Howell Street Faction Denounces Confiscation of Religious Articles

Charges and counter-charges shook Ahavath Sholom Synagogue's split factions this week as a new problem arose in regard to the synagogue building at the corner of Howell and Scott Streets.

Just about a month after a court decree seemingly had settled the long dispute to the satisfaction of both sides, ill feeling flared again, as the group operating the Howell Street building charged that the Rochambeau Avenue congregation entered their synagogue and illegally removed several holy articles and other possessions.

Leaders of the latter body countered with the claim that they were entitled to the objects removed and that the so-called "dissidents" had so far failed to live up to the terms of the court order establishing them as a separate congregation.

Specifically, the Howell Street body accuses Ahavath Sholom

Congregation of illegally seizing from the old building a number of Torahs, yahrzeit plates, prayer books and bookcases and other accessories. Irwin Priest, a spokesman for the Howell Street group, pointed out that these articles were in the old building at the time of the Jan. 26 court order assigning the building to the new congregation, that they therefore are the property of that group, and that no claim was entered for them at that time.

Leaders of the Rochambeau Avenue congregation contradicted this claim, asserting that the items removed from the Howell Street building are their property and that title to the building has not yet passed over to the other faction. They added that a cabinet donated years ago by the late M. S. Alper was removed from the old building at the request of the Alper family.

Further, they argued that the

Boxer Who Shot Hate Taunter Murdered on Eve of His Trial

NEW YORK CITY (AJP) — A 23-year-old ex-boxer, Alfred (Allie) Gordon of Brooklyn, died amid a hail of bullets this week on the eve of his trial for the fatal shooting of a longshoreman in a borough bar last August 5th. Gordon charged that constant anti-Semitic taunts by the dock worker caused him to lose his temper and kill one of the two men.

Gordon was hit by five slugs fired from an auto in the Coney Island section of Brooklyn as he mounted the steps of his father-in-law's home. He died enroute to the hospital. Police labeled the killing Gordon the victim of a "revenge slaying," but later launched a probe into the possibility that Gordon had connections with a narcotics gang.

The young boxer shot Joseph Autori last summer in a Brooklyn saloon. Motive for the shooting was the insult—"Hello, you Jew Bastard" — which Autori and another dock worker flung at Gordon the night he dropped into the bar with his wife. Gordon told police at the time that Autori and another dock worker, Dominick Scialo, had taunted him about being a Jew over a period of time and ignored his warning to "lay off."

Detectives probing Gordon's murder on the day before he was to appear in court to face a second-degree murder charge also said they would investigate reports that at the time Autori was buried some of his friends swore to avenge his death.

To Offer Two Types of Bonds

WASHINGTON—The Ambassador of Israel to the United States, Abba Eban, announced today that the Knesset (Parliament) of Israel has adopted by overwhelming vote a law authorizing the Government to float a $500,000,000 Bond issue in America, subject to the rules and regulations of the United States Government.

The approved Bill vests in the Minister of Finance, Eliezer Kaplan, full authority to implement the Bond issue and to appoint an American organization to manage and direct the sale of State of Israel Bonds in the United States.

The Bill provides for two types of bonds:

- (a) Coupon Bonds, 3½% interest payable semi-annually, and
- (b) Capital Appreciation or Savings Bonds, which will appreciate in value by 50% at the date of maturity.

Coupon Bonds will mature in 15 years, and Capital Appreciation Bonds will mature in 12 years. Payments of interest and principal will be made by designated American Banks in American currency.

A spokesman of the Israel Embassy in Washington reported that all State of Israel Bonds would be sold at face value. The $500,000,000 State of Israel Bond Issue, he said, would be known as the "Independence Issue" in commemoration of the Third Anniversary of Israel on May 11, 1951.

Under the law passed by the Knesset, both Coupon Bonds and Savings Bonds would be available in various denominations for all income brackets.

The Israel Bond Bill includes a specific provision authorizing the Minister of Finance to redeem Bonds on the death of the original owner.

The Bill pledges "the full faith and credit of the State of Israel" for the payment of interest and principal of the loan.

