60 Delegates Attend Youth Conference

Sixty delegates from all over New England attended the fifth annual Conference of the New England Association of Jewish Center Youth Councils held recently in Providence.

Beginning on the morning of May 21, the convention included a dance, panel discussion, banquet and business meeting with election of officers.

Albert M. Stein, New England regional director of the Council of Jewish Federation and Welfare Funds; Bernard Bell, youth activities chairman, and Bernard Marks, director of activities, spoke at the banquet. Alfred Glassman, veteran of Palmach Troops in Israel, keynoted the theme of the conference, "Training for Leadership in the Center".

Elected were Albert Bean, Quincy, president; Harvey Bruskin, Springfield, and Irma Stolin, New Haven, vice presidents; Mildred Nasick, Lynn, recording secretary, and Louis Jacobson, Manchester, treasurer.

Raymond G. Franks, president of the Center's board of directors, and Saul E. R. Feinberg, first vice president, addressed the group.

Golda Myerson In U.S. For U.J.A.

Golda Myerson, Israel's outstanding woman leader and member of the Cabinet as Secretary of Labor and Reconstruction, is arriving in the United States today to make an intensive two-week tour of major communities on behalf of the $250,000,000 United Jewish Appeal.

Because of the critical need for funds to receive and absorb the immigrants who are pouring into the country at the rate of 1,000 each day, the Israeli Government agreed to give Mrs. Myerson a leave from her Cabinet post so that she could fly to the U. S. Mrs. Myerson was until recently Israel's envoy to the Soviet Union.

The Women's Division of the General Jewish Committee of Providence is now ready to embark on plans for the fourth campaign. This week, Alvin A. Sopkin, campaign chairman, announced the reappointment of last year's chairman, Mrs. Albert Pilavin.

In 1948, the Women's Division of Providence gained country-wide recognition with its unique one-day campaign, "M-Day", as this event was known locally, was a brain-child of Mrs. Bertram L. Bernhardt, general solicitations chairman, along with Mrs. Arthur J. Levy and Mrs. Harold Sydney. Under the leadership of Mrs. Pilavin and through the efforts of more than 400 workers and 4,000 givers, this remarkably successful campaign brought great honor to our city. It is being widely copied throughout the United States, and known nationally as "The Providence Plan".

Mrs. Pilavin has been appointed to the National Board of the United Jewish Appeal, and has already attended several meetings in New York city in her new capacity. On May 15, she gave the "kick-off" speech to more than 1,200 workers in Baltimore as they started off on their one-day campaign in that city. This event was modeled on "The Providence Plan".

The 1949 campaign of the Women's Division, or the "Year of Exodus" campaign will be held in the fall. Officers and committee chairmen for this important drive will be announced shortly.

Miriam Served 2253 Patients in '48

An increase in the number of patients served and improvement in the physical facilities at the institution were two of the high points listed at the recent annual meeting of the Miriam Hospital.

Plans for the construction of the New Miriam Hospital and the general high morale of the personnel were also listed by Milton C. Sapinsley, president, and Mrs. Genevieve Nesby, administrator, in their annual reports to the Board.

Pointing out that in 1948 the Miriam Hospital operated at 61½ percent of its maximum occupancy, Mrs. Nesby reported that 2253 patients, representing an increase of 190 over 1947, received hospital care for a total of 14,677 hospital days. This was in addition to maternity cases, which numbered 286 for a total of 1788 days care.

Expressing her thanks for the assistance rendered by the Board of Trustees and the Women's Association, Mrs. Nesby stated: "We believe that the Miriam Hospital is today a better, safer hospital because of the active appreciation on the part of everyone connected with it—and above all, the Board of Trustees realizes that when dealing with human life, nothing must be spared by way of organization, equipment or expense to safeguard the patient. This is our duty and our challenge. We shall meet it—and meet it with a new Miriam Hospital."

Sapinsley, in his annual report, said that in 1948 the hospital "rendered totally free service valued at $19,000, representing close to 1500 patient days of entirely free service; and in addition we gave away almost $20,000 of service which was not covered by the fees charged to the patients."

"Plans for the (new) hospital have been approved and accepted by the Board," Sapinsley said. "Work has been ordered, rushed, and application made to the government for additional funds, so that we can build a plant that will represent $1,300,000 with a minimum of demands on our already fully taxed community."

