

Dr. Bolotow New President of JFCS; To be Installed Wednesday

Dr. Nathan Bolotow will be installed as the fourth president of the Jewish Family and Children's Service at the 26th annual meeting of the Agency, on Wednesday evening, Sept. 28, at Ledgemont Country Club. This was announced by Edmund Wexler, chairman of the meeting.

Dr. Bolotow will succeed Alter Boyman, who has been president for the past five years. Boyman, who will be honored at the meeting, will be designated to serve as honorary president, along with Arthur J. Levy and Jacob S. Temkin. Levy will serve as toastmaster in a brief ceremony in recognition of Boyman's many years of service to the Agency.

The main speaker will be Mrs. Kathryn Oettinger, newly appointed Dean of the Boston University School of Social Work. Mrs. Oettinger, who formerly served as Director of the Division of Community Services for the Pennsylvania State Bureau of Mental Health, will speak on "Professional Education for Social Work — a Good Community Investment."

Dr. Archie A. Albert, chairman of the nominating committee, announced the following slate of officers: Louis Fain, first vice-president; Louis Kramer, second vice-president; Dr. Joseph Smith, treasurer, and Harold Moskol, secretary.

Nathan E. Sklar, executive director of the Agency, will present his sixth annual report. Sklar will tell of the Agency's expanded activities which now are available to the entire Jewish community.

An amendment will be submitted for the Corporation's consideration which will give recognition to four of the ladies' benevolent organizations that have assisted the Agency over the years. The amendment provides for the following presidents to serve on the Board of Directors for a one-year term: Mrs. Perry Bernstein, Providence Section, National Council of Jewish Women; Mrs. Samuel Sheffres, Ladies Hebrew

MRS. KATHRYN OETTINGER

Union Aid; Mrs. Benjamin Poulten, Montefiore Society, and Mrs. Leo Rappaport, South Providence Ladies' Aid Association.

Dr. Albert will submit a list of candidates to serve on the Board for one, two and three terms. The names will be listed following the annual meeting. Serving along with Dr. Albert on the Nominating Committee are Dr. Smith, Benjamin Rossman, Mrs. Esther Pritsker and James Goldman, representing the Board; Charles Brier and Maurice Fox, representing the community-at-large.

The public is invited to attend the dinner and the general meeting. Reservations may be made by telephoning the Agency office, DE 1-1244.

In response to numerous inquiries, Sklar announced that this will be a regular annual meeting of the Agency. The testimonial in recognition of Boyman's service at president for the past five years will be only one part of the meeting itself. This statement is necessary, the executive director said, since some individuals are under the impression that the entire meeting was to be devoted to a testimonial to Boyman.

Community Hebrew High School to Open Soon

One of the most important developments for Jewish education in the greater Providence area was announced this week by Max Winograd, president of the Bureau of Jewish Education. A community Hebrew high school to take care of the urgent needs of secondary education will be opened this term by the Bureau.

Winograd also announced the appointment of Mrs. Abraham M. Percelay as chairman of the community Hebrew high school committee. On her board will be a group of school and community leaders.

The high school program will be divided into two departments. The first will be for graduates of elementary Hebrew school who wish to continue their Hebrew studies. Pupils who have attained the equivalent of a five-year Hebrew school program will also be admitted to this section.

The second department will consist of an extension program designed to meet the needs of boys and girls who have passed their 13th birthday, but do not have the required Hebrew studies to be eligible for the regular Hebrew high school class.

Students in both departments will be able to continue in their respective congregational schools, their pre-confirmation and confirmation programs on Sunday mornings, since the Hebrew high school classes will be conducted during the week.

Registration for both departments will take place on Sept. 27, 28 and 29 at the Bureau office. Parents are requested to arrange for interviews by calling DE 1-0956. Transfer record is from elementary to Hebrew School should be available.

"We hope," Winograd said, "that with the opening of our Hebrew high school we shall be encouraging many more of our young people to continue their Hebrew studies beyond Bar Mitzvah. The Community Hebrew high school can be the vital link between elementary and higher Jewish education, enriching and strengthening both."

Arab Students Here Hold Convention

MADISON, Wisconsin — Arab students in the United States held their first national convention at the University of Wisconsin here last week-end, concluding the sessions with the adoption of a resolution urging the Arab states not to make peace with Israel.