The spokesman explained that the Israel Bond Bill provides for the Government to retire the Bonds at the rate of 2% annually in the 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th years; and at the rate of 3% annually in the 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th years.

Another provision enables purchasers of Israel Bonds to convert Bonds, at any time, into Israel currency at the prevailing official rate of exchange.

The Embassy spokesman announced that the State of Israel will shortly file a Registration Statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission

English-Jewish Newspapers To Operate Own News Service

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—America's leading English-Jewish newspapers, members of the American Association of English-Jewish Newspapers, (of which the Jewish Herald is a member) concluded a three-day-long national convention here by unanimously voting to launch the American Jewish Press, a new national English-Jewish news-gathering and feature service, to fill the needs of weekly Jewish newspapers published throughout the nation in the English language.

The ninth annual national convention of the American Association of English-Jewish Newspapers meeting at the Statler Hotel here also voted in favor of introducing a series of cartoons and comics dealing with Jewish life and history.

Publishers gathered to chart new expansive steps in the ever-widening English-Jewish newspaper field re-elected for the eighth term Philip Slomovitz, editor and publisher of the Detroit Jewish News, to the presidency of the Association. Slomovitz was also named president of the American Jewish Press, the Association's new news-gathering service.

The convention voted in a unanimous resolution pledging wholehearted support of the member newspapers to United Jewish Appeal and to the projected Israeli bond drive.

DPs Win Stay Against Deportation

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—Tired of waiting for alien quotas to permit them to enter the land of freedom, eight displaced persons, seven of them who spent tortured years in Nazi concentration camps, walked this city's streets as temporarily free men after admitting that they flew into this country illegally from Cuba.

Their temporary freedom came after Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman awarded them the first round of their right for legal residence in the United States. The judge erased the stigma of criminal charges against all eight by suspending their sentences.

MAKING THE ROUNDS:

Songwriter Harry Edelheit, dining at a midtown kosher eatery the other P.M., convulsed a crowd of Broadwayfarers with his yarn about the two Hebrews who had made up their minds to be converted to another faith.

They made an appointment with the minister for 4:30 P.M. He didn't show-up. The clock ticked away: 4:45 P.M., 5:00 P.M., 5:15 P.M., and still no minister.

Finally, Mendel impatiently turned to Jake and remarked, "Let's not hang around so long—or we'll miss 'Mincha'!"

NOOH—VOT DEN?:

Mollie Picon is considered an expert on the subject of the equivalent Yiddish for every word in the English language—but one—"disappointed"—stumps the sweetheart of the Yiddish theater.

The other day, therefore, she decided to phone her "Buba," who speaks nothing but Yiddish, to learn at long last the Yiddish equivalent of "disappointed." She would "trick" her "Buba" into revealing the sought-after word.

Picking up the phone last Thursday Mollie inquired of her grandmother—"Buba, what would you say if tomorrow night after you made chopped chicken liver with schmaltz, chicken soup with lukshen and mondin, gefilte fish, chicken and appel strudel, I told you I couldn't come?"

"Malkala, mine tira khind," her "Buba" replied, "ich vult gavain zayer, zayer—disappointed!"

Sees Black Market In Bar Mitzvahs

NEW YORK (AJP)—Black markets in Bar Mitzvahs might be possible if too many years of preparation are required for American Jewish youth approaching the confirmation age of 13, a leading liberal rabbi said this week.

The trend toward increasing the number of years of required training before Bar Mitzvah was stepped up two weeks ago when the Minnesota Rabbinical Association ruled in favor of a two-year training period for boys. The unanimously adopted resolution provided for the attendance at congregational Sabbath services of all Bar Mitzvah candidates over a two year period before qualifying them for confirmation.

Dr. Eisenstein, while favoring heightened standards, noted that setting standards too high—the requirement of Jewish youngsters to attend daily Hebrew School classes over a long period before confirmation, for instance—could result in the overnight growth of new "synagogues" which might offer Bar Mitzvah training in far less time and with less stringent standards—for a price, of course. Parents concerned over their offspring's strenuous dual studies—attending school on the one hand and a sturdy Hebraic course on the other—might be easily amenable to shelling out bucks to make the Bar Mitzvah "easier" for Junior.

