Emanuel To Build New Religious School

Temple Receives NPA Authorization

Construction Will Begin Immediately

Samuel Rosen, president of Temple Emanuel, announced this week that construction will begin immediately on a new building for the congregation's Religious School. Authorization for construction has been received from the N.P.A., Rosen said.

The structure will measure 60 by 140 feet and will adjoin the present Temple building, extending to Taft Avenue, which it will face. The building will be three stories high, of reinforced concrete and brick exterior to match the present Temple building. Eleven classrooms, a library, auditorium, chapel, lounge and offices will be included.

The Religious School of Temple Emanuel has an enrollment of 500 children in its Sunday department and 200 in its weekday department. On weekdays the children attend after their public school sessions. Aaron Klein, educational director, heads a faculty of 22 teachers. Herman J. Aisenberg is chairman of the Temple's school board.

The school building committee consists of Judge Philip C. Joslin

Group Work Survey Committees Named

With its information-gathering and programming activities virtually completed, the far-reaching survey of group work and leisure time needs in the greater Providence community moved into its final phase this week with appointment of chairmen and personnel of two key administrative committees.

Max Winograd, general chairman of the audit being conducted by the General Jewish Committee of Providence with the cooperation of the National Jewish Welfare Board, announced the acceptance of Joseph M. Finkle and Harold Stanzler as chairmen, respectively, of the committees on community relations and personnel.

Finkle, long active in community relations activities, and his committee members will study the relationships of the Jewish Community Center with other organizations, temples, synagogues and agencies, and make recommendations for an integrated community relations program.

The personnel committee, headed by Stanzler, personnel manager for a major Pawtucket wire concern, will study the size, qualifications and responsibilities of the staff needed to carry the Center's group work program.

Both committees held their first meeting this week at GJC headquarters in the Strand Building and immediately set up a schedule of assignments and discussion procedures. Myron Blanchard of New York, survey director of the NJWB, was present at both

Army Denies Job Prejudice Policy

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—A denial that the U. S. Army sanctioned bias in the recruiting of Jewish civilians for government projects in the Middle East was forthcoming this week, but the belated reply contained an admission that at least one Arab state refused to grant Jews visas.

The denial was contained in a letter received by the American Zionist Council here from Department Counselor F. Shakelford. It followed a protest from the AZC against the barring of Jewish workers from employment on projects in Arab lands. The AZC protest was one of a series from Jewish groups following an open admission at a Washington hearing that the U. S. Army had excluded Jews from construction jobs in the Middle East because it might arouse Arab resentment.

In its protest, the AZC termed the job bias policy as failing to "add to the climate of brotherhood and peace" and "aggravating a sensitive political situation."

The Army spokesman replied, it was learned this week, that the Department did not sanction bias in the selection of personnel for Middle East projects, but that in the case of Saudi Arabia, Jewish workers accepted by the government for assignment were unable to obtain visas admitting them to the country.

"It is, of course, possible," Shakelford wrote the AZC, "that the Deputy Chief of Engineers was of the opinion that the same or similar difficulties applied to all Arab countries."

A probe undertaken by the Army, however, disclosed that "this is not the case," the counselor added. "Contractors do recruit people of the Jewish faith for projects in North Africa and Turkey."

Force dismissed the doctor on the heels of protests from the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith and others.

Local Leaders To Chair Sessions

Weekend Conclave
at Biltmore Hotel

Providence will play host to more than 150 New England Jewish leaders, representing 26 communities, when they gather this weekend, March 22-23, at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel for the 18th annual conference of the New England Region of the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds.

The New England Region is one of the key areas into which the nation-wide CJFWF is divided. Serving 800 Jewish communities in the United States and Canada, the CJFWF provides coordinating counsel and services in budgeting, community organization, campaign, social planning and community interpretation.

Alvin A. Sopkin, president of the General Jewish Committee of Providence, announced that a number of local community leaders will take leading roles in the two-day conference. Included are Joseph W. Res, Mrs. Albert Pilavin, Arthur J. Levy, Edmund Wexler, Alter Boyman, Benjamin Brier, Joseph Galkin, Aaron Roitman, Archibald Silverman and Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen of Temple Emanuel.

Julian Freeman of Indianapolis, national CJFWF president, will deliver the keynote address at the opening session Saturday evening in the Sheraton Room. He will set Harry Jagoliner, assistant chairman of the forthcoming ZOA membership drive, has announced that new members will be asked to give their support to the greater ZOA program of assistance to Israel's economy.

The membership committee's first report meeting will be held Sunday at 11 A. M. at the home of Nathan Temkin, 137 Laurel Avenue.

Voter Registration at the Home

Orthodoxy To Aid New Shules

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—Orthodoxy came up with a partial answer this week to the problem of small synagogues unable to afford the purchase of Scrolls of the Law by establishing, probably for the first time in American Jewish history on a nationwide scale, a Sefer Torah pool.

