GJC Drive at $460,000

Uncovered Cards Stall Campaign

The General Jewish Committee's 1954 fund-raising campaign, with many cards still unreported, has reached $460,000, according to announcement this week from Henry J. Hassenfeld, campaign chairman. Last year's campaign total amounted to $530,000.

Hassenfeld urged that all workers holding cards make a concerted effort during the forthcoming week to clean up their assignments. Meantime, a special clean-up squad is being formed to handle cards which, for one reason or another, are not being covered by the worker to whom it has been assigned. At the same time, GJC leaders appealed directly to contributors who have not yet been contacted, and would like to clean up their pledge, to call GJC headquarters at Gaspee 1-4111 or visit Room 203 in the Strand Building.

"It is evident," Hassenfeld said in a statement this week, "that the necessary $70,000 to reach last year's total is in the community; but for one reason or another, the prospects have not been contacted by workers, or have delayed in the announcement of their pledges. As of this moment there are approximately 1,200 cards in the hands of the workers. Most of these prospects are anxious and waiting to make their pledge but have not been contacted."

Warns of Split Between Israel and World Jewry

LONDON—"Israel and the Diaspora are part and parcel in the fight for the unity and survival of the Jewish people, but the existence of Israel must not lead to a split between the Jewish State and world Jewry," Dr. N. Barou, chairman of the World Jewish Congress European Executive, declared when addressing a symposium of the Congress Branch in Birmingham.

The Zionist Movement had achieved its great aim of establishing the Jewish State, but the fundamental issue of the relation between Israel and the Jewish people had yet to be solved. 90 percent of all Jews lived and would live for a long time to come in lands outside Israel, Dr. Barou declared.

"We take it for granted that the journey of the Jewish people through its history of thousands of years will continue forever, in Israel and elsewhere," Dr. Barou said.

Wars, mass emigration and extermination, however, had removed two-thirds of world Jewry from where their forefathers had lived at the beginning of the century. "We are dispersed in more than 100 countries all over the world; and in 65 of them the Jewish community numbers less than 10,000."

Jews were now highly "urbanized" and, a few world capitals apart, formed a minute fraction of the total population. Consequently, and since they were no longer crammed into ghettos, they were exposed to the high-pressure influence of mass produced culture, with the assimilating impacts of press, cinema, radio and television. Jews were increasingly acquiring the habits of their surroundings. There was less observance of Jewish holidays, less knowledge of matters Jewish, more inter-marriage.

"It is quite evident that as Jews we shall not survive by inertia," Dr. Barou concluded. Assimilation can only be fought by supporting Jewish education and by demanding active participation in the struggle for survival from every member of the community. Such a fight must be organized on the national and international level."

Diplomats Agree on Hands-off Policy

WASHINGTON—American policy in the Middle East was defined in a five-point statement issued by the United States Embassy in Syria following the conclusion there of the high-level conference of American diplomats stationed in Middle East countries, it was disclosed here last week.

The statement called for: 1. Complete and strict impartiality between the Arab states and Israel; 2. Friendship for all Near Eastern countries; 3. Support of these countries in their efforts to create strong and stable governments; 4. Standing behind the Tripartite Declaration of 1950, which guarantees the borders of the Middle Eastern states against aggression; 5. Support of the United Nations truce machinery in Palestine.

The statement, issued in Damascus, also expressed the United States' "sincere hopes" that the Arab states and Israel would reach agreement on the plan for regional development of the Jordan River which was proposed by Ambassador Eric Johnston, President Eisenhower's personal envoy to the Near East.

SENTENCED AGAIN

MUNICH — A prison term was imposed here on Dr. Aron Ohrenstein, suspended Chief Rabbi of Bavaria, following conviction here on retrial on charges of having made fraudulent certification claims of victims of Nazism.

Split With McCarthy May Push Him To Extreme Right

WASHINGTON—Will Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's split with President Eisenhower bring the Senator nearer the anti-Semitic fringe groups? The Washington Post and some Senate Republicans think so.

President Eisenhower has said that the Republican Party is to be a party of "progressive moderates" and if the extreme right-wing wants to follow McCarthy into a third party "that will have to be their business." Political leaders feel that G. O. P. Congressional extremists are today more controlled by the President than before. This group knows on which side its votes are to be found. A good bet is that it will take Mr. Eisenhower in 1956 against any alternative McCarthy has to offer. If McCarthy leads a splinter movement out of the party, he may travel alone.

