Javits Offers Legislation After Southern Bombings

WASHINGTON — Sen. Jacob K. Javits, New York Republican, warned in remarks on the Senate floor that bombing of institutions of the Jewish faith in the South represented a danger to other groups. He offered new legislation that would strengthen Federal law protecting judges like U. S. Judge William E. Miller of Nashville, who was threatened simultaneously with the bombing of a Jewish community center.

The legal change urged by Sen. Javits would punish "whoever, alone, or in conspiracy with others, by threats, force or intimidation, prevents or attempts to prevent a Federal officer, including a judge, from carrying out his duties, or threatens to injure him because he has already done so."

A spokesman for the Department of Justice said the FBI is continuing to observe the situation arising from the bombing of Jewish centers in the South and the threatening of Judge Miller. U. S. attorneys in Miami and Nashville are reporting to Washington on developments.

The Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith has evidence that segregationist groups are planning a south-wide series of bombings, such as those which hit Jewish centers recently at Miami and Nashville, district ADL director Nate Perlmutter said. "We are in possession of highly-restricted evidence, shared by the Federal Bureau of Investigation."

The more than 900 posts and auxiliaries of the Jewish War Veterans were asked by their national leaders to contribute to a reward fund to compensate those who provide information leading to the arrest of the dynamiters of Jewish community centers in the South. The reward fund was suggested by the Alexander D. Goode Post of Washington, which made the first cash contribution.

Armistice Body To Be Continued

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — Legal circles in the United Nations interpreted a statement by the United Arab Republic to mean that although Syria has merged with Egypt, the Syrian-Israel armistice commission will continue to function as a separate body as will the Egyptian-Israel armistice commission.

This interpretation was based on the fact that the statement stresses that international agreements concluded by Egypt or Syria will remain valid within the "regional limits" prescribed within them.

Mrs. S. Greenberg Heads Annual Event

Mrs. Simon Greenberg heads the annual Linen and Equipment Event of the Miriam Hospital Women's Association to be held on Monday, March 31, at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel at 12:15 P.M.

Mrs. Greenberg is being assisted by a committee which includes Mesdames John Lury, co-chairman; Ray E. Friedman, honorary chairman; William P. Weinstein, ex-officio; Charles C. Brown, David Field and Joseph J. Sefer, advisory; Israel Mandell, program; Milton Brier, Abraham Horvitz and Miles Shein, patroness co-chairmen; Stanley Gilbert and Owen Kwasha, outlying districts co-chairmen; Ira Blum, A. ### New York Vetoes Fair Sabbath Bill

ALBANY, N. Y.—A Fair Sabbath Bill, guaranteeing observant Jews, who keep their businesses closed on Saturday, the right to operate on Sunday, was defeated in the Assembly of the New York State Legislature. The vote capped a tremendous state-wide campaign by virtually every major Jewish organization and a number of non-Jewish groups to obtain legislative approval for the liberalization of the Sunday Blue Law in New York City, home of some two million Jews.

The vote in the Assembly defeating the measure was 84 to 61.

Assemblymen crossed party lines to vote both "aye" and "nay." This is the first time in over 30 years that such a measure got out of the committee and on to the floor for a vote. More than three decades ago such a bill passed both legislative houses, but was vetoed by the governor.

The Jewish organizations who waged the fight for passage of the Fair Sabbath Bill feel that the progress made up to this point was in itself a major victory for the forces of liberalization, and that it presages a full victory at some future date.

Protestant groups in this city were split on the issue, but the Catholic church, through the Council of Lay Organizations, expressed vehement opposition.

To Accept Funds Until Passover Eve

Contributions to the United Moe's Chitim campaign of Greater Providence will be accepted up until Passover eve, it was announced today by President Edmund Wexler. Although allocations will be made to deserving families a few days before Passover, funds will be necessary for residents at the State Institutions and for those families who may be referred for help at the last moment. Approximately eight hundred individuals along with fraternal organizations have already sent in contributions. Keren Ami Councils of each Temple in the community have made donations.

Cantor Gregor Shelkan

Robert Briscoe

Robert Briscoe, Cantor Shelkan To Appear At Anniversary Rally

Robert Briscoe, the former Jewish Lord Mayor of Dublin, Ireland, will keynote the mass rally launching the 10th Anniversary celebration of Israel in Rhode Island on April 9.