The unique pool, an outgrowth of a number of discussions aimed at formulating a plan to meet a worsening problem, was launched by the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America at a quiet ceremony held in one of the Lower East Side's oldest congregations, Bailystoker Synagogue. The congregation presented a Torah to UOJC national president Max E. Etra.

Nazi Doctor Kept Under Guard

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—Dr. Walter P. Schreiber, one-time Nazi overseer of human experiments which used Jews and others as guinea pigs, is under military custody pending his departure from America "in a few weeks," a top military leader disclosed this week.

The disclosure that Schreiber, former head of the Nazi Army's preventive medical branch and until recently employed by the U. S. Air Force, was being kept under wraps by the military until his sailing for Germany, came from Secretary of the Air Force Thomas K. Finletter. The Air

While in Israel, both couples plan an intensive tour of the new Jewish homeland in order to gather first-hand information concerning resettlement and rehabilitation developments made possible by United Jewish Appeal funds.

Alvin A. Sopkin, GJC president, who presided at the luncheon, described the affair as "a warm tribute to two families with a remarkable record of community activity in behalf of the GJC and other great causes."

A highlight of the gathering was the singing of two musical numbers composed in honor of the Resses and Fains by Mrs. Rochelle Saks and sung by Mrs. Samuel Gerstein, accompanied by Daniel Jacobs at the piano.

A novel background display, depicting both couples waving to their friends from the S. S. Independence (termed "The Good Ship GJC" for this occasion), was another feature of the luncheon. The display was arranged by Milton Kay.

The New Miriam Hospital will have a department of physical medicine to cooperate in community rehabilitation programs.

Additional GJC Check Presented to UJA

Joseph Galkin, executive director of the General Jewish Committee of Providence (center), is seen here presenting a check of $82,100 on behalf of the GJC to David Goiten, Minister Plenipotentiary of Israel to the United States, at the New England Regional Conference of the United Jewish Appeal last Sunday at the Somerset Hotel in Boston.

Archibald Silverman, who made the appeal for funds from the various communities, looks on. Prompt payment of pledges was urged by GJC leaders because of the critical needs in Israel for UJA funds.

Federation Conclave Here This Weekend

The perspective of Jewish communal action for the coming year and define the full range of problems and needs which must be met in Israel, overseas, nationally and at home.

Bess will be chairman at this session.

Following Freeman's presentation, a panel of community leaders from Hartford, Waterbury, Boston and New Haven will report on Spring campaign developments and coordination of bond and welfare fund campaigns in New England cities. Sopkin will welcome the delegates and the panel will be opened by Bernard P. Kopkind of New Haven, CJFWF regional president.

Prior to the formal opening of the conference, Oneg Shabbats on women's participation in Jewish communal service and trends in family service programs will take place at 1:30 P. M. on Saturday. Mrs. Plavin will chair the discussion of planning for year-round organization and programming by women's divisions.

Wetler will lead the discussion on family service methods used by Jewish agencies to provide greater assistance to persons in need of counseling, psychiatric care and guidance. Levy will preside at this Oneg Shabbat.

Additional workshops on health and welfare planning will highlight the Sunday morning program. At 1 P. M. delegates will convene in the Garden Room for the Region's annual business luncheon. Here they will pass on resolutions stemming from the workshop discussions and elect new regional officers for the coming year. Rabbi Bohnen will deliver the invocation.

Silverman will speak informally at the Sunday noonday luncheon session.

The widely debated MacIver report will be reviewed during the afternoon session, which will be devoted to a frank discussion and examination of Jewish community relations programs in the United States.

A special workshop will be held at 3:30 P. M. in the Sheraton Room for leaders of local Young Adult Divisions. This session will place the spotlight on recruiting and training increasing numbers of young people for communal service and future community leadership.

exacting critics, will top the bill at the R. I. School of Design.

Among the many astonishing records in Belle's scrapbook is her playing 187 successive weeks in vaudeville in the New York area. She has registered definite "hits" on her previous appearances in Providence.

She started her career as a street singer and, at the tender age of 12, graduated to vaudeville, and then skyrocketed to fame as the star of six Ziegfeld shows.

In all phases of show business—radio, vaudeville, legitimate stage, films, recordings—Belle Baker has made an unforgettable mark.

Sharing the spotlight with her will be Jan Bart, the popular recording artist and comedian whose nimble wit and talented voice are familiar to many in Providence.

Leo Miller, chairman of Touro's Israel Bond Committee which is sponsoring the show, joined former president Leo Greenberg at the organization's last general meeting in explaining the necessity of Touro members subscribing to State of Israel Bonds.

Other committee members include Dr. Harold Hannel, president; Charles Cohen, secretary; Leo Waldman, Paul E. Goldstein, Simon Chorney and Joseph Block.

WINTMAN FAMILY CLUB

The Wintman Family Club held its March meeting recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hy Fleishbein of Nottingham Way, Pawtucket. Arthur E. Richman presided. A social hour followed.

Duty vs. Right

The duties of citizenship are varied and at times without convenience. Some are mandatory; these we accept impatiently and often consider them as an infraction of our "constitutional rights".

