Secret Arms Sale Denied by France

PARIS — The French Government recently denied the existence of a secret French-Israel agreement covering the supply of arms by France, declaring that an Egyptian press report of the existence of such a pact was "pure fantasy."

In a statement by the Foreign Ministry, the French Government said that the only deliveries made to Israel recently came from contracts made more than a year ago.

"These deliveries cannot be considered as more important than deliveries by other powers to Israel," the statement said, "nor of a nature that could alter the balance between Israel and the Arab countries who recently benefitted from substantial contracts with France." No other arms supply to Israel is contemplated in the near future, the Foreign Office stated.

Turning to press reports that France has cancelled contracts to deliver weapons to Egypt, the Foreign Ministry statement said that it was true that the French Government had decided to suspend an Egyptian arms contract "following anti-French broadcasts from Cairo at the end of August during the tragic Moroccan incidents." This does not mean, the

N. Y. Times Raps Senators

NEW YORK — An editorial in the "New York Times" on Tuesday sharply criticized 4 U. S. Senators for contributing in Cairo to a fund for Egyptian arms purchases from communist arsenals. The Senators, Harley M. Kilgore (D., W. V.), John L. McClellan (D., Ark.), Leverett Saltonstall (R., Mass.) and John C. Stennis (D., Miss.), met on Monday with Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser. Leaving his office, they dropped contributions into a collection box for the arms drive. They declined to say how much they gave.

The "Times" editorial declared that "in thus playing the good fellow," the Senators "could hardly have made a gesture more directly opposed to American policy and American interest in the Middle East. The money they gave will help Egypt pay for Soviet arms. If traveling American Senators haven't any more judgment than this, they ought to stay at home."

statement continued, that there has been any cancellation on deliveries which have already begun nor does it mean that arms deliveries could not begin again.

Plan Reception for Israel Ambassador Prior to Dinner

Plans were reviewed for the community-wide kickoff dinner of the Initial Gifts Division of the 1955 General Jewish Committee campaign on November 8 at a meeting of Initial Gifts workers last Wednesday at the home of Alvin A. Sopkin, general campaign chairman.

The Initial Gifts dinner, which will be held at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel, traditionally heralds the start of the annual campaign for funds to assist 52 beneficiary local, overseas and Israel agencies.

Frank Licht, Initial Gifts Chairman, and Benjamin Brier, co-chairman, said that the work in this division has been streamlined so that it will be necessary for each worker to cover only a limited number of cards in assisting to obtain a maximum attendance at the major affair of the campaign.

Licht said that the task of the workers should be made easier this year by the appearance of Israeli Ambassador Abba S. Eban as the principal speaker. This is one of the few speaking engagements Eban has accepted this fall.

A reception in honor of Ambassador Eban will be held prior to the dinner, Licht said, with state, city and civic leaders attending.

Study Finds Jews Especially Susceptible to Heart Ailment

NEWARK, N. J. — A study released by Beth Israel Hospital this week indicates that Jews are particularly susceptible to myocardial infarction. Myocardial infarction is the death of a segment of heart muscle due to an inadequate blood supply brought on by one of several processes such as coronary occlusion or coronary thrombosis.

The study of the disease, prepared by the Beth Israel Hospital physicians, is believed to be the largest published report on this subject from a single hospital.

Dr. Irving L. Applebaum ascribes the higher Jewish incidence of this disease, commonly known as a heart attack, to two main factors. "I feel that the large number of Jews with diabetes, a disease which this study shows to be related to myocardial infarction, is the first factor," he says.

Dr. Applebaum also believes that various sociological pressures create "certain emotional states relating to this disease."

Take Legal Action to Prevent Mixed Seating in Synagogue

NEW YORK — Legal efforts by members of a Mid-Western orthodox synagogue to prevent its board of trustees from instituting mixed seating of men and women have been supported here by the Rabbinical Council of America and the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America.

The controversy began when the trustees of Congregation Beth Tephilath Moses of Mt. Clemens, Mich., voted to permit men and women to sit together on the recent High Holy Days. The action was taken over the protests of a group of members of the congregation and despite the personal intervention of Rabbi David B. Hollander, Rabbinical Council president.

Those members opposing the change then went to court, charging, according to the Rabbinical Council, that the trustees "had no right to destroy the religious character of the synagogue and that their property rights as members of the congregation were being abridged."

The court issued a temporary order restraining the trustees from establishing or permitting mixed seating during the High Holy Days and maintaining present rules, pending a determination of the merits of the case.

Will Aid Case

Rabbi Hollander and Moses Feuerstein, UOJCA president, have pledged their help in carrying through the case against the change. They declared that a decision favorable to their cause "will be of the greatest significance in assisting religious Jews all over the country in preserving the orthodox character of their houses of worship."

Rabbi Hollander also disclosed that the 2 groups have also taken an active part in a similar dispute involving a congregation in New York State.

The Rabbinical Council last month launched a campaign against mixed seating. Rabbi Hollander at that time announced that the practice had been condemned by leading orthodox rabbis.

Refugee Develops New Jet Engine

CINCINNATI, Ohio — The first United States supersonic bomber will be powered by a new jet engine whose chief developer is a Jewish refugee from Germany. Gerhard Neumann, it was revealed here this week. The new engine, the J-79, was developed by Neumann at the General Electric Evendale plant here.

The 38-year-old engineer, whose father was a manufacturer in Frankfurt-am-der-Oder, exhibited his propensities at an early age, having won a prize for building a wind velocity indicator at the age of 13. He graduated from engineering school in 1938. Hearing that the Chinese Nationalists wanted engineers, he set out for China only to be interned in Hong Kong later as an "enemy alien" by the British when the war broke out. Facing internment in Ceylon, unless he could find a country to accept him, Neumann met an American, who took him to Kunming, China, as a mechanic. Eventually he met Claire L. Chennault, commander of the "Flying Tigers," and wound up serving with them.

When the United States entered the war, Chennault got special permission from the Pentagon to have the "enemy alien" given a sergeant's rating in the Air Force. Just as he returned to the U. S. after the war, President Truman signed a special bill granting him citizenship.

Israel Denies Permit For Bullfight

JERUSALEM — The Government of Israel recently banned a proposed bullfight in the municipal stadium at Ramath Gan, a suburb of Tel Aviv. The decision was adopted unanimously at a Cabinet meeting.

Earlier, Israel Chief Rabbi Isaac Herzog and Yitzhak Nissim protested to the city administration of Ramath Gan against the staging of the bullfight. Their message declared that such a contest would be "against Judaism's morality." A private promoter had applied for permission to rent the stadium for a bullfight.

Give Scholarship In Governor's Name

HARTFORD, Conn. — Two new scholarships — one of them to be named for Connecticut's Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff — have been established at Trinity College here by the Suisman Foundations. The initial scholarship holders will take up their grants at the college in the current fall semester.

Both will be granted on the basis of need and academic promise, without regard to race or creed. Last year, the foundation set up a scholarship at Yale University in honor of the late Samuel and Meyer Botwinik.

400 Workers Ready for Drive

Four hundred workers are poised for M-Day on Sunday — the climax of the 1955 campaign of the Women's Division of the General Jewish Committee.

Mrs. Sidney Weinstein, M-Day general chairman, reminded workers that M-Day activities will start at 9 A. M., with breakfast at the Narragansett Hotel. She urges everyone to report promptly in order that the actual canvassing can get underway without delay.

Headquarters for M-Day will be set up in the Narragansett Hotel. Workers will be given cards of prospects to be solicited and final instructions at the breakfast. The workers—four solicitors to a car—then will be driven to their respective destinations by the motor corps organized under the chairmanship of Mrs. Stanley Grossman.

M-Day tags will be worn by the workers and M-Day stickers will be placed on the cars used in the one-day intensive drive for funds.

As soon as the workers have completed their calls they will be driven back to the hotel headquarters to make their reports. It is hoped to have a final tally of the day's donations by the time evening rolls around.

Award Goes to Marine Chaplain

WASHINGTON — Lt. Samuel Silver, Jewish chaplain in the Marine Corps, was designated "Chaplain of the Year" by the Navy recently and was given the annual Four Chaplains' Award at the recent dedication of the Four Chaplains' Memorial Fountain at National Memorial Park.

The fountain is dedicated to the memory of four chaplains of the Jewish, Protestant and Catholic faiths who died on the torpedoed troop ship "Dorchester" during World War II after giving their life belts to soldiers. Also honored were a Protestant who was named "Chaplain of the Year" by the Air Force, and a Catholic who was similarly honored by the Army.

The citation to Rabbi Silver, who was wounded in action in Korea, said that "as the only Jewish chaplain in the First Marine Division he, without regard to his personal safety, made frequent trips to the front lines and spent many days and nights with the men under heavy artillery and mortar fire in order to bring them the strength and consolation of their faith as well as many physical comforts and food."

Center Young Adults To Meet Thursday

The Young Adult Association of the Jewish Community Center will hold its first membership meeting and social at the Center on Thursday evening, November 3, at 8:30 o'clock. The agenda of the short business session will include a discussion of proposed plans for the current season, to be followed by social dancing and refreshments.

Membership in the group is open to all single young adults, between the ages of 18 and 35, and all those interested are invited to attend this first get-together.