"Ours is a battle against constantly rising costs, a battle to maintain high standards, a battle to make very, very sick people well quickly, to keep their families content and to keep our doctors satisfied with inadequate facilities until such time as we can provide the facilities their skills deserve. A battle to keep modern, to keep from being content, and also a battle to have the people of Providence understand that in the not too distant future they will have a modern new hospital serving the entire community—regardless of religious affiliations—under Jewish auspices, direction and support, as the Jewish contribution to the entire community of Providence, for the benefit of all the people in this area, to the end that we show we are a vital part of this community and want to do our part."

A community house for the North End is being planned by Congregation Sons of Jacob. This house, to be built on Radcliffe Avenue, will provide the youth of that section of the city with educational and recreational facilities not now provided by the synagogues.

Plans for the building include a Hebrew School, Sunday School gymnasium, club rooms, library and auditorium, with all organizations affiliated with the congregation working on the project. Rabbi Carol Klein will be spiritual leader of the community house.

Names of committee members and donors will be announced soon.

See Son Wed At Ellis Island

Two Israel-bound refugees from Shanghai, Mr. and Mrs. Jean Methner, witnessed the marriage of their son Harry, a resident of Rochester, N. Y., in a dramatic and unprecedented ceremony at Ellis Island while the parents awaited a ship to take them on the last leg of their journey.

The voyagers, only briefly re-united with their son, who arrived in the United States two years ago under the auspices of United Service for New Americans, stood under an improvised "chupah" as he was married to Ruth Heuman, a newcomer he met here.

Richards Splits With Miller's; Keeps Lead

On the strength of a sound comeback in the second game, Richards Clothing maintained its percentage point lead in the Jewish Softball League last week, at the same time establishing itself as one of the powers of the league.

Richards achieved its comeback in dramatic fashion at Sessions Field, downing its chief rival for the top spot, Miller's Delicatessen, 4-2 after absorbing its first defeat of the season in the opener, 15-4. By virtue of its first game triumph Miller's moved into the league lead by a full game, but the loss of the finale forced the Hope Streeters to accept a virtual tie for the second week in a row.

Miller's got away to a 4-2 lead in the first inning of the opener, but Richards tied the score 4-4 in the second. In the fourth Miller's moved ahead to stay, piled up a 9-4 lead at the end of six and shoved over six more in the seventh as Richards seemed to fall apart. Myer Jarcho, who relieved Harold Hersch in the second, went the rest of the way for the win, aided by Gittleman's brilliant catch up against the left field fence. Gittleman was injured in making the play and was removed to a hospital.

There was no evidence of Richards' falling apart in the nightcap, as Jack Fradin outpitched Hersch in a brilliant duel. The winners broke a 2-2 tie with a pair in the sixth, then held off Miller's seventh inning bid, when they loaded the bases with none out, yet failed to score.

At Collyer Field, Philip Dwares Company's Orioles finally broke into the victory column by taking a pair from the Fall River Kavodians, 6-2 and 9-0. Davey Resnick pitched both games for the winners, allowing a total of 12 hits. Jerry Winograd hit a home run in each game, while Primack and Frank also had circuit clouts for the Orioles. Resnick did not issue a pass all day and was never in serious trouble.

Windsor Rhodes served notice that it does not intend to serve as a doormat by clubbing Jack's Old Timers 8-3 in the curtain raiser. It was the third straight triumph for the winners, the third straight loss for the losers. The Old Timers led 3-2 at the end of the first, but with N. Schwartz pitching shutout ball the rest of the way. Windsor Rhodes moved steadily ahead. Lou Seltzer homered for the Old Timers. Both strings were broken in the second game as the Old Timers pounded away to a 15-7 win. Paul Paris collected four hits, including two home runs, to pace the winners.

The Olympics of Cadillac Textile moved up over the .500 mark by tripping hapless Pinkerson's twice, 12-5 and 6-3. Howie Cohen and Harold Teitelman clouted homers in the first game, in which the Olympics scored in every inning. Teitelman suffered a fracture (Continued on Page 15)

Public Accountability

The success and existence of many local Jewish organizations is due in large measure to the financial aid they receive from public funds. Whether by an allocation from the General Jewish Committee, or by a direct appeal for funds, or by the sponsorship of certain fund-raising projects, these organizations are dependent upon the generosity of the Jewish public to support their work and underwrite their projects.

In recent years, as the public has become more accustomed to giving and the contributions have been increased, many of these organizations have been inclined to accept this largesse as a matter of course. There is a growing tendency to regard this financial support in a matter-of-fact way, as if the public owes such support to the organizations which it assists.