Fifteen Republican Senators will be up for re-election in 1956. About half of them voted against the condemnation of McCarthy. They are aware, however, of the President's great personal popularity and hope to ride back into office on his coat tails. Republicans remember what happened in 1912 when the last open conservative-progressive split occurred in their ranks.

Where then would McCarthy look for support? "Presumably," said the authoritative Washington Post, "he would still have with him the fringe groups long active on the edge of American politics—the Gerald L. K. Smiths, the Gerald Winrods, the Merwin K. Harts and Joseph Kamps."

McCarthy might also mobilize a few of the retired generals and admirals who led the "Ten Million" movement which sought to stave off censure. He would have a huge mailing list of personal supporters, consisting of people who signed up in the drive for ten million petitioners. Political realists concede that there might emerge under a

Anti-Jewish Cards Barred From Mails

DETROIT—Postcards mailed by the "Nationalist Information Service" of Farmington, Mich., advertising an anti-Jewish book, have been ruled non-mailable under the Federal code by the Post Office Solicitor, it was disclosed this week.

The organization, headed by one Russell Roberts, whose past activities brought him mention in "The Troublemakers," used the cards to advertise a book dealing with Walter Winchell, noted columnist. The text of the card contained statements referring to Winchell as "the Jew stink bomb of the air" and as "the mouth-piece of the Sanhedrin."

NCRAC Concerned Over Propaganda in Dispute

Javits Wants Israel Included in NATO Armaments Alliance

NEW YORK — Representative Jacob K. Javits, Attorney General-elect of New York, last week called for the active utilization of the defense capability of Israel for the security of the Middle East, and the inclusion of Israel together with the Arab states in a regional defense organization for the area within the framework of the United Nations.

"Unless Israel is invited into this Near East defense organization, Israel should be invited to join the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) either directly or by an alliance with Greece and Turkey, which are now members," he urged.

In his address Javits, who during the day was President Eisenhower's guest at luncheon in the White House, declared that the "current emphasis upon defense arrangements with the Arab states including military assistance, which presents serious dangers to the security of the Near East, is at the same time apparently causing us to overlook the strong defense capability and strategic location of Israel."

Council Sponsors N. E. Conference

BOSTON—The third in a series of regional conferences of the American Zionist Council will take place at the Bradford Hotel, Boston, on Sunday, January 9. The all-day meeting will be attended by more than 400 Jewish and Zionist leaders from the six-state New England area: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

As at previous meetings in Chicago and Philadelphia, the Boston Conference will start with a breakfast-workshop and conclude with an afternoon session following luncheon. At the afternoon meeting, the chief speakers will be Christian A. Herter, Governor of Massachusetts; Mr. Berl Locker, Chairman of the Jewish Agency in Jerusalem; and Rabbi Irving Miller, Chairman of the American Zionist Council. Greetings will be extended by Mr. Charles Bick, of New York, Chairman of the National Council of Hapoel Hamizrachi. The luncheon chairman will be Mr. Max Kabatnick, of Boston, Chairman of the New England Zionist Council.

Bias Injected In Desegregation

NEW YORK—An expression of concern over the fact that anti-Semitism was injected into the conflict over desegregation of American public schools as ordered by the Supreme Court, was voiced here this week with the release of a report on the segregation problem by the National Community Relations Advisory Council.

The report dealing specifically with incidents in Washington, Baltimore and lower Delaware where adults and high school students attempted to sabotage the desegregation issue, was sent to Jewish communities in an effort to obtain information and views on the subject, particularly from Jewish communities in the South.

In a letter accompanying the report, Milton Goldstein, chairman of the NCRAC Committee on Discrimination in Educational Institutions, said that Bryant W. Bowles, who heads the anti-desegregation National Association for the Advancement of White People, was resorting with increasing openness and violence to anti-Semitic appeals.

Representatives of community organizations in the cities where the disturbances occurred met in Washington to consider the significance of the riots and what could be done to deal with them. Among other recommendations made by this conference, the NCRAC report said, was a call to clergymen of all faiths, together with businessmen, civic leaders, professionals, veterans and other groups of the population to rally to the support of the authorities in the case of further troubles of such a nature.