Institute Speaker

DR. ARTHUR J. LELYVELD, national director of B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations, who will be the first of five lecturers to discuss the topic "Agenda for the American Jew" at the 28th annual Institute of Jewish Studies for Adults, sponsored by Temple Emanuel, on Wednesday at 8:45 P. M.

Designed to feature a combination of adult lectures on Jewish life and affairs and a series of study courses, Temple Emanuel's Institute will inaugurate its 1955 series with a speaker well known to the Jewish community throughout the country. Dr. Lelyveld, author, lecturer, and former Omaha, Neb. rabbi, is also American vice-chairman of World University Service, and founder of National Federation of Temple Youth. He also served as public panel chairman for the War Labor Board.

Study classes will feature a faculty consisting of Prof. Israel J. Kapstein of Brown University, Mrs. Aaron Klein, and Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen. Courses in "Book of Job," "Beginner's Hebrew," and "The Prayer Book" preceded each lecture.

Center to Conduct Bridge Tournaments

Duplicate bridge tournaments will be conducted at the Jewish Community Center's Session Street building on Wednesday evenings, beginning Wednesday, Nov. 9, at 8 o'clock. It was announced today by the Center's Adult Activities Committee, under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Hyman Goldstein, Frank Supnick and Norman Tilles.

Open to all adults, the duplicate games will be directed by Mrs. Eugenia Tellef, local bridge instructor and tournament supervisor. An admission fee will be charged and cash prizes will be awarded the evening's winners.

Although no advance registration will be required, adults who plan to attend and play are requested to leave their names at the Center office so as to assure a table reservation.

To Resume Sunday Clubs at JCC

The Jewish Community Center's Sunday Clubs, for children 5½ to 12 years old, will resume their weekly schedule this Sunday afternoon, from 2 to 4 o'clock. Meeting fun, games, crafts, dramatics, sports and many other activities are offered for boys and girls enrolled in the JCC Sunday Clubday program, which is open to all Center members at no additional fee.

Supervised by Center group leaders, the program is directed by Mrs. Marion Roseman, JCC children's worker. Children not already enrolled in the program may join this Sunday afternoon.

University Reveals Plans for New Chair

PARIS — A chair for the study of modern and ancient Hebrew civilization has been established at the University of Strasbourg, it was announced here. The action by the Ministry for National Education came after several months of discussion between officials of the Israel Embassy here and French authorities. The establishment of the chair will aid the development of a corps of professors of modern Hebrew in this country.

T & I Division Leaders Prepare for 1955 Drive

More than 40 chairmen and co-chairmen of the important Trades and Industry Division of the 1955 campaign of the General Jewish Committee met last week at the home of Joseph K. Levy, general chairman of that division, to discuss plans for streamlining this phase of the fund raising drive.

Levy, who is being assisted by Irving J. Fain, co-chairman, said that the procedure in this division this year has been simplified to make it unnecessary for the leaders and workers in each trade division to attend numerous meetings. He added that, this streamlined program not only will make it easier for everyone connected with the drive but it will allow the workers to concentrate on the more important matter of better solicitation jobs to produce increased donations from contributors.

The Trades and Industries division covers most of the large business and industrial firms in the Greater Providence area and plays a leading role in the annual GJC campaign of funds.

It was announced that separate trade dinners have been eliminated this year and one major function will be held for the entire division. The one affair will be a workers breakfast on Sunday, Nov. 13, at 10 A. M. at the Ledgemont Country Club.

At last week's meeting the chairmen and co-chairmen were given the names of workers in their division who will be invited to the workers breakfast. The leaders have been asked to contact these workers to be certain that they attend the Sunday morning affair at which the workers will be given numbered cards to solicitate. The drive in this division will be concentrated in a 10-day period to be known as Trades and Industry Week.

Superior Fuels Wins Playoff Game

A slip on the basepaths that forfeited the tying run ruined a game attempt by Broadway Auto Sales to win the opening contest of the Jewish Softball League championship playoffs Sunday at Hopkins Park in a series that was still on again-off again late in the week.

The league pennant titlists, Superior Fuels, won the game 6-5 as Billy Del Vecchio bested Paul Paris in a thrilling duel. But Del Vecchio's victory was not assured until hard-hitting Murray Kerzner slipped and fell as he rounded third with the tying run with two out in the final inning. Kerzner was caught in a rundown to end the game.

Because of the involvements of a lengthy protest between Broadway Auto and Technoprint, Commissioner Herb Goldis announced that he did not recognize this game. He cancelled the rest of the series. The games were authorized, however, by League president Jerry Feinstein.

Each club scored three times in the first inning, with Kerzner making the first of his three hits a three run home run for Broadway Auto. Superior Fuels moved out in front with a pair of tallies in the third, as against a single run by Broadway in that frame. Another run in the fifth ended Superior's scoring, but Broadway Auto came back in the seventh to tally once before Kerzner's fatal slip.

DelVecchio was instrumental in winning his own ball game. His first inning double drove in two runs and he scored the third on a double by Billy Holt. Hits by Seymour Golden and Aiello led the way to the winners' third inning tally, while Herb Weintraub and Shelton Golden produced the hits needed for the winning run.

Broadway Auto scored its fourth run on hits by Bergel and Kerzner, who had four runs batted in. Vilardofsky, who also had three hits, scored the final run on a single by Chernik. It was Chernik who singled in the seventh for what seemed at the time like the tying run.

How to Be Happy As a Rabbi's Wife

By Janice Rothschild
(From Southern Israelite)

Having read an article "Heaven Help the Rabbi's Wife," I feel compelled to cry out in defense of our congregations.

From my point of view, "things ain't so bad as all that." Our lives, though they be not perfect bliss, are not nearly so grim as my fellow rebbitsen would have you believe.

As I see it, life as a rabbi's wife has its ups and downs, its calms and its storms in very much the same fashion as any other life.

Live In Goldfish Bowl

It is true that we live in a goldfish bowl. But I don't think we've cornered that market either. Doctors, business executives, civic leaders, anyone whose head emerges above the general level of the community provides in himself and his family a natural target for gossip.

"Among the slings and arrows" of outrageous congregations enumerated by my colleague was that of requiring the rebbitsen to set an example in religious and moral matters. It seems to me to be incumbent upon any wife to uphold those ideals for which her husband stands. True, rabbi's wives are made, not born, but neither did we become spliced on a blind date. We had plenty of time to look before we leaped.

To practice what your husband preaches is obviously what the rebbitsen must do, but here again her lot is much the same as any other wife. What wife doesn't plug her husband's products? Granted, it's more fun modeling gorgeous clothes than good deeds, but there's a great deal to be said in favor of the latter.

Clothes Problem

Speaking of clothes, A. Rebbitsen states that in her "weary pilgrimages" she has known only two rabbi's wives whose wardrobes pleased the female portion of their congregations. First of all, if this is true their husbands must have indeed had small congregations, for all of us girls know, no two women ever agree on how a third should dress. Secondly, on behalf of the dozen or more rebbitsens whom I personally consider very well dressed, I feel that she is creating a false impression of the "rebbitsenhood" in the minds of the reading public.

Represent Congregation

Since we do frequently appear in public with our husbands, we do in a sense "represent" the congregation with him, and being "representatives" as well as human requires an extremely varied set of outfits. Congregants, we find, apparently take pleasure in having their representatives look prosperous (even if such is not the case), it is no small feat to budget for as many different types of clothes as we suburbanite rebbitsens need.

This, however, does not mean that I consider myself put-upon for having to dress well on a small budget. On the contrary, it's a challenge that often proves to be a great deal of fun.

I once heard a famous rabbi preach to his colleagues on the importance of "being yourself." This is the safest and happiest formula not only for the rabbi but for his wife as well.

Mr. and Mrs. Morty Paige were guests of honor at a surprise fifth wedding anniversary party on Oct. 15 at Topsy's Restaurant. The party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Paige of Tyndall Avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Levin of Oakland Avenue. A dinner was served to 35 guests who attended from Boston, Providence and Worcester.

Lieberman-Kosofsky

The marriage of Miss Elaine Thelma Kosofsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Kosofsky of 142 Oakland Avenue, to Harvey Alan Lieberman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lieberman of 5 Forest Street, took place at a 6:30 P. M. candlelight ceremony on Oct. 16 at Churchill House. Rabbi Reuven Segal performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride was gown in floor length white nylon tulle, garlanded with white florentine lace flowers from the neckline to the bodice. Her fingertip French illusion veil was attached to a crown headpiece of pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bridal Bible trimmed with lace, white orchids and Stephanotis.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Herbert Max, sister of the bridegroom. She was attired in a gown of cocoa satin with nylon tulle, and she carried a bouquet of gold baby chrysanthemums with a matching wreath in her hair. Miss Joan Aronson, maid of honor, wore a gown of periwinkle blue lace ruffle, trimmed with nylon tulle. She carried a bouquet of pink and blue chrysanthemums, and wore a matching wreath headpiece. The junior bridesmaid, Miss Mary Israel, cousin of the bridegroom, chose a gown of pink net with baby ruffles on the skirt. She also carried pink and blue mums, arranged in a bouquet. She wore a matching wreath in her hair.