Actually, it is, or should be, the other way around. The officers of all these groups know how difficult it would be for them to keep going on their present scales if the annual solicitations and contributions were ceased. Regardless of how worthy their programs, there would be a sharp curtailment of organizational activity if the people stopped giving.

It is now time that the public be informed as to where its money is going, how it is being spent, what the actual needs are, and where money can be saved, if at all. Monetary contributions have just about reached their peak and with less money available, stringent care must be taken to see that every dollar is disbursed wisely; else, funds will be wasted that are desperately or urgently needed elsewhere.

There is only one way in which this control can be exercised, and that is by a strict and complete financial report to the public by every group that derives all or part of its income from public solicitation, contribution or allocation. Annual financial reports are not a courtesy, but an obligation. Those receiving these funds should be able quickly and willingly to show the merit of their expenditures. Those that are unable or unwilling to account publicly to their benefactors should be cut adrift from public support unless and until a reasonable explanation is given.

This is not intended as a slap, direct or indirect, at any particular organization. Rather, it is an attempt to insure that we will always know where our money goes and what is being done with it. As the actual source of existence of these organizations, the people are entitled to the facts and to reserve judgment on the value of their contributions.

Greens For Sh'vuos

By BERNARD SEGAL

On these days of Sh'vuos I remember the days when I was a young lad in the little town of my birth, on the far away Ukraine. Bright Summer days, lush grass, knee-deep, on the banks of the river, and a barefooted boy going to the woods to gather Greens for Sh'vuos.

The soft earth was good underfoot, and the toes made little cups in the pathway along the quiet river. More boys, barefooted and excited like myself, come running down the hill toward the river bank, their faces flushed and perspiration streaming down their cheeks. We walk in single file along the winding path, and our hearts grow light as we see the roof-tops of the townlet receding behind the line of acacia trees and gnarled willows.

We cross the bridge and hurry by the grist mill. Thank God, the dog was not around, and we are at a safe distance now. And here looms the forest, dark, and fearful, yet beckoning. Stories of thieves and robbers, of wolves and foxes, and of strange creatures dwelling in the darkness of the forest, all flash through the mind, as we stand on the threshold of the forest.

But we drown the fears by bravely the hill at a gallop and rushing into the woods shouting and calling to one another:

"Look at the big tree I picked!" "Watch me climb up this giant tree!"

"Oh, what a branch I am holding on to!"

And we gathered big leafy branches, and we smelled the fragrance of freshly broken limbs of trees, and the cool leaves were good against our skin of face and forehead, and the dark depths of the forest were fearful but beckoning. Deeper and further we wandered, listening to the voices of the woods, being startled by the rustling of little creatures underfoot, and enchanted by the dark mystery of tree and foliage.

Song of Creation

Toward evening we returned home bringing back the Greens for Sh'vuos. Past the grist mill we marched and along the pathway along the river bank, with warm earth soft and soothing against our bare feet. Singing we walked in single file, as the roof-tops of our homes appeared again through the line of willows and old acacia trees. Singing the song of creation, the hymn called "Akdomus" which we learned weeks before the festivals of Sh'vuos.

"If all the skies were parchments,
And all the trees were pens,
And the rivers were filled
With ink,
And everyone a scribe,
Even then, all the glory of creation,
And the greatness of Him who created all,

Could never, never be written."

And at home the branches were tied against the door posts and around the window sills. They were placed on the book cases and behind the mirror and by the clock on the wall. And the girls of the house glued the green leaves against the glass of the windows, and they made them into a pattern of a Mogen David, and into designs out of their own fancy, so that the festival of the green foliage and of the fragrant flowers might pervade everywhere

Sons of Abraham Graduation Exercises

Miss Marilyn Medrech was awarded a prize as the outstanding student of Congregation Sons of Abraham graduating class at exercises held Sunday. Graduates were:

Miss Medrech, Melvin Landesberg, Harold Bender, Arthur Gilbert, Sandra Rosenthal, Carl Dubinsky, Morton Hollander and Norman Bolski.

Rabbi Abraham Chill spoke on "Looking Ahead" and greetings were extended by Samuel Mossberg, president of the congregation, and Mrs. Joseph Gold, president of the Sisterhood.

Morris Kirshenbaum, vice chairman of the board of education, presented diplomas to the graduates.

A reception was held in the vestry following the exercises.

