ning Committee; an unidentified city official; Mrs. Leo Borenstein, honorary president, Parents Association; Dudley J. Block, Center treasurer; William McCabe, City Solicitor. Feinberg, J.C.C. president, forwarded the papers from Grand Canyon, Colorado, where he signed and had them notarized.

World Zionist Congress

Silver Bloc Suffers Setback; Goldmann Opposes Status Move

JERUSALEM (AJP)—The score for the American Zionists midway in the 23rd World Zionist Congress totaled up this week to a sharp setback for the American General Zionists in particular and virtually no gain for the American Zionists as a bloc.

The General Zionists led by Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver and Dr. Emanuel Neumann were routed in their intensive fight, which has split the World Confederation of General Zionists wide open on the seating of Israel General Zionist delegates to the Congress.

The Congress Supreme Court voted against seating the delegates, whose party had boycotted the Congress after charging "irregularities" in the voting.

The effect of the setback was marked, with some Zionist Organization of America members threatening to walk out on the Congress and return home to the United States.

On the key issue of a formal status for the World Zionist Movement in relation to Israel, American Zionists seemed to be faring little better. At the opening of the Congress last week, Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion had discussed the granting of such status but had hedged the proposal with limitations which some American Zionists considered as making the proposals meaningless.

Considerable but inclusive debate about whether American Zionists were obligated to settle in Israel had bogged Congress sessions with participation by Goldmann, Mrs. Rose Halprin, president of Hadassah, Eliahu Dobkin, director of the Organization Department of the Jewish Agency, and Zvi Lurie of the pro-Soviet Mapam.

Dobkin accused the American Zionists of alleged failure because so few had come to settle in Israel. Mrs. Halprin replied that American Jews do not consider themselves as living in exile. Lurie retorted that German Jews had harbored similar feelings.

With the Congress at the halfway mark, no decisive action has been taken as yet on a number of major issues.

Qualifying Round in Herald Golf Tourney Monday at Ledgemont

By SYD COHEN

The qualifying round of the 1951 Jewish Herald Golf Tournament will get under way on Monday, August 27, with an entry list of between 40-50 expected to test the course at Ledgemont Country Club during the week.

Qualifying rounds may be fired on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday at the Ledgemont course located in Seekonk, Mass. Scores will be turned in to the caddy master, who will post them on the board. There is only one condition—all contestants must go around the course with other entrants; twosomes, threesomes and foursomes are recommended.

Since the planning committee wishes to permit players to arrange their own schedules, participants may select their own course-mates. While most men know which of their friends is entered in the tourney, a partial list of contestants is printed at the end of this story, to facilitate the pairing-up process for those who don't know which night to select, or whom to call to make up a foursome, etc.

The qualifying round will take the form of a kicker's tournament, with prizes to be awarded those golfers whose scores match the numbers selected in advance by the committee, which will meet tonight to complete arrangements. Detailed instructions will be listed on the board at the caddyhouse.

While next week's qualifying round will be an unrestricted affair, the actual match play which will follow the Labor Day holiday will be divided into three divisions, assignments being made according to the abilities of the respective competitors. Each division will

Women, Y A D To Begin Sept. 11

Joseph W. Ress, general chairman of the 1951 fund-raising drive of the General Jewish Committee of Providence, Inc., announced this week that the Men's Division Initial Gifts meeting will be staged Sunday, October 28.

Previously it had been announced that the affair—a key event in the annual campaign in behalf of the United Jewish Appeal—would take place in September.

Ress, however, disclosed that the Executive Committee of the GJC's Board of Directors—meet-

Ballyhoos Report Zionists Carry Bond Drive Load

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—The Zionist Organization of America is circularizing a report throughout the world that Zionists are carrying the burden of the Israel bond drive in the United States and that efforts of non-Zionists so far have been "disappointingly small."

The latest thrust against Israel leaders, particularly Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion, was made in the "Zionist Information Service," which is issued from the ZOA headquarters here and represents ZOA positions informally.

The report was a reprint of an article by Arieh Gelblum, correspondent in the United States of Haaretz, an independent Israel daily, which is sympathetic to the General Zionist cause.

Y A D Initial Gifts Banquet Sept. 11

Leon Mann, chairman of the Initial Gifts Committee of the Young Adults Division G.J.C., announced after a Monday night meeting that plans were progressing for the banquet to be held at The Sheraton-Biltmore Tuesday evening, September 11, at 6:30 P.M., to launch the annual Y.A.D. Drive.

Captains and workers are already in action. Plans include a speaker of national prominence and entertainment surpassing prior years.

Full details will be announced in the near future, as soon as final contracts have been signed.

MacIver Labels Attacks On Study 'Unethical'; Lambasts 'Selfish' Aims

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—Prof. Robert M. MacIver, author of the controversial MacIver Report on the effectiveness of Jewish civic agency undertakings, believes that the attacks being made on the report by the agencies is "unethical."

