A LONG LEGAL BATTLE HAS ended with victory for a group of Skverer hassidim who have been seeking permission to form a village of their own to be known as "New Square," a variant on Skwere, the name of the town whence the Skverer rabbi came. The Supreme Court judge ordered the authorities of Rockland County to accept the certificate of incorporation. The Rampo authorities, where the village is located, have 30 days in which to file an appeal. The hassidic community consists of 530 Jews, among them 250 children. When incorporated the group plans enactment of ordinances that would ban Sabbath desecration of all kinds, including the barring of vehicles.

JOEL DAVID WOLFSON, President of the Jewish Community Council of Greater Washington and a former U. S. Assistant Secretary of the Interior, died of a heart attack in Gary, Ind., at the age of 60.

JUDGE THOMAS J. MURPHY of the Circuit Court has ordered submission to a board of arbitration of the current dispute in this country over Sabbath activities by the Jewish community center. The judge counseled arbitration as he refused to grant a temporary injunction. The judge suggested that the contestants could return to court if he is notified in writing that arbitration efforts had failed or not been made.

ELIZABETH TAYLOR AND HER husband Eddie Fisher regaled a night club in Moscow with folk songs and their reward was a spontaneous outburst of applause that touched the two American artists to tears. Eddie Fisher had just finished singing one of his numbers when he suddenly broke into Yiddish humming. His wife joined him to the applause of the guests.

THE U. S. GOVERNMENT, through the International Cooperation Administration has contracted with the American ORT Federation for a survey of vocational education needs in eight African countries, it was announced last week by Dr. William Haber, president of the organization. ORT will study existing technical and vocational school facilities and make recommendations for their expansion and development. The ORT teams will operate in Mali, Guinea, Sierra Leone, Nigeria, Togo, Cameroon, the Ivory Coast and Ethiopia.

THE WORD "JEW" WAS smeared in black paint over posters calling for the re-election of Dr. Ahron Pally to the South Rhodesian Parliament from the Borrowdale constituency. Dr. Pally, a well known member of the Jewish community, is a leader of the Rhodesian Dominion Party.

Urges Detroit Jews To Take Sabbath Fight Out Of Civil Court

DETROIT — A Circuit Court judge, considering a plea for an injunction to restrain the Detroit Jewish Community Center from making its facilities available on Saturdays, urged the plaintiff last week to withdraw the plea and submit the case to a Jewish conciliation commission.

Judge Thomas J. Murphy refused to grant the temporary restraining order asked by Ben Wrotslavsky, and ordered submission of briefs from both sides. He said he needed to acquaint himself with Jewish Sabbath laws. James Montante, president of the Detroit Bar Association, represented the Center at the hearing.

Nathan Shiur, attorney for the plaintiff, said that his client's case rested partly on the Center's articles of incorporation. He told the judge that the Center constitution said, among other things, that the Center should seek "to help maintain a spirit of harmony and union" and that "we claim that opening the Center on Saturdays does exactly the opposite." He said he would seek to show also that the religious rights of minority groups, as provided for in the federal Constitution, were violated. Twenty affidavits were filed with the bill of complaint bearing the signatures of Detroit rabbis and officers of their congregations.

Meanwhile, a Detroit Committee to Preserve the Sabbath was formed under the chairmanship of Morris Brandwine, to conduct an educational campaign and to bottle the opening of the Center on Saturdays.

Cabinet Defies Ben-Gurion By Absolving Lavon Again

JERUSALEM — In the face of Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion's insistence to the contrary, Israel's Cabinet reaffirmed approval of a report made to the Cabinet last January 31, absolving Pinhas Lavon of responsibility for a "security mishap" in 1954.

The Knesset, Israel's Parliament, will hold another special meeting, to deal with the explosive Lavon issue. Rumors are circulating that all of the parties in the Knesset, except Mr. Ben-Gurion's Mapai Party, will form a coalition to reject the Prime Minister's efforts to nullify the findings of the earlier seven-man ministerial committee that had cleared Lavon.

Mr. Ben-Gurion had already told a special meeting of the Knesset, which is in recess pending the scheduled Aug. 15 elections, that he considers that the ministerial committee "exceeded its terms of reference and usurped a juridical prerogative." But Justice Minister Pinhas Rosen countered with a vigorous denial of Mr. Ben-Gurion's charge.

Prior to the vote in the Cabinet, Mr. Ben-Gurion explained his "irrevocable" stand which had led to his resignation and the subsequent fall of the Government. That step, in turn was followed by the dissolution of the Government, and the necessity of new elections. Meanwhile, Mr. Lavon has been ousted from his post as secretary-general of Histadrut, Israel's Federation of Labor.

Israel has been governed by a caretaker government since Mr. Ben-Gurion's resignation.

Rosen also charged that the Prime Minister's complaint about the lack of validity of the committee's findings on procedural grounds was not made when the committee was set up and began its investigations, but only after the committee brought in a report which the Prime Minister found distasteful.

At last week's Cabinet meeting, the Government was also criticized for the manner in which it announced the launching of its meteorological rocket, Shavit-II. The Cabinet decided that, in the future, reports on experiments of international significance be submitted first to a ministerial committee for approval prior to public announcement.

Acquire Option To Purchase Froebel Hall To Serve As Hillel Permanent Headquarters

The Hillel project at Brown University will soon have a permanent home.

Greater Providence community leaders at a recent meeting acquired permanent headquarters for Hillel, which over the past 15 years has provided services for Jewish students at Brown University.

Rented quarters have proven inadequate for Hillel activities.

When Froebel Hall, situated in the center of the university area, became available for purchase, the group decided to acquire the building.

On behalf of the Hillel Foundation, an option to purchase Froebel Hall for Hillel was exercised last Friday by Joseph W. Ress and Merrill L. Hassenfeld. They said the building is being purchased at a reasonable price and

Suez Canal Boycott Threatened By Maritime Group

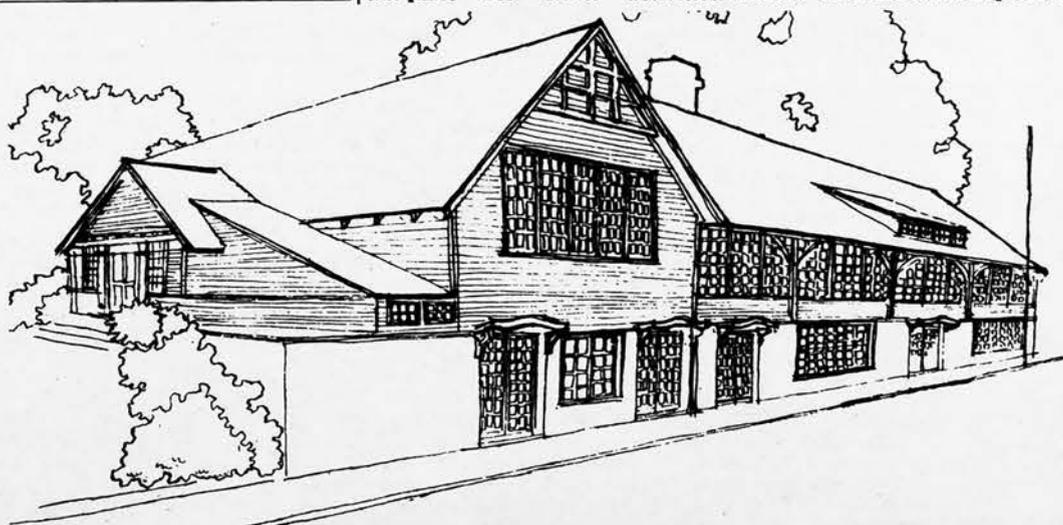

NEW YORK — The possibility of a world-wide seamen's boycott of the Suez Canal and Arab shipping was raised by an American spokesman for the 6,500,000 members in 71 countries of the International Transport Workers Federation.

