

Joseph W. Ress To Succeed Henry Hassenfeld As GJC Head

Joseph W. Ress, one of the founders of the General Jewish Committee of Providence, has been nominated for president of the GJC for 1960-61.

Mr. Ress heads the slate of new officers to be presented for approval by Bertram L. Bernhardt, chairman of the nominating committee, to the 15th annual meeting on May 16.

The highlight of the meeting to be held at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel will be the election and installation of new officers. Mr. Ress will succeed Henry J. Hassenfeld, who is completing his fifth term as GJC president.

Because of the by-laws of the GJC which state that no officer, except the board of directors, may hold office for more than five consecutive years, there also will be several changes of other officers in addition to the presidency.

Ira S. Galkin, Merrill L. Hassenfeld, Joseph K. Levy and Max Winograd are new nominees for the posts of vice presidents. Sidney A. Kane was renominated for the remaining position of vice president. Arthur J. Levy, secretary from 1950 to 1955, has again been nominated for that position. Judge Frank Licht has been nominated for treasurer.

Mr. Hassenfeld will be elevated to the rank of honorary president, joining Archibald Silverman and Alvin A. Sopkin.

Joseph Galkin is executive director of the General Jewish Committee, a post he has held since the organization's founding in 1945.

At present a vice president of the GJC, Mr. Ress has been active in the organization since its inception fifteen years ago as a permanent central group for fund-raising and community planning. He served as campaign chairman from 1950 to 1953. He is past president of the Miriam Hospital. A graduate of Brown University and Harvard Law School, Mr. Ress is a trustee of Brown University.

To Hold Regional Bible Contest At Annual Inter-School Festival

The Rhode Island Regional Bible Contest will be held this Sunday at 10 A. M. at the Annual Inter-School Festival at Hope High School auditorium. The winner of this contest will represent Rhode Island Jewish schools at the national contest to be held in June in New York city, under the auspices of the Jewish Agency, Department of Education. Three top winners in the local contest will be awarded prizes by the Hebrew Scholarship Fund. Rabbi Saul Leeman, chairman of the Rabbinical Association Bible Reading project, will direct the Bible Contest on Sunday.

This is the eighth Inter-School Festival sponsored by the School Council and the Bureau of Jewish Education to which Jewish schools in all of Rhode Island and nearby communities are invited. Over a thousand students are expected to attend the program, which is devoted to the theme of the 12th anniversary of Israel Independence and to the 100th anniversary of the birth of Herzl.

Cantor Jacob Hohenemser will conduct community singing. The Beth El dance group will participate in the program and the "Haverim" singing group of the Noar Ivri will offer selections.

Rabbi Akiva Egozi, chairman of the School Council will officiate at the program. Alter Boyman, president of the Bureau, will bring greetings.

Each of the schools will have reserved sections for seating their students. There will be a number of rows set aside for parents and others in the community interested in attending the program. The community is invited to attend.

Nominate Irving Jay Fain For Presidency Of Beth El

Bertram L. Bernhardt will retire as president of Temple Beth El, after serving for five years, at the 105th Annual Meeting of the Congregation of the Sons of Israel and David (Temple Beth El) which will be held Sunday evening at 8 P. M., in the Temple Meeting Hall. A congregational supper will precede the Meeting.

The Board of Trustees has recommended Mr. Bernhardt's election as an honorary Life Trustee.

The nominating committee has submitted the following slate of officers and trustees: Irving Jay Fain, president; Walter Adler, first vice-president; Dr. Samuel Pritzker, second vice-president; Kenneth Logowitz, treasurer; Benjamin F. Ruttenberg, financial secretary; Mrs. Walter J. Nelson, recording secretary.

Trustees for Three Years are: Mrs. Bertram L. Bernhardt, Herbert J. Cohen, Joseph M. Finkle, Bert Fortlouis, Charles J. Fox, Hyman S. Goodwin, Maurice W. Hendel, Robert Hochberg, Howard

Allocations totaling nearly half a million dollars have been approved by the Board of Directors of the General Jewish Committee of Providence.

The $491,840 in grants for the 56 beneficiary agencies of the General Jewish Committee were approved unanimously by the Board of Directors at a meeting on April 20. Four new agencies receiving grants totalling $750 were admitted to the General Jewish Committee this year. The allocations are from funds pledged in the 1959 campaign.

The largest grant, $322,500, was to the United Jewish Appeal. This represents an increase of $22,500 over last year. Of this allocation, the sum of $277,000 is the regular grant to the UJA and $45,500 is for the Emergency Rescue Fund.