The resolution called on the Arab states to resist pressure "exercised by big powers to force them into peace with Israel, without the implementation of the resolutions of the United Nations" in reference to Palestine.

Novel Contribution

"Opens" GJC Drive

It's an ill wind that blows no good.

Monday afternoon, with Hurricane Ione posing a definite threat to Rhode Island, and downtown merchants boarding up their places of business, the General Jewish Committee's 1955 campaign received its first contribution.

It was a one dollar bill found on the sidewalk on Washington Street by the Superintendent of Health for Providence, Dr. Joseph Smith.

"As I was walking by the Strand Building I was thinking about my mother and two sisters who are living in Israel when I suddenly spotted this one dollar bill lying on the sidewalk," Dr. Smith said. "I could think of no worthier cause than the General Jewish Committee campaign, so I walked upstairs to the GJC office."

GJC Ledgemont Division Meets

A workers' meeting to further plans for the Ledgemont Country Club Division dinner of the 1955 campaign of the General Jewish Committee on Sunday, Oct. 16, was held last Monday night at the home of Arthur Kaplan, chairman, 498 Cole Avenue. Nathan Samors is co-chairman of this division.

Kaplan announced that the feature of the Ledgemont Day affair will be an all-day golf tournament followed by the dinner. Special prizes will be awarded to the winners of the tournament.

It was also announced that every playing member of Ledgemont Country Club—regardless of his handicap—is eligible to participate in the tourney. There are no entry fees and the golfers are requested to register with Everett at the Country Club.

The dinner speaker will be announced shortly in the Jewish Herald.

The Ledgemont Country Club last year formed a special division for the United Jewish Appeal campaign. Kaplan said that this division was formed for the second time this year because it proved so successful last year and because it gives the members of the club a worthwhile program such as the GJC campaign.

"This year we hope to surpass last year's campaign contributions and do our share in helping the needy Jews of North Africa and Israel," Kaplan said.

Sid Lovitt Takes Class A Golf Title

Sid Lovitt, making his initial appearance in Herald Golf Tournament competition, became the champion of the Class A division by defeating Irv Chase 2 and 1 at Lonsquisset.

Lovitt took the title in a seesaw battle that was one of the closest matches in the 1955 tourney. Even up after 15 holes, Sid moved out in front by taking the 16th, and promptly clinched it by winning the 17th.

Chase, who held the lead briefly in the early going, lost a golden opportunity to take an important lead on the 15th after his tee shot had rolled onto the green while Lovitt's drive went into the rough. But Irv required three putts to close out the hole, and Lovitt chipped on the green nicely, and then halved the hole. Had he taken that one, Chase would have been only one down going into the 18th.

Alterman Class B Champ

Nat Alterman became the champion of the Class B division of the golf tourney when he defeated Walt Weisman 4 and 3. Alterman advanced to the final round by downing Len Blazar, while Weisman won over Mel Bloom.

The story of those matches, as well as complete results of the Beaten Eight and Sixteen competition, will be listed next week.

And that will wrap up the tourney, save for the awards.

Pa. Legislature Passes FEPC Bill

HARRISBURG, Pa. — A Fair Employment Practices Bill was passed recently by the State Senate of Pennsylvania by a vote of 44 to 5. In addition to provisions barring discrimination on account of race, color or national origin, the bill provides that workers between the ages of 40 and 62 are not to be discriminated against. The latter clause was insisted upon by the Republican members of the Senate Committee, who declared they would only pass the measure if an "age clause" were inserted.

SYD COHEN:

The Same Old Story

This, you will have to take my word for it, is written two days in advance of the Marciano-Moore fight. It is conceived neither in a spirit of sour grapes over a faulty prediction, nor in an atmosphere of second guessing. In case you're interested, I believe that Rocky will win rather easily by a knockout; but that has nothing to do with this gripe.

To begin with, I have been a great admirer of Marciano since the night when I sat in the press box at the Auditorium and saw him deliver, while backing away, one right hand punch that knocked Bernie Reynolds clear off his feet and flat on his back for the cleanest one punch knockout you ever want to see.