Meanwhile, the director of the American Association for Jewish Education advocated a minimum of three years training for potential Bar Mitzvah students followed by increases until eventually a minimum of five years training is established for all Jewish boys approaching 13.

The director, Judah Pilch, called the present general requirements throughout the United States of from one to one-and-a-half years of pre Bar Mitzvah training "a chronic disease."

Industrial Leaders Tell of Plans To Defeat Discrimination

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—"If American industry would concern itself only with greater efficiency, racial and religious discrimination would disappear overnight," explained a representative of management at a Waldorf Astoria luncheon of the Business and Professional Associates of the American Jewish Congress this week.

Russell Greenman, the representative of management and personnel director of the General Cable Corporation, joined with a prominent labor official, Dr. Mark Starr, national education director of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, in presenting their ideas in combatting and eliminating prejudice and discrimination in American industry.

Elaborating on his theme that job discrimination leads to inefficiency, Greenman further declared that this discrimination was "expensive, wasteful, and stupid." This sweeping observation, Greenman said, was based on his many years of experience with personnel in the hiring and firing end of industry. The personnel director cited many instances from his own experience where employers have wasted executive ability by forcing it to scrub floors and have ignored valuable advice simply because the advisor happened to be a Jew or a Negro, etc.

Greenman placed little hope in the effectiveness of legislation to stop discrimination by citing 'Prohibition' as an example of the impossibility of "changing people's feeling." Less pessimistic about legislative effectiveness was Dr. Starr who nevertheless agreed that education was the only way of stopping irrational prejudice at its source.

Students Protest Gift From Racist Moseley

Demorest, Ga.—Piedmont College president James E. Walter was embroiled this week in a hot controversy with students and faculty members over receipt of $500 donation from a "white Christians only" group and the firing of an English instructor who objected to the appearance of a pro-Fascist at a student dinner.

Students and faculty members climaxed two days of protest meetings with demands that Walter, 43-year-old Congregationalist minister, return the money received through Maj. Gen. George (Man-on-a-Horse) Van Horn Moseley and reinstate H. E. Bowen 32-year-old former Navy lieutenant.

Moseley, retired Army officer from Atlanta and one-time chairman of the old "America First Committee," heads the Texas Education Assn., which granted the money to the school. The association is supported by the Texas oil and cattle millionaire, George W. Armstrong.

Moseley, who said the $1,500 was granted with "no strings attached," returned to public view last month when he sought a pardon for Emory Burke, convicted leader of the anti-Negro Columbians, Inc. He described Burke as a fine example of a patriotic American and said his three-year prison sentence was brought about by "New York Jewish Communists."

Bowen said Walter fired him after he objected to Moseley's introduction to the students "without indication of his reputation."

Comets To Launch Little League Ball

A meeting designed to launch a community-wide Little League baseball organization will be held on Tuesday evening March 20 under the auspices of the Comets Club, it was announced this week. The place of the meeting will be announced in the next issue of the Herald.

The Comets voted to take the lead in getting Little League under way in Providence in co-operation with Syd Cohen, Herald sports columnist. The project, which will be open to all boys between the ages of 8-12, is entirely non-sectarian and, it is hoped, will eventually cover the entire city.

The meeting on March 20 will include motion pictures of Little League teams in action, explanation of the Little League set-up, and organizational suggestions by a Little League official in another community. Organization of the Providence leagues will follow.

Civic and veterans groups and leading sports figures are being contacted and the program will be spread through every possible public source. Parents and all adults interested in Little League, either as administrators, coaches, umpires, sponsors, committee workers or even on-lookers, are invited to attend the meeting and learn about the plan first hand.

Little League has its own rules and regulations handed down from national headquarters in Williamsport, Pa. It is an active operation all over the country, and has its own sectional and national championship tournaments. Rhode Island's first representative, Westerly, sent its boys to the national tourney last year, and Life Magazine caught many of them in its feature spread of the event.

The March 20 meeting will be for adults only. Those desiring to register for the program may write or call Syd Cohen at the Herald, or at 57 Higgins Avenue, PL 1-1869.