Seventeen agencies received increases this year with the remainder receiving the same amounts as last year. The only agency receiving a decrease this year was the Providence Hebrew Sheltering Society and this was due to a revision in the organization's operational structure.

Major increases for local agencies went to the Jewish Community Center and the Bureau of Jewish Education. An increase of $3,500 was allocated to the Jewish Community Center for its East Side and South Providence branches to bring its total allocation to $41,350.

The allocation for the Bureau of Jewish Education was increased $2,750 for a total grant of $33,750. The additional funds will be used primarily to provide larger grants to Hebrew schools and to increase enrollment and educational standards of the schools.

Obituary

HERMAN WENKART

Funeral services for Herman Wenkart, 67, of 191 Morris Avenue, a lawyer and accountant, who died April 20, were held April 22 at the Max Sugarman Memorial Chapel. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

Before coming to this city 20 years ago, he had practiced law in Vienna for 15 years. For the past 12 years, he had been a self-employed accountant and auditor. He was the husband of Rachela (Stein) Wenkart.

Born in Poland in 1892, he was a son of the late Solomon and Deborah Wenkart. He was a graduate of the University of Vienna Law School and was given his doctor of laws degree there.

He was decorated for bravery while serving with European forces during World War I.

A member of Temple Beth El, he also belonged to the Farband Labor Zionists, the Rhode Island Association of Public Accountants, and was recording secretary of the Rhode Island Selfhelp.

Besides his wife, survivors are two daughters, Mrs. Henry David Epstein of Cambridge, Mass., and Mrs. Louis Chiaramonte of New York City; two brothers, Dr. Simon Wenkart of New York City and Ignaz Wenkart of Providence, and two grandchildren.

MRS. ISAAC COKIN

Funeral services for Mrs. Annie (Dropkin) Cokin, 72, wife of Isaac Cokin, of 686 East Avenue, Pawtucket, who died Sunday after a long illness, were held Tuesday at the Max Sugarman Memorial Chapel. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

Born in Russia in 1888, daughter of the late Elya and Esther Dropkin, she had been a resident of Pawtucket for 55 years.

She was a member of Congregation Ohawe Sholam of Pawtucket, a life member of Hadassah and a member of the Miriam Hospital Association, the Jewish Home for the Aged and the Brandeis University Women's Club.

Besides her husband she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. William Fellner of Pawtucket; a son, Louis Cokin of Pawtucket; a brother, Morris Dropkin of New York City, and five grandchildren.

MRS. MORRIS SILVERSTEIN

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah (Schrieber) Silverstein, 74, widow of Morris Silverstein, who died April 23 after a long illness, were held Sunday at the Max Sugarman Memorial Chapel. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

She was born in Waterbury, Conn., a daughter of the late David and Anna Schrieber. A graduate of the Waterbury public schools, she had been a resident of Providence for 40 years.

She was saleswoman in the women's department at the Kennedy Stores for five years until her retirement six months ago because of illness. She was a member of the Women's Zionist Organization.

She is survived by a son, Joseph J. Scholter of Cranston; a brother, Louis Schrieber of Providence, and a sister, Mrs. Esther Lieberman of Pittsburgh.

MRS. SAM AZROFF

Funeral services for Mrs. Ida (Latt) Azroff, 67, wife of Sam Azroff, of 266 Warrington Street, who died unexpectedly Sunday, were held Monday at the Max Sugarman Memorial Chapel. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

Mrs. Azroff was born in Latvia and had been a resident of Providence for 40 years. She was a member of the Miriam Hospital Association.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Nathan Chaiken of Providence and Mrs. Irving Garrick of Cranston; a son, Arthur Azroff of Cranston; a sister, Mrs. David Rosenberg of Providence, and six grandchildren.

MORRIS LEVITEN

Funeral services for Morris Leviten, 59, of 31 Milton Street, Fall River, who died suddenly on April 23, were held the following day at Temple Beth El in Fall River.

The husband of Mrs. Rebecca (Chervinsky) Leviten, he was co-founder and treasurer of the Great Scott Food Markets of Providence. Son of the late Harry and Mary Leviten, he had been a resident of Fall River for 58 years.

