Jewish Personalities
By DAVID SCHWARTZ

Roosevelt and Marx

Gilbert Seldes, says Mrs. Roosevelt, is already planning for the closing up of her home on March 4th, according to a story coming to his ears. I imagine it's just one of those stories. But, speaking about Roosevelt's election, if it does occur, a man whose career may be worth watching is Judge Robert F. Marx of Ohio. He is one of the party of six, I believe, making the coast-to-coast tour in Roosevelt's private car.

I once met Marx years ago, while working on a Cincinnati daily. My recollection is of a rather well-groomed, well-made man—with dark Semitic eyes—the type that years ago we used to associate with German-Jewish stock. If my recollection serves me right, he was one of the leaders in the organization of the American Legion.

Strawberries and the Revolution

By the way, Seldes tells a rather good one about the Revolution. A speaker at Union Square was depicting what would happen when the Revolution comes to America.

"Where do the poor live?" he asked.

"In the slums," he answered.

"And where do the rich live?"

"On Park Avenue," he answered.

"But when the Revolution comes, the rich will live in the slums and the poor on Park Avenue."

"And what," continued the speaker, "do the poor eat?"

"Potato soup," he answered.

"And what do the rich eat?"

"Strawberries in December."

"But when the Revolution comes, the rich will eat potato soup and the poor will eat strawberries in December."

"But I don't like strawberries," interrupted one of his poor auditors.

"When the Revolution comes," thundered back the speaker, "you shall eat strawberries in December."

This Country Needs a Joke

President Hoover is reported as having told the Jewish old-time comedians, Weber and Fields, that what the country perhaps needed above all right now is a good re-sounding joke.

But the trouble is, that if such a joke were invented now, it would likely be at the expense of Mr. Hoover himself. Depression jokes like depressions always are at the expense of the "ins." Take the case of the Cleveland depression in 1893. That is generally blamed on poor Democratic Mr. Cleveland. And yet study the career of Mr. Cleveland and see how unjust it was for the conservatives to pin the blame on him. Mr. Cleveland was fully as conservative as the most conservative Republican who stigmatized him. The only radicalism he had was the subject of tariff. He was inclined to be a free trader, but his ideas on the tariff were completely rejected by Congress, so that by no stretch of the imagination, could the 1893 debacle have been blamed on any radicalism of his. Mr. Cleveland was in fact fully as conservative as Mr. Hoover. Moreover, he recalls Mr. Hoover in many ways. He had the same stocky build and something of the same personal reserve, though not as pronounced as in the case of Herb.

Herbert Samuel Quits

I see where Sir Herbert Samuel with Snowden and a few others, are leaving the British Cabinet, in protest against England's going in for the tariff.

Personally, (not that it matters to you, of course), I clap my hand at Sir Herbert's action. I am opposed

LIEUT. GOV. LEHMAN IS NOMINATED FOR N. Y. GOVERNOR

If Elected Would be First Jew to Hold This Office in New York;
Record Is Praised

Albany, Oct. 7—(JTA)—Lieutenant Governor Herbert H. Lehman, noted Jewish philanthropist, civic and communal leader, Tuesday night became the first Jew ever to be nominated for the post of Governor of New York State by the Democratic party and, if elected, will be the first Jew to hold this high office in New York State.

Colonel Lehman was nominated by acclamation after a stormy two-day battle concerning his candidacy, based not on his personal fitness for the office, but the score which Tammany Hall has against Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic Presidential nominee, whose choice Colonel Lehman is.

Colonel Lehman, who is serving his second term as Lieutenant Governor, his first and only political office, had as his principal supporters former Governor Alfred E. Smith and Governor Roosevelt, who for the first time since the Democratic national convention, united to battle the cause of his nomination.

Tammany Hall, angered because of Governor Roosevelt's ouster proceedings against Mayor James J. Walker, which led to the latter's resignation, yielded after numerous conferences because the tide of popular favor for Lehman became so strong that even Tammany's adherents threatened to rebel and swing to the Lehman standard.

Colonel Lehman's name was placed before the convention by former Governor Alfred E. Smith. An address approving the choice was later delivered by Governor Roosevelt, while Colonel Lehman himself delivered a short acceptance speech, in which he said:

"I realize to the fullest the confidence you have reposed in me, and I embrace with full knowledge of its responsibility the opportunity of further service to the state. I pledge to you that I will not fail the people of the state or my party, which has just honored me in choosing me as its standard bearer."

JEWISH CENTER TO GIVE ANNUAL DANCE MONDAY AT ARCADIA

Annual Celebration to Follow Prayers and Fast Associated With Yom Kippur;
J. I. Cohen, General Chairman

The annual after Yom Kippur dance, sponsored by the Jewish Community Center in co-operation with its adult organizations, will be held Monday evening, Oct. 10, at the Arcadia Ballroom, and will officially open the Jewish Center season.

The first Jewish social event of the season has been conducted for the past fifteen years on the evening subsequent to the conclusion of Yom Kippur Services in the Synagogues. The ten days preceding Yom Kippur, or as it is better known, the Day of Atonement, are the most solemn in the Jewish Calendar, being devoted to prayer and fast. Although in modern days Yom Kippur, as celebrated by the Jews the world over, is a day of fast, in the Biblical days it was a day of merriment. It was the custom for young men and young women to meet on that day in the open market places in Palestine for amusement and dancing.

Many delegations from Southern New England have notified the officials of the dance of their plans to attend. Dancing will be on the program 8 to 1 o'clock.

Jules P. Goldstein, President of the Jewish Community Center, announced the appointment of the following members of the Board to serve on the dance committee: Isaac Wolf, Samuel Steiner, Henry Hassenfeld, Abe V. Flink, Mrs. Joseph J. Sefer, Benjamin W. Grossman, Saul Abrams, Herman S. Galkin, Louis Golden, Judge Philip C. Joslin, Arthur J. Levy, Samuel M. Magid, Alfred L. Morse, Samuel Rosen, John Silverman, Charles Brown, Mrs. Jacob Ernstof, Mrs. Isaac Gerber, Bernard M. Goldowsky, Max L. Grant, Walter Lederer, Charles Silverman, Walter I. Sundlun, Walter Adler, Herman Feinstein, Mrs. Frank Markensohn, Samson Nathanson, Harry R. Rosen, Milton C. Sapinsky, Samuel Temkin and Samuel Workman.