The threat was contained in a telegram to President Kennedy from Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime Union, who is a member of the executive council of the ITWF.

In the telegram, Mr. Curran reported on an hour-long visit with Dr. Ralph Bunche, Under Secretary for the United Nations. The maritime union leader said he met with the UN official to protest Arab violations of the principle of freedom of the seas in regard to Israeli ships and ships under different flags trading with Israel.

Curran informed President Kennedy that the seamen's federation "views this interference as a serious threat to peace as well as to the safety and rights of seamen," and that Dr. Bunche explained that the UN could not act on the protest unless complaints were brought by governments. The union leader said Dr. Bunche told him that currently there were no such complaints before the UN.

A spokesman for Curran explained that the federation "was ready, in the absence of Government action, to boycott the Suez Canal or Arab ships in ports throughout the world."

Artists Drawing Of Froebel Hall

there will be a small additional sum required to renovate the structure.

Hillel leaders discussed the proposed purchase of Froebel Hall with Brown University President Barnaby C. Keeney before proceeding with plans for acquiring the property. Dr. Keeney told Rabbi Nathan N. Rosen, Hillel director, that he is pleased that Hillel is able to acquire a permanent home near the Brown Campus.

This project is being carried out by a group of community leaders with the assistance of the B'nai B'rith local lodges, who will carry through once the undertaking has been launched.

A committee is now being formed. A cocktail hour and meeting will be held next Wednesday at 5 P. M. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ress, 486 Cole Avenue, in order to get this project underway.

Arab Policy On Jews Stirs Congress Battle

WASHINGTON — A vigorous battle is being waged quietly on Capitol Hill over a statement of principle in the foreign aid bill on Arab policy toward Jews according to Milton Viorst of the New York Post.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, at the request of Chairman Fulbright (D.Ark.), has cut from the preamble of the bill the statement that the United States supports:

"The principles of increased economic cooperation and trade among nations, freedom of navigation in international waterways and recognition of the right of all private persons to travel and pursue their lawful activities without discrimination as to race or religion."

The statement would express U.S. displeasure at the Arab economic boycott against Israel, the blockade of the Suez Canal and the exclusion of American Jews from Arab countries.

Directive Ignored

It is, nonetheless, a much milder statement that was included in last year's foreign aid bill, which authorized the President to withhold assistance from countries that violated these principles. The President was also directed last year to report to Congress on measures taken to assure the application of these principles.

Neither President Eisenhower nor President Kennedy chose to use the authority to withhold aid, although the Peace Corps, a creation of the Kennedy Administration, has announced that it will send no missions to countries that discriminate against its members on the grounds of race or religion.

Both Presidents ignored the directive to submit progress reports to Congress.

The Kennedy Administration proposed the new wording this year as a means of satisfying Congress' desire to express its feelings without tying the hands of foreign aid administrators in distributing American funds.

Opposes Compromise

Fulbright, who fought against the position of the Peace Corps, objected even to the compromise. The State Dept., which has been tolerant of Arab policy toward Israel and American Jews, did not disapprove when he cut it from the bill.

Signs indicated, however, that the question would not be dropped. The full Senate, which last year passed the harsher version by a vote of 45 to 25, could be counted on to support some form of the statement.

In the House, Rep Halpern (R. N. Y.) promised to carry the fight to the end. Halpern, a Jew, remains idle because he was recently told he could not get a visa to stop at the Saudi Arabian airport in Dharhaan, which was built with American funds.

Israel Police To Guard Christ Church Mission

JERUSALEM — Eric Wendelin, the United States Consul General in Jerusalem, expressed satisfaction last week with assurance of police protection for the Church of Christ missionary center here after complaints by church officials of harassment by Orthodox Jews in the area.

The assurance was given last week at a meeting attended by S. B. Yeshaba, the head of the Jerusalem district administration, Jerusalem police officials and Ministers of the Center.

Police representatives said at the meeting that the police had already gone beyond their usual procedure of acting only after a complaint by stationing police near the center for several weeks during the services. The police also said that no organization was behind the crowds of children assembling at the church center who allegedly threw stones at the building in protest against the proselytizing efforts.

Both Yeshaba and police officials suggested to Wendelin that it might not be coincidental that such difficulties had arisen around the Church of Christ mission while many other Protestant and Catholic churches conducted their activities in Jerusalem without protest. It was noted that the Church of Christ mission, operated blatantly in contrast to other churches.

The Jerusalem Post, in an editorial, criticized the Church of Christ mission. The newspaper said that other churches understood that in the formative years of Jewish statehood, outright proselytizing would hinder intergration of the thousands of new immigrants and therefore devoted their efforts to diminishing interfaith ignorance of Israel's Christians and Jews. Regrettably, said the editorial, the Church of Christ group had reverted to "outdated" proselytizing methods.

The police had been reluctant until last night to chase away the crowds around the church compound. Last week the crowds were so heavy that it was difficult to walk through the street.

No members of the crowds appeared by their dress to be religious zealots, although some zealots live in the neighborhood. Most of those in the crowd seemed to be neighborhood people, aroused by the simple fact that a missionary group was preaching Christianity in their midst.

GJC Women's Division Starts 1961 Campaign

The Women's Division of the General Jewish Committee is moving ahead with plans for the forthcoming 1961 fund-raising campaign with the formation of various division chairmen and committees.

This is Mrs. Hassenfeld's second consecutive year as chairman of the Pace Setters Division.

Mrs. Hassenfeld announced that the Pace Setters Committee brunch will be held at the Ledgemont Country Club on Tuesday, Aug 22. She said that the purpose of this affair is to formulate plans for campaign and the role of the Pace Setters in the annual fund-raising drive.

Moroccans Seek Jewish Return

CASABLANCA — The Moroccan Ministry of Justice has decided to nominate a new rabbinical judge in Agadir in order to encourage the return to that city of hundreds of Jewish families who were forced to leave when the city was leveled in an earthquake last year.

In Rabat, meanwhile, the appointment was announced of Jo Ahana, as Chief of Cabinet for the Ministry of Commerce and Industry. M. Ohana had previously occupied this post for two years and was dismissed. Moroccan right-wing newspapers criticized the appointment of a Jew to the Ministry, describing Commerce Ministry Joundy as "pro-Jewish."

LUNCHEON PARTY

Providence Lodge No. 48 of the United Order of True Sisters, America's oldest national Jewish women's fraternal and philanthropic organization, will hold a luncheon and swimming party at the home of Mrs. Rena Chernick, 84 Grandview Road, Lincoln, on Aug 2. This event is part of the annual celebration of "True Sisters Day" on the first Wednesday in August, to commemorate the founding of the Order in 1846.

The United Order of True Sisters, which now has 50 Lodges in cities from coast to coast, is currently engaged in a national membership drive, the first effort of its kind in the 115-year history of the organization.

Hebrew Schools Hope For Aid On New Basis

FERNDALE, N. Y. — A group of 90 principals of Hebrew day schools from all parts of the United States hailed last week "the increased interest of Jewish federations" in the financial problems of such schools and expressed the hope that this would lead to greater participation by federations in the financing of the schools.