The Columbia University sociologist made the charge in an interview with Joseph Brainin, English-Jewish columnist, which appeared in the current issue of "Opinion."

Brainin asked Prof. MacIver what he thought about the agency leaders "who attacked your Report in the press before it was made available to the public."

"I consider this unethical, especially the statement by Judge Meier Steinbrink, national chairman of the Anti-Defamation League that the report is unobjective," Prof. MacIver said.

He also told Brainin that the agencies were "selfishly seeking their own separate advancement, frequently at the expense of the cause they are presumably serving," and that the agencies "exaggerate their achievements for propagandistic reasons, in order to obtain larger funds from local Jewish communities. The ADL is especially liable to this charge."

ing at the home of Alvin A. Sopkin, GJC president, this week—had voted unanimously in favor of the later date.

The decision, Ress said, was predicated upon a number of factors. "Because of the critical importance to Israel of the drive this year, it is imperative that every phase of the campaign be completely organized. The later date gives us valuable added time to perfect our organizational activities," he stressed.

Ress also noted that an anticipated improvement in the economic climate by the end of October would undoubtedly be reflected in the total pledged at the Initial Gifts Affair.

Another reason for selecting the late October date was to await completion of the Community Fund drive which runs throughout the first portion of that month, Ress pointed out.

Sopkin emphasized that the Women's Division and Young Adult Division would go ahead with their Initial Affairs functions on Sept. 11, as originally scheduled. He noted that both groups had completed speaking, publicity and program arrangements for their meetings. Neither event would conflict with activities in the Men's Division which, he pointed out, is organized along different lines because of the diversity of its trade, industrial, professional and area groups.

Henry Hassenfeld, chairman of the Initial Gifts committee reported "a most encouraging enthusiasm" among the Board members present at the meeting at Sopkin's home.

"Campaign leaders were unanimous in recognizing the need for raising the maximum amount of money for the relief and rehabilitation of Israel's swollen refugee population. Re-scheduling of our Initial Gifts affair for a later date permits us to plan for a campaign of unprecedented activity throughout November. By mid-December, I am confident that the response of our Men's Division contributors will do justice to Providence's reputation for solidly supporting the new Jewish homeland."

Local Couple Criticize Dorothy Thompson's Jewish-Arab Views

An exchange of letters with the controversial journalistic figure, Dorothy Thompson, in regard to her opinions on Arab-Jewish relations, was bared this week by Mr. and Mrs. Jean Jacques of 88 West Clifford Street.

The Jacques' wrote to Miss Thompson after reading her recent letter to the New York Times, in which she was highly critical of American treatment of the Arabs as opposed to the Jews. In return, the columnist clung to her viewpoint, protesting that she wishes Israel well.

"We read your long letter," Mr. and Mrs. Jacques wrote, "and wondered what happened to you."

"We used to enjoy your articles . . . as well as your broadcasts . . . it used to be an intellectual treat . . . We also remember that Hitler ordered you out of Germany because you couldn't stand his persecution of the Jews."

Referring then to Miss Thompson's apparent change of attitude, which they considered critical of the Jews and favorable to the Arabs, the couple reminded the columnist of the comparison in the recent progress being made among both peoples.

The Arab people are ruled by selfish tyrants, Mr. and Mrs. Jacques charged, who use them as slaves, and have contributed nothing to the countries' welfare—"no roads, no trains, no phones, no gas, no electricity, etc."

Pointing then to the ageless persecution and suffering of the Jews, and the remarkable progress being made by the infant nation Israel ("A shining star for all its inhabitants"), the Providence couple concluded:

"So, please undergo another, and favorable change of heart for the victims—the Jews . . ."

The letter apparently had little, if any, effect on the writer. "Nothing has happened to me," Miss Thompson wrote in return. "I approach questions with the same mentality I have always had . . . I wish the State of Israel well."

She added:
"I do not agree with your analysis of the Arab world, nor do I see . . . any connection between the question of Jewish-Arab relations, and Hitler's victims."
"My letter was primarily a plea for more objectivity in the news. I am distressed at the campaigns of character assassination, boycott, and intimidation that are launched against everyone who tries to subject Zionist claims and some actions in Israel to any sort of critical analysis."

Says Israel's Health Conditions Are Poor

LONDON — The health situation in Israel is not too good, with about 17 percent of the total population suffering from tuberculosis, it was declared here by Dr. Emanuel Miller, psychiatrist and writer, upon his return from a visit to Israel.

Discussing the quality of the medical aid in the Jewish state, Dr. Miller paid tribute to Israel's female welfare workers, declaring that they were unsurpassed in service to the needy and sick.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Kupat Holim, the Histadrut medical insurance plan, declared here that Israel's hospitals were overcrowded due to the rapidly expanding population. Despite an expenditure of $1,400,000 allocated toward expanding the current facilities, the overcrowding still exists, he said.

