French Political Circles See Dim Future For Algerian Jews

PARIS — Political circles here predicted that the position of the remaining Jews in Algeria will definitely become as difficult as that of the Jews in Tunisia and Morocco, since the Provisional Government of Algeria has placed itself in the camp of Israel's enemies.

The prediction was based on the statement made last week at a press conference in Algiers by M'Hammed Yazid, Information Minister of the Provisional Government, in which he said that Algeria's attitude toward Israel was "exactly like that of the other Arab states," and that "Palestine is an Arab country occupied by Israel, therefore Israel is a State we cannot recognize."

He stressed that this position had nothing to do with the position of the Jews in Algeria. He said that in Algeria the Jews had exactly the same status as Moslems, and that Jews might be expected to hold key positions in the new Government. However, this part of his statement is taken here with a good deal of suspicion.

Disband Medical Teams

In Jerusalem medical teams comprised of Israeli experts in medicine and hospital administration, which were ready to leave for Algeria, were disbanded following the anti-Israel statement.

It was revealed here that the request to Israel for medical aid was initiated by Algerians some time ago. The lining up with the other Arab nations against Israel was, therefore, considered here as a step taken under pressure from Cairo.

Official quarters here have declined to comment on the Algerian, anti-Israel statement, but the attitude in Algiers was seen here as leaving no prospects for normal relations between Israel and Algeria. Unofficially, it was pointed out here that Israel did not ask for an exchange of diplomatic relations between the two countries. Israel's official recognition of independent Algeria a week ago, it was noted, was an-

Study Shows Small Town Jew More Accepted Than One In City

NEW YORK — Jews living in small-town America have a "decided and unique effect in changing the attitudes of Christians towards Jews generally," Professor Peter Rose, a noted sociologist, reports in a Cornell University study of "Small Town Jews and their Neighbors." The study, sponsored by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, was made in communities of less than 10,000 residents in New York State.

It concluded that in small towns, Jews are not just participants in formal community functions but are usually "an integral part" of the social life.

Criticize N. Y. Police Effort To Enforce City's Sunday Law

NEW YORK — A renewal of the New York City police effort to enforce the city's Sunday law, which hit hardest at such Jewish enterprises as delicatessen stores and bakeries, evoked sharp criticism last week from leaders of Jewish organizations.

In the new crackdown police canvassed residential areas and gave summonses to merchants selling some foods which cannot be sold at all or only during certain hours under the law. Butchers, who were supposed to be closed, and delicatessen stores and bakeries, which can sell cooked or prepared foods only between 4 P.M. and 7:30 P.M. were hardest hit.

Saul Bernstein, administrator of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations, said the law was "so full of inconsistencies and exceptions that any kind of enforcement is impossible and absurd." Noting that drug stores sell "every conceivable thing without harassment" on Sundays, he asked why the police "pick on food stores."

He added New York State should follow the example of 12 states which have amended Sunday laws to end discrimination against merchants who observe the Sabbath on a day other than Sunday. Efforts to obtain such a law in the New York State legislative session earlier this year were unsuccessful. Will Maslow, executive director of the American Jewish Congress, said that the renewal of enforcement of the city's "archaic" Sunday law apparently discriminated against one type of person, operators of food stores.

Young Israel Leaves Ranks Of A.J. Congress

GREENFIELD PARK, N. Y. — Young Israel, an organization fostering orthodox Judaism among youth and adults and claiming a 125,000 membership, last week announced at their Jubilee Convention here that it has left the ranks of the American Jewish Congress.

In making the announcement Rabbi David H. Hill, president of the National Council of Young Israel, told the 400 delegates "the American Jewish Congress has, time and time again, taken stands which are opposed to Orthodox philosophies." He cited the stand recently taken by American Jewish Congress on the Shechita Bill and on the Adoption Laws and said that the AJC had blocked the participation of Orthodox Jews at its recent convention by holding it in a non-kosher hotel.