Gov. Dennis J. Roberts, Henry J. Hassenfeld, president of the General Jewish Committee, and other state officials and leaders of the Greater Providence Jewish community will greet Mr. Briscoe.

Mr. Briscoe will be introduced by Mrs. Archibald Silverman, Zionist leader, who was instrumental in urging the former Lord Mayor to come to Providence. Mr. Briscoe met Mrs. Silverman in 1942 when she was speaking in Dublin on behalf of Zionism and Israel.

A native of Dublin, Mr. Briscoe fought with the Irish Republican

Army and was one of the founders of the Fianna Fail party. He has been a member of the Irish parliament since 1927.

Superior Court Judge Frank Licht, general chairman of Israel's 10th Anniversary celebration in Rhode Island, will serve as master of ceremonies for the rally.

Another highlight of the program will be the appearance of world-renowned Cantor Gregor Shelkan.

A descendant of a noted family of rabbis and cantors in Latvia, Mr. Shelkan started his musical career at the age of six and became one of Europe's leading opera and concert singers and cantors.

Mr. Shelkan came to the United States in 1947 and has been associated with Temple Mishkan Tefila in Roxbury, Mass. since 1948.

Doctor To Fight To Retain Custody Of Adopted Child

TORONTO — A Jewish doctor who adopted an infant girl born to a Christian mother says he will fight efforts by her to regain custody of the child.

Mrs. Shirley Harrison, 29, a salesgirl, obtained a court order Friday demanding that Dr. Bernard Laski tell her where the child was placed for adoption.

She said she wanted to regain custody of the child because she had reason to believe that "it was being brought up by people of the Hebrew faith."

Instructed to Fight
"The infant has been living in the Laski home for 12 months now," the doctor's lawyer, John Robinette said.

He added:
"I have been instructed to fight this to the limit."

The case recalled a similar dispute in Brookline, Mass., in 1955 when Mrs. Marjorie McCoy Doherty tried to regain custody of her daughter, Hildy, who had been living with Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Ellis since she was 10 days old. After a long and bitter court battle, the Ellises moved to Florida where a court permitted them to adopt the child.

"I have every reason to believe,"

Mrs. Harrison's affidavit said, "that my second girl is being brought up by people of the Hebrew faith, and although I have no prejudice against Jewish folk I sincerely desire my baby to be baptized into the Church of Christ and brought up as a Christian, and this is an especial reason for wanting to regain her custody."

Signed Adoption Paper
In her affidavit she also said that after the child was born to her Jan. 23, 1957, in St. Michael's Hospital, a lawyer gave her a paper to sign permitting adoption of the infant. She said it was her understanding she would have a year to change her mind.

Ontario currently has no law requiring a year's wait before an adoption becomes permanent. Such a bill has been passed but is awaiting royal assent before it becomes law.

"Mrs. Harrison knows where the child is. This writ is just a matter of form," Robinette said.

"It has not been served on us yet, but when it is we will fight it through to the Canadian Supreme Court, and higher if necessary."

The only higher appeals group is the Queen's Privy Council.

Barton's Provides Passover Desserts

The Jewish housewife needs to think back only a few years to recall the time when her choice of Passover baked goods was meager indeed—either sponge cake or macaroons. In striking contrast, today's wide selection of Kosher-For-Passover baked delicacies made by Barton's Bonbonniere is more than ample to set a sweet table as elaborate and tempting as the most ambitious hostess could desire. The entire array of Barton's Passover baked treats is available exclusively at The Outlet in Providence.

Barton's baked delicacies available at The Outlet include loaves of rich-tasting pecan honey cake, chocolate Petits Fours, continental cookies, chocolate-covered sponge cake.

This extensive range of Passover delicacies is made possible only by Barton's annual conversion of its entire factory to Kosher-For-Passover production, under the supervision of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America.

THIS WEEK WE ARE HAPPY TO PRESENT

An Orchid To . . . A Carnation To . . .

Mrs. Bertram L. Bernhardt

In the words of her own friends and associates, "there is no one like Helene Bernhardt". A truly hard worker with myriad interests, Mrs.

Bernhardt will apply herself to any community undertaking, no matter how small. She is a board member—and an active one—of such organizations as the American Red Cross, Association for the Blind, Brandeis University and the GJC—and this is but a partial list. A past president of the Temple Beth El Sisterhood, she is currently president of the recently organized Permanent Women's Division of the GJC.