Since that night, I have been of the firm conviction that some time, in every fight, Rocky would deliver that knockout punch. So you see, I have nothing but admiration for the Champ, and don't have to be told how good he is.

But I am becoming very much annoyed with the repetitious pre-fight statements that emanate from Rocky's friends among the sports writers. Admitting that they know their subject far better than I, and that their judgments have to be respected, I still must submit that these writers are being carried away by their enthusiasm.

The stories always are the same, with only a slight variation of theme. One time Rocky is in the best condition of his life; another time he is in superb condition; again we learn that he is no longer a crude, wild swinger; still again that he is gaining maturity in his chosen profession; and that he has "arrived" as a fighter.

We are led to believe that Marciano no longer will miss as many punches as he lands, that he will deliver telling short blows, that he will box better, that his defense will be improved, etc., etc., ad nauseum.

What happens then is a familiar story. Rocky enters the ring with all his new-found strength and wisdom, he throws his short punches and his newly-developed combinations, he practices all his training camp techniques—and as a result, soon discovers that he is being hit hard, and outpointed, and in general, looking very bad. So then he gets mad, unlimbers his ancient and primitive artillery, ignores the blood that pours from his anguished arteries, and sets about the business of fighting as he was meant to fight.

Maybe in the Moore fight Marciano was different. But as a close follower, if not an accomplished on-the-spot expert, of his previous training camp adventures, I will be surprised if the Champ is different. Personally, I would like to see him come out swinging long lefts and rights from the start and just keep pouring it on until Archie is overcome. It was his punch that made Rocky the name that he is, and the champion. Any efforts to "shorten" those block busting blasts in favor of a more genteel manner of fighting seem to me overwhelmingly ridiculous.

Everywhere we read that Rocky is in the best of condition, that he's always in condition, that he thrives on conditioning, lives on it. Then the writers go into ecstasies on the eve of the fight because of his superb condition. My gosh, how could we expect anything else, and therefore, why should that be such gleeful and significant news on the eve of a Marciano fight?

And while I'm griping, I hope that this week's fight proves that Charley Goldman is wrong in his contention that Marciano should box 200 rounds before each fight. Rocky says that he is not as badly worn out as before other fights. This I am inclined to believe, if only for the reason that I have argued long and loud that he is overtrained, hence does not do justice to his standing and his reputation when he steps into the ring for a big fight.

It is inconceivable that a man who always is in the sort of condition that Rocky is in should have to undergo rigorous months of heavy duty conditioning that you would normally expect from a fat and easy living chump who is in training for his first fight in a couple of years.

When Rocky's handlers announce, anywhere from ten days to two weeks early, that he is ready to step into the ring "today", then I submit that the Champ has been overdone, and must, by consequence, look rusty and sluggish in the ring. Instead of a sensational knockout artist, he has become a butcher, his Sunday punch dulled, powerful enough to hand out a fearful beating to his opponents, but yet being unable to put them away, mercifully.

I say, let him alone, ease up even more on his training, let him fight as he was meant to fight, and then he will win every fight on a clean knockout, and will go down in history as the greatest puncher of all time. In other words, I feel that Rocky Marciano, up to the Moore fight, at least, is being robbed of his rightful heritage as one of the greatest of all world.

Yom Kippur--The Day of Atonement

Jewry's most solemn holyday, Yom Kippur or the Day of Atonement, will be marked in all parts of the world beginning at sunset, Sunday, September 25 and continuing throughout the following day.

According to the Bible, Yom Kippur is the time to seek divine pardon for one's sins and to grant pardon to those who have offended the worshipper. Expiation is sought for by prayer and through fasting.

Most notable feature of the Yom Kippur observance is the chanting of the melody, Kol Nidre, "All Vows," at the evening services which inaugurate the observance. Kol Nidre is a supplication for forgiveness for rash or impetuous acts committed during the year.

An idea of the spirit of the Jewish holidays may be gleaned from this passage from the Day of Atonement service, "We pray for all men. Grant that wherever a heart sighs in anguish under the burden of guilt, wherever a soul yearns to return to Thee, it may feel the effect of Thy pardoning love and mercy. Let superstition, falsehood and malice vanish everywhere."

