Tidbits and News of
Jewish Personalities

By DAVID SCHWARTZ

Sweet Is Adversity

Some people have all the luck—luck even in adversity. There is Dr. Joseph Tenenbaum, for instance, a prominent physician, one of the leaders of Polish Jewry in America and prominent generally in Jewish community life.

Besides medicine, Dr. Tenenbaum is a devotee of letters. He has written several books. A couple of years ago, he wrote a book on Sex. Well, it had a pretty good sale, then like most books, it faded out of the horizon.

Then all of a sudden comes word that the government of the Free State of Ireland had ordered the book suppressed. Newspapers carried the story, with attacks and defense, etc. Well, anyway, a new edition has been announced by the publishers as a result of the publicity.

You don't always have to drink milk from contented cows to be happy.

A Colorful Observation

Rumor also says that Tenenbaum is planning a trilogy of works on the several aspects of sex. Well, we ought to be able to use them—there are only several million books now on the subject—and none of them seem to say very much.

The sex preoccupation reminds me of a story that the late James Huneker of "Pathos of Distance" fame. It seems that a lecturer speaking before a colored congregation cast forth the observation that "after all, there is only a little difference between the sexes."

"Bless the Lord for that little difference," interrupted one of the colored brethren.

Those Jewish Angles

I'm not quite sure whether we should always bless the Lord about it. As a member of the Jewish fold, where the rule of "gam zu latov" holds sway, I suppose we should, but consider the Starr Faithfull case.

But I do not intend to go into any of the esoteric or philological angles of that affair. Several Jewish angles have appeared to help out the Jewish news commentator. I refer to the fact that it appears that Samuel Untermyer is the lawyer and friend of Dr. Carr and Dr. Brill, the Jewish psycho-analyst, has been extensively quoted.

Starr Faithfull and Dr. Brill

I only saw an extract of Dr. Brill's remarks, and so perhaps should not speak, but what I did see, seems to me totally wrong.

The great psycho-analyst speaking of Starr Faithfull brought forth this generalization: "That a woman to be happy must needs have some one man very much in love with her."

Now it seems to me that this is just the reverse of the truth or at best only the half and the lesser half of the truth. For it seems to me that Starr Faithfull must have had any number of men who could have been very much in love with her. The trouble with her, was that she was very much in love with another person. I do not know whether I make myself clear, but the point I am trying to make is that it is easier to be loved, than to love, and the fact that someone may love you, may, nevertheless, leave you as cold as a day in December.

Vicki and Starr

If you've seen the "hit" play of that Jewish playwright, Vicki Baum, Grand Hotel, you recall the character,

Sons of the American Revolution

By JOSHUA BENDON

The anniversary of this country's birthday provides Mr. Bendon with reason for this brief glance into American Revolutionary history and the part played by the Jews. This article, especially written for The Jewish Telegraphic Agency and The Jewish Herald, is a companion piece to the story of the Jewish Daughters of the Revolution—Editor's Note.

When July 4th rolls around in the regular cycle of the seasons, and patriotic orators speak their lines on the Revolutionary contributions of "our ancestors," Jews from Florida to its rival state on the Pacific ocean and from the Gulf of Mexico to the region of the Great Lakes need have no fear of embarrassment. On the contrary they, too, may wax eloquent in their own right. The scroll of honor of their ancestors in the years when American freedom was being forged on the anvil of history is a long and fascinating one. It becomes, in addition, a remarkable manifestation when viewed against the background of this historic fact: that out of a population of close to four millions, the Jews, it has been estimated, summed up to no more than three thousand.

From obscure accounts, from old letters grown rusty with time, from the yellowed leaves of contemporary gazettes there arises the truly magnificent story of the Jewish participation in the war that made thirteen colonies into an independent nation. The three thousand colonists who belonged to the Mosaic persuasion constituted less than the proverbial seasoning; but like the strongest of seasonings they exerted an influence far in excess of their comparative bulk.

Furthermore in a country divided against itself, when patriot rebels were mortal foes of patriot Tories it was no more than natural that the division should extend into the ranks even of that small number of three thousand. But it is of historical interest and even of some significance that by far the majority of that number was conspicuous on the side of the declarants for independence.

Even before hostilities broke out Jews were actively supporting the colonial leaders in their effort for autonomy from the motherland.

In Philadelphia several of the sons of the American Revolution signed an agreement to discontinue the importation of goods from England. Among those who signed are several names that have a familiar ring: Benjamin Levy, Samson Levy, Joseph Jacobs, Hyman Levy, Jr., David Franks, Matthias Bush, Michael Gratz, Bernard Gratz and Moses Mordecai.

In South Carolina, a year before the Declaration was signed, Francis Salvador, a hero if ever there was one, was elected to membership in the provincial assembly of that colony. He was highly regarded in that body and held posts on its most important committees. When the colony was attacked by Indians at the instigation of the British, Salvador raised the alarm and took part in several of the skirmishes that followed. He died a month after the Declaration of Independence was signed, scalped at the hands of the savage allies of England.

In Georgia, one Jew, David Emanuel, lived through stirring war experiences in battles; once he escaped almost miraculously from death at the hands of an enemy squadron that had captured him. In 1801 a grateful state rewarded him for his revolutionary exploits and for many another service to his fellow citizens by electing him Governor of Georgia.

Another figure of exceptional interest was David Salisbury Franks, who attained the rank of Colonel in the rebel army. He was a member of General Benedict Arnold's staff, but was cleared of any complicity in his superior's act of treason. In the latter years of the Revolution he was sent on several minor diplomatic missions.

Another Franks who distinguished himself in the forces of the Revolution was Colonel Isaac Franks, who enlisted in 1776 when he was no more than seventeen years old. At one time he was captured by the British near Long Island, but he managed to escape and find his way back to his troops. After the Revolution he settled down in Germantown, Philadelphia, and at one time rented a house that he owned to President Washington.

Three brothers, Solomon, William and Abraham Pinto, the first two, graduates of Yale, served in a Connecticut regiment. The Pintos family in New York made its contribution to the front. The Sheftalls in Georgia helped to recruit almost an en-

Sokolow Opens Zionist Congress with Plea to Jews not to Despair

Says Jewish Protest Not Against Arabs; Urges Policy of Mutual Understanding and Respect Between Jewish and Arab Peoples; Delegates Greet Weizmann With Prolonged Ovation

Basle, July 3—(JTA)—Never in the thirty-four years of its history has a Zionist Congress been so dramatically moved and weighed down by fate, Nahum Sokolow, the 70-year-old Chairman of the Zionist Executive, declared in officially opening the 17th Zionist Congress on June 30 with a plea to the Jews of the world not to despair when they meet with defeat because a fight for a just cause is bound to lead to victory.