Benjamin Brier

Few are the men whose record of community contribution can match that of Mr. Brier. A fairly complete list of his activities and achievements simply could not be accommodated in this space. Mr. Brier has played a significant role in every phase of civic and Jewish communal affairs. He was president of Miriam Hospital for five years, during the important years of its rebuilding on Summit Avenue. One of the organizers of the GJC, he has served that organization in every capacity, as a vice-president, campaign director, initial gifts leader, and member of the allocations committee.

"THE BIG FIZZ", Harvard University Hasty Pudding's 110th annual show, will be presented at R. I. School of Design Auditorium on Thursday evening, April 3. Tickets are on sale at Avery Piano Company, 256 Weybosset Street, the Merry-Go Round Shop, 242 Thayer Street and the Auditorium box office.

"THE BIG FIZZ" was written and produced entirely by the students with professional help forthcoming from James Paul and Liz Theiler, in the directing and choreography departments as well as Michyl Veach who design the costumes.

The book is by Erich Segal, music and orchestrations by Joseph Raposo of Fall River, lyrics by John C. M. Brust and sets by Webster Lithgow. Thomas Bernheim is the producer, assisted by L. Averell Carter.

The plot concerns the small island of Costa Rica, an island paradise in the Caribbean, and what results after its selection as the site for the 1958 Women's Olympic Games. Brawny women athletes and unscrupulous coaches invade the struggling island, accompanied by American imperialists. Latin revolutionists add to the turmoil which results in carbonated comedy and sparkling songs.

Among the 'chorus girls' of the 21 member cast will be Prince Aryn, younger brother of Aga Khan IV.

They Could Win, BUT . . . !

With the opening of the major league baseball season less than three weeks away, the column's analysis of American League contenders takes a different turn. Last week, you'll recall, optimism reigned supreme: the strong points of the leading clubs were detailed, the possibilities of a very tight race explored, and the prediction made that any real hot team could win the flag.

Now to break down that optimism and list the shortcomings of the contenders, and evaluate their seriousness.

The start must come with the Chicago White Sox, who loom more and more in this mind as the team most likely to be the major disappointment of the year. Manager Al Lopez never has finished worse than second; the season coming up, though, is likely to break that skein and make him a leading candidate for a nervous breakdown.

Chicago

The trouble with the White Sox is that they have built themselves too high a pennant platform over too shaky a foundation. For instance, everybody connected with the club brags about the improved pitching staff which was the best in the league last year and is best right now.

The cold, unemotional facts refute this claim. Chicago had the league's SECOND best staff last year. With all the trouble Casey Stengel had in 1957—with Ford out half a season, Larsen only so-so, Kucks miserable, etc., the Yankees' hurlers wound up the campaign with an earned run average of exactly three per game. The White Sox figures? Closer, much closer, to four than to three ERA.

But that was last year. How about the campaign coming up? Here we find Lopez convincing everybody his pitching is best again. He lists Pierce, Donovan, Wynn, Wilson, Keegan, Moore, Fischer, Staley, McDonald, as THE staff. Granting that Moore will help the relief problem, let's examine the starters.

Behind Pierce and Donovan are Wynn, Wilson, Keegan, Fischer. Big deal! Wynn at 38 isn't going to set the world on fire; Wilson is 36 and always does most of his effective pitching during the first half of the campaign. Keegan is a half year older than Wilson and strictly an in-and-out. Last year, for example, he pitched a no-hitter, yet had only a 10-8 mark.

Fischer is a sophomore, which means he must prove himself this year. He is, by the way, the only starter under 30; Donovan has yet to win more than 16 games in a season, though it must be admitted he is the most effective pitcher on the club. Add Pierce to the above group, and the sum total still does not compare at all with the Yankees.

Well, the White Sox claim to have the best defense in the league. But Jackson, the first baseman, is admitted to be a poor fielder and Billy Goodman, the third sacker, while valuable as a utility man and at first base, is hardly anybody's candidate for best fielding honors in the infield, and he has a recent history of bad legs to boot. Center field is in the experimental stage, with two contestants, Landis and Francona, who have yet to prove themselves. Al Smith has to shake off two dismal years in Cleveland. And there are astute baseball men who will tell you that Nelson Fox is considered a great second baseman mainly because of his hitting.