Mr. Leviten was a former Republican alderman in Fall River in 1927 and was a member of the board of directors of Temple Beth El in Fall River. He was a member of the Mount Hope Lodge AF & AM of Fall River Consistory, Aleppo Temple Shrine Temple of Boston and various Jewish philanthropic organizations.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two sons, David of Fall River and Paul Leviten of Providence; a brother, Sam Leviten of Fall River; two sisters, Mrs. Abraham Portnoy of New Bedford, Mass., and Mrs. Ralph Feinstein of Providence, three grandchildren.

SAMUEL BORNSTEIN

Funeral services for Samuel Bornstein, 70, of 83 Pekin Street, proprietor of a grocery and variety store at 162 Carpenter Street and previously a partner in the Rhode Island Pants Company, Weybosset Street, who died April 21 after a long illness, were held Sunday at the Max Sugarman Memorial Chapel. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

The husband of Ethel R. (Mistofsky) Bornstein, he was born in Austria in 1889, a son of the late Morris and Minnie Bornstein. He had resided in this city for the last 48 years.

Mr. Bornstein was a member of the Young People's Beneficial Association.

Besides his widow, he is survived by a son, Dr. Marshall K. Bornstein of Warwick, and three grandchildren.

Card of Thanks

The family of the late FRED SILVERMAN acknowledges with appreciation the many expressions of sympathy received during their recent loss.

First Child Born

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Aronson of 106 East Manning Street announce the birth of their first child, a son, Howard Scott, on March 30. Mrs. Aronson is the former Doris Nancy Silverman.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Silverman of Pawtucket. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Aronson of Providence. Great-grandparents are Mrs. Morris Kolikof of Brighton, Mass., and Mrs. Hyman Aronson of Roxbury, Mass.

Torman-Benjamin

Miss Maxine Benjamin, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Bernard H. Benjamin of 765 Newport Avenue, South Attleboro, Mass., became the bride of Herman Robert Torman, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Torman of 58 Netherlands Avenue, Cranston, at a 6:30 P. M. ceremony held at the Crestwood Country Club on April 3. Rabbi Aaron Goldin and Rabbi Isadore Pockholtz officiated at the ceremony which was followed by a reception at the club.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Julia Benjamin, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Irwin Kaplan, sister of the bride, was matron of honor.

Samuel Torman was best man. Ushers were Frank Horowitz, Merrill Temkin, Edward Siegel, Herbert Katz, Larry Fine and Dr. Irwin Kaplan. Lane Mitchel Kaplan was ring bearer.

After a wedding trip to Nassau and the Bahamas the couple will reside at 14 Nancy Street, Pawtucket.

To Become Bas Mitzvah

Seven girls will become Bas Mitzvah at the services at Temple Beth Israel on Friday, May 6, at 8 o'clock.

The girls are Suzanne Berk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Berk; Marcia Goldberg, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Goldberg; Hillary Miller, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Miller; Cindy Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. Lewis Snyder; Donna Stein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stein; Rena Weisman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Weisman; Carol Zimberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Zimberg.

A Kiddush and Oneg Shabbat will be given by the parents of the girls to the congregation following the services.

Progress Report On Bond Campaign To Be Made Monday

A progress report of the 1960 Israel Bond campaign will be made at a meeting of all Israel Bond volunteers on Monday at 8 P. M. in the board of directors room of the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel. The meeting will also initiate a 30 day period of intensive campaigning, commencing May 2, to achieve maximum Israel Bond sales.

The May 2 date marks a triple anniversary in modern Jewish history. It is the twelfth anniversary of the establishment of Israel as an independent sovereign state. It is the ninth anniversary of David Ben-Gurion's first visit to the United States as Prime Minister, and it is the 100th anniversary of the birth of Dr. Theodor Herzl, known as the "Founder of Modern Zionism."

Twenty-four members of the National Sponsors of Israel were enrolled at a luncheon on April 2 at the home of Mrs. Max Alperin. Mrs. Jan Pearce, national chairman of the Women's Division for State of Israel Bonds and wife of the Metropolitan Opera tenor, presented the Sponsors with specially designed pins in the shape of a menorah. Mrs. Philip Dorenbaum, Sponsor chairman, announced that $29,400 in Israel Bonds were purchased at the luncheon.

Members of the Diplomat Ball Host and Hostess Committee met on April 25 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph K. Levy, Ball chairman. In order for guests' names to appear in the Ball souvenir Program, reservations accompanied by subscription checks must be received no later than May 13.

The 1960 Israel Bond campaign in Rhode Island is part of the world wide effort to attain more than $75,000,000 in Bond sales, to assist Israel in her program of economic development.