Herbert Max was best man for his brother-in-law. Ushers were Howard Kosofsky, brother of the bride; Henry Max, Abraham Israel, Allen Wilson, Marshall Eisenberg, Edward Baram, Harvey Lisker and Alvan Solomon.

The mother of the bride was attired in a powder blue cocktail dress, trimmed with satin. Mrs. Lieberman chose a cocktail length blue moonstone dress, trimmed with Slipper satin. Mrs. Samuel Levine, the bride's grandmother, wore a cocktail dress of gray slate lace on pink satin. They all wore orchid corsages.

couple will reside at 129 Oakland Avenue.

Redlich-Berlinsky

At a 6:30 P. M. candlelight ceremony at Temple Beth David, Miss Gloria Selma Berlinsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Berlinsky of Nelson Street, was married last Sunday to Harold Redlich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Redlich of Gay Street. Rabbi Nathan N. Rosen officiated. A reception followed in the Temple vestry. Guests attended from California, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride was gowned in white Skinner satin designed with a basque waist, keyhole neckline and full cathedral length train. She carried a prayerbook with white orchids and a cascade of stephanotis. Her fingertip French illusion veil was caught to a tiara of seed pearls.

Mrs. Irving Lake, matron of honor, was attired in a gown of powder blue iridescent taffeta, fashioned with white beads and sequins. She wore a matching headpiece and carried white pom-poms and blue delphiniums. Miss Cynthia H. Berlinsky, maid of honor for her sister, chose a cocktail length gown of periwinkle blue satin and tulle. She carried a cascade of white pom-poms and wore a matching headpiece. Bridesmaids were the Misses Roberta Miller, Beverly Sklut, Harriet Seidman and Carol Sannella. They all wore matching gowns of periwinkle blue net and tulle, with matching headpieces, and carried cascades of white pom-poms. Flower girls were Sylvia Berlinsky, the bride's sister, and Roanne Miller. They wore matching dresses of powder blue nylon with blue satin sashes, and carried miniature cascades of white pom-poms. They wore matching headpieces.

Leonard Redlich was best man for his brother. Ushers were Milton and Raymond Redlich, also brothers of the bridegroom, and Larry Myerson and Herbert Weiser. Daniel E. Berlinsky, brother of the bride, was junior usher.

The mother of the bride was attired in a cocktail length gown of cinnamon lace on rose-beige taffeta. She wore a matching hat and a corsage of cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Redlich chose aqua chiffon for her son's wedding. She also wore a matching hat and a corsage of hybrid orchids. Mrs. Harry Berlinsky, the bride's grandmother wore a blue lace cocktail length dress and a matching hat. Her corsage was of hybrid orchids. Mrs. Harry Brooks wore purple crepe for her grandson's wedding, with a matching hat and a hybrid orchid corsage.

After a wedding trip through the Western states, the couple will reside in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Plan To Sponsor Daily Evening Service

A committee to consider plans for Brotherhood sponsorship of daily evening services at Temple Beth El has been appointed by Hyman S. Goodwin, Brotherhood president. The committee is headed by Norman Alper and includes Samuel Rantz, Robert Korvitz, Albert Shatkin, Saul Zarchen, Harold Roberts and Nathan Alterman.

The brotherhood also plans to provide one Kiddush a month after Friday evening services. A new member night will be observed at next Friday's Sabbath service, with Theodore Lowe as chairman of the arrangements committee.

Cranston Women To Meet Nov. 2

Study Finds Jews Susceptible

all the patients at Beth Israel during the course of the 7-year study were Jewish, almost 77% of the patients with this type of heart ailment were of the Jewish religion. The report states, "In this series the patients of the Hebrew faith had an astoundingly high incidence of myocardial infarction as opposed to the other groups which were admitted to the hospital... (we feel) that this higher incidence of myocardial infarction in those of the Hebrew faith is a valid fact."

Another finding of the study is a relationship between myocardial infarction and the female hormone. More men are struck by heart trouble than women, but the study showed that after the menopausal state in the female, the ratio of women to men rises.

This suggests to the physicians a possibility that the female hormone may act as a protective agent against heart trouble. Doctors at Beth Israel hope to do further research on this particular question when the laboratory building now under construction is completed.

7-Year Study

The study, which gave insights into the causative factors, diagnosis and therapy of myocardial infarction, deals with data collected at the hospital over a period of 7 years. The 126-page article "Myocardial Infarction—A Clinical Review of 888 Consecutive Cases" will be published in the October issue of the Journal of the Newark Beth Israel Hospital.

The report showed that the average age at which a coronary thrombosis is likely to occur is 58.3 years, with the male group averaging 56.8 years and the female group 62.2 years. For each woman who gets heart trouble of this sort, 2.7 males do, but after the menopausal state more females are stricken.

Another fact which the study brought out was the relationship of diabetes and hypertension to myocardial infarction. It failed to show, however, any significant relationship between the type or amount of work a person did and the likelihood that he would have heart trouble.

Certain factors which precipitated an attack were noted, (effort, 12%; heavy meals, 5%; emotional excitement, 2%; surgery, 56%) but in the majority of cases no immediate incident could be identified.

Pain was noted as a symptom in 98.5% of the cases. The study showed, however, that in the majority of cases of myocardial infarction, the case history of a patient is more likely than physical examination to point to the correct diagnosis.

Even laboratory studies were not very helpful in determining the diagnosis, course and prognosis of this disease. The electrocardiogram presented definite findings in 84% of the cases on admission to the hospital, but in post mortem studies the correlation of the electrocardiogram with exact anatomical lesions indicated an accuracy of only 67%.

The efficacy of anticoagulant drugs which have been used widely as therapy for coronary occlusion was disputed in the study. It states that they result in a condition where "proper therapeutic levels are not only difficult to attain but are fraught with the added risks of hemorrhage, even though minor in character."

Attack Not Recognized

Post-mortem studies included in the report indicate that some persons have suffered from mild attacks of coronary trouble which they have not even bothered to report to their physicians. Sometimes they describe such episodes as indigestion, "muscle strain," "gas" or "a cold in the chest muscles," not realizing they have had a mild coronary attack.

One of the reasons the study is important, according to its editors, is because it points out some fields which have not yet been studied enough. Such things as the genetic or hereditary factor, or the role of degenerative diseases in heart trouble, need to be explored. "This report gives us a basis for future investigative laboratory work" says Dr. Applebaum.

Mara and Kum-A-Long, the Dragon

Mara and Her Dancers will open the Jewish Community Center's 1955-56 Children Theatre Series on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 13, with their production of "Land of the Playful Dragon".

Mrs. Arthur Eisenstein, chairman of the JCC Children's Theatre committee, announced that admission to the five Children's Theatre programs will be by season ticket only. All performances will be presented at the Nathan Bishop Junior High School auditorium, and tickets are available for either of two performances, at 2 P. M. and 4 P. M. at the JCC office, at Roth's Ticket Agency, Gladding's children's departments, and from members of the Children's Theatre committee.

The Book Shelf

By Philip Goodman

Hillel sagaciously warned: "Say not when I have leisure. I will study; perchance thou wilt have no leisure." Ethics of the Fathers, 11:5.

A balanced plan of leisure reading should include both light and serious works, recent as well as older titles. Since the choicest books are not necessarily the latest to be published, the average bookshop which features current titles is not the best place to acquire a good selection of Jewish books. A better source is a local Jewish library or a public library if the latter maintains a Judaica shelf. Stores that specialize in Jewish literature will have or can obtain any volume requested. A list of recommended books, such as A Book List for the Jewish Adult, by Solomon Grayzel (Jewish Book Council of America, 145 East 32nd St., New York, N. Y.) will be an invaluable guide.

It is easy enough to pick up a light humorous novel like Ethel Rosenberg's Uncle Julius and the Angel with Heartburn or Yuri Suhl's delightful books of immigrant life—One Foot in America and Cowboy on a Wooden Horse. For sheer enjoyment and relaxation Leo W. Schwarz's excellent anthologies—The Jewish Caravan: Great Stories of Twenty-five Centuries and A Golden Treasury of Jewish Literature—are highly recommended. So too is A Treasury of Yiddish Literature, edited by Irving Howe and Eliezer Greenberg, embracing a score of the best Yiddish writers. The World of Sholom Aleichem by Maurice Samuel brilliantly interprets the humor and pathos of that celebrated Yiddish writer.

To refresh ones self in the tereaf wisdoms there is the world's best-seller—The Holy Scriptures—which no Jew can afford not to know. A fascinating guide and introduction to it, Pathways Through the Bible by Mortimer

J. Cohen, "seeks to hew out pathways through the luxuriant complexities of the Bible so that the unskilled traveller may find his way through it with ease and with pleasure." Among the numerous works of Biblical fiction, Thomas Mann's Joseph and His Brothers is outstanding. The art lover will find delight in Rembrandt, The Jews and the Bible, by Franz Landsberger, and The Book of Jonah, with illustrations by Jacob Steinhardt and Franzisca Baruch.