Rabbi Hill claimed that "the American Jewish Congress had turned into a Civil Liberties Union." He emphasized that while Young Israel encouraged the fight for civil liberties, it felt that this work was already being done adequately by numerous other bodies.

Rabbi Hill added that the National Council of Young Israel had done all in its power to influence the acts of the Ameri-

Denies U.S. Assistance Increases Capability Of U.A.R. To Import Arms

WASHINGTON — American assistance to the UAR would not increase Egyptian President Nasser's capability to import arms from the Soviet bloc, nor would withholding assistance decrease that ability, Assistant Secretary of State Frederick G. Dutton declared last week.

In a letter addressed to Rep. Leonard Farbstein (D., N. Y.) the Assistant Secretary asserted that charges that Egypt would have to divert money from domestic needs to pay for Russian arms were "not valid." He said Egypt had "an excess of unused Soviet credits upon which to draw."

The State Department, said Dutton, recognizes "Israel's deep concern with the issues arising from the Arab-Israel problem." However, he added that "prospects for its settlement and for stability in the region as a whole are improved, if the countries involved are assisted to pursue their legitimate goals for economic development."

He added, "We believe that by demonstrating American interest and support for the UAR's efforts for economic development, there will be a stronger foundation on which mutual problems can be worked out." He stressed that the State Department was "convinced" of the determination of the Egyptians "to search for progress and to maintain their independence. They urgently require foreign aid in pursuit of these goals," he said.

Israel 'Very Concerned'

NEW YORK — Israel is "very concerned" about Egypt's general rearmament, Israeli Ambassador Avraham Harman said in an interview here this week, given to Sen. Kenneth Keating (R., N. Y.) on the latter's weekly radio-television program.

"We're very concerned, of course, by the general picture of rearmament in Egypt," he stated. "It has been going on since 1955, and has been stepped up in the past year. The air aspect of it is, of course, one which concerns us most, but Egyptian rearmament is not limited to the air and it's not limited to MIGs. It has also included in recent months the receipt by them of long-range heavy bombers."

"Also from Russia?" asked Keating.

"Yes" replied Harman. "But their plans include a heavy buildup and motorization of their infantry, development of armor and, of course, a rather impressive increase as far as their naval force is concerned."

Abstains From Voting For Prayer Protest

NEW YORK — With only Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York abstaining, the governors of the other 49 states voted this week at their annual conference in Hershey Pa., to petition Congress to adopt a constitutional amendment that would invalidate the Supreme Court's ruling against official prayers in public schools.

The resolution adopted by the governors urged "the Congress of the United States to propose an amendment to the Constitution of the United States that will make clear and beyond challenge the acknowledgment of our nation and people of their faith in God, and permit them the free and voluntary participation in prayer in our public schools."

Rockefeller Abstains

The chairman of the Governors Conference announced after the measure had been passed that adoption was "unanimous." However, Gov. Rockefeller immediately arose to announce he had abstained. Later, the New York State chief executive said:

"The freedom of every person to worship or not to worship, as his conscience dictates, is fundamental to American society. Until the whole question can be considered in terms of the fundamental precept of freedom of religion, which was the basis of the constitutional provision upon which the Supreme Court based its opinion, I shall abstain from the endorsement of any hasty action by the Governors relating to amendment of the Constitution of the United States. Any such proposal should certainly have the fullest possible study and discussion before the Governors offer an opinion."

Outlines Policy Toward Israel

WASHINGTON — The United States Government has not changed its policy toward Israel and has no intentions of weakening its support of Israel, Assistant Secretary of State James P. Grant declared last week in a letter addressed to Louis Segal, general secretary of the Farband Labor Zionist Order.

Grant was replying to communications sent by Segal to President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk, in which he raised a number of questions, including one as to why the U.S. delegation to the United Nations supported the Security Council's censure of Israel, when Israel retaliated in March against Syrian aggressions in the Lake Tiberias area.