Broadman-Kaplan

At a seven o'clock candlelight ceremony at Temple Emanuel, on Sunday, April 3, Miss Sandra Ruth Kaplan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Kaplan of 11 Methyll Street, became the bride of Mr. Ira Sanford Broadman, son of Mrs. Mollie Broadman of 231 Albany Avenue, Kingston, N. Y., and the late Mr. Louis Broadman. Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen officiated, assisted by Cantor Jacob Hohenemser.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a Chantilly lace gown with a tucked, fitted bodice, portrait neckline, bouffant skirt, and cathedral train. Her silk illusion fingertip veil fell from a crown of orange blossoms. She carried a Bible marked with an orchid and stephanotis.

The maid of honor, Miss Tobie Kaplan, sister of the bride, was attired in a blue and white silk dress and carried a cascade of white and blue gardenias. Mrs. Norman Gessman and Mrs. Paul Morgenstern, sisters of the bride, were matrons of honor. Their gowns were of blue silk, and they carried cascades of blue and white gardenias.

Sheldon E. Rodman was best man, and the ushers were Marvin Eisenstadt, Norman Gessman, Philip Jagolinzer and Paul Morgenstern.

Following a wedding trip to The Concord, Klamesha Lake, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Broadman will reside in Kingston, N. Y.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

by Sylvia Porter

'Supermarket' Of Florida Land

Miami Beach—Only a couple of years ago, Joseph L. Morse, editor in chief of Funk & Wagnall's Encyclopedia, would have laughed off a proposition that he dispose of his carefully selected holdings of Florida land at anything except fat profits. He was an independent operator, confident that on his own he could make his shrewd speculations in big pieces of land in this state of fabulous boom pay off.

This past week, Morse formally turned over all his land to a newly formed giant corporation called Major Realty in return for bonds and shares of stock in the company. He has joined 880 other individuals who have put properties estimated at $25,000,000 into a unique "Supermarket" created specifically to sell off the properties scientifically to builders. The obvious bet of Morse and the other individuals is that they'll make more by owning shares in a large real estate corporation than by trying under today's increasingly tough competitive conditions in Florida to sell their own tracts of land profitably.

What the 880 did last week symbolizes the opening of a new era in the development of this modern frontier state.

It will be an era in which great areas of still undeveloped Florida land will be "wholesaled" to builders by giant organizations. It will be an era in which the independent boom-or-bust "retail" speculator in land will fade into the background. Hopefully, it will be an era in which the land organizations will contribute to a more stable, sounder growth of the state by offering informed guidance on everything from location to financing to those who will be building Florida's future industrial and commercial centers, cities and suburbs.

To a native New Yorker, a frontier state has almost a hypnotic fascination. Just since World War II—only 15 years—Florida has roared through transitions that in most areas would take a half-century.

First—in the mid-40's—came the speculators in pure land, big and small. They broke up the large tracts, sold off blocks at profits ranging to colossal percentages. Their era was one of fabulous gambling and what planning or building they did was haphazard.

Then—in the mid-50's—came the great building companies set up to create whole communities out of swamps and land. In this group belong such nationally-famous corporations as General Development, Arvida, Lefcourt. Their era has been (and is) one of actual building of residential and industrial centers, and they have helped spur an immense migration, particularly of older citizens, to Florida.

New—in the early 60's—come the land "wholesalers," organizations whose sole purpose is to gather up land from individuals and syndicates, to consolidate the properties into "supermarkets," then to sell off the land for building purposes. If Major Realty is an indication of the future, as top Florida planners think it is, some of the state's leading names will be consolidating their land holdings into corporations which in turn will manage sales to developers. (Among those putting big cash into Major Realty are George Friedland, director of Food Fair Stores, Nathan Cummings, chairman of Consolidated Food Corp., David Nemerov, former chairman of Russeks Department Store in New York.)

As Major Realty's executive vice-president, Milton Smith, put it when I interviewed him on the new corporation, "Florida's development now must be more efficiently planned and its builders must be given more guidance on engineering, financing, merchandising. This is where we come in. We're not speculators in land. We're not builders. We're trail-blazing as wholesalers of properties of all types to builders."

The era of the independent land speculator and in-and-out builder in Florida is passing. In the cycle now opening, the big-time operator will be obviously dominant and what he'll have above all else is: KNOWHOW.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Like A Potato

BY BERYL SEGAL

The story is told of a question put to Ben Gurion while he was here to receive his honorary Doctor's degree.

They asked him:
"Ben Gurion, how are things with Israel? How are you getting along?"

