Home for Aged to Conduct Annual Membership Drive

Campaign Leaders — Harry Blacher, left, chairman, and Maurice Fox, associate chairman, head the state-wide 1956 membership campaign of the Jewish Home for the Aged of Rhode Island.

Require $55,000 Membership Dues

Every Jewish Home in Rhode Island—a member of the Jewish Home for the Aged of Rhode Island—is the goal of the 1956 membership campaign. The drive coincides with the 25th anniversary of the building of Home on Hillside Avenue.

The membership committee, headed by Harry Blacher, chairman, and Maurice Fox, associate chairman, is busy preparing for this campaign in which about 250 volunteer workers will participate.

Members of the board of trustees and a number of community leaders will meet next Wednesday at the Home to lay further plans for the campaign, which will officially start on June 4 and last for two weeks.

Membership income of $55,000 is needed annually to help the Home meet the increasing operating expenses which for the current year are close to $200,000.

In the last ten years the Home's population has tripled and the operating expenses have quadrupled, while the membership income has remained stationary, Mr. Blacher pointed out.

Forty-four percent of the residents are handicapped and are unable to care for themselves. This trend of providing facilities and care for the sick and infirm is a main factor in the rising cost of maintenance. Max Winograd, president of the Home, in his message to the membership committee, said that every Jewish family must share in the responsibility through annual membership contributions so that the Home can "continue to maintain its great humanitarian work."

Israel Submits

8-Point Peace Plan

WASHINGTON—The question of war or peace between the Arab countries and Israel is being restudied at the State Department in the light of the views presented by Edward B. Lawson, U. S. Ambassador in Israel.

Lawson was summoned to Washington to help evaluate the situation in connection with the stand which the U. S. will have to take at the UN Security Council when Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld presents his recommendations at the conclusion of his "peace mission"

In this connection, Israel's position is being analyzed in the State Department from the point of view of an eight-point peace proposal submitted by the Israel Government to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

This is the first time Israel has submitted a concrete "peace plan" to the U. S. Government, and this was done in response to official inquiries from Washington about Israel's intentions.

The plan—in which Israel indicates what kind of concessions she is prepared to make to the Arabs—contains the following points:

1. Israel wants direct talks with representatives of the Arab countries, especially Egypt. 2. Israel is ready to discuss adjustment of frontier lines, but no unilateral cession of territory by the Jewish State.

3. Israel would be willing to permit the Arabs to establish air and land communications over Israel territory, thus making it possible for Egypt to establish contact with Lebanon and Jordan. 4. On the other hand, Israel would expect the Arab states to grant her similar land and air communication facilities in Arab territories.

5. Israel is ready to give Jordan free port facilities at Haifa harbor. 6. Israel would agree to pay compensation to Arab refugees, but rules out their return to their former homes. 7. Israel is ready for co-operation with the Arabs in plans for sharing the waters of the Jordan and Yarmuk rivers.

8. Israel agrees to the maintenance of the status quo in the divided city of Jerusalem without claiming the Old City which is now in the hands of Jordan.

In addition, the Israel Government has made it clear to the State Department that it will not surrender the port of Eilat and that it expects Egypt to end her anti-Israel blockade.

In Palestine, meanwhile, the Arab-Israeli cease-fire agreement came under sharp strain as Israel reported several outbreaks of hostilities on its borders with Jordan and Egypt. Egypt countered with a charge of an Israeli penetration of the Gaza strip.

Lead Mass Activities For Israel Bonds—Plans for the biggest BIG Day in Providence history are being made now for Sunday, June 17 by Julius C. Michaelson and Mrs. Beryl Segal, right, as BIG Day co-chairmen. Mrs. Samuel Michaelson, Chen chairman, is spearheading drive to enlist women volunteers who can earn credits towards gold charms depicting twelve ancient tribes of Israel through the sale and purchase of Israel Bonds.

Israel Bond Drive Announces 'BIG Day' Sunday June 17

Following its most successful campaign-opening dinner in several years at the Sheraton-Biltmore last Sunday night, the Providence Israel Bond Committee was today setting its sights on a new target—Providence BIG Day on Sunday, June 17, when hundreds of volunteers will conduct a door-to-door sale of Israel Bonds.

The dinner, attended by more than 300 persons, brought total 1956 sale of Israel Bonds in Providence to $134,800, following a presentation of Israel's case by Senator Wayne Morse.

In high spirits and in a mood of determination, members of the Providence Israel Bond Committee moved swiftly into action this week, Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen, campaign chairman, reported. Monday morning a meeting was held of combined campaign committee and Women's Division members to set plans for extensive personal sale of Israel Bonds and large-scale recruitment of BIG Day volunteers.

Presidents, bond chairmen and other leaders of Jewish community organizations will attend a BIG Day Mobilization meeting at the Jewish Community Center next Monday evening, May 21, at 8 P. M., as the drive for volunteers gets under way. Thursday night the campaign committee met to plan intensified activity to secure additional enrollments in the Guardians of Israel, honorary organization for purchasers of $1,000 Israel Bonds.

Name Chairma

Julius Michaelson, past president of the Jewish Community Center will share the BIG Day leadership with Mrs. Beryl Segal, president of the Providence Pioneer Women, Rabbi Bohnen said. The two co-chairmen are already calling upon cooperating organizations to recruit volunteers for BIG Day.

Pointing out that the Israel Bond Women's Division is also moving ahead rapidly, Rabbi Bohnen said that Providence women "will have a special role in making this BIG Day the outstanding event of its kind in the history of our community."

"Chen" Program

Under the leadership of Mrs. Samuel Michaelson, particular stress will be placed on the "Chen" program, through which women volunteers receive gold charms depicting the original twelve tribes of Israel for every $2500 in purchases and sales of Israel Bonds. As Chen Chairman, Mrs. Michaelson

Canada Sells Israel 24 Sabrejets

NEW YORK—Canada is selling Israel 24 Sabrejets, it was learned today.