The following appointments were made by Mrs. Joseph J. Sefer to represent the Y. W. H. A.: Belle Temkin, Sophie Ellis, Mrs. Samuel Chase, Idah Snell, Mary Simons, Freda Simons, Ida Rubinstein, Rose Snell, Ethel Levine, Beatrice Gross, Mollie Bercovitz, Rose Singer, Ida Fiertel, Mrs. Herman Galkin, Evelyn and Claire Greenstein, Hannah Scoliard and Evelyn Siegal.

Jacob I. Cohen, Executive Director, will be in general charge.

The Union of American Hebrew Congregations

A YEAR IN REVIEW BY LUDWIG VOGELSTEIN

In the Union of American Hebrew Congregations are united 282 Congregations, 344 Sisterhoods and 120 Brotherhoods. This federation of about 750 interrelated units standing for about half-a-million individuals, represents organized Reform Judaism in the United States and Canada. It functions through the following departments:

The Hebrew Union College began its 57th scholastic year with a registration of 90, including 10 new students. It has a faculty of 15 professors, four instructors and one teaching fellowship. At the graduation exercises last May, 18 Rabbis received their diplomas. Rabbis Victor E. Reichert and Jacob B. Menkes received Doctor of Divinity degrees and Dr. Joseph Stolz the honorary degree of Doctor of Hebrew Law.

The Summer School of the college had a registration of 17 Rabbis in its post-graduate department and in the Teachers' Institute there were 33 students, many of whom received scholarships provided by the National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods and the Alpha Epsilon Pi Fraternity.

Four members of the faculty published books during the past year: Dr. Jacob Mann, "Texts and Studies in Jewish History and Literature," Vol. I; Professor Samuel S. Cohon, "What We Jews Believe," Dr. Abraham Cronbach, "The Jewish Peace Book," and Professor A. Z. Idelsohn, "Thesaurus of Jewish Music," Vol. 10, and "The History of the Jewish Liturgy."

The Department of Synagogue and School Extension serves the organized congregations and unorganized groups of Jews through the publication of religious literature, and pursues a widespread movement for organizing new congregations and religious schools.

The department now publishes 133 items, including the children's magazine, "Young Israel," with a paid circulation of 8957. The publication department operates under the guidance of the Commission on Jewish Education. It supplied text-books to about 40,000 pupils last year.

Under the guidance of the Tract Commission the department published its annual pamphlet of Holy Day Sermons for congregations without Rabbis and its holiday newspaper accounts, and supplied requests for tracts of 21 different subjects.

During the past year a member of the New York staff was transferred to Cincinnati to assume the direction of Youth Work for the Union. The Sisterhoods contributed liberally to

90TH ANNIVERSARY OF B'NAI B'RITH TO BE OBSERVED OCT. 13

Nationwide Celebration Planned; Is Oldest and Largest Jewish Fraternal Order

Cincinnati, Oct. 7—(JTA)—Four hundred B'nai B'rith lodges throughout the United States and Canada will hold special meetings, cultural gatherings and membership drives, and will sponsor special events during the coming year in honor of the Order's entry into the 90th year of its existence, which begins Oct. 13.

On that date, in 1843, twelve men, headed by Henry Jones, met at Sinsheimer's Cafe in Essex street, New York City, and resolved to found a fraternity patterned after the many friendly societies of that time. In the 89 years which have elapsed since that humble beginning was made, B'nai B'rith has grown to be the oldest and largest Jewish fraternal order in the world. It has 400 lodges in the United States and Canada, and 200 more in 25 other countries encircling the globe.

The Central Administrative Board of B'nai B'rith has officially authorized this nation-wide observance by American and Canadian lodges of the maintain this activity and toward the Hebrew Union College.

For the organizing of new religious units as well as for state and district organization, the Union maintains three Regional Rabbis, one for the Southeast section of the country, one for the North-Central and one for New York State and New England. The summary of their work for the past year is as follows: 61 towns visited; seven congregations and three schools organized or reorganized; nine Rabbis placed in permanent positions; two holiday positions developed; one interstate convention, four state conventions, and 33 county and inter-county conventions held.

Last year Rabbis and laymen, who volunteered their services to the department, reported 800 visits to small towns, universities, summer resorts and institutions.

A campaign for the Advancement of Judaism—a project in which 1000 small towns were to be visited,—was launched at the end of last season and is now being brought to completion. The Brotherhoods and Sisterhoods are co-operating with the department in this campaign.

This year a Bureau of Synagogue Activities was created to study the activities of Synagogue, to ascertain successful methods of administration, programs of education and related activities, programs of expansion, etc. Information along these lines is now being gathered and will soon be available for congregational leaders.

As a national body, the Federation of Temple Sisterhoods has undertaken a number of valuable projects under the guidance of National Standing Committees. Among these are:

The publication of the 19th annual Art Calendar, containing the etchings of Enrico Glicenstein; the publication of a valuable course of Child Study Outlines, which are used widely in study classes of the Sisterhoods; the printing of a booklet of Meeting Programs; the organization and guidance of Young Folks' Temple Leagues in many congregations.

Through another national committee, local Sisterhoods near universities make personal contacts with over 1500 Jewish young women students. A committee on peace has sponsored special Sisterhood meetings, use of posters and peace stamps, and made possible the publication of "The Jewish Peace Book," issued by the department.

The Sisterhoods have transcribed by hand about 100 volumes of Jewish interest in Braille type, and have participated in the establishment of a national institute in New York for the distribution and loan of these and other volumes.

Several national committees of the Sisterhoods were engaged in raising funds for the Hebrew Union College dormitory and for scholarships; for the educational work of the department; for three fellowships in Pedagogy, and for prizes for the best works appearing in "Young Israel."

Twenty-two state federations of Sisterhoods held conventions last year.

The Brotherhoods pursue various activities that are directed towards the upbuilding of their respective congregations, such as educational endeavors, assistance in conducting the services, membership drives and stimulation of Synagogue attendance.

The two most outstanding activities of the year have been the Brotherhood Go-to-Temple Month and the annual Hanukkah Rallies, in which 71 Brotherhoods participated this year.

The Brotherhoods publish a small monthly magazine, "The Jewish Layman," which contains news about the clubs and articles of Jewish import.

Various national committees endeavor to stimulate educational activities. Others are directing the attention of the local Brotherhoods to Social Service and to activities carried on in behalf of nearby university students.

The Brotherhood movement has been passing through a period of considerable expansion and membership committees have been very active.

The first day of Succoth, Saturday, Oct. 15th, will be observed as Children's Day with a special service in the Main Synagogue. This will be followed by a Succoth party and program in the Succah.

BAR-MITZVAH

On the second day of Succoth, Sunday, Oct. 16th, the Bar-Mitzvah of Joseph Weisman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Weisman, will be celebrated. The floral offering for that service is the gift of the parents. The congregation extends its congratulations.