To which Ben Gurion replied:
"We are like a potato. A potato lies deep in the ground, and she grows. So are we. Mir ligen tief in der erd, un mir waksen. We are deep in the ground, but we grow."

They grow luxuriantly, richly like a potato plant.

They are surrounded by unyielding enemies. They are threatened by hostile neighbors on all sides. But they nevertheless grow.

On the 12th anniversary of independence, Israel has grown in numbers, and in wealth, and in stature.

Three stages has Israel undergone in its development. One was not possible without the other, and one does not contradict the other.

First there was the period of gifts. Immigrants came from the four corners of the earth to Israel. They needed food, shelter and clothing. Food and shelter Israel could provide for them. The little Israel had, it stretched to provide for all. But clothing, and decent housing, and opportunities to learn a trade, and educating children, and caring for the sick, that had to come from abroad. And we gave. We gave in full measure to the appeals from Israel.

Then came the period of buying a share in Israel. Israel had something to give us in return. It had bonds which were as good as any bonds on the market. They brought dividends. And they provided Israel with the tools of expansion. Bonds for developing agriculture. Bonds to build factories. Bonds to build a navy, and an air force, and to mine for natural resources, and to build new cities.

We bought, and we are still buying Bonds. They are a good investment. Those that go to Israel find this out for themselves. And more and more American Jews go to Israel every year.

Now Israel is entering a period of inviting private enterprise to come to Israel and to invest in its future. There is enough room now in the land for private capital to come and put up factories, and to establish enterprises that was impossible before.

So on the 12th anniversary of the Independence of Israel, things don't look so bad. Like a potato lying deep in the ground, but shooting up towards the sun, so is Israel.

The Arab nations vie with each other in opposition to Israel.

Says Nasser;

"I will march on the land and destroy it."

But so far he has not dared lay a hand on the State of Israel. He still remembers Sinai.

Says Kassem;

"I will make a Palestinian Army and they will retake the land."

But his threat does not worry Israel. It is the boast of a man who came to power by assassinations and who stays in power by manipulation.

Nasser and Kassem both gnash their teeth, and Israel endures.

Israel will endure as long as we are with her. We, the American Jews, and the English Jews, and the French Jews, and Jews everywhere. We are the main support and the staff on which Israel leans.

It is now quite clear. The United Nations cannot help Israel. The United Nations is anxious to keep things quiet. Do not stir up any trouble that might embarrass the United Nations. Nasser closed the Suez Canal to Israeli shipping. Hush. Do not mention it. Don't do anything that will require the Secretary to fly again to Nasser, and be spit in the face again.

The United Nations, as far as Israel is concerned, is like a stick that breaks as soon as you lean on it. It certainly is that way as long as the present Secretary is at its head. He has proved unreliable, and untrustworthy, and misleading.

The hope of Israel is on the Jewish people everywhere. As long as we are with them, they have nothing to fear.

(Mr. Segal's opinions are his own. His views are not necessarily those of this newspaper.)

The Lyons Den

by Leonard Lyons

THE PLAY: "The theater is the last arena in which everything is still possible," said William Saroyan. He was all smiles and charm, bounding into the Hotel Westbury in London, despite the critics' attacks upon his latest play, "Sam, the Highest Jumper of Them All." He shrugged: "Failure makes a man interesting, while success only makes him courteous."

He's written the play on a typewriter presented to him by an American manufacturer, who asked if he cared to have something stamped on the machine. "Sure," he replied, "put on it 'William Saroyan, Great American Writer.'" He wrote the play while rehearsing the cast. And his casting, of course, had been typical: Naturally, he hired his secretary for a leading role, and then a man right off the street—Griffith Davis. He hired Michael Forrest because of his intriguing approach: "Sir, I'm a Welsh-Italian."

He couldn't deny a role to Ross Henderson, who'd produced a Saroyan play in 1945. Saroyan received a phone call from an Israeli, Aurie Levy, who asked for a job but said it had to be a foreigner's role so that he could get a work permit. Saroyan cast him as an Interpol man. "I had him standing on his head, but I took that out. Interpol men don't do Yoga."

He was off for Paris the following day, lest he overstay his visit to England and become subject to additional income taxes. He shook his head and smiled again, about the critics' reception to his play. "I'm accustomed to poor notices," he said, "but usually one or two of the critics like my play. Makes it interesting. But this time it was unanimous. Fifteen out of 15 critics panned it. Such a thing gives a man pause to think."