Explaining "background factors," Grant stated that "one of our most important friends is, of course, Israel." In regard to Israel, he stated, "there has been no change of policy. Our good will and support are demonstrated by the fact that the level of United States economic assistance to Israel is substantially higher now than for several years past. All of us can take great satisfaction in the skill and industry with which Israel has used these and other whose future under a regime resources in its miraculous development."

Designs Plan To Lure Filmmakers

JERUSALEM (Israeli Sec- tor).—Israel, like a fair maiden too lightly kissed, is drawing up a grand plan of action, mostly financial, by which she hopes to lure foreign movie-makers in greater numbers into the country, according to Law- rence Fellows in the New York Times.

The details of the plan are still being worked out by the Finance Ministry and Asher Hirschberg, head of the film en- couragement section of the Ministry of Commerce. But the plan is expected to be a sort of codification of all the tax and monetary concessions Israel is willing to make, and vital services she is ready to provide inexpensively or free, to the companies that would produce films in Israel.

The glamour and reward that can attend the production of the seventh art was first made really clear to Israel, according to Mr. Hirschberg, by the film- ing of "Exodus," most of which was done on location in Israel.

To produce the film, Otto

Preminger brought about 150 actors and technicians to Is- rael, and employed many more locally. The ebullient Mr. Prem- inger stood Israel fairly on end to shoot his film, putting a greater strain on the nation, according to the wages, than did ever the Arab States. Yet nobody discounted the fact that he spent something like $1,000,000 in Israel in the course of producing "Exodus."

More foreign moviemakers have followed "Exodus" into Is- rael but the Israeli Govern- ment feels it must do some- thing to get them to come in greater numbers, and also to get them to do not only their outdoor scenes but their studio work as well in Israel.

Conditions are Excellent There is not much wrong with Israel's natural attractions: the historic places; the climate that permits winter shooting and is never long without sunshine; and a varied and highly drama- tic landscape few other coun- tries can offer. At least Is- rael can offer it in so close an area.

This saving in transportation is what brought Dino De Lau- rentis to Israel to film most of "The Best of Enemies," al- though the locale of the story was Ethiopia. He spent upward of $700,000 in Israel. To Israel's dismay, part of the film was done in De Laurentis' studio near Rome.

There are two small sound stages in Tel Aviv, but neither is equipped to produce anything like the controllable forest fire that De Laurentis needed, with man-made trees spouting fire from gas jets for repeated shootings of the illusion.

The poor studio facilities in Israel also discouraged George Stevens from going their to produce "The Greatest Story Ever Told," his film about the life of Jesus.

The best hope of getting ade- quate studio facilities for Israel lies at the moment with the big foreign producers who are able. To make these producers also willing, Israel is getting the financial lures ready.

Among those who have al- ready shown interest is Sam G. Engel, who produced such ma- jor films as "Ruth" and "Boy on a Dolphin." He has said that when his contract with Twen- tieth Century-Fox runs out this summer, he will move to Israel to stay, and build a studio near Haifa, with several big stages.

Center to Close In North Hudson

JERSEY CITY — Officials of the North Hudson Jewish Com- munity Center have given up the struggle to meet a chronic deficit and have announced that the center building has been put up for sale.

After a poorly-attended board meeting, Dr. Herman B. Kap- lan, president of the Center board, said that the building would have been closed imme- diately except that an obliga- tion was felt to some 125 youngsters registered for the Center's summer camp pro- gram.

Some $80,000 of the annual $100,000 operating budget has been raised by membership dues and fees from outside us- ers and some other revenues. Currently, $20,000 is still lack- ing to meet the budget and the funds are not in sight.

The building will be closed Aug. 31 "and it is our wish to consummate a sale as soon as possible," Dr. Kaplan added. The Center has some 400 fam- ily memberships.

HODASSAH VISITS

JERUSALEM — "There has never been public transport in Jerusalem on Saturdays, and I hope that there never will be," Mayor Mordecai Ish-Shalom declared in the Jerusalem Mu- nicipal Council.