INSTITUTE OF JEWISH STUDIES

A most extensive program of Jewish cultural activities will shortly be announced by the Institute of Jewish Studies. The various courses and lectures this year will bring to this community, scholars and lecturers of national fame. Because of the unusual offer, which the Institute is making this year and because the registration is so nominal, the committee has decided to limit the number of registration to 200, which is the comfortable seating capacity of the lecture hall.

GIFTS

The School Board has received the gift of one scholarship from Samuel Goldstein.

The Temple has received the gift of $20 from the Mothers' Club of last year's Confirmation Class.

MEN'S CLUB MEETS

The first Board meeting of the season of the Men's Club was held at the home of the President, Nat C. Cohen, last Thursday evening.

The President welcomed the Board Members, recalling the fact that at their closing meeting for the previous season they enjoyed a record-breaking attendance, the largest since their existence, and he further hoped that the meetings for the coming season would even surpass the previous attendance.

Arrangements have been made by Michael Tieman, chairman of the entertainment committee, to have some very fine entertainment and speakers of prominence to provide diversified programs for the meetings.

The first regular meeting of the season will be held Thursday, Oct. 20th. An interesting program has been arranged with the Hon. Harry Sandager as guest speaker. Mr. Sandager is an outstanding figure of prominence in the state and known for his keen sense of humor and interesting talks. At this meeting, the installation of officers by the Hon. Charles Brown, will take place.

The regular meetings of the Men's Club of Temple Emanu-El are to be held the third Thursday of every month.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE REPORT

A special committee was organized to work out arrangements for co-operation between the Home and the Jewish Family Welfare Society. After due deliberation, the committee has worked out a series of mutual agreement points, whereby all applications involving dependents would be handled in a manner that will be agreeable to both the Jewish Family Welfare Agency, as well as the Board of the Home.

George M. Cohan at Paramount Theatre

George M. Cohan, native son of Providence, and his cohorts, Claudette Colbert and Jimmy Durante, had a good time poking fun at the machinery of Presidential election yesterday at the Paramount Theatre, and a large audience, assembled for the opening of "The Phantom President," entered into the fun and had an even better time than the players.

"The Phantom President" is a rollicking comedy. To be sure, it has a few serious moments—Cohan is too consistent a flag-waver to be altogether facetious about anything pertaining to the national government. But for the most part, it has a wagish tongue in its cheek and when it gets around to campaign methods, launches into out-and-out burlesque.

In his first talking picture, Cohan plays a dual role, and plays it with the customary Cohan zest. On the one hand, he is the conservative Theodore K. Blair, financier and choice of a certain political boss, and his associates, as a candidate for President. On the other hand, he is Peter Varney, proprietor of enough personality to sell anything under the sun.

Boss Ronkton wants Blair to be President, but he knows that he can never be elected. A presidential candidate, says Ronkton, should be able to convince the men, win the women kiss the babies, play with the kids, and feed the horses. These things Blair cannot do. So when the Big Four, Ronkton and his three senatorial associates, see Varney's medicine show, they know they've found the way out. For Varney is a dead ringer for Blair and possesses all the qualifications that Blair lacks.

Ronkton convinces Varney that he will be performing a patriotic service by helping to elect Blair. So the campaign begins—Varney making all the public appearances, and Blair remaining secluded in his house. Not even Blair's butler can tell them apart; not even Felicia Hammont (Claudette Colbert, who had refused Blair's offer of marriage and falls in love with Varney. But Curly Cooney (Jimmy Durante), who had been Varney's assistant on the medicine show and who becomes his valet, has a good way of telling one from the other: Each morning he marks a V on the back of Varney's collar.

The country goes wild for Blair. His election is assured. And then, on the day before election, Varney overhears the Big Four and Blair discussing the allotment of the spoils and realizes that not only he, but the entire country, is being gypped. What happens when Varney breaks loose on his own provides an exciting denouement.

ROSH HASHONAH

The New Year services of the Temple this year were most impressive and thoroughly enjoyed by the congregation. The Temple was filled to capacity during the service.

An innovation this year was that instead of members of the board, a committee of ushers was organized by the Rabbi, comprised of Archie J. Chaset, Judah Greene, A. Cokin and Albert Hoffman. The four young men are members of the Temple Beth-Israel Council organized last year by the Rabbi. Because of the success of this experiment, the ushers will continue to function throughout the entire year on Friday evenings and holydays.
On the second day of Rosh Ha-shonah, just before the Tekioth, the Junior Congregation marched into the Temple under the supervision of Milton Scribner and Frank Licht. The Rabbi addressed them, explaining the meaning of the holiday as well as of the Shofar.

SABBATH SHUVAH

On both Friday evening and Saturday morning of Sabbath Shuvah, Cantor Schlossberg and Rabbi Mazure will officiate and preach the sermon, "Ad Interim." Parents are urgently requested to have their children attend the morning services.

YOM KIPPUR

For the convenience of those members who have not as yet obtained seats in the Temple for the Holydays, the High Holyday Committee, with Max Rosen, as chairman, will be in the Temple on Sunday afternoon, Erev Yom Kippur, between the hours of 2 to 5.

The Kol Nidre Services will begin at 5:45. Cantor Schlossberg and choir will chant the service. The Rabbi will preach on the subject, "The Supreme Message of the Day of Atonement." The morning services will begin at 8 o'clock. At 10:30, Memorial Services will be held, when all the names inscribed on the Memorial Board as well as the names on the Memorial Cards will be read off by the Rabbi during the Haskorath N'shomoth. The sermon delivered by the Rabbi immediately after the Memorial Service, will be "The Philosophy of Hope."

MEMORIAL CARDS

The Memorial Cards mailed to the members are to be filled out and returned to the Rabbi's office not later than Sunday morning. These names are to be read from the pulpit by the Rabbi during the Haskorath N'shomoth (Memorial Service), on Yom Kippur.

MEMORIAL BOARD

All the lights on the Memorial Board will be lighted during the Memorial Services on the Day of Atonement. Anyone who desires the name of a departed inscribed on the board should communicate immediately with the Chairman of the Memorial Board Committee, Morris Chusmir, or with the Rabbi.

SCHOOLS

Because this year the holidays fall on Saturdays and Sundays, the registration for the Religious School (Sunday School), will be completed on Sunday morning, Oct. 30th, between 10 and 12 o'clock. This will be the final date for registration as it is desired to open the school as early as possible.

The Hebrew School is already in session. New pupils may be registered daily except Friday and Saturday, between 4 and 7 o'clock.