At the Synagogue on the days of Sh'vuos the light of day was darkened by the abundance of green bowers. Young trees were fastened on either side of the Holy Ark, on both sides of the cantor's stand, on the four corners of the reader's table, all around the pillars and arches of the house, and along every aisle. People walked in a forest, with a carpet of swamp rag and long grass from the river bank underfoot, and the smell of the outdoors filling the House of God.

And from under a canopy of greens, in harmony with the soft rustling of leaves, came the voice of the reader as he pronounced one by one, in ancient intonations, the words of the Ten Commandments just as they were read by Moses to the children of Israel, long, long ago, from the Mountain in the desert of Sinai.

Days of Sh'vuos bring back memories of a childhood many years ago, in a little town that is no more, of a life that has vanished forever.

THE PROVIDENCE JEWISH HERALD, FRIDAY, JUNE 3, 1949

ZOA Elects Daniel

Frisch as President

NEW YORK—In accepting the presidency of the Zionist Organization of America, at the annual convention held here, Daniel Frisch gave expression to his gratitude, his profound devotion to the movement and his awareness of the grave problems facing Israel and the cooperating body of world Zionism.

He placed special emphasis on the United Jewish Appeal which he said "must command the priority of all American Jews, no matter what their special interests in Israel may be. A failure, God forbid, of the Appeal to achieve its total goal, would have nearly the same effects as if Bevinism would have succeeded."

"Heroic, willing and self-sacrificing as the Yishuv is, it will not be in a position to continue the open-door policy, unless we provide the means. Thereafter, we must look to the setting up of projects through private investments and otherwise which are specifically our own."

To Establish ZOA House

Mr. Frisch announced that he will leave for Israel in the middle of June together with a small group of leading Zionists to work out with the Government of Israel some plans for additional participation in the upbuilding of the liberated country. He added that he hoped to secure legal authorization for a number of projects to be carried out by the Zionist Organization of America "without detracting of course from the United Jewish Appeal".

Among these projects will be a ZOA House, to serve both as headquarters of activities stemming from the movement in America, and as a hospice and guide for American Jews coming to Israel as visitors or as permanent residents.

He regretted that "the Jewish community in Israel has had a distorted picture of American Zionists in general and the ZOA in particular because we have never spoken for ourselves nor have our substantial deeds in Israel spoken for us."

SYD COHEN:

WANTED:
A Golf Tournament

With Memorial Day behind us, the outdoor season is officially and definitely underway. From now on all good and true golfers will be taking every opportunity to get out on the links and try to bring down that score, as well as that waistline. Many, of course, go out for the sheer enjoyment of the game, because they are deeply devoted to it, and because it is their chief outdoor activity, and their favorite game.

Once again, the column is going in for golf, with the hope that this time it will stick—going in for the sport for the third time, after two previous rebuffs. And this time, if only there is a sign of public interest and co-operation, we should be able to set up what might easily become an annual event—a Jewish Golf Tournament.

This tournament idea has been one of my pet projects since the column has been alive, and it is the only one of those mentioned in print that has not yet been established.

The plan I have in mind is to set up a men's open and a women's open tourney, both to be held late this summer at one of our neighboring country clubs or public golf courses.

There seem to be enough women taking to the fairways these days to make the distaff part of the tournament a definite attraction—and it might even persuade other girls who don't go in for sports at all to try their hand at it and see about getting in on some of the fun.

Contestants and Ideas

The number of men should surely be enough. There is excellent authority for the statement that the male Jewish population at the various golf courses on any given Sunday or weekday afternoon is considerable, to say the least. There are some pretty good golfers in our midst, some not so good. Maybe all contestants should be classified and two separate male tourneys held—one for those who have acquired some degree of proficiency, the other for the group that is new or not too accomplished at the game. Or the one tournament could be held, with handicaps leveling off the relative stars to common size.

The suggestions and possibilities are many, but the important consideration is to get the thing organized and publicized and arranged. The column intends to return to this theme over and over again until the project is an established fact, for it is realized that one column will not make the tourney, even as it required much plugging to get softball and football started.

Still, it would be nice to get a pack of phone calls or cards from those fellows and girls who are interested and who would like to have a hand in the affair, whether from a participating, or administrative point of view, or both. Establishment of the tourney will require some work, such as making rules, setting requirements, deciding on place and date, and other arrangements. This work will have to be done by a committee, and this committee naturally should be composed of those who are interested in seeing such an event become a part of our annual sports life and who would be interested in helping in its creation.