That stand was taken by the principals as delegates at the fourth annual convention of the National Conference of Yeshiva Principals. The principals, in a resolution approved at the closing session of their convention, also said they agreed that if the federations had faced their "communal responsibility and supported day schools in the same measure that federations support other communal agencies, the need for Federal aid might have been obviated."

In another resolution, the principals endorsed the efforts of Chairman Newton Minow of the Federal Communications Commission to improve television programming for children. The resolution charged that Minow's efforts were being "frustrated by Congress and the television industry" and urged parents to provide the closest possible supervision against "any indiscriminate use" by children of television which now has "an insidious influence" on children.

A growing program of sharing of teachers by all day Jewish schools with Talmud Torahs has made possible a substantial improvement in the quality of teaching in such afternoon schools, Dr. Joseph Kaminetsky, national director of Torah Umesorah, the National Society for Hebrew Day Schools, reported. He told the convention that Hebrew day schools in 35 cities had shared Torahs has made possible a substantial improvement in the quality of teaching in such afternoon schools, Dr. Joseph Kaminetsky, national director of Torah Umesorah, the National Society for Hebrew Day Schools, reported. He told the convention that Hebrew day schools in 35 cities had shared faculty members with Talmud Torahs during the school year which ended last month.

He said that despite rising wage scales and fringe benefits, afternoon schools in non-metropolitan areas, which must import teachers because they have no local teacher-training facilities, have great difficulties in getting qualified teachers. Although such schools offer a starting salary of $6,000 for a 10-month teaching year of 15 hours a week plus fringe benefits, they have found it almost impossible to attract young, American-born college trained teachers.

Hebrew Documents Pass Iron Curtain On Microfilm

NEW YORK — A rare collection of ancient Hebrew documents — some 940 years old — has crossed the Iron Curtain on microfilm.

The documents make up the David Kaufmann collection in the Oriental Library of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences. The microfilm is now in the Library of Judaica and Hebraica at New York University's Washington Square campus.

The microfilm was sent here after three years of negotiations with the Communist Hungarian Government by Dr. Abraham I. Katsh, chairman of N. Y. U's Department of Hebrew Culture and Education.

The collection was organized by David Kaufmann, a late nineteenth century scholar of history, philosophy and homiletics, the art of preaching. When he died in 1899, the collection was donated to the Hungarian academy.

Western scholars knew little about the collection, Dr. Katsh said, because the catalogue was incomplete and some manuscripts were lost through the years.

The documents, he said, contain "terrific material" on the life of Jews in Italy and of Yemenite Jews during the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. They should also shed light on the science of the early Middle Ages, Dr. Katsh said.

The collection includes fragments of the Egyptian Genizah depositories of rare scholarly works (discovered in Cairo) from the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries.

It also contains the 1,300-page Mishneh Torah of Moses Maimonides, a digest of material for Jewish theologians and purists.

Also included is one of the oldest documents of the Mutazilite sect. It was written by Abu Yatub Albasir, a blind eleventh century philosopher and theologian.

Sentence Two "Stormtroopers"

ARLINGTON — Two Nazi "stormtroopers" of George Rockwell's Nazi party were sentenced to 12 months each on the Virginia state convict road work gang after conviction on charges of assault and battery against a 13-year-old Jewish boy, Ricky Farber.

The sentences by Juvenile Court Judge Hugh Creeger upon Robert Garber, 31, and Richard Braun, 26, represented the maximum which could have been imposed for assault and battery.

The judge declined to hold the two Nazis for Grand Jury action. Rather than wait for next October, the judge ruled there was adequate evidence to press immediate simple misdemeanor charges. He said, "The case did not constitute a felony, so instantaneous action on misdemeanor charges can be taken and sentence imposed."

Garber and Braun were arrested after Ricky's father swore warrants against them. Ricky told the judge how the Nazis had pursued him in the street, dragged him to the Nazi headquarters, handcuffed and otherwise abused him. No Jewish boys who witnessed the episode collaborated the testimony.

A large crowd of indignant citizens crowded the Court House. Meanwhile, other Rockwell "stormtroopers" placed anti-Jewish hate sheets on windshields of cars, parked nearby.

Present in the crowd were clergymen of various faiths, leaders of civic, labor, women's, school and other groups.

The convicted Nazis are to begin their sentence on the convict road gang at once.

The case was heard in Juvenile Court, because under Virginia law it has jurisdiction of all offenses involving anyone under 18.

Nazi leader Rockwell was present with many of his followers.

The sentences represented the most severe yet imposed on members of the Rockwell group by any court in the nation.

"Reluctant Debutante"

At Circle Theatre

The Reluctant Debutante, a comedy which has provided riotous fare for Broadway audiences and movie fans alike, will be the third presentation of the Hummock's Circle Theatre. In the tradition of "Life With Father" and "Father of the Bride", Debutante is one of the few recent Broadway offerings which can be said to appeal to every member of the family.

Lucy Martin, Rowena Balos, Jacques Maynard, and Robert E. Hargraves play the roles created by Kay Kendall, Sandra Dee, Rex Harrison, and John Saxon in the movie. Others in the cast include Dennis Allen, Louise Alexander, and Beverly Brown. Richard Smithies will direct the production.

boyant summer night life, in the largest and most concentrated resort-hotel area in the United States. Within 100 miles of New York, it is bounded by bungalow colonies and borscht mink stoles and pleasure domes that have been compared to huge land cruise ships.

Noisemakers Gone

Gone are the days of the hotel tumbler, a Yiddish word for noisemaker, an uncrowned prince of clowns, someone who, according to Henry Youngman, did anything to keep the customer entertained so that the customer "wouldn't squawk about his room or the food."

The $20-a-week tumbler has been replaced by the $1,500-and-$3,000-a-night (and more) entertainers — some of the biggest names in show business.

"Hotels no longer compete too much on their swimming pools, their golf courses, their indoor and outdoor skating rinks, their food, their rooms," says one proprietor. "You know, a room is a room, a little more lavish, a little less. The entertainment is the No. 1 draw."

The hotels are spending more on entertainment this season than ever. The two biggest hotels — the Concord in Kiamasha Lake and Grossinger's in Grossinger, lead the money parade and are followed by such places as the Nevele in Ellenville, Brown's in Loch Sheldrake, the Raleigh, the Brickman and the Pines in South Fallsburg, Kutsher's in Monticello and Laurels in Sackett Lake. All provide for their guests — mostly persons from the metropolitan area and the East — night clubs that match many of New York's better boites.

The Concord says it is shelling out $250,000 this summer for such stars as Marlene Dietrich, Tony Martin, Joe E. Lewis, Connie Francis and Eydie Gorme and Steve Lawrence. Its night club is the 3,000-seat, $600,000 Imperial Room, which is as big as the orchestra floor of the Radio City Music Hall.

Grossinger's budget isn't so high but the hotel's 1,700-seat playhouse will also have a Who's Who of Show Business, including Billy Ekstine, George Jessel, Metropolitan Opera tenors and divas and touring stock company versions of "A Streetcar Named Desire" and "The Dark at the Top of the Stairs." The hotel's night club can accommodate 900 persons, 300 more than the Copacabana.

The caliber of the performers in the Catskills has never been higher. Charles Rapp, one of the leading bookers of performers in the area, is partly responsible. In previous years, a top performer he had booked into a hotel for a one-night stand, would not infrequent-

Algerian Jews Trapped Between Rebels, Loyalists

GENAVA — The O. A. S., the secret French Algerian underground organization, was reported here last week to have bombed a number of Jewish-owned shops in Algiers, Constantine and Oran.