SUCCOTH

The beautiful Succah, which was erected last year on the grounds of the Temple, will be duplicated again this year. It will be spacious enough to accommodate all the worshippers. The Succah will be decorated by the Sisterhood in the traditional manner with fruits and flowers.

Mrs. Leo Weiner and Mrs. Leo Bojar are in charge.

SISTERHOOD BALL

The Ball Committee, with Mrs. Arno Wrazlowsky, as Chairman, held its first meeting on Tuesday evening Oct. 4th, at the Temple, where plans were formulated for that event. The ball this year will take place on Nov. 10th, at the Narragansett Hotel Crystal Ball Room. Further details will be given later.

SISTERHOOD NOTES

The opening meeting of the Sisterhood was held in the Temple Parlors Wednesday evening, Oct. 5, with a very fine attendance. Mrs. Leo Weiner, presiding officer, welcomed those present.

The opening prayer was read by Mrs. S. Littman. Rabbi Mazure then greeted the Sisterhood and extended his best wishes for the coming year. Though commending the Sisterhood for past achievements, Rabbi Mazure urged the women to put in greater effort and seriousness in the work. Suggestions for the formation of a Bible Class was given by Rabbi Mazure and further particulars will be announced later. Reports were then rendered by the various standing chairmen.

Mrs. S. Deutsch, membership chairman, reported very good results in the collection of dues during the summer months and has already brought in several new members.

The hostesses were Mrs. Max Rosen and Mrs. James Goldman.

LEAGUE OF JEWISH WOMEN TO MEET AT TEMPLE

The Sisterhood will be hostess to the League of Jewish Women, who will hold an open meeting at the Temple on Monday afternoon, Nov. 28. Mrs. Archibald Silverman will be the speaker.

CULTURAL WORK

Plans are under way by the Chairman, Mrs. S. Littman, for a Current Event or Book Review Club. Anyone interested is urged to get in touch with the Rabbi or Mrs. Littman. More definite plans will be announced later.

Jewish Orphanage News

BOARD MEMBERS MEET

The October Executive Board meeting of the Jewish Orphanage of Rhode Island was held at the Home on Summit avenue, Wednesday evening, Oct. 5th, with President Walter I. Sundlun in charge. Ways and means of increasing membership in the Orphanage by people outside of Providence were discussed. Interest on the part of the state is most essential, if the Orphanage is to function as a state institution, in accord with its name and charter.

Through the courtesy of the Board of Directors of the Miriam Hospital and its Superintendent, Major Charles M. Hoffman, a tonsilectomy was performed on a recently admitted child to the Orphanage, and excellent care was afforded this little boy after the operation, as the Orphanage, of course, does not have as complete nursing facilities as does the Miriam Hospital.

CHILDREN ATTEND TEMPLE EMANU-EL SERVICES

The children of the Home were privileged to attend the beautiful and inspiring services at Temple Emanu-El during the New Year's Holidays and are also invited to participate in the Yom Kippur services at the Temple.

Arno Wrazlowsky has been acting Chairman of the House Committee of the Orphanage during James Goldman's visit to Europe. All details of the work of the Orphanage were thus kept up in every regard while Mr. Goldman was away. The Orphanage extends most cordial appreciation to Mr. Wrazlowsky for his fine work.

ORPHANAGE ROOMS RENOVATED

During the past few months, painting has been carried on at the Home by men sent by the Unemployment Relief Committee of the city, and a much-needed renovating of the dormitories, kitchen, etc., is being accomplished.

The Junior High School children of the Home attended the Marionette Show at the Nathan Bishop School on Tuesday, and compared their own work done during the summer with that seen at the school marionette performance.

A NEW RABBI

The election of Rabbi William G. Braude to take the place of Rabbi Samuel Gup is an important event in the community life of our city. The Temple Beth-El has for many years been our outstanding and representative house of Reform worship, and its Rabbis have been called on consistently to be the spokesmen of the Jewish people of the city. In his period of service, Rabbi Gup was able to establish a splendid reputation for co-operative ability among both Jews and Gentiles. His successor will not only be expected to continue his work, but he will be compelled to improve on whatever has been done to prove his own excellence.

Every new Rabbi has much to contend with in a new congregation. He may have an unbounded enthusiasm for his work, he may have made up his mind to think of Providence as the ideal city, he may be convinced that his congregation is unparalleled for generosity and intelligence; but indifference can dull enthusiasm, and Providence may begin to appear as stupid and provincial as those unfortunate people who make no effort to modernize themselves, and one's congregation may have prominent members who are thoughtless and selfish. Obviously, then, a congregation has as much significance at this time as regards future success as the new Rabbi.

Rabbi Braude will find the Temple Beth-El, his congregation, and our city, we hope, a constant source of joy and inspiration. We are proud to have in our midst a spiritual leader with such interesting background and with such thorough training. We have no doubt that he will prove a worthy and notable Rabbi; and we are equally confident that his fellow-Jews in Providence will give him every evidence of friendship and cooperation.

In our welcome to a new Rabbi, however, we make bold to declare our immediate friendship by the unequivocal statement that his work will be worthwhile only if he stands untiringly by many of the incomplete community tasks which lie waiting for him. Providence expects much of all its Rabbis. It expects much of Rabbi Braude. It asks him to arouse a sincere enthusiasm in our young people, both by personal contacts with them and by definite processes of religious education, it asks him to keep that enthusiasm alive while these young people are becoming men and women, and it begs that he rejuvenate the interest of those older men and women who have come to accept their religion smugly and carelessly, and forget that there are Jews in other places besides the weekly confines of Temple services. We welcome Rabbi Braude to Providence with a sincere and honest hope that he may be able to give us of himself continually. We know that in so doing he will achieve our good and his own happiness.

YOM KIPPUR—THE DAY OF ATONEMENT

On Monday, October 10th, the Jews will observe the Day of Atonement. This Holy Day is the most sacred and important in the Jewish calendar and is kept solemnly as a day of fasting and prayer by all the Jews of the world. It begins at sunset, Sunday night, October 9th, and ends with sun-down on the following day.

The Day of Atonement brings home with great emphasis and force the doctrine of sin and repentance, which is the basic principle of all religions. Just as the birth of the altruistic spirit marked the point of departure between man and animal, so the development of the doctrine of repentance marked a turning point in the history of the human race. Judaism has canonized this moment of history which saw the birth of new hope for human progress.

Judaism holds that man has the God-given power of repentance. Fate plays no part in man's life. The Day of Atonement gives eloquent testimony to this fundamental doctrine of Judaism, since it visualizes the fact that the doors of repentance are ever open.