Sales price of the planes is reported to be $11,000,000.

At the same time the Associated Press reported from Washington that Secretary Dulles told this country's allies in Paris it would do all it can to help them send arms to Israel, but would maintain its own embargo on weapons shipments to the Middle East.

New Jets Total 36

The Canadian jet transaction, together with a previous sale by France of 12 Mysteres, will bring to 36 the total number of jets in Israeli hands of a calibre equal to the Communist MIGs sold to Egypt.

Cairo, however, is believed to be receiving close to 200 MIGs and the Israelis are still seeking to purchase additional planes. They have applied to Paris for 12 more Mysteres.

Whether the French have agreed to make this new sale could not be learned. The AP reported that Dulles talked with French Foreign Minister Pineau and British Foreign Secretary Lloyd about arms sales for Israel during a side meeting in Paris.

Want Responsibility Shared

The French wanted the U. S. to share responsibility for the sale of planes originally ordered for NATO under a U. S. contract with France.

Dulles, it was reported, took the same position as he had on the earlier sale. The U. S. would agree to relieve France of its commitment to deliver these planes to NATO, but France had to assume responsibility for sending them to Israel.

In this way, Dulles is understood to have told Lloyd and Pineau, the U. S. can facilitate arms shipments to Israel.

Judge Rules Price-Cutting Legal in $1,700 Verdict

NEWARK, N. J.—Price competition among kosher butchers and, presumably, lower prices for the benefit of consumers may develop following a decision made last week by New Jersey Superior Court Judge Mark A. Sullivan, Jr.

The jurist ruled that the Essex County Federation of Kosher Butchers and its officers Max Orenberg, president; Matthew Shulman, business agent, and Sam Stein, president of the New Jersey Federation of Kosher Butchers, had conspired to boycott the Seroff Brothers Village Kosher Meat Market, 29 Mill Road, Irvington.

The conspiracy, Sullivan found, resulted when the butcher shop owners, Leonard and Harry Seroff, advertised reduced prices.

Sitting without a jury, Sullivan awarded $1,700 in compensatory damages to the plaintiffs but refused to grant punitive damages and an injunction prohibiting future boycotts. He said the embargo had ended after 17 weeks and there was no need for an injunction now.

Seeking $100,000 in compensatory damages and $500,000 in punitive damages, the Seroffs had charged that the conspiracy began in March, 1955, after they placed signs in their windows advertising meat at lower than average kosher prices.

The brothers testified that Matthew Shulman, business agent of the Essex County Federation and one of the defendants, requested they remove the signs under threat of having their wholesale meat supply cut off. Also named as a defendant with Shulman was Max Orenberg, president of the county group.

The Seroffs failed to comply with Shulman's request, they testified, and immediately three of their seven wholesalers stopped supplying them with meat. The remaining four continued to deal with the Seroffs, but the brothers had to obtain their supplies by arranging secret highway rendezvous with the wholesalers' trucks.

In their original complaint, later dropped, the Seroffs also had charged that the three rabbis "threatened" to withdraw certificates of kashruth from wholesalers dealing with the village market.

In an answer to the complaint, the defendants stated that the matter involved related entirely to the Jewish religion and did not involve legal wrongs to be considered in a state court.

Rabbi Weller, however, testified that there is nothing in Jewish religious law prohibiting the advertising of kosher meat prices, according to the Seroffs.

Will Get Awards From AJ Congress

NEW YORK — The New York Times, President Itzhak Ben Zvi of Israel, and Maurice Samuel, distinguished author and scholar, have been named recipients of the Stephen Wise Awards for 1955, it was announced last week, by Dr. Israel Goldstein, president of the American Jewish Congress, which grants the annual awards.

The New York Times received the awards for "the uniform excellence of its editorial policy on the subjects of civil rights and civil liberties;" Ben Zvi for his role in the growth and development of Israel; and Samuel for his contributions in the field of Jewish culture and scholarship.

Southern Jewry 'On Spot'; Must Avoid Liberalism

By HARRY GOLDEN AND JULIAN SCHEER

How has the Jewish community in the South been affected by the racial problem and what attitudes has it embraced?

In general, the Jews of the South have been cautious; their attitudes reflecting the degree of emotion in their individual localities.

The "Jewish" position, if we may use the term in its communal sense, has gone through three distinct phases.

While the Clarendon County (S. C.) test case was still in the lower courts, the Jewish leadership was extremely apprehensive. Influential merchants and manufacturers met with national leaders of the B'nai B'rith, the American Jewish Committee, and the American Jewish Congress, and urged them to refrain from action ("this is the time for Jews to say nothing"). When the American Jewish Congress publicly announced the filing of a friend of court brief, at least three large communities immediately eliminated that organization from their lists of allocations of their individual or welfare federation funds.

The Supreme Court's desegregation decision, however, brought a definite change in the Jewish attitude. The Roman Catholics desegregated their parochial schools immediately and then, as each of the large Protestant denominations voted to uphold the Supreme Court decision, there appeared to be a relaxation of the tension among the Jews concerning this matter, and rabbis began to take an active part in the support of the Supreme Court decision.

But the advent of the White Citizens Councils has created an entirely different atmosphere in the Jewish community. The caution exercised before the Court's decision has now given away to fear. Jewish merchants fear "economic" pressure, but more important, they fear loss of "identity" with "the best people," many of whom are in the White Citizens Councils, an "identity" for which they had worked very hard to achieve.

In January a resolution (offered by Rabbi Rothschild of Atlanta, Ga.) upholding the Supreme Court decision was defeated (by the laymen) at the regional convention of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, held at Birmingham, Ala. A Virginia delegate argued that he had been warned by many of his customers not to "take up for the Negro." Other delegates reported similar incidents.

Rabbi Roland Gittleson of Boston delivered the principal address and when the Birmingham daily press reported his remarks concerning desegregation, the general impression was that "the rabbi has done us great harm." Warnings were sounded to avoid such risks in the future.