Circumcision versus Cancer

By A. Ravich, M. D. and
Robert A. Ravich, M. D.
Institute of Applied Biology
Brooklyn

The Doctors Ravich, father and son, continue their crusade to inform the world of the full significance of the relation of circumcision to cancer. Not so long ago the American Cancer Society confirmed what the Raviches have been saying for more than a decade.—Editor

Jewish Women Profit

But another fact was also recognized by several physicians. They found that among Jewish women, cancer of the cervix, that is, the neck of the womb, was extremely rare. Yet this disease was very common among non-Jewish women living under the same conditions. There was no satisfactory explanation of this phenomenon. Some doctors blamed it on the religious bathing habits of Jewish women, yet, in modern cities, these habits are essentially no different from those of their non-Jewish neighbors. Others resorted to the discredited race theory, saying that the resistance of Jewish women to cancer of the cervix was an inherited characteristic. This view had little support, because except for the cervix, cancer appears to be just as prevalent among Jewish women as among the non-Jewish.

A clue to the truth was uncovered 20 years ago by Dr. W. S. Handley who had worked in the Fiji Islands. There were two groups of inhabitants of these islands — the native Fijians and immigrant Indians. The two groups never mixed with each other. In all there were 90,000 Fijians and 70,000 Indians. The native Fiji Islanders practiced circumcision for all males at the age of puberty while the Indians did not. During eight years, Dr. Handley found only three Fiji women with cancer of the cervix, but at the same time, 26 Indian women had this disease. Dr. Handley believed that it was the same practice of circumcision that was responsible for the difference of more than nine to one in the rate of cancer of the cervix among the Fijian and Indian women.

At New York's Mount Sinai Hospital similar findings were made by Dr. H. N. Vineberg. Dr. Vineberg studied the statistics on 19,000 women coming to the outpatient department of that hospital. 95% or over 18,000 of these women were Jewish. 5%, or 1,000, were non-Jewish. There were nine cases of cancer of the cervix in the 18,000 Jewish women, and the exact same number in the 1,000 non-Jewish women. In other words, cancer of the cervix was 18 times more common among Gentile women than among Jews.

The Missing Link

Specializing in diseases of the urinary organs and the prostate gland which surrounds the neck of the bladder, we were in a good position through the years to analyze and differentiate between the Jewish and non-Jewish patients coming to the Institute of Applied Biology, a cancer research organization, which will soon move into its new quarters, the former Beth Israel Hospital, at 90th Street and Lexington Avenue, New York City. In men over 45, the prostate gland commonly grows in size and often tends to obstruct the flow of urine from the bladder. Frequently this enlargement requires an operation. In most cases this swelling of the prostate is entirely benign and is a sign of advancing age. However, in about 20% of cases the prostate gland becomes cancerous. That figure of 20% stuck in our minds. As busy urologists, we had operated upon a very large number of men with prostatic obstruction, yet it seemed to us that in our patients, a large number of whom were Jewish, the cancer rate was considerably lower than 20%. We reviewed 1,500 of our cases and came up with a very interesting fact which not only accounted for the difference in our figures, but led us to want to climb to the house-tops and cry out our findings and their meaning to the world, especially to the non-Jewish which did not practice circumcision. We found that the rate of cancer of the prostate was over 10 times greater in our Gentile patients than among the Jewish ones. To us there appeared only one answer. The Jewish males were all circumcised while very few of the non-Jewish patients had been circumcised. We had come upon the missing link.

It had furthermore been shown by Dr. A. Platt and Dr. A. C. Kohn-Spayer that the injection of smegma, the secretion that collects beneath the foreskin could cause cancer when injected into mice.

Chain Appears Complete

The chain seemed almost complete. Jewish males never had cancer of the penis, very rarely contracted cancer of the prostate gland. Jewish women were not prone to cancer of the cervix. It was logical to assume that what-

"One Man's Opinion"

Hot Summer

By BERYL SEGAL

We had a hot summer in town. The days were hot and humid and the nights brought no relief. But it was even hotter, infernally hot, for some of our ward politicians. The heat was turned on in mid-July by The Providence Journal and it was kept at the scorching point all through August.

In case you were away, or you have forgotten the story, let me review it briefly. On July 12 the voters of Rhode Island went to the polls to vote on three amendments to the State Constitution. They were to say yes or no to:

- a. Pay increases for the legislators.
- b. Life tenure for the judges.
- c. Redevelopment of slum neighborhoods.