The Day of Atonement is the supreme holy day of the Jewish religion. It touches the heart of all the Jews and exercises upon them an influence unapproached by any of their other important holy days. It is, above all others, the one day on which they lay aside their earthly affairs in the house of God amid fasting and prayer.

to tariffs of all kinds. I think they are immoral in the first place. Even their most ardent supporters admit that they can only work to your profit by choking and repressing the profit of the people of other countries.

But I am one of those who believe that they do not even work to your profit. I think that there is something incontestably wrong in any theory which says that it is to the advantage of a country, that its ships go loaded to other countries, with its products, and return empty. I can't see how ships coming back from Europe empty are going to do me any good. I know the explanations that are made to prove this theory, nevertheless, sound, but they don't explain. They violate plain ordinary horse sense. I agree with the late Israel Zangwill, who urged the general idea of burning down all custom houses.

Dictation and Style

Swope, former editor of the World, and F. P. A. of the Herald-Tribune, are in the midst of a heated debate. On the question whether good writing can be dictated.

Adams declares good writing cannot be dictated. Swope says it can. I incline to Adams' opinion, though I admit, that the ordinary newspaper and perhaps book writing can be dictated, but I cannot imagine the classics—the pearls of expression—being dictated.

I can imagine, for instance, Abraham Lincoln turning to his stenographer, who happened to be, I believe, the late John Hay, and saying to him "John take a letter," and then dictating the Gettysburg address. I imagine that part of it formed itself in Lincoln's head, as he was just getting out of bed—that another expression came to him, as he was wiping the egg of his breakfast off his chin. In such ways, does the creative spark work. You can't time-clock it or reduce it to the discipline of the business office.

And it is rather difficult to imagine William Shakespeare turning to a stenographer and saying, "Take a soliloquy, Helen," and then reeling off his "to be or not to be."

Lippmann and The Tribune

The New York Herald-Tribune presents a rather interesting situation. Ogden Mills, the publisher of that paper, is the Secretary of Treasury and spokesman of President Hoover, and the Herald-Tribune is regarded as the official mouthpiece of the President. Its editorials continually chant the defense of the Hoover administration.

Yet, it has a columnist, whom it not only features, but syndicates, named as you recall, Walter Lippmann. His column, which appears thrice a week, is non-partisan. Nevertheless, he has been far more severe on Hoover than on Roosevelt. And Lippmann can be very effective, indeed, when he criticizes. As a result the Herald-Tribune has been flooded with letters from many of its Hoover readers, protesting the appearance of the column. But Lippmann keeps right on criticizing and the Herald-Tribune keeps right on printing the criticisms. The other day, the Herald-Tribune printed a big batch of letters from its readers, many of them Hoover supporters, who urged the continuance of the column despite its attacks on Hoover. They all admitted that irrespective of their personal predilection for Hoover, they enjoyed Lippmann's column.

Mr. Winchell's Troubles

Another columnist has been having an experience. I refer to Winchell. His editor has just written a book with himself as the hero and Winchell as the villain.

Of course, he uses other names, but the masque is very transparent. He pictures the ruthlessness and unscrupulousness of the personal columnist, always bent on uncovering dirt, and his own superior and aesthetic revulsion to it—and then goes on to claim credit for the making of Winchell.

Newspaper reviews, as a whole, who know the insides, however, are disposed to be more favorable to Winchell than to his editorial critic. They point out that there has been a constant quarrel between Winchell and his editor, and some surmise that the editor may be just a little jealous of Winchell's rapid rise. It is hard to believe, but sometimes even editors are jealous.

To the Jewry of Rhode Island

(By MAX L. GRANT)

We have crossed the threshold of a New Year. New responsibilities, new dreams, new joys and possibly new tribulations are in store for us.

MAX L. GRANT

True to our heritage we shall face the future with renewed courage, resolution, determination and faith.

As a community we can take just pride in the realization that the orphan, the aged, the sick and the needy have not been neglected and though we have labored through most trying days we have not fallen short in our obligations to those of our brothers who are less fortunate than we.

I cannot neglect reminding the Rhode Island Jewry again of the fact that practically the entire support for the Jewish Orphanage, the Jewish Community Center, the Miriam Hospital, the North End Dispensary, the Jewish Family Welfare Society, as well as the Jewish Federation for Social Service is derived from the Providence Community Fund.

The doors of our Jewish institutions must remain open! We must feed the hungry, heal the sick and minister to the needs of those in distress. This necessary and happy condition can only be brought about by a whole-hearted support of the Providence Community Fund Campaign, which will take place shortly.

We cannot afford to take out from the Community Fund for our Jewish Institutions more money than the Jews of Rhode Island put into it.

Our Jewish pride must compel each and every one of us, regardless of these days of economic depression, regardless of the personal sacrifice entailed, to work for the success of the Community Fund Campaign and to contribute to our utmost capacity.

May I say to those who have had the patience to read these few words of mind thus far that in the many years of my experience in this community I know of no individual who has become rich on the savings he has made by refusing to give to charitable causes,—nor do I know of any individual who has become impoverished however generous he has been in meeting the demands of those less fortunate than he.

I do want to call to your attention this peculiar phenomenon that God seems to give more to those who give and to take from those who try to hold.

I am no rabbi nor the seventh son of a prophet, but I cannot help being thoroughly possessed of the feeling that some super-power, some supreme power blesses those who give and punishes those who do not.

I am very thankful to The Jewish Herald for the opportunity afforded me of extending greetings through the

Mrs. Sarah Markowitz Dies at Age of 112

Mrs. Sarah Markowitz, a resident at the Jewish Home for the Aged on Hillside Avenue, and said to have been 112 years old and the oldest resident of the state, died early Wednesday morning.

Although she had been unable to leave her bed for the past two years, Mrs. Markowitz was in almost full possession of her faculties until a few hours before her death. Her eyesight was slightly impaired, but she was able to recognize friends and to talk with them. Mrs. Markowitz entered the former Jewish Home on Orms street about seven years ago, and has been living in Providence for more than fifty years.

She is survived by four daughters and one son, Mrs. Rebecca Seigal, this city; Mrs. Leah Schwartz, Fall River; Mrs. L. Fuller, Philadelphia, another daughter in Roumania, and Isaac Markowitz of this city.

Funeral services were held Thursday morning from the home of Mr. Markowitz on Blackstone street, and interment was held in the Lincoln Park Cemetery. Rev. Keller officiated.