Jewish Newsmen

Back Outlaw Protest

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — Abed Bouhafa, UN correspondent for the outlawed Cairo Newspaper, Al Misri, in presenting a resolution condemning the Egyptian government's closing down of his paper at the annual meeting of the UN correspondents, discovered that Jewish newsmen were his staunchest supporters. While most of the non-Jewish correspondents appeared unenthusiastic and skeptical, the Jewish and Israeli members including the AJP representative put up a strong fight to have the resolution passed.

Following a lengthy debate, an amended resolution was unanimously adopted. It took note of the infringement of freedom of information and of the press.

The News Picture

An AJP Round-Up of World News

UNITED STATES

When the 84th Congress convened this week, eleven Jewish Congressmen took their seats in the House of Representatives: Celler, Holtzmann, Multer, Klein, Davidson, Zelenko, Fine and Dolinger, New York; Yates, Chicago; Friedel, Baltimore; and Chudoff, Philadelphia—all Democrats. . . . Celler will assume the chairmanship of the House Judiciary Committee. . . . Of the 13 persons who had been convicted of technical Federal crimes and pardoned this week by Eisenhower, three were Jews: David M. Levy, Harry C. Lipton, New York, and Harry Kowler, Philadelphia. . . . Massachusetts Governor Christian A. Herter will be the guest speaker at the New England Regional Conference of the American Zionist Council opening Sunday, January 9, in Boston. . . . ADL's Chairman, Henry Edward Schultz, has termed the report of the special House Committee to Investigate Tax Exempt Foundations "a product of a kangaroo court." . . . The New York Board of Rabbis has announced a new TV program, "The Fourth R", started January 2, in which Rabbis of N. Y. congregations will discuss "Jewish Life in America." . . . Yeshiva University's Audio-Visual Service has distributed a film depicting the story of the oldest Jewish communities in the Western Hemisphere—the Jews of Curacao, Dutch West Indies. . . . The role of psychiatry in the spiritual rearing of children was one of the main subjects discussed at the conference of Jewish educators just concluded in New York's House of Living Judaism.

ISRAEL

A Wax Museum, containing historical Jewish figures from the time of Moses to the present day, is now being planned for Tel Aviv. R. Nochimowski, noted Israeli attorney now on a visit to America, revealed this week. The figures will be created in London under the direction of Dr. Chaim Gamsu and Dr. N. M. Gelber. . . . Israeli official circles view with skepticism Egypt's announcement that the 37-year old Max Bennett, one of the 13 Jewish defendants charged with espionage, had committed suicide. They believe torture on the part of the Egyptian secret police was the real cause of his death.

PEOPLE

Historian Arnold J. Toynbee, who in his latest works has discounted Jewish contributions to Society, finds it appropriate to cite the Hebrew Scriptures when it suits him. In an article published in the N. Y. Times last Sunday, Toynbee cites from Deuteronomy: "See, I have set before thee this day Life and Good and Death and Evil. Yaweh's winged words to Israel ought to be ringing in our ears today—now that the peoples of the world find themselves standing within point-blank range of one another with deadly weapons in their hands." . . . Harold Shapero, noted American composer and faculty member of Brandeis, is completing a cantata in honor of the Tercentenary. Based on the text of Jehudah Halevi, he has titled it: "Until Day and Night Shall Cease." . . . Senator Wayne Morse has termed the Hebrew University Israel's greatest economic generator. "We free people must never forget," he told the Women's division of the American Friends of the Hebrew University, "that we will keep ahead of communist Russia not by virtue of our manpower but by our brainpower." . . . Dr. William L. Vroom of Ridge-wood, N. J., who will be 89 next April, offered this prescription for longevity: "A slow heart that doesn't wear itself out. All my friends have a heart that doesn't run the motor fast."

Suez Agreement

Aimed Against Israel

NEW YORK, N. Y. — Zionist leaders in New York, disturbed over the absence of any reference to Israel in the British-Egyptian Suez Agreement, have interpreted clause four in that Agreement as obligating Britain to come to the defense of Egypt in the event of an Israel-Arab struggle, thus making the Treaty very much similar to the one existing between Britain and Jordan. They held that the reference to "an outside power" in the following clause was aimed against Israel as well as the Soviet Union:

"In the event of an armed attack by an outside power on any country which at the date of signature of the present agreement is a party to the Treaty of Joint Defense between Arab League States (Egypt, Syria, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, Yemen, Iraq and Libya), or on Turkey, Egypt shall afford to the United Kingdom such facilities as may be necessary in order to place the base on a war footing and to operate it effectively. . . ."