Anti-Zion Rabbi Europe-Bound

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—Rabbi Elmer Berger, executive director of the American Council for Judaism, is in Europe where he "probably" will hold informal meetings with some continental Jewish leaders, it was learned this week.

The anti-Zionist spokesman, the American Jewish Press learned, sailed from New York City for Europe several weeks ago. Council spokesmen described the trip as "purely a vacation cruise" but admitted that Rabbi Berger "probably would confer with some Jewish leaders over there during his trip."

To Seek Bids on Renovating New Center on Sessions Street

The long months of planning, hoping, praying, working — and worrying — came to a happy ending last Friday at City Hall, when Mayor Walter H. Reynolds signed the papers that formally transferred to the Jewish Community Center title to the old fire station building and adjacent property on Sessions Street.

The signing climaxed an intensive campaign on the part of Center officials and friends to obtain the East Side area in return for which the complete Center properties on Benefit Street were turned over to the City of Providence.

An interesting sidelight of the signing ceremonies came about through the absence of Center president Saul E. R. Feinberg, who is on vacation in the West. The papers were forwarded to Feinberg, who was then in Grand Canyon, Colorado. He signed, then traveled 12 miles to have the papers notarized before returning them to Providence.

With the ownership of the new location a certainty at last, J.C.C. officials immediately set to work on plans for the renovation of the buildings. Morris Kritzman, executive director, said before leaving for a long-delayed vacation that committees have been meeting steadily and blueprints will be completed this week. The building committee, headed by Leo Logan, will receive bids next week, he said, and the work will begin as soon as contractors have been selected.

Renovations will be made to the main building — the former fire station — the garage and the field-house.

Has Cantor's Post

SAMUEL BERDITCH has been appointed Cantor at the Beth-El Synagogue in New London, it was announced this week by Rabbi Benjamin Kreitman, spiritual leader of the congregation. The congregation last May dedicated its new Synagogue. Mr. Berditch sang with the Temple Emanuel choir for 18 years before he began his studies as Cantor.

Frank Swartz Earns Insurance Award

Appointment of Frank F. Swartz as honorary president of its exclusive White Mountain Club was announced last week by the United Life and Accident Insurance Co. of Concord, N. H.

William D. Haller, vice-president and agency manager, said Swartz earned the award "by virtue of having paid for more personal business than any general agent in the company."

Membership in the White Mountain Club is limited to agents and general agents who write a certain amount of business during the year. Qualification entitles members to attend the annual convention in the White Mountains with all expenses paid.

Swartz, who is also representative of the general agents and agents of the entire company for a term extending through 1953, will receive his award at a convention being held all this week at the Sagamore Hotel, Lake George, N. Y. He is accompanied by Mrs. Swartz and their daughter, Lorine.

Also attending the convention are their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Young, and their daughter, Rhonda Francine. Young, an agent with the Providence office of United Life and Accident Insurance Co., qualified double for the expenses-paid week at Lake George for the second time in his one-and-a-half years with the firm.

DiSalle Gets Reducing Tip

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—Short, plump Mike Di Salle, America's price stabilizer, got a tip last week on how to cut down on his eating and start on a painless diet aimed at lessening the wasteline.

Di Salle came here as a guest speaker for a UJA dinner. One of the other speakers, columnist Leonard Lyons reported, told of his trip to Israel and described in detail the austerity program Israelis were undergoing in order to make available food for newcomers.

When he had finished, the speaker turned to Di Salle. "Mike," he said, "I lost five whole pounds in one week when I was in Israel." Then looking at the tubby Di Salle, he added jestingly, "you should go to Israel, too."

Di Salle, under strong attack from the lobbies for his attempts to roll-back prices, laughingly replied, "why that's not nearly as bad as some of the other places I've been told to go to!"

dozen golf balls. Others desiring to contribute prizes of any kind may contact Harry Platt, Murray Trinkle or the writer. All gifts will be acknowledged in the Herald.

Registration for the Jewish Herald Golf Tournament has been kept open, since it was found that several would-be entrants have been away on vacation. Golfers wishing to compete will be permitted to register with the caddy-master at Ledgemont before firing their qualifying rounds next week. The match play pairings will be made from the list of those who posted qualifying scores.

Here is a list of men who had registered for the tournament as of the beginning of this week: Mathew Golden, Frank Goldstein, Nat Gordon, Larry Gertsacov, Mal Paynor, Ben Abrams, Jerry Miller, Leon Golden, Gerald Sutton, Harold Corris, Sherman Price, Gene Silverman, Bob Shoor, John Lisker, Bill Gollis, Shelly Sumner, Joe Stanzler, Jack Bilow, Morris Belilove, Saul Lerman, Jerry Shaulson, Dick Chase, Harry Chase, Sam Chase, Lou Chase, and Milt Weisman.