Peck Says Fuller Made Promise of Nomination of Governorship to Connolly

In regard to the controversy now existing between Lieutenant Governor Connolly and the State Republican Organization, in which the Lieutenant Governor says that promises made to him by William C. Pelkey and Frederick S. Peck were not kept, Mr. Peck made the following statement on Wednesday:

"Inasmuch as Lieutenant Governor Connolly, in a public address, has seen fit to criticize the financial policy of the state during the past fifteen years, which has brought to Rhode Island much distinction for the results attained, I feel that I should take some notice of his comments and conclusions.

"In the first place, it is unfortunate that, despite Mr. Connolly's participation in the State Government for the past four years, he has delayed the presentation of his fiscal theories, and his now present formula for financial administration, until he has found it convenient to construct a platform upon which he may hope to erect a home-made edifice for the advancement of his own personal political ambitions. Regretting, as I do, his attitude at this time, I feel it proper to refute his repeated charges about broken promises as to the Governorship, especially since he was quoted in Monday's newspapers as accusing me of not keeping my promise to support him for Governor this year. In all of my talks with Mr. Connolly upon the subject of the Governorship, never until the Friday before the State Committee session had either I or so far as I am informed, any of the State Organization Officers, or even of any of Mr. Connolly's Senate colleagues, ever heard from him the merest suggestion of the existence of any such promise for the nomination in 1932. Furthermore, at the conference in question, held in my office at the request of Mr. Fuller, when Mr. Connolly brought up the matter of a promise, and was questioned about it, he stated that Mr. Fuller of Pawtucket made the promise. Mr. Fuller then present, upon being asked about it, said that was given to understand in 1928 when Mr. Connolly was accorded the nomination for Lieutenant Governor, that Mr. Connolly would be the logical choice to succeed Governor Case. Then, when asked if any particular time was in mind for the execution of this understanding, he replied that although no time was stated, Mr. Connolly insisted that it must be this year because he couldn't afford to wait any longer. Since that time, Mr. Connolly has repeatedly reiterated his accusation, at times charging the organization. But now for the first time, he accuses me of failure to keep a promise. Encouraged by the silence of others, he now makes bold to question my honesty. Mr. Connolly knows that I made him no promise and no longer than a month ago he acknowledged it before witnesses.

"Some of Mr. Connolly's ingenious propositions made in the presence of others during the last month, in order that the way might be cleared for the nomination he desires, might not do credit to the impression which now may prevail so far as Mr. Connolly is concerned. But it is not my intention at this time to specify just what I mean.

"As to Mr. Connolly's suggestion that the office of Commissioner of Finance be made an elective one, he knows as well as many other persons, that for two years I have been most desirous of being relieved of that particular task, and my only reason for remaining was a desire to stand by in the present economic crisis.

"Inasmuch as Mr. Connolly as City Solicitor of Pawtucket, has not seen fit to exert his influence in the municipal affairs of that city by advocating and putting into execution the theories, financial and otherwise he now expounds, I might say that it comes with poor grace for him to attempt to bolster his own cause by mere carping criticism of an administration of which for four years he has been a component part."

NEWS WRITTEN FOR THE JEWISH HERALD by GEORGE JOEL

HAKOAH COMMENCES SOCCER SEASON

Getting off to an auspicious and entirely satisfactory start, the 1932-33 Hakoah professional soccer team opened the competition in the re-organized American Soccer League by defeating the Brooklyn Wanderers 2-1 in a game played at Brooklyn before 2000 soccer-hungry fans. The Hakoah line-up was almost entirely new and carried a few suspiciously non-Jewish names. The line-up was Aronauer, Auerbach, Liss, Slone, Abrahams, the Breitbart brothers, Haeusler, Trumbull, Gross and Rattner. Liss and Trumbull accounted for the Hakoah tallies.

Of course it is too early to predict what the fate of Hakoah will be this season, but from all signs it looks as though the Jewish team will have a much stronger squad than last year.

THE OMNIBUS OF SPORT

I don't know how you feel about it, but I am an addict to sport stories; imagine my delight when I received a fat volume from Harper's titled, "The Omnibus of Sport," edited by Grantland Rice and Harford Powel. This thick and imposing book contains hundreds of stories culled from the literature of all times and by a varied collection of authors from Homer to Lardner.

The book is arranged in sections, each dealing with another sport and includes modern as well as ancient games. To pick out the high spots is impossible, but it is sufficient to say that there is material for all of you who like to read about sport in its active form. The price is a trifle high—$3.50—but it's worth it as you will find enough reading matter for a month. The only thing the book lacks is an index.

FRIEDMAN'S FOOTBALL TEAM OPENS SEASON

Benny Friedman took his professional football team over to Passaic, N. J., last week and opened the professional football season. Unfortunately the going was rough and the best the Friedman team could do was tie the local club. There was no scoring. Benny played but a few minutes in each quarter. The star of the game was Jack Grossman, former Rutgers player. Besides Grossman and Friedman, the third Jew on the squad is Mielziner, who played center. This bulky person was a former Carnegie Tech center, a Cleveland boy, who has known Friedman since his childhood days. On the Passaic team, Levitz, former Lehigh star, and Halpern were the Jewish entries.

Now that the college season has gotten underway it behooves this column to do some guessing as to what might happen. At Columbia, where Phil Levine will get the call as first string center, the boys are pointing for the Princeton game, with the outlook a hard choice. I'm inclined to pick Columbia, but a new coach at Princeton and a big squad will make a difference. The Tigers can't possibly be as bad as they were last season.

Up at Colgate they are getting ready for New York University and it looks like the Maroons will put the Violet in the red. At the local school Itzkowitz will play in the line and Grossman in the backfield, while Bob Samuels will call signals for Colgate.

Things at Harvard are not so crimson or rosy. Myerson has graduated, and Kopans, who did so well last season, is on the ineligible list. If he can work off his academic backwardness it will strengthen the Harvard line, no end.

CHATTERINGS

Lee Rosenberg, whose lone horse, Kerry Patch, won the Futurity, is the first owner who is not a millionaire to win that classic turf fixture in 17 years. A Jewish gentleman of modest mien he is a cotton broker. Besides his interest in horses he raises dahlias for a hobby. The day after his horse won the Futurity he was still so excited that he went to the stables and had his breakfast served along with the steed's oats. No—he didn't have oatmeal, but if he thought it would make his horse run any faster, he'd eat the horse's food raw. It was Rosenberg's first important win and has convinced him that cotton brokering is tame stuff.

Mrs. Norman Goldberger, who last year was the medalist and semi-finalist in the New Jersey State Golf Championship for Women, caught a tartar in the second round of this year's tourney and went down to defeat. Her victorious opponent was Mrs. F. A. Neuberger of Hackensack.