Nearly 300 delegates and 2,500 guests from all parts of the world, as well as over 200 newspapermen, were gathered in Mustermesse Hall, Basle, the city where the First Congress was cradled in 1897, when Mr. Sokolow, a veteran of numerous congresses, appeared on the rostrum to make the opening address.

"Forward, Not Backward"

Saying that some people may call this optimism, Mr. Sokolow declared that "it is in optimism that the secret of the preservation of our people lies. Hopelessness and Zionism are opposite contrasts; forward and not backward is the motto of Zionism. The present Congress is one of realities and means to look facts directly in the face more than ever."

Mr. Sokolow then went on to describe the occurrences since the 16th Congress met in Zurich in 1929: the Palestine riots of that year and the motives that inspired them as well as the work of the various commissions that followed in the wake of the disturbances, and the Jewish protest movement, which he declared was dignified and a preventive.

The Jewish protest was not directed against the Arab people, he emphasized, because "we believe that the safest basis for people is a policy of mutual understanding and mutual self-respect between the Jewish and Arab peoples." Mr. Sokolow then charged the Shaw Commission which investigated the Palestine riots, with conducting a probe outside of its sphere of inquiry and thus creating confusion as a result of which the main purpose of the investigation was shunted into the background. In this connection he recalled that a Jew in Kishinev had said to him: "God save us from commissions and we'll save ourselves from pogroms."

Defines National Home

Towards the conclusion of his address, Mr. Sokolow endeavored to define the meaning of the term Jewish National Home, which he said was identical with the Zionist program of creating a National Home for the Jewish people, which should be "a visible embodiment of Jewry in a place where the Jew has not only private rights but public rights and should feel himself at home and not be considered a burdensome foreigner; a Jewish National Home does not mean a home for the aged but a home for creation and for upbuilding which is constantly developing."

The large Mustermesse auditorium seating 1,500 people was crowded to capacity when Leo Mitzkin, chairman of the Zionist Actions Committee, opened the Congress promptly at 8:30 p. m. (3:30 p. m. New York time). Mr. Motzkin introduced Mr. Sokolow as the opening speaker, who read his address from a paper in German while the delegates and guests sat listening with the greatest of attention.

Applaud Weizmann

Five minutes before the opening of the Congress, Dr. Chaim Weizmann entered the hall with the entire Zionist Executive following him to the tribune. As Weizmann entered the hall the entire gathering rose en masse and applauded vociferously for several minutes. The loges were occupied by many prominent guests and diplomatic officials. Among those in boxes were Dr. Maurice Hexter, Dr. Werner Senator, treasurer of the Jewish Agency; diplomatic representatives of Italy, Czechoslovakia and other countries, and M. Machlewski, Polish Consul-General in New York.

Two representatives of the League of Nations were present as official observers, the chief of the information

Hoover Reparations Plan Recalls Levinson's Proposal of 1927

Chicago, July 3—(JTA)—The proposal by President Hoover to suspend all war debts and reparations for one year recalled the fact that Salomon O. Levinson, the Chicago Jewish lawyer, who is the father of the Kellogg pact outlawing war, also proposed drastic revision of war debts and reparations four years ago when he reported that war should be outlawed. At that time, Levinson developed a plan according to which Germany would assume the obligation for a six billion dollar loan, which would be furnished it by an international syndicate representing various governments.

Mr. Levinson argued that through such a loan the problem of reparations would be solved and the United States would receive a just settlement in cash for the money which it had loaned during the war. At the beginning of this month he proposed a new plan for debt settlement, which goes much further than President Hoover's proposal, although the two plans do not contradict each other.

HAAM, PALESTINE ORGAN OF REVISIONISTS, REAPPEARS

Jerusalem, July 3—(JTA)—The Hebrew daily, Haam, organ of the Zionist Revisionists, which was suspended on June 17 by the Palestine Government for publishing a poem which "endangered public peace," was permitted to reappear today.

Daughters of the American Revolution

By I. BURROWS

Thumbing through the early pages of history, Miss Burrows has run across occasional mention of Jewesses who did their bit in the War of the American Revolution. In this article she gives a brief bird's eye view of the Jewish woman in the days of '76 as a companion piece to the story of the sons of the American Revolution. The article is written especially for The Jewish Telegraphic Agency and The Jewish Herald—Editor's Note.

Woman's emergence from the sphere of the home into the sphere of practical affairs and the political arena is a modern development. Before the hoop skirt was discarded for the more modern garment, woman was as much shackled by social mores as by the combinations of steel and whalebone that constituted her former wearing apparel. She was shunted into the background of affairs while the masterful male reserved the stage of heroics as his own domain.

Because her freedom of action was thus restricted, it is not to be expected from the Jewesses who lived in the thrilling and eventful days of the American Revolution that they should have participated in fields of glory. There were no Joans of Arc among them. Yet in their ways, humble and unassuming though these were, they played their helpful roles without attracting the eye of the historian. The soldiers of the Revolution came from homes where the subject of liberty was strongly debated. The Sheftalls, the Solomons, the Hays, the Franks and the de Leons, who distinguished themselves as aids of war or aids of fortune came to their patriotic decisions in homes where the Jewesses wielded their conspicuous influence.

Yet from the round of service which was theirs but which escaped the chronicler's probing pen there merges at least one story of truly heroic proportions.

The story concerns Esther Etting Hays, as true a daughter of the Revolutions as ever there was.

She was the wife of David Hays, a Jewish land owner of Westchester County in the State of New York. The master of the house with his son, Jacob, left one day on a mysterious errand. His mission was known to very few in the neighborhood, but it was fraught with significance to the Revolutionary forces. They undertook to overcome the lack of food supplies in the neighboring American camp by driving a herd of cattle through the British lines for the benefit of the embattled patriots. Esther stayed at home watching after the Hays home and guarding her precious secret.

Esther had just given birth to a son. Propped up in her bed, with her new-born babe beside her and her young daughter in the room where the mother's eyes could exercise their vigilance, she waited for the return of her husband and son.

But then an unforeseen danger came upon her. Tory neighbors, suspicious of the absence of farmer Hays and young Jacob, came trooping into the house to wrest the secret of their whereabouts from the wife. Surrounding her bed they attempted to persuade the mistress of the household to tell what she knew. Cajolery and bribes did not help, so they turned to the use of threats. They stormed and bellowed,—but to no avail.

