me four articles on this discovery, and each one of them is written in a festive mood, as if something of great portent has taken place.

The discovery has a romantic background, in true Oriental fashion.

Wandering Beduins, exploring the dried-up bed of a brook, a Wadi, in the vicinity of the Salt Sea, found a cave and entered inside. On the floor of the cave the Beduins found clay urns, most of them broken and their fragments strewn all over the cave. But some of the vessels were undamaged, and contained scrolls of leather manuscripts wrapped up in cloth. The Beduins brought the scrolls to Jerusalem and sold some to dealers in antiques, and some to the Bishop of the Assyrian church in the Old City.

Word of the find reached the attention of the director of the Museum of Archeology, at the Hebrew University on Mount Scopus. One look at the scrolls was sufficient for the Director, Professor Eliezer Lipa Sukenik, to recognize the great value of the ancient Hebrew manuscripts. Some he was able to purchase for the Hebrew University, others are still in the possession of Arab and Assyrian owners. Dr. Sukenik, however, has photographed most of the scrolls, and is now in the United States to study the content of the books. When his work is completed, and the results are reported in a language understood by you and me, then we will be able to appreciate the cause for the excitement over the discovered treasure in the desert.

There is the entire Book of the Prophet Isaiah among the discovered manuscripts, copied on leather by a very careful copyist.

Table centerpieces, which are being sent to Hadassah's Children's Village in Israel, followed the motif of soil cultivation.

Proceeds of the affair will be used by the Hadassah Medical Organization (HMO).

Naval Atmosphere To Highlight Dance

Dance programs in Navy "lingo" and nautical decorations are being planned for the semi-formal "Skipper Hop", sponsored by the Nu chapter of Iota Phi sorority, to be held May 28 at the Edgewood Yacht Club. Miss Claire Pollock is chairman. Further information may be obtained from Miss Reva Steingold, DE 1-8345, or Miss Beverly Rotner, PL 1-7226.

Newly elected officers of the chapter are the Misses Maureen Wolkoff, superior sister, Dorothy Emers scribe, Deborah Rosen, treasurer, and Euda Biller, corresponding secretary.

There is an entirely new, hitherto unknown book which Professor Sukenik calls the "War between the Sons of Light and the Sons of Darkness". It describes in great detail the struggle between the two armies. A struggle that continues to this day, with the outcome still uncertain. Then Dr. Sukenik reports on a third book which he calls the Megillah of Hymns which bear a great resemblance to the hymns of praise in the Book of Psalms.

The authors and the time of the writing of these books are not known, since neither is indicated in the texts. But Professor Eliezer Lipa Sukenik believes, and his belief is based on good evidence, that the manuscripts were written during the days of the Second Temple. This would make them at least twenty-two hundred years old. They probably belonged to the library of the religious sect Assenes who lived in the wilderness around the Salt Sea, in the vicinity of the cave where the earthen urns containing the scrolls were discovered by the Beduins.

This assumption is based on a fragment of a book of rules and regulations that was found among the scrolls. These rules and regulations are similar to those by which the members of the Assene sect lived during the period about 200 B. C. They were a monk-like sect who practiced celibacy, ate no meat and drank no wine, and observed rituals of purification in the waters of the Jordan River.

John the Baptist was of this sect, and Jesus of Nazareth was purified in the waters of the Jordan by him. Like all monastic orders, the Assenes devoted their time to work in the field and the study of Scripture. These scrolls found now in the cave might well have belonged to them, and may have been hidden in the earthen vessels these last two thousand years.

They have found a precious treasure in Israel, and to judge by the excitement this discovery has created, one would never guess that at this writing the one-year old State is beset with so many problems and is in the throes of a post-war rehabilitation.

But when you understand this, you will also understand the nature of the State of Israel.

Cary Grant Gives $10,000 to UJA

A check for $10,000 was given recently to the Los Angeles Committee of the United Jewish Appeal by movie star Cary Grant, according to recent newspaper reports.

In addition to making the gift, Grant complained to the committee that he had been ignored by them until now, asserting that he is a Jew by both birth and conviction. He added that he wishes to be counted as a member of the Jewish community.

REJECT NON-KOSHER MEAT

TEL-AVIV—Seventy per cent of the butcher shops in Tel Aviv were supplied with non-kosher canned meat during recent weeks World Mizrahi headquarters reported this week. The Mizrahi News Bureau said that many butchers refused to accept the meat, asserting that their customers ate only Kosher meat.