From the Bible, the fountainhead of the Jewish religion, one may well turn to seek knowledge of the fundamentals of Judaism. A simple, descriptive presentation of Jewish customs, which appeared originally in Life Magazine, is What the Jews Believe, by Philip S. Bernstein. The Beliefs and Practices of Judaism by Louis Finkelstein is a popular exposition of the essentials of the Jewish religion presented concisely and interestingly.

A good start for a day of relaxation can be made by using the Authorized Daily Prayer Book, edited by Joseph H. Hertz.

The observance of the Sabbath will be considerably enhanced by the reading of Abraham E. Millgram's anthology of stories, poems and other pertinent material on Sabbath, The Day of Delight and Abraham Joshua Heschel's beautiful essay, The Sabbath.

In the realm of Jewish history there are two excellent one-volume works: A History of the Jews, by Solomon Grayzel, an interpretive work, emphasizing the spiritual aspects of the Jewish past, and Israel: A History of the Jewish People, by Rufus Lears, a popularly written book. A great novel of modern Jewish history is John Hersey's The Wall, a brilliant account of the revolt of the Jews in the Warsaw ghetto.

The recent observance of the tercentenary of Jewish settlement in the United States should have whetted appetites for a knowledge of the Jewish past in America. Lears's The Jews in America: A History is a popular presentation of the entire subject written in a warm and inspiring vein. Fascinating facets of American Jewish life are treated in Pilgrims in a New Land and Jewish Patriots, both written by Lee M. Friedman. Blessed Is the Land, by Louis Zara, is a fictionalized account of the first group of Jewish settlers in New Amsterdam. Charles Angoff in his trilogy, Journey to the Dawn, In the Morning Light, and The Sun at Noon, has written a brilliant and moving account of an immigrant family.

Pride in the establishment of the young State of Israel needs to be bolstered by a knowledge of its background and achievements. Here again we are indebted to Lears for his comprehensive history, Fulfillment: The Epic Story of Zionism. A stirring novel of the Israeli War is Quiet Street, by Zeldia Popkin.

"Make thy books thy companions, let thy book cases and shelves be thy pleasure-grounds and gardens. Bask in their paradise, gather their fruit, pluck their roses, take their spices, and their myrrh. If thy soul be satiate and weary, change from garden to garden, from prospect to prospect. Then will desire renew itself, and thy soul be filled with delight."—Judah ibn Tibbon.

Reprinted from "Adult Jewish Education Newsletter," published by the National Academy of Adult Jewish Studies of the United Synagogue of America. Rabbi Goodman is secretary of the Jewish Book Council of America.

Radio Players

To Cast Monday

Final casting for their first play of the season will be completed by the Radio Players of the Jewish Community Center on Monday evening at the Center, and the first rehearsal will then be held. Several major roles in this production remain to be filled, Syd Cohen, director, said.

Foreign Correspondents Will Address GJC Area Division

Yehuda Hellman, foreign correspondent and political commentator for the Israeli Times in Jerusalem, will be the principal speaker at the Area Division buffet dinner on November 2 in behalf of the 1955 campaign of the General Jewish Committee; it was announced today by Alter Boyman, Area Division chairman.

Raised and educated in Israel, Hellman studied at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem and received his degree in political science at the American University of Beirut. He has served as correspondent in Arab countries for the Jerusalem Post.

The dinner will be held at the Greenwich Club on Post Road in East Greenwich.

Chairmen and co-chairmen from the five cities and towns in the Area Division have spared no efforts to make this affair one of the most successful ever conducted by this division and are expecting a large attendance.

Those assisting Boyman are Herman N. Silverman, chairman, East Greenwich; Julius Abrams, co-chairman, East Greenwich; William Deitch and Max Margolis, co-chairmen, West Warwick; Jack Mossberg, chairman, Warwick; Jerome Fish, chairman, Cranston; and Ben Hazen, chairman, Bristol-Warren.

Boyman points out that the Area Division has taken on significant importance in this year's campaign because of the large movement of Jewish families to suburban areas in the state.

"Contributions from the towns and cities in the Area Division will have an important bearing on the ultimate success of the 1955 campaign," Boyman said. "Because of the added importance of these communities in the campaign, plans are being made to contact all Jewish families in the area. So far the response from workers has been satisfactory and we feel certain that our efforts will meet with success."

A Call to Parents

Providence's Bureau of Jewish Education has joined in the call to Jewish parents published by the American Association for Jewish Education.

The call, issued in conjunction with Jewish Education Month new being celebrated, urges parents to enroll their children in a daily Hebrew or Sunday school so that they may participate in a traditional Jewish upbringing.

The Greater Providence area now has many accredited schools, and it behooves local parents to answer the call. The backbone of Jewish survival through countless centuries of exile has been Jewry's total identification with its tradition and culture. This identification dare not slacken in our time.

The purpose of Jewish Education Month is to strike these points home, as well as to emphasize the fact that Jewish tradition and culture must be reborn and instilled in each successive generation of Jewish youth.

This can best be accomplished by responding to the Bureau of Jewish Education's call to parents—by making certain that our youth are exposed to the essential cultural and religious values of Judaism in our schools so that they will be properly prepared for a life as Jews in America.

Center Replies to B. Alter

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This letter will conclude the interchange between B. Alter and the Jewish Community Center on the latter's policies and philosophy. Both parties have now had ample opportunity to express their opinions.)

The Jewish Community Center is community business. Because we feel that way, we are always happy to keep the community informed about all that goes on at our Center. It is to the credit of the Jewish Herald that the community has had many opportunities during these past few years to read about what is happening at Center. It is in that spirit — of keeping the community informed—that I respond as President of the Jewish Community Center to the B. Alter letter of last week which indicated that B. Alter required further enlightenment.

Believe me, B. Alter, we at Center have been more conscious than most people about the dire need for the many things Center has to offer in the South Side of our city. For at least 10 years, all the leaders in our community, including B. Alter, have been desirous of a South Side Center Branch program. We are making this dream a reality this year. With all the difficulties involved in procuring a building, to remodel, decorate and furnish, with limited funds, do you think it is fair after all these years without a building, to make a major issue of whether it will open September 1 or December 1?

We, at Center, are extremely self-critical of our programming—we are constantly examining and evaluating our activities even more so than B. Alter could imagine. Believe me, we are making every effort to have a good program when the Center is opened on the South Side. At our main building on Sessions Street, we have had excellent programming on many spheres, despite B. Alter's failure to recognize them.

We are particularly proud of our Children's program which involved hundreds of elementary school aged children during the past year. How many of these programs has B. Alter observed for himself? Has he visited our Junior Club program in which several hundred children are receiving many happy Jewish experiences and training in democratic group living? How many of our Children's Theatre programs has he attended which provide such a wonderful time for over 600 boys and girls? What does he know of the Center leadership training program for teen agers through our Junior Aides of Center (JACS)? Has he ever accompanied the many bus-loads of children on their educational and fun-filled trips? How many times, B. Alter have you visited Camp Centerland which has grown steadily each year because of a good job being done by our Camp Committee and our professional staff? How many times have you observed our Center's Nursery School in operation? What do you really know, B. Alter, of the Center program that goes on day after day, providing so many happy experiences for our boys and girls?

Despite the fact that we have no gymnasium, several hundred boys and girls have been provided with physical activities, using our outdoor play area and the public schools. We could go on and point out that with a very limited staff, our teen age boys and girls have had their Charm Schools, their Jewish festival occasions, their trips, their social affairs, their club activities. Obviously B. Alter does not know the extent of parent participation in our programs with young people. We didn't see him at our Mother's Night and Fathers' Night programs which were so well received by those who participated.

How many of our Young Adult programs have you attended — B. Alter? You might find their Music-Listening Group a most enjoyable experience; their discussion program challenging and thought provoking; and their social get-togethers providing wonderful opportunities for Jewish young men and women to meet in the kind of setting that only your Jewish Community Center can provide.

We are happy that the community has two such splendid cultural programs as are provided by the Beth El Artists Series and the Emanuel Institute of Jewish Studies for Adults. We only wish that we had the budget support from our allocating agencies to enable us to further enrich our community life by offering additional programs of this type.

However, through necessity, our Board and Committees had to make the decision to use the less than adequate money at our disposal primarily for programs for our young people since we felt that this was one area of program which we could not afford to cut. We have endeavored to create adult activities which pro-

"One Man's Opinion"

Thoughts On M-Day

By BERYL SEGAL

Reb Levi Yitzchok, the saintly Rabbi of the town of Berditchev, on the Ukraine, was in a habit of holding heart to heart talks with God. In the middle of prayer or study he would cover up the open book in front of him, and lifting his hands heavenward, he spoke in the tongue of the people, in Yiddish:

"Merciful Father, what do you want of us?"

"Hadden't we had enough? Why do you add on calamity upon calamity?"

"Look at our tormentors. Are they better than we are? Do they serve you better? Why do you punish us so?"

"I, Levi Yitzchok of Berditchev say to you:

"Enough! Let go of us! An end must come to our troubles!"

Plead Our Cause

How well we, too, could plead our cause with Him who is in heaven, and like Reb Levi Yitzchok in his days, demand an end to our woes.

I, a child of this century, remember nothing but affliction for my people. We were blamed for wars lost and we were crushed under the wheels of revolutions. Three wars and two revolutions have my eyes seen in my native land of the Tsar and the Soviets, and in all of them we were the victims and the scapegoats.