Finally, they left the house, but not before snatching a brand from the open fireplace and setting fire to the house—so high did passion run in the divided countryside. Then they rushed out leaving Esther to a flaming death.

Fortunately two negro servants were in the house and they managed to enter the room and save Esther and her children just in time before the house collapsed.

In Philadelphia the Gratzes were a family of honor and renown. One of them, Rebecca, who was born while the Revolution was still being fought, added real distinction to the record of the daughters of the American Revolution.

Born too late to participate in the war itself she did the next best thing and played a foremost role in the war's aftermath. She was especially distinguished for her humanitarian work and has been on that account immortalized as among her city's fairest citizens. Rebecca was a warm friend of the weak and the helpless. Her achievements earned her a laudable fame in her own times and handed down her name to posterity as among the female Abou-ben-Adhems of her time.

Among the daughters of the American Revolution we must not forget to include mention of Mrs. Manuel Mordecai Noah, wife of the eccentric soldier (who suddenly disappeared some time after the war), and mother of Major Noah, whose fame as soldier, statesman, author and wit, was unrivalled in his day. According to the family legend, General-in-Chief George Washington himself was present at the marriage ceremonies and no doubt he saluted the bride as was the custom with the ceremonial kiss which is the bride's due on that day of days.

A lady of special renown in those days who chose to throw in her lot with the loyalists rather than with the patriot sons of liberty was Rebecca Franks also of Philadelphia.

She must have been an exceptionally gifted lady; witty, cultured, charming and of high social standing in the community. She was in fact the belle of the city, but not the "liberty belle." General Howe made her the toast of his official retinue. There are some delightful stories told of the fascination she exercised over the European dandies and officers and of her frequent victories in battles of wit. It does indeed seem as if she were the "it" girl of her time.

Finally, as if to enhance the record of the Jewesses, who were staunch colonial patriots she forsook her religion, married General Henry Johnson and went off to live with him in England.

The Hays and Touro families in Boston, the Seixas family in New York, the Sheftalls in the South; posterity has made special note of the cultural and patriotic achievements of the feminine half of these famed families and has thereby contributed its unique stamp of recognition to the merit of their lives. But there were many others.

Daughters of the American Revolution . . .

More than one Jewish woman today can lay claim to membership in that body which has adopted the name. But whether they do or do not belong they can be certain that their ancestors, genuine helpmates of the patriotic fathers of the Revolution, contributed a good deal in the subtle way of the family and home to keep glowing the enthusiasm and ardor that sent their husbands and sons to battle for liberty.

NEW YORK'S ATTACK ON YOUTHFUL DELINQUENCY

The delinquency of the youth of New York City has long been a problem to social workers and educators. Some reasons for such criminality as exists has been laid to the lack of religious training. On this assumption there was agitated the creation of an Interfaith Committee, whose primary function has been to bring religious ideas and teachings to school children, either through personal contacts in classrooms outside school hours, or through the form of written material distributed among them. It was planned that those students to receive religious instruction should be given credit in school for their study.

The experiment, for it has been little more than that, if not less, has many incongruous features. In the first place, it is an exaggeration to assert that the teaching of the Bible is religious education, and the reading of the Bible is the extent of the training outlined by the Interfaith Committee. Secondly, it is further an untruth to complain that the mere lack of religious instruction is making the difference of moral or immoral behavior among young people. Other more important factors are concerned. Thirdly, the very idea of state-controlled or state-sanctioned religious education is contrary to the spirit and purpose of our American public schools.

That last reason for condemning any attempt to introduce religious education into New York's public school system is the most important one. The Church and the State cannot work together in a democratic country, where there are many and varied religious faiths. It must end in a social war when different religious groups are compelled to guard their rights and dignities. Minorities like the Jews must suffer too much in such a program.

The proper place for religious training is not in the schools. The home, the church and the religious school are sufficient for it. New York will find the experiment as outlined by the Interfaith Committee to be a failure, if carried out, because it lacks the whole-hearted approval of its citizens.

The idea is repellent to many honest thinkers because it violates our ideals of a truly democratic society. In this country, where freedom of thought and action are so important to our progress, any attempt to standardize and maintain religious instruction in the public schools is doomed before it is begun.

By the Way

Tidbits and News of
Jewish Personalities

who, knowing he is an incurable and must soon die, almost exults in the fact, as he looks on defiantly at the whole world. Nobody can harm him now. He laughs at everybody. The claws of the universe have been clipped as far as he is concerned.

Sounded melodramatic, but consider that last letter of Starr. Now, at last, she almost glowers at you in ecstasy —she can eat how much she wants without caring whether she gains or not. She can tell people that they are too fat, or that she doesn't like their clothes. She can flirt with all the men, whose winks and advances on the streets, she has secretly relished, but had before conventionally ignored.

Fiction will have to step on the gas to catch up with truth!

The Writing Itch

The itch scribendi is a strange disease. Consider the blows the Jewish newspaperman of New York, in particular, received during the past year. Young Judaea went to sleep with its fathers, the Jewish Tribune announced, as suffering from a case of coma, seems to have relapsed into perpetual slumber, the New Palestine appears to have gone on that 18-day reducing diet, the Forward stopped its English page, even the New York World, which for so many years offered one of the most lucrative fields for the Jewish writer is "olav hashalom." I could go on and cite more and more fatalities, but I see, you already have your nanasherchies on your eyes.

They Keep Trying

You would think that "would learn 'em," as the little ungrammatical school boy said. Well, you're all damp, as the slang expression goes. In the first place, there is talk of the Forward coming out with a monthly English magazine, there is even talk of a Yiddish daily seeking to resurrect the Jewish Tribune, and from another quarter, comes the persistent clatter about an effort to start a free speaking sort of Jewish organ—to "tell the truth about things Jewish."

New York's Peculiar Situation

The fact is that New York offers the paradox of being at the same time the largest Jewish city and most difficult one to run a successful Jewish publication.

The reason for that is two fold. The first reason is, that by the very fact of the enormous Jewish population of New York, the ordinary general dailies, give extensive space to Jewish news. A Jewish paper must give excellent coverage, indeed, to give more Jewish news, than say, the New York Times.

Secondly, that Jewish social, community sense, as it holds in the small Jewish towns, is obviously impossible. Thus, should the New York Jewish Echo tell you in its society columns, that Mrs. Isidore Goldstein gave a bridge, you are not quite sure which of the 20,000 Isidore Goldsteins it is—and that's more than that.