The attacks were committed ostensibly because the Jewish shops had been closed at the request of the Algerian rebel organization, the FLN, during an Algerian demonstration strike.

The attacks dramatized the increasingly difficult position of Algerian Jews who were caught between the Moslem demands for solodarity in such actions as strikes, and fear of reprisals from French ultra-nationalists.

It also was reported from Paris this week that seven Algerian Jews were killed and 12 seriously wounded in terrorist attacks.

ly, get a more lucrative job offer for a full week elsewhere and bow out of the hotel date.

Now, Mr. Rapp "buys" entertainers. That is, he pays an entertainer for seven days and then "sells" the entertainer to seven different hotels for one-night stands.

"Now I can compete with places that can give entertainers a week's work," Mr. Rapp says.

However, he does not always get sufficient bookings.

"Sometimes I win, sometimes I lose," he says.

This season he is booking 125 performers (not all of whom he "buys") and has leased a hotel in Monticello, where some of the performers stay during or between jobs.

Late Show Popular

Another aspect of Catskill night life is the boom in the late show or after-show show. This usually gets under way around midnight in a more intimate night club on the hotel grounds. The shows are usually open to outsiders, who have to pay only for what they eat or drink. The earlier show, in most places, is only for guests, although gate-crashing has been perfected to an art in the Catskills.

The after-show show can last until 4 A.M. and in many spots performers from neighboring hotels drop in for impromptu entertaining.

Some performers play in as many as four places within radius of perhaps ten miles in one night — at 9:30 P.M., 11 P.M., 12:30 A.M. and 2:30 A.M. Morty Gunty, a comedian, does not find the schedule too hectic. Besides, the pay is good.

"Sometimes," he says, "my father drives me from hotel to hotel while I change clothes in the back seat."

Brazilian's Captive May Be Nazi Doctor, Josef Mengele

RIO DE JANEIRO — A German-speaking physician believed to resemble photographs of the notorious Nazi doctor Josef Mengele was reported held last week by a Brazilian police captain in the little town of Ponta Pora in the state of Mato Grosso, near the Paraguayan border.

The Meridional News Agency said the announcement of the arrest had been made by Clovis de Melo, chief of the state police, in Cuiaba, the capital, the capital of Mato Grosso.

The police captain reported having taken custody of a physician giving the name of Josef Kanat who resembled photos of Mengele published by the Brazilian magazine O Cruzeiro.

Dr. Josef Mengele ranks high on the list of about 1,000 officials of Hitler's Third Reich against whom charges of murder or manslaughter have been laid.

A Nazi doctor with the rank of colonel, he was known as the "Angel of Death" at the Auschwitz (Oswiecim) concentration camp. Last February West Germany set the reward for his capture at 20,000 Deutsche marks ($5,000).

At Auschwitz he was charged with the responsibility for administering lethal injections of gasoline, phenol and air to inmates and for selecting those to die or to do hard labor.

MRS. JULIUS HOFFMAN

Miss Phyllis Joy Mamis, daughter of Mrs. Eli Mamis and the late Eli Mamis, was married on June 17 to Julius Hoffman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hoffman in Temple Emanuel at an 8:30 P.M. candlelight ceremony.

The bride, escorted by her brother, Gerald, was attired in a silk gown with a scoop neck and short sleeves, accented with alencon lace and seed pearls. Her crown of pearls held a fingertip viel. She carried a cascade of carnations and orchids.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Norman Goodman and the maid of honor was Miss Joan Sokolow.

Howard Hoffman, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and the ushers were Harry Mamis, brother of the bride; Edward Chayet, Fred Kass, Harry Kass, Joseph Marriott, Harris Feinstein, Everett Exros, and William Dean.

Night Life Booming In Resort Hotels

NEW YORK — According to Milton Esterow of the New York Times one of the older stories in the Catskill Mountains is of the vacationer (he could have been in Las Vegas or Miami) who dropped a quarter on the thickly carpeted lobby floor of a sumptuous hotel and declined to claim it. "I would have had to tip the bellhop 35 cents if he picked it up for me," explained the vacationer.

The story is now in the gag writer's public domain but it tells a lot about a way of life, particularly an increasingly flam-

Let's Make Up

By Jack Stein
MAKE-UP ARTIST

Personality In Eyebrows

Have you wondered how an actress who played the sweet demure young lady in a show one week can look so villainous in the following production. It isn't easy to make this transformation, but with the help of make-up, the illusion is created. Two of the features which can change the expression of the face are the lips and eyes. Because these are the most important part of make-up, I will discuss one phase of eye make-up today and the other feature in a future column.

Changing the eyebrow line can distort your entire personality. While the eyes speak, the brows create the optical illusion which expresses your feelings. Show anger, the eyes snap and the eyebrows are drawn close together. Unhappiness dulls the eyes and the brows have a pulled down look. Learn to shape them so they always look well groomed and give a pleasant appearance to the face. The following are some of the eyebrows which are common in real life and to be aware of:

1. Angular eyebrows give the eyes a hard, angry look, and creates angles to the face.
2. Elongated pulled down on the end, give a drooping pained expression to the eyes.
3. Pulled up too high on the ends tends to give the eyes too much fullness and creates a winged look to the brow.
4. The straight eyebrow puts hardness and severity to the face.

5. A too high arch creates a qiozzoca; "what is happening" look.

6. The Oriental eyebrow, as suggested by some fashion experts, distorts the eye line and can only be worn with clothes that call for it and only by very few women.

7. A too thin line has a tendency to create a blank look to the face. This particular type was the rage of the twenties.

8. The natural arched eyebrow follows parallel to the line of the eye and gives expression and beauty to the face.

A. To create a natural arched eyebrow, follow the contour of the eyelid.

B. Always use a sharp point or a fine line pencil, and apply in a short even stroke on the upper part of the eyebrow only.

C. Start eyebrow on direct line with the inside corner of the eye.

D. Extend the brow beyond the outside corner of the eye with pencil, so that an invisible line starting at this point to the nose forms a 45 degree angle.

E. Finish off by brushing with a brow brush to diffuse the pencil line and to move loose hair into place.

Mrs. Sol Kaufman, A Woman with A Purpose

by Brenda Slack

Mrs. Sol Kaufman has exemplified for twenty-seven years that "women can do far more than they think they can."

A pleasant, civic-minded personality, Mrs. Kaufman has devoted much of her time and efforts toward benefiting and pleasing others. She holds the contention that the majority of women will not go 'alone' to join an organization but will go only when joined by another person and 'urged' into it. Mrs. Kaufman started out in the walk of public service twenty-seven years ago when, during the depression, her healthy father developed asthma. She read of training as a Grey Lady for the Red Cross and went out alone and joined in order to be better equipped to care for her father. As a member of the Grey Ladies during all these years Mrs. Kaufman has served as a volunteer in hospitals and homes caring for the sick, aged and disabled. Presently she is co-chairman of the Grey Ladies, and of all the organizations that she has joined and participated in she has found this to be her primary interest.

Gracious and unimposing Mrs. Kaufman raised a daughter, three sons and found time to belong to the Brandeis Women's Club, Hadassah, the Miriam Hospital Association, Saint Joseph's Hospital Association, the Jewish Home for the Aged, the Sisterhood of Temple Emanu-El, the Rhode Island Hospital Association and the Hebrew Day School, to name but a few. Although Mrs. Kaufman finds it impossible to attend all of the meetings she has never missed a donor luncheon.