I saw the face of the enemy, and, like Reb Levi Yitzchok I ask:

"Why do you let them torment us so, Father-in Heaven? Are they better than we are? Can it be that they serve you better? That they please you more than we? Oh, look and see the face of the enemy who wants to destroy us!"

And we all know the face of the enemy in Germany of yesterday, how deep the wounds inflicted on us by them. Need we name the enemy? Need we recount his deeds?

And Now, Egypt

And now the sly face and the scheming heart of Egypt. The sly face, the shifty eyes, and the stinging tongue of the enemy on the Nile and across the Jordan River, and the deserts of Arabia.

Remember the time they whispered in the gullible ears of our Washington diplomats that Israel is a hot bed of Communism?

"Give us arms and millions," they said, "and we will keep the Middle East safe from Communism."

Oh, how they believed this malicious slander against Israel in the high places in Washington. And to Egypt and to Syria, and to the Sheikhs of Arabia went loans and cargoes and sentiments of friendship. Who heeded our warnings? Who listened to our cries of anguish? Dulles knew best. Byroade knew best.

Hardly a year passed by since representatives of Jewish organizations were rebuked by State Department officials for questioning the good faith of the Arab nations, and for being hysterical where there was no cause for fear.

We were hysterical, we were alarmists, we trusted not the word of honor of Egypt. We were the people of little faith.

Now the whole world sees the face of the enemy. Little comfort is it to us now to be able to say, "We told you so". Just as it was little comfort to us that the whole world finally saw the face of the enemy in Germany and shuddered at the sight. We had already paid the price.

Where is the bulwark of democracy in the Middle East, oh, you diplomats in the State Department? What of the rod you were to lean on for support? The bulwark was built on deceit and it vanished, and the rod is covered with stinging barbs, and the words of assurance ring false. They were spoken in falsehood and they were conceived in treachery.

Ships given to Egypt for commercial use are now plying the seas as men-of-war. Monies given to Arabs for economic betterment are now bartered for arms from behind the Land of the Soviets.

to the hands of the enemy by the disciples of Hitler and his ilk we would say to ourselves: "Here he is, the serpent rearing his fangs again." But you, disciples of Karl Marx, followers of Lenin, heirs of Gorky, you too? You the "liberators" of the world, defenders of the downtrodden, champions of the oppressed? How ironical such claims in the mouths of merchants of arms! How they must laugh at all this in Cairo, in Saudi Arabia.

In the meantime clouds gather over the land of Israel. The peace we longed for is eluding us again. This little land that was to be our cup of consolation for all the years of affliction, this land is in danger again. It has become the butt of East-West maneuvers. And the fist of the enemy is poised again.

Where are you, Reb Yitzchok of Berditchev? Who is to plead for us and who can stand before Him and speak to the heavens in your soulful Yiddish:

"What do you want of us, Father above?"

"Hadden't we suffered enough?"

"An end must come to all this, And soon."

"I, Levi Yitzchok, say an end must come."

But perhaps you want to test us, Father in Heaven?

Is it nothing more than your way of testing our faith in Israel?

We Will Be Tested

Then we will be tested. Though others may at times give ear to the whispering of malice by the enemies of Israel, we shall not falter in our trust, and we shall not doubt the voice of Israel spoken in truth.

How will our faith be tested?

It will be tested on M Day, and on all the other days when Israel calls us to its defense. Moral defense. Financial defense. Defense against the schemers and plotters on both sides of curtains of all colors.

But when we have withstood our test, won't you, Reb Levi Yitzchok of Berditchev, plead for us?

Haven't we had enough?

The opinions expressed by Mr. Segal are his own. His views are not necessarily those of this newspaper.

Yiddish Heard Again In Kovno Streets

TEL AVIV — The Jewish community of Kovno, capital of Soviet Lithuania, is now undergoing reorganization and Yiddish is once again being heard in its streets, it was reported here by Mrs. Dinah Klonner, 65-year-old woman who arrived in Israel. She said that a Yiddish troupe from Moscow had arrived there recently and had given performances before capacity audiences in various theatres.

At the same time, an Israel sailor, returning from the Rumanian port city of Konstanza, reported that the synagogue there is closed and that no High Holiday services were held there.

Coughlin Doubtful On Early Activity

NEW YORK — Father Charles
E. Coughlin of Royal Oak, Mich.,
who, at the height of his influence, published the Protocols of the Elders of Zion, thinks that it may have been unwise. "First of all," Father Coughlin told Irwin Ross of the New York Post, "the validity of the documents was somewhat doubtful. But that's irrelevant. The main thing is that it was uncharitable to rake up all that ancient history."

Father Coughlin, whose story led off a New York Post "Where Are They Now?" series about people who had once bulked large in the news and were now living in relative obscurity, insisted that he was never an anti-Semite. "Why, it's preposterous to indict an entire race of people," he said. He added that some of his best friends were Jews.

MOVIES OF ISRAEL

Last Thursday night Solomon
Lightman of 15 Verndale Avenue showed movies of his trip to Israel to a capacity audience of residents in the recreation room of the Jewish Home for the Aged. While showing the film, Lightman gave a running commentary. He also included films taken in Israel by Rabbi Abraham Chill of the Sons of Abraham Synagogue.

This week there will be a game night for Home residents, sponsored by the Ladies Association of which Mrs. Thomas H. Goldberg is president.

If there was one thing in the world Mrs. Pete Skinowitz hated it was to go out in bad weather. Her utterly devoted husband bought her a raincoat, a fur coat, and an assortment of gloves, rubbers and galoshes.

But even with these she hated to make like a mailman whom rain, hail, snow or darkness doth not deter. She just hated it. Really.

Which was why she was so happy that OUR Driver-Salesman came right to her door with all the wonderful, FRESH dairy products.

Fed her family very well, too, and saved money doing it. Lots of husky chowders, eggs in about a zillion different ways -- and her cheesecake, made with luscious, creamy Cottage Cheese, was the envy of her friends.

Her numerous children simply adored her because she always kept plenty of Chocolate Milk in the refrigerator. And never once did she have to lug these things home. Our Driver-Salesman did the job.

Whether or not you like weather, our men would like to call at your place, too.

To Discuss Wouk's New Novel

DR. T. WEISS-ROSMARIN

Herman Wouk's current best-seller, "Marjorie Morningstar", will be the subject of a symposium by two literary figures at the meeting of Women's Organization of Center to be held in the Sessions Street building at 8:15 o'clock.

Dr. Trude Weiss-Rosmarin, editor of the "Jewish Spectator", and Professor Milton Hindus, associate professor of English at Brandeis University, will discuss many aspects of the novel including the reality of the characters and situations; the literary quality of the book, and its contribution to intercultural understanding.

Dr. Rosmarin, a graduate of the University of Wurtzburg, Germany, is a former teacher of Jewish literature at the New School for Social Research in New York. She was former director of the

PROF. MILTON HINDUS

School of the Jewish Woman, and co-chairman of the ZOA Education Committee.

Professor Hindus, a graduate of City College of New York and Columbia University, has served as a book reviewer for the New York Herald Tribune. His published works include "The Crippled Giant" and "One Destiny".

Chairman for the evening is Mrs. George Katz. She will be assisted by program co-chairmen: Mesdames Edward Waldman, Leo Borenstein and Benjamin Lewis. Hostesses for the evening are Mrs. Maurice Miller and Mrs. Daniel Podrat.

The public is invited to attend the meeting, the discussion program and the coffee hour which will follow.

Mrs. Brier to Attend Hadassah Convention

The Providence Chapter of Hadassah will be represented by Mrs. Benjamin Brier at the 41st annual convention of Hadassah which will be held in Chicago from Oct. 30 through Nov. 2.

Among those who will address the convention are Abba Evan, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, and Herman Wouk. More than 3,000 delegates representing Hadassah's 1200 chapters and groups will attend the four-day assembly, which will be dedicated to advancing Hadassah's $9,000,000 program of medical, social welfare, child rescue and rehabilitation, etc.

R. I. Selfhelp Elects Officers

Ludwig Regensteiner was recently elected president of the Rhode Island Selfhelp, along with Carl Passman, vice-president and program chairman; Bruno Hoffman, vice-president and treasurer; Edward Scherz and Lazarus Bock, corresponding secretaries; Arthur Greenberg, financial secretary; Herman Wenkart, recording secretary, and Mrs. Frederick Weil, publicity.

The group's first affair of the season will be a dance tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Jewish Community Center auditorium. Orchestra music will be featured. The Kings will present exhibition dancing, and refreshments will be served. Admission is free to all paid-up members; others may purchase tickets at the door. Carl Passman is chairman for the evening, and Mrs. Henry Hely is refreshments chairman.

Organize Drive For Single Girls' Group

Mrs. Martin Dittelman of Hope Chapter, B'nai B'rith Women, led a preliminary meeting to organize a drive for a single girls' group within the Chapter. The meeting was held Oct. 18 at the home of Mrs. Martin Buckler, president.

Miss Gloria Cohen and Miss Sandra Greenberg are co-chairmen for the new project. Unmarried girls interested in becoming members of the Chapter are asked to call Miss Cohen at JA 1-2765 or Miss Greenberg at PL 1-8216.