THE PORTRAIT: Ambassador and Mrs. Jock Whitney entertained a group of American Congressmen and showed them through the Embassy residence. The Whitneys have, on the walls, one of the finest private art collections in the world. One Congressman stopped to study the Van Gogh self-portrait and, remembering only the movie, said: "Look, Kirk Douglas."

THE ROBBERY: When Paulette Goddard's sable coat was stolen from Gypsy Rose Lee's dressing room in Chicago, Miss Lee wondered how Miss Goddard's husband, Erich Maria Remarque, would take the news. Gypsy finally phoned him, and mentioned the robbery. "As long as there was no concussion," said Remarque, with relief. Then he said of the loss of the sable coat: "In a way it solves my problem. I never know what to get Paulette for Christmas."

THE COAT: Miss Goddard, in the meantime, is wearing her mink coat. It was at the Left Bank that she was asked if she feared the robber would return to steal this fur coat, too. She replied she had no fear: "Did you ever see anybody try to skin a live tiger?"

MEMOS: Katharine Hepburn rejected the press stunt that would have her ride down the Housatonic

River dressed for her Cleopatra role for the Shakespeare Festival at Stratford, Conn.: "I'd rather face a horde of crocodiles." . . . Arthur O'Connell may return to Broadway with Jack Lemmon in "Face of a Hero". . . Lily Pons will be at the White House dinner for de Gaulle. . . Alfred K. Stern and his wife, Martha Dodd, are living in Czechoslovakia. . . Jose Ferrer coached Allyn McClerie in her Puerto Rican accent for "West Side Story."

THE AD TALK: A Madison Av. advertising executive conferred with Lou Brecker, owner of Roseland Dance City, about an advertising program for him. Brecker listened to the project, couched in Madison Av. lingo, and said of the plan: "Okay. Let's walk it to the edge of the dance floor and see if it mambos."

THE TAX PLAN: Beardsley Ruml, who died last week, was to have been one of the guests of honor at the "Living History" dinner by the Research Institute of America April 27. He was to have been honored for having created the Pay-As-You-Go, Withholding Tax plan. Soon after his plan was adopted by the government, Ruml's doctor cautioned him to ease up and cut out his outside activities. "But that's where I have my fun," Ruml said. "If I'm to cut down, I'll cut down my regular work." Then he resigned as chairman of R. H. Macy.

THE INCENTIVE: It was Ruml who also first proposed the tax rule permitting husbands and wives to use the split-income measure, similar to that used in those states with community property laws. "If such a law is enacted," he argued, "there will be an increase in our marriage rate. You'll find many men saying, 'Honey, we've been doing fine these past few years, so let's get married.'"

What a difference a year makes! The 1959 baseball season was featured by spectacular pitching. Shutouts and low hit games were the rule rather than the exception, and the hitters flailed away impotently for the most part. Strikeout totals were high, and more than a few teams moaned all year about their staggering totals of men left on the bases.

1959 was the pitchers' year, no doubt about it. And a careful check of the records and the rosters reveals that even here there was a trend — toward the younger pitchers. A few old timers prospered; men like Early Wynn. But the veterans in both leagues, who customarily maintained the same efficiency year in and year out, generally went into decline. The world champion Dodgers did it with younger pitchers mostly, while the Braves lost it by relying too heavily on Burdette and Spahn, who lost 15 games each. Billy Pierce gave way to Buck Shaw, and the Fords and Turleys yielded the headlines to sensational young pitching staffs such as those of Baltimore and Cleveland.

It was the year of the pitchers

And now, along comes another season, with almost every club looking confidently toward even more improved pitching, and what happens? The hitters, who are supposed to be far behind the pitchers in the springtime, take charge right at the start, and start blasting away in record fashion.

Teams that hit last year are hitting again; and teams that couldn't dent a barn door in 1959 are hitting. It may be extremely early in the season, but don't let the calendar fool you. The trend has set in: 1960 seems certain to be the hitters' year.

With all this emphasis on hitting, a howling lament has arisen from far-off San Francisco, where the sluggers have not been slugging and the pitchers have been piling up impressively low earned run averages. It all has to do with the Giants' new Candlestick Park, which features outfield measurements so generally vast that it may be the biggest ball field in the National League, and one of the biggest in all baseball.

Not only are the fences fairly distant, but the brisk wind that whips across toward right field makes it almost impossible for any hitter to reach the left field seats.

This has led to a dismal wailing from Willie Mays, Orlando Cepeda, and the rest of the long ball hitters on the Giants. In desperation and self-defense, they have had to start hitting the ball to the opposite field.