The Trench Nostalgia

Gilbert Seldes, one of those two bright Jewish Seldes boys, thinks a great many of those who were in the last war, are now anxious for another war. There is a sort of Trench nostalgia.

I am inclined to agree with Seldes, and personally believe, that in not many more years, we will soon see some more sabre rattling. Economic depression, it seems to me, works to foster wars, in two ways. First, because economic depression is generally the result of economic maladjustment brought about by such things as tariffs. Secondly, economic depression fosters war, because it makes life, tame, unexciting and weary—and the sound of the drums, and the irresponsibility and lack of the ordinary worries in the barracks accordingly begin to attract. Stating these facts does not mean that one indorses war. Rather, I believe, the realization of them will do more to preserve peace than any amount of peace resolutions.

This and That

Professor Bernard Postal is out with his dogs and rifle, hunting for anecdotes about Baron Edmond Rothschild. . . . If you know any, send them in care of this column or to Bernard Postal, The Jewish Telegraphic Agency, Grand Central Palace, New York, and lots of gracias.

David A. Brown may shortly lead another campaign in the near future.

Alice Hughes, New York Telegram-World writer, is back from a visit to Russia with a series of articles on what she found.

Don Glassman named managing editor of a school daily paper which is to cater to entire city.

Albert Goodman, who wrote national prize college play, is said to have a contract with producer.

Bloch Publishing Company are announced as the American agents of the Hebrew University publications.

A new tome on American Jewish heroism in World War is in the works, the author being one of the valor decorated men.

Ludwig and Inspiration

Emil Ludwig is back, telling a few interesting things, notably the fact that he sold outright his first biography, that of Napoleon, to his American publishers, for $1000. Had he had any anticipation of how the book would sell, he could easily have cleared a fortune on it. On a royalty basis, I suppose, Ludwig would have earned a couple of hundred thousand on the volume. By the way, Wasserman did a similar trick. He sold outright his "World's Illusion" to the American Publishers for $500.

Ludwig has been seeing the sights of New York again — and was particularly entranced by the Morgan semi-private library.

So impressed, indeed, that he told the custodian of the Morgan library, that if he were permitted to write his next book in that library, he would give Morgan 10 per cent. of the royalties.

The custodian of the library replied that he didn't think Morgan would be interested in the 10 per cent., but that he would convey the proposition to Morgan. "If I could write there, I'd be inspired," Ludwig said.

ARMY DESERTER TO BE SHOT FOR MURDER OF FOUR JEWS

Warsaw, July 3—(JTA)—Eugenius Markewicz, a Pole, who deserted the Polish army, has been sentenced to death by a military tribunal in Brest-Litovsk for the murder of a Jewish family of four people in the village of Zaemno, district of Stolpezy.

After killing the family, Markewicz robbed the store of 30 zlotys.

GAZA MOSLEMS ASK OUSTING OF CHRISTIAN MISSIONARIES

London, July 3—(JTA)—The expulsion of all Christian missionaries from Gaza is demanded by the Moslems and a hostile anti-Christian feeling prevails in the town, according to reports reaching here from Jerusalem. The anti-Christian sentiment reached a climax when a Moslem convert to Protestantism, who had been arrested for cursing Mohammed, was sentenced to one month in prison.

Gentile Member of Congress Speaks Hebrew With Sephardic Accent

Discovered!—The only Gentile member of the House of Representatives who knows Hebrew, and speaks it with the Sephardic accent, at that! This discovery was made a few days ago when a committee of Philadelphia Jews called on Congressman James M. Beck of that city, formerly Solicitor General of the United States.

During the conversation, the Independent Order B'rith Shalom, the well-known Jewish Fraternal Order, was mentioned. Congressman Beck asked that the name be repeated, and then translated. The puzzled expression on his face, made way for one of pleased surprise. "Oh!" he exclaimed. "You mean Brit Shalom! I didn't understand your accent." His guests eyed Beck in astonishment. How had this Goyish Congressman of their's learned to speak Sephardic Hebrew? Beck chuckled with satisfaction as he explained the mystery. He had received his education at Moravian College, Pennsylvania. At that time a course in Hebrew was offered in this institution, of which young Beck quickly availed himself. The course was taught with the Sephardic accent. In fact, he said, he didn't know of any other, when his callers explained they had employed the Ashkenazic pronunciation.

Quite apart from his knowledge of Hebrew, Congressman Beck is one of the most cultured legislators in Washington. There is scarcely another member more widely read. During the conversation Beck expressed his great admiration for the Book of Job, which he termed one of the greatest masterpieces of world literature. He attributed his unvanishing recollection of Hebrew to his great admiration for its phonetic beauty. Its sonorous phrases never failed to inspire him, he said, quoting with zest in a fine Hebrew, the opening words of Genesis.

Minister Kaufman Prevents Rift Between Bolivia and Paraguay

When His Majesty, King Prajadhipok, of Siam, who is now recuperating in this country from an eye operation, was unable to come to Washington to keep a radio speaking engagement over the Columbia Broadcasting network shortly after his arrival in the national capital, the American Minister to Siam, David E.

Kaufman, who happens to be on simultaneous leave of absence in the United States, substituted for the King. Mr. Kaufman prior to his entry a few years ago into the diplomatic service, was one of Philadelphia's prominent Jewish members of the bar, having relinquished the further pursuit of his professional career in March, 1928, to accept appointment as Minister to Bolivia, and was subsequently transferred to Siam.

Minister Kaufman was instrumental in quieting the serious rift between Bolivia and Paraguay two years ago. In the opinion of well-informed officials, he even averted a second world war in South America, through his work in this connection. In his radio talk, Minister Kaufman told many interesting things about Siam: of the cremation of the royal dead, the Venetian-like canals of Bangkok, its capital and the strange contrasts of that city—palaces and hovels, ancient past and ultra-modern side by side. Wide, tree-shaded boulevards set with substantial houses, and evil-smelling canals lined with tumble-down huts perched on piles of floating maboo rafts. The honk of the automobile and the clang of the trolley car mingling with the cry of the rickshaw coolie and the shouts of the driver of the horse-drawn gharry. Fine hotels, luxuriously appointed, with native food-stands at their very doors. This is the environment wherein Mr. Kaufman, Jewish American Minister to Siam, has established his home for more or less indefinite period of representation of the United States Government.

Incidentally, another Jew, participated in that radio program, the part which took the form of an "interview" between Minister Kaufman and Lee R. Sack, of the Washington staff of the Scripps-Howard newspapers. Sack, who is a Jew, asked Minister Kaufman various questions about Siam, and Kaufman replied, all as part of the broadcast. The program might have been termed a "schmoes" between two "yehudim" on Siam.