Student Too Young; Immigration Delayed

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—Twelve-year-old Isaac Heyman, of Rio de Janeiro, was stranded on Ellis Island recently as immigration authorities pondered over a puzzling situation.

Isaac arrived on the liner Argentina to attend Mesifita Talmudic Seminary in Brooklyn. But immigration authorities checking his entry papers, then regulations governing admittance into the United States, discovered that he was too young to be admitted as a student.

So Isaac was sent to Ellis Island while authorities attempted to straighten out the difficulties.

TO INCREASE QUOTA

Israel will increase its immigration quota to 22,000 monthly for the next few months in order to make possible the transfer of 54,000 Jews from Iraq before the Iraqi emigration deadline at the end of May.

Providence Host To New England Young Judaea Leaders' Institute

Young Judaea leaders will gather from all parts of New England to attend the Week-end Institute sponsored by the New England Young Judaea Leaders' Council Saturday evening and all day Sunday March 10 and 11 in this city. Plans for a week-end of festivity and discussion have been arranged by a committee headed by Sumner Gorodtzer of Boston, New England Council chairman, and Beatrice Sock of Providence, Institute chairman. The Saturday evening program will be dedicated to the Hebrew arts, songs and dances of Israel, with a "Sing" conducted by Cantor Jacob Hohenemser at Temple Emanuel, followed by a dancing session and informal get-together at the home of Ruth Smith, 281 Olney Street.

Sunday's sessions are scheduled at the Providence Jewish Community Center beginning with breakfast at 10 A.M. served by the Providence Chapter of Haddassah. Discussions on the role of Young Judaea in relation to the State of Israel and America will follow. Rachel Fraenkel of Israel, shlicha from the Tsofim of Israel to Young Judaea, will speak on the "Place of Halutzit and Israel in the Young Judaea Club." Millicent Rubenstein of New York, National Young Judaea program assistant, will conduct a discussion on "Leadership Problems." A workshop and instruction in arts and crafts will be led by Sam M. Midman of Boston, crafts specialist and teacher. A catered dinner will conclude the day's events.

Synagogue Battle Flares Anew

court decree applied only to the building, not the contents, and that the terms of the decree have not been complied with.

In a statement to the Herald, the Rochambeau Avenue congregation said in part:

"The Decree of the Superior Court pertained only to the sale of the old synagogue building at Howell Street and 100 cemetery lots at Lincoln Park Cemetery, and nothing else.

"However, because the congregation members and their trustees and officers believe that the minority group should not be left empty-handed so far as Torahs and religious books are concerned, the President, Samuel Orenstein, attempted to discuss the gift of some Torahs, prayer books and other religious books to the minority group with one of the latter's leaders, Irwin Priest. Because of Mr. Priest's attitude, no progress could be made. The representatives and legal counsel of the congregation are still willing to discuss such a gift with representatives of the minority group.

"On Sunday, Feb. 25, Mr. Orenstein and several others of the congregation went to the Howell Street synagogue building, which is still the property of the congregation. This delegation removed some of the personal property owned by the congregation to a place of safe-keeping."

The statement quoted the court decree as providing "among other things, that the minority group should form and organize a new religious corporation without delay, this new religious corporation to take title to the old synagogue building . . . within 60 days of the decree, upon payment of $10,000."

"A month has passed," the statement said, "yet no effort has been made by the dissenters to form the new religious corporation—which was to be formed without delay."

Speaking for the Howell Street group, Priest maintained that the decree did not concern the building alone, and that it was understood to include contents as well. He added that the 60-day period authorized by the court has not expired, and that his organization is therefore entirely on legal ground in challenging the Rochambeau Avenue congregation's legal right to confiscating the property.

built by the Women's Division of the American Jewish Congress. Ceremonies marking the dedication were broadcasted from Israel via shortwave beamed to the United States and Europe.

Israel Crisis

The cabinet crisis in Israel has provoked some unthinking comment on the instability of the government of the world's newest democracy.

Have we forgotten that the Ben-Gurion government, made up of more political parties than function, for example, in France, has outlasted several French governments?