And speaking of hitting! Even the White Sox admit they have no power. Smith at his best might hit 20 or 25 homers, but nobody else can come within 10 of that. The man counted on to bat cleanup and slug the runs in is a so-far weak and spasmodic hitter, Ron Jackson, who has played in only 113 games in his entire career.

Chicago expects to win the pennant with singles and doubles, and the fastest team on the bases. Fastest? Last year, maybe, but this year the club features the slow-moving Jackson; Goodman, never a speedster; Lollar, who can't run; and Rivera and Aparicio, who don't get on base often enough to run.

So much for the team with the best pitching, best defense, best speed, etc.

Detroit

Now for the Tigers, and if you want a real good club to watch for the pennant, this is it. But this week we are deliberately noting the weak spots. Front line pitching is strong, with Bunning, Lary, Hoelt, Foytack the top four. But Foytack in two full years has 15-13 and 14-11 records—not good enough. Lary is slow starter, picks up speed around mid-season.

Rookies are counted on to make effective fifth starter; but leading rookie, Bob Shaw, won 16 games in winter ball, may have tired himself out of consideration (although Bunning didn't in similar circumstances last year). Second line pitching not so hot, and lots of games are lost there. Strong in relief, with Morgan and Aguirre.

Defense is where the Tigers may lose themselves up. Improved behind the bat with Hegan, Detroit has an unsettled and uncertain infield. Depended upon to shape it up is Billy Martin, the new shortstop, and there is considerable question whether he can do the job. If Billy clicks, he could carry the entire infield with him. If he fails—this could be the worst infield among the contenders. As of now, you couldn't brag about the status of Boone, Bolling, Martin and Bertoia.

The outfield is similarly shaky. Kaline is the league's best right

Urges Israeli Youth To Study Jewish Life Everywhere

JERUSALEM — A warning to Israel youth against ignoring the Jews outside of Israel "lest they disappear as a community, an irreparable loss to Israel," was voiced by Dr. Nahum Goldmann in an address to Hebrew University students last week.

The world Zionist leader said that good conditions "in America, American Jewish youth find they have nothing specific to fight for or against as Jews and Jewish identification was therefore fading. Nothing but a living contact with Israel," he said, could help the situation.

He added that if Israel wished to influence Jews in other countries, it must also take into account, study and understanding them. Politically, Israel will always need world Jewry, he said, because no state in the modern world can be entirely independent and Israel will be able to resist Arab pressures only if backed by the Jewish People.

Dr. Goldmann urged young Israelis to study Jewish life in countries outside of Israel.

fielder, but Kuenn is a brand new center fielder after a lifetime at shortstop. Maxwell never was a bear on defense, and his alternate, Zernial, is worse.

Hitting? The only weak spot here is Hegan, and the club can afford that luxury in exchange for better handling of pitchers. Everyone else can murder the ball, including the bench headed by Zernial and Skizas. Murder, Inc., that's what it could be.

Boston

Boston's drawbacks for the coming campaign are of the type that could vanish in a hurry. Right now, though, they are drawbacks. The pitching staff includes only two dependables, Sullivan and Brewer. Sisler has not yet had a good year, ditto the old Yankee killer Nixon. Baumann is strictly a question mark, and how would you rate Susce? Fornieles is OK as a starter, but what about Dean Stone—and ah there, Bob Porterfield! Will Kiely live up to his promise of last year?

See what I mean? This staff could turn out to be a sensational one—maybe the league's best, if several of these guys should click. But up to now they haven't, and so you must rate the staff as deficient until it proves otherwise.

Catching? Will be good defensively with White, better offensively without him. If the rest of the team hits well enough, I would like to see White stay on. If it needs more hitting, then Sammy would have to go. Right now, the matter is unsettled, therefore a deficiency.

Outfield is strong aside from left field; and in the 77 games at Fenway Park, that deficiency is overcome by Williams' knowledge of the fence. The infield, while the tremendous competition bids fair to result in better performance, is still a year away from stability. It has no take-charge guy, no standout performer where he is needed most—around second base. Buddin figures to need most of this year to shake off the Army rust. Whoever plays second should be all right, but for purposes of this problem he will have to prove himself. Good second base combinations are not born overnight. The Sox still don't have one.

I agree with the Tigers' Manager Tighe that the man who could settle the infield "but they won't let let him" is Klaus.