Interesting Law Suit Filed Against a Washington Jew

Talking about Venetian canals serves as a reminder of the rather interesting law suit filed recently against a Washington Jew, Lewis Hopfenmaier, 2d, by one Ettore Camerino, manufacturer of fine glassware and art objects at Venice. In the suit, the Venetian claiming $5500 charged that while Mr. Hopfenmaier was on his honeymoon in Italy in March, 1930, he gave the merchant an extensive order for glassware, chinaware, lamps and other art objects, but had later repudiated the order. Among the itemized items were listed "two Hanuka lamps."

Mr. Hopfenmaier has filed a vigorous denial of the Venetian's claim, alleging that the latter had not complied with his end of the agreement under which the various articles were to be purchased. Meanwhile Venice and Washington are berating each other good and plenty.

This item should prove timely and helpful to Hebraic tourists about to venture forth on their travels abroad. Let them not forget that nowhere is the maxim, "Caveat Emptor" (the buyer beware), more to be heeded, than in the regions far distant from home.

DR. M. E. JAFFA, NUTRITION EXPERT, CALIFORNIA, DEAD

Berkeley, Cal., July 3—(JTA)—Dr. Myer Edward Jaffa, professor emeritus of nutrition at the University of California, and director of the bureau of food and drugs of the State Board of Health, is dead here at the age of 73, after an illness of a week.

A noted authority on nutrition, Dr. Jaffa was born in Australia and came here at the age of nine.

ELECTION HELD

A most exciting and interesting election took place at the O. H. C. headquarters last week. With the exception of the Treasurer and Secretary's office the position were closely contested. The closest race occurred between Sam Kagan for a position on the Executive Board. Three times votes had to be cast before Mr. Kasper won.

Those elected are: Dr. Harry Diamond, President; Isadore Saxe, Vice President; George Labush, Treasurer (re-elected); Joseph Waldman, Recording Secretary; Irving Feldman, Corresponding Secretary.

The Executive Board consists of Edmund Wexler, Social Director; Abe Press, Membership; Myron Keller, Educational; Sam Kasper, Athletic, and Sam Shindler, House.

The officers were installed at a banquet held at Zinn's Restaurant.

MOONLIGHT SAIL

All final arrangements to go on the moonlight sail and dance, Wednesday, July 8, must be made with either Sam Shindler or Irving Schretter before the Fourth. The boat leaves Point street bridge at 7:30 p. m. sharp. Be on time.

In case of inclement weather, the sail will be postponed to a later date.

Fireworks at Crescent Park

One of the most dazzling of fireworks exhibitions ever witnessed is scheduled for the "Night Before the Fourth" at Crescent Park. Everyone is promised at least several delightful new thrills in this amazing showing, which will be seen for many miles. On the "Night Before" there will also be a special midnight dance, and there will be dancing afternoon and evening on the Fourth.

This week's free attraction, which concludes its engagement at Crescent Park, Saturday evening, is an acrobatic troupe, the Four Casting Campbells, who do amazing things as they somersault through the air from their lofty rigging.

Starting Sunday, the free attraction at Crescent Park will be Vasques in an exhibition of Supreme daring, performing reckless feats on a precarious perch atop a pole far above the ground.

WAR MINISTER PROBES BIAS AGAINST JEWS IN ARMY

Riga, July 3—(JTA)—Prof. E. Laimins, Latvian Minister of War, recently promised to investigate a charge that in a number of regiments of the Latvian army, Jewish as well as other non-Lutheran soldiers, are compelled to recite Lutheran prayers. The majority of the Latvian population is of the Protestant-Lutheran faith.

The Minister's investigation was prompted by a statement made in the Latvian Parliament by Bruno Kolnin, a Social-Democratic Deputy. He cited one case in which a Jewish soldier, who did not know a Lutheran prayer by heart was compelled to learn and then recite it publicly.

Jewish Woman Sees Drama In Everyday Life

By RUTH WISHENGRAD

"When big business wants to celebrate, Adele Gutman Nathan is summoned to lay plans," said a New York newspaper about this new slant on business. Mrs. Nathan calls herself a dramatic counsel but many times she directs as well as counsels.

Here is a very dramatic life. Seeking out the picturesque, artistic and historical features of such organizations as railroads, temples, telephone companies, department stores and manufacturing concerns for public exhibition, is a part of her work.

For the Communication Rooms now being assembled in the Museum of the City of New York, Mrs. Nathan conceived and presented in miniature tableaux the history of communications. The complete story shows the advance in the growth of New York City actuated by the city's increasing ability to get in touch with more people at greater distances in less time. Each scene represents by means of historic figures, about four inches high, in appropriate backgrounds, a big moment in this story.

The American Telephone & Telegraph Company and allied organizations, together with the Radio Corporation of America have donated the room on communications to the Museum. Mrs. Nathan's exhaustive research assures the accuracy of every detail in the tableaux from the headgear of the little actors to the pictures on the walls.

The models selected are the town crier calling out important news events; the first overland mail courier taking a week to reach Boston in 1672; the mechanical semaphore by which merchants communicated with their ships in the Narrows; S. F. B. Morse laying his submarine cable in New York Harbor; the stock ticker displacing the runners, "human deers," who carried the daily reports; Bell's first telephone transmitting a cornet solo three miles to Brooklyn; telephone wires all tied up in the great blizzard of 1888, resulting in the underground system; Marconi's wireless reporting the yacht races in 1889 forty miles from New York and Sir Thomas Lipton's optimistic viewpoint at the time, and finally the Democratic National Convention in 1924 combining telephotography, broadcasting, telegraphy, telephony, mail and newspaper to report the event.

When the Baltimore Hebrew Congregation was planning its centennial celebration, Adele Gutman Nathan was called in to direct the pageant, "Followers of the Light," which proved a great achievement for one of Israel's oldest congregations in America. One of the memorable effects in this presentation came in the scene representing the Jews of medieval times dropping their physical chains as they stood in the light of the Torah.

"Waking up" merchandising has been another of Mrs. Nathan's unusual jobs. For L. Bamberger & Company she has dramatized the background of fashion shows so that a performance rather than a parade appears before the audience. The models are placed at dance, a sporting event, in the garden, or at business, where they speak and move naturally and incidentally display clothes, furniture, traveling equipment, etc.