At least three rabbis in the deep South have been called before their trustees in serious soul-searching sessions; "Why not stick to 'religion' only?" "Where are you leading us?" etc. The laymen point to the fact that the anti-Semites are using only the Jewish statements on desegregation.

Anti-Semites have called attention to the fact that Rabbi Julius Feibelman of New Orleans signed a desegregation petition. Thousands of copies of Frank L. Britton's The American Nationalist have been distributed in New Orleans with a blast against Rabbi Feibelman.

The Danville (Va.) Register stated flatly, "... to rub the majority in a sensitive spot is to invite reaction. The rabbis have rubbed hard and they are likely to hear and see what Tar Heels think."

"We want none of that Hitler stuff," said Kenneth Whitsett, founder of the "Patriots" of North Carolina. When after two successive "Patriot" meetings anti-Semi-and Miss Susan Esta Low was maid of honor.

Merrill Temkin of Providence was best man. Ushers were Arthur Siden of Everett, Mass., Dr. Abraham Kaufman of Somerset, Mass., Leon Silitschik of Newport, and Theodore Low of Providence.

After a motor trip to Lake Placid and Canada, the couple will reside on Nancy Street in Pawtucket.

Miss Eckstein Feted

Miss Arlene Sandra Eckstein, whose marriage to Alfred Pepper will take place on August 26, was honored at a dinner-shower May 10 at Topps Gaylord. More than 100 guests were present from Boston, Malden, Milford, Fall River and Providence.

Third Child Born

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Waitsman of 69 Oak Hill Avenue, Pawtucket announce the birth of their third child and second daughter, Carol Gail, on May 6. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Levine of Pawtucket. Mrs. S. Waitsman of Philadelphia is the paternal grandmother.

Change Residence

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Modiano and their daughter, Rachelle Hope, formerly of 269 Swan Street, are now residing at 26 Balcom Street.

tic leaflets were found on the front seat of every parked car in the area, Whitsett issued a statement "divorcing" his organization from "prejudice against the Jews." However, at most meetings of the "Patriots", and White Citizens Councils the "Patriot" speakers mention only the name of the Jewish officer of the NAACP.

Anti-Semites Get Lists

It is apparent that the membership lists of the pro-segregation organizations have been turned over to some of the professional anti-Semites who have pounced on desegregation as a new vehicle for anti-Semitic agitation.

The rabbis are fully aware of this growing anti-Semitic agitation, but they point out that these professional haters hardly needed the few (rabbinical) resolutions or sermons for desegregation to spread their anti-Semitic propaganda, and that there is a greater danger to the welfare of the Jewish community of the South if rabbis did not join the Catholic and Protestant clergy in advocating an end to racial segregation.

Beth El Youth Group To Install Tuesday

The young people's group of Temple Beth El will hold its first annual installation and dinner-dance in the Temple meeting hall tomorrow evening at 6:30 o'clock. A member of NEFTY, the New England Federation of Temple Youth, the group will install a new slate of officers headed by Priscilla Feinstein.

Stephen Silverman, the immediate past-president, will be toastmaster for the evening. Featured speakers will be Robert Hoffman of Boston, regional director of NEFTY, and Rabbi Leonard Hellman of Hartford, advisor to the youth group at Temple Beth Israel, Hartford. Rabbi Hellman will induct the present Beth El confirmation class into the group, according to Adrienne Backman, spokesman for NEFTY.

Alsop Sees USSR Blockbuster
Hidden in 'Peace Declaration'

NEW YORK—It is believed in Cairo that the Soviet Union's declaration of support for a United Nations sponsored Mid-East peace is hiding a proposal that the first UN settlement of the Palestine problem be forcibly re-imposed, according to columnist Joseph Alsop, in a dispatch to the New York Herald Tribune from Egypt.

This would mean the internationalization of Jerusalem, and the return of Israel to the much narrower frontiers originally proposed by the UN. Taking such steps, Alsop stated, are the only conditions under which Egyptian Premier Nasser would consider peace in the area.

Nasser and Dr. Abdel Khalek, secretary general of the Arab League, declare that "if the surgical operation is not performed now, the total examination of the patient will soon become the minimum demand," Alsop said.

However, the columnist stated, "the Kremlin has for months been offering the Arab nationalist leaders a blank check for any kind of support they want."

'Naked Clash'

If the Soviets do make such a move, Alsop asserted, "it is hard to see any outcome except a naked clash between the Western allies and the strong force of the new Arab nationalism powerfully supported by the Soviet Union."

What has to be decided, the columnist wrote, is whether the U. S. will come to terms with Arab nationalism or fight it. Coming to terms, which would mean making a deal with Nasser, was seen by Alsop as the better course—if the Arab leaders have not gone too far in the direction of an alliance with the Soviet Union.

This, however, would mean setting up two minimum requirements—preventing the destruction of Israel, for which the Western powers have a moral responsibility, and protection of oil resources. It would also mean Britain's forsaking its neo-colonial policy in the Middle East, which could not be secured without America's guaranteeing an uninterrupted flow of oil.

If Britain did abandon its neo-colonial ways, Alsop stated, then she and the U. S. could offer full Western backing to Nasser, which he would accept.

In another column, sent from Saudi Arabia, Alsop asserted that Saudi Arabia is the unwilling captive of the new Arab nationalist movement which centers in Cairo. Even if King Saud tried to break away from the alliance with Egypt he could not, because it would mean his being overthrown by the people who are now his friends.

Feudal vs. Modern

The drive to modernize Saudia Arabia has resulted in incredible contrasts, Alsop said. Under the impact of the sudden inflow of oil money, a violent transition from feudal state to modern state is taking place, and whole new social groups are beginning to emerge.

On the whole, these new groups and the army are forces for King Saud to reckon with, Alsop reported. They resent the role he has been forced into—that of financing Egypt's anti-Western drive in the other Arab states, and especially in Jordan and Iraq.