HOSPITAL VISITATION

Patients at the Newport Naval Hospital were visited on Oct. 4 by members of the B'nai B'rith Lodge and Chapter. Over 150 men were served an assortment of soft drinks, fruits and ice cream. Assisting Mrs. Morris Ratush, chairman, were Mrs. Samuel Bereditch and Mrs. David Litchman.

SYD COHEN:

Pre-Game Practice

During the past season, Ford Frick, Commissioner of Baseball, dedicated himself to the duty of surveying the factors tending to keep the fans at home instead of in the grandstands and bleachers. "What's Wrong With Baseball?" was his theme, and professional fact-finders went to work on this survey with a vengeance.

While the results have long since been published, and remedial action already begun in some instances, I would recommend to Mr. Frick that he listen to Tris Speaker, the Hall of Fame Gray Eagle of Red Sox and Indians immortality, who came out last week with an opinion that warmed the cockles of this column's heart.

It's an indirect indictment of what's wrong with Baseball, but it has meat on it. Briefly, Speaker bemoans the fact that outfielders today don't register the high number of assists that were recorded in former days.

At first glance, this looks like one of those "they don't turn out the ball players today that they used to in the old days" sort of stuff. But Spoke meant none of that. Tris cites a legitimate reason for the dearth of assists. Back in his day, he says, an outfielder was always practicing throwing, even during a game. After a routine catch with nobody on base, every fielder would whip the ball either to the plate or to some other base as if the game depended on it.

This constant practice in actual game conditions sharpened up those throwing arms — as well as the fielders' mental reflexes—and automatically resulted in better throws, and more putouts on the bases, during the course of the season.

What does this have to do with the original theme of "What's Wrong With Baseball?" Simply this—Tris Speaker says that the fans used to get an added kick out of watching these great practice throws from the outfield. They helped liven up many a dull ball game, and they kept the crowd buzzing.

Today's fielders merely lob the ball to the nearest infielder after catching a fly, and Speaker says they would be accused of showboating if they turned loose the power. That's because nobody does it. If all managers insisted that their outfielders turn on the steam, two things would result—1, the arms of the players would become more efficient, and 2—the fans would get a little extra for their money.

Needless to say, it wouldn't hurt the gate at all to have arguments all over town as to whether Hank Bauer throws as well as Jimmy Piersall and Jackie Jensen.

RHODE ISLAND JEWISH BOWLING CONGRESS

The Jacobsons Win Congress' Third Mixed Doubles Tournament

Sid and Evelyn Jacobson are the winners of last Sunday's third annual mixed doubles tournament sponsored by the R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress.

Rolling a combined total of 719 with the aid of a 90-pin handicap for the three strings, Sid, who bowls for Sackin-Shockett, and Evelyn, a member of Pioneer Women, came up with a strong third string of 147 and 100, plus their 30-pin handicap, to insure their victory on the R. I. Recreation Alleys.

Al Abrams of Beth Israel and Arline Abrams of Fineman-Trinkel Auxiliary were second with 695 with a 60-pin handicap, edging Murray Trinkle of Beth El and Flo Tilles of Fineman-Trinkel Auxiliary, who had a handicap of 42 pins, by a single pin.

Merlyn and Miriam Rodyn of Warwick were close behind with 693 (36), followed by another Warwick couple, Irv and Doris Zaidman, who had 692 (105), which was equalled by Mal Mickler of Beth El and Clare Mickler of Fineman-Trinkel Auxiliary, 692 (36).

While the Jacobsons rolled the combined high single of 277, the award goes to the Micklers with 252, since congress rules allow only one prize per tourney.

Ruby and Renee Lipson of the Kavodians were the scratch bowlers, and they ended up with a 607 total.

Here are other results:

Marty Buckler of Beth Israel and Phyllis Grebstein of B'nai Brith Women, 684 (54); George Bressler of Beth El and Barbara Bressler of Fineman-Trinkel Auxiliary, 663 (36); Nat Alterman of Beth El and Ruth Tanenbaum of Beth Israel Women, 575 (63); Bert Kiefer of Independents and Jane Kiefer of B'nai Brith Women, 616 (114).

Also, Burt Himmelfarb of AEPI and Hope Himmelfarb of Fineman-Trinkel Auxiliary, 635 (42); Maurice and Irene Messing of Cranston, 603 (81); Sam and Ida Shaver of Fineman-Trinkel, 613 (108); Myer Jarcho of Beth El and Sylvia Jarcho of Fineman-Trinkel Auxiliary, 628 (36); Fred and Sylvia Kafirissen of Cranston, 653 (36).

Also Howard and Kayla Flamer of Fineman-Trinkel, 612 (48); Mort Miller of Independents and Dolores Miller of B'nai Brith, 640 (99); Elwin Rosenbaum of Cousins and Nancy Rosenbaum of Beth Israel Women, 642 (90); Nat and Mildred Millman of Beth Israel, 664 (36); Len and Fannie Levin of Fineman-Trinkel, 670 (72); Si and Gert Aron of Warwick, 639 (78); Bernie and Lila Silver of single point, as Appelbaum reports, but it was valiantly fought for and deservedly won.

(Let's hear from other leagues on some exciting matches!)

Warwick, 607 (108).

Also, Abe and Bella Aron of Warwick, 651 (99); and Bernice Rodin of Warwick, 622 (63); Sam Feldman of Fineman-Trinkel and Evelyn Torman, 637 (81); Phil Shaulson of Beth El and Sandra Ritch, 630 (54); Vin DeCesaris of Beth El and Helene Preblud, 603 (36); Lew Weinstein of Sackin-Shockett and Flora Soren of Pioneer Women, 644 (90); Perry Agronick of R. I. Jewish Fraternal and Francis Agronick of Pioneer Women, 632 (114).

Also Gerald Cherniack of Independents and Lee Cherniack, 637 (72); Sid Dressler of AEPI and Yvonne Dressler of B'nai Brith, 593 (63); Norman Gordon of Fineman-Trinkel and Muriel Gordon of B'nai Brith, 604 (81); Howard Backner of Beth David and Ruth Kouffman, 573 (81); Isador Yammud of Beth David and Marilyn Paulom, 601 (105); Harry Fellman of Independents and Dorothy Blawise of Pioneer Women, 616 (69); and Noah Miller of Emanuel El and Hilda Rifkin of B'nai Brith, 644 (90).

Figures in brackets denote three-string handicap.

Alley Gossip

By Joe Gutterball

Probably the greatest oddity of the young congress season is the combination racked up by L. Green of R. I. Jewish Fraternal. He rolled three strings of 111 each for a total of 333. That's probably the only combination of three alike numbers for a string score adding up to three alike numbers for a total in duck pins.

Around the Leagues...

WARWICK

By Irving Zaidman

Merl Rodyn, the league's average-leader with 120, posted a single of 118 and a total of 328. Sam Katz scored the best three-string combination for the night, 334. He maintains a 110 average.

Al Rodin, finally hitting his stride, managed a 117, 111 and 95 for a 323. Jack Chaiken turned in a string of 114.

Two of the three strings Aleph rolled were the best team for the night: their 514 and 510 together with a lesser string totaled 1491, also the highest of the night.

AEPI

By Jerry Freiberg

Burt Himmelfarb, who already owns the top triple in the league

We're waiting for the latest word on the bowling prowess of Harry Chase in the Cousins league. The report is he started off the season with a three-string average of 84 rolling a 95 average last season. Murray Shiro, our correspondent, figures Harry hasn't been told the alleys are better this year.

Not only is Irving Zaidman treasurer of the congress, but he's also president of the Warwick league. Now, he has taken on the added task of being his league's correspondent until one of the other bowlers volunteers to send in the weekly reports.

Jerry Freiberg, Alpha Epsilon Pi's reporter, says members of the league represent seven different cities and towns this season. The majority, 22, are from Providence, five each from Cranston and Warwick, four from Pawtucket, two from Woonsocket and one each from Barrington and East Providence.

We hear that members of Beth Israel miss their honorary president, John Wyner, and hope he may be able to drop around the Casino Alleys some Tuesday night for a visit. What say fellow?

Fineman-Trinkel bowlers were given a dinner last Monday night by the league. The way some of the boys bowled the next night there were complaints they ate too much at the Dreyfus Hotel affair. Murray Gordon, league president, was host.

To Announce Sweepstakes Tourney Scores Next Week

The scores are coming in, and the results will be tabulated Sunday at the monthly delegates meeting of the R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress.

Who will be the winners in the first monthly sweepstakes tourney?

The names of the lucky ones (or are they just good bowlers?) will be published in this section of next week's Jewish Herald.

Nat Alterman of Beth El, president of the congress, and others who prepared the sweepstakes along with Sam Segal of Beth Israel, tournament chairman, were surprised at the large number of bowlers who participated.

Three congress bowlers are going to be richer by $25, $15 and $10, respectively, for winning first prize in the totals, second high total and high single, based on a handicap figured against a 120 average.

The first results showed some unusual strength among the lower category bowlers, who appeared to be smelling greenbacks as they rolled their three strings.

Watch for the dates of the next monthly sweepstakes!

Your chance at being a winner may come then.