This is an oddity in itself, for it contrasts radically with conditions existing at the Coliseum at Los Angeles. At LA, where the left field fence is only 258 feet away from the plate, pitchers aim the ball outside, trying to get the hitters to hit the ball toward right field. These same pitchers, working at Candlestick Park, will be trying just as diligently to prevent the hitters from blasting away to right field. They want the ball to go toward left.

Already, San Francisco is considering seeking permission to bring in its fences. Already? This is an exaggeration. After only one game in its new ball park, the Giants contemplated making such a request.

SYD COHEN

The Worms Are Turning

That is funny, for when Horace Stoneham first laid out his new stadium, he deliberately — very deliberately — plotted to have a lot of open pasture in center field, right center, and left center.

Stoneham had what he thought at the time was a delightful reason. He wanted to give Willie Mays all the room he needed to show off his superb defensive skills. At the Polo Ground in New York, Willie the Showman had drawn more huzzahs and critical raves for his spectacular catches way out in center field (item: his catch on Vic Wertz that ruined the Indians in 1954) than he had for his substantial hitting exploits. The crowds and the writers oohed and aahed on every catch, and Mays admitted that he had got in the habit of making every catch look as tough as possible to go on pleasing the fans.

That's what was in Stoneham's mind when he made the plans for the new ball park. But he forgot that San Francisco was not New York, that fan reaction might be different, that Willie's fielding might not impress the customers as much as his hitting, and that Mays would not forever be out there to make sparkling defensive plays.

In brief, the Giants' boss neglected the offense completely in his worship of the ground Willie Mays would tread on; and as a result, he erected a devil that has taken the heart out of all his hitters.

For 1960, at least, the park that was built for Mays has become Stoneham's Folly — and you can bet that the fences will be brought in quite a bit before another season starts.

Raynham Features Two Daily Doubles

RAYNHAM PARK — General Manager Russ Murray plans to continue the various features established in previous seasons and intends to add other attractions for the 56-night greyhound racing meet which continues nightly through June 21 at Raynham Park.

During the first week of racing, the introduction of two daily doubles by General Manager Murray, plus the featured ninth race on the nightly 11-card program and the hurdle races, 11th event on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights, has made a big hit with the fans attending Raynham Park.

The two doubles at Raynham Park are being used for the first time in New England. The first Daily Double is on the first two races and the second Daily Double is on the ninth and tenth races.

Post time is scheduled for 8 P.M. with the Daily Double parimutuel windows closing at 7:50 P. M.

up for a reason. For years now the National League has carried the reputation of being the league with the most and the best long ball hitters. The rebuttal of the American League's fans — that their favorite power hitters were handicapped by the bigger parks in which they played — drew no acknowledgment, no sympathy. The Americans were inferior. Period!

Now the National Leaguers are to have a taste of their own medicine. Only about 50 home runs are expected to be hit at Candlestick Park during the entire 1960 season (by all eight National League teams in 77 games played). This should turn the tide in favor of the Americans.

More on the subject of the fences later.

Women's Bowling Congress To Form

The first step in the direction of the formation of a Jewish women's bowling congress was taken last week, when an organization meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Feldman, 65 Sargent Avenue.

It appeared certain following the meeting that the women's congress would contain eight to ten leagues at the start next fall, with the possibility that a few more will be added later. The women's group will have the guidance of the R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress, at least initially. It was, in fact, men who sponsored last week's organizational meeting.

In attendance as representatives of the men's Congress were the in-exhaustible Murray Trinkle, Ralph Winn and Sam Feldman. For the embryonic women's congress, there were Jetta Brenner of the Temple Beth El League, Doris Millman of Temple Emanuel, Sheila Halpern, Fineman-Trinkel; Gloria Lefkowitz, B'nai B'rith Women; and Tedi Green, Crestwood Country Club.

A good deal of progress was reported, and a favorable report will be made to the men's Congress next month.

All organizational news MUST be in the Herald Offices before noon of Monday each week. It will NOT appear in that week's paper if it is received later than noon on Monday.

Survey Shows Bias In Employing Jews In Top Positions

NEW YORK — Opportunities for Jews in the country's top economic positions have been "drastically limited compared with their Christian fellow students of equivalent scholastic levels," the executive head of the American Jewish Committee said last week.

Dr. John Slawson, executive vice president of the committee, added that, as a result, "discriminatory barriers are preventing major American industries and financial institutions from utilizing fully a substantial portion of the United States manpower resources."