"Everyone has value and every group has value", states Mrs. Kaufman. "I have a great deal of praise for all of the Providence agencies as they really excel themselves . . . it is though these agencies that so many avenues of interest are opened, and belonging to these groups gives one an awareness and understanding of other people".

Israeli Electrical Workers On Strike

TEL AVIV — All workers in the Tel Aviv and southern district operations of the Israeli Electric Company quit work in a 24-hour strike for higher wages as labor disputes spread in Israel's economy. The widening labor unrest was attributed partly to the current election atmosphere.

Lawyers in public service posts met to decide on whether to stage a protest strike against what they called the Government's "procrastination" in meeting their demands for improvements in wages and working conditions. The Government averted a strike of Government physicians and engineers with a makeshift agreement.

The electrical workers walkout was staged in defiance of policies of the Histadrut, Israel's Labor Federation. Histadrut officials had informed the workers that, "We have achieved all that we can from management," but this was rejected by the workers who were led by a "special committee" which defied the union's elected labor committee. The strike will not affect power supplies because employees in the power stations remained on the job.

Mrs. Sol Kaufman with her mother, Mrs. Sarah Paley

Mr. Kaufman, a jewelry designer, has great regard for his wife's interests and believes that a woman should give as much of herself as is possible to community work.

A charming and interesting couple, the Kaufmans love to walk, ice skate and attend the theatre. They do not own a car . . . they find walking more enjoyable. They spend their winters in skating rinks and travel near and far to see a play while many of their summers have been spent in Newport. As members of Temple Emanu-El they try not to miss any Saturday services.

Sarah Paley, Mrs. Kaufman's mother, is visiting her from New York at present. Mrs. Paley has visited Israel five times and toured many other countries. Her last trip to Israel was this past December and she noted how Israel has 'grown-up' in only a few short years.

Mrs. Kaufman believes that women can do 'more' and certainly she has proven this theory over and over again throughout the years . . . perhaps this is why she says: "I love life. I love people and I am grateful".

House Takes Firm Stand Against Arab Bias Issue

WASHINGTON — The House Foreign Affairs Committee last week wrote a much stronger anti-discrimination clause into the Mutual Security bill than that proposed this session by the administration. Incorporated by the committee into the preamble of the new legislation were expressions against Arab boycott and blockade tactics and against discrimination affecting Americans of Jewish faith.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee's version of the bill stands in sharp contrast to the measure pending before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. In the Senate, committee chairman J. W. Fulbright is seeking to eliminate even this year's watered-down clause. The House Committee drew from previous legislation to phrase its stand against Arab bigotry, and added new language. The House version now states:

"It is the sense of the Congress, that inasmuch as 1. The United States favors freedom of navigation international waterways and economic cooperation between nations;

2. The purpose of this Act are negated and the peace of the world is endangered when nations which receive assistance under this Act wage economic warfare against other nations assisted under this Act, including such procedures as boycotts, blockades, and the restriction of the use of international waterways: and

3. Any attempts by foreign nations to create distinctions of their race or religion among American citizens in the granting of personal or commercial access or any other rights otherwise available to U. S. citizens generally is repugnant to our principles; assistance under this Act and the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954, as amended, shall be administered to give effect to these principles."

Skeptical About Role As Mid-East Mediator

WASHINGTON — President Ayub Khan of Pakistan indicated skepticism here last week as to whether his country could act effectively as mediator in the Arab-Israeli disputes. In reply to a question following an address to the National Press Club, where he was asked whether his State, as a Moslem nation outside the Arab League, could not take the initiative in seeking an Arab-Israeli settlement, he said:

"Have you tried that?" A number of nations, he said, have sought such a goal "and got their fingers burned." Stressing that the problem was serious, affecting the security of all nations, and that there must be a desire for peace on both sides as a prerequisite, he added that there was no use "trying to act as a busybody" because efforts might be "only misunderstood."

TO SUPERVISE ROCKETS
JERUSALEM — The United States Embassy press attache was quoted here by the Jerusalem Post as declaring that American technicians would superintend the firing in the United Arab Republic of the rockets the UAR was to obtain in the United States under export licenses issued by the State Department.

The American spokesman confirmed that licenses for the export of three meteorological research rockets had been issued. He would not say whether the projectiles had already been shipped from the United States. According to the newspaper, the rockets, thought to be of the Nike type, were ordered by the UAR, at a cost of about $15,000 each.

Ben-Gurion "Advises" Kennedy On His Back

JERUSALEM — Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion has advised President John F. Kennedy to try methods developed by an Israeli physician as a possible cure for the American's chronic backache, it was reported here by the Jerusalem Post.

According to the newspaper, Mr. Ben-Gurion recently called in U. S. Ambassador Walworth Barbour and told the envoy of the method developed by Mr. Ben-Gurion's personal physician, Dr. Moshe Feldenkrais. Mr. Barbour reportedly sent on the suggestions to Mr. Kennedy, through State Department channels.

Mr. Ben-Gurion has been studying for four years co-ordination and physical efficiency methods worked out by Dr. Feldenkrais. The Premier's well-known habit of standing on his head for a period each day was reportedly developed as proof that his back was strengthened as a result of the Feldenkrais method. Dr. Feldenkrais was reported to have advised that his method be tried here by a young American of approximately President Kennedy's age and physical condition, before the system is adopted for treatment of Mr. Kennedy's back condition.

Dr. Goldman Reports On Situation In Russia

PARIS — A somber picture of recent developments in the life of the Jews in the Soviet Union was presented here by Dr. Nahum Goldmann. He drew that picture in a report for the World Conference of Intellectuals which met here under his chairmanship last September to evaluate the situation of the 3,000,000 Jews in the USSR.

During the last 12 months, Dr. Goldmann reported, 13 synagogues have been closed in the Soviet Union. He listed the cities where Jewish houses of worship have been shut as Stalino, Kasaviurt and Kobuleit in Daghestan, Saratov, Rezina, Kremenchug, Poltava, Veliki-Luki, Soroka, Novograd-Volinsk, Kaminovits, Tukum (near Riga) and the Russkaya Street Synagogue at Czernowitz.

In general, the report found, "no signs of improvement" in the religious life of the Jewish community in Russia could be found since the Paris conference of last year, nor has there been any "distinct improvement" in regard to Jewish national or cultural life in the Soviet Union.

Conference Requests

Since the 1960 conference had requested the Soviet authorities to permit emigration of Jews wishing to reunite with their families abroad, Dr. Goldmann touched specifically on that issue in his eight-page report. He stated that, although "tens of thousands" of applications have been submitted by Jews desiring reunion with their families, "only a negligible number of these applications have received favorable attention."

Finding that there is "a general anti-religious campaign in the Soviet Union," the report pointed out the fact that "where the Jewish religion is concerned, its character is uninhibitedly unpleasant, even at times outright anti-Semitic." Rabbis and other Jewish ecclesiastic officials, Dr. Goldmann stated, "are often depicted as crooks and speculators."

According to Dr. Goldmann, visitors to the Soviet Union have found "a severe shortage of Jewish prayer books and other objects necessary for the practice of the Jewish religion." Consequently, the Jewish leader stated, "The Jewish religion experiences greater discrimination than do other religious denominations in the Soviet Union."