It is a fact that—unique among the pre-independence governments—Israel's government has been in office more than three years, and antedates the Israeli Republic's own formal declaration of sovereignty.

To Secure Freedom

The only criticism that can legitimately be made of President Truman's action in creating the Commission on Internal Security and Individual Rights is that it should have been established many months ago, and possibly spared the nation the blight of McCarthyism. Tardy though it may be, the Commission's appointment has been welcomed with satisfaction and hope by all who take democracy seriously and literally. Only those Congressional circles which regard sections of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights as somewhat expendable today have expressed displeasure and concern over the President's action.

The Commission's terms of reference are very broad. They range from a study of the measures necessary to guard the country against sabotage and treason to "the need for protecting individuals from unwarranted attacks and from unwarranted infringement of their rights and liberties in the name of security." Undoubtedly, the Commission will be under considerable pressure, both directly and from the prevailing climate of Congressional opinion, to concentrate on the problem of security and loyalty and to pay scant attention to the protection of individual rights. But we hope that the Commission will so organize its work as to enable it to proceed on both fronts simultaneously.

Commends Editorial

Editor:

I should like to commend you on your excellent editorial in connection with the Janowsky lecture. I think it is high time the Jewish community is made aware of its failure to recognize the critical situation which confronts us all and is shaken from its lethargy.

By way of explanation of the poor showing at this lecture, let me suggest that some of the following factors might be considered. First, the subject—Russia—is enough to frighten most people into hiding. Then again, Prof. Janowsky is comparatively unknown in this community. Had he been a well-known red-baiter such as Louis Budenz, a good turnout would have been assured, since most people these days wish to be associated with the Anti-Russian regardless of the type of person the speaker might be. It is high time that an intelligent, objective approach to this very controversial issue be welcomed eagerly so that we might do something constructive toward ending the inane cold war.

Another factor which should be considered is pointed out ably in your reference to the Hirschfelds, and zany television comedians who draw by the thousands. You could have added fashion shows, place settings and other meaningless activities which attract such large audiences. You might have pointed out how the arrival in town of a discredited ex-minister of religion of Israel was heralded with such fanfare and publicity that a tremendous turnout was assured. This, despite the fact that the speaker stands for a good deal that the American Jewish Community opposes.

In trying to understand these reactions, I can only attribute them to the narrow, chauvinistic, and provincial attitude which has developed beyond all reason in our community. It is worth considering what this is doing to some of our more intelligent youth.

Over and over again we hear among our young men that they cannot any longer stomach the greedy, materialistic attitudes of their Jewish sisters and find greater companionship in a society with a higher sense of values. Our young girls, for their part, find that many Jewish boys have lost sight completely of our old tradition of intelligence, education, and culture.

I say this at the risk of being called anti-semitic. However, these are honest feelings on my part and critical discussion of this matter is in order among Jewish people everywhere.

Very truly yours,
"A Concerned Jew"

BY BERNARD SEGAL

Elisha On Mount Carmel

One never knows where a story on life in the State of Israel may appear. Here is a magazine called Hospital Topics and Buyers Guide, a trade journal for hospital personnel, published in Chicago. I doubt whether more than a hundred people in this city receive this publication. While turning the pages of the February issue, I came upon a familiar photograph of the Bay of Haifa, in Israel. The legend under the picture reads:

"The view from the white building of Haifa's new Elisha Hospital is breath-taking."

It is. And the modernistic structure on the hill overlooking the bay, all windows and balconies, is eye-catching. So I stopped turning the pages and read the article. Some of the paragraphs I read twice, keeping in mind all the time the shortages of basic materials, and the critical economic condition in Israel today. I also kept in mind all the time, while reading, the primitive sanitary and health services of the neighboring states.

Here are a few pertinent passages from that article:

"Among the private hospitals of Israel, there is unquestionably none more beautiful or more modern than the Elisha, which stands on the slopes of Mount Carmel and overlooks the crescent of Haifa Bay."

The Elisha is a private hospital, but not in the sense of a private enterprise owned by a company that operates for profit only. Rather it is a co-operative venture on the part of a group of specialists, or as the article puts it, "an effort by nearly all Haifa specialists," headed by the president of the Haifa Medical Association. The Elisha hospital was opened a year ago.