Dr. Slawson discussed a survey the committee had made of an Eastern university business school, covering a thirty-year period, at the opening of the agency's annual meeting at the Institute of Human Relations, 165 East Fifty-sixth Street.

The survey indicated, he said, that Christian graduates of the university's business school, "who have found executive employment in major American industry proportionately outnumber their fellow Jewish graduates in these positions by more than 30 to 1."

The survey covered such industries as insurance, banking, petroleum, steel, drugs, chemicals and automobile. It showed that the strongest barriers to employment of Jews on the executive level appeared to exist in banking and insurance.

Dr. Slawson reported that in major American industries Jewish personnel constituted about one-half of 1 per cent of the management executives. The 30-to-1 ratio was based on an examination of proportionately equivalent samples of Christian and Jewish students.

He contended that this situation "exists despite the fact that discriminatory barriers against Jews in elite colleges have been crumbling during the past decade." He also pointed out that about 8 per cent of the college-trained population "is Jewish, and that managerial staffs are chosen almost exclusively from the ranks of college graduates."

But when old age comes the

ELECT OFFICERS

Lawrence H. Hofenberg as president headed the slate of officers which was submitted by the nominating committee to the meeting of Plantations Lodge #2011, B'nai B'rith on Sunday at the American Association of University Women House at 96 Waterman Street.

Other officers who were elected include Alvin Ecker, Melvin Levin and Martin Dittelman, vice-presidents; Jack Wilkes, treasurer; Lawrence Waldman, financial secretary; Melvin Alperin, recording secretary; Daniel Adler, corresponding secretary; Norman Robinson, chaplain; Martin Uffer, warden; Thomas Pearlman, Morton Paige and Irving Weinreich, trustees. Mr. Hofenberg, Mr. Ecker and Mr. Dittelman are District Grand Lodge delegates with Mr. Levin, Mr. Robinson and Raymond Surdud as alternates.

New England Council delegates named are Mr. Hofenberg, Mr. Robinson, Mr. Dittelman, Dr. Bernard Berstein and Mr. Pearlman. Alternates are Dr. Leonard Komros, Dr. John Yasher, Alan S. Flink, Burton Maarkoff and Milton Dwares.

Members of the nominating committee are Jack Wilkes, chairman; Melvin Levin, Lawrence Waldman, Daniel Adler and Melvin Alperin.

Norman J. Cohen of New Haven, Conn., chairman of membership integration of Horeb Lodge B'nai B'rith and a member of the Eastern Regional Board of the Anti-Defamation League, was installing officer and guest speaker.

More than 30 members were inducted into membership of the Plantations Lodge by Bertram L. Bernhardt following the installation. Mr. Bernhardt is a past president of the Roger Williams Lodge of B'nai B'rith and is presently Deputy to Plantations Lodge.

INSTALL OFFICERS

Mrs. Maurice Yosinoff was installed as president of the Rhode Island Ladies Auxiliary #23, Jewish War Veterans of the United States, at its April meeting.

Others officers installed included Mesdames Philip Goldfarb, senior vice-president; Harry Fine, junior vice-president; Harry Fellman, treasurer; Manuel Bloom, recording secretary; David Baratz, corresponding secretary; Charles Scheer, chaplain; Samuel Mistowsky, conductress; Harry Fine, Esmond Borod and Miss Mary Lyon, trustees; Mesdames Harold Selinder, guard; Carl Agronick, patriotic instructor, and William Lipsey, historian.

Mrs. David Baratz, past state department president, was installing officer, and was assisted by Mrs. Samuel Mistowsky, conductress, and Mrs. Louis Parizer, past president.

'POVERTY PARTY'

The Young Adult Association of the Jewish Community Center will conduct a special "Poverty Party" at the East Side Center building on Sunday, May 1, beginning at 8:30 P. M.

Decor for the affair will feature a "poorhouse" atmosphere. Those attending are asked to attend in old clothes. In addition to dancing and refreshments, the evening will include a "Chinese Auction" at which guests will bid pennies for a whole collection of valuable gifts.

Martin Uffer and Adrienne Backman, co-chairmen for the affair, announce that young adults from nearby Massachusetts Jewish Community Centers will attend the event as guests of the local YAA.

QUALIFIES FOR ROUND TABLE

Paul Heymann, representative of New York Life Insurance Co. in Providence, has been notified that he has qualified for the 1960 Million Dollar Round Table of the National Association of Life Underwriters by selling a million dollars or more of life insurance in 1959.