Institutions Banned

In national and cultural activities, Dr. Goldmann said, there has been no improvement. "There are still no national Jewish institutions," he reported, "or organizations, nor is there any relaxation of the total prohibition of Jewish clubs, societies and other institutions."

The "few words" by contemporary Yiddish writers in the Soviet Union, Dr. Goldmann said, "have been permitted in Russian translation only." However, he reported, an almanac in Yiddish and Russian was published during the last year in Birobidjan, as well as a volume of verse by Ascher Schwartzman and selected works by David Bergelson.

The announced publication of a Yiddish bi-monthly, entitled "Sovietsche Heimland," has offered, according to Dr. Goldman, "some outlet to contemporary Soviet Yiddish writers." "These meager con-

Britain Censors Movie
 Attacking Globke

LONDON — The British Board of Film Censors refused last week to issue a certificate for commercial screenings of a film originated in Communist East Germany, purportedly "proving" that West German State Secretary Hans Globke had been active during the Hitler era as "a prominent Nazi and exterminator of Jews."

The Board stated that the documentary picture seemed to have been made "for the purpose of damaging the reputation of an individual." Plato Films, the East German production firm which made the film, announced it was asking the London City Council for a permit to show the picture in this city.

Complaint Against Knost Rejected

BONN — The State Prosecutor of Brunswick rejected a complaint filed by 30 Jewish citizens of Amsterdam, Holland, against Dr. Friedrich Knost, administrative President of Brunswick, whom they accused of having collaborated in writing a commentary on the Nuremberg anti-Jewish laws while he was an official in the Nazi Ministry of Interior.

The prosecutor's office rejected the complaint on the technical grounds that the statute of limitations barred action now. The prosecutor rejected a similar complaint earlier this year on the grounds that there was "no causal connection between the commentary and the extermination of the Jews."

essions, however," the Jewish leader continued, "emphasize the void in Jewish national, creative life, and are of significance only in that they, by inference, admit the hunger for Jewish culture."

No Schools

In spite of claims by Soviet authorities, Dr. Goldman said, the Soviet Union has not, up to now, granted facilities for leading a full Jewish cultural life. There is no Jewish school in the entire Soviet Union, nor is there a single general course where Jewish language and history is included in the curriculum.

"Cracks in the wall" noted in the Goldman report include the fact that, "During the past year, there have been denials that a Jewish problem exists at all in the Soviet Union." A Russian-Hebrew dictionary, containing some 30,000 words, will be put on sale, according to an announcement by Soviet authorities reported by Dr. Goldmann.

Regarding "the tragic aspect of the family reunification plan," Dr. Goldmann stated: "In these days, when the Eichmann trial has revived the memories of the terrible tragedy suffered by millions of Jews, it is surely the first duty of every government to help heal the wounds inflicted upon countless families."

The report was submitted to participants and signatories of last year's conference, including Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, former French President Vincent Auriol and British philosopher Bertrand Russel.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

by Sylvia Porter

SHOULD YOU RETIRE AT 62?

A fortnight from today, when August begins, men will be able for the first time to draw social security benefits as soon as they reach 62. This cut in the voluntary retirement age from 65 to 62 under the Social Security amendments of 1961 will, it is estimated, result in payments just during the next 12 months of $441 million to 560,000 people who otherwise would not have been eligible for insurance benefits.

This is a lot of money going to a lot of people and a retirement age of 62 applying to men as it has to women since 1956 is a startling event in itself. Here are questions you might ask and the answers.

Q. I'll be 62 next month (or 63 or 64). What happens to my benefits if I start taking them now?

A. The amount of your benefit checks will be reduced-- permanently. Your benefit always will be less than you could have been paid at age 65 on the basis of your past earnings.

If you start taking your benefits at 62, your check will be reduced 20 per cent to 80 per cent of what you could get at 65. For instance, if you would be eligible for a monthly benefit of $80 at 65, you would receive $64 a month at 62.

If you start taking your benefits at 63, you'll get 86 2/3 per cent of your full benefit. If you start at age 64, the amount you'll get will be 93 1/3 per cent of your full benefit.

Because you're drawing your benefits one to three years earlier than you'd ordinarily draw them, though, you'll be ahead of the game for 15 years. You'll not start "losing" overall until you're at least 77.

Q. What do I need to claim retirement benefits at 62, 63 or 64?

A. The same amount of social security credit you would need if you waited until 65. If you're 62 this year, you'll need credit for 3 1/4 years of work under social security to qualify for benefits. This is a liberalization under the 1961 law; under the 1960 act, you would have needed credit for 4 1/4 years of work to qualify.

Q. What are some reasons I should apply for earlier benefits?

A. You should take advantage of this law if your job has been erased by automation or technological change or if you're in ill health and you're finding it next to impossible to get back on a payroll. You are the person for whom this earlier retirement rule was designed.

You should do this also if members of your immediate family can get retirement benefits and thus help ease your plight.

Eligible dependents include your wife 62 or older, or your wife at any age if she has in her care a child or children under the age of 18 or totally disabled since childhood.

As an illustration, say that at 65 you'd get a benefit of $100 a month and your wife would be eligible for half of this ($50) at 65. If you both take benefits as soon as each of you reaches 62, your family check will be $117.50 instead of $150-- not ample but not bad either.

Q. What are reasons I shouldn't claim earlier benefits?

A. Don't claim the earlier benefits if you have a steady job and are healthy or if you're on temporary layoff and sure to be called back. Your check will be reduced permanently if you apply earlier and once you receive a reduced check, you'll never get the full amount to which you would have been entitled at 65.

Don't claim the earlier benefits unless you're quite sure, too, you can handle being "retired." The jolt of retirement at the young age of 62 can be dreadful and don't underestimate this one bit.

Q. If I don't file at 62, do I have to wait until 65?

A. No. After you're 62 and have worked long enough to become eligible for payments, you can file for benefits whenever you wish.

Q. Where can I get detailed information about my own case?

A. Go to your nearest Social Security District office, ask for guidance. Experts are waiting for you, eager to help.

The Lyons Den

by Leonard Lyons

Elizabeth Bergner, who will return to Broadway next season in "First Love," was one of Europe's foremost stage and screen stars before the war. She was a close friend of G.B. Shaw and Sir James Barrie. She told me once that the rival playwrights lived across the street from each other, and that each felt that his home eventually would become a shrine.

Shaw lived at Adelphi Terrace, which was torn down and replaced by a modern building. Barrie led Miss Bergner to his window and beamed: "Look--Shaw's house was torn down first."

Miss Bergner hasn't appeared in New York in 13 years. Shaw once told me: "I can make Elizabeth Bergner a star again. She's at the awkward age in the theater. Tell her to drop the 'Bergner' billing, use her married name, 'Mrs. Paul Czinner'-- and take those not-so-young roles she's been turning down but which she could play brilliantly."

During the war she starred on Broadway in "The Two Mrs. Carrrolls." Her leading man, Victor Jory, said: "For more than 300 performances I've beaten her, pushed her, dropped her, shoved her, choked her and poisoned her. Look at her now--the picture of health. And I've lost 22 pounds."

Before Marilyn Monroe left the hospital, she summoned Kenneth, Mrs. Kennedy's hairdresser, to do her hair... Kenneth soon may make a 'round the world trip for a magazine ... Cyril Ritchard will be busy at the Met Opera next season. He'll direct "Figaro," "Tales of Hoffman" and "La Perichole," in which he also will appear ... Patty Duke hit Anne Bancroft in the face for 15 retakes in the filming of "The Miracle Worker."