Speaking of the facilities and equipment of the hospital, the article states:

"No modern facility is absent from the Elisha. Air-conditioned and magnificently ventilated by broad windows set above the corridors and exits, it is entirely free of any medical odor."

"Ceilings have been sound-proofed and abundant space allotted to large halls and terraces. The hospital rooms themselves have balconies and are unusually spacious."

Here is an innovation of which we have been reading as being introduced in some of our modern lying-in hospitals. The Elisha has it.

Workmen's Circle

Anniversary Concert

Leon Arkin, general advertising manager of the Jewish Daily Forward, will be guest speaker of the 50th anniversary celebration Concert of the Workmen's Circle, it was reported at a recent meeting of the District Committee.

The anniversary concert will take place on April 8 at Plantations Auditorium. Dvora Rosenblum, Nachum Melnick and Lola Kadison, recent arrivals from Europe who are now touring the United States, will present an evening of Jewish humor and music.

Tickets may be purchased from

"For mothers who want to have their babies with them, rooms in the first-class section provide a small annex for the infant's cradle on wheels."

The article goes on to explain the need for private hospitals in a country where the government maintains a highly developed health service. We learn that the unprecedented stream of new settlers has created a hospital shortage in the land. All the facilities of the Hadassah hospitals, and the Kupath Cholim hospitals, and clinics of the trade union organization Histadruth, are needed for the care and nursing of the new immigrants. A hospital like the Elisha alleviates the shortage. Besides, we learn from this article that Israel has only three hospital beds for every thousand inhabitants, while the average number of beds in progressive countries is five per every thousand inhabitants.

Now about the name of the hospital. The article does not mention this, but I like to believe that the hospital is named after the Prophet Elisha who frequented the site of the hospital in the days of the Kings. Mount Carmel is far famed for its vineyards and olive groves and fruit orchards. The red wine of Carmel was welcome to the table in the times of the Talmud as it is today. But Mount Carmel is also known for its many caves and crevices. The prophet Elijah and his disciple, Elisha used these caves and the mountainsides for many of their stormy exploits.

The Book of Kings, furthermore, tells of Elisha the healer. One of his feats could easily qualify him as a specialist on the staff of any hospital. We read in the Book of Second Kings how a mother came to call for him, because her only child was sick, and she said to Elisha, who might have been reluctant to go with her:

"As the Lord liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee."

Next time your doctor tries to get out of a mid-night call, try this phrase on him. It worked with Elisha the prophet-healer, because it says further that he aroused and followed her. And when he came to the house he was told that the child was dead. Then he went up to the child, and he shut the door, and we read on:

"And he prayed upon the Lord. And he went up, and lay upon the child, and he put his mouth upon the mouth of the dead child, and his eyes upon the dead child's eyes, and his hands upon his hands, and he stretched himself upon him, and the flesh of the child waxed warm. Then he returned, and walked in the house once to and fro, and went up, and stretched himself upon him, and the child sneezed seven times, and the child opened his eyes."

Now, I don't know what your family physician will say to this method of reviving, but he surely would like to know how Elisha did it. Because the story continues that when Elisha called in the mother, she fell to his feet, and bowed down to the ground, and she took up her son, and went out.

No mention of doctor's bills. My guess is, knowing the prophet Elisha from his other exploits, that he disappeared while the mother bowed down to the ground and was miles away when she looked up again.

But then he is having his reward now. They named a hospital after him.

Elisha has returned to Mount Carmel. He will bring healing to the sick once more.

SYD COHEN:

A Silver Lining Among the Clouds

The name is Fitelson—Stuart Fitelson—and the chances are that you will be hearing about him long after the current basketball scandals have been forgotten. For Stu Fitelson is a basketball player, and a fine one—and with the promise held out by his present ability, he should definitely make his presence felt in the next few years.

To say that Fitelson is a basketball player is not being strictly accurate. Stuart also plays baseball and football—and is a former track star. A relative newcomer to these parts, he has hit the local schoolboy scene with a bang—or a swish—as he piles up consistently high scores on the court, and wins all-state honors at football.