Big City Blues:

The doorman-cab-opener at a Broadway night club, who greets thousands of strangers with a smile—from sundown to middle-of-the-yawning—but doesn't speak to his wife... The midtown drug store which refers to its prescription department as "Medicine Square Garden"... The dignified Shubert Alley panhandler who asks for alms—also your name and address to "send you a receipt"... The Times Square mendicant with a neat angle. With each handout he gives pressed four-leaf clovers... "The Professor," a sorry spectacle of what once was a man. He strolls the Big Street mumbling incoherently. They say he was a brilliant university mentor until he developed a theory—about a woman.

The 42nd street blind newsman, who does all the crossword puzzles in the papers. Dictates the solutions to a lame ass't... The street-cleaners whose jobs bring them into contact with rubbish all day long but manage to look neater than other city employees.

"Boop-Dee-Boop Benny." He's the guy you see parked in front of the Broadway music shops which keep recordings screaming day and night. He stares into space—rhythmically nodding in tempo to the blasting tunes... Benny never buys any but he can tell you who takes the "glockenspiel solo" on any platter, jazzical or serious, going back to Bix (Paul Whiteman's great musician) or Enrico Caruso.

Another Broadway type, "Lumpy," who collects typos (boners and mistakes) in the daily papers. Goes nutz over linkers such as "visitin gnurse" or "found the mout." Never savvies what he's reading; he's too busy looking for boners. When he discovers one he tears it out and stuffs it into his pocket until he bulges, hence the name "Lumpy."

Gimlet-eyed sleuths in midtown movie theatres. They sit in certain aisle seats and survey audiences. They can spot a pickpocket in the dark. Long-hairs who meet in Bryant park behind the public library and swap highly intellectual viewpoints—contrasted to the many illiterates who gather in Central park or Columbus Circle and discuss the atom bomb. The blind couples troubadouring along Broadway until after-theatre time. Mr. and Mrs. Programs who tug at your heart—even if it is true that some "own apartment houses," which is not likely. The usherette at a legit theatre (a Barbizon model in daytime), who makes more money than most of the cast in the show.

The deformed newsboy on the same Broadway corner for 12 years. He fell in love with an actress, who bought her papers there for a year. Then he handed her a note—proposing marriage. She told him she was honored by his offer but that she already had been asked for—and was happily married. He died recently and left her $5,000. With the request that she and her husband take a second honeymoon—for a fellow who never had any.

B'nai B'rith Gives $28,500 to Institute

NEW YORK—A gift of $28,500 to the Weizmann Institute of Science of Rehovoth, Israel has been announced by Frank Goldman, president of B'nai B'rith.

In making the announcement, Mr. Goldman declared: "I am happy that B'nai B'rith was able to contribute this sum of money to the Weizmann Institute. These funds came from our lodges and chapters in connection with our Aid-to-Israel program.

"We have made this contribution because we believe that scientific progress is basic to the economy of Israel. We feel that through applied science the Jews of Israel will not only be able to point the way toward lifting living standards in the Middle East, but that under Dr. Weizmann's leadership the Institute will help widen the horizons of scientific knowledge everywhere in the world."

Ten thousand dollars of the total was given by the Metropolitan Council of B'nai B'rith, headed by S. Arthur Glixon. This week's gift marks the third large contribution made to the Weizmann Institute in recent years by B'nai B'rith.

Bernhardt Announces Committee Chairmen

During the past week, President Bernhardt announced the list of committee chairmen, who will function during the coming year. Here are their names and the committees they will head.

Sidney Rabinowitz and Norman Feinberg, membership; Lester Siegal and Max Kotler, membership retention; Coleman Zimmerman and David Yanover, Program; George M. Goldsmith and Walter Rutman, Publicity; Arthur Kaplan and Charles Rothman, Budget; Charles Greenblatt, Overseas Aid; Ronald Sopkin and Louis Kramer, Youth; Merrill Hassenfeld Hillel and Joseph M. Finkle, Anti-Defamation.

These men will be glad to get suggestions from the membership on any project and if you care to work on any of these committees, make that fact known to the chairman or to President Bernhardt.

AZA Sends Israel Sports Equipment

An anti-tank unit of the Israeli Army has by now received the athletic equipment which Secretary Maurice Bisgyer requested for its troops after his visit to Israel.

The AZA Councils of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh accepted this assignment as their part of the Aid to Israel Campaign. Included in the equipment which the boys purchased and shipped were basketballs, volley-balls, checkers, chess, quilt, table tennis sets, footballs, and boxing gloves.