She even got a kick out of directing mules (forerunners of the iron horses of the railroad), Mrs. Nathan said of the Baltimore & Ohio Centenary celebration, an event that was viewed by a million and a quarter people. Of course there were also in the cast 700 people, 31 locomotives and 39 other vehicles, and horses and ponies besides the aforementioned "kicking beasts."

It is this enjoyment that Mrs. Nathan gets in bringing out the high points, the real dramatic features of everyday life in all its phases, that makes her work so successful. Each new job brings her into a new business. Whether it is putting trucks into the movies as she did for the International Harvester Company; directing a play like Elmer Rice's, "The Subway," leading her little theatre group, the Cellar Players into a win-

PLAN 40,000 DUNAM J. N. F. PALESTINE COLONY

Scarsdale, N. Y., July 3—(JTA)—On the eve of the opening of the Zionist Congress last Tuesday evening in Basle, Switzerland, leaders of New York Jewry at a special conference in the summer home of Dr. A. J. Rongy, reached a decision to commemorate the Congress' opening by establishing in Palestine a colony to bear the name of New York. The colony is to be built in what has become known as the American tract and is to comprise an area of 40,000 dunams, or 10,000 acres.

The conference, which was held under the auspices of the Jewish National Fund of America, was attended by more than 100 representatives of Zionist districts in Greater New York and other Jewish groups and was presided over by Dr. Rongy, New York physician and Zionist worker.

Following addresses by Harry J. Kahn, acting chairman of the Jewish National Fund, Dr. Akiba Ettinger, director of the land department of the Jewish National Fund of Jerusalem, and Bernard Stone, national field director, the conference adopted a resolution calling for the establishment of the New York colony in Palestine, following the example set recently by Jewish communities in 32 States of the Union.

DENIES POLICEMEN TAUGHT JEWS USE OF FIREARMS

Jerusalem, July 3—(JTA)—Replying to the alarm voiced in the Arabic press, the Palestine Government issued a statement recently announcing that sealed armored cases had been given to some of the remote Jewish colonies and that police officers had tested these arms.

This contradicts the allegation of the Arabic papers that police officers had taught the Jewish colonists how to handle arms.

Greetings were brought to the Congress by Sir Howard Kennard, British Ambassador to Switzerland; Councilor Imhof, representative of the Basle canton, who attended the first Congress in 1897; Dr. Lucien Levailant, the representative of the Swiss Jewish community, and Dr. Marcus Cohn, president of the Swiss Zionist Organization. All were introduced by Mr. Sokolow.

Ambassador Kennard's address was brief and contained the usual statements about the Mandatory Power's readiness to fulfill its obligations, but he failed to make mention of the Jewish National Home.
The Congress concluded its sessions at 11 p. m. (6 p. m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time), with the singing of the Hatikvah, which followed the report of Dr. Arthur Ruppin. Dr. Ruppin outlined how the world's crisis had affected the income of the Keren Hayesod and stressed the fact that Palestine's industry was developing.
He pointed out that new markets were necessary for Palestine products and added that the economic situation had been more or less stabilized. He stated that the Keren Hayesod's income for this year was $1,250,000. Dr. Ruppin also reported that out of 45 Jewish colonies, 11 were already self-supporting and the rest will be self-supporting this year when they receive the necessary $225,000.

Obituary

JACOB ABISCH

Jacob Abisch of 57 Lorimer avenue, one of the best known watch-makers in the Rhode Island jewelry industry, employed in this city for the last 45 years, died Monday at the Homeopathic Hospital after being taken suddenly ill Sunday. He was in his 64th year. He was born in Roumania and came to Providence when 19 years old and since had lived here. He was one of the earlier Jewish settlers here.

For years he was employed by William Kerr, later for E. T. Arnold, and his recent years in the jewelry business were spent with J. A. Foster Company. He was a member of the Rhode Island Workingmen's Beneficial Association and the local Roumanian Society.

He is survived by two sons, Abe H. and Leo J. Abisch, both of this city; by four sisters, Mrs. Sol Rosenblatt and Abraham Biderberg, both of Philadelphia, Mrs. Joseph Halperin of Palm Beach, Fla., and Mrs. Joseph Schultzberg of Cleveland and a brother, Aaron Abisch, of Jacksonville, Fla.

The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon from his residence.

CELIA CORT

Miss Celia Cort, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Cort, of 121 Mitchell street, died last Wednesday evening at the age of 20, after an illness of five months.

She was a member of the Phi Delta Sorority and the local Alpha Alpha Chapter.

Besides her parents she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Anna Lipson, and three brothers, Joseph, Irwin and Leonard Cort.

Funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon from her late home and interment was at the Jewish Cemetery on Reservoir avenue.

JEWIS IN CALIFORNIA PENAL INSTITUTIONS FEWER

Los Angeles, July 3—(JTA)—Only 2.8 per cent. of the general population of all state hospitals and penal institutions consists of persons of the Jewish faith. This was the statement by Rabbi Rudolph I. Coffee, of Oakland, chairman of the Jewish Committee for Personal Service, and former Chaplain of the State Assembly.

Rabbi Margolin Files Libel Suit Against Agudath Horabanim

New York, July 3—(JTA)—A libel suit against the "Agudath Horabanim," or Union of Orthodox Rabbis of the United States and Canada, has been brought by Rabbi Joseph Margolin, former Rabbi of the Anshe Chesed Synagogue, in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn, in the Brooklyn Supreme Court.

Rabbi Margolin, who demands $75,000 from the Rabbinical organization, has also brought suit individually against Rabbi Israel Rosenberg, Honorary President of the "Agudah;" Rabbi Eliezer Silver, its President; Rabbi I. L. Selzer, its Secretary, and Jacob Hellerstein, its Assistant Secretary.

Rabbi Margolin alleges that the Rabbinical organization published and spread serious charges against him on the score of violating Orthodox Jewish religious tenets, which charges led to his Brownsville congregation dismissing him from the Rabbinical post, which he had held there for five and a half years.

The "Agudah" had accused him of giving a "hocsher," or certificate of kashruth, to a sausage factory whose products were not kosher and of giving Jewish women the right to remarry, who, according to Orthodox law, were forbidden to do so. Rabbi Margolin denies these accusations, while officials of the "Agudath Horabanim" insist that the charges which it brought against him are true.

MEXICO EXPLAINS OUSTING OF FOREIGN VENDORS

Vienna, July 3—(JTA)—The recent expulsion of several hundred Jewish vendors from the public markets of Mexico City on orders from the Mexican government was not an act of anti-Semitism but a measure of retaliation against the United States because that country has been deporting Mexicans, Portes Gil, former President of Mexico, is quoted as having said in an interview appearing in the Vienna Journal recently. Tancred Klein, the Mexican charge d'affairs, is similarly quoted.