Milt Kamins tells this story about Jascha Heifetz passing a music shop where a violin was displayed in the window. Heifetz entered, took the violin down, played one quick, magic scale and walked out The music shop owner growled: "Did you ever see such luck in all your life?"

Ethel Merman, starring in "Gypsy" in Chicago, flew to Las Vegas recently to see her friend Benay Venuta play the role there ... "Gideon" has a $300,000 advance sale. The theater parties will be limited to two a week ... The fleet built by producer Sam Bronston for "John Paul Jones" has been rented by Peter Ustinov for "Billy Budd," and will be used by Alec Guinness and Dirk Bogarde in "The Mutineers."

Sid Caesar, who will star on Broadway in "Little Me," will play seven different characters in it. Caesar gets so engrossed in his characterizations that he really becomes the character he is portraying. When he's angered, he assumes his strong Polish character -- and has been known to beat up two husky assailants while muttering oaths with a Polish accent.

Jack E. Leonard said about the alarming front-page news: "I don't mind a war, but I'd hate going back into the USO." ... Noel Coward added two more songs to the 24 he's already composed for "Sail Away" ... Before Election Day the United Auto Workers invited the listeners to its "Eye-Opener" radio program to submit estimates on JFK's popular vote. The winner, Leon Lukaszewski, of La Crescenta, Calif., predicted 34,222,222 votes -- 873 short of a bull's-eye.

Under Actors Equity rules, the principals, the dancers and the singers in a musical each elect their own deputy. This week Coward's "Sail Away" went into rehearsal. The principals and dancers elected their Equity deputies. The singers will, too -- but are waiting. The singers are children not yet in their teens.

Sherman Billingsley will keep his Stork Club open till 4 a.m. every day, even after all customers have left. "People drive by in cabs," he said, "and if they see our lights are still on, they'll remember we're open" ... Shelley Berman will do a two-hour TV show for the BBC in October ... Phyllis Diller will star at the Blue Angel July 22 ... Jim Hoffa celebrated his election victory with a private dinner party here at Voisin.

MGM's boss, Sol Siegel, flew to Tahiti last week to try to solve the problems delaying "Mutiny on the Bounty" ... Leo Kerz, producer

In Hollywood ...

By Barney Glazer

If you're lucky enough to be around the old cowpasture in Hollywood's Poinsettia Park just behind Ziv Studios you could very easily be treated to one of the freakiest baseball games played by the zaniest collection of bushers ever assembled under the team names of the PJ's-Cloister Lushes and the UJI's (United Jewish Italians.)

The Lushes, who are devotedly eager to live up to their name, are an old Gashouse Gang who do most of their spring training with major league clubs -- night clubs, that is.

There are no braggarts among this bunch. They just don't have anything to brag about.

Pitcher for the Lushes is an old boy named Lippy Louie Prima who is eager to prove he can make it without the other half of his battery, some bloke named Keely Smith whom he salvaged from the now defunct Cherokee League.

Prima once played for a minor league team and saved it from winding up on the scrap heap by doing it a big favor and quitting.

The UJI's have Frankie Avalon, who is as incredibly young as Prima is unbelievably old, plus Mike Dante, an actor, who was recently exposed as a ringer not long out of the Washington Senators. UJI captain Jack Gillardi, GAC agent, holds down third sack where he mixes pleasure with show business by signing actors from the William Morris agency. As a retaliatory move, the Morris men are negotiating with Chuck Connors to manage their new branch office on first base.

Other members of the UJI's include Doug MacLure who calls his teammates checkmates; and Guy McIlwaine, press agent and former semi-pro who learned he couldn't make the columns so he might as well plant them.

Warren Cowan, promising young press agent, plays outfield for the UJI's and has a brilliant of "Rhinceros" has decided to produce the movie version himself ... Billy Reed's Little Club was closed temporarily last week because of a fire ... One customer saw smoke and rushed out into the street -- followed by a waiter who confronted him with the unpaid check for two drinks.

Erroll Garner received a special permit to appear at the Cape Cod Playhouse July 30, a Sunday. The authorities labeled it "a cultural event" ... Sam Wanamaker, co-star of "A Far Country," will direct a Broadway play next season ... Al Lewin, the tiny producer, was introduced to a 14-year old who is 5-foot-9. The boy's father proudly said: "Isn't he tall for 14?" Lewin, who is 5-foot-2, replied: "I'd say he's tall even for 42."

George Cukor, the movie director, started in the theater. He directed Ethel Barrymore in Somerset Maugham's "The Constant Wife." Maugham attended the premiere -- at which the star forgot her lines and Cukor had to prompt her constantly. After the show, Miss Barrymore embraced Maugham and accurately predicted: "I've ruined your play, but it will make a million."

campaign going to change the name of Poinsettia Park to Chavez Levine. As an outfielder, Cowan can't catch a bus or his breath, in the order named.

Umpire at third is Joe deCarlo once rumored as an associate of Micky Cohan. If anyone knocks off Joe by sliding into third too forcibly, the boys have it in writing he gets the biggest and best wreath from his old pal -- that is, if there are any flowers in Cohan's florist shop at the time.

The games, which by any other name could smell sweeter, always open with the National Anthem, but when Prima comes to bat the PA system blares out either "Nothing's Too Good for My Baby" or "Oh, Marle."

On close observation, unusual action may be noted around the old oaken waterbucket whenever it's rushed on the field by Brownie, who doubles as the washroom attendant at PJ's. By some unexplained mixup, the bucket is always filled with screwdrivers -- the kind you drink to ease your burstis pains.

During early games, Shelly Davis, the publicist, used to thrill the crowds with some sensational belly-slides for the Lushes which probably explains persistent rumors that Shelly has no guts. Later, Davis tried his hand at umpiring but devoted so much time to lowering the waterline of the old oaken bucket that he insisted on calling games on account of darkness despite the fact it was still high noon.

Other members of the PJ's include Elmer Valentine, Paul Raffles, Shecky Greene, Pat Fontecchio, Joe Miklos and Al Loeb who have been offered bribes to quit so the Lushes can finish the season with at least one win. All games end when 9 water buckets have been emptied. They call it the bottoms-up of the 9th.

An Israeli Topic: 'Who Is A Jew?' Rabbis Differ On Two Sects

JERUSALEM — The question "Who is a Jew?" is still a major topic of discussion in Israel according to Lawrence Fellows of the New York Times.

For centuries, people have been speculating on just what it is that makes a Jew: race, religion, tradition or nationality.

Most Israelis would admit some doubts, especially now that some rabbis are refusing to recognize as Jews two old communities that had thought of themselves as Jews for centuries.

They are the B'nei Israel community from India and the Karaites, who came mainly from Egypt. Both groups are incensed that their being Jewish should be questioned.

Marriages Are Barred

Until now the chief rabbinate has declined to give a ruling sanctioning marriage between a member of B'nei Israel or a Karaite and any other Jew in Israel. Until it does, the decisions in all such cases of "intermarriage" are left to the local rabbinate.

Some of these are not sanctioning the marriage. Since there is no civil marriage in Israel, it is difficult for these people to marry outside their own communities. They must either search for an obliging rabbi or fly to Cyprus for a civil wedding.

The last time the rabbinate got involved in the question "Who is a Jew?" was in 1958 over about a thousand Polish immigrant families. In most of the families, the mother was Christian. The rabbinate did not want the children to be called Jews unless the mothers were converted. Premier David Ben-Gurion's coalition divided in the argument but the rabbinate prevailed.