Other such duties are voluntary; these we most often ignore. Voting during election periods is one of the citizen's duties flagrantly unheeded. We regard the time needed for registration and polling as inexpedient.

We have merely to recall the personal sacrifices made in order to insure the public franchise and then look to the East for an illustration of man's hate resulting from the denial of personal freedom. Only after such careful consideration can we perhaps grasp the enormity of our error in ignoring the voting duty.

It must be understood that such an unenforced duty often comes to be looked upon as a privilege; the privilege, in unreasonably luxurious ease becomes equated with a "right". The unpracticed right ultimately finds itself in the danger of being withdrawn.

This may seem theoretical. But history abounds with examples of democratic societies whose principles were destroyed because its citizens saw the practice of their duties as an inconvenience. For by ignoring the virtual need of choosing public officials, such choice invariably falls heir to the politically ambitious few.

Here, in Rhode Island, failing to register will mean that only the smallest segment of the State's residents can be in a position to state its choice. Inevitably, public officials will become the voices of those secret few who applaud us as we shirk and who silently await the day when they can remove from us this citizen's duty we unfortunately find so intolerable.

BY BEN FEINGOLD

Meet The President

It's funnyman Jackie Miles' tale of the kindly old Jewish lady visiting Washington, D. C., who was introduced by her son to the President of the United States.

The son said—"Mama, this is the President."

"Is that so?"—the old lady beamed, adjusting her spectacles and scrutinizing the First Man of the Land carefully—"from what shule?"

Add Truisms

Man is a queer creature. Pat him on the back—and he gets a swelled head! . . . Comedian Joey (Abrams) Adams and his lovely bride, Cindy, back from Israel with nothing but the highest praise for the indomitable spirit of the people . . . Beautiful Mary Forrest, the "Bagels and Yox" chanteuse who stops the show nightly with her top-flight singing of Jewish songs, is an Italian Catholic. As a very young girl in her home in Indiana, she had a steady income Friday nights putting out the lights for her observant Jewish neighbors! . . . Funny fat-boy Jack E. Leonard, who is Jewish, set a vicious pest who was throwing lines at him, back on his heels in a New York night spot, when he fanged—"You've got a sharp brain, buddy—but it hasn't reached your head yet!" . . . Keep your sports eye peeled for a Jewish skating king of tomorrow who cuts the cutest figure eight—at six! With a lot of skating crowded into his half dozen years, the child, Petey Kriender, son of Grossinger's managing director, Dave Kriender, is a champion. Thus far this year, the youngster has won the Eastern United States cub-speed-skating championship, the Silver Skates and the New Jersey crown! What happens to old fighters, champs of a yesteryear? Some—like Joey

At Home and Abroad

The Jewish population of Buenos Aires all agog over the soon-to-be-presented Yiddish production of "The Heiress," starring Dina Halpern . . . We take our hat off to Jewish tennis star Dick Savitt who was so forthright in his pronouncements to the Australian press on his recent tour there. Most net players slip jellied words to the press instead of speaking what's really on their minds . . . Eddie (Daily Mirror) Zeltner chronicled that James Wong Howe, the Chinese camera man, wears a Mogen David on his watch chain for good luck. We happen to know that Howe also has a tremendous sense of humor. He wrote a letter some time ago to his friend, Dave Workman, Broadway's noted Jewish photographer, in a very illegible scrawl. At the bottom, he put this P.S.:—"If you can't read this, please forgive me—I write like a Chinaman!"

The Repeating Radio

Through the years, Bernard Baruch has been known by the unofficial title of "The Elder Statesman." And for good reason, too. High government officials, not to mention five U. S. Presidents, have often come to him for words of wisdom and advice. When pudgy Mike DiSalle became Price Administrator, he sought out his good friend Baruch and proceeded to go over the tremendous problems confronting him in the new undertaking.

"One Man's Opinion"

Where the Strike Strikes Deepest
BY BERYL SEGAL

As these lines are written the teachers' strike is entering its second week. The two negotiating parties, the teacher's union and the Providence school committee, are today as far apart in their views as they were on the day the strike was called. At times it seems as if they have drifted further apart, and the relations between the two are anything but cordial.

In the meantime, the third party concerned in the school holiday, the pupils of the public schools, are sitting in the bleachers and watching.

I daresay that most of them welcome the windfall of idleness. It would be abnormal for youngsters to feel otherwise. But as the negotiations drag on day after day, and as the tempers of parents, and teachers, and school authorities wear thinner and thinner, the effect of the strike on the students strikes deeper and deeper.

A shutdown of schools is not the same as a work stoppage in an industrial plant or at a utility company. A strike in a shop means a financial loss to the owner. A strike at the telephone company causes inconvenience to the public. But a strike of teachers against a public school system involves moral issues.

Sure enough, one looks in vain in the reports of the negotiations for a mention of moral issues. But they are on trial just the same, all through the days of the strike.

Every text book on education, every speaker who ever mounted a platform at a teachers' convention, stresses the role of the school as a builder of character. Facts of history, theorems in geometry, laws of chemistry, may or may not be fully mastered by all the students. The school will not be condemned for that. But a school system that fails to build character has failed in its mission.