Another upset was supplied by Mrs. H. D. Wimpfheimer of Hollywood, who eliminated the favorite of the tourney in the second round.

Maxie Baer, now considered the coming heavyweight, plays a game of billiards each night before retiring. He believes that is good training for boxing. It would be much better if he could bring a cue into the ring with him. . . . The National Boxing Association rated Baer as one of the five best heavyweights.

At Wisconsin, where Coach Spears is doing the directing, Captain Greg Kabat was shifted from tackle to quarterback and Charlie Goldenberg, blocking quarter these past two seasons, was moved into a tackle position. . . . Leo Samuelson, veteran tackle of the Iowa team, is out with a bad knee.

ODD FACTS

The reason the bout between Schmeling and Walker was postponed a short time ago, is because Walker has "Tender Eyebrows," what a grand title for a very modern book and what a strange thing for a prize fighter to acquire—perhaps he contracted it through continuous eyebrow raising at the remarks passed about his marital problems.

Golf professionals say that the old adage about a good big man being better than a good little man, does not apply to golf. It isn't the brawn behind a shot that makes it go places but the timing.

Of course, Somerville, the recent amateur golf champ, is not one of us. Did you see his picture?

If the Yankee-Cubs game at the Yankee Stadium was a sellout, the house will gross $243,000 for one game. What a lot of beer Mr. Rupert could make with that.

Brown Team Meets Springfield Saturday

With a satisfactory 19 to 0 score chalked up for the Rhode Island game, Brown turned to preparation for the Springfield game, determined to avenge the 7 to 6 set-back that the Bay State gave the Bruin when last they met in 1929. All of the Brown players came through the Rhode Island game without injuries, and except for a few bruises, the men were all in fine condition for the work ahead.

While there were numerous flaws in execution in the opening game against Rhode Island, there were many satisfying factors. "Tuss" McLaughry played 38 men, including every available man on the squad, and many of the Sophomores did fine work in their initial drive in each of the four periods, indicating a consistency of punch despite the frequent changes that were made in the line-up, and three of the four drives resulted in touchdowns.

McLaughry and his aides leveled their criticism on the work of the guards and the down-the-field work of the ends, and the blocking of the backs, and all of the work through the early part of this week will be centered to the correction of the mistakes that cropped up in those three departments of play.

The starting combination showed the greatest power, and McLaughry will probably hold those men together as a starting group for the Springfield game. Jim Patton, veteran guard, who was injured in scrimmage a week ago, and who wasn't available for work Saturday, will probably be available for work Saturday, so he'll displace John Sayward who was moved up to fill the vacancy.

But the team of Frank Meadow and Malcolm Ball, ends; the Brown brothers, Roland and Larry, tackles; Arthur King and Patton or Sayward, guards; Tom Gilbane, center; Bob Chase, quarterback; Eddie Gilmartin and Penn Hargrove, halfbacks, and Capt. Bill Gilbane, fullback, enjoys a rating over every other combination, and they'll work intact through this week.

Joe Buonanno, reserve quarterback, did a fine job Saturday, and he and Chase will alternate in directing the team. Gilmartin returned to the lineup Monday, and will be back in his post a right halfback all this week, and he'll probably be available for play Saturday.

McLaughry held two hard scrimmage sessions this week, and considerable time was given to assignment scrimmage and block work.

A Message to the Jewish Women of Rhode Island by the President of the Miriam Hospital Association, Mrs. Charles C. Brown

There has long been an urgent need for an appeal and a heart-to-heart talk with the Jewish women of our community in reference to the social service department of the Miriam Hospital Association.

To begin with, I wonder how many are acquainted with the kind of work this association is carrying on outside of the hospital proper.

Ever since this association was organized we have provided medical and dental attention, medicines, glasses, crutches, braces, invalid chairs, corsets, special shoes and various appliances to any needy person. These cases receive prompt attention through our social service chairman and her committee in a most efficient and quiet manner. No names of the recipients are mentioned before the body at large. The cases are recorded by number. We have also had many convalescent cases which necessitated sending patients out of the city for several weeks. We hope at some future time to have a convalescent home where those requiring it might have the necessary care.

Through our membership dues of $3 annually we have been able to render this most valued service to our community and hope to be able to continue this worthy work as long as there is a need for it.

I will not attempt at this time to outline the service we are rendering to the Miriam Hospital proper.

There has been a little misunderstanding ever since the Miriam Hospital joined the Providence Community Fund whereby our association membership has suffered numerically to a certain degree. The social service we are rendering is independent of the hospital and is not included in the Community Fund. It is therefore most urgent that we have the support of every Jewish woman to help those who are less fortunate. These are times for sacrifices. Let us start the New Year with new vigor and determination to serve humanity. Some members have been delinquent for several years. Our membership chairman is eager to start a clean slate as we will forget the past and start anew.

Our fiscal year starts in January. We urgently hope that when you are called upon by one of the committee you will co-operate by giving us your valued membership so that we may continue to carry on.

Through the courtesy of The Jewish Herald I wish to extend to our members and friends most cordial greetings for the New Year.

Reminiscence by Mrs. Harry Parvey on Dr. Henry Englander's Visit Here

The presence in our midst of that distinguished scholar and Rabbi, Dr. Henry Englander, has brought back memories of twenty-five years ago to the many people of Providence. It was most touching to see the depth of affection his coming evoked in the hearts of his former congregation.

The years slipped rapidly away and we were carried back to a scene in the old Eempire Theatre, where a public meeting was held. Perhaps the following note, which appeared in the Providence Journal several months ago, will recall this scene:

"Twenty-five years ago in Rhode Island, a public meeting was held by the Miriam Association in the Empire Theatre, to launch a Jewish Hospital.

"Harry Cutler was chairman, and the speakers included Governor Higgins, Mayor McCarthy, Rabbi Henry Englander and Rabbi Israel Rubenstein."

Beth-El Sisterhood Will Sew for Jewish Family Welfare Society

At its first meeting Monday afternoon, the Sisterhood of Temple Beth-El opened the program of winter activity by arranging for a sewing circle to sew for the Jewish Family Welfare Society, with Mrs. Moses Einstein, as Chairman.

In her opening message, Mrs. George J. Nathanson, the President, reminded her fellow members of their responsibility to the community, as workers among Israel and American women. In response a group of the Sisterhood will form a team to help Mrs. Adolph Meller, who has been appointed one of the captains of the Community Chest, and the entire organization agreed to sponsor the concerts of the Providence Symphony Orchestra, in support of the members of the Sisterhood, who are Mrs. Harry Parvey and Mrs. Joseph B. Webber, members of the Women's Committee, for the concerts.