Thirty residents of the Jewish Home for the Aged were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Goldberg at the latter's summer home at Touisset Point.

ham Bauman, Louis Temkin, Ben Goodman, Barney Goldberg, and Irving L. Solomon, president of the Ladies Association.

'Duke', Gershwin Set Musical Cues For Israeli Maestros

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—The moaning blues of such American composers as George Gershwin and Duke Ellington are becoming part of the musical stock of Israeli composers, a famous cantorial singer reports.

Moishe Oysher, who recently returned from a trip to the Jewish State, said that Israeli composers and instrumentalists are taking their cues from American popular song-writers and American-styled dance rhythms are packing Israel's ballrooms and nightclubs.

There aren't too many American-made records in Israel because of foreign exchange shortages but Israeli pop music lovers keep up-to-date through the Voice of Israel, the Government radio station which features two hours of records a day.

Oysher said that top composers in Israel earn about $1,000 a month in royalties.

Vital Gifts Luncheon Conference Held

A conference luncheon-meeting for the committee working on the Vital Gifts section of the Women's Division, General Jewish Committee, was held August 21 at Ledge-mont Country Club.

Mrs. Burton Finberg, chairman of Vital Gifts, welcomed the workers and expressed appreciation for their efforts. Mrs. Archie Fain, general chairman of the Women's Division, expressed confidence that the committee will succeed in making the public aware of the great need for continued support of the GJC campaign. Mrs. Albert Pilavin, national vice-chairman of the Women's Division, pointed to the need that Israel still has of us—"that she is absorbing incoming refugees at an incredible rate, and depends to a great extent on our generosity to fulfill her destiny." Mrs. Pilavin also stressed the fact that the GJC supports, in great measure, most of our local charities.

The one-act play "Queen For A Day", written and directed by Mrs. Myles Alper, was again presented.

Pickets Brave Rain To Hit Deportations

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—Led by screen star Iona Massey, scores of pickets trooped about in the rain for two hours in front of the Soviet Consulate, shouting at intervals: "Stop the Deportations!"

The pickets, members and backers of the American-Hungarian Federation, charged the Soviet Union with deporting 120,000 Hungarians to Siberia and elsewhere. Latest reports placed at 5,000 the number of Jews deported by Communist Hungary.

Dr. Kalman Molnar, president of the eastern district of the federation, said the pickets were protesting against "the inhuman treatment by Russia of the Hungarian people whom they profess to represent."

Camptown Groups Go To Newport

Highlight of last week's program at Camptown, the Jewish Community Center's in-town day camp at Joseph Williams Park, was a visit to Newport for the older groups. A fleet of cars, arranged with the help of J. I. Cohen, chairman of the Center's Camptown Committee, took the "Eagles" and the "Horrible Haunters" on the trip. The campers were taken on a tour of historic Touro Synagogue. Rabbi Theodore Lewis, spiritual leader of the Synagogue, told the children about the traditions of the synagogue in America and the Jewish heritage with which they were endowed.

Campers attending were: Merrill Blum, Martin Mendelson, Michael Margolies, Myron Cohen, Marshall Bazarsky, Sheldon Goldstein, Howard Zisserson, Carl Sussman, Lonnie Torman, Myron Raisner, Fred Raisner, Leon Klapper, Milton Bolski, Paul Fishbein, Joel Cohen, Bruce Powsner, Brenton Bazarsky, Edward Weisman, Larry Kurtz, Sheila Hollander, Beryl Wolf, Marsh Krasnoff, Margaret Potemkin and Barbara Kommisser.

Scientist Gives "Miracle Drug" Royalties to Fund

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AJP) —An Hungarian-Jewish refugee who rose to medical heights as co-discoverer of streptomycin this week announced the establishment of a foundation to give financial assistance toward the study of microbiology in all parts of the globe.

The one-time immigrant, Dr. Selman A. Waksman, director of the Institute of Microbiology at Rutgers University, transferred to the new foundation a full half of his remaining royalty rights in streptomycin and other wonder drugs. The five per cent Dr. Waksman gave the foundation is expected to yield an estimated annual revenue of $40,000.

The new non-profit foundation established by the Jewish scientist will provide fellowships in the field of microbiology as well as make available funds for publication of technical papers and books, sponsoring of scientific gatherings and conventions and backing for the development of important discoveries in the medical field.

an extent that they put on their own circus performance yesterday. The campers had attended the Shrine Circus through the courtesy of the City Hall Hardware Company.

Truman Nominates Economist To Key U. N. Korean Relief Agency

WASHINGTON (AJP)—A leading Jewish economist and a one-time president of the Intercollegiate Menorah Society, Dr. Isador Lubin, was nominated this week by President Truman for the key post as U. S. representative on the United Nations Korean Reconstruction Agency.