The vote was light as was expected for a special, mid-summer poll. But the verdict was unmistakable. The voters said No to the first two amendments and Yes to the third. While it is true that only 10% of the voters came to the polling stations to fill out the paper ballots, they, nevertheless, expressed the trend in the thinking of the people. The redevelopment plan was accepted by a two to one majority, while the pay increase and the life tenure amendments were rejected by more than a two to one majority. The results of the balloting were known by the time the late news ever the causative agent of cancer of these organs might be, it collected beneath the foreskin of the penis in the smegma of uncircumcised males from whence it traveled to the prostate or was transmitted to the cervix of the female during sexual intercourse. At any of these three spots the causative agent could and frequently did bring cancer. Yet by the simple expedient of circumcision probably the most ancient of surgical operations, the Jews had been able to avoid much of those terrible diseases. Cancer of the penis is a relatively rare type, but cancer of the cervix kills 12,000 women in the United States each year at the present time, according to the figures of the American Cancer Society. It is the second most common type of cancer found among women and probably the first in the number of women that it kills each year. Cancer of the prostate kills an equal number of men, more than any other form of cancer, except that of the stomach. Between the ages of 70 and 85, it is the most common cancer killer of men, yet almost all the victims of cancer of the cervix, prostate and penis are non-Jews.

Effective In Later Life

It is not known whether circumcision in later life is as effective as when it is performed shortly after birth. There is evidence that it may be highly beneficial, although, apparently, the earlier it is done the better. The operation is simple, and today it is without any danger whatsoever when carried out under sterile conditions using proper instruments. Among the Orthodox Jews the operation is still performed as it was in Abraham's time. Rabbis or specially-trained religious men called Mo-bulletins were read over radio and television, and the special vote would have been forgotten by the morning of July 13.

But it was not to be so. This seemingly unimportant, vacation time poll was destined to make state history. It may well be the cause of a revision of Rhode Island election laws, and a change in our voting procedures.

Re-Examination

What is even more important, the events that took place after the July 12 elections may even bring about a searching re-examination of our voting habits, and awaken us to the realization that each voting occasion must be taken seriously, even the off-season ones, even those that happen to fall on days when the temperature rises above 90 degrees.

On July 12, while 90% of the voters stayed home, some unscrupulous shady characters made a mockery of the election system.

Journal-Bulletin reporters discovered irregularities in the balloting of at least three wards. Names of people who never came near the voting booths were checked off the lists and their votes falsely cast. Names of the dead were resurrected. Empty lots were inhabited. People now living in California were made residents of Rhode Island again for the day of the special election. But worst of all, some of the officials who were to supervise the voting in their precincts turned out to be characters with criminal records, such as receiving stolen goods, bookmaking, and maintaining gambling nuisances. No wonder then that in one precinct alone three-quarters of the ballots were fraudulent.

Good Journalism

The story of this ugly offense

hels using the old crude religious ceremonial methods, perform the ritual operation almost totally without danger to the infant.

From a public health standpoint, there is no simpler or easier method which today could approach the value of circumcision as a means of preventing certain types of cancer. The only obstacles are a wider knowledge of the facts and the old antagonism of the Christian world to a practice that in the minds of many is still considered merely a religious Jewish custom. Thus all the hygienic advantages are lost sight of.

In these times of greater interfaith understanding, it is surely possible for the Christian world to rid itself of such antagonisms for its own benefit. The Bible is the Holy Writ for both Christian and Jew, and God made His pact with Abraham who is accepted as the "father of a multitude of nations."

Today, at a time when the Jews have returned to their promised home, their faithful adherence to that ancient bargain made between God and Abraham can point the way to the saving of countless thousands of their Gentile neighbors. For Jew and Gentile alike, a fair exchange is a good bargain, and one wonders at the Wisdom of God and the ways which only He can find to join together Science and Religion.

appeared on the pages of the morning newspaper the day after the voting. It was a courageous deed, and in the best tradition of good American journalism. Story followed story day after day, interviewing residents of the affected wards, revealing frauds, relentlessly demanding action, naming of offenders. The governor and the mayor were aroused. The Police Department took up the case. The Attorney General instituted an investigation.