A. Arest, secular coalition partner, asked Ish-Shalom, "When will this city allow Jeru- salemites to visit sick relatives on Saturdays in Ein Karem?"

Dr. Nathan A. Bolotow

Named Semi-Finalist For Lane Bryant Award

Dr. Nathan A. Bolotow, an actively practicing Ear, Nose & Throat and plastic surgeon, has just been named a semi-finalist in the Lane Bryant Annual Awards competition and has been honored with a Citation in recognition of outstanding community service in 1961. Dr. Bolotow, who served as President of the Jewish Family & Children's Service from 1955 through 1960, (A United Fund Agency) was nominated for this award by the Agency for his interest in the care of emotionally disturbed children.

Several emotionally disturbed children came under the care of the Agency but could not be cared for because of inadequate funds and local resources. Dr. Bolotow convinced his Board of Directors that a voluntary agency must do something about unmet social needs. Limited Agency budget and endowments forced Dr. Bolotow to personally solicit support from his friends. To date, he has raised approximately $25,000.00, which has provided specialized psychiatric treatment for nine children.

At his urging, the Board of Directors authorized Dr. Bolotow to request a study of the problem by the Rhode Island Council of Community Services. A special Mental Health Coordinating Committee, after careful study, recommended a 50-bed residential unit and a study home for juvenile offenders. Dr. Bolotow petitioned the Superintendent of the Providence School System and Commissioner of the State Board of Education to underwrite tuition costs for out-of-state placements. Dr. Bolotow continues his interest and work and it is through his efforts that the proper committees and State authorities have become alerted to the great need for the State of Rhode Island to create institutional facilities for the care of Emotionally Disturbed Children.

The Citation means that Dr. Bolotow is among those being actively considered for one of two awards of $1,000.000 given annually to encourage voluntary participation in efforts designed to benefit American home and community life. One award is made to an individual, and one to a group.

Established in 1948, the Lane Bryant Annual Awards draw many hundreds of nominations each year from all over the country. These are screened by the Bureau of Applied Social Research at Columbia University where they are subjected to five standard criteria of exclusion to determine which are most deserving of final consideration. Nominees surviving this first rigid screening are presented with Citations.

Presentation of the Citations is made to acknowledge candidacy for the Awards and further to acknowledge the achievement of the candidates in attaining that status. Another purpose of the Citations is to focus local attention on the recipients' public-spirited efforts.

Bridge

Weak no-trump

by Revoke

I have mentioned previously a convention designed to cope with the defensive value of the weak no-trump against vulnerable opponents. It is played in many variations. The basic idea is that if a player opens 1NT, a double by either opponent is meant to be a penalty double. On a very strong hand the bid would be 2NT, which is forcing to game. With a distributional holding one would show a three-suited hand by bidding 2C. This is a demand for partner to bid his lowest-ranking suit and the point count is not as important as distributional values. As soon as a fit is found the bidding can be dropped. The value of this convention is greater in pairs tournaments, where it is vital to contest part scores.

On this hand, South decided that he had to take some action against a weak no-trump bid:

North
 ♠—7 5 3
 ♥—10 7 6 2
 ♦—K 8 7 3 2
 ♣—8
 South
 ♠—8 6 2
 ♥—J 9 5 4
 ♣—A K 9 6 5

The bidding went:

West	North	East	South
1NT	pass	pass	2C
pass	2D	Double	2H
Double	pass	pass	pass

West led a diamond, and as the cards were well placed for a cross ruff declarer made eight tricks and scored +470. A trump lead, of course, or a spade lead would have beaten the contract, but even one or two down would have been a good result, because at most tables 3NT were bid and made.