DR. LUBIN Presently a U. S. representative on the U. N.'s Economic and Social Council, Doctor Lubin earlier this week clashed with Soviet delegate G. P. Arkadiev during a session of the United Nations' body in Geneva. The Russian delegate, in an hour-long speech, lambasted the U. S. for "capitalistic exploitation" both at home and in the Near East. Doctor Lubin answered that "great domestic stress" in the Soviet Union was really responsible for the Red charges against America.

The Jewish economist's nomination to the agency charged with overcoming the havoc of war-torn Korea and rebuilding the damaged land came as no surprise here. A former U. S. Commissioner of Labor, he served as U. S. Representative in the Economic and Employment Commission since 1946. Representative in the Economic and Employment Commission since 1946. A native of Worcester, Mass., Doctor Lubin served as deputy director of the Labor Division of the Office of Price Management during the war. He also held the post of special statistical assistant to the late President Roosevelt.

Hora Being Side-Stepped For Debka By Israelis, Expert Reports

DENVER (AJP)—The Hora, of all things, is becoming taboo in Israel, of all places!

That's the assertion of the high priest of folk dancing, Finador Vytautas Beliajus, publisher of Viltis dancing magazine, who was admitted here last week as a patient of the Jewish Consumptives' Relief Society Sanatorium and Hospital.

Beliajus, in close touch with Israeli dancing circles, reports that a veritable crusade against the hora has been conducted in the Holy Land by Gert Kaufman's committee to create a distinctive Israeli dance. The Hora, Gert claims, isn't Israeli at all, but is the national folk dance of the Greek, Bulgars and Roumanians, and therefore "reminders of the diaspora and its suffering."

To replace the hora, Gert's committee is pushing the "Debka," an Arabian-style circle-group in which the dancers hold hands instead of shoulders, use distinctive knee twists and stamps of the feet, and exert more variety and vigor than the continuous one-step of the hora.

The Israeli modern dance leaders, according to the JCRS patient, who has penned a series of books on "Dance and Be Merry," are also popularizing Yemenite and ancient Biblical dances.

Beliajus, a non-Jewish Lithuanian from Chicago, is well-known in Jewish Community Center circles throughout America for his exhibitions of Jewish and other national folk dances before illness overtook him a year ago. When Israel Friedman, executive director of the JCRS heard of his plight, he arranged for Beliajus' admittance to the Denver Sanatorium. Beliajus' mail is heavy with the latest information on folk dancing throughout the world.

Deny Mrs. Jolson "Al's" Winter Home

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. (AJP) — The 25-year-old widow of Jewish singing star Al Jolson was deprived of the right to further use of the showman's winter home in Palm Springs this week in a ruling by a superior court judge here.

The jurist, Judge John G. Clark, ruled that the property purchased by Jolson for $65,000 five years ago must become part of his more than $3,500,000 estate.

SUNDAY'S SCHEDULE
Mathewson Toggery vs M & F Insurance at Roger Williams Park; Waldorf Tuxedo vs Arden's Jewelry at Richardson Park; Natcor vs Lincoln Woods at Sessions Street; Broadway Auto vs Richards at Hopkins Park.

Waldorf assured itself of the top spot in the league by taking a hard-fought twin win from Lincoln Woods Farm by scores of 8-4, 6-3. In the first game, steady pitching by Bernie Davidson, the hitting of Aiello and a couple of breaks gave Waldorf the decision. Phenomenal fielding by Billy Holt and a home run by Jagoliner clinched the nightcap. Gene Silverman was the Milkmen's standout at third base, along with Irv Kaplan, who fielded brilliantly in center field.

M & F took two from Natcor, 6-1 and 14-2. The first game was all Nate Ludman for the Comets of M & F, as he threw a 3-hit, 5 strikeout job at Natcor. It was 2-1 for five innings until heavy hitting by Rosenbaum insured the decision. The nightcap was a runaway as Warren Foster pitched a 5-hitter, and along with Cousin Hal Warren, hit a home run. Leonti and Syd Jacobson also hit well for the winners. Buzzy Labush's homer was the only Natcor bright spot.

Mathewson Toggery, fighting for a playoff spot, beat Broadway Auto twice to go into a tie for fourth—and the last playoff position—with Richards. Good fielding, good hitting and good pitching were the ingredients of the 12-5 win. Irv Zatliff, with 3 for 4, led the hitters, while Whitey Groth moved in to third base from center field and became the fielding standout. Bill Goldis and Leo Miller hit well for Broadway, whose Bob Goldis excelled at shortstop.

Ralph Winn, after two innings of relief in the opener, came back to pitch a 4-3 win in the second. Jerry Gordon's homer was the deciding blow. Jack Steiner's ironman stunt went for naught as he lost both games. A Broadway three run rally in the seventh fell one run short.