First B'nai B'rith Institute Proves Instructive Event

On the night of April 27th, the newly elected officers, committee chairmen and trustees of the thirteen Lodges and chapters of this area, went back to school. They did it literally and with the enthusiasm of youngsters they came to emulate. It was the night of the first annual B'nai B'rith Institute, the place where the new officers get the information they need to do their jobs better and with less work.

The scene was Hope High School, with Roger Williams Lodge acting as host. Representatives were present from the host lodge and chapter, Henry Friedman Lodge, Pawtucket; Judah Touro Lodge, Newport; Kent Lodge and Chapter, West Warwick; Woonsocket Lodge; Westery Chapter; Milford Lodge and Chapter; Touro Lodge and Chapter; Taunton and Attleboro Lodge.

After a general assembly, the group was divided into 10 smaller groups, each one to discuss the problems with which they will have to deal during the coming year.

To lead each discussion group there was a man or woman completely versed in his or her particular office. This faculty was composed of people from New York, Washington, Boston, and Providence. Included were E. H. Sonneureich, New York; Mrs. Bil-

Quincy Abrams Guest Speaker

The annual Installation of officers for both the Lodge and Women's Chapters, will be held on the evening of Thursday, May 12th, in the ballroom of the Narragansett Hotel starting at 8:15.

As has been the custom over the past few years, this meeting will be followed by dancing and general good fellowship.

Coleman Zimmerman, chairman for the evening, has arranged a program of unusual interest.

Featured speaker will be Quincy Abrams, the dynamic personality who is slated to be the next president of District 1 Grand Lodge.

Mrs. Philip Dorenbaum, president of the Women's Grand Lodge of District 1, will act as Installing Officer. Mrs. Archie Finkle will be soloist for the evening and she has arranged a light musical interlude.

Awards for outstanding achievement will be presented, to the Women by Mrs. J. J. Seifer and to the Men by Joseph M. Finkle.

Carl Tatz and his Orchestra will supply the music for the dancing which will conclude the program.

As we approach the end of another full season of B'nai B'rith work, it might be well to take time to reflect on what has been accomplished and look forward to the tasks still remaining.

During the past season our programs have attracted the largest attendance in many years past. The "Father and Sons Nite", the Al Capp meeting and the Hillel evening all filled the Plantations Auditorium to capacity. On April 27th your Lodge played host to the first Annual B'nai B'rith Institute, a gathering of men and women from the thirteen Lodges and Chapters that make up the Rhode Island and Southern Massachusetts zone. This too was well attended and went off smoothly. There is every reason to believe that this type of program will continue.

As I start my third term as your president, I feel that the work which lies ahead is of prime importance. Several new projects will be started in the Fall, all aimed at making B'nai B'rith an even greater force in community affairs.

To those of you whom I cannot see personally, I extend sincere good wishes for a pleasant summer, hoping that you will find relaxation in abundance.

Membership Drive Proves Successful

The one day membership drive which was held on Sunday, April 24th, resulted in securing close to 200 new members for the Lodge.

Starting at 9 a. m. with a breakfast at the Narragansett Hotel, several hundred lodge members started out with lists of prospects. Each man was asked to contact only five prospects, thus making the job easy and fast. Most of the reports were back at committee headquarters before the middle of the afternoon.

Burton Finburg was chairman of the event and his hard working committee planned the details with such ease, that not a hitch developed.

L. A. Lodge Honors Melvyn Douglasses

Actor Melvyn Douglas and Actress-Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas were honored as "Mr. and Mrs. American Citizen for 1948" at the 49th anniversary dinner-dance of Los Angeles Lodge Jack Benny acted as master of ceremonies for the evening and other stars of radio, screen, and stage participated.

Mr. Douglas was praised for his contributions of time and money to the United Jewish Appeal, Community Chest, B'nai B'rith, Hadassah, American Civil Liberties Union, the United Nations Associations and other organizations.

Mrs. Douglas was cited as one of the long-time stalwart supporters in Congress of recognition for Israel and lifting the arms embargo. She has been one of the national officers of the American Christian Palestine Committee.

gratulate him afterwards. Slappy can avoid that ordeal by throwing Leo out of the game. Baseball can avoid it by throwing out Chandler.

Post Deadline Note: Durocher's reinstatement marks a defeat for Chandler, the first since he assumed office. It need not have been that way. Had he proceeded judiciously, Leo would not have been suspended in the first place, the public never would have been aroused, and the knife aimed for Lippy's back never could have slipped and cut Happy, who is now not-so-Happy. Now, if the baseball owners would only decide they have had enough ...

MILTON B. LEVIN

At this writing, Leo Durocher had not yet appeared on the carpet in the plush office of the high potentate, Lord Commissioner of baseball, Slappy Chandler.