Results are already in evidence. A Governor's Committee is now engaged in studying the state election laws, trying to discover weak spots which make it possible for the unscrupulous to commit frauds. The Attorney General's staff has already furnished a Grand Jury with fraud data for the prosecution of the offenders. The Police Department has already made arrests, and more will be made if further evidence of fraud is uncovered.

The few petty ward politicians will receive their punishment when found guilty of fraud.

The Real Guilt

But what about those who made possible the offense against the most fundamental, yes, and most sacred principle of democratic government? What about all of us who are the real guilty party? The fault clearly lies with those who fail to vote when voting is called for. Only because so many people stayed away from the polls was it possible for the fraud to take place. The temptation was there, the opportunity was there, and it was all provided by the voters who stayed home on July 12.

One must be very naive to believe that what took place on July 12 was an isolated incident. Irregularities in ballot counting is an existing evil, always encouraged by indifference on the part of large numbers of voters who fail to appear at the polls. Many are the accomplices in the crime of ballot stuffing.

Before you become indignant about the vote frauds and before you demand prosecution of the offenders, ask yourself this question:

"Where was I on July 12?"

Were you among the 10% who voted on that day or among the 90% who ignored the election? Did you mark the Yes and No spaces on your ballot in your own handwriting, or did you leave it to a vote thief to mark the answers for you? A handwriting expert testified that 182 ballots taken out of the box in one precinct alone were all marked by one person. Altogether the expert declared 420 ballots questionable. Were your ballots among them? Did you care enough to leave the Pier, or the lake shore camp, or the summer home for a few hours on the day of July 12 to come to the city and to your precinct to cast your vote? If not, do not be angry if some one else stole your name and used it for unclean purposes.

All of us bear the guilt for the vote fraud on July 12, as well as any other election day, whenever it occurs.

A man who but recently came to this country remarked when he read the stories of the vote frauds:

"A precious thing has been granted to you, and you are so sadly neglecting it."

Kashruth Trouble Renewed in L. A.

LOS ANGELES — Difficulties in the kosher poultry trade in Los Angeles which led to Federal Grand Jury action last year and the signing of consent decrees by the kosher butchers and wholesale poultry dealers, have arisen again and Federal investigators are back on the scene, the newspaper Heritage reported last week.

The paper said that the Bureau of Kashruth Administration, an agency sponsored by the Los Angeles Jewish Community Council, had removed its kashruth signs from 56 of the 86 butcher shops that had accepted the bureau's supervision earlier this year. The bureau's director was quoted as saying that the signs had been removed because the shops sold poultry from five wholesale dealers who refused to accept the bureau's supervision. The bureau had insisted on employment by these firms of full-time permanent supervisors.

The 56 shops which were deprived of the bureau's kashruth deal have announced they are now supervised by a rabbis' group.

National Roll Call

A national roll call designed to meet the mounting needs of Jewish education in this country has been launched by the American Association for Jewish Education, it was announced this week by Philip W. Lown of West Newton, Mass., president of the Association.

Reaching out into communities from coast to coast, the National Roll Call will alert local leadership to its specific responsibilities in the area of Jewish communal work; and will enlist popular support for the intensification program of the Association. Top priority in this program, Lown pointed out, attaches to an all-out-effort to cope with the problem of teachers' shortage that has developed in recent years.

SOA Sisterhood

To Meet Wednesday

Plans for the annual harvest supper were discussed at a meeting of the Sisterhood of Congregation Sons of Abraham held on Sept. 14. It was announced that the Sisterhood Bowling League will bowl every Tuesday at P. M. at the New Yorker Bowling Center, Eddy Street. The first meeting will be held on Tuesday evening. Members interested in joining are asked to call Mrs. Bernard S. Barasch, president, at ST 1-3165, or the Congregation office at WI 1-9751.

An open meeting of the entire Sisterhood will be held on Wednesday in the Synagogue vestry. A Succoth party, play and musical makes up the program.

A BULLETIN FOR AND ABOUT THE JEWISH HOME FOR THE AGED
99 Hillside Avenue, Providence, R. I.

President's New Year's Greeting

Once again during these High Holy Days, I extend to our friends greetings from the Jewish Home for the Aged.