Arden's Jewelry continued in second place by trimming Richards 6-5 and 15-0. Carl Lefkowitz was the winning pitcher in the opener. George Karembelas' hit drove in the winning run. Jerry Shaulson lost a heart-breaking 4-hitter. Len Rodman was the big sticker for Richards.

THE PROVIDENCE JEWISH HERALD, FRIDAY, AUGUST 24, 1951

EVE ARDEN

Next Monday night Eve Arden opens in "Here Today," the tenth and last presentation at the Theatre-By-The-Sea in Matunuck. According to the management, the advance sale for this show almost equals that of the first with Judy Holliday, who set an all time high at the theatre. Miss Arden has become the biggest draw on the summer circuit, and has been playing to capacity houses at every engagement this summer.

"Here Today" obviously inspired by the lives and manners of those modern "literati" who turned one of the East Side bistros of New York into a coffee house and sit there nightly making corruscating remarks—usually about each other, it became the vogue to identify the stage characters with their real life counterparts.

Local Girls In "Mikado" At Camp

Twenty Providence girls participated in the presentation of the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "Mikado" which was produced recently at Cedar Crest Camp. Included in the cast were Bootie Charon, Dorothy Gordon, Susan Ross, Robbie Pliner, Jane Bliss and Prissy Feinstein.

Betsy Rosen, Pat Winslow, Ruth Halpert, Bea Burns, Marion Kaplan, Chicken Pliner and Jonis Halpert were members of the chorus.

Marcia Lustig, Jane Bliss, Susan Ross, Dot Gordon, Jonis Halpert, Prissy Feinstein and Elaine Kritz were included among the production staff.

To Entertain National Mizrahi Secretary

Mrs. Norman Block will act as hostess to Mrs. Arthur Wein, national executive secretary of the Mizrahi Women's Organization of America, at a special board meeting of the Providence chapter, to be held at her summer home on Terrace Avenue, Riverside, August 27 at 7:30 P. M.

Mrs. David Friedman, president, will preside at the business meeting, where final plans will be made for the paid-up membership fashion show on September 24 and for the annual donor's luncheon.

It's later than you think—and if you delay too long, the holidays will be upon you. Solve one problem by arranging for a family greeting in the Rosh Hashanah edition of the Herald. Call GA 1-4312.

Over-Emphasis On Athletics

The West Point cheating scandal is not a Jewish issue, but Judaism has something to say on the problem. The preservation of health is one of the biblical commandments. Exercise for the sake of health is commendable. But Judaism never extolled sports as an end in itself. The race is not necessarily to the swift.

From the very beginning Judaism objected to over-emphasis on sports. In the story of the Patriarchs, in the 21st chapter of Genesis, the original Hebrew stresses the contrast between Ishmael and Isaac in that the former stressed sports (Metzahek) while the latter was to emphasize the joy which can be shared (Yitzhak). In competitions where great stress is laid on winning, only one side can rejoice. The lowest point in the demoralization of the second Jewish commonwealth was reached when the Judaeans commenced to imitate the brutal and immodest Greek sports. It was against that demoralization that the Maccabees rebelled.

The West Point scandal is a timely warning that the popular craze for professional sports and over-emphasis on athletics has gone too far. We are shocked at the latest scandal because West Point trains military leaders in whose hands are entrusted the lives of our soldiers. But the danger and the demoralization is not less when similar conditions exist on the campus of a university where the leaders of tomorrow are trained. Most universities are guilty in this respect.

Not that all who distinguish themselves in athletics on the campus are cheating or are poor students! It is a fact, however, that many a campus athlete is paid—directly or indirectly—and that the objective of the athletic department is to win games and not to develop the health of the student body. We know what happens to coaches who do not produce winning teams.

The time has come for our educational institutions to lead the way. They must begin by cleaning their own houses. The big games have no place on the campus. At best they give the students a wrong sense of values. The athletic departments should be returned to their only legitimate objective—the safeguarding and development of the health of the whole student body and not the exploitation of youth for a Roman holiday. Certainly educators ought to know that the "fair play" of the big games is no training for fair living. The world Olympic games held in Nazi Germany, the racial discrimination common in many fields of organized sports, the basketball scandals uncovered in a number of universities and now the West Point scandal, are conclusive evidence of this fact.

Religious and educational leaders should join hands in challenging this pagan Frankenstein which is undermining the morale of the American people. Jews, imbued with the historic sense of values of their faith, can make a distinct contribution in this respect.

A Physician's Advice To Sufferers From Coronary

Dr. Eugene F. Snyder's "From a Doctor's Heart" (Philosophical Library, 15 E. 40th, NY), is a unique book. It offers advice to sufferers from coronary and aims to aid them to make the best of life. It is informative on world conditions.