Mrs. Lester Summerfield made a donation to the Happy Day and Memory Fund.

It was announced that 18 college students attended services during the Holy Days. Mrs. Leo Logan, chairman of programs, appointed the following members to comprise her committee: Mrs. Charles C. Brown, Mrs. Samuel Colitz, Mrs. Samuel Markoff, Mrs. Harry Parvey and Mrs. Nathanson, ex-officio.

The new Rabbi of Temple Beth-El, Rabbi William Braude, and Dr. Harry Englander, for many years Rabbi of the Synagogue, and for the last 22 years a member of the faculty of the Hebrew Union College, were the speakers of the afternoon. Dr. Englander's address was on the subject of influence of women in the Bible. Many of the women in his audience were his former pupils in the Sunday School.

Tea was served after the program from a table arranged with fall flowers. Mrs. Frank Bernstingle, chairman, was assisted in serving by Mrs. Milton Fuld, Mrs. Irving Shine, Mrs.

Milton Tucker, Mrs. Herbert B. Caffrey and Mrs. Henry Ehrlich.

Mrs. Jack Davis was in charge of home-made cakes and jellies, which were on sale during the afternoon.

The Sisterhood was hostess at a reception to the congregation Friday night given subsequent to the installation services of Rabbi Braude in the Temple.

Mrs. A. Silverman to be Feted at Reception by Y. W. H. A., Oct. 19

On Wednesday evening, Oct. 19th, Mrs. Archibald Silverman, internationally known Zionist leader, well-known locally and a member of the Jewish Community Center, will be given a "welcome home" reception at an open meeting of the Young Women's Hebrew Association, to be held in the Community Center. Mrs. Silverman will speak on "Seven Years' Progress in Palestine," from where she has just returned after a six months' stay and has many wonderful tales of achievements in the Jewish Homeland.

The musical program will be furnished by the Woonsocket Choral Society, under the direction of Prof. Anshel Heuberg, with Mrs. Celia Epstein, as accompanist. The choir is composed of 32 mixed voices.

In order to accommodate the large audience expected, the meeting will be held in the gymnasium. Members of the "Y" and Center may invite guests to listen to Mrs. Silverman and to meet her after the meeting. A reception in the main building will follow the program.

At a meeting of the Y. W. Board, held under the chairmanship of Mrs. Joseph J. Seefor last Monday evening, plans were made for the season. Mrs. Seefor appointed the following committee chairmen: Sunshine, Belle Temkin; Membership, Mary Simon; Hikes, Idah Snell; Publicity, Rose Singer; Reference, Ida Rubinstein, Rose Snell and Ethel Levine. The Y. W. promises an unusually active season.

Order's completion of its ninth decade.

Special meetings, featuring programs of Jewish music, written or oratorical accounts of the Order's rich history and achievements, and reviews of American Jewish history generally since 1843, will be held, and in all cases will be community events, open to the public in approximately 400 cities, towns and villages.

Special membership drives will be held to induct "Ninetieth Anniversary Classes" into the Order, and the total membership of B'nai B'rith is expected to be appreciably swelled in this manner.

At the end of September and the beginning of October, the eight B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations re-opened in as many universities. The one at the University of Illinois will be starting its ninth year of existence, while the ones at the Universities of Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio State, Cornell West Virginia, Texas and California will be celebrating their birthdays, pioneer was shipped for interment in Palestine with whose modern development he is closely linked following public services on Monday afternoon at the Riverside Memorial Chapel, under the auspices of the Zionist Organization of America.

Seven hundred Jews, including representatives of scores of New York and national Jewish organizations, participated in the services.

Rabbi I. H. Levinthal of the Brooklyn Jewish Center conducted the religious services. Eulogies were delivered by Morris Rothenberg, President of the Zionist Organization of America, who was the principal speaker; Louis Lipsky, National Chairman of the American Palestine Campaign; Abraham Goldberg, speaking for the Histadruth Ivrit; Dr. Chaim Greenberg, representing the Poale Zion, and David Pinski, Jewish author.

After the services, a police escort accompanied the funeral procession to the Holland Tunnel enroute to Jersey City. The cortege was met by a motorcycle escort of the Jersey City police department, which led the way to the steamer pier in Jersey City.

Mr. Rothenberg described the late Professor Schatz as "an extraordinary man, a great Jew, a distinguished artist, and a creative spirit. Boris Schatz was one of the pioneers of the modern Jewish Renaissance, one of the first champions of and spokesmen for political Zionism."

Professor Schatz died in Denver, Colo., in March following an operation. The body was embalmed and held in a vault in Denver pending completion of arrangements for the shipment of his body for interment in Palestine in accordance with his own wishes and that of his family.

which range from eight to three years.

At the same time, B'nai B'rith's Junior Order, the Aleph Zadik Aleph, will launch its ninth year of activity. This fraternity, whose ideals and purposes are similar to those of the Hillel Foundations, is for Jewish non-college boys of from 16 to 21 years of age. Started eight years ago in Omaha, Neb., with a single chapter, it today has some 160 chapters with an American and Canadian membership exceeding 3000.

New Year Greetings

Editor, The Jewish Herald:—

I take pleasure in extending through your columns New Year's Greetings from the National Ladies' Auxiliary, Jewish War Veterans of the United States, to the Jewish people of Providence, and my sisters and comrades of the Rhode Island Post, No. 23.

One of the objects of our organization is to bring relief to veterans in distress. I would appreciate any information regarding veterans requiring relief.

I wish to take this opportunity of thanking The Jewish Herald and their staff for their courteous service extended to me as Calendar Chairman for the League of Jewish Women's Organizations.

ETHEL J. COHEN, National President, Ladies' Auxiliary Jewish War Veterans of United States

Editor, The Jewish Herald:—

It is with a great deal of satisfaction that we enter into the New Year, for as we look back upon the work of the Jewish Club Women of Providence, we feel happy in their many accomplishments and the important part they are taking in promoting the welfare of our people, each and everyone meeting every need and answering every appeal with unlimited energy and strength of purpose. And now that we are united as the League of Jewish Women's Organizations, with better understanding, each lending to the other inspiration, encouragement and support, we hope that in the strength of our unity we may raise the standard of Jewish womanhood to the highest ideals so that we may better serve our people.

We take this opportunity to thank The Jewish Herald for their co-operation and help they have rendered our many organizations. Wishing you continued success and to you and to all people, a Happy New Year.