High on the list of the elements of character building are such moral and ethical values as loyalty, sympathy, fair play, and respect for legal authority. These are fundamental. All the subjects included in the school program only serve to achieve this important purpose of character shaping.

Now the teachers are engaged in a struggle with the school committee. A demand for wage adjustment was not granted to the teachers and a strike was called.

The students of the Public schools are not equipped to pass judgment on either the teachers or the school authorities. They do not know the facts, and the younger ones among them are not mature enough to understand the facts.

But even the youngest of the pupils understands one simple fact:

Prices of things you buy today are higher than they were yesterday.

The ice cream cone and the nickle candy bar are not the same in size. The pair of shoes cost more than last year. Mother al-wears a hearing aid. If the conversation is not to his liking, he turns off the contraption and smiles benignly, while his company thinks he is good-naturedly agreeing with what they are saying.

At any rate, as DiSalle spoke, Baruch fiddled with his hearing aid.

The former asked—"Is there anything wrong with your aid?"

"Yes"—replied Baruch, a twinkle in his eye—"my radio seems to have gone on the blink—I keep hearing the same thing—over and over!"

The laundry of the New Miriam Hospital will be capable of processing 3,000 pounds of laundry during each work shift.

ways complains of the high price of meat and groceries. Father just filed his income tax forms and he pointed out that taxes are getting higher and higher. Even the bus fare to and from school has gone up twice within the past six months. And the allowance a youngster gets now is greater than big sister and big brother ever got when they were young.

All this the pupils of the schools know. They also know that their teachers, too, buy their meat and their clothes and their groceries at the same markets and shops where their parents trade. Teachers too, are tax payers. Is it not natural that the wages of the school teacher should go up to meet the climb in the costs of living and of taxes? Why then is the school committee so stiff-necked about granting the wage increase to the teachers?

Should the teachers be penalized for choosing teaching and not plumbing as their profession? Wage increases are the order of the day everywhere, so why not play fair with the teachers? Does fair play apply to school games only and not to dealings with people?

The students, even the younger among them, may well ask these questions.

And what of loyalty? Here is a character trait stressed from kindergarten to high school. Be loyal to your friends. Be loyal to your team. Be loyal to your school. Be loyal to your country.

Today the pupils of the Providence Public Schools watch their striking teachers holding a picket line outside the school buildings. But inside the class rooms they see some of the teachers, and all of the principals, carry on the work of the school. How baffling this must be to the pupil!

Strike breaking has never been highly regarded in American thought. A strike breaker was always synonymous with a deserter. It is an act of disloyalty when your former co-workers struggle for their livelihood, and you do not stand by their side, is it not? Certainly it is not the kind of ethical conduct the school wants to encourage.

Why then does the School Committee urge teachers to desert their colleagues? Why the intimidations and the threats? You talk to us about the virtue of loyalty, Mr. Principal? Were you loyal to your teachers when they needed your support?

The students might well ask this question, too.

Loyalty and Fair Play will hardly be the proper topics for Graduation Day orations in Providence public schools this year. Not after a teachers' strike experience.

Legally the schools are open during the strike. Even though regular classes are not held, the pupils are requested to come for the roll call. This is done in the name of the law and by the power vested in the school authorities.

But did you hear how the pupils react to this? The mildest remark is that it is all a big joke. We have heard less kind remarks from a group of high school students. It is to them a mockery of the law, an empty compliance with a regulation. Is the public school a roll call station? Is school attendance no more than a legal number of days on the record books?

The wisdom of the legal authorities is questioned, and the respect for it waning, every time the pupils are requested to go through the childish spectacle of assembling for the purpose of attendance and then being dismissed from school.

The teachers' strike sooner or later will be settled. The wages will somehow be adjusted. The school budget will in one way or another be balanced. But the moral issues involved will remain bruised long after the schools go back to normal.

Who can measure the loss to character building suffered by the school system in the days of the strike?

By what devices is the damage estimated? How long will the scar remain raw?

Educators and committees engaged in education cannot afford to ignore the moral aspect of a teachers' strike. They cannot underestimate the effects it has on the minds of the students. The strike strikes deepest in the ranks of the third party to the school shut-down, the pupils, who stand by idly and watch and ponder.

Emanuel's 'Colony' Presents Art Exhibit

Arranging a wall display of paintings and photographic studies, Dr. Albert Kumins checks position and effect with Mrs. Max Viner and Mrs. Haskell Frank. Dr. Kumins holds a painting by Alex Miller. ## Pool Talents for 'Evening of Arts'

Just two days ago, Temple Emanuel was the scene of a rather unusual art exhibit.

Not that it is unusual for a Temple to display paintings and sculptured objects and the like. What made this showing unique was the fact that every work of art that was on display was created by some member of the Temple.

Furthermore, every one of the artists whose works were shown is a non-professional—pursuing his or her artistic bent solely for his personal enjoyment and relaxation, not for any potential personal gain or recognition.