Red Sox hitting offers no real problem. A little more consistency from Jensen, perhaps, would help. And Dick Gernert will have to hit at least .275 himself, or in combination with any alternate first baseman. So much, of course, depends on Ted Williams. Last year, nobody figured he would do much; now they all expect him to bat close to .400. This is unfair, and the Sox would be better off if they could stand on their own feet in the event Ted has just a so-so year or if he cannot play regularly.

This is the greatest weakness. Can the team hit well enough without him? For Boston's sake, it is to be hoped this proposition does not have to be proved.

Bitter Herbs Take On New Flavors

"On all other nights we eat sweet herbs, tonight bitter herbs as well as sweet" . . . so run the traditional readings of the Jewish Passover Seder service. The bitter herbs remain as a constant reminder to Jewish people of the bitter times and tears suffered by their ancestors in their exodus from Egypt.

Bitter herbs in this country are almost universally translated as "horseradish," according to Gold's Pure Food Products Co., a leading manufacturer of horseradish. Horseradish which was once eaten mainly at Passover meal-time has become an all-year-round seasoning and flavor builder for all types of food.

This distinctively flavored plant is combined with the cider vinegar under special strict orthodox Rabbinical supervision for the Passover season. In addition to its place in the first course of the meal, Kosher-for Passover horseradish is an almost indispensable companion for the traditional Passover gefilte fish. Horseradish may also enliven sauces used with the meat dish or, mixed with the chopped apples and nuts which make up the harotzes, is used as a filling for matzo sandwiches.

In any case, a truly bittersweet flavor is achieved. And even at other times during the Passover week, people enjoy this mixture of flavors with the crispy deliciousness of Passover matzos.

However, at other times in the year, horseradish appears with many roasts and meat to advantage. Mix well-drained shredded pineapple — one part horseradish to four or five parts pineapple — and serve cold with lamb or chicken.

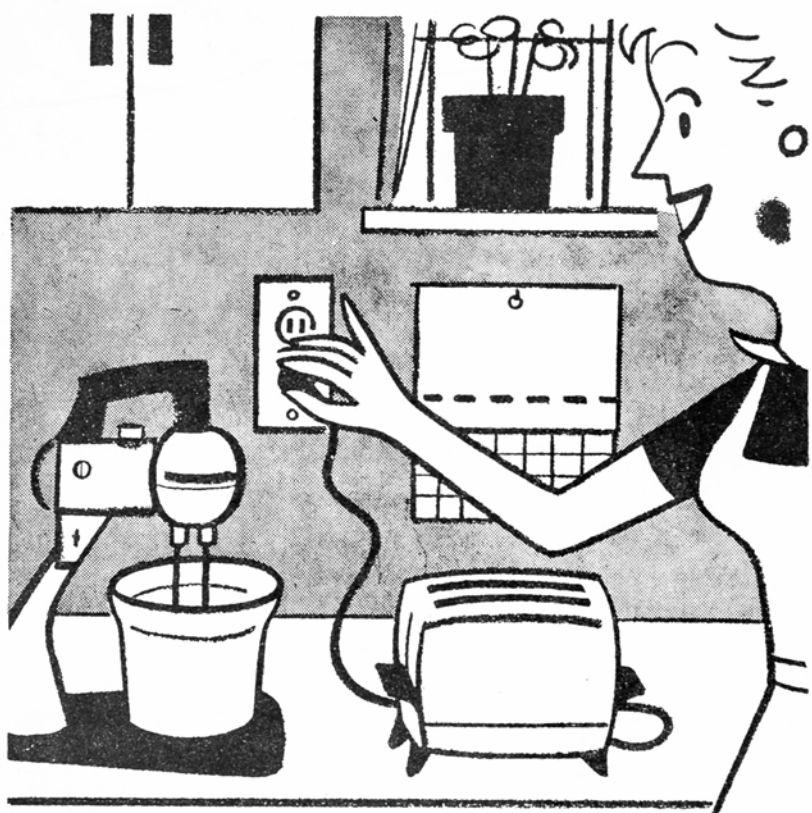

Mix, in somewhat the same proportions, horseradish with crushed cranberry sauce or with apple sauce. Serve with roast beef or poultry.

Mix horseradish with cottage cheese (one part horseradish to four parts cottage cheese). Stir in well drained canned fruit mixture. Chill. Serve with lettuce or watercress, as a luncheon salad.

Look Magazine Cites Dr. Mazar

NEW YORK — Dr. Benjamin Mazar, president of the Hebrew University of Jerusalem, was cited in Look Magazine for his work as an archeologist and historian.