Larry Kalish Mine Producing Uranium

Just a year ago, news was received of Larry Kalish's uranium bonanza in Central City. After a year of development of Kalish's Carroll mine by the United Mining and Leasing Corporation, which invested $200,000, thirty-five tons a day of uranium and its by-products of gold, silver, lead and zinc, are being mined and milled, according to Floyd Campbell, United's mill superintendent.

The United Mining operations are only in the beginning stage, and will steadily increase in capacity as the Two Sisters, Spur Daisy and other mines on Kalish's Nigger Hill land are developed, company officials said. United's leased mill in Idaho Springs on the road to Temple Emanuel Shwayder Camp will add a second shift within 30-60 days, said Campbell, who predicted it should reach a capacity of 137 tons a day on three shifts.

United leased Larry Kalish's 17 claims covering 71 acres on a 15% royalty basis a year ago, and completed developments a few months ago. Today trucks laden with atomic ore roar past the Central City Opera House down Main Street to the Idaho Springs Mill. At the Carroll shaft, a 1,000-pound bucket filled with the rich grey rocks rises to the surface from 260-foot depth every five minutes to be dumped into waiting trucks. Some ore has such high uranium content that it is sacked and shipped directly to the Grand Junction atomic smelter. The by-products more than meet the operation costs, stated President Van R. McKay of United, who informed stock holders that on a 35-ton daily production the company projects an estimated $20,000 monthly profit.

Foundation Planned

The Denver Post reported recently that the Carroll discovery may herald a mining comeback for Central City. As Kalish walks down Eureka Street, Central City veterans greet him as one of their own—hoping that Larry's dream-come-true is the forerunner of a new boom, with the atomic wonder metal replacing the gold rush.

As Kalish pledged last year when dame fortune smiled on him, he plans to establish a charitable and educational foundation with the proceeds of his uranium riches within a year, as soon as sufficient royalties begin to arrive. Thus, all good causes will benefit from the radioactive atomic metal which Mother Nature bestowed upon Larry Kalish's mountain.

Republican Split

McCarthy banner the most extensive coalition of fringe groups in American history.

But would all the extremists combined be enough to form the nucleus of an effective political force? Could they achieve control at the next G. O. P. convention? Or could they bring about Mr. Eisenhower's election defeat by their own weight? Conservative Republican politicians think not.

Non-Jewish members of the Senate have warned against the anti-Semitic potentialities of McCarthyism. Anti-Semites listed as such by the Anti-Defamation League emerged among the top leaders of the "Ten Million." As McCarthy fought censure, bigots rushed into the fray shouting that their hero was the victim of a "Jewish-Communist" conspiracy.

The Red Sox pulled into a 2-point lead by downing the Cards 3-1, paced by Noah Miller's 129 and 352, Feingold and Hilt Rifkin. Orchoff's 113 and 315 led the Cards. The White Sox took the Tigers 4-0 and pulled into second place led by Lefty Goralnick 131, 117 and 348, and Litwin 106. The Tigers didn't have a man at 300. Golner's Pirates blanked the Dodgers by 135 pins despite giving a 27-pin handicap. Cohen 132 and 354, Paul Stone 127 and Capt. Dave paved the way. The Yanks tied the Pirates in 3rd spot by winning on a forfeit from the Indians. Winn, rolling for average, had 332. The improving Cubs split with the Browns, as Reizen rolled 118, 117 and 337, Newman 113 and Hirsch 2 105s. Hopalson Shaulson 119 and 321, Alperin 115 and 310, Winograd 111 were best for their side. Capt. Bill Gollis led his Athletics to a 4-point over the Giants, with 128 and 320 aided by Bernstein with 111. Dr. Frank Goldstein had 321 for the losers. ## London Chronicle Backs Sharett on Middle East Peace

NEW YORK — The non-Zionist London Jewish Chronicle, in a recent editorial, justified "Israel's alarm at the news of Britain's lifting of the embargo against the export of armaments to Egypt" and criticized the "Western powers" who have not "yet shown themselves to be adequately aware of the full steps needed to avert the dangers of disastrous explosions" in the Middle East.