The mere fact that Fitelson has begun to attract attention despite his being a student at Providence Country Day School is more or less a tribute to his ability. Country Day is not noted for its stand-out athletic teams; yet—and you may call it coincidence if you like—the school is having a period of sports prosperity that began at about the time young Stuart Fitelson enrolled there less than a year ago.

For instance, in football Country Day won three games and tied one out of six last fall, a highly commendable record. Fitelson was a major factor. Playing end, he scored four touchdowns and was elected to the All-State All-Prep team.

In basketball, Country Day has won four out of five within its own league, and stands an excellent chance of going to Boston to compete in the New England Prep School tournament this month. Should this come to pass, it will mark the first such trip for the school, which always has de-emphasized sports.

And here is what Stuart Fitelson has contributed to this fine record. He has scored 123 points in seven games, for an average of 17.4 points per game. He scored 20 in a game against St. George's, only one day after racking up 36 against St. Andrew's. He has the top average among the preppers, and should be a cinch for all-state honors.

The baseball team undoubtedly will profit from his presence, for Stuie is a heavy hitting outfielder who has his eye cocked in the direction of a professional career. He is fast in the field and on the bases and is capable of an occasional relief job on the mound.

Oh, yes! Although he is not a candidate for the track team, Fitelson—while in the ninth grade at Henry Barnard school—equalled the shot put record set by the fellow who holds the present schoolboy mark. And he was no slow poke in the low hurdles. He has since given up track in favor of baseball.

After matriculating at Country Day, he hopes to attend either Brown University or R. I. State College.

Off his physical measurements alone, Fitelson might attract the eye of any scout. Only 18 years old, he already tips the scales at 170 pounds on a frame that is just one half inch shy of six feet. Excellence in sports seems to run in the family. His father was a good ball player, one uncle was an All-American basketballer who played with and against Nat Holman; another uncle was a stand-out athlete at Dickinson College.

In addition to his exploits in school, Stuie has been holding his own with the J.C.C. varsity basketball team. Playing forward, he is one of the two leading scorers on the club, and has posted, in seven games, marks of 11, 16, 18, 20, 15, 13 and 17 points. That adds up to 110 points and a per game average of better than 14.

Fitelson put in two years as a basketball and baseball star at Admiral Farragut Naval Academy of New Jersey. Last year he played left field for a team in Bridgeport, Conn. that won the J.C.C. softball league championship. In Providence he drew the attention of Brown baseball coach Eddie Eayrs while participating in a playground league, and Eddie thought enough of the youngster's looks to take him aside for some extra instruction.

It is a toss-up at the moment as to whether Stuie plays baseball or basketball next summer. He may get a job in one of New York State's fabulous Catskill resorts, in which event he will play basketball on the so-called borscht circuit. He has contacts with two Melrose League baseball clubs if he remains in town; while a semi-pro outfit at Narragansett has invited him to play with them.

What can you say after a history of that sort except that such popularity must be deserved.

Those sports fans who have seen Fitelson in action say that he has the goods and should make a name for himself as a hoop artist. His football prowess already speaks for itself.

As for baseball—well, a kid

Emanuel Speaker

EMIL COHEN

Temple Emanuel's Men's Club and Sisterhood will hold a joint meeting in the Temple vestry Wednesday, March 14 at 8:15 P. M. with the program highlight being furnished by Emil Cohen, Jewish humorist.

Cohen, who has captivated local audiences on previous appearances, is billed as the Jewish humorist "with a different approach." He is noted for his choice of stories and his unique presentation.

Following Mr. Cohen, Cantor Jacob Hohenemser will sing and refreshments will be served.

doesn't get invitations of the sort mentioned above, and he doesn't talk calmly and matter-of-factly about attending major league try-out camps unless he knows he has something on the ball.

The sum and substance of the story is that here is a lad who bears watching. Barring a probable military interlude, he figures to be in the limelight for some time to come.

Remember—the name is Fitelson—Stuart Fitelson. We'll be hearing about him.