Saud, Alsop said, realizes what kind of policy he is being forced to pursue, but he cannot back out now. If he did, Alsop stated, "the hose of propaganda and agitation would be turned on him as it is now turned on Nuri Pasha in Iraq. He would be portrayed as an American puppet, the captive of his oil company, the feudalist who holds back Arabia from national progress."

In the present unstable situation in Saudi Arabia, the people do not like the Egyptians who have crept in among them, but they would listen to Cairo's Voice of the Arabs if it began to shout aloud their own unspoken aspirations, Alsop said. "Thus the ferment that is now beneath the surface would come to an open, rolling boil."

Fineman-Trinkel
Bowling Banquet

The annual banquet of the Fineman-Trinkel Auxiliary 439 Bowling League will be held this Sunday evening at the Ranch House. Awards will be presented for team and individual honors achieved during the season that came to a close Wednesday night.

Phyllis Bernstein is chairman of the event, assisted by Evelyn Robinson, league president, and Gert Summer, treasurer.

Khrushchev Ignores Anti-Semitic Charge

LONDON — Nikita Khrushchev, head of the Soviet Communist Party refused to discuss reports of anti-Semitism in the Soviet Union. More than 20 Soviet Jews were sentenced to terms of imprisonment ranging from three to ten years at a trial held in Moscow at the end of March for "possessing and distributing illegal Zionist literature," the Manchester Guardian reports.

REBACK-WINSTEN AUX.

Fifty persons attended the recent paid-up membership dinner of Reback-Winsten Jewish War Veterans Auxiliary at Topps Gaylord. A gift was presented to Mrs. Peir Lippett who is moving from the vicinity. Card games followed the dinner. It was announced that the Post and Auxiliary will hold a family picnic the last Sunday in June.

East German Jew
Released From Jail

BERLIN — Paul Baender, Jewish-born veteran communist leader who was sentenced to six years at hard labor in 1954 as a result of the anti-Semitic campaign in East Germany, was released from jail Monday. He was the highest ranking Jew arrested in the East German drive, and first of the East German Jews to be released since the recent communist campaign for "socialist legality."

In 1952, Baender was ousted from his position as State Secretary of the Ministry of Supply. Later he was sentenced to jail for "upsetting the food supply of the population by deliberately false planning and through wrong directives." Baender's release came as part of an amnesty granted 88 political prisoners by East German President Wilhelm Pieck. At the same time, however, the communist regime ordered also the release of 698 prisoners previously condemned as nazi war criminals.

WHY PASSIVE EXERCISE IS SO EFFECTIVE IN OUR REDUCING SYSTEM

Stauffer System's passive exercise trims inches from hips, tummy, thighs, ankles, upper arms and neckline. It also has these wonderful benefits:

1. Remolds your figure so you can carry your new reduced weight like a fashion model.
2. Firms and tightens muscle so your skin is made smoother and lovelier.
3. Beautifies posture.

Turn your reducing cares over to the people who have delivered a more beautiful figure to movie stars and famous Congresswomen. Call your nearby Stauffer Salon for a free visit and figure analysis. No obligation.

To Hear Israeli General—General Mordecai Makleff, former Chief of Staff of the Israel Defense Army, will come from Jerusalem to address an extraordinary National Action Conference of the United Jewish Appeal to take place June 9 and 10 at the Roosevelt Hotel in New York City. Fifty million dollars in community cash collections is being sought by the UJA as the goal for the Conference. General Makleff (left) is shown here in a "Shalom!" (peace) handshake with General Moshe Dayan, his successor as head of Israel's Defense Army since 1953, while Prime Minister and Minister of Defense David Ben-Gurion looks on.

Bartley Crum To Speak At Israel Bond Tea

Bartley Crum, attorney and statesman will return to the city to attend a reception at the home of Mrs. George Savin, 41 Intervale Road, on Thursday, May 24, at 1:30 P. M.

The reception has been arranged by the newly-formed Israel Bond Women's Division, it was announced by Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen, chairman of the Providence Israel Bond Campaign. "It is truly inspiring to see our Jewish women moving forward at such a swift pace. One of the most apt truisms in Jewish community life is that a campaign has no strength until women become involved in it. We are confident that with the outstanding women leaders who have enlisted the 1956 Campaign will be an outstanding success."

Members of the Women's Division executive committee, whose efforts are being coordinated by Mrs. Abraham Percelay, include: Mrs. Perry Bernstein, Mrs. Philip Dorenbaum, Mrs. Thomas Goldberg, Mrs. Henry Hassenfeld, Mrs. Arthur Kaplan, Mrs. Samuel Michaelson, Mrs. Morris Schussheim, and Mrs. Beryl Segal.

R. I. Post Installs At Combined Affair

Francis Cohen, state department junior vice-commander, and Bernard Guy, past president, installed the officers of the Rhode Island Post and Auxiliary, Jewish War Veterans, at combined ceremonies held recently at Post headquarters. Hannah Baritz was program chairman for the evening. Sally Glass was the featured entertainer.

Auxiliary officers installed include Lillian Mushnick, president; Irene Bloom, senior vice-president; Dorothy Rosen, treasurer; Roslyn Stern, secretary; Frances Agronic, patriotic instructor; Sally Sheer, chaplain; Winnie Mistofsky, conductress; Sylvia Grebstein, relief chairman; Jessie Goldstein, games chairman, and Rose Fine, hospital chairman.

Post officers are Charles Kushner, commander; Judah Rosen, senior vice-commander; Douglas Mushnick, junior vice-commander, and Abraham Goldstein, adjutant.

 Providence 6, R. I.
 May 4, 1956

Dear Relatives and Friends:

Our second son, Arthur, will celebrate his becoming a Bar Mitzvah by chanting the Sabbath morning services at our home, 134 Brown Street in Providence on May 19, 1956 starting promptly at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

It will make us very happy if those of you who can conveniently walk to our home will join us on this occasion and, following the services, take Kiddush and lunch with us.

Whether or not you can come in the morning, we would be honored by your presence at the reception at our home starting at eight o'clock that evening. No formal invitations are being sent.