The art exhibit—including paintings, sculpture and ceramics—was presented by the Sisterhood and Men's Club of Temple Emanuel as part of a program entitled "An Evening of the Arts."

The exhibit of the arts comprised the first phase of the program, from 8 until 9 P. M. Part 2 consisted of a duet of two piano selections by Mildred Simons Field and Bella Goldenberg Halpert, and a one-act play, "His Children," by Rufus Lears (Israel spelled backwards).

Included in the cast were Mrs. Abbott Lieberman, Leo Cohen, Edward Consove, Dr. Stanley Summer and Dr. Frank Goldstein. Saul Seigle directed. Vocal selections by Morris Bromberg, in Yiddish, Hebrew and English, completed this portion of the artful evening.

A reception followed in the vestry, with further viewing of the arts, with Mrs. Adrian Goldstein in charge of hospitality.

Unneighborly Art Colony

Only a short time ago, the members of Temple Emanuel's Art Colony were, so to speak, unknown to each other. Each developed and displayed his talents in the private of his home, in his own spare time, without communicating his talent to anyone outside his own private circle of friends.

Gradually, however, the story leaked out. One person learned that another was painting and getting admirable effects. The word gradually got around and spread about first one artist, then another. At last, men and women alike realized that they not only were not alone, but that Emanuel's artist membership should be brought together.

And so an art exhibit was born. Outstanding Names

The list of contributors to the exhibit contains several names that are well-known throughout the city in other fields of endeavor. A glance at the names of the 33 contributors bears out this point.

There are Maurice Frank, Dr. Harry Goldman, Jerome and Doris Deluty, Louis Baruch Rubinstein, Alex Miller, Martin Zucker, Dr. Herman Grossman, Dr. Stanley

Summer, Jacob Hohenemser, Lloyd Turoff, Ralph Rotkin, Shirley Rotkin, Dr. Israel O. Kapstein, Judith Kapstein, Nathan Linder, Adrian Goldstein.

Howard Lewis, Frances Bromberg, Jessie Goldstein, Marilyn Viner, Lillian Brown, Phyllis Berkelhammer Kaplan, Elaine Lieberman, Abbott Lieberman, Helen Shein, Russell Brown, Leah Sugarman, Rose U. Freedman, Marion Sydel, Beverly Stallman Smith, Henry Turoff, Eleanor Turoff and Libby Spanier.

Dr. Kapstein, a professor at Brown University, displayed samples of his sculpturing ability; Dr. Grossman, Miller, and Rubinstein, among others, selected several of their paintings; Linder's and Judith Kapstein's offerings dealt with ceramics, and Frank entered photographic studies.

First of Its Kind
As far as the committee can determine, this exhibit was the first of its kind in this area.

A survey of the 33 men and women whose talents combined to make the Temple Emanuel "Evening of the Arts" reveals that many have been pursuing their artistic specialty during practically all of their adult lives. In most cases the painting, ceramics, sculpture and photography have been the result of hobbies.

Many women of the Sisterhood, however, attend regular art classes at the R. I. School of Design and the R. I. League of Arts and Handicrafts, and others have taken lessons from Ishkawitch and other highly reputable artists. Until Wednesday, the Temple's 33 had treated their hobbies in a casual manner—for example, as a relaxing change of pace from the boredom of the weekly routine, during trips, as an enjoyable activity during convalescence.

Now, with an exhibit under their belts, and words of praise ringing in their ears, the Emanuel Art Colony may be expected to develop a closer bond of kinship. And there is a strong possibility that this exhibit may "smoke" out other hitherto unknown artists, whose works will be on display in the future.

Mrs. Max Viner, Dr. Albert Kumins and Adrian Goldstein were chairmen for "An Evening of the Arts," assisted by Mrs. Charles Blackman and Mrs. Haskell Frank, co-chairmen; Mesdames Burton Finberg, Harry Fine, Ralph Semenov, Esther Pritsker, Abbott Lieberman, Israel O. Kapstein, Lloyd Turoff, George Reizen, ex-officio; Alfred Fain, Daniel Jacobs and E. Feingold; Dr. Stanley Summer, Edward Consove, Louis Baruch Rubinstein, Lloyd Turoff, Martin Zucker, Joseph Stanzler, Saul Seigle, ex-officio, Mac Carter and Norman Salhanick.

The New Miriam Hospital will have a clinic for the care of expectant mothers. There will be other clinics in surgery, medicine, eye, ear, nose and throat, and other medical services.

PARENTS TO MEET

Hebrew and Sunday School parents of Congregation Ohave Shalom of Pawtucket will meet Tuesday at 8 P. M. in the temple vestry to discuss the curriculum and school operations. Rabbi Aaron Goldin will report on the present curriculum. Ira M. Stone is chairman of the evening.

The Sisterhood will assist Mrs. Ida Wittner at the social hour following the meeting.

The New Miriam Hospital's three sun rooms will have a commanding view of the city of Providence's sky line.