"His efforts have made possible new insights into the history of both Judaism and Christianity," the magazine notes in its "Look Applauds" feature.

Dr. Mazar is now visiting this country to confer with leading scientists and educators.

He has given Israel, Look reports, "a world center of culture, science and research. He has also made the university a symbol of brotherhood. It is open to students from all parts of the world without regard to race, creed or national origin."

Dr. Mazar is especially known for his work in directing research on the famous Dead Sea scrolls and is the discoverer of the famous catacombs of Bet Shearim in Southern Galilee.

Mrs. Silverman At Beth David Meeting

Temple Beth David has issued an invitation to the entire Jewish community to attend an Open Meeting at the Temple on Monday, March 31 to hear Mrs. Archibald Silverman and participate in plans for the forthcoming celebration of the tenth anniversary of the founding of Israel.

Speaking for the Temple, its Men's Club, Sisterhood, and Mothers Association, Henry Brill, president, pleaded that all Jews attend this "important community event." He added that Mrs. Silverman, who was a leader in the long struggle leading to the establishment of Israel, would relate "shocking events" about the extent of anti-Israel propaganda here in Rhode Island.

The open meeting will start at 8 P. M.

Goldmann Says Soviet Gains In Mideast Hurting Israel

JERUSALEM, Israeli Zion — The head of the World Zionist Organization says Russia's growing influence in the Middle East has created a perilous situation for Israel.

In an address last week at a 10-day session of the Zionist General Council, Dr. Nachum Goldmann said:

"Increasing instability in the Middle East . . . requires more watchfulness, alertness and preparedness by Israel and the Jewish people than ever before.

"The entry of Russia into this area meant the start of a cold war which today is raging throughout the Middle East, perhaps with greater fury than in any other part of the world, and has created a situation which is most perilous for Israel," he said.

"The immediate result of this development is the arming of the two Arab camps by the two great blocs (East and West) engaged in the cold war. Another consequence of this development is the strengthening of the ability of Arab states to play the two blocs against each other and to increase Arab demands and threats.

"All Israel can hope for in the present situation, which is becoming even more perilous because of the increasing hostility of the Soviet Union, is that some agreement between the two blocs may be arrived at with regard to the Middle East."

BRAVERMAN REALTY

-- PL 1-7587 --

Leading Rabbi Says Passover Predates Exodus

WASHINGTON—Does Passover predate the Exodus? A leading Reform rabbi offers evidence that it does.

Says Rabbi Charles E. Shulman, of New York's Riverdale Temple: "The Israelites began observing (Passover) when they were nomadic shepherds" . . . long before Moses led them from Egypt.

"The original emphasis of the Passover period," says Rabbi Shulman, "was not on freedom, but on the primitive wish for abundant flocks of cattle."

The rabbi offers his theory in an article appearing in this month's issue of The National Jewish Monthly, publication of B'nai B'rith.

Although parts of the Haggadah have been recited by Jews for more than 2500 years, ceremonies of the holiday are much older than the actual Exodus and the Haggadah itself, he writes.

"The liberation from Egypt gave the observance of Passover a new meaning, while the old customs were retained."

Rabbi Shulman points out that in the book of Exodus Jews are instructed to kill a lamb at dusk on the 14th day of Nisan, "the first month marking the Spring season when animals usually bore their young."

Issue New Money To Foil Counterfeiters

JERUSALEM — Israel Treasury deference to the traditional Jewish ban against the use of "graven images" on paper money was modified in a decision to use human figures to foil counterfeiters.

The Israel State Bank will issue new bank notes to replace two types now in circulation. The new notes will have reproductions of human figures, which experts say is the best guarantee against counterfeiting because the human figure, particularly the face, is extremely hard to falsify. The smallest deviation alters the picture enough for instant recognition of the change.

Treasury officials said that in the past year a considerable sum in counterfeit ten-pound notes was found. They said it appeared that the money had been made in the Gaza Strip, although they added the counterfeiting probably was the work of private operators.

To meet objections from religious sources, the Treasury agreed that the human figure on the new notes should be symbolic — not specific — representing agriculture, defense, culture and similar subjects. At the specific request of Prime Minister David Ben Gurion, the symbolic figure for agriculture will be recognizable as a Yemenite immigrant.

HEBREW SPEAKING CIRCLE
The Providence Hug Ivri, Hebrew Speaking Circle, begins its fifth year of continuous programming with the forthcoming March meeting. Mrs. Jerome Stein will be the speaker at this meeting, which will be held on Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Eliash at 104 Forest Street. Mrs. Stein will discuss a contemporary Israeli novel, "Bread of the Lovers", by the Israeli novelist, Shrirah. Mrs. Judith Diezendorf is chairman of the Hug Ivri.

The Jewish Herald serves a community of 35,000 — it follows that Herald ads are widely read.

He adds, "Evidently the Pesach element of this festival, the paschal lamb, was an ancient tradition celebrated by the Israelites when they were slaves under Pharaoh.

"When Moses asked the Egyptian ruler to let his people go three days' journey into the wilderness to sacrifice to their God, it was for the purpose of observing the original Pesach custom.

"When the request was refused, the families offered sacrifices in their homes."

The article maintains that the Bible does not tell us how the festival began, but only how it came to be preserved. "Its previous existence is taken for granted," Rabbi Shulman says.

Later the old customs were reinterpreted until Passover gained a "richer meaning"—the remembrance of the Exodus and the days of slavery. This is "the freedom concept," says Rabbi Shulman.

"The Exodus lent historic significance to the Pesach observance," he adds. "The festival was now interpreted as a memorial of God's deliverance and protection against Pharaoh."

Pesach became synonymous with the passage of the Angel of Death over the homes of the Israelites. "The blood on the doorposts became a mark of identification to distinguish Hebrew homes from Egyptian homes. Formerly the daubing of the doorposts with the blood of a slain animal was performed as an antidote to plagues, misfortune, or illness among the cattle, and as an assurance of safety for the coming year."

Once in Canaan, the shepherd Israelite tribes turned to agricultural pursuits and there began the custom of offering the first fruits of their harvest along with the firstlings of their flocks. The Canaanite observance of eating matzoh before the first grain harvest was subsequently added, says

Rabbi Shulman. With the subordination of the pastoral and agricultural parts of the festival, the earlier elements were retained as symbols and associated with the Exodus.

The redemption of the Israelites from the land of Egypt was emphasized by the Commandments, the prophets, the rabbis and sages throughout the centuries so that "it was impossible for the Jew to think of liberty without recalling his own liberation from Egypt."

It has not been limited to Judaism, Rabbi Shulman writes, but is an "integral part of Christianity." "The last supper observed by Jesus and his disciples was the Passover Seder.

"When the seal of the United States was under consideration by the Continental Congress, Benjamin Franklin proposed that it depict the Israelites crossing the Red Sea to freedom."

Foods To Remember

If you ever hear the Yiddish expression: "A Klug 'tzu Columbus!", don't believe a word of it. We kitchen engineers should be very grateful for the accidental discovery of the Western Continent—at least for the foods unknown before 1492 in the countries we knew. For instance, the hardshell varieties of squash we resort to in our winter and early spring menus. Did you know the word "squash" comes from the Massachusetts Indian word "askutasquash"?

In our characteristic way with foods, we like to combine this versatile vegetable, the acorn squash, with a tropical fruit. We're sure you'll like the innovation too. It has been "husband-tested" and approved.

Here's an excellent fruit and vegetable combination to serve with fish or poultry meals. And it's so easy to prepare.

PINEAPPLE & SQUASH CASSEROLE

- 1 medium size acorn squash
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1 tall can sliced pineapple
- 1/4 cup vegetable shortening
- 3 tablespoons fine cracker crumbs or Matzo Meal

Wash, dry and slice the squash into rings as thick as the sliced pineapple, thinner if desired. Remove the seeds then trim off peel with a sharp paring knife. Combine sugar and salt and dip each squash ring in this combination, enough to coat both sides and outer rim. Place these on a flat plate while preparing the canned pineapple by draining thoroughly and arranging on a flat plate to be used as follow: Melt the shortening in the casserole to be used and pour off half into a handy saucer or cup. Arrange a layer of squash rings in bottom of casserole, sprinkle with the sugar and salt mixture. Place a layer of drained pineapple slices over, sprinkle lightly with crumbs then arrange squash rings over, repeating till all are used. Pour pineapple syrup over all, sprinkle with remaining crumbs or Matzo Meal and drizzle the rest of the melted shortening over top. Bake 40 to 45 minutes at 350° F. or till the squash rings are tender enough to pierce with a fork. Serves 6.