Other reasons given by Senor Gil for the ousting of the Jewish traders in Mexico City are the invasion of the city by "speculators" and the arrival of "undesirable" immigrants from the Russian provinces. Mexico will discontinue its restrictions against foreigners when Washington stops expelling Mexicans, Senor Gil is further reported to have declared.

Mexico does not harm settlers but will persecute "speculators" without regard to religion, Senor Gil said. President Ortiz Rubio's policy is to protect the Mexican merchant against the foreigners, but Rubio is not an anti-Semite, the former President concluded.

SURVEY GIVES CHICAGO JEWISH POPULATION, 302,164

Chicago, July 3 — (JTA) — The Jewish population of Chicago is now 302,164, an increase of 14,033 in the eight years from 1923 to 1931, according to a study of the Jewish population and its distribution in Chicago by the Jewish Charities of Chicago, which was made public here recently.

In 1923 a survey, conducted by the Jewish Welfare Board on the distribution and size of Chicago's Jewish population, revealed 288,131 Jews within the boundaries of the Windy City.

The results of this year's study show that the Jews comprise 8.9 per cent. of the 3,360,734 inhabitants of the city. On the basis of the Jewish Charities' figures, Chicago is now the third largest Jewish city in the world. New York is the largest with Warsaw ranking second.

The method of making the present study as well as the 1923 one by the Jewish Welfare Board was the so-called "Yom-Kippur method." By this method an estimate of the Jewish population and its distribution is established through ascertaining the number of Jewish children in school and applying to that number a previously established ratio of Jewish children to the general population.

BURGIN ENTERTAINS LARGE AUDIENCE AT RECITAL

Richard Burgin, concert master of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, who was featured as the soloist at the concert of the Woonsocket Hebrew Choral Society, thrilled an enthusiastic audience in the Bijou Theatre last week at one of the most successful recitals heard here for some time.

Anshel Heuberg, who conducted the chorus, gave strong proof of his ability as a musical director. Assisted by Mrs. Celia Epstein, who is recognized as an accomplished pianist, he brought before the Woonsocket public a group of young men and women singers, who, after only a comparatively short time of training, surprised their listeners with harmonious and well-rounded melodies.

Solos by Lillian Goldstein and Emma Kasidoy were well received. Samuel Kornstein's beautiful rendition of "Eli, Eli" was one of the outstanding numbers of the program. A quartet with a cello obbligato, played by Margaret Cote, was also included. The evening closed with the singing of the National Anthem, when a beautiful scenic effect of "Old Glory" was displayed.

The Woonsocket Choral Society and the sponsors of the concert, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur I. Darman, were congratulated upon the success of the evening.

OFFICERS CHOSEN BY JUNIOR Y. W. H. A.

New officers and committees were elected at a meeting of the Junior Young Women's Hebrew Association, held Thursday morning in the Vestry of the B'nai Israel Synagogue.

The officers-elect are as follows: President, Edith Bernstein; Vice President, Sophie Sherman; Secretary, Sarah Susel; Treasurer, Dorothy Verofsky; Critic, Alice Bernstein; Publicity Chairman, Ethel Kondy; Entertainment Committee, Bernice Rubin, Edith Lavine, Rose Susel and Ruth Brenner.

Following the meeting the girls enjoyed an outing held at Rocky Point. Chaperones of the trip were Mrs. Samuel Kondy, Misses Ruth Stein and Sarah Shorr.

PERSONALS

Miss Harriet Rabinovitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rabinovitz, of Park avenue, received a Bachelor of Science Degree from Simmons College, Boston, at graduation exercises held last Monday. Miss Rabinovitz was admitted to the Ellen Richard Scientific Society. She is also a member of the Menorah Society.

Newton Anthony, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Anthony of Prospect street and Leonard Wartell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Wartell of Winter street have left to spend the remainder of the summer at Camp Avodah, Middleboro, Mass.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

The engagement of Miss Ruth List of this city, daughter of Mr. Walter H. List, of Boston, to Eli Leavitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Leavitt, of Providence, was announced at a dinner Sunday at the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Falk, of Park place.

NUMERUS CLAUSUS ABOLISHED FOR FOREIGN STUDENTS

Riga, July 3—(JTA)—The numerus clausus against foreign students in the University of Latvia was abolished recently by the Latvian Parliament when it passed a law introduced by the Jewish deputies. The new law removes all restrictions against students from foreign countries who will now be permitted to take state examinations for entrance to the University of Latvia without hindrance.

The numerus clausus policy had operated with particular severity against Jewish students from other countries of Eastern and Central Europe where the numerus clausus was even more stringent.

SPORTING WORLD

NEWS WRITTEN FOR THE JEWISH HERALD BY GEORGE JOEL

SINGER WINS COMEBACK BOUT BUT FAILS TO IMPRESS

A goodly sized crowd turned out at Madison Square Garden last week to cheer and razz Al Singer, former lightweight champion, on his comeback try. The Jewish boy won on points from Lew Massey, but failed to impress in the process. At the end of the bout Al was very tired and showed the effects of his seven months' layoff. He seemed slower and less sure and obviously has a long way to go before he will be in the contender class again.

Singer won the fight on points. His superior ring generalship was apparent throughout. Only in the ninth round did Massey show anything and even at that it was Al's round.

On the same card Jack Rosenberg of Harlem made another good impression on the New York fans. The Jewish middleweight from Harlem, after being knocked down in the first round, came to life and outfought Paulie Walker in the remaining seven to win the decision.

BERG ALSO BACK ON THE SCENE —WINS IMPRESSIVELY

Jackie Kid Berg, junior light-weight champion of the world, looked every inch the part of a great fighting machine in knocking out Tony Lambert of Newark in the eighth round of a ten scion affair held in Lambert's home town. The Newark boy, noted for his hard hitting, never had a chance against the English Jew, who kept him much too busy covering up. After the fight Jackie issued a challenge to Tony Canzoneri for another crack at the lightweight title. No word has come from Tony.

MAXIE ROSENBLUM BACK FROM THE STICKS

Maxie Rosenblum, the light-heavyweight champion of the world, returned to New York recently after a two months fighting trip through the country. The clowning ring expert had boxed in Spokane, Hollywood, Portland, Denver and various other populated centers. Maxie came back to see how the cabarets were going. They missed Maxie all right. He is a loyal and patient customer of the after-dark spots.