Another point occurred on the following hand:

North
 ♠—A K 10 5 4
 ♥—A 6 5 3
 ♦—J 9 7 2
 ♣—None

West	North	East
♠—Q 9 2	♠—J 7 6
♥—J 10 7 4	♥—9
♦—A 10 6	♦—Q 8 4
♣—A J 3	♣—K 10 8 7 5 4

South
 ♠—8 3
 ♥—K Q 8 2
 ♦—K 5 3
 ♣—Q 9 6 2

The bidding went:

West	North	East	South
1NT	2D	pass	2H
pass	3H	pass	4H
pass	pass	pass	pass

An extension of this convention whereby a 2D overall shows specifically a shortage in clubs and a willingness to play the hand in any of the other three suits, while a 2C bid shows a shortage in diamonds. Thereafter partner can pass a 2D or 2C bid if he has a suitable hand for such a contract.

West led a spade and declarer took two spades and a spade ruff. South then played a small diamond from his hand and the nine from dummy. East might have beaten the contract had he now played a club, but he returned the diamond and South managed to get home by losing only two diamond tricks and one heart trick. The club return shortens him in trumps and prevents North-South from enjoying their long spade suit. On the face of it 4H looks a reasonable contract.

Will Survey Day Schools' Fund Needs

NEW YORK — The American Association for Jewish Education will undertake a national survey of the financial needs of Jewish day schools and the responsibility of the Jewish community in helping the schools to meet those needs. It will be the first such study of the rapidly expanding day school movement.

The study follows a recommendation made at the 1961 General Assembly of the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds which devoted a complete session to the question. In announcing plans for the study, Samuel H. Daroff, chairman of the AAJE board of governors, noted that there are now more than 270 Jewish day schools attended by more than 50,000 children, providing a combination of secular and religious education from the nursery through the high school level.

A recent AAJE survey indicated that leaders of Jewish central communal agencies were almost unanimous in opposition to the use of Federal or state funds for non-public religious schools, regarding such support as a responsibility of the sponsoring religious community. However, in recent years, Jewish day school leaders have asked communal aid to meet constantly rising costs and continuous deficits. Jewish federations contribute substantially to communal Jewish education institutions but there is no uniform policy about such aid to day schools.

Kosher Facilities At Maryland U.

WASHINGTON — Plans for the establishment of Kosher dining facilities on the campus of the University of Maryland next fall were announced here recently by the university's B'nai Brith Hillel Foundation.

The establishment followed a recent university decision that Jewish students who observe dietary laws will not be required to pay board assessment if dining at the Hillel Foundation. Previously, Orthodox Jewish students paid for board regardless of whether they ate meals on the campus.

Rabbi Meyer Greenberg, local Hillel director, who hailed the university for its "sympathetic understanding of the needs of students" said that about 50 students were expected to take advantage of the new arrangements.

JEWISH SCHOOLS
MONTREAL — The Catholic Federation of Classical Colleges of Quebec told the Royal Commission on Education that Jews and other Canadians who are neither Catholics nor Protestants were entitled to send their children to schools they prefer and that such schools should be financed by public funds.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

by Sylvia Porter

'PROFILE' OF THE NEW STOCKHOLDER

When I bought my first few shares of stock, I was still in my teens. That was a long time ago, and in my years in the stock market since, I've been both wiped and whipsawed, I've made big money and also lost it, I've sold some stocks with ideal timing, on others taken sickening "round trips" (meaning I've ridden them way up, then ridden them right down to my purchase prices and below).

Overall, I'm way ahead, and in the meantime I've learned emotionally as well as intellectually such basic Wall Street guides as: Don't try for the last eighth; there's room for bulls and bears, but not for pigs and hogs; know your aim in investing and never lose sight of it; ignore the hot tips and buy values, but if you've proved wrong, cut your losses short; never freeze to a point of view; you have to be wrong to be right (translation, buy before the crowd, sell before the crowd).

As much as an informed outsider can be, I think I'm a pro, and thus, when a stock market crackup of the magnitude we've seen in 1962 occurs and erases most of the stock gains of the past four years, I can weigh what's happening against the background of previous slumps, be philosophical about "giving some of it back."