Who Says Bowling Can't Be Exciting?

A match between the teams captained by Ben Silverman and Gene Brown at last week's Beth El bowling night proved once again that bowling is a great sport.

The way the report comes from Jack Appelbaum, ace scribe of the East Siders, Silverman's team, including Bill Matzner, Al Greenblatt, Jake Orchoff and Al Gordon, had already taken the first two points by comfortable margins. They were on their way to a solid four with a third string lead of 63 pins at the fifth box. But Brown's quintet, including Eliot Slack, Gus Newman, Hook Silverman and Mal Mickler, ate away at the big lead and made up enough pins to earn a tie at the end of the regulation 10 boxes.

This necessitated a rolloff, which Brown's underdogs came through in regal fashion to win. Only a High-ranking triples were by Len Decof 334, Hahn 331, Milt Zalk 321 and Don Decof 320. Leon Temkin rolled an even 300 for the second straight week.

The Flyers racked up a score of 1576, placing them third in the team total ratings. The Mohawks had the best single of 544.

BETH ISRAEL By Sam Osterman

Max Levy led in the triple category last week with a 351. Al Abrams was next with a 349, including a string of 132 and Herbert Fain and Dave Resnick each recorded a 343. Fain hurled the best single of the night, a 136, and Resnick scored a hard-earned 135.

Wolf Myrow, known for his consistent kegling, pinned a 327. Frank Kassel hit a 329. Sid Feldman, whose hook ball has been getting away from him lately, managed a 128 and 309.

Danny Fain, with an 85 average.

rolled a 111 and Harry Steinberg, "Mr. slow-ball," turned in a 119. Morris Bazarsky had a 109, Ben Swerling rolled a string of 116 and George Hermanson had a 305 and a single of 115.

Jerry Levy tipped the pins for 330; he owns a 95 average. Joe Kaplan scored a 123.

COUSINS

By Murray Shiro

Albert Chase led his kinsmen with a 336 and Jack Broadman, who was next with a 335, recorded a string of 132 to end his slump. Burton Kelman, whose single of 133 was the night's best, had a total of 329. Sam Diamond, also with a 329, rolled a string of 127.

Bowlers hitting better than 300 included Bill Weiss, Harold Homonoff, Dave Horowitz, Sam Rantz, Dave Goldstein, Murray Freedman, Syd Exter and Sol Snyder.

Al Chase has the highest average of 111 with Diamond next with 109, Kelman 108, Lou Chase 107, Dave Ettine 105, Rantz 105, Exter 103 and Freedman 102.

INDEPENDENTS

By Harry Fellman

Fred Fishman was the week's pacer with a 325 and a single of 126. Harry Fellman bowled the night's second best triple of 321 and hurled a string of 115.

Gerald Cherniak pinned a single of 124 and Harold Wiesel hit a 115. Wiesel's total was 315 and Bill Nasberg and Doug Mushnick also rolled 315.

The Marines were paced by Bill Pockar with 307 and strings of 113 and 112. A single of 520 and a total of 1503 led the other teams. Pockar sports an 83 average.

R. I. JEWISH FRATERNAL By Perry Agronick

Aaron Siegel rolled a 334 to pull himself one point ahead of Arden Klar and into first place in the triple department. His best string for the night, a 119, was also highest in the league for the night.

A. Millman rolled the next best total of 307 and L. Green hurled a single of 117.

TEMPLE EMANUEL

By Jack Platkin

Henry Markoff, rolling a terrific 399 to take a firm grip on first place in the triples, also places high in the congress records with that score. He is a number one in the league with a 151 single and a 117 average.

Phil Shaulson has the second best single with a 150 and Frank Goldstein the second best triple of 386. Goldstein has a 116 average and Shaulson holds up a 108. William Golis has 110 and Lefty Goratnick has a 108.

Three brothers are on the league roster this year, Joe, Sam and Israel Markovitz. Some of their scores have gone well above the 100 mark.

Max Phenex rolled a 334, Goldstein pinned 358 and Shaulson scored a 345. Joel Orchoff boasted a single of 142.

Joe Waldman's Pirates are lodged in the cellar, just like their baseball counterparts, and could use a few hefty strings to get them rolling.

PROVIDENCE FRATERNAL

By Nathan Miller

Cy Goldenberg paced the league with 320, including a 118 single. Manny Kaplan, who returned to the league after an absence of several years, came up with a 310 total.

The night's top single was rolled by Sam Sudacoff, while George Labush, who rolled 306, came up with a 120. Moe Seltzer, the top average man with 112, holds the league's second best single and triple of 133, and 345, respectively.

George Weisinger, with a 102 average, has the highest single and triple of 137 and 368. Other top average keglers are Herb Wagner with 103 and Leo Lazarus with 101.

KAVODHANS

By Evelyn Ratner

Ruby Lipson, last year's top congress bowler, joins the charmed circle of 400 bowlers by pinning just that score. His best single was a 138.

Selig Levine, who rolled a 370, had the best solo for the week, a 139.

Joe Stern turned in a total of 367 and Harry Weisberg recorded a single of 130.

The six-member men and women teams were paced by the Tigers' 1553 and a 561 single by the Braves.

BETH DAVID

By Joel Zarum

Joel Orchoff's high-flying 147 jumped him into first spot in the league's high single records. The string was also the best of the week in the congress. Orchoff's 349, the leading total for the night, put him into third place in the league's high three class.

Kenny Resnick posted the second highest total, a 345. He rolled strings of 120, 116 and 109, with his efforts pacing the Tigers to a four-point victory.

Jim Williams scored 335 and pinned a string of 123. Irv Yamuder and Saul Nulman both boasted strings of 131. Harv Pollack rolled 126 and Len Buckler scored 120.

"Mighty" Moe Rose, normally a 95 bowler, managed strings of 118 and 115.

Al Snell has the lead average of 110 with Sid Bander and Yamuder at 107, Orchoff 106, and Nulman 105.

BETH EL

By Jack Appelbaum

League president Alie Shatkin brought in the leading total of 364 with a 129 single. He was followed by Myer Jarcho, with a neat 354 and Bert Himmelfarb, who overcame a weak first string, to post 352.

Lennie Slavitt rolled the pacing single, 133, and both Jarcho and Himmelfarb had strings of 132.

Pinning for the "125 club" were Vin DeCesaris 128, Joe Robinson, Charlie Silverman and Al Hurwitz all with 127, and your correspondent, 125.

Team high single for the night was captured by Saul Haas, Appelbaum, Morris Feldman, Louis Bloom and Shatkin with 545. The team's 1548 was second-best triple.

Junior Buonanno's team, including Leo Kouffman, Bunny Adler, Mac Morgan and Jarcho rolled the highest triple of 1573 and the second place single, 542.

SACKIN-SHOCKET

By Sid Jacobson

Hotzie Strelow made news again with a triple of 372 and a single of 132, both scores tops for the night. Strelow is already in second place in the high three race with 376.

Jordy Hoffman pinned a string of 130 for a total of 354. Itz Covinsky's 356 was noteworthy and Al Greenberg brought in a single of 130.

Lew Weinstein, with his best score for the season, 324, paced his Marines to a 3-1 win over Navy. Hy Levin hurled 308 for the winners and Sam Jarcho had 334, and Sid Jacobson rolled 316 for the Navy blue.

Strelow's score helped the Seabees split with the Coast Guard who were led by Greenberg's 339 and Jay Manekofsky's 314.

Hoffman and Al Walker's 318 won three points for Army over Air Force. Covinsky and Max Sugarman's 310 paced the losers.

CRANSTON

By Ben Bloch

Moe Bernstein's hot bowling last week brought him a 368 and a string of 142. Following Bernstein's lead were Ed Berman and Bill Deitch, who each posted 340 and Ed Lang, whose total was 337.

Julian Holland pinned a string of 134 and Sam Feingold, Ben Lerner and Fred Kafrissen all rolled 127.

Kafrissen has the top average of 114, with Albe Samdperil next with 113 and Lang, Moe Filler and Ben Mellion tied at 110. Jack Perler has a 109, Mike Miller 108 and Holland, Marv Rodinsky, Sam Rose and Ruby Plushner all have 107.

The Red Sox, by pinning 557 and 1559, moved into third place in each of the league's team events.

Roll-offs were necessary in two matches: the White Sox and Reds battled, with the Reds finally winning 3-1, and the Colonels and Giants ended with an even split.

Do you think, B. Alter, that the community received its money's worth especially when you realize that this program is provided for only 50 percent of the budget originally submitted to our fund allocating agencies for adult program? Just think of the number of people involved during the year on a day to day, week to week, and month after month basis planning, guiding, participating, and you will begin to understand a little better some of what Center represents in working with our adults.

You see, B. Alter, why we are not overly impressed by your reference to a very few fine programs attended by a large number of people? We have during every week of the year, numerous adult activities, carried on every month of the season which points of their interest, through small group programs, which closely touch the lives of many, many hundreds of our adult population.

Now, B. Alter, you know, as a member of one of our allocating committees, the problems that face the fund-raising organization in providing us with sufficient funds with which to carry out our proposed full program. Don't you think, B. Alter, that we made the right decision to cut a few expensive mass programs and spend most of our limited allocation as we did?