BAER TO GET ANOTHER CHANCE

Under the promotorship of Jack Dempsey—Baer, of California, will fight Paulino at Reno in July. The two heavyweights have been signed with the understanding that the winner will have a chance at one of the big boys. Baer knows that if he fails to win this time he is through as a contender for heavyweight honors. The last time his name was mentioned in this column it was to the effect that he had gone back home to take up the practice of law.

AROUND THE RING

Not another word has come from Benny Leonard about his rumored return to the ring. It looks very much as though it were just another of those annual announcements.

Yale Okun, one of the thousand favorite East Side boys, is still fighting. The large heavyweight was beaten by some Southern fighter a few weeks ago, but little notice was taken of it. Evidently the Jewish fighter has slipped a few pegs down the fistic ladder.

So far this season the fight promoters have not seen any improvement in business. The fans are staying away from bouts in increasing numbers, and unless the suckers come back into the fold there will be a lot of fighters and managers joining the unemployed ranks this winter.

KURZROK WINS TENNIS TITLE AND RETIRES

Dr. Lawrence Kurzrok, after driving and smashing his way to both the singles and doubles titles in the Greater New York tennis championships for the third consecutive year and retiring the cup from competition, announced that he was retiring from tournament play for a two or three year period. The young doctor stated that although he liked tennis he felt that his career as a medico was more important. As he couldn't cut tennis balls and the human anatomy at the same time he will retire in favor of the latter.

Hailing from the Middle West, Kurzrok, with his brother, broke into the tennis circuit a few years ago. Both boys showed great promise and entered most of the local matches. Their studies demanded their close attention with the results that the boys stuck to the metropolitan tournaments, where they soon made a mark for themselves. Lawrence was the better player and it was hoped that he would continue to compete. His decision to stick to his profession came somewhat as a surprise, but you can hardly blame a young man for preferring a career in medicine.

OTHER TENNIS NEWS

Raymond Stone got to the quarter finals of the E. I. C. T. T. His teammate, Jones, whom Stone had beaten previously, won the tournament. As this column goes to press the Inter-collegiate Championships are being played. Eddie Jacobs of Pittsburgh is one of the seeded players, but is not favored to win. He has reached the quarter-final round and seems to be going strong.

CHATTERINGS

Still more letters about "Morton Goes to College." A young man from San Francisco wrote and wanted me to name names and colleges so that the Anti-Defamation League could take up the cudgel for Morton. I was perfectly willing to set forth the facts but "Morton" refused to grant me the necessary permission. Without his consent I am honor bound to withhold "Morton's" real name and the college he attended.

Among the "Morton" mail was a lady whose boy friend failed to make the New York University football team. She was certain the lad was kept out of the headlines only because he was a Jew. I know if I mentioned his name he would very likely shoot said lady. As a matter of fact the young man in question is on the scrub team solely because he isn't food enough to play with the "Varsity." He knows it, too, and would be the last fellow to make a complaint.

Along the Grand Concourse in New York City there stands a midget golf course. Passing by one night I noticed it all lit up but nobody playing. Across the entrance a sign read, "Opened by Mistake." Which just about tells the story of Tom Thumb golf. This year the fad followers are going in for archery.

Gov. Rolph Signed Kosher Meat Law; Should be Vetoed

Sacramento, Cal., July 3—(JTA)—Just before Governor Rolph signed the State Kosher Meat Law, the head of Shenson's, Inc., chief kosher meat firm of San Francisco, called on the Governor as he was rushing out of his office.

As the Governor was leaving his office, Mr. Shenson walked up to him and the Governor greeted him with the remark, "Don't worry Mr. Shenson, I'm going to sign that Kosher Meat Bill."

"Sign it," cried Shenson, as the Governor rushed ahead, "I came here to ask you to kill it."

Bennett Company Acquires Local Chevrolet Agency

Providence folk will be interested in the announcement that the W. A. Mulry Chevrolet Company of 776 Elmwood avenue has been acquired by the Bennett Chevrolet Company, of which Mr. Herman L. Bennett, is the President.

Mr. Bennett is the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Silverman of Wheeler avenue, Edgewood. Mr.

Silverman is a member of the firm of Silverman Brothers.

Mr. Bennett comes to Providence with a wealth of experience in the automobile business, having been the Chrysler distributor in Webster, Mass., for many years.

The Chevrolet franchise is considered one of the most important today in the automobile industry, as it is the world's fastest selling car. The fact that the Chevrolet Company has appointed the Bennett Company as its distributors here is fitting evidence of the ability of the latter firm to continue the high standards of Chevrolet here as in the past.

Mr. Bennett said yesterday that "We shall continue the excellent service and carry a complete stock of parts. At all times we shall have a representative display of Chevrolet cars and trucks. Our beautiful and commodious salesroom at 776 Elmwood avenue assures our patrons of the best comfort facilities and I can assure the prospective buyer or car owner that he will be accorded the same courteous treatment as in the past. Naturally in acquiring this important franchise, we believe that Chevrolet is one of the best cars on the automobile market. We extend a personal invitation to the Jewish people of the state to come in and allow us to explain the merits of this world's fastest selling automobile."

Murray Silverman, well known Providence man, is associated with the Bennett Chevrolet Company.

tire regiment from among the Jewish population of Savannah. Captain Cohen of Virginia, Major Lewis Bush of Pennsylvania, Major Nones of South Carolina (who was aide de camp to the General in Chief), Captain de la Motta, Jacob de Leon, Reuben Etting (who enlisted at the age of nineteen), Major Solomon Bush, also of Pennsylvania, Manuel Mordecai Noah (the father of the founder of Ararat), Lieutenant Abraham Seizas of Georgia,—those were only a few of the many Jews who flocked to the colors in support of liberty.

The battlefield was not the only field upon which the Jews of that time did their liberal bit.

The questioned services of Haym Salomon are to be recalled in this connection. He served not as a soldier in the ranks, but in his capacity as banker and financier; in his own way he was very likely worth as much as several regiments of soldiers.

Nor was Haym Salomon, great as were his contributions to the cause of the impoverished Continentals, the only one of his tribe to offer them financial aid.

The records are incomplete of these soldiers behind the front, who entrusted their fortunes as well as their lives to the colonists. But many a patriotic figure emerges. There was Joseph Simon of Pennsylvania, Jacob L. Cohen of Georgia, the Gratzs of the City of Brotherly Love, their compatriot and neighbor, Jacob Hart, and in Georgia Mordecai Sheftall; men who individually and collectively offered their monies and their credit so that the struggling colonies might be free.