The author presents a personal account of pain, mixed with hope, of despair offset by courage. It is the story of a man who has fled from revolutions in Europe and has found haven in this country. It is an account of a struggle against Killer No. 1—coronary thrombosis.

Many questions are answered in this volume. Presented in the form of informative discussion between the writer and his wife and their young son, it offers advice which is summarized in this concluding paragraph:

"The logical way to react to a sentence of death in the unknown future is to seek to get as much good as we can from the few years we have. It is important for each of us, the chronically ill, to work out a new way of life and a new way of thinking. We must base our philosophy on a willingness to prolong our lives and keep well, to help our families and all with whom we are brought in contact; not to worry too much about ourselves. If we live fully from day to day, years will be added to our lives . . . I take leave of my reader, wishing him happiness and good health, with this final thought expressed by Longfellow: 'Ah! nothing is too late till the tired heart ceases to palpitate.'"

Life in Russia and in other European countries and numerous experiences which had filled an interesting life are incorporated in "From a Doctor's Heart." He tells why he did not want to return to Russia "where I was threatened with complete spiritual extinction which is worse than physical death, as Zionism and Hebraism were, and are, taboo in the USSR."

Thus, advice to sufferers from heart ailments is mixed with

Boston Approves MacIver Study

BOSTON (AJP) — The Jewish Community Council of Metropolitan Boston this week became the first community group in the nation to locally approve, by an almost unanimous vote, the controversial MacIver Study.

The group, in approving the study, labeled it "an excellent first step in the re-valuation and re-examination of community relations work in the Jewish community."

Doctor MacIver's report, the result of a one-year study by the noted social scientist, was made at the request of leading Jewish organizations, members of the National Community Relations Advisory Council. It consists of an evaluation of the roles played by leading Jewish defense organizations and includes proposals for a future effective program.

The social scientist's findings, critical in some respects of the program undertaken by the B'nai B'rith's Anti-Defamation League, have come under attack from ADL officials, including Judge Meir Steinbrink, the anti-bias league's national chairman.

The Boston Council, in reviewing the recommendations, backed Doctor MacIver's key proposal for the creation of an advisory committee on over-all strategy in the field of community relations.

BESS MYERSON, the only Jewish girl ever to be named Miss America, who is now devoting a great deal of her time to traveling and speaking for the Israel Bond drive, will leave for Israel in a few days to see at first hand the operation of Israel's program of economic development and immigrant absorption.

of intrigues among the Arab states that "dealt the death blow to the Palestine cause," a leading columnist reported this week.

Robert S. Allen asserted that the memoirs, which denounced the rest of the Arab rulers, have been suppressed. According to Allen, Abdullah accused King Farouk of Egypt, the ex-Mufti, Azzam Pasha, secretary-general of the Arab League, of cowardice, venality and betrayal. The Arab League organized the invasion of Palestine in the Israel War of Independence but later expelled Abdullah, charging him with "friendliness" to the Jews of Israel.

The Jordan king wrote that the ex-Mufti engaged in subversive activities in Egypt and that he accepted bribes from various Arab leaders.

Noted Philosopher Dies; Gave Memorial

NEW YORK CITY (AJP) — The co-author of a philosophical study of the early Jewish philosopher Philo Judaeus, and a one-time leading member of the New York Stock Exchange, died here this week after a brief illness. Howard Lehman Goodhart was 67.

The son of the late Philip J. Goodhart, the Jewish philosopher studied in Berlin and Amsterdam prior to joining the Wall Street firm started by his father. He served in the Army during World War I as a major.

A collector of 15th century books and manuscripts, Goodhart's studies led him to collaborate with Prof. Erwin Goodenough of Yale University in authoring a philosophical and bibliographical study of Philo Judaeus.

A $100,000 memorial fund which he gave to Bryn Mawr College was used toward the construction of the Marjorie Walter Goodhart Hall, a college auditorium.

Journal Backers Obtain Funds

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—Supporters of a revived Jewish Morning Journal appeared in Federal Court this week to produce $140,000 and assure a legal "heksher" for operation of the now defunct Yiddish daily. The paper is expected to resume publication sometime next month.

The backers of the paper had been given until August 10th by Judge Sidney Sugarman to produce a minimum sum of $140,000 with which they planned to operate the paper if it were re-opened. The ability of the group to meet the financial deadline forestalled attempts by the son-in-law of the competing Jewish Day to rid himself of 83 per cent of stock on the paper. Judge Sugarman had refused to allow the sale of the stock pending the outcome of his Aug. 10 deadline.

SYD COHEN:

Cohens in the Big Leagues

In my routine baseball reading the past few weeks, I twice came across the name of Cohen. Once it was Andy Cohen, formerly with the Giants, the other time Syd Cohen—another one, if you please—and both are managing somewhere in the lower classification minor leagues.