This is a special carpet, reserved for the silent one who used to be known as Lippy. It is in sharp contrast with everything else in the commissioner's modernistic office, for it is threadbare and deeply worn and has Leo's foot-prints engraved in it for all to see, and it is saved exclusively for Durocher.

Not knowing then, whether or not the Giants manager is to be kicked out of baseball forever, the ax I am about to grind is not based on the outcome, but about the aspects of the case up to that point; and I will cheerfully admit that I would like to bury that ax as deep in Chandler's back as Slappy is digging his poisoned knife into Leo's.

To get to the point, I am thoroughly disgusted at the manner in which Chandler slapped this suspension on Leo and the obvious relish with which he did it. I think it is high time the 16 baseball owners took steps to buy up his expensive contract and shopped around for someone else. And I think the U. S. Supreme Court should drop a few hints in Slappy's biased ear that this is the United States of America, not Germany, Russia or Spain.

On one point I am very much pleased. The Giant's players, to a man, and the New York writers, every last one, rose immediately to Leo's defense, and openly, too. This in itself is a direct slap at Chandler, who likes to have nothing made public except his own bigoted edicts. It amounts to open defiance on the part of the players and writers, all of whom are actually putting themselves in danger of recriminations from the Commissioner's office.

It will be recalled that Bill Corum has not appeared on the air on the World Series broadcasts ever since he had the temerity to criticize the Commissioner over the Durocher suspension of 1947. Forgetting that any man has the constitutional right to criticize without being punished and that he himself did quite a bit of it as a U. S. Senator, Chandler openly admitted (in a recent article in a leading sports magazine) that he would not approve Corum's name even if it were presented to him BECAUSE HE FELT CORUM'S CRITICISM OF HIM WAS UNJUSTIFIED!

This is the man who suspended Durocher simply on the basis of highly conflicting newspaper accounts of the incident at the Polo Grounds last week, based on the even more conflicting reports of witnesses. To suspend Leo summarily without first investigating the facts was an outrage—and that goes whether you like Leo or despise him for his former loud mouthedness; but the crowning indignity was the summons for Leo to appear for the hearing in Cincinnati, when all the witnesses and reports came from New York.

But Chandler is not interested in witnesses or decency or justice. He, the lord high executioner, has decided that Durocher is bad for baseball, so Leo must go. And here was a beautiful opportunity to kick him out. Democracy is fine, as long as it doesn't interfere with your desires in matters such as these.

They say Durocher's umpire baiting has hurt baseball. Well, Frank Frisch and Jimmie Dykes had reputations just as gaudy as Leo's in that respect, but no one ever accused them of ruining baseball. The Lip has been a brilliant manager and a successful one, which is even more important, and he has brought crowds—paying crowds—to watch him and his fire-eating players—and that is the proof decisive that he has not harmed the game at all. Lots of fans hate Durocher and would like to see him bounced, but purely for personal reasons. There are likewise thousands who hate Joe DiMaggio and Ted Williams, for whatever narrow-minded reasons they may possess, but that does not mean that the players are in the wrong.

Chandler has accomplished one thing, as far as I am concerned. He has made a Giants fan out of this writer, who hopes to see Durocher win a pennant and World Series and force the Commissioner to watch it and con-

Olympic Bowling

By SIDNEY GREEN

The men of the Olympic Bowling League held their annual banquet Monday at the Narragansett Hotel, and while they may not have improved their bowling, they certainly improved their memories. Dr. Bruno Furst, noted mentalist and memory teacher, gave a remarkable and entertaining exhibition of memory work that astounded all.

Trophies were presented to Merlyn Rodyn, high average, 113; Joe Schwartz, high three, 395; Jack Jacobson, high single, 157 and Al Zawatsky, most consistent, never over 90. Beautiful gabardine bowling shirts were given to all league members as individual favors, and the evening was concluded with the election of Joe Schwartz as president, Howie Cohen, secretary, and Lennie Chernack, treasurer.

SOS DRIVES ENDED

Greek Jews Get Heirless Property

ATHENS—The new Greek law placing heirless Jewish property at the disposal of the Jewish community should make it possible for Greek Jews to become almost completely independent of foreign voluntary aid within the next few years, Harold Goldfarb, Joint Distribution Committee country director for Greece, reported this week.

The Restitution Law, which was passed March 31, provides that all heirless Jewish property be placed into a foundation fund administered by nine representatives of the Greek Jewish community, the funds to be used for the care and rehabilitation of surviving Greek Jews. The value of the properties is estimated at $2,000,000 or more.