With your help we have completed this year our 60-bed wing, and already 45 aged persons have benefited by the new enlarged facilities. Everything is being done to make our residents physically, emotionally and spiritually comfortable and happy.

There was a time when a home for the aged was thought of in terms of "their last days," but now it is a living arrangement which "adds life to their years."

We have broadened our intake policies, added facilities and programs for modern care and are even planning to extend our services to the aged who are now living in the community. Plans will soon be announced for these new projects.

Just as we wish you and yours the very best for every day of the whole year through, so do we hope that you will think and provide for our aged and their daily needs. Your thoughtful contributions in the form of your annual membership is the surest and most dignified way to assure the comfort and security of our ever-growing number of residents.

Our officers, directors, the Ladies Association, staff and residents join me in thanking you for your continued support and your interest.

May you be rewarded with good health, prosperity and peace for the New Year.

Renovated Synagogue Is Scene of Services

Rosh Hashanah services were held for the first time this year in the newly decorated and renovated synagogue of the Home. Among the improvements are the newly installed pews, plastic wall covering and stained glass windows, all giving additional comfort and dignity.

Conducting the services was our resident Cantor David Einstein, assisted by Harry Winkelman. The blowing of the Shofar was performed by Meyer Jaffe.

The evening's agenda will include the discussion of many matters essential to the opening of the new South Side Branch.

South Side Nursery School to Open

Mrs. Nathan Swartz, South Side area co-chairman of the Children's Committee of the Jewish Community Center, announced this week that in response to the many requests received from parents of pre-school children from South Providence, a full-fledged Nursery School program will get underway in the South Side Branch early in October.

The Nursery School will be the first program to be offered at this new facility of the Jewish Community Center on Hamilton and Potters Avenues.

Present plans call for a five day week nursery with morning and afternoon sessions for 3-5 year olds under an experienced and qualified staff. Transportation may be available if needed.

The program will utilize a modern facility in the building especially designed for use as a Nursery School with plenty of indoor and outdoor play area. Newly acquired play equipment is being installed.

Since the size of each group is limited, interested parents are encouraged to enroll their children at once. For further information, call Sol Kutner, South Side Branch Director, at UN 1-2674.

HEED THE CALL

The RESOUNDING MESSAGE of HOPE

It's a call that has been heard—and heard for thousands of years. It may be heard for years to come. A call that has an unbroken chain of brotherhood, faith and hope, stretching back through generations and centuries—and stretching forward into a future where the flame of hope glows brighter.

The year 5716 of our history approaches. It's time to forge another link in the chain. Our turn to carry the burden that has been handed down from father to son since the days of Moses.

We are now approaching the opening of our 1955 Campaign of the General Jewish Committee of Providence. Our responsibilities are great. This combined appeal speaks with one voice . . . for local, national, overseas and Israel organizations.

These agencies carry out your will, answering needs that you never dreamed existed—supporting Jewish Centers, Hebrew education and the fight against Anti-Semitism.

You are reaching out your hand to your brothers in the old world—hundreds of thousands of them still struggling in the wreckage Hitler left behind. We must also save thousands of homeless from the agony of Moslem terrorism in the ghettos of North Africa. And, to the infant State of Israel, building farmlands out of the ancient sands of the desolate desert, surrounded by enemies who live only to destroy her.

HEED THE CALL IT'S A CRY OF ALARM O'ER THE FORCES OF WRATH AND DESTRUCTION

These are big responsibilities. But you have proven your heart is big enough to meet them. And, we must heed the call of our responsibilities this year again. It's a big job! It's OUR job! Nobody else will do it!

As our fathers sacrificed and their fathers before them, our turn to sacrifice has come. It is not a time for pleading and loud exhortations. It is a time for quietly rolling up our sleeves, and again opening our hearts to do a good job this year. Let each of us carry his share of the burden. The time has come again.

LET US HEED THE CALL BRING HOPE AND RELIEF IN PLACE OF SORROW AND DESPAIR

HENRY HASSENFELD, President
General Jewish Committee of Providence, Inc.

This message has been dedicated to our General Chairman, Alvin A. Sopkin, his Co-Chairman, Samuel Rapaport, Jr., and all workers in the forthcoming General Jewish Committee campaign, and paid for by private funds.