28 Injured In Sabbath Protest

HAIFA — Twenty-eight persons, including 22 policemen, were injured here Saturday in a clash between the police and 1,500 demonstrators, who were protesting against the fact that an industrial exhibition was open on Saturday.

The demonstrators, who included the Deputy Minister for Religious Zorach Warhaftig and the Deputy Speaker of the Knesset, Benjamin Mintz, held a mass prayer meeting outside the exhibition site here. The clash occurred when the demonstrators unsuccessfully attempted to break through the police cordon. The crowd dispersed at midday.

The demonstrators had gone ahead despite the publication of a notice by the exhibition authorities that no tickets would be sold on Saturday and no motors would be operated. The religious groups, contended, however, that the mere opening of the exhibition on Saturday was, in itself, a desecration of the Sabbath.

To Name Mexican Envoy to Israel

MEXICO CITY — The appointment of Gustavo Ortiz Hernan as Mexico's first diplomatic representative to Israel will be announced shortly, it became known here. Sr. Ortiz Hernan formerly held the post of director general of the Mexican Government's tourism department. Israel has maintained a diplomatic mission here for about three years.

A delegation of Jewish leaders here has been told by Monsignor Gregorio Araiza that "I pray every day for the victory and success of the State of Israel." The delegation, which included Israel's representative here, Yosef Kessary, had met with Monsignor Araiza when they called on Archbishop Miguel Dario Miranda to present to him Sephardic Rabbi Itzhak Alcalai of New York who was here for a 10-day visit.

CHEESE-MACARONI SQUARES

- 2 cups cooked and drained elbow macaroni
- ¾ cup soft white bread crumbs
- 1¼ cups scalded milk
- 3 tablespoons butter or substitute
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon grated onion, optional
- 1½ cups Farmer Cheese
- 1½ cups grated Cheddar Type Cheese
- ¼ teaspoon Paprika
- ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, optional

- tional
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 3 tablespoons cracker crumbs
- Melted butter

After cooking the macaroni in salted water as directed on package, pour some hot water over it in a colander for two reasons — keeping the macaroni hot and for draining it thoroughly.

Soak the soft bread crumbs in scalded milk just long enough to moisten.

Combine drained macaroni, softened bread crumbs, butter, salt, grated onion, the two kinds of cheese and the seasonings. Mix lightly with two forks then fold in the well beaten eggs. Turn the mixture into an aluminum lined then buttered square baking pan, 10 x 10 x 2 inches in size. Sprinkle cracker crumbs over top and drizzle with melted butter. Bake 30 to 35 minutes at 375° F or till a knife inserted in center comes out clean and the top is nicely browned. Turn out on a heated platter, upside down and remove aluminum foil. Cut into squares and slip under broiler flame for 2 minutes just before serving time. Pass the Sourcream, applesauce or raisin sauce, if desired. Yields 25 two-inch squares.

The Saudi Arabian Ban

BY MAX LERNER

(Reprinted from the N. Y. Post)

A burdened President, who depends on staff briefings for his knowledge of important events, cannot be expected to know things that most intelligent newspaper readers know. Yet granted this, it was a jolt to read the passage in the President's press conference on the anti-Jewish ban by Saudi Arabia.

When The Post reporter asked about the Saudi Arabian policy of "barring American Jews from the U. S. air base there," Eisenhower said, "Now I have never heard this, that American Jews cannot go into our air bases." He was told of the Pentagon confirmation of the silent understanding between American and Saudi Arabian authorities that no Jews were to be sent as part of our military forces. At this he shifted ground, said he would have to talk to the State Dept. ("that is where I get my exact information"), and ended by defending on grounds of sovereignty the Saudi Arabian "right to determine if an American is persona non grata and can't enter."

It was a confused and shameful performance on the part of the President. It accords wretchedly with his high professions of morality in the conduct of government and his often stated principle that the individual is the supreme value.

Maybe it is a cruel thing to subject the President's remarks to a close scrutiny and analysis. But a great deal is at stake in this issue, and it is important to know how the President really regards it.

First there is the objective question of whether Jews are or are not in fact excluded from the soldiers and technicians we send to the air base. At first the President averred that he had "never heard" that they were, then he gave his theory of why the Saudi Arabians have a right to exclude them. If he did not know of the agreement, then why defend it? And if he did know of the agreement he defended, why did he at first deny that it applied to American Jews in the American armed forces?

I am tempted whimsically to ask to whom else such an agreement with Saudi Arabia could apply? Did the Saudi Arabians insist on excluding Seventh Day Adventists? Or Presbyterians? Or perhaps Republicans? Or people born in Kansas? Or residents of Texas or Pennsylvania? Obviously if they have exacted an agreement from us for excluding certain people, it applies to Jews. And it would be better for the President to be honest and say so.

Disposing of the factual question we turn to that of whether our action can be justified.

The President did justify and defend it. "Certain of our agreements," he said, "accord to a nation where these bases are situated the right to determine if an American is persona non grata and can't enter." I can understand that a nation leasing an air base to another may stipulate its right to reject particular persons who might be sent. But in this case Saudi Arabia has put a ban on a whole ethnic category, not on particular individuals. By accepting that ban we in effect, enter into complicity with Saudi Arabia. We accept for working purposes of national defense the Arab theory that Jews as Jews are either dangerous or inferior or both.

Can the President possibly have understood the implications of what he was thus saying?

I put the same question to him on his argument from sovereignty. "After all," says the President, "we don't get that territory on the same basis as you do an embassy. We are not a sovereign there." You can see what the President is driving at. In the case of our embassies our own laws apply, while in the case of the lease of an air base we have first to "get the territory," hence the Saudi Arabians "do have some rights that you have got to accord them."

No one doubts it. Saudi Arabia has the right not to lease the air base, and the right to get a certain payment and certain terms when it does lease it. But the real question is not whether Saudi Arabia is sovereign on its territory, but whether America is so unsovereign and abject as to accept degrading and humiliating Saudi Arabian conditions.