On a hunch I went to the record books and looked up the name of Cohen—and I'll bet you are as surprised as I was to learn that in the history of the major leagues there have been no fewer than six Cohens.

That led to a survey of other similarly interesting names—but that survey is not yet completed, and so, for this week, let's concentrate on the two Cohens already mentioned.

First of all, did you know that the first pioneer Jewish ball player (in the sense that Jackie Robinson was the first pioneer Negro ball player) was a Cohen, name of Andy? Would you believe any story that this same Andy Cohen became a regular on the Giants more because of his name than his ability? It's the truth, honest in-jun!

Andy and Syd Cohen are brothers, and both made the majors. Neither hung around very long, although Andy did considerably better in the National League than li'l brother Syd did in the American.

There isn't much to say about

Syd. He was a pitcher-outfielder when he came up with Washington in 1934. In four games he had a 1-1 record and batted .273. Two years later he was back, with no wins, two defeats in 19 games, and he wound up his big league career in 1937 with a 2-4 mark in 33 games.

At that time the Senators had Buddy Myer and the Tigers had Hank Greenberg in the limelight—and with these outstanding Jewish boys around, Southpaw Syd drew little attention.

Not so with his brother Andy, however. Andy came up on the wings of a ballyhoo campaign that could rival those afforded in recent years to Dick Wakefield, Clint Hartung and Mickey Mantle.

In those days—1926—you had to be a scrapper and a heck of a good ball player in order to make John McGraw's Giants. You got a job the hard way, by taking punishment from the veterans, and proving you were better than they.

In that brotherly era, when a rookie could expect little, if any, help from the veterans, Andy Cohen arrived in the Giants' hallowed domain with a plush carpet spread out for him, and every effort made to insure that he would hang around a long time.

Andy, you see, was Jewish, and McGraw long had searched for a really top-notch Jewish ball player. The feeling was that the presence of such a figure in the daily lineup would spur the crowds to attend the ball games, especially in a city like New York—and what could be more direct and appealing than the name of Cohen?

They could hardly wait for Cohen to complete a year's apprenticeship in the minors after he had broken in with the Giants in 1926 as a 22-year-old rookie two months off the campus of Alabama University. A three letter man in college, and the first Jewish captain of the baseball team in that school, Andy was brought to the Polo Grounds after only two months in the minors. He hung around the remainder of the season, getting into 32 games as a shortstop-second baseman and hitting .257.

In 1927 he became a standout with Buffalo, hitting a solid .353, and McGraw was convinced. Here was his long-sought, star Jewish ball player!

So they gave him an easy assignment—installing him as the regular second baseman, succeeding one of the greatest right hand hitters of all time—ROGERS HORNSBY!

Hornsby had played for the Giants in '27, and had been shunted off to Boston. With New York, Rogers had merely batted .361—and that represented a horrible slump for the mighty Rajah.

It was a tough deal, in many ways, for the raw and comparatively inexperienced rookie.

First, Cohen was treated like Jackie Robinson in 1947—as a pioneer, an experiment, a leader in the move to get more Jewish ball players into the big leagues, and to see whether they could take it, whether the fans would take them.

Second, replacing Hornsby was no picnic.

Third, the press jumped on the Cohen bandwagon. He got rave notices, and it was predicted that he would make Hornsby look like a bum. They even kept a running box in the New York papers, comparing what the two were doing.

Fourth—and believe it or not, this was a tough break—Andy Cohen broke in with a bang.

Here was the new Frank Merriwell, on the opening day of the 1928 season—playing against the man he was replacing. Giants vs Braves, and the Gothamites won 5-2. Star of the game was Andy Cohen with two runs batted in and two scored, plus a sensational job at second base. Actually, he did make Hornsby look like a bum.

The sports writers went crazy that day. Cohen was accepted as the newest and brightest star in the baseball firmament. They talked of changing the nickname of the Polo Grounds from Coogan's Bluff to Cohen's Bluff, and the refreshments vender's advertised their wares as ice cream Cohens. Stuff like that.

Well, after the wheels of destiny had finished turning for that year, Andy Cohen had a pretty good record. He hit .274 in 129 games; certainly not bad for a rookie infielder.

But it wasn't good enough. Much more had been expected of Andy, much more had depended on Andy —and Hornsby had batted .381 for the Braves.

McGraw still believed in Andy's potential. Another year rolled around, and in 1929 Cohen got into 101 games and boosted his average a full 20 points, to .294. But Andy had not played every day, and McGraw became disillusioned. Maybe Andy did, too, for he dropped out of the majors after that season, never to return.

Why he didn't come back, why some other team didn't take a chance on him, I don't know. He just never came back. Since then, he has been in the minors, as a player, coach and manager.

And the Giants never did get that really good Jewish player—not as long as John McGraw lived.