"Mr. Sharett is perfectly right," the editorial stated, "in asserting that 'peace in the Middle East can only mean peace between Israel and its neighbors.' The proposition seems so self-evident that it is amazing how little appears to be done by those with enough influence to bring it about," the editorial said. "All that happens, with every move of the Western powers, and their often unaccountable sensitiveness for the reluctant Arabs, is a progressive estrangement between themselves and the one country, Israel, which, with its predominating Western thoughts and skills, might be presumed to have the closest and most natural sympathy with them. Either the Western Powers' minds are oil-bound or are still stuffed with out-moded Arab romanticism. Besides suiting the intransigent Arabs very well, such a situation also suits the Russians, the potential enemy, for it constantly encourages them to flirt with both parties and play them off against each other, at the same time embarrassing the West through the assiduous cultivation of the latter's supposed clients."

Poetess Hits Cosmopolitanism

MOSCOW—For the first time since the Soviet campaign against "cosmopolitanism" was started in 1949, a Jewish poetess in Moscow, Margarita Aliger, came out publicly against this campaign, the Associated Press reported here. ## Urge Committee To Probe Fascists

NEW YORK — The Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith this week urged that the House Un-American Activities Committee "be encouraged" to expand its investigation of neo-Fascist and hate groups.

Henry Edward Schultz, ADL national chairman, described a published, but not yet released, report on the subject by the House Committee's staff as "important in the defense of American democracy."

He said the committee was to be congratulated and added that the report, which specifically cited a Yorkville neo-Fascist group called the National Renaissance Party and "Common Sense," a hate publication edited by anti-Semitic publisher Conde McGinley, in Union, N. J., was "necessarily preliminary in nature."

Schultz said "it is essential that the committee delve into the more widespread and dangerous hate-mongering of the Gerald L. K. Smiths, the Joseph P. Kamps, the reborn Ku Klux Klan movements and the many other individuals and organizations who constitute a threat to American beliefs and practices."

Jewish Dance Book Gets Critic's Praise

"Jews Are Dancing People" has been written by Florence Freehof, wife of the executive director of Temple Emanuel-El of San Francisco, who was a wartime JWB director in Denver. The book on Jewish dance was published by Stark-Rath Publishing Co., 465 10th St., San Francisco, and sells for $4.75.

The San Francisco Chronicle praised Mrs. Freehof's book for conveying "all the facets of the Jewish folk dances from its history to its most intricate dance."

The San Francisco Jewish Emanuel said her book "certainly should be on the shelf of every Jewish home, every Jewish organization. It will be of invaluable aid to Jewish cultural and recreational groups of all kinds, in and out of the synagogue, and it should open the door of many to an enjoyment of one of Israel's great cultural contributions."

Mrs. Freehof said in her book that her aim is to "lead the new teacher toward a working knowledge of the Jewish dance."

writing poetry stressing her consciousness of her Jewish traditions.

Brotherhood Close By

Ben Duffy, appointed recently by President Eisenhower as general chairman of Brotherhood Week, is now reminding the country that the national observance will be marked from Feb. 20 to 27. This year's theme is "One Nation Under God."

All of which reminds us that Brotherhood Week provides an excellent opportunity for respite from the many cares that beset the sensitive-minded. Day after day, we are brought face to face with the unfortunate activities of racists and hate groups among us, as well as in nations throughout the world.

The recent Congressional report on Neo-Fascist individuals and organizations in America certainly emphasizes the degree to which they have grown in significance to capture the minds of the unaware and to peddle their subversive ideology to the ill-informed.

Press reports from Europe are little more heartening in this regard. Advancing anti-Semitic sentiments in Germany, the liquidation of "cosmopolitan" groups in the communist-dominated totalitarian countries and recent racial and religious upheavals in North Africa all bespeak a world-wide disturbance that sets man against man.

National Brotherhood Week represents a concerted effort on the part of the American people to remember their common history on the soil of this democratic continent. "One Nation Under God" redefines the concept of a unified society working toward the common good. We are happy that Mr. Duffy has made his announcement this early; it tends to mitigate for us the often unhappy feeling that men sometimes forget they are all brothers.

49 Rabbis Predict U. S. Will Have A Jewish President — Eventually

Will there ever be a Jewish president? Will World War III ever come to pass? Will Jewish country clubs increase or decrease?

These are a few of the "twenty questions" recently put to 400 Jewish leaders, mostly Reform rabbis, who were asked to try their hand at predicting the future during these days when the 300th anniversary of Jewish settlement in the United States is being celebrated.