Do Not Accept Talmud

The 6,000 Karaites in Israel are objectionable to the rabbinate only because they do not accept the Talmud. Their sect began in the eighth century in Persia when the Jewish community there was not long established and did not accept discipline from Babylon. The Karaites observe all the injunctions of the Bible, and usually more strictly than the rabbinate would require.

There are about 7,000 persons here in B'nei Israel. They came from the Bombay area, where between 15,000 and 20,000 members of the community remain. The members here consider themselves very Jewish.

The rabbinate's scholars hold that Jewish observance in India was at a low ebb in the eighteenth century. Some of the Indians here think they are opposed because of that reputation.

Sharett Opposes Barriers

Several prominent figures in Israel have come publicly to the defense of these communities. Moshe Sharett, the former Premier and now chairman of the Jewish Agency executive, contends that to forbid them marriage outside their community is indefensible.

He considers the manner of their treatment a breach in the wall of Jewish unity. To deny the title "Jew" to any of them is to Mr. Sharett not even comprehensible.

By his definition, a Jew is "first of all, a person conscious of being a Jew." He rejects ethnological classification.

He maintains that people are full of pseudo-scientific nonsense about how to prove either how pure the Jews are or how impure they are.

ISRAEL SIGNS PACT
 JERUSALEM — Israel has just signed its largest single foreign trade agreement, calling for the export of $30,000,000 worth of potash, aggregating 800,000 tons, it was announced here by Menahem Bader, director-general of the Israeli Minister of Development. The pact was entered with "a Far Eastern country," Mr. Bader said.

German Purchasers Seeking Indemnity

BONN — A bill calling for the payment of 1,000,000,000 Deutschemarks ($250,000,000) to indemnify so-called "loyal" purchasers of Jewish property during the Nazi regime has been drafted here for introduction at the next session of the Bundestag, lower House of Parliament. The bill, drafted by the dominant Christian Democratic Union, reportedly has the support of deputies representing the Social Democratic and Free Democratic parties.

The "loyal" purchasers of Jewish property are Germans who were forced, after World War II, to return such property to Jews or to Jewish successor organizations. They claim they had bought the Jewish property in good faith, paying valid market values. Altogether, claims by the "loyal" purchasers amount to four times the total envisaged by the newly proposed legislation.

Safety in Speed

THE ANTELOPE races over the flat African veldt at speeds up to sixty miles an hour. He is in constant peril. His horns are highly prized by hunters; his flesh is the favorite food of nearly every beast of prey. Fortunately his sharp senses of sight, smell and hearing usually warn him of danger in time to run, and his great speed keeps him out of trouble most of the time.

Men and women lack the sharp senses of the antelope and must rely on their common sense to protect themselves. For their financial protection, millions of people have turned to Sun Life insurance—common sense protection against many of the uncertainties of life. You, too, can have this financial protection.

Report Many Jews Flee Algeria In Fear Of Moslem Domination

PARIS — The danger of a Moslem-dominated Algeria is causing Algerian Jews to emigrate to Israel or seek refuge in France, Jewish sources report. French officials confirm the report.

There are 110,000 Jews in Algeria, all French citizens, and the number of departures approximates 1,000 a month. So far, Jews leaving Algeria have gone to Marseilles and embarked there for Tel Aviv.

With the increasing number of passengers, French and Israeli shipping lines are readying direct boat service from Philippeville to Tel Aviv.

Jewish emigration from Algeria has been sporadic since the formation of Israel but it has increased noticeably since last December, when Arab mobs sacked the old synagogue of Algiers in the Casbah.

FLN Agents Give Warning

Since the beginning of the French-Algerian talks at Evian, some FLN agents in Algeria, presumably unauthorized by their chiefs, have said that the forthcoming "free Algerian government will want to rid Algeria of "Maltese, Spaniards and Jews."

It will be more difficult for any Algerian government to get rid of the Jews than of other minorities because all Jews in Algeria have been French citizens since 1870 and will consequently get the same guarantees as the other French residents.

Most of the Jewish emigrants from Algeria are poor people ready to start from scratch in Israel. They mostly come from farms or from cities with a large Moslem majority. There has been little emigration among business or professional Jews or from those living in big cities, such as Algiers and Oran.

Jewish emigrants from Algeria do not go to Israel. Some leave for Canada or South America. Others go to France and settle in cities, such as Paris or Marseilles, where large Jewish communities have existed for generations.

Gisele MacKenzie In "The King And I"

With lovely Gisele MacKenzie as its star, "The King And I," one of Rodgers & Hammerstein's most notable musical successes, opens at the Warwick Musical Theatre on Monday, July 31.

In the role of "Anna", Gisele will have the opportunity to show her great singing talent with such hits as "I Whistle a Happy Tune", "Hello, Young Lovers" "Getting to Know You" and "Shall We Dance". Her King will be portrayed by Leonard Graves, who replaced Yul Brynner in the National Company and toured the Continent. Lee Vermora will be featured as Tuptim. An interesting sidelight on the Warwick production of "The King And I" is that Jimmy Hammerstein, the late Oscar's nephew, is directing the show.

Following Gisele into the Tent is Danny Kaye and his company for one week only.

Researches To Receive Monitors

WASHINGTON — The Atomic Energy Commission announced last week that radiological protection equipment for Israel would be included in $80,000 worth of apparatus to be supplied to Israel, Argentina, and Brazil through the International Atomic Energy Agency of the United Nations.

Israel will receive one mobile unit and two stationary monitoring stations. Routine monitoring will now be possible in the area surrounding the "swimming pool" type research reactor located near Rehovoth for radio-activity. Israel will be responsible for installation, operation, and maintenance of the equipment.

It was described as "routine equipment" to determine radio-activity near reactors, and was said to be in general use throughout the world where nuclear research is done.

Israel Hospital Staff Stoned In Violent Demonstrations

JERUSALEM — Hadassah, the women's Zionist service organization attempted to transport essential members of its hospital staff here by "ambulance" last week-end to avoid a recurrence of stonings of buses by religious zealots.

Violent demonstrations were staged mainly by an ultra-Orthodox sect called Natorei Karta, or Guardians of the City, after an early shift of physicians and nurses started out last week by special bus for Hadassah's new medical center in Ein Karem. It lies in the Judean hills outside Jerusalem.

The sect considered this an unpardonable violation of the Jewish Sabbath and demonstrated at the edge of the religious quarter of Jerusalem.

Hurling stones, the zealots seriously injured two boys, who were bystanders. They also put eleven buses out of service after the Sabbath had ended.

Meeting Devises Plan

The formula that is designed to head off trouble was agreed upon by the Jerusalem Religious Council, the rabbinate and Dr. Kalman J. Mann, director of the Hadassah Medical Center.

Dr. Mann said he would transport the 400 persons he needed to furnish minimum services at the medical center in "ambulances" in which no fares would be collected and which would have non-Jewish drivers.

Hadassah has only three ambulances, which can transport at most 100 persons in a day. But neither the Religious Council nor the rabbinate registered any objection to converting buses to "ambulances" by painting them over with the markings of the ambulances now in service.

Dr. Mann also promised to provide facilities at the medical center for an overnight stay for those of his staff who desire it, so they would not have to break Sabbath injunctions against travel. The Jewish Sabbath runs from sundown Friday to sundown Saturday.

For their part, the Religious Council and rabbinate undertook to try and persuade Natorei Karta to accept the arrangement as necessary to prevent danger to human life, a function that overrides all Sabbath injunctions.