I was really very surprised at your reference to economic groupings in our Jewish community and that you do not seem to agree with us that Center's responsibility is to serve the whole community. Center is not a settlement house. On the contrary, we have always felt very proud that Center is frequented by people from all walks of life and provides a common meeting ground for the whole community—rich and poor alike. Isn't this in the best tradition of our democratic Jewish ideals?

The officers, the members of our Board of Directors, and the many, many people who work on our Center's committees, are sincere, intelligent people working for the good of the whole community. They devote themselves unselfishly to provide programs of the highest quality for young and old alike, within the limits of the facilities and budget available.

It is easy to criticize from the "outside." Those on the "inside," our Center workers, share the ideals and standards expressed by B. Alter. More than that, they have dedicated themselves to work towards their realization for the Jewish Community Center.

We stand ready, willing and able to answer all questions and to meet any constructive criticism from the community about its Center. We think this is the kind of attitude we and any other responsible community agency should take about its role and work in the community which it serves.

Sincerely,
PETER H. BARDACH,
President
Jewish Community Center

Warwick D-Day Set for Sunday

The Warwick Division of the 1955 campaign of the General Jewish Committee will hold its D-Day—one-day general solicitation — on Sunday morning. Jack Mossberg, chairman of the Warwick Division, said some 20 workers are set to canvass all the Jewish families in the Warwick area and are confident that they will be successful in boosting donations over last year's figures.

The one-day intensive drive will open with a breakfast at 9 A. M. at Topps Mayfair Restaurant on Post Road in Warwick. Following the breakfast, workers will be briefed and given cards with names of prospects to be solicited. Reports of the solicitations will be made as soon as the calls on prospects are completed.

Assisting Mossberg in the Warwick Division drive is Abraham Tobin, associate chairman. State Senator Frank Licht, chairman of the Initial Gifts Division of the GJC 1955 campaign, will speak to the group at the breakfast meeting.

M-Day In Cranston On Sunday Also

M-Day in Cranston — the one-day general solicitation of funds that climaxes the 1955 campaign of the Women's Division of the General Jewish Committee—is set for Sunday.

M-Day activities will start with breakfast at the the Cranston Jewish Center. After breakfast, the workers will be given final instructions and cards of prospects to be solicited. The workers will report back to the Center after completing their calls and the results will be tallied as soon as all reports are completed.

Co-chairmen assisting Mrs. Max Jagolinzer are Mrs. Herman Goldstein, Mrs. Leonard Cohen and Mrs. Max Greenberg. Captains for the Cranston M-Day are Mesdames Benjamin Agronick, Joseph Block, Louis Chase, Donald Cohen, Jack Dreyfus, Robert Ellin, Newton Frank, Nathan Lipson, Herbert Richter, Herman Wasserman and Earl Woolf.

Shaare Zedek Women Begin New Season

A reception for members was held at the first meeting of the season of the Sisterhood of Shaare Zedek. Pourers were Mrs. Leo Rappaport, membership chairman, and Mrs. Leon Chait. Pastry was baked in the Sisterhood's dairy kitchen by Mesdames Solomon Fischer, Jack Hassenfeld, Max Brier, Leo Rappaport and David Hassenfeld.

Mrs. Charles Oelbaum was in charge of the raffle of a stole, knitted and donated by Mrs. Samuel Bazar. Mrs. Jack Hassenfeld reported on the Holiday Greeting Book.

MEN'S CLUB CARD PARTY

Prize winners at the card party of the Men's Club of Ohawe Sholam Synagogue, Pawtucket were Irving Pickar, Max Harriet, Manuel Wittner, Harvey Pabian and Meyer Vascovitz. The affair was held last Saturday in the Synagogue vestry.

Favors Russification Of Soviet Jewry

GENEVA — Ilya Ehrenberg, Russian author and wartime president of the Jewish Anti-Fascist Committee in Moscow, told newsmen here as he arrived for the Conference of European Intellectuals that he was an assimilationist, an anti-Zionist and that he favored Russification of Soviet Jewry. Ehrenberg told the newsmen here "I don't know Yiddish and I am for the Russification of Soviet Jewry," but it is a well-known fact that he speaks Yiddish fluently. Asked to comment on Israel, Ehrenberg said the Jewish State "lacks an independent point of view and is a plaything in the hands of the Big Powers," adding that "Israel is a factor arousing conflict in the Middle East."

SUICIDE IN ISRAEL

TEL AVIV—Tragic figures on suicides in Israel were published by "Haaretz," showing that Israel has the sad distinction of coming second in this field, immediately after the U. S. A. From 1949 to June, 1955, 2,443 persons tried to commit suicide; 1,503 of them were saved, but 880 died.

ging through my files for a column I wrote during this past summer and never used. My idea was similar to Spoke's, except with the infield as the base of operations.

I recall, in the days before World War II, when the fans used to make it their business to get to Fenway good and early when the Yankees played the Sox—and not just because these were the mighty Yankees, either.

If you got there on time for infield practice, you saw Frankie Crosetti and Joe Gordon turn in some of the most spectacular and breathtaking second base play you ever could want to see. You might watch a dozen games without seeing any one play like the stuff they reeled off in pre-game practice. The crowd used to roar with each play.

Manager Joe McCarthy, an infielder himself, took especial delight in hitting the grounders to his inner cordon. Fielding ground balls and throwing them to first is routine enough; it was in the double play work that the Crosetti-Gordon team shone. From deep in the hole, from around the bag, from anywhere McCarthy cared to aim his grounders, the ball would whiz miraculously from Frankie to Joe, or from Joe to Frank, then over to first. It was an act that was worth the entire price of admission, as far as this fan, and many others, were concerned.

This was no idle act, by the way. It bore results. The Chicago Cubs, after dropping four straight to the Yanks in 1938, complained mostly that it was the infield play that beat them. No matter where or how hard they hit the ball, some Yankee infielder was there to gobble it up and turn a potential hit into a heartbreaking putout.

This sort of practice, which could be and sometimes is common enough at any big league park, should be played up, so that the fans would know of it in advance, and thus might want to see the extra show. Advertise your fielding or hitting greats, let the fans know that if they come early—if they come at all—they are certain to see a demonstration of baseball skills that they will never get on TV, and even too seldom during the course of an actual game.

I recall Jake Powell and George Selkirk putting on a show for the right field fans one fine Sunday, wherein they made all sorts of trick and comic catches of fly balls hit to them during practice. The fans loved it.

It seems to me that Commissioner Frick ought to get together with the team managers and office generals, and see if the idea of a little pre-game show could be the means of bringing more people out to the ball park. There is absolutely no cost, and nothing to lose by this strategy—and worlds of new fans and shiny green lettuce to harvest.

David Luckman

A few weeks ago, the New York papers carried, in their obituary columns, the picture and story of a young man named David Luckman. At the age of 35, this Luckman had gone far in the highly competitive New York business world. He was a senior merchandising manager at Gimbel's Department Store, and a member of the store's executive board.

These business accomplishments do not in themselves comprise the intent of this story. There is a definite sports angle.

David Luckman was a younger brother of Sid Luckman, the famed Columbia University and Chicago Bears quarterback of just a few years ago. The story of Sid is well known, but David dwelled in comparative obscurity—by his own choice, it must be added.

At Erasmus High School in Brooklyn, Dave Luckman was a good athlete who showed promise of the greatness achieved by his older brother. He played on the football team in high school, and later, at the University of Pennsylvania, he was on the baseball and tennis

Plan Blue Box Collection

The distribution of the boxes and collection from those who already have Blue Boxes, will take place during the month of November. The funds obtained from the boxes go to the Jewish National Fund for reclaiming and re-settling the land in Israel.

teams. If you could make the team at either of these schools good, no doubt about that.

The story goes that the younger you had to be good. Dave was Luckman was quite a speed merchant, and was fast enough to beat the famed Marty Glickman, who then was reputed to be one of the fastest track men in captivity.

Dave Luckman, in short, was a top notch all-around athlete, and he gave indications that he might be as good as, and possibly better than, his brother Sid.

But Dave was interested more in the business world than the sports world. When he left college he also left the playing arena. When he made headlines, they were in a different field.

He was a great athlete — and a great guy.

Hope High Student Is Governor's Guest

Miss Carolyn Greenberg, 16, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Greenberg of 183½ Camp Street, were the guests of Governor Dennis J. Roberts in the executive chambers of the State House last Monday.

Miss Greenberg was presented an award by the Governor for winning first place at Hope High School, and fourth place in Providence, in the Governor's United Nations Day Proclamation contest.

United Nations Day (Oct. 24) is observed in most U. N. countries and marks the ratification of the United Nations Charter in 1945. The observance is part of United Nations Week (Oct. 16-24), sponsored by the American Association for the United Nations, to emphasize U. S. support of the U. N.

Free and immediate reservations at all winter resorts are available by calling the Herald Travel Bureau, DE 1-7388.

WIN SALARY RAISE

JERUSALEM — Protracted negotiations between the Israel Government and the physicians it employs, which had involved slow-downs and even strikes by the physicians, ended here last week-end with the signing of an agreement by Minister of Communications Zalman Aranne, representing the government, and Dr. I. Avigdor, of the medical association.