The New Frontier series is sponsored by the Rhode Island Commission for Fair Employment Practices in association with the Anti-Defamation League of B'Nai B'rith.

The first week's program will be "The Case of Alice Pardee," with Edward R. Murrow as narrator. It is the dramatic story of one worker's fight against job discrimination and how the Fair Employment Practices Law helped her in her fight. Island. Featured on March 18 are George E. Conley, chairman of the Rhode Island Fair Employment Practices Commission and donor of the Conley Library of Human Relations, and Joseph M. Finkle, Regional Vice-Chairman of the Anti-Defamation League.

Among the areas covered in the programs will be discrimination in employment, housing, public accommodations, resorts and clubs. Good human relations in a neighborhood, with emphasis on what the average American can do about them, is the objective of the series, which will be broadcasted as a public service by WPRO.

Before Time Runs Out!

What the United Jewish Appeal Must Do in 1951

A Statement By

Edward M. M. Warburg, General Chairman, United Jewish Appeal

FOR THE PEOPLE of America—for people everywhere—the year 1951 is not just another year. It is a time for getting jobs done that are vital to advancing the free way of life. The emergency that confronts us, confronts free men everywhere.

Today—as the world situation calls for a speed-up in the timetable of rescue, as hundreds of thousands plead for freedom and a brighter future for their children—the United Jewish Appeal urges your support for its campaign now, to meet human needs totaling $203,684,000.

What must be done

Before time runs out—before opportunities for rescue vanish—the United Jewish Appeal must:

Save 200,000 Jews from danger zones in Eastern Europe and Arab lands by bringing them to Israel.

Help Israel transform herself from a beachhead to a stronghold of democracy, by:

building 120 new agricultural settlements, expanding 235 already established settlements, constructing housing for 40,000 in rural areas, providing for 50,000 newcomers in reception centers, caring for 15,000 children and more than 5,000 aged and handicapped new arrivals.

Supply 400,000 distressed Jews in Europe and Arab countries (90,000 of them children) with food, medical help and rehabilitation aid.

Resettle in this country and in other western democracies a total of 25,000 displaced Jews from Europe before emigration doors are closed.

To delay a single part of this program is to increase the danger to human lives.

At this moment, more than 70,000 Jews are waiting to leave Iraq. They have had to give up their homes and their citizenship. Thousands of them sleep in city streets as they wait for rescue planes to fly them to a land where they are wanted and welcome—Israel.

In another Near East land, other thousands who fled persecution wait for help in a Jewish cemetery, where they have received temporary haven. At night they rest their heads on the tombstones of their fathers—and pray for the planes that must be sent.

In Eastern Europe, 90,000 wait—50,000 in Rumania alone.

Tens of thousands more wait in Tunisia, Tripolitania and elsewhere.

They wait—in the knowledge that the exit doors may slam shut at any time.

UJA alone can bring them to freedom

The people of Israel are determined to share their freedom with all who plead to come. They have opened their gates and are keeping them open at enormous sacrifice, by lowering their standard of living to the minimum. They offer hope and haven to hundreds of thousands—but the rest depends on us.

Only we—through the United Jewish Appeal—can help the homeless reach new homes.

Only our aid and our generosity—expressed through the United Jewish Appeal—can start them on the pathway to a new life.

Only our help—given through the United Jewish Appeal—can sustain those who wait for deliverance.

Past achievements point the way

Today, we stand at the half-way point in a tremendous human enterprise. Since the end of World War II, the United Jewish Appeal has fed and cared for more than 1,000,000 distressed human beings. It has brought more than 500,000 immigrants to freedom in Israel, and helped another 100,000 reach the United States. It has helped to build a new life in a new country, reclaiming land, founding settlements, building homes.

But for every human being we have brought to freedom, another waits in bondage. For every one we have freed from want, another still goes hungry. For every one we have helped to strike new roots, another is still homeless.

This is the challenge we face in 1951. We can meet it—today, now—through the United Jewish Appeal. Today—now—you are urged to help the United Jewish Appeal meet crucial needs which total $203,684,000. To save lives—to strengthen the free people of Israel—to aid democracy everywhere—give more than you have ever given before.