Calls and cards from those who merely want to sign up for the tourney will be welcome, however.

Olympics, Take a Bow

Up to now, only one group that I know of, the Olympic Club, has done anything at all about golf. This club sponsors an annual golf tournament, which is naturally limited to its own membership. Of course, this does not include the established golf clubs, which have their tourneys on their own fairways. But no independent organization, without country club facilities, has such an event, to my knowledge, except the Olympics.

More organizations should do it—but all, whether organizations or individuals, should be interested in the all-inclusive, open tournament that is here proposed.

Call GA 1-4312

Herewith, I announce that I will try to get things rolling, in the limited time at my disposal; and I issue a sincere and cordial invitation to all those who would like to see the project become an actuality to pitch in and help. How about getting in touch with me?

Reardon Testimonial

On Wednesday evening, June 15, a testimonial dinner will be given at the Narragansett Hotel in honor of Terry Reardon, fiery coach of the champion Providence Reds, who now makes his home in this city. Tickets for this event will be six dollars, which will cover the cost of dinner and a gift for Terry.

The testimonial will be open to the public. More information is available upon request.

with ARLENE SUMMER

In New York

Joy Deutch will be home soon after spending several fun-packed weeks in New York. Joy's been staying with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Beckwit.

Barn Dance

Remember how cold it was last Sunday night? Ledgemont Club members and their out-of-town guests who attended the Club's Barn Dance didn't seem to mind the cold at all, as the band gave out with folk songs that set everyone to doing the old favorite, the square dance. More than once I heard, "I haven't had so much exercise or so much fun in years! There should be more of these!"

By the way, the Barn Dance marked the beginning of the new Ledgemont's social season. A formal dance is being planned to be held in the Clubhouse, which is now in the process of being built.

Visit Providence

The confirmation of the Simon Gordons' son, Larry, at Temple Emanuel brought several New Jerseyites to town—Mrs. Samuel Blender, Mrs. Paula Goldstein and son, Stevie. Elliot Salter was home last weekend on his semi-annual visit. Ambitious is the word for Elliot—he's in Washington, working during the day and studying to be a lawyer at night at George Washington University Graduate School... Ralph and Selma Sopkin, who're now living in New York, spent the holiday weekend in Providence.

Big Month

The Ed Charon family of Cranston have a double amount of excitement. Son Zachary is being Bar Mitzvah tomorrow at Temple Beth El, with a reception and dinner Sunday at the Narragansett, and Mr. and Mrs. Charon will celebrate their 15th wedding anniversary June 24.

Big Weekend

Exchanging congratulations are Sonny Baker, Dexter Cohen and George Bressler—their birthdays are today, tomorrow and Sunday, respectively.

Big Day

The Murray Bakers welcomed a second child, a baby girl, on May 29. No name has been chosen at present writing. Mrs. Baker is the former Bernice Flink, sister Kappa Sigma, honorary science and chemistry societies, respectively. Graduation for him doesn't mean the end of studying, for Bud will spend the summer in Switzerland at the University of Zurich.

Must have been the home run

It was funny the first day, but when George Connis kept right on hiccupping for four days, wife hit a home run."

Lillian began to worry. George finally stopped after being in the hospital for a few days. All in all, George had a solid week of the hiccups! Says he, "It all started when I was eating peanuts, drinking beer, listening to the ball game and Ted Williams hit a home run."

Cranston to Present Emanuel Musical

One of the largest crowds ever to attend an amateur production in this vicinity is expected at the demand repeat performance of the Temple Emanuel Men's Club musical, "So Let 'Em Foreclose," in the Cranston High School auditorium Thursday night, June 9. The proceeds of the night's performance will benefit the building fund of the Cranston Jewish Center.

Never before has a production, entirely cast with local talent, directed and musically produced by local people, caused such widespread favorable comment. There was not a dissenting voice to the Jewish Herald's praise for the fast-moving performance.

As in the original presentation, Al Goldberg and Bernice Gerstein will be heard and seen in the romantic roles. Sy Levy and Norman Salhanick will provide the comedy which highlighted the two performances of "So Let 'Em Foreclose" at Nathan Bishop Jr. High School last month. The entire cast and chorus will be on hand next Thursday night at Cranston High to round out another excellent production.

Staged and directed by Matthew Millman, and under the musical direction of Bob Kaplan, "So Let 'Em Foreclose" has the following cast and chorus:
