Diary of a Day

Up, breakfast and board the subway, reading more on Einstein and marveling that people make so great ado about something they do not understand. But perhaps, that's just it. People are always most enthusiastic about the incomprehensible. Consider religion. It's the inscrutable that explains its lasting grip.

At the office, meet X who asks if I have heard Einstein's latest definition of relativity.

I devoutly pray you are not going to spring the one about—"when you sit on a red hot stove, a minute seems like an eternity and when you sit on a pretty girl's lap, an eternity seems like a minute."

"No," retorts X. This one is bona fide from Einstein himself. Asked what his theory was, Professor Einstein told a friend. "If my theory proves true, the Germans in future years will say Einstein was a German, the French will say—no—a mind like his was international. Whereas, if the theory proves unsound, the French will say—Einstein was a German and the Germans will say—he was a Jew. That's relativity."

That, too, X, I have heard before, but I can use it in my business. . . . what, with the depression, what it is . . .

"Head Check" Ginsburg

Promenading with Jewish Tribune Wallach, came upon Louis Popkin, who now and then is heard of in a publicity way. Popkin told the one about "Head Check" Ginsburg. For those who may not be in the know, so-called "head checks" are merely checks dated ahead. When Ginsburg was confronted with a bill, say of Dec. 23rd, he would sign a check, as of say, Jan. 5th.

Well, it appears that Ginsburg, who was eternally writing "head checks," died and his friends placed on the tombstone:

Here lies Jacob Ginsburg
He died June 6 as of July 2nd.

The Dixie Jewish Poet

And so, an anthology of Southern verse is planning to devote some 16 pages to the works of Robert Loveman of Dalton, Ga., who authored among other things the "It Isn't Raining to Me" ballad. I have been told that some cousin of the late Dixie poet—a lawyer, is president of a Brooklyn synagogue. Let those who think of Jews so frequently in terms of the revolutionist consider the case of Loveman. Here was a poet of "sweetness and light" in all its glory, particularly of sweetness. A cousin of this Robert Loveman, by the way, Sam Loveman, if I recall correctly, wrote things of a more acid constitution. He was a friend of Ambrose Bierce.

Mencken and Loveman

But going back to Robert Loveman, my private detectives inform me that Robert Loveman was the idol of H. L. Mencken in his youth, and that the Loveman family still possesses a number of letters which the youthful Henry wrote to Loveman, telling him how much his poems meant to him. Probably today, Mencken would give a small fortune to burn up these letters. In his youth, youthful Harry was quite as sentimental as the rest of them. There used to be a little book in the New York library, containing some of these adolescent and sentimental effusions of Mencken himself, but the book is no more to be found there, and gossip has it, that H. L. Mencken may have been responsible for its disappearance. It would not do for the votary of the Dionysian outlook on life to ever

JEWISH NATIONAL FUND NIGHT IS OBSERVED SUNDAY

Executive Committee to Meet at Biltmore Sunday for Final
Plans to Greet Ussishkin

In conjunction with the campaign of the Jewish National Fund, which is now taking place in Rhode Island, Jewish National Fund Night was celebrated at Zinn's Banquet Hall on last Saturday evening with over one hundred people in attendance.

Dr. Louis Malecfsky of B'nai Brach, Palestine, delivered an inspiring address, favoring land purchases in Palestine and urging those present to continue their good work in spite of the many obstacles that may arise from time to time.

Mrs. Belle Novitz of New York, contralto, rendered an excellent program of Hebrew and Jewish songs. Mr. Igor Gorin of Vienna, baritone, sang Hebrew Melodies, which were received in a responsive manner. Mr. George Greenspun, Jewish National Fund Field Secretary, explained the work of Jewish National Fund.

Cards of prospective contributors to the Jewish National Fund Land Campaign were distributed among those captains and workers who were present. The luncheons for workers were held on Tuesday and Thursday of this week with many in attendance and encouraging reports were rendered.

On Sunday afternoon, Jan. 4th, the Executive Committee of the J. N. F. Land Campaign, will meet at the Biltmore Hotel in Room D at 4:30 o'clock to make final arrangements for Mr. Ussishkin's visit in Providence on Jan. 12th. Mr. Ussishkin is the World President of the Jewish National Fund and a famous Zionist. Following is an additional list of captains and workers on the Jewish National Fund Land Campaign now in progress:

OBJECT AGAINST HOLDING ZIONIST CONGRESS IN FEB.

U. S. Leaders Say It Would Only be Battleground for Jewish Factions

New York, Jan. 2—(JTA)—Arguing that it would be unreasonable to hold a Zionist Congress at the present time, since the Congress would only be a battleground for Jewish factions at a moment when they show themselves united, many Zionist leaders, and important instruments of the Jewish press, are arguing a postponement of the Congress announced for Feb. 24.

Rabbi Barnett R. Brickner of the Euclid Temple of Cleveland, made public through the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, a letter which he wrote to Jacob de Haas, who invited him to become a candidate for the delegate list to the Congress.

Rabbi Brickner, in declining to be a candidate, said that a Congress at this time "might serve to depose Dr. Weizmann from leadership at a time when he has been carrying on vis-à-vis with the British government, political maneuver which is both dignified and powerful. It is true that Dr. Weizmann's leadership has not always been of the strongest character, but just now he happens to be doing the only thing that can be done. To replace him by one of the leaders of the minority groups, the Revisionists or the Radicals, would be harmful and unwise to say the least. "A conference in February," says Rabbi Brickner, "can only serve to reveal to the world, and especially to the Arabs and the British government, how very disunited we are; this, at a time when we should be bound up as one powerful unit. "Are we really prepared for a Congress? What new program do we bring to this Congress? Is it the bare desire to depose Dr. Weizmann? Are we ready to accept Jabotinsky in his place. "Of course, if Justice Brandeis

ART EXHIBIT TO OPEN SUNDAY AT TEMPLE EMANU-EL

Saul Raskin to Exhibit Over Sixty Paintings and Prints

Sunday evening will mark the formal opening of the Jewish Art Exhibit, presenting the paintings, water colors, etchings and lithographs of the internationally famous Jewish artist, Mr. Saul Raskin. The opening will be an evening of Jewish Art and Music, at which Mr. Saul Raskin will speak on the subject, "Jewish Art and Artists." Col. H. Anthony Dyer, most prominent Rhode Island artist, will speak, and Mr. Benjamin Premak, well-known violinist, will render a musical program, accompanied by Mr. Oscar Lozzi. Rabbi Goldman will speak and Mr. Judah Semonoff will preside.

This exhibit will be open until Sunday, Jan. 11. On Wednesday evening, Jan. 7th, many out-of-town guests and local people will be especially welcomed at Guest Night, at which Mrs. George Wise, local artist, and Mr. Raskin, will speak.

The members of the local Art Clubs are evincing great interest in the forthcoming exhibition. Mr. Raskin will present over 60 various items. While most of them deal with aspects of Jewish life in Palestine, yet Mr. Raskin's works are so versatile that they deal with many other themes as well. Mr. Raskin has exhibited in many of the foremost galleries in America. Only two weeks ago he was awarded the Logan Prize by the Art Institution of Chicago.

Mr. Raskin came to the United States in 1904 after he had completed his studies at the Universities of Berlin and Paris. For a short time he lived in Providence and many people still remember him well. He has traveled extensively in Palestine, the land which has greatly influenced and inspired his work. He has given to the world not only important art, but many articles on art and he is the author of "Palestine in Words and Paint." Many museums and galleries in America have purchased Mr. Raskin's works for their collections.

A member of the New York Water Color Club, he has exhibited with the National Academy of Design, the Brooklyn Museum of Art, the Art Institute of Chicago, and the Baltimore and Newark Museums. His work appears in the collections of the Metropolitan Museum in New York, the Congressional Library, the New York Public Library and the Newark Museum. In addition to some teaching and direction in art circles, he is also the author of a book on Palestine which he illustrated.

The exhibit is open to the public, free of charge, and is sponsored by the Institute of Jewish Studies at Temple Emanu-El with the co-operation of the Sisterhood and Men's Club. The arrangements committee consists of the following:

Mrs. J. Koppelman, Mrs. J. Semonoff, Mrs. J. Adelson, Mrs. J. J. Seefor, Miss Mary Sydney, Mrs. H. Hassenfeld, Mrs. H. Frank, Mrs. S. Blazer, Mrs. D. Spunt, Mrs. F. Markenson, Miss Gertrude Freedman, Miss Dora Korenbaum, Miss Sadie Gillson, Mr. Henry Burt, Mr. Harry Beck and Rabbi Israel M. Goldman.

LA SCALA OPENS NEW YEAR WITH JEWESS AT HELM

Milan, Italy, Jan. 2—(JTA)—The new season at La Scala, famous Milanese opera house, opened recently with a woman, who is a Jewess besides, in complete command for the first time in the 150 years of the company's history. Signorina Anita Colombo is now the director of La Scala, having been appointed to that post following the recent death of Signor Scandiani, who directed the opera house for many years.

Miss Colombo, who was formerly assistant to Arturo Toscanini, conductor of the La Scala Orchestra, was promoted over the head of others connected with the management of the famous institution. She is described as not only a first class musician and linguist, speaking fluently four languages, but also as an intelligent, energetic business woman, fitted to cope with the serious financial problems which now face La Scala.

The Gemilath Chessed Hebrew Free Loan Association held its annual banquet in honor of the outgoing officers at Zinn's Banquet Hall on Monday evening. Ress, a member of the Board, who gave every one present an opportunity to speak. Bernard Goodman was Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements.

Credit in no small measure was given to the retiring President, Carl Michaelson, for his successful administration during the year just past. Gifts were presented to the President, Carl Michaelson; Secretary, Samuel Bander; Treasurer, Samuel Levine, and Honorary Member of the Board, Israel Halpern.

building committee, will introduce Hon. Philip C. Joslin, who will act as presiding officer. Judge Jerome J. Hahn will deliver the principal address. Mrs. Jennie Goldsmith, Max L. Grant and others will speak during the exercises.

Samuel M. Magid, in a statement yesterday, said:

"Rhode Island Jewry and non-Jews as well are cordially invited to be present on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to witness the exercises in connection with the ground-breaking of the new building of the Home for the Aged."

"Several years ago, a small group of noble people saw the plight of our poor old men and women, and stated their determination to co-operate with others in providing a suitable and comfortable home that these people in the last years of their life may be happy. They saw a definite goal in striving to relieve the present deplorable conditions. These men and women, who are responsible for the new home today, have fully succeeded in their mission. These men and women need no glory or commendation—they feel it in their hearts."

"We hope that Providence as well as the entire state of Rhode Island will be proud of the new Jewish Home for the Aged, proud of the faithful benefactors of these old folks, proud of the old men and women who are so graciously and humbly thankful that they are to have a comfortable Home to spend their last years in contentment. Everyone is urged to attend the exercises to show his love and respect for these old men and women by assuring them of the right to live anew in the new Home."

The plans for the new building were prepared by Krokyn, Brone and Rosenstein.

POLE SENTENCED TO EIGHT YEARS FOR MURDER OF JEW

Warsaw, Jan. 2—(JTA)—A sentence of eight years in prison at hard labor was meted out by the local court to Antoni Kowalczyk, a Pole, for the murder of Israel Speiregen, a Jew, six months ago.

Speiregen was killed because Kowalczyk said the Jew spoke Yiddish too loudly on a street and that was offensive to Kowalczyk's "Polish ears."

Washington and Jerusalem

By MEYER LEVIN

Menachem Mendel Ussishkin, World President of the Jewish National Fund, is one of the personalities spoken of as a possible successor to Chaim Weizmann as President of the World Zionist Organization. Here are some of his views of current Zionist problems.—Editor's Note.

Menachem Mendel Ussishkin is being spoken of as one of the most likely candidates to the Presidency of the World Zionist Organization, to be chosen at the February Zionist Congress in Karlsbad. Zionist leaders know of his ability as an administrator, since he has for years been the World President of the Jewish National Fund, living in Jerusalem and watching over the purchase and development of Jewish land. His work is somewhat in the nature of that of a Jewish ambassador at large.

Menachem Mendel Ussishkin is now in America, having come here after a lapse of ten years, to revisit the great Jewish population of America, and to strengthen the position of the Jewish National Fund.

Recently, M. M. Ussishkin visited Washington. There he was escorted through the government buildings. He visited the great house of Justice, where a Jew, and a leader in Zionist thought, and curiously enough another of the personalities spoken of as a likely choice for the next World Zionist Presidents, sits in the Supreme Court as Justice.

Speaking before a distinguished audience that massed the Jewish Community Center of Washington, M. M. Ussishkin said:

"I bring greetings, not merely from Jewish Jerusalem to the Jews of Washington, but from Jerusalem, the oldest capital, the city whose very name means peace, to Washington, the newest capital, the city of freedom and liberty. Jerusalem is the oldest cultural center of the world; Washington is the most important city of the new world. Both those cities have dreamed the same ideal.

"From the city of Zion there went forth the message of peace, which was of universal import. From Washington, through the world of the late President Wilson, there went forth the message of equality and freedom for small peoples as well as great peoples.

"That peace has not been obtained in Palestine is not the fault of the prophets, who traversed its paths, but of others in whose hands it lay to secure the emancipation of Israel. Sad to relate, in the holy city of Jerusalem, blood has been spilled under the flag of Great Britain, that banner which meant truth and justice to all nations, and whose meaning was particularly cherished by the Jews. An obligation rests upon the English people, the people of Shakespeare, Gladstone and Balfour, to vindicate it by doing justice to the Jewish National Home, which they undertook to facilitate."

Mr. Ussishkin spoke of the hope of the Jews to make a Washington out of new Jerusalem. "I have visited in Washington," he said, "and seen the great Congressional Library and other magnificent state buildings, but of all the grand features of this city, two things impressed me most. One was the shrine which encases the historic American Constitution and the Declaration of Independence. As I gazed upon the hallowed setting in which those documents reposed, I thought of the day when we, too, should be able to set up, in Jerusalem, a shrine containing not only the Declaration of Cyrus and of Balfour, permitting us to return to our home, but containing our own self-asserted Declaration of Independence!"

There was a loud applause at this utterance.

"The second feature, which most impressed me, was the Supreme Court of Justice, set in the center of the two great legislative buildings. The place of highest honor had been reserved for that court in which justice and right hold sway, a court in which, to the credit of American Jewry, there sits one of its own sons.

"And to the American nation, which in that manner has emphasized the great store it sets by righteousness, I would appeal to insist upon justice for the Jews. The American Congress in 1922 passed a resolution supporting the establishment of the Jewish National Home in Palestine, and righteousness demands that that resolution be observed and translated into reality."

He pointed out, that the Zionist principle of national ownership of the land was a principle that followed on land reforms introduced in England.

"We desire peace in Palestine," he said, "but it must be based on truth. We have no quarrel with any of those who live in Palestine. Our own law commands us to treat the stranger as ourselves.

"There was a time when private ownership of land was considered an invulnerable principle. But as man progressed it was seen to be wrong, for one man to possess wide areas of land while another, anxious to till the soil, was possessed of no soil to till. And so, particularly in England, under liberal Gladstone, land reform was introduced to insure equity.

"Another illustration of changes in our conception of what is right, is to be seen in the granting to minorities of political and national self-determination, a principle insisted upon by a great American President, although at one time it was considered proper for those minorities to be under the thumb of the numerical majority.

"If our conception of right in regard to individual ownership of land has been modified, the same must be true in regard to people's ownership of territory. The Arab people enjoys vast territories, not only Arabia, but Iraq, Egypt, Syria and Morocco, its regions stretch from Damascus to Bagdad. The Jewish people as a people has hitherto been denied any land whatsoever. Is it right that its own single small territory shall be denied to it?"

The President of the National Fund then spoke of Palestine as the heart of the Jewish world, while all Jewry formed the limbs and body. "The heart is but a small thing physically, but on its health depends the health of the entire structure."

He demanded that the tempo of work in Palestine be strengthened and increased. He pointed out that positive achievements in the land determined the political future. "The existence of the settlement of Metulah in the north ensured the inclusion of upper Galilee within the boundaries of Palestine under the Mandate. Had these been Jewish settlements in the Transjordan area, that area, too, would no doubt have been included in the provision for the Jewish National Home. This may, to some, seem a dubious political postulate. Ussishkin has always been known as a realist, who centers all Zionist hope in a strong land policy.

"The Jews of America are 4,000,000; they provided half a million dollars a year for the Jewish National Fund," he said. "They could do more. If you have a regard for the future of your children as conscious Jews, then you must redeem the land of Eretz Israel for your sake and for theirs. The time will come when they will seek that haven of a Jewish National Home."

M. M. Ussishkin was received in Washington by Mr. Louis Siegel, President of the Zionist District of Washington; by Mrs. Alpert, President of Washington Hadassah, and by Mr. Danziger, chairman of the Jewish National Fund Council, of Washington.

135,000 IMMIGRANTS BARRED FROM ENTERING THE U. S.

Washington, Jan. 2—(JTA)—About 135,000 immigrants will not be admitted to this country during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1931, by the refusal of consuls abroad to grant visas to all those who might become "public charges" after entering the United States. This information was given recently to the House Immigration Committee by Anderson L. Hodgdon, chief of the visa office of the State Department.

It was explained that the halting of immigration through consular refusal to grant visas to immigrants who might become "public charges" is only temporary and will cease when unemployment lessens in this country.

MOSLEM CONFERENCE ON PALESTINE POSTPONED

London, Jan. 2—(JTA)—The Moslem conference on Palestine, which was supposed to open here recently under the chairmanship of Agha Khan, has been postponed for at least a month, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency learned. Jamal Hussein, London representative of the Palestine Arab Executive, who has been here for several months, keeping in touch with the Moslem delegates to the Indian round table conference, left for Palestine.

The scheduled Moslem conference had been awaited with a certain tension in Zionist quarters as Hussein's aim was to counterbalance the negotiations between the Jewish Agency and the British government. His personal talks, however, went on further than several conversations with Dr. Drummond Shiels, Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies. Hussein saw neither Premier MacDonald nor Lord Passfield.

Mr. Goldowsky Declines to "Let the Cat Out of the Bag"

In a previous interview, Bernard M. Goldowsky declined to name the "special feature" he alluded to as having already been secured for the annual ball of the Zionist District of Providence, scheduled for February 24th. In view of that fact a representative of The Jewish Herald again endeavored to get definite information on that subject.

"It is quite obvious," Mr. Goldowsky said, "that although you are not adept in the mysticism of crystal-gazing or mind reading, you are, nevertheless, a perfect newspaper reporter, for your mental equilibrium is glaringly controlled by an abundance of inquisitiveness. But you will have to curb your curiosity for the time being, however, because I strongly suspect that a newspaper reporter and a secret part company in less time than it takes to masticate the hole of a doughnut."

To the representative's query, "Why the secrecy?" Mr. Goldowsky declared, "I am quite curious to ascertain how many Jews in Rhode Island will place reliance on my promise and order ball tickets in advance of the information in question. I trust I am making myself clear in asserting that no tickets will be mailed promiscuously on a mere guess. Oh, my no! This is another kind of ball. Only those ordering and paying for them in advance at the rate of one dollar each will receive them. And I am sure that as soon as the nature of the 'special feature' becomes public property the demand for tickets will be enormous, and I am extremely desirous of letting my friends have the first choice. For, be it understood, that notwithstanding the capacity of the Arcadia Ballroom its walls are not elastic and tickets will be sold in accordance with its capacity."

"I have sufficient ground for believing that I have fully demonstrated my ability to conduct high-grade entertainments on previous occasions. Coupling that fact with the decision of charging only one dollar for a $2.50 entertainment should any one be at all surprised at my optimism?

"Incidentally let me say that the ball committee originally planned to give this ball on Purim night, but having learned that Temples Emanu-El and Beth-Israel are planning to conduct certain activities on that night, the date of the Zionist ball was immediately changed to Feb. 24th, and why not? The Rabbis and members of both Temples are ardent Zionists, hence it behooves the Zionist District of Providence to give their respective Temple activities a clear field and thereby earn the right of reciprocity. For a Zionist ball without a complete attendance of members of all the Temples, Synagogues and other Jewish organizations in the state—religious or social—would be like a ship on a stormy sea manned by only one-half of its necessary crew. There isn't a single reason why they should not attend and there are many valid reasons why they should."

"Aside from the cause itself, there is a magnificent ballroom, classed as 'New England's finest,' dance music—oh boy, if they only knew what I know, an entertainment worth $2.50 of every man's money for the small price of one dollar and certificates guaranteeing that all dances will be strictly Kosher, are in the hands of the printers. Therefore, having worked out every possible detail for a marvelous entertainment at the minimum cost to the patrons I see no obstacle in the way of giving vent to my poetical inspirations and declaiming:

ST. JOHN ERVINE CLAIMS DE VALERA IS AMERICAN JEW

London, Jan. 2—(JTA)—That Eamon De Valera, noted Irish leader and head of the Fianna Fail is a Jew, is alleged by St. John Ervine, dramatist and critic, in an article in the current issue of Time and Tide, a weekly review. Ervine, who has written a number of anti-Jewish articles since his return from his recent visit to the United States, says "no one knows of De Valera denying that he is a Jew but if anyone did, De Valera's features would speak for themselves."

Ervine says that De Valera was born in New York, is an American citizen and was taken to Ireland as a child and "has been a nuisance there ever since. Unless he has lately secretly naturalized himself, De Valera is an alien in Ireland and has no right to sit in the Dail at all. If I were a resident of Ireland I should apply to a court to remove De Valera on the ground that as a foreigner he cannot sit in parliament until he acquires legal status as a citizen. I should be interested to see the passport that De Valera uses when he travels to the United States."

A REMINDER

The Jewish Herald again wishes to remind its readers that it invites and solicits correspondence on subjects of interest to the Jewish people. For this reason we are glad to open our columns to all signed communications, however, disclaiming responsibility for an endorsement of the views expressed by the writers.

THE PALESTINE LAND CAMPAIGN FUND

Colonization from the beginning of the eighteenth century has had one characteristic in many different countries: land was given to the colonists or offered to them at such ridiculously low prices that colonization became an adventure. All the hardships of felling wildernesses, plowing vast territories and building up trading posts was forgotten in the inducement of cheap land. This was the gleam that attracted Americans beyond the Ohio River at the beginning of the eighteenth century, this was the talisman that France and England and Germany offered to her pioneers who penetrated and developed Australia and India and Africa. This had to come about because colonization is hard work, and man wants rewards for his labors. Yet, in some cases the rewards are not so much the land given as the opportunities for spiritual freedom and personal development.

In the case of Palestine, the Jews have been incited to their difficult work of pioneering by a religious ideal, by a racial ideal, and by a cultural ideal, all three very powerful and very worthwhile. There are few Jews of breadth and vision who would not countenance the development of Palestine as a Jewish National Home. And yet, how many obstacles have been placed in the way! Not the difficulties of a barren soil or a changeable climate, although they are present; not the trials of an ignorant native Arab population, although they, too, are there, but more than any the restrictions of an unwise mandatory power which would hinder and halt the greatest pioneering adventure of modern times by an unjust curbing of land purchasing and development by Jews. Land is not only not given to these worthy builders, but a limit is set to the amount of land they may own!

The arguments of England are unsound. They are a ruse to keep the Jew from realizing his ambition to reclaim Palestine. However, the Jew is not to be daunted. That is why Menachem M. Ussishkin has come to this country for aid in establishing the Palestine Land Fund, which will be used to help the Jews get new land in Palestine, which is to be developed by our own pioneers. The cause is a worthy one, because it gives evidence of the fighting spirit and the courage of our Jewish people. We in Rhode Island, who have been called upon for the nominal sum of ten thousand dollars in this great campaign, should find no difficulty in reaching our quota.

Every Jew in the state must realize that the reclamation of Palestine is a great Jewish ideal that must not perish. Every Jew should feel that he must do his bit to enlarge the contributions to the land fund. Every one of us should say in his heart that despotism and unfairness cannot crush the Hebrew hope; that the colonization must go on a stride, even if it means buying land that should have been freely given to those brave men and women who are wrestling a livelihood from the soil and substance of the Holy Land. It will not be said that the Jews of Rhode Island failed to realize the importance of this tremendous project.

By the Way

Tidbits and News of Jewish Personalities

By DAVID SCHWARTZ

have been known to have applauded ecstatically such a verse as this of Loveman:

'Tisn't raining to me
Its raining violets
On every dimpled drop I see
New flowers on the hills
It isn't raining rain to me
Its raining daffodils.

But Who Can Write a Tree?

To the Civic Repertory, where slaves Miss Steinberg for Eva Le-Gallienne. To our query for news came the response: "Nothing—no runs, no hits, no errors."

But nevertheless our suspicions came true. She is writing a book, as who is not, for as the poet observed anyone may write a book, but who can write a tree—or something to the same purpose? Anyway, Miss Steinberg's opus is to be a history of the Fourteenth Street Theatre, and being an institution, where such actors as Booth, Laura Keane and other celebrities of the years that are no more played—it should have plenty of throbs.

After the Ball Is Over

Newspapers report the passing of Charles K. Harris, author of "After the Ball" and "Break the News to Mother." Saw him only recently and he looked good for at least another twenty years. If all the couples who have waltzed to his melodies since Harris wrote them, were placed side by side, they would reach almost from here to the heaven, to which I hope, Harris has gone. Harris, by the way, began his musical composition as the result of some unhappy love episode. Song writers should always be unhappy. Consider Irving Berlin. As long as he was unsatisfied, he wrote songs—"What'll I Do," "Remember," etc., etc., but now that everything is hunkydory, his muse has been silent.

Figures and Notes

Music and Mathematics—the Jew appears to have a strong predilection of both of these. Einstein is not the only great Jewish mathematician. He is the greatest perhaps, but the woods are full of prominent Jewish mathematicians. I remember once listening to a listing of the prominent ones by Professor Brodsky of England, who is quite some pumpkin himself in that way. He told me that when the mathematicians gather in convention, it looks like Shabuoth at some Synagogue.

Music and Mathematics—does not. Bertrand Russell says somewhere that they are very much akin—that music is really only a form of glorified counting, except that you count without being conscious of it.

Russell, by the way, would have committed suicide but for mathematics. He had reached the point where he decided that for himself life was not worth the candle—but he wanted to learn a little more mathematics before he took the grand leap.

And now—he seems so completely cured, that he writes a book on "Happiness."

And So to Bed

At the library, met L. C., daughter of a Presbyterian clergyman from Texas, who is writing biography of Harriet Beecher Stowe.

"Well, is Santa Claus being good to you?" she queried.

"Don't you know that Santa Claus doesn't visit Jewish boys?" I replied.

And thence to the printery, where I was shown a novelty, a book of Yiddish poems, printed in the Latin script. But I would rather take my Yiddish straight. And chatted of many other things, particularly of the gentle art of making money, with conditions being what they are today and I told of the two Jewish boys who had bought out the Modern Library series and are reputed to be clearing $35,000 each as their share, annually. S. W. proffered the idea of ghosting the confessions of some witness now very much in the public eye, and as for myself, I cogitated, maybe Ex-Rabbi might sell.

But as usual, all these cogitations are but apples of Sodom—collapsing and crumbling as one takes them into hand.

And so home—and to bed.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, The Jewish Herald:—

I was very much surprised to read in The Jewish Herald of Dec. 26, a letter on Zionism—its faults and failures throughout America as well as in Providence, by one who could be termed as an inactive member of our District, though a liberal contributor to the cause.

As an active Zionist, I cannot refrain from commenting upon this communication by a fellow Zionist. "Let him who is without sin cast the first stone." If this accusation made by Mr. Henry Hassenfeld is true—and I am happy to say it is not—why did he not make an effort to better conditions—in our city at least? Has Mr. Hassenfeld done his share of active work during the past few years? It is the easiest thing in the world to find fault with what the other fellow is doing, but to permit the other fellow to go on making mistakes without making any effort to stop him is as much YOUR sin as HIS.

Where has Mr. Hassenfeld been all these years that he does not know that Providence is one of the few outstanding Zionist communities in America? I have attended many national conventions as well as many national and regional conferences and have met outstanding men and women from all over the world and I know that the name Providence is like a magic word when mentioned at these gatherings. The leaders in our community representing every Zionist group have been shown every respect and consideration at national events. When a Providence leader speaks—others generally listen. We lead while others follow in every undertaking for Palestine!

It was only a few weeks ago that our own Louis Lipsky, when attending the testimonial dinner given for Dr. Ilie Berger, said, "I come to Providence for inspiration. The men and women here work in perfect co-operation. Here we find men and their wives leaders in Zionist work. Here we find unity and understanding of Jewish culture. You, the Jews of Providence, should be proud of your community and of your work for Zion!"

I disagree with Mr. Hassenfeld in that we have NOT been standing still or going backwards, either locally or nationally, and surely we have NOT stood still in Palestine. Past achievements prove that! To discuss Zionist conditions throughout the world, would take too much time and space and nothing could be gained unless we did so thoroughly. Of this, though, I am certain, that we, in Providence, have ever been going forth and gathering strength. Even at this most trying time, when the world is having a business depression and fundraising for every purpose is practically at a standstill, we are in the midst of a Jewish National Fund campaign which, from all appearances, will be a successful one with our Past President of the District, Dr. Berger, as chairman.

We cannot fail. Our cause is just and our leaders sincere. We are indeed blessed to have amongst our leaders the Silverman family, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Silverman, with Mrs. Silverman an outstanding national personality and Charles Silverman, who is Treasurer of the present campaign and who was chairman for several years of the United Palestine Appeal Campaigns, which became more successful as the years went on. We who know what has been accomplished are indeed proud of our leaders!

There has been practically no change in the personnel of our local administration and I see nothing at all to become excited about. The new President, Mr. Joseph Smith, has always been an active worker; the same is true about our new Vice President and our other officers. They have given of themselves in the past and they are responsible for the success of our undertaking. The former President of the District now heads the State Organization. Under his supervision, more plans are being formulated than ever before. This is certainly an important step forward.

I am very anxious that no false impression be left in the minds of those who do not understand Zionist conditions in our city, particularly at this time when every right-thinking Jew should put forth every effort and work for the success of Eretz Ysroel.

I say this in all sincerity and I know that I speak not only as the retiring President of Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization, but for every active Zionist in our District as well—when I say, "We welcome with open arms every man and woman who is willing to work for our Holy cause. We also welcome at all times CONSTRUCTIVE criticism, but resent with all our hearts, DESTRUCTIVE criticism. I hope I have clarified the situation. Thank God there is nothing seriously wrong with our District, but there is much more work to be done. Let every right-thinking, serious-minded Jew and Jewess take the opportunity offered them at all times of vitalizing and rededicating their energy in the cause of Judaism. "In union there is strength." So let us forget personalities and altogether work for the success of a Jewish Homeland rebuilt—for homeless Israel!

With Zion's Greetings,

Miriam Hospital Adds Improvements

Miriam Hospital is adding many improvements for the comfort of its patients. A contract has been let for the construction of a solarium on the maternity floor, and the contractor, Mr. Benjamin Rakatansky, will begin work on this within the next few days. This solarium will be similar to the one now in use by patients on the medical and surgical floor. It will be enclosed with vita glass, and one section will be partitioned off and used exclusively for circumcision cases, with a special entrance leading to the nursery room. It will be spacious enough to accommodate a sufficient number of guests as is required under the Jewish ritual.

The interior of the hospital buildings has been re-decorated from roof to cellar, and the hospital has taken on an appearance which is most pleasing to the eye.

Economy Service Introduced for N. E. Householders

A precedent in radio service to the householders of New England will be introduced through the Yankee Network, under the sponsorship of the First National Stores, Friday morning, Jan. 2, at 9 o'clock, when Miss Alice Bradley, nationally known authority, will inaugurate a genuine cooking school of the air. Miss Bradley needs no introduction to the housekeeper. She is nationally known as a writer on household subjects and as principal of the Boston School of Cookery.

Miss Bradley will conduct "Miss Farmers' Radio Cooking School," a bonafide school of the air in which every member of the radio audience can be a student. She will give the housewives of New England a complete course in buying economically, budgeting, cooking, and in fact every subject that looms as a household problem day after day.

To reach the maximum of homes in New England the First National Stores have engaged the facilities of seven stations in the Yankee Network, WNAC in Boston, WEAN in Providence, WORC in Worcester, WLBZ in Bangor, WNBH in New Bedford, WICC in Bridgeport and New Haven and WDRC in Hartford. The programs presented from Boston will be heard simultaneously on all seven stations at 9 a. m. each Tuesday and Friday.

The cooking course of the air as arranged by Miss Bradley will be distinctly different from any program ever broadcast in New England. She will depart from the old plan of filling the air channels with recipes and open a real honest-to-goodness school.

A CAPACITY AUDIENCE

Dr. Lewis Browne, famous as author and lecturer retained his reputation last Sunday evening at the Jewish Community Center, when he discussed the subject, "Can We Do Without Religion?"

A capacity audience greeted Dr. Browne's second appearance at the Center within three years and left the hall with a great deal of enthusiasm for the J. C. C. lecture and concert course.

Samuel H. Workman introduced the speaker.

The next event in this excellent series will be a musical by the Compinsky Trio, composed of two brothers and a sister, Sarah, piano; Manuel, violin; Alex, cello.

RABBI SONDERLING SPEAKS

Rabbi Jacob S. Sonderling of Temple Beth-Israel delivered one of his masterly addresses at the Jewish Community Center last Monday evening in the course on Jewish Current Events. The Rabbi discussed the death of Lord Melchett, 70th anniversary of Henrietta Szold, the opening of a Jewish Synagogue in Spain, Prof. Albert Einstein and other subjects.

Rabbi Sonderling disagreed radically with the statement made by a local Rabbi recently, that Einstein is not a great Jew. On the contrary, the Rabbi declared Einstein as one of the greatest Jewish figures in the world today.

The fourth session of the Jewish Current Events will be held again Monday evening, Jan. 5th, with Rabbi Sonderling as leader. The other speakers are Rabbi Gup, Jan. 12th; Rabbi Goldman, Jan. 19th; Rabbi Gup, Jan. 26th, and Rabbi Goldberg, Feb. 2nd.

BASKETBALL LEAGUES BEGIN

Two basketball leagues were begun this week at the Center. The Senior League is composed of the Sigma Phi Fellowship, Saginaws, O. H. C. and the A. Z. A. A spirited contest is expected. The Senior League meets every Monday evening.

The Intermediate Basketball League is composed of Titans, Orioles, Israelites and Spartans. Games are played every Tuesday evening.

INTERMEDIATE RALLY

The first rally of the season will be held Thursday evening, Jan. 8th, and the following Intermediate clubs will hold their annual rally: Amity, Avoda, Titans, Coreopsis, Thespians, Orioles, Senepa, Spartans and Stars.

Due to the small size of the auditorium, admission will be strictly limited to the members of the above clubs. The Intermediate clubs are well organized this season and are due to win as many prizes as possible. The chief prize in this division is the Max L. Grant Trophy, presented to the Intermediate club for the best all-round activity for the entire season. Prizes are to be won for the best all-round program of the entire season. Prizes are to be won for membership, speaking contest, rally, stunt, essay contest, best behavior, largest membership, more cooperative, more progressive and best attendance. The members of these clubs are composed primarily of high school boys and girls, the total number in the nine clubs being about 150.

Y. W. H. A. NEWS

Evelyn Greenstein, hostess of the next "Y" meeting, to be held Jan. 21, reports that she and her committee are planning a very entertaining time for the members. It's to be a Dutch supper. Will give you the details next week, but if you're interested, get in touch with either Evelyn or her committee, consisting of Eva Kominsky and Evelyn Simons, so that they can proceed with their plans.

Edith Greenstein, membership chairman, reports that her committee is still hard at it, and showing fine results. She also reports that there was an error in last week's statement, and that Jean Rosen got 12 new members rather than six, and therefore "tied" Evelyn Simons for the prize. Edith says she'll make good, and Jean will receive her prize.

"Y" girls, are you attending the Sunday night lectures, the current events classes, the Saturday night basketball games and dances, the gym classes along with all the other activities included in your membership fee? You're missing a great deal if you aren't.

EIGHTH GRADE CLASS

The eighth grade graduating class of the Jewish Community Center have been following a course of outlines of Jewish history under the leadership of Maurice Austin. The members of the club comprise Stella Simons, David V. Brazner, Sidney Koret, Celia Kapelow and Herman Lantner. These pupils are to be especially commended upon their high grades in this course of study.

ARGENTINE CONSIDERING BAN ON EUROPEAN IMMIGRATION

Buenos Aires, Jan. 2—(JTA)—The Argentine government recently took under advisement a plan to stop all immigration to this country from Europe for at least six months in view of the widespread economic depression and the prevalence of unemployment. The proposal of Brazil to ban immigration for six months has made government circles here fearful that immigrants destined for Brazil would be diverted to the Argentine.

Providence Fraternal

Association News

By CHARLES L. SILVERMAN

Plans are underway for a brilliant installation on Tuesday evening, Jan. 13. An interesting speaker will be on hand to start the festivities. The name of the speaker will be announced in the next issue of this paper. Refreshments and dancing to the tunes of Sam Silverman and his band will follow.

The election returns were very gratifying and I know that all of us will work the harder to prove that the confidence of our members have not been misplaced.

Teddy Max has consented to head the social committee again for 1931.

I am going to ask Joe Finkle to head the press and publicity committee and I know Joe can and will do it, for old times' sake.

Joe, do you remember the time, many years ago, when we were still in "Pigtails," the vaudeville stunt and dance you engineered at the old Al-tair Hall on Elmwood avenue? And do you remember the small crowd that night because it rained, snowed, hailed or some such "Act of God" kept the crowd away. You were stuck with about ten gallons of ice cream that was to be sold and "Shor-ty" and I accepted the ice cream for pay as "Piff-fawmers."

I was glad to see our good friend, Dr. Ilie Berger on the night of election. I expect to see you more often during the next administration.

The fine reception and dinner tendered you recently upon your voluntary retirement as active President, by the sincere leaders of Zionism in the state and nation, is ample proof of the esteem and affection that is rightfully yours because of your able leadership.

Do not forget to chalk off Tuesday, Jan. 13th, on your calendar, because a most enjoyable evening awaits you on the night of installation.

CO-OPERATION WITH JEWS

MEANS LESS AID, ARABS TOLD

Jerusalem, Jan. 2—(JTA)—United action with the Jews will result in a reduction in the government's financial assistance to the Arabs, a district officer is reported to have told the Arab villagers who joined the Jewish settlers in the Emek in memorializing the authorities for assistance, because of damages suffered from the plague of field mice.

The Davar, which reports the above incident, says that the government ignored the joint Arab-Jewish petition by arranging for seed and fodder loans in each village separately. The Davar asks who empowered the district officer to say what he did.

Jr. Hadassah Mid-Winter Conference Opens Tomorrow

Mrs. Edward Jacobs and Mr. Robert Szold Will Address Gathering

The mid-winter conference of Junior Hadassah, the Young Women's Zionist Organization of America, will be opened officially on Jan. 3rd, at the Peter Stuyvesant Hotel, 86th street and Central Park West, by Frances D. Lesser, the National President. The conference will last through Saturday, Jan. 3rd, and Sunday, Jan. 4th.

Several prominent individuals identified with the Zionist movement will address the conference. Mrs. Edward Jacobs, National President of Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America, and Mr. Robert Szold, Chairman of the Zionist Organization of America Administration, will speak; Alice L. Seligsberg, prominent New York welfare worker and Zionist, will give a report on Palestinian affairs. Recent developments in Palestine will be discussed by Morris Rothenberg, one of the most dynamic figures in the Zionist movement, who is a member of the Jewish Agency and of the Administration of the Zionist Organization of America. Mr. Simon Halkin, well-known in this country as well as in Palestine as poet and teacher, will address a round-table discussion on a Jewish cultural program.

At the luncheon on Sunday, Jessie E. Sampter, poetess, recently arrived from Palestine, will be the guest speaker. On Sunday morning, Mrs. Irma L. Lindheim, authoress of "The Immortal Adventure," will address the meeting on the "Jewish National Fund."

Miss Henrietta Szold, founder of Hadassah, whose recent 70th birthday was celebrated throughout the entire world, will be the guest of honor at the conference.

Junior Hadassah will mark the beginning of its 11th year with this conference. For the past ten years, Junior Hadassah, with its 10,000 members, has supported the Children's Village of Meier Shfeyah, the Nurses' Training School, and the most recent undertaking, Pardess Anna, an agricultural colony, which is to be a training ground for the graduates of Meier Shfeyah.

The conference is of particular interest at the moment because of the uncertain status of the Jewish National Home, due to the recent Simpson report.

COLEMAN ZIMMERMAN WINS HIGH HONORS

Mr. Coleman A. Zimmerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Zimmerman, of this city, received the highest honors that may fall to any undergraduate at the Boston University Law School, by being elected Marshal of the Senior Class. This honor climaxes one of the most brilliant scholastic and athletic careers that any Boston University student ever had.

While at high school in Woonsocket, he captained the football team and took part in swimming and basketball. He was named to the all-State team in both basketball and football.

As a Freshman at the university, he played football and captained the Freshman basketball team. He spent two years at the College of Business Administration and managed to obtain high honor grades and make his expenses, besides his athletic career.

The following year he entered law school and obtained an average of 86. At the end of his Junior year at the law school, he made the editorial board of the Law Review. This magazine is rated very highly among law school publications and chooses its staff from Juniors and Seniors.

In his Junior year, Zimmerman obtained an average of 89 and was elected to Woolsack at the beginning of his Senior year. A few weeks ago he was elected Vice President of the organization.

He was elected to the first Marshalship of the Senior class Monday by a 2 to 1 vote over his nearest competitor. This position entitles him to take complete charge of the graduation exercises.

At present Mr. Zimmerman is doing six months' preparatory work for the bar examinations with the firm of Higgins and Yarus in Woonsocket, where he will practice his profession.

GEORGE GREENSPUN

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. George Greenspun of New York was the guest speaker at the Friday evening services held at the Congregation B'nai Israel Synagogue.

Mr. Greenspun said: "Despite the discouraging political and economical conditions, Palestine is forging ahead with amazing courage and energy."

"The Passfield White Paper, which is the expression of a biased mind, has created a great discussion throughout the world as to England's duties under the Mandate in Palestine and her obligations to the Jewish people. We cannot make allies of the Arabs as long as the idea is prevalent that every Arab hates every Jew and vice versa, which is entirely false."

"The task which faces the Jewish people is one that requires time and effort. The Jewish people can determine the fate of Eretz Israel, not Great Britain. Bright days will come again in Palestine because the courage and character of the Jewish people will make them come."

TEMPLE EMANU-EL

Jewish Inter-Club Bowling League Gains Popularity

Starting the sixth week of their schedule, the Jewish Bowling League is in its stride, with the O. H. C. heading the ranks. This league has gained so much favor that the wives of some of the members of the league come down each Tuesday evening to cheer for their men. To the Jewish War Veterans belongs the credit for showing most interest, while most of the scoring honors go to the fast O. H. C. outfit. The league consists of the following teams in order of their standing:

O. H. C., Sigma Pi, North Enders, A. Z. A. of Pawtucket and Jewish War Veterans. A new team will take the place of the Jecomen Club, which dropped out at the last meeting.

At the NEW YEAR'S DAWNING

It is pleasant as this new year dawns to review the friendly relations we have had with so many members of this community. We hope that they have enjoyed dealing with us as much as we have with them.

We have endeavored to do our best as heating advisors and as fuel suppliers. We expect to give even better service in the year just starting.

But today, we pause in our labors to say, "Happy New Year" to everyone. May each day be brighter than the day before, and may 1931 go down into history as the best year yet.

TO HOLD DEBATE

The R. I. W. B. A. has planned several features for the coming months and one of these will be a debate by four members of the organization that are well known to the public. This debate will be held at the meeting of Jan. 18th. The topic will be, "Resolved, That the U. S. Recognize the Soviet Government." The members upholding the affirmative are Joshua Bell, local attorney, and Sidney Hoffman, newly elected Vice President of this organization. The negative will be discussed by Joseph Ress, local attorney, and Louis Halpern, well-known member of the R. I. W. B. A.

This is by far the most outstanding attraction that this organization has to offer and a very large gathering is expected at this meeting.

In the past few months the meeting have been largely attended, and the brothers are asked to keep up the good work.

J. A. C.

The regular meeting of the J. A. C. was held last Tuesday, Dec. 23rd, at their headquarters, corner of Prairie avenue and Blackstone street. There was a very enthusiastic gathering and amongst them were several prominent members of the R. I. W. B. A. Several matters of importance were taken up and discussed.

Letters of thanks were sent out to different members of the R. I. W. B. A. for their wonderful donations to the club room. The club room is getting to be very popular to all the members of this committee and if we are not known to all Jewish people in Providence it won't be very long before we will be.

NEWS WRITTEN FOR THE JEWISH HERALD BY GEORGE JOEL

THREE LEADING BASKETBALL TEAMS IN EAST ALMOST ALL JEWISH

So far the collegiate basketball season has been a hectic one. Three teams in the East stand out and show a card consisting only of victories. C. C. N. Y. St. John's College of Brooklyn and Long Island University are the trio that have yet to lose a game. What makes this record even more interesting is the fact that C. C. N. Y., victors over Harvard, Dartmouth and four other opponents is an all Jewish team. The Long Island University five is also all Jewish and the St. John's quintet, who have won sixteen straight games in the last two years, has four Jewish players, all of whom are stars. Among the leading teams which have lost but a single game, we find Syracuse with three Jewish players. The Orange team put Columbia out of the running the other night, which makes the up-state teams' defeat by Dartmouth look more and more like a temporary upset.

The stars of the St. John's team, which represents a Catholic college, are Captain Max Posnack, Begovich, the center; Schuckman, a guard, and Gerson. At Long Island University, Stelzner, Goodman, Sheinman and Weissinger stand out. Incidentally when the Long Island College played Brooklyn City College, the other night, there were at all times ten Jews on the floor as the Brooklyn team was strictly Kosher. Even the crowd was of the faith.

Besides these local teams I notice that Cornell University seems to have a fairly strong five. Hatkoff, Zahn, Lipinski and Furman are among the main stays of the lineup. The Red Team has dropped but one game. Pittsburgh is playing Cohen at guard again and at Michigan, Weiss is left guarding it.

From Detroit comes the news that for the first time a Jew has been elected captain of the University of Detroit basketball team. "Cy" Aaron is the young man and he will lead the team for the Jesuit school during the coming season. Aaron is a member of the Alpha Epsilon Pi Fraternity, which has a chapter at Detroit.

Some of our Jewish girl athletes may have a chance to shine in the sport light this season if the basketball team of Hunter College lives up to its reputation. This women's college, located in New York City, has shown strength on the basketball floor against early opponents. Among the regulars on the team I find the Misses Irene Cohen, Sylvia Moscovitz, Norma Blumberg, Sally Zwiibel, Friedee Lacher and Sylvia Barnett.

JEWISH HEAVYWEIGHT FAILS TO REGISTER IN N. Y. DEBUT

Max Baer, German-Jewish heavy-weight of California, failed to live up to his advance reputation in his first bout held last week at Madison Square Garden in New York City, when he lost the decision to Ernie Schaaf, a trial horse, in a ten-round bout. For weeks before the fight the papers were filled with puffs about the prowess, talkativeness, wardrobe, automobiles, family, intelligence and general excellence of Baer. He was called the knockout kid and equally other fierce sounding things, but in the ring he just looked like another fighter and not a very good one at that. He knows nothing about boxing and little about ring strategy; all he possesses is a willingness to fight and a strong pair of arms. Even his ability as a puncher is questionable. He landed a couple of swings flush on Schaaf's chin but nothing happened. Some of the boys say that Baer will develop into a first-class fighter within a year, but as far as I could see, the miracle will take longer than that.

OVER-EMPHASIS ON FOOTBALL POPS UP AGAIN

Every year as the football season ends, the presidents of the colleges, who have remained very meek and quiet during the season, pop up into news with statements about the over-emphasis of football and its bad effect on the lives of college students. This year the crop of fault finders was a bumper one—even Dr. Butler of Columbia University has a little piece to say—the good Doctor suggests that no admission be charged to games and admission be restricted to students and alumni. Not a bad idea, but I don't think that would solve any problems as the worst phase of college football is the alumni, who are the loudest kickers when the team doesn't win. The only thing that would have a good effect would be to change the psychology of student sport—first thing that would have to be eliminated would be the spirit of "Beat Whoosis." The boys should follow the English idea—that is, play the game for its own sake. Winning should simply be an incident.

But until word is heard from colleges with successful teams, nothing will be done. And even then the situation will remain unchanged. The game is too big a money-maker to change.

CHATTERINGS

Wolff, halfback on the Dartmouth football team last fall is playing hockey with the Big Green team.

The Alpha Epsilon Pi Fraternity, a Jewish college organization, has donated a trophy, consisting of a silver cup, which will be retained for a year by the winner of the Detroit University-Michigan State football game each fall. In the event of a tie the cup will be given to each school for six months.

Dave Cohen of Chicago writes and asks me a lot of questions. He wants to know whether Pinckert of Southern California, Schwartz of Washington State, Lou Kirm of Navy, Joe Zellar of Indiana and Gordon of the New York Football Giants are Jewish—the answer is No. Friedman of the Giants is, of course. Levine, the hockey player with the Seattle team, is a Jew, but there are no other Jewish players, to my knowledge, in professional hockey.

The National Indoor Tennis Championships start this week, the usual quota of Jewish boys are entered.

Jackie Berg, Jewish fighter, who has been saving his money for his coming marriage, was a depositor in the Bank of United States, which recently shut its doors. Looks like Jackie will have to work hard this winter and keep his change in the old sock.

Repeating the news about Schwartz of Notre Dame—he is Jewish, according to his roommate at South Bend.

Over 300 Attend Pawtucket Chapter A.Z.A. Observance

Approximately 300 persons from all parts of the state attended the fifth national observance of A. Z. A. day as observed by Pawtucket Chapter, No. 113, of that order. A program, consisting of speakers and entertainment was arranged by the committee, in charge of the event, headed by Chairman David Chernack, who was assisted by Jack Farber, Morris Perlow and Arnold Friedman.

The principal speakers were attorneys Samson Nathanson and Jacob Sack of Providence and Worcester, respectively. Mr. Nathanson stressed in his speech the importance of the order in its relationship to the sustenance of the Jewish faith, while Mr. Sack devoted his address to the appropriateness of the observance of A. Z. A. day on the final day of Chanukah and gave a brief history of the connection between part of the degree work of the order and that holiday. Chairman David Chernack, in opening the meeting, expressed his thanks for the attendance and also expressed his appreciation for the fine support received by the A. Z. A. from the Henry Friedman Lodge of B'nai B'rith since its inception. President Perlow of the A. Z. A., in his speech, explained the relationship of the order to the younger element of Jewry.

Entertainment was comprised of dramatic recitations by Miss Florence Shapiro of Providence. An original song, composed by James Lipet, of the local A. Z. A., and entered in a nation-wide song contest for the selection of an official song for the order, was rendered by Fred Kinch with the composer at the piano.

The Aleph Zadik Aleph, according to its constitution, is a Jewish fraternal organization, having for its purpose "the enrollment of all desirable Jewish young men in a fraternal organization, having for its program, the mental, moral and physical development of its members; the strengthening of their Jewish affiliations, and the abatement of the pernicious influences of race prejudice and bigotry." At the present time there are over 135 chapters in the United States and Canada.

Serve Jewish Farmers During Winter Months

Mrs. Elmer Eckhouse Describes Social Service Needs of Rural Families

New York City, Jan. 2—In the current issue of The Jewish Woman, Mrs. Elmer Eckhouse writes on "Social Service in Action" as exemplified by the Farm and Rural Work of the National Council of Jewish Women. The hardships that must be overcome, because of the lack of institutional facilities, are vividly told in reference to one rural family.

In writing of an emergency call, answered by the Council's Field Representative, at the Korn farm, in the State of Massachusetts, Mrs. Eckhouse writes:

"The Korn farm was not only one of the most isolated but was back over at least five miles of the very worst kind of country road. It was quite dark when she reached the Korn place. By the light of the kerosene lamp, which shed its feeble rays out of the murky kitchen window, she was able to discern a dim outline of the external wretchedness of the place. It was tumble-down and dilapidated, the yard and porch heaped and strewn with broken chairs, with dishes, old clothes and wagon parts. She picked her way carefully through the debris. Mrs. Korn opened the door in answer to her knock. She met the worker's cheery greeting with embarrassment that bordered almost on defiance; she seemed at once reluctant and ashamed to let her in; however, she finally stepped aside and the worker entered the room. It was not a pleasant sight, even for one more or less hardened to the drab pictures of life. Somehow, out of the chaos of her surroundings the woman's sad face seemed to rise in ghastly perspective. She was tired and over-worked. Her eyes, when they were not staring rigidly before her, were restlessly wandering about, as if searching, ever searching. She seemed too tired to even evince an interest in her own life."

In the home of the Korn family, the field worker of the National Council of Jewish Women found a child suffering with an infection, and the nearest village doctor was fifteen miles away. In order to give the child the benefit of the anti-toxin for tetanus before it was too late, the council field worker bundled her into blankets and drove her in her car over the many miles on a heart-breaking mission.

This number of The Jewish Woman also contains several feature articles on subjects of interest to women, the reproductions of two paintings by Boris Schaatz, now in the home of Mrs. Caesar Misch of Providence, R. I., scenes in the new quarters of the National Council of Jewish Women, and a special group of "Council Graphs," offering a pictorial presentation of the activities and purposes of the National Council of Jewish Women.

WOMEN'S DIVISION, FEDERATION, NEAR GOAL OF $100,000

New York, Jan. 2—(JTA) — Mrs. Sidney C. Borg, chairman of the Women's Division, Federation for the support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies, announced Dec. 25 that the division has raised $88,848.50 of the $100,000 it is seeking in the Federation's campaign for $2,221,000 to complete its 1930 budget of $5,499,000 for maintenance of its ninety-one affiliated societies.

would and could make the supreme sacrifice and leave the United States Supreme Court Bench to assume the helm of leadership, then the entire picture would assume different proportions. I feel certain the whole Zionist world would praise the Lord for the appearance of a Deliverer in Israel. It seems, however, that those in authority in the present administration in the Zionist Organization of America feel that this is neither possible nor desirable."

Rabbi Brickner suggests, "Would it not be far better to convene the Congress after an election has taken place in Great Britain, which may yield a new government, and after the vexed Indian situation is cleared up?"

"Every indication points to the conviction that the Yishub in Palestine, the Labor Groups, and the Mizrahi do not favor the immediate calling of a Congress. These, to be sure, constitute most important elements to be considered."

The Jewish Day, in a long editorial, stresses many of the reasons given by Rabbi Brickner, emphasizing the fact that there is no program for the Congress. "Those who come to the Congress with arms raised to depose Dr. Weizmann may find their arms waving in the air," says the Day, "as it is possible that Dr. Weizmann may not be a candidate to succeed himself as President." The Day also declares that "this is not the time to change leadership."