One hundred responses to the questionnaire are reported on in the current issue of "American Judaism," the quarterly periodical which circulates among the 165,000 families affiliated with temples belonging to the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

A JEWISH PRESIDENT? Of the hundred replies, some of them from Conservative rabbis and laymen active in Jewish life, five believed that a Jew would be elected president before the end of this century. Forty-four thought it would happen in the next century. One respondent said a Jew would be elected "eight years after the first Catholic is elected." Wrote another: "When an Arab becomes president of Israel."

WORLD WAR III: Fifty respondents guessed that World War III would happen: 31 felt it wouldn't.

ARABIA AND ISRAEL: Asked "Do you believe that the Arab world will become reconciled to the existence of Israel?" the score was yes, 86, and no, 13.

JEWISH COUNTRY CLUBS:

To the question, "Do you think that in a hundred years Jewish country clubs will increase, remain as numerous as they are, or disappear?" 16 guessed, "increase"; 9, "decrease"; 9, "status quo"; and 18, "disappear."

OTHER QUESTIONS: On the possibility of a merger between Reform and Conservatism, the result was almost a tie: 42 said it would happen; 47 guessed not.

A majority (73 to 22) thought the American Jewish Committee was going to return to the NCRC.

Only 17 thought the time would ever come "when anti-Semitism would not be a concern of American Jewry," and most thought the Anti-Defamation League would be in existence for another century.

Fifty-five thought the day would come when Russian Jewry would be liberated from Communism, but 40 predicted it would not occur.

Sixty-nine foresaw a rabbinical gathering in Israel committed to the modification and modernization of orthodox practices: 34 guessed it wouldn't happen.

On the future of Hebrew in the United States, 69 felt its use would increase, but 34 believe it will not.

To the question, "Do you think intermarriage will wax or wane among American Jews," the score was 75 to 10 in favor of "Wax."

SATURDAY SERVICES: Will the five-day week re-popularize the Saturday morning service? Fifty-six respondents guessed yes: 35, no; and 9 said maybe.

The large majority believe that Jewish population will shift westward.

A revision of the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act is envisaged by 76; 24 said no.

More schools like Brandeis are prophesied by 69 respondents, with 28 guessing no.

Fifty-five felt that Reconstructionism will lose headway in the future; 27 think it will gain and 10 guess it will retain its status quo.

WORLD GOVERNMENT: Sixty-nine foresaw the advent of world government, with the U. S. included; 25 guessed it would not happen.

PROSELYTISM: Would American Jewry ever organize to seek proselytes? 50, yes, 49, no.

As for the future of the Jewish community centers, 53 questioners said it would "grow"; 39, it would "decline," and 4, "remain as is."

COUNCIL FOR JUDAISM:

Answers to the question, "In what year do you think the American Council for Judaism will expire?" included 43 guesses that it would happen before 1970,

"One Man's Opinion"

Volunteers of the Miriam

By BERYL SEGAL

I see them at work every day, the Volunteers of the Miriam Hospital. At the appointed hour in the morning they come, and at the end of their assigned duties they leave. And their duties are manifold. I once asked one of the volunteers for a list of the things she did in the course of a day at the hospital. It was a long list, but by no means exhaustive. Once the volunteer puts on her uniform and reports to her station for duty, she is prepared to do any task allotted to her.

She will attend to the patients' flowers, deliver mail, carry trays, bring notes to the office, do errands for the nurses, doctors and patients; fetch drugs from the pharmacy, wheel patients to x-ray, help in the diet kitchen; assist in the clinics, in physio-therapy, in the sterilization rooms; do clerical work, and, if qualified, lend a hand in the laboratories.

The volunteers save the nursing staff thousands of steps every day, and they save the hospital thousands of dollars every year. Most important, they bring the patients invaluable moments of comfort and companionship. None but the bedridden know the assurance that comes to the bedside when a volunteer enters the room, eager to be of help.

Hospitality Shop

But the work of the volunteer in the wards, the clinics, and at the bedside is only one phase of the service rendered to the hospital.

There is still another phase of service performed by volunteers, entirely independent of and apart from the assistance to the trained personnel. In this phase of service the volunteer has the initiative in her own hands, and she is free to exercise her talents and skills. It is the volunteer work done by the women who staff the Gift and Coffee Shop at the Miriam Hospital: the volunteers of the Hospitality Shop.

This project, a money raising project, is under the auspices of the Ladies Association of the hospital, and is run wholly by volunteers. It requires 50 women to staff the shop, and there is work for more.