Let me restate it. The issue is not whether Saudi Arabia had the right to stipulate its anti-Jewish ban in its contract with America, but whether we were right to accept the wrong they imposed on American Jews.

Suppose that South Africa, with its laws of apartheid, were to give us an air base with the stipulation that no American with colored blood is to be sent there as part of the armed forces. Suppose Catholic Spain were to stipulate that no Protestants were to be sent. Would the President have dared, either in conscience or opportunism, to accept such a tabu?

If the Secretary and the President will look at the history of our diplomacy they will find that we have never until now practiced this kind of abjectness. When the Tsar of all the Russians tried to infect us in diplomacy with the guilt of his anti-Semitism we threatened to break off diplomatic relations. Air bases come and go, but the American doctrine of the equality of all religions and of all ethnic groups under the law must outlast the accidents of defense because it alone makes defense possible and worthwhile.

There is much intellectual confusion in what President Eisenhower has said about Saudi Arabia and the Jews. But the greater danger is his moral confusion. When a man who bases himself primarily on morality lets his moral base slip from him, what else is left?

I suggest respectfully to the President that the place to start, intellectually and morally, is with the doctrine of the equal rights of Americans inside our own country. The next step is to say that we will enter into no contract with another nation by which we will barter away those rights, whether for air bases or any other earthly power. From that point on, we can't get lost.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Torah On Waterman Street

By BERYL SEGAL

Some thirty-five years ago I took my place in front of a class room to teach Jewish children and to instruct them in the ways of their ancestors. Language, history, and the ethical teachings of the masters and shapers of our faith were the tools in my trade. Through them I endeavored to give meaning to their Jewishness, and to inspire them to revere their legacy.

I have been doing it ever since.

A long road—thirty-five years of Jewish teaching. It was not always a smooth road, winding through pleasant valleys, running beside still waters. There were long bumpy stretches of disillusion, and frequent detours of frustration. But a teacher never concedes defeat. He enters every new classroom with renewed expectation, and every new season beckons with unknown adventure.

Who knows? This boy may be the answer to the teacher's prayer. That girl may fulfill a teacher's dream.

And when a teacher finds one ideal pupil in a classroom and two in a school he feels rewarded for his toils, and the clouds of disillusion vanish like smoke.

As Exciting As Finding Uranium

This lengthy preface, my friends, is by way of explaining my excitement at what I found during my recent visit to the Hebrew Day School on Waterman Street.

I once saw a picture of a man walking among rocks and wasteland with a Geiger counter in his hands. He was obviously tired and exhausted. Suddenly his face lit up, his steps quickened, and his hands shook in excitement to the rhythmic ticking of the Geiger counter.

I was like that man as I listened to a little scholar, a mere ten-year-old lad, read to me his lesson.

He is a small, wiry youngster, and we will call him Berele, just as he is called by his grandmother. He is in the fifth grade now, and he learns the three R's like all fifth graders in the schools of the land. But in addition to these readers and spellers and copy books, Berele also carries in his school bag other texts, and it was these that started my heart beating rapidly.

In the office of Rabbi Akiva Egozi, the principal of the Day school, the years rolled back and I saw myself in the Yeshiva in a far away town, where other Yankelech and Berelech came back to life in the voice of this little boy. I heard them once again, I found them in little Berele.

He speaks Hebrew and Yiddish, this Berele of the Providence Hebrew Day school, as freely as he speaks English. And he converses in Hebrew not only in small talk of a boy his age, but in serious matters.

The Sidra of the week of my visit was Emor in the Book of Leviticus. And Berele opened the Chumosh and he read fluently passage after passage about the laws of Priesthood. When asked for explanations he clarified obscure meanings of the text in simpler, every day Hebrew.

He then opened the Book of Isaiah and he read meaningfully the words of the prophet. He recited by heart the famous "In the End of Days" prophecy.

From Scripture he turned to Gemoro and he read knowingly a complicated point of law.

The Shulchan Oruch was among his books, and we tested him in the rules of fasting on the Ninth Day of Av.

He told us of the life of Rav and Shmuel and Akiva, famous Talmudic scholars, founders of Academies in ancient Palestine and Babylonia.

His language reader is a text book used in the public schools of modern Israel. He read to us a story, and bits of poetry from that reader.

Rabbi Egozi brought out an album of drawings and paintings done by the children in their Arts and Crafts hour. Our Berele was represented in that album with some drawings of the Tent of Meeting which the Children of Israel built in the wilderness, on the road from Egypt to the Promised Land. The Tent was built after the directions given by Moses in the Book of Leviticus, and Berele followed the blue prints of the Bible and made the Tabernacle and the Ark, and the Outer Court and the Inner Court and all the altars and the tables to scale. He also made drawings of beasts and birds and fishes, the clean animals fit to eat and the unclean animals not fit to eat, according to the descriptions in Scripture.

Thus Berele combines his study of Torah with his Arts and Crafts and Nature study, and one enriches the other.

More Bereles: More Room

Is Berele a grind? Is he a misfit among ten-year-olds. Is he a wall flower on the playground? Not at all. His knowledge of things unknown to his playmates in the neighborhood does not set him apart from them or outside of their world. He is as familiar with the layout of a ball field as he is with the blue print of the Tabernacle.

Now, my friends, you will understand my excitement, and you will see why I likened myself to the man with the Geiger counter in his hands. Like the prospector my heart jumped at finding what a teacher longs to find.

And Berele is not alone in his deeper knowledge of Jewish thought. The other boys and girls of the Hebrew Day school draw abundantly from the living wells of Jewish learning.

But I dare to say that even if Berele were the only one among the 150 pupils of the Hebrew Day school, this young house of learning has fully justified its existence in him.

Now, in the days of Shovuos, the time of Giving of our Torah, we might well consider the Hebrew Day school and its place in our community.