But what about the 4,500,000 men and women who have entered the stock market for the first time since 1959 and who, unless they have been extraordinarily nimble and lucky, are now either sitting with paper losses or already have taken a licking? How might these millions and the millions more directly affected as members of their families react, and what might this mean to the economy of the United States?

A study of the "profile" of the new investor since 1959, released recently as part of the New York Stock Exchange's fourth census of the shareholder population of the U.S., indicates the answers to these questions might be disturbing. Here are the dominant characteristics of these new investors and their possible implications.

FINDING: The average annual household income of the new stockholder is $8,600. Most significantly, 10 per cent of them are in the two highest income brackets -- $15,000-$25,000 and $25,000-and-over, compared with 5 per cent in these income groups who were classified as new shareholders in 1959. The percentage of new shareholders in the lowest income brackets, who would be mostly retired people -- is nominal.

IMPLICATION: Many of these new shareholders are in brackets where they have discretion over how they spend and how much. If they are disturbed, they can decide to draw back on spending for big-ticket items particularly. If they do so, they could put a drag on our economy at a time when what we need is precisely the opposite.

FINDING: The average age of the new stockholder is 39 against an average age for the entire shareholder population of 48. More than half of the neophytes are between 35 and 54.

IMPLICATION: These are the ages when family responsibilities are heavy and when a nestegg in stocks has a pressing purpose -- such as education of the children. A blow in the pocketbook could seriously hurt these families. When a youngster loses -- as I did at the start -- it's different. They have years in which to make it up.

FINDING: A majority -- 55 per cent -- of the new shareholders are women and a large percentage of them received their first shares through inheritance.

IMPLICATION: These women well may depend on these nesteggs for support -- and if they are not reassured about the economy and the market's solidity, they might actively start pinching pennies.

FINDING: While four out of five of new shareholders since 1959 are high school graduates, only 25 per cent are college graduates. Among new shareowners, the education level actually has been falling.

IMPLICATION: Many of these are economic illiterates, not capable of grasping economic fundamentals, too easily misled into believing much of the nonsense being spread about the causes for the market's break, and thus candidates for the "lack of confidence" camp.

Pros don't worry about pros. When a pro gets taken to the cleaners, he sets his chin, starts trying to get back and rebuild. The neophytes are the ones who bother me -- and they should be bothering leaders of government, business and labor, too.

Posts Bond for American Nazis

MIAMI — A Miami fireman with a known anti-Semitic background posted bond for two members of the American Nazi Party who were arrested here while picketing the office of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

The two nazis, Roger C. Foss and Gene Shalander, were taken into "protective custody" after they were threatened by a hostile crowd. Later they were charged with disturbing the peace, assaulting a police officer, inciting to riot and possible vagrancy.

Bond of $250 was posted for Foss and $150 for Shalander by Warren C. Chapman, who said he represented a group of "interested citizens" who had raised the money. Chapman's anti-Semitic leanings became publicized when he told a Miami News reporter that while he was not a member of the American Nazi Party, he supported it because it was "the only organization which stands up against the Zionist conspiracy."

The Lyons Den

by Leonard Lyons

On Richard Rodgers' 60th birthday, his wife took a cab to her hairdresser's all aglow with pride in the honors he would receive that day. From the radio in the cab came music, the son "The Girl That I Marry"... Mrs. Rodgers couldn't contain herself. She told the driver: "My husband wrote that song..." "Yeah, nice song," said the driver. "What's your husband's name?"... "Richard Rodgers," she said, beamingly. The driver nodded.

Later, under the hair-dryer, Mrs. Rodgers hummed that song, "The Girl That I Marry"—then seemed stunned: "I just realized Dick didn't write that song. Irving Berlin did."

Rodgers, incidentally, was given a private screening of the completed film on "Lawrence of Arabia," and may write some background music for it... Charles Goren, the bridge expert, received a phone call from Gen. Alfred Greunther asking if he was free to come to Washington. Goren went, and was teamed with Gen. Eisenhower in a bridge-game... Paul Hoffman and Ann Rosenberg will honeymoon in Brazil, attending the Council on World Tensions.