Busy Center

It is a busy place this gift and coffee shop situated in the main lobby of the hospital. Visitors and staff patronize it constantly. They come in for a quick lunch. They look around for a gift to take up to a patient. Small as the shop is, it contains hundreds of items suitable for the bedside table. The shelves and cases display books and magazines, cosmetics and toiletries, toys and novelties, jewelry and trinkets, and, of course, candy bars and cigarettes.

At the snack bar one orders hot drinks and ice creams, sandwiches and pastries. And the service is always with a smile.

Who are the waitresses in the coffee shop and the salesladies with 50 respondents foretelling its demise before 1980. Nine felt it was a permanent part of the American scene. "Self-hate is always with us," said one rabbi.

behind the counters?

They are housewives, mothers, and professional women. I dare say that most of them have never waited on tables, and have never before learned the art of mixing a milk shake. I am told that the volunteers are doing it with the touch of the expert now.

All Volunteers

The business of buying and selling is all in the hands of volunteers. There is a mother and daughter team in the purchasing department who spend more time in the crowded office and stock room than in their homes. At any time you may find Mrs. Archie A. Albert, the overall chairman of the Hospitality Shop, and her daughter, Mrs. Henry Levaur, in charge of purchasing, huddled together over the desk, checking bills and examining orders. Mrs. Walter Rutman and Mrs. Raymond T. Laurans, who preside over the coffee shop, have a full time job at the hospital. They wait on trade, and train new volunteers, and worry when the bar is not fully staffed. They would be a great asset to their husbands in business were they to give so much time and care to their private enterprises.

Often I see young ladies working on weekends and evenings, and I know that they come here after full-time jobs in offices and stores. A number of them I knew when they were my pupils in classrooms, and it pleases me to find them among the volunteers.

Monetary and Moral

I confess my ineptness in money matters. Though I was given the data in dollars and cents, I hesitate to quote figures showing how much the hospital benefits by the transactions of the Hospitality Shop. Important as this financial aid is, it is only secondary to the moral aid offered to the hospital by this corps of volunteers. It means loyalty to the hospital, belief in its purposes, devotion to its aims, and complete faith in its future. All this the volunteers prove, not by mere words, but by hard work, and by long hours of service. And they do it ungrudgingly. A young lady who volunteers religiously two days every week to work at the hospital, once told me that she derives greater pleasure — more wholesome pleasure — from her hours invested at the hospital than she would wasting them at bridge games and movies.

I understand that there is always a need for more volunteers. Can you find the time and the will to fill the need? There is room for you among the Volunteers of the Miriam!

HOLLYWOOD QUIPS ON FUND RAISING

By LEON GUTTERMAN

(Copyright, 1954, Jewish Telegraphic Agency, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD — Eddie Cantor, relentless critic of those who don't believe in temples and synagogues, was listening to a discussion of some of the programs and devices which the temples were using to entice people to attend services. Commented Eddie: "Why do people take their children to the circus but send them to Sunday School?"

On a board in front of a little synagogue in Hollywood is printed the following: "If absence makes the heart grow fonder, then this synagogue must have many friends."

The observant George Jessel noted that members of his temple had a custom of touching fingers to lips, then touching the Torah with finger tips. "Kiss the Torah," he advised his fellow worshippers. "not with fingers, but with your mouth. On the other hand, when it comes to charity, be more free with your hands, and less with your mouth."

At a benefit performance the synagogue social hall was crowded and the performers were generously applauded. But the offering amounted to less than $100. "Well," said Sam Levenson, addressing the group, "this offering, as you understand, is for the benefit of the poor . . . and they all seem to be here."

Jack Benny has mentioned that if all the neglected prayer books and Bibles were dusted simultaneously, we would have a record dust storm and the sun would go into eclipse for a whole week!

Soon after her baby was born, Judy Holiday received a playpen as a gift. "Thank you for the play-pen," she wrote, "It is a Godsend. I sit in it every afternoon and read and the baby can't get near me."

SYD COHEN:

The Center Needs A Gym

Once upon a time, back in the days when the Jewish Community Center was located on Benefit Street, it was the dream of all Center officials, but particularly the dream of all the sports-minded boys, that some day soon there might be built a brand-new, modern and spacious gymnasium.

Adult members of the Center also were interested in a new gym, for it would mean a modern and roomy stage for all sorts of programs, and a hall with a large seating capacity, so that more men and women of the community could be attracted to the Center's programs.