Gone are the days when the Day school had to beg for pupils. The reverse is true now. Pupils beg to be admitted. Rabbi Egozi tells me that the school has a long waiting list. The present building is not big enough to admit all who seek admission. Every available nook and corner has been turned to some use. The former dining room was converted into class rooms. The cellar is used as dining rooms. The cry is for more room, for a bigger structure, for greater facilities.

Let no one say: "The Hebrew Day school is no business of the community. It is for the parents of the Day school children to see to a bigger building."

One might as well say: Let the patients of the hospital build a bigger building, and let the residents of the Home for the Aged add a new wing to the structure.

The Hebrew Day school is community business, because the whole community will benefit by the fruits of its labors.

Like the hospital and the home for the aged, the Hebrew Day school may ask for our support, and like them must be given the chance to expand and to add to its usefulness in our midst.

Who among our men of means and communal influence will have the vision and the courage to direct the attention of the community to the aims and the needs of this most essential House of Jewish Studies?

The Herald Tourneys

At the expense of sounding repetitious and boring, I must forthwith sound the call to combat in the Herald's annual bowling tournaments, scheduled for next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, with the same old refrain:

When will Beth El be defeated . . . and by whom?

To those whose memories need jogging in this matter, let it be recalled that in the ten previous years of this competition the Temple Emanuel and Temple Beth El bowling leagues have won four titles each, with Temple Beth Israel copping the honors twice. Cranston Jewish Center, which made its bow in the so-called Temple Tournament five years ago, still has its hopes—but no victories.

But those figures of tourneys won in the past do not tell the true story of the event. You could never guess from that mere recital, for instance, that Beth El couldn't win for six long years, and now seemingly can't be beat. Four straight years the East Siders have hung out the victory flag, along with an amazing string of individual and team records.

Last year the Beth El bowlers romped through their combined competition with ridiculous ease, piling up a score of 61 (the possible maximum tally was 64) and all but sweeping the night's honors. The records show that the three other leagues were not sitting on their hands, either. Their scores, individually and team-wise, were highly respectable and creditable; but Beth El was just out of this world.

So it goes without saying that the other three leagues will be giving their all for dear old (Cranston) (Emanuel) (Beth Israel) — cross out the two that don't apply — when the 1956 tourney gets under way next Tuesday at 8 P. M. at the Casino Alleys.

Each league will present four teams of five men each, the teams being selected automatically, according to the order in which the individual keglers place in their respective league standings. That is, the top five men make up the A team, the next five the B team, and so on. If one man from team A is unable to bowl, the top man of the B unit moves up to replace him, the top man of the C team moves up to the B squad, and so on.

The Herald Trophy goes to the winning league. This cup, the third to be presented by this newspaper, went into competition last year, and so has Beth El's name on it. The league that wins it three times takes it home for keeps, as did Temple Emanuel's Men's Club and the Beth El Brotherhood in previous years.

On an individual basis, the Herald Temple Tourney has been the direct antithesis (whatever that means) of the league competition, in that no man ever has repeated his feat of winning the high three honors. Ten years — ten different champions; that's the record to date.

Track Star Jesse Owens, Al Schacht To Speak at June 4 Congress Banquet

Jesse Owens, winner of four gold medals in the 1936 Olympic Games at Berlin, and Al Schacht, the clown prince of baseball, will be the featured speakers at the fourth annual banquet and sports award night of the R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress, Monday, June 4, at Rhodes-on-the-Pawtuxet.

The appearance of Owens will make track the high spot of the evening's program, since Nat Baker of Providence, former Classical High School athlete and now of Boston University's track team, will receive the 1956 R. I. Jewish Athlete of the Year award.

Owens probably is best remembered for the snub of him by Adolf Hitler after the former Ohio State flash raced to new Olympic records in the 100 meter and 200 meter dashes, as a member of the record shattering 400 meter relay team and for his record broad jump mark of 26 feet 5 5/16 inches.

Owens also holds the world record in the broad jump, 26 feet 8 1/4 inches, established at Ann Arbor, Mich., May 25, 1935.

He now is a member of the Chicago Board of Recreation.

Schacht is the former Washington Senators baseball player-turned clown. His appearances at ball parks throughout the major and minor league circuits are signals for bubbling laughter and all around fun-poking at the sport he loves so well.

Open Competition for Jewish Herald Trophies

Members of R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress leagues vie for the Jewish Herald trophies at three locations during the coming week.

At the Casino Alleys on Pine Street, four five-man teams will represent each league in the traditional Temple Tournament, which starts at 8 P. M. Beth El will defend its title against Beth Israel, Cranston and Emanuel.

On Wednesday night at 8 o'clock, AEPi will go after its fifth straight Herald Fraternal Trophy against Sackin-Shocket, Fineman-Trinkel, Harold I. Bloom and Knights of Pythias. Each league will have four five-man teams at the Bowladrome on Smithfield Avenue.

On the same night at the same time, other leagues will be competing at the Hamlet 30 Lanes in Pawtucket on a smaller scale. Rolling for honors with 10 men from each league will be Beth David, R. I. Jewish Fraternal, Providence Fraternal, Ohawe Sholom, Kavodians, Warwick and Cousins.

The following point system will be used to determine the winners in each tourney:

One point will be given each winning five-man team per string. In the event of a tie at the end of the string, the point will be divided. One point will be given each five-man team with the high three-string total. The winning point total of the teams will be added to determine the winning league in each tourney. In the event of a tie on the point total, the winner of the tourney will be determined on the basis of the league's total pinfall.

Seabees Are New Post Champions

The Seabees are the team champions of the Sackin-Shocket Bowling League. They topped Army, 3-1, behind the efforts of Babe Kirshenbaum, Harold Kaufman, Al Greenberg, Jerry Manekofsky and Hotzie Strelow.

At the same time, league members rolled for the Al Silver Memorial Trophy, with Norman Bader and Buz Labush the winners with 402 and 138 for high total and single, respectively.

Rule Records To May 26 Are Eligible

The executive board of the R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress has ruled that individual and team records established not later than May 26 shall be eligible for prizes this season.