BOWLING

PROVIDENCE FRATERNAL

by Ben Medwin

Buzzie Labush went to his wedding last Sunday with a high three score of 330. He also was top man for the league with an average of 106.

Loyalty still was leading the league by two games, taking three from fourth place Fraternity. Unity was in second place but had to do it the hard way. Bowling against third place Security, and losing the first two games by 106 pins, they came back with a bang and a terrific score, winning the third game by 113 pins and splitting, having to bowl 660. Gladstone 123, Levins 117, Lisker 119, H. Wagner 109, G. Labush 107 and White 94. Bottom team Justice took four from fifth place Liberty.

Some of the high three scores were Jaffe 329, Chaiken, who is close behind Buzzie Labush, also with a 106 average, 326, Rose 324, Sudakoff and Strumfeld 317, Aruff 313, J. Connis 312, Koppelman 308, Lisker 306 and Levin 303.

BETH ISRAEL BOWLING

by Bernie Rubin

The boys were a little off on their bowling with the high single going to Jack Weiner with 110. Sy Aaron and Sam Seigel were runners-up with 109 each. High three went to M. Mallett with 334, runners-up were C. Chetman with 332 and A. Abrams with 328. Brandeis took three out of four from Army and lead the pack with Brown and Columbia breathing on their necks only one game behind. Both Brown and Columbia won four apiece.

FINEMAN-TRINKEL

by Jack Jacobson

The last place Giants, aided by Milt Israeloff 325 and Ernie Krasner 316, shut out the first place White Sox. The loss left the White Sox only one and two points ahead of the next four teams. In the battle of the Selloff brothers, Reeve, rolling 109, 141, 121 (371), outlasted Morris (315), and the Indians took three points which jumped them from fourth to second just one point out of first place. But it was actually the 305 of Phil Feldman and a 315 by Sam Price which pulled the Indians through, as it was close in each string.

In the National division the Phils are way ahead but the race for second is well bunched as Moe Goldman's Braves and Sam Feldman's Pirates each took three strings and are now only two points behind Harry Goldberg's second place Reds. In the American division Art Pivnick's 326, coupled with good scores by Morris Factor 323 and Chookie White 320, has put his team just two points out of first place.

Maurice Siegel 315 and George Feldman 339 sparked the Senators to a 3-point victory and for the first time this year they may be able to get out of the cellar.

CRANSTON MEN'S

by Phil Chapak

The cellar Athletics took their first 4-point match in many weeks with the Senators as their victims. Sammy Fiescher led the way. The leading Tigers, led by Ed Lang's 328 and Moe Bernstein's 315, racked up 3 more against the Cubs, while the second-place Pirates claimed 3 from the Indians. Aided greatly by Hal Warren 359, the fourth place Yanks pounded the Red Sox for 4, but the Dodgers took the Phils 3-1 and held third by a point.

In other matches, Henry Stampel 323, Jack Dreyfus 330 and Moe Cofman 344 of the White Sox gauged up on the Cards for a 3-1 victory, and the Braves and Giants split even. Other outstanding totals were Joe Potemkin 324, Al Samdperil 326, Sid Levy 319 and Max Levy 311.

Doc Harvis Woolf, Stampel and Samdperil all turned in double strikes. Woolf posting 119, Stampel 118 and Samdperil 115. Other high singles were by Mike Miller 127, Burt Litchman 120, Murray Potemkin 118, Milt Lovett 116, Hy Wasserman and Moe Piller 114, Eddie Feinberg 113, Al Sydney 110, Doc Max Pershtman and Harry Holland 109, Nate Schwartz, Moe Kessler, Bill Deitch, Ed Berman and Bernie Wexler 108, Dave Hoffman and Ben Silver 106, Irv Rubin and Jack Steiner 105, Norm Bommer and Ira Davis 104, Jim Abeshaus and Jerry Fish 103, Seymour Kriss and Jim Shocket 102, and Ed Charon 100.

EMANUEL BOWLING

by Sid Green

The first place Indians kept the pressure on the rest of the league by taking 3 points from the Giants. Tesler had 323 and Zucker 317 for the Giants. The Athletics stayed right on their heels by splitting with the Red Sox as Noah Miller and Babe Chase chalked up 313 and 312. I. Solmer had 325 for the Sox. In a thriller that hinged on the last ball thrown by Howie Cohen of the Browns and anchorman Lefty Goralnick of the Dodgers, the D's took the match 3-1 with a 1 point edge for total pin-fall.

The Cards and the Tigers also split. Morris Waldman, Dwares and Reizen had to carry the load themselves with 3 Tigers absent. The White Sox surprised with a 3-1 win over the Pirates as Miller 340 and Gollis 335 kept the pins jumping, while "Wild Man" Gerber 353 and Stallman did likewise for the Pirates.

The Reds and Yankees had a real battle going in the last string which finally ended in a tie, and on the roll-off, the Yankees won and gained a split for the night. Identical scores of 335 were posted by Capt. Milt Price, Chuck Samdperil and Miles Goldberg of the Reds. Al Chase was best for the Yanks with 352.