Boys and girls wanted a gym, of course, for the obvious reasons. The old gym was small and outdated. It was not long enough, or wide enough, for a regulation basketball court. It provided an extremely limited seating capacity along the narrow sidelines for those Saturday night basketball games and dances; and as a consequence, the crowds at these affairs never materialized.

To make things worse, the floor was warped; and when this condition finally was remedied somewhat, a new low ceiling was installed that added to the hardships under which all basketball games had to be played.

In short, conditions were not good at the Center, insofar as the gym facilities were concerned. We all lived in hopes for the future while grudgingly adapting ourselves to the limited confines of the gym we had. The next generation, we said, would benefit from a new gym.

This writer was under ten years of age when the problem first became a problem at the Center. And since a good 25 years have faded into history, it may safely be said that the next generation is here, all set to enjoy the benefits of a new gym.

There's only one thing wrong. Instead of glorying in the fulfillment of a dream with which we kids grew up, those of us who recall those days find ourselves sympathizing with today's youngsters.

We had a gym, in all those years at the Center on Benefit Street. Regardless of its condition, of its limitations, of our dissatisfaction, the point is that we of the Center had our own gym. There is no Center gym today.

For adult programming, that old gym of ours seated only about 350. But that represents a larger seating capacity than our Center has today, when the needs are so much greater! And we squawked about lack of facilities!

Oh sure, the gym at Nathan Bishop Jr. High school is close by, just over a block away, and its facilities are adequate. But the Bishop gym is a school property first, a Center facility last, with resulting restrictions, and a rather difficult financial burden on the Center. It is not like having a gym of our own.

This is the problem that is now the concern of men like Leo Borenstein, chairman of the physical education committee at the JCC. With the steady and phenomenal growth of the Center at its Sessions Street home, with the increase in membership on the part of youngsters and adults, with the increased need for programming and facilities at the Center—with all of these has come, in increasing proportion, the need for the erection of a gymnasium all our own.

Leo Borenstein takes his chairmanship seriously. He has served as co-chairman and chairman of the committee for three years. Leo points out that the Center's physical education program, which is now under the supervision of Abe Lobel, has grown sensationally.

For example, let's take a look at the program which Leo and Abe are conducting. It includes golf classes for men, women and children. Last year the golf classes attracted 80 persons. More than 100 are registered so far this season. The children's classes are an innovation this year.

In addition to the expanding golf classes, the program now includes bowling, fencing, basketball, volleyball, and handball. That's a fine program for the indoor season, and should satisfy every taste.

The modern health center is now open to all members of the Center—men, women, and children alike. That is a big advantage, an important step forward.

The City of Providence will have the Sessions Street field, adjoining the Center, ready for full time service this coming spring and the Center will be able to use it.

All this points to healthy growth in the Center's physical education program, and lively interest in it.

But the other side of the picture presents these sobering facts:

1. Because of the expense, activities at Nathan Bishop's gym have had to be curtailed drastically.

2. The Center has had to withdraw its Varsity basketball team from the New England YMHA competition, because of the lack of gym facilities for practice. This is a stunning blow.

When the next outdoor season arrives, the Center's athletic program will be in good shape; and Leo Borenstein promises some pleasant surprises for the youngsters. But this is the indoor season, and while Abe Lobel is doing a good job with his expanded program, and handling his charges well, he is still severely handicapped without a gym.

The fact is that you simply cannot have a good physical education program in the winter time without a gym.

The obvious question is this: Are we doing anything about it? When will we, as a community, be able to build a gym at the Center?

Well, take it from Leo Borenstein, we are going to do something about it, and in the near future, too. The physical education committee now is trying to figure ways and means of building a gym. The members believe that big news will be forthcoming very soon.

With the committee leading the way, Borenstein says, the men and women of our community should get behind the project to build a gym and do everything in their power to bring it to fruition.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if it turns out that the long years of waiting are almost at an end?

munity Center, in the Nathan Bishop Jr. High School auditorium on Sunday afternoon, January 16, at 3 P. M.

The performance is a particularly fascinating one for children, and combines both live human and puppet actors on a truly amazing huge aluminum stage. Complete with all sorts of magical tricks—a vanishing and reappearing genie, flying carpet, dancing camel train—and with a number of sparkling musical and dancing sequences, this puppet show has toured the nation, scoring a huge success, with grownups, as well as children.

"Aladdin" will be the second of three Children's Theatre programs presented this season. Admission will be by season ticket only.