With several leagues planning late bowling this season, the congress found it necessary to place a deadline on record claims in order to have trophies properly engraved and information available for the souvenir program.

All league correspondents are reminded to send in their complete final statistics so that a compilation of the outstanding marks of the season can be published in the Jewish Herald of June 1.

Correspondents should send their reports to:

Demand High For June Banquet Tickets

Demand for tickets to the R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress banquet and sports awards night, Monday, June 4, at Rhodes-on-the-Pawtuxet, has been beyond expectations, according to Sam Feldman of Fineman - Trinkel, banquet chairman.

As a result, the committee is asking that all money for tickets or remaining tickets must be turned in at the May 27 meeting of the congress executive committee. At that meeting, final plans for the affair will be discussed, according to Nat Alterman of Beth El, outgoing congress president.

Anyone who still does not have a ticket for the banquet and can not contact his league representative may buy one at any of the following locations:

Albert's, 1128 North Main Street, Murray Trinkel.

Robin Inc., 105 Empire Street, Morty Miller.

Allen Stationery, 50 Weybosset Street, Irving Zaidman.

To Discuss Summer Study Plans Tuesday

Summer study plans will be discussed at the final meeting of the present school term at the parents-teachers meeting of the Ladies Association and P.T.A. of the Providence Hebrew Day School on Tuesday at 8:30 P. M.

Refreshments will be served. Hostesses for the evening will be Mesdames Max Brier, Samuel Grossman, Joseph Kapp, Israel Schwartz, and Maurice Gereboff, ex-officio.

Additional committee workers for the donor luncheon were also named by Mrs. Samuel Bresnick, chairman. They are Mrs. William Reich, Mrs. Philip Seidman, Mrs. Joseph Schwartz and Mrs. Norman Greenstein.

name on the PFC Bernard J. Trinkel Trophy, presented by Ben Trinkel in memory of his son who was killed on Iwo Jima while serving with the Marines in World War II. Murray Trinkel won the original cup in a rolloff with all previous winners several years ago. Now Ben has decreed that the first man to win the trophy twice will take it home for good. So far, no takers.

Defending champion this year is Lenny Goldman of Beth El, who posted 406 in 1955 while at the same time smashing the high single record with 166. Harold Warren of Cranston holds the high three record of 417.

Another mark for the boys to shoot at is the Beth El B team's last year.

Besides Trinkel, other winners have been Lou Chase, Leo Borenstein, Sam Segal, Abe Press, Al Abrams, Jack Epstein, Mike Silverstein and Harold Warren.

The Fraternal Tourney

A new record of participation was set in 1955 for the second of the Herald tourneys—the so-called Fraternal Tournament. Ten leagues took part then. Now that record falls by the boards, as 12 bowling leagues take the firing line next Wednesday night.

Since this number of leagues gets to be sort of unwieldy, the tourney has been broken up into two sections. Alpha Epsilon Pi Fraternity, the long-time champions of this competition, Sackin-Shocket Post JWV, Fineman-Trinkel Post JWV, Lt Harold Bloom Post JWV and What Cheer Lodge Knights of Pythias will compete in one section at the Bowladrome Alleys on Smithfield Avenue. Each league will send the usual four teams of five men each.

The smaller (in manpower) leagues—Beth David Men's Club, R. I. Jewish Fraternal, Providence Fraternal, Ohawe Sholam Men's Club, Kavodians of Fall River, Warwick Jewish Center and Cousins—will roll on the same evening, but at the Hamlet Lanes in Pawtucket. Each of these leagues will send two five man teams.

This will be the eighth year of the Fraternal Tournament in a series that has been dominated almost completely by AEPi. The fraternity boys have romped off with the last five tourneys in succession. This constitutes an all-time record in Herald competition.

AEPi wasn't entered in the first two tourneys, which emphasizes even more the extent of that league's domination. Only Providence Fraternal among the other entrants ever has achieved triumph. The old Olympic Club, winner of the first two contests, does not now exist.

As in the Temple Tournament, there never has been a repeat winner among the individual keepers. Eight years, eight separate champions. Well, let's revise that just a bit. Last year Roy Kessler and Harold Weisal tied for high three honors; so there are nine names for eight years.

The Trinkel Trophy applies also to the Fraternal Tournament, and the same rules too—the man who wins it twice takes it home for keeps. Will this be the year? Previous winners include Lou Chase, Jack Smith, Moe Kessler, Harold Warren, Arthur Flink, Perry Deitch and Charley Samdperil, in addition to Weisal and Kessler.

And that reminds me that AEPi, having retired the first Herald Trophy and gotten its name twice on the second cup, now is in position to retire that one as well with another triumph.

TEL AVIV—Through contributions from a group of Americans headed by George Swarts of Boston, a rehabilitation center for children stricken with polio, to be named in honor of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, will be set up on Mt. Carmel in Haifa.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt has reportedly told Swarts that she would be happy to aid in the work of the new center, adding that her husband would have been very much interested in a project to help the children of Israel.

Pops Concert For Beth El Members

A Pops Concert will be presented by the Temple Beth El Choral Society on Sunday evening, May 27, in the meeting hall of the Temple. Seated at tables in informal fashion, members of the congregation will be the guests of the Choral Society in a program of popular interest.

Assisting the group as guest artists will be Muriel Rakatansky, violinist, accompanied at the piano by Lillian Rubinstein; and Bella Halpert and Mildred Field, duo-pianists.

The committee for the concert includes Mrs. Nathan S. Rakatansky, chairman, and Mrs. Jacob Klein, co-chairman; Mrs. Jacob H. Orchoff, in charge of arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Samuel L. Rantz, usherettes, and Mrs. Conrad Wilkes, refreshments; Mrs. Seebert J. Goldowsky, publicity. Mrs. Marion Strauss will stage the production. Benjamin Premack is director, and Miss Violette B. Marks, accompanist.

All members of Temple Beth El are invited to the Concert at no charge.