The New Miriam Hospital will provide facilities for ten resident internes. There will also be a fully equipped interne's recreation room.

Paced by Jack Broadman, 125, 123, 129, the Cubs overpowered the Braves 3-1 and shoved them to within 3 points of the cellar-dwelling Cards.

Some good strings were: Goldstein 110, Silverman 116, Winstman 118, Waldman 110, H. Berman 111, J. Chernak 113, Blackman 115, M. Davis 114, Weiler, 112, Kramer 110, Faber 114, Goralnick 121, Wolpert 118, Gollis 118, Gerber 148, Stallman 131, H. Chase 121, Ross 126, Temkin 111, D. Chase 113, Freedman 115, Blazer 111 and Markoff 112.

CRANSTON PLAIDS

by Elaine Chapak

This week saw all records broken. Kay Jagoliner established a new high single of 127, and a new high three of 324. Elaine Stiegel's Browns ran up a high team three of 1316, and took four points from the Yellows, dropping the latter team to third place. Greens made a high team single of 470, and are holding their top position by one point over the Indigo team.

High singles were rolled by Sippy Kessler and Jeanette Silverstein 112, Melita Kaplan 109, Selma Dubej, Renee Dreyfuss and Cookie Schwartz 106, Bev Sugarman 104, Kathleen Miller 103, Fran Rodinsky 101, Sylvia Sackett 100, Lil Silverman 99, Marnel Cole 98, Bertha Horowitz and Charlotte White 96, Ida Bernstein, Mollie Silver and Lil Woolf 95, Dot Bookbinder, Belle Feinberg, Ann Jacobs and Shirley White 94, Bertin Davis and Bea Sydney 93, Gert Charon 91, Dot Alcott, Harriet Gorfine and Hope Mellion 91, Edith Litchman and Gert Smith 90.

High threes were Cookie Schwartz 301, Sippy Kessler 299, Melita Kaplan 288, Renee Dreyfuss and Selma Dubej 285.

Scuttle and Rebuttal

As the Red Sox go through their Spring training paces, experimenting in the manner of the St. Louis Browns rather than the once-feared Back Bay Powerhouse, it would seem to be mere wishful thinking to speculate on how much brighter their chances might be in 1952 if a seasoned competitor like Pee Wee Reese could be installed at shortstop, thus plugging one hole and permitting a fine ball player like Johnny Pesky to settle down at one spot—say, at third.

Wishful thinking—yet, such a possibility once was in the hands of the Red Sox. It may long since have been forgotten, but Reese was discovered and raised by the Red Sox, along with Pesky and Pellagrini.

At that time, Manager Joe Cronin was still one of the American League's most feared batmen, even though he was slowing in the field. Good shortstops to the Red Sox were what championships are to the Yankees—they had more than enough of them.

So the Sox brass got together, decided that Reese was expendable, and that Pesky was heir apparent to Cronin—and off went Reese to Brooklyn.

Pee Wee, who is quite capable of reaching the chummy left field

A feature of the New Miriam Hospital will be seven modern laboratories with the latest scientific equipment.

wall at Ebbets Field, probably would have had a picnic at Fenway—and his defensive genius and team play might easily have meant the extra few games needed to bring a pennant or three to Boston.

With Pesky at third and Reese on short and Doerr at second all these years . . . isn't it enough to make any Red Sox fan drool?

Well, Reese wasn't kept. And now, while he is still a topnotch performer—the backbone of the Dodger infield—the Red Sox have no shortstop, and Doerr is gone, and Pesky is shunted from pillar to post.

Sure, it's wishful thinking. But that's what keeps a fan going in the face of apparent adversity.

It is a most unusual training season. Almost every ball club you can name is having plenty of trouble lining up its starting team. Rookies are not breaking any records, and not too many claims are being made in their behalf, either by managers, players or writers.

Most irregular.

So great is the caution that even when one team does loudly and continually proclaim—and with good reason—that it sports the best team in the league and will win the pennant easily, the writers still refuse to climb overboard for a swim in the clear but deceptive waters of illusion.

That one club is the Cleveland Indians, which alone of all American League outfits lost nothing from last year and added a passel of good rookie prospects. The Indians probably will wind up as the favorites, but right now only their home town writers are making any noise.

The column hates to be a copycat, but Ty Cobb's articles in Life are on every fan's tongue, and everywhere you go, questions of "What do you think of Cobb's story and selections?" are hurled. So, hoping this can be a little different than the other comments, here is a word on Cobb and his selections.

All that Ty says about the present day ball player in comparison with the old time player probably is true. The trouble is that Cobb ignores the complete truth by conveniently omitting several issues that would change the picture entirely.

To start with, old-time players

In the New Miriam Hospital, operating rooms, delivery rooms, and X-Ray rooms will have modern air conditioning.

DID sit around all night and talk baseball. There was nothing else for them to do. There were no movies, autos, fast buses, airplanes. Consequently, fewer horse tracks and other diversionary activities. Put the old ball player in today's lineup and wouldn't he react the same way, including a shiny Cadillac?