For a change try making the following Mashed Potato Puffs to serve in place of the usual Potato Chips any day you have a Salad Luncheon or Supper. They're the kind that melt in the mouth!

MASHED POTATO PUFFS

- 2 cups leftover or fresh cooked and mashed potato
- 2 eggs
- 2 tablespoons cream, sour cream or top milk
- 1/4 teaspoon mixed herb seasoning, optional
- Salt and pepper to taste
- Cooking oil or melted vegetable shortening for deep frying
- Combine mashed potato, eggs, cream, seasonings in a mixing bowl and beat well with a fork or mixing spoon. Heat the oil or shortening in a frying pan, enough to come 3/4 to 1 inch up side of pan then drop the mixture in with a teaspoon to form little balls. Let cook over moderate heat, turning lightly with a fork till nicely browned all over. These puff up to double or triple their size so do not crowd the "drops." Lift out with a perforated spoon and let drain well on paper towels. A nice addition is to sprinkle paprika or finely minced parsley over just before serving while hot. Can be warmed up in a moderate oven, if necessary. Serves 6.

JERRY GORDON DANCERS

The Jerry Gordon Dancers, a newly formed group of 14 children between the ages of eight and 17, will appear for the first time at Harrington Hall, Howard's, on Sunday from 2 to 4 P.M. They will also appear at Vasa Hall for the Knights of Pythias on April 1 at 7 P.M.

Polish Teen-Agers Dislike Speeches

LONDON — Repatriated Jewish teen-agers do not take too well to lengthy Marxist-Leninist speeches in youth clubs organized for them by Polish Jewish Communist leaders, the Warsaw Yiddish language daily Folkstimme reports.

The latest issue to arrive from Warsaw notes that the young people prefer social activities, such as dancing in clubrooms, to what their Communist "instructors" offer in the way of boring lectures. Folkstimme reports that a Communist-led cultural and social union of Polish Jews find the younger generation disappointingly "hollow," because they want a good time. The newspaper notes that efforts to bind the younger Jews to Communism and to Poland appear doomed by their disillusionment with the Soviet Union, and their feeling of strangeness in Poland, their new home.

The majority of teenagers—those who were recently repatriated from Soviet territory—are not assimilating into the Polish population. Folkstimme blames this on anti-Semitism, which they encounter among Polish school age boys and girls. Even the children of assimilated Jewish families are now looking for Jewish companions, the newspaper says. For the others with an imperfect knowledge of Polish, there is only the company of other Jews in the Communist organized clubs and centers.

Pays To Make List When Shopping

Today's food shopper does much of her meal planning at the store and often decides what and how much to buy as she shops, according to a recent study on consumer food buying made by a state experiment station of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.

who believe in having a list, still shop without one. Surveys indicate that homemakers with higher incomes are most likely to use shopping lists, and those who shop with no plans are most receptive to food promotions.

Time was when good household management called for planning menus ahead and having a carefully written shopping list before going to market.

Research results show that the amount of "impulse" buying varies widely. From 18 to 86 percent of the total purchases have been reported by homemakers as being the results of decisions made at the store.

Modern supermarkets have changed much of this. Much merchandising is aimed at "impulse buying," the report notes, and shoppers decide in the store how to select among a wide variety of items, new products, new packages, and specials.

Meat was one of the food items reported as most often selected at the store, rather than planned for at home.

What's more, shoppers in these markets must decide on their own instead of consulting the grocer or butcher as they once did.

Homemakers may conclude that a basic but flexible shopping list may be most helpful, and that in-store inspection always pays and often gives them new meal ideas.

Less than half the country's homemakers make any definite meal plans in advance, the researchers estimate from a review of many surveys. Of the homemakers questioned in 3 cities as to their plans for dinner the following day, only 4 out of 10 had definite plans; 1 out of 10 had a "vague idea"; 5 out of 10 had no plans at all. Homemakers in many surveys said they decided what to serve just before the meal.

As for a shopping list, more than 8 out of 10 homemakers said that they believed a "good homemaker" would use a prepared list most of the time, especially "to help remember what is needed."

However, many homemakers

The matzoh factory is located in Wroclaw, where a large number of Jews live. The Polish Government has made available all the necessary facilities for the bakery, and the Joint Distribution Committee has made a loan to purchase wheat from Canada for the baking of matzohs.