In other words, don't blame the ball player of today, blame the tremendous change in living standards, over which the ball player has no control.

Cobb's pitchers worked as often as needed. They had rubber arms, never had bone chips or sore bones, etc. But Cobb admits that the emery ball, the spitball and the shine ball helped ease their burden. Today's pitcher has to have more raw courage, and solid ability. He tries harder to develop a legitimate freak pitch, and so wrecks his arm. It is not an illusion. It is real, and a nightmare.

Today's hurler bears down more often than the old timer, so his arm wears out faster, and the chips fall where they may.

Better hitters in the old days? Cobb himself inadvertently has the answer to that. He says the old player was a good place hitter, the modern one a home run slugger. The place hitter, of course, piles up a heavier batting average. The slugger gets more total bases, more RBI. Put yesterday's hitter in a 1952 lineup, and wouldn't he try for distance?

On the other hand, put today's player in a uniform of 1922, for instance, in the dead ball era, and wouldn't he learn how to place the ball? George Kell is a fine place hitter, so is Pesky, just to name a few. Johnny, in fact, almost always punches the ball at Fenway—yet he actually gets more home runs in Yankee Stadium, with its shorter right field, than any other Sox hitter except Ted.

Isn't that Cobb's answer? Isn't it more a question of adaptability than ability and pampering?

And how about the handicaps of night ball and two-games, and loss of meals and sleep? Who has it tougher in that department?

I wonder if Ty remembers how many points the boys in his era added because a long fly that advanced a runner counted as a sacrifice, not a time at bat? He didn't mention that. Yet that rule was on the books for quite a few years.

As to Joe DiMaggio's lack of condition being responsible for his injuries, that's ridiculous. Was it lack of conditioning when Joe's foot was burned by a trainer's lamp in his first year? Was it lack of conditioning that caused bone spurs on his heels? Was it lack of conditioning that brought on the pneumonia in 1949? And was it lack of conditioning during the winter that brought on painful charley horses during the LAST MONTH of the 1948 season? It took guts to play with all those ailments and still star—yet Ty Cobb huris the charge of sissy at 1952 players.

Poor Ty. All through his career, he was respected, but feared and despised. His social life was empty, he had no friends. His married life was unhappy and a failure.

Suddenly, within the last few years, he has returned to baseball as an unofficial and uninvited elder statesman. He seems to want to make up now for the loneliness he bore for almost 50 years.

Let him talk. He may pass on some good tips and sound advice. But don't be concerned about our generation. They could hold their own in any company.

Reminder to all men's bowling leagues. Please send a representative, with roster, to the meeting tomorrow at the Herald office, at 10 A. M. The annual Herald tournaments will be set up, and the new trophies displayed. Women's leagues—one week from tomorrow.

Colors used in the New Miriam Hospital have been scientifically selected. The walls of patients' rooms will be painted for eye-ease and quiet cheerfulness. There will also be ceilings of sound absorbent material.

Foods To Remember

Buckwheat (Kasha) Kugel

- 1 cup Whole or Coarse Grind Buckwheat Groats
  - 1 egg, slightly beaten
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - 4 tablespoons butter or substitute (or schmaltz)
  - 4 cups boiling water
  - 4 eggs, separated
  - ¼ cup brown sugar
  - 1 tablespoon honey or syrup
  - ½ cup cracker crumbs
  - 1 cup diced pitted dates or prunes
  - 1 teaspoon vanilla
  - 2 tablespoons melted shortening
  - 2 tablespoons cracker crumbs
- Combine the groats with slightly beaten egg till all grains are coated. Stir in salt. Heat shortening in a heavy frying pan and stir in the egg-coated groats 1 or 2 minutes over moderate heat. Add the boiling water gradually, stirring well, then cook 10 minutes with cover on. Uncover and let stand while preparing the remaining ingredients. Beat eggs with sugar and stir in honey or syrup. Combine the cut dried fruit with cracker crumbs till well coated. Combine all three mixtures and add the flavoring and beaten egg yolks, stirring well. Beat egg whites and fold in last. Grease the inside of a pudding pan or ring mold and dust with the 2 tablespoons of cracker crumbs. Turn the mixture into the prepared pan. Set the pan in a larger pan of water so the water comes half way up the sides. Bake 30 minutes at 375 degrees or till nicely browned on top and set. Turn out on a large platter or serving plate and serve plain or with your favorite fruit sauce. Or drizzle 3 tablespoons of sherry or other wine over the top before serving. Serves 6.

HOLD MEETING, PARTY

A combined meeting and Purim party of the board and committee members of the Ladies' Auxilliary of the Rabbinical College of Tel-she was held recently at the home of Mrs. Isadore Shapiro of 74 Bellevue Avenue. Mrs. Harry Orenstein presided.

Plans for the donors' luncheon to be held May 27 at the Narragansett Hotel were discussed. Mrs. Aaron Marks entertained with songs and poems.

The New Miriam Hospital will have an up-to-date library which will circulate to patients' bedside to supply reading material.