The late Glenn Miller's son, Pvt. Stephen Miller, is in training at the Camp Pendleton Marine Base. He says his mother still feels his father will walk in the door some day... Roddy McDowall just finished his role in "Cleopatra"—a year after he left "Camelot" for Rome. A teenager approached Sue Lyon, who plays "Lolita," asked for the youngster's autograph, then apologized: "It's not for me; it's for my uncle."

The Bert Lahr musical, "Foxy," which opened the Dawson City Gold Rush Festival, will be brought to Broadway for the N.Y. World's Fair year... The great Villa-Lobos score for "Magdalena" will be revived in a concert production in a North and South America tour. The music was not recorded during its N.Y. run, because of a strike... When "Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone" opened in Panama, director Jose Quintero, who was born there, was decorated by the President.

J. Eckert Goodman, the author of "The Man Who Came Back" and co-author of the "Potash and Perlmutter" plays, died recently at his home near Peekskill. Once, when a small circuit played nearby, Goodman rented an elephant, painted it pink, and parked it in the garden... Goodman was giving a cocktail party. He invited the drinkers to step into the garden to see his pigeons. "A pink elephant?" he told them. "There's no pink elephant. You must be drunk."

Franz Allers, conductor of "Camelot", will receive a two-week leave of absence, to conduct the "My Fair Lady" opening in West Berlin Oct. 25. It is being produced by Lars Schmidt, husband of Ingrid Bergman... Bernice Allen met a Texan's son who has a foreign helicopter... The Five Chavis Brothers are full-blooded Indians. The leader of the musical group said: "If it weren't for our ancestors, John Wayne would be a poor man today."

Jerry Wald was born for Hollywood. He worked there with dedication, thrived and was happy in his unique role. Jack Warner once assembled all his employees, warned them about a new industrial approach and, pointing his finger at each, said: "I'll fire anybody who let's that happen. Because I can get along without you, without you, and you, and..." His finger paused at Jerry Wald, and Warner said: "And I can — well, almost — get along without you."

During the war he attended the Jackson Day Dinner in Hollywood, where Speaker Sam Rayburn made the address. Wald kept taking notes, and an observer said: "Jerry, you must have been quite impressed by the speech, taking

Imports of Hate Materials Increasing in South Africa

JOHANNESBURG — The South African Jewish Board of Deputies indicated last week that anti-Semitic material coming into the country, particularly from the United States, seemed to have increased lately.

Maurice Porter, vice-chairman, told a meeting of the Board at which the increased flow of such material was reported that the importance of some recent anti-Jewish incidents "should not be exaggerated." He cited the bombing last month of sculptor Herman Wald's monument to martyred European Jews in Johannesburg's Westpark Jewish Cemetery, recent swastika daubings on some synagogues, and a scurrilous telegram from a former Nazi agent, Robey Leibbrandt, to Helen Suzman, a member of the South African Parliament.

Porter told the board that "South Africa has its share of the lunatic fringe and the execution of Adolf Eichmann was bound to have repercussions."

all those notes." Wald help up his notes. He'd written on the back of a menu: "WARNER BROS. Present ERROL FLYNN in ANDREW JACKSON in Glorious Technicolor."

Wald, who died very recently at age 49, started in Hollywood when he was 22. After 20 years there, as a writer of film-shorts to Executive Producer at major studios, he referred to himself as "the middle-aged Boy Wonder." Michael Curtiz complained of him: "Jerry is a brilliant fellow and would make a marvelous producer — if he didn't have so many ideas."

Wald said about one movie he made: "It's pure enchantment. No messages, no social problems — no torn shirts"... One day he listened to Marlon Brando ask for 85% of the profits as his fee for playing a role. Wald said: "We're lucky Marlon has already been analyzed, or he might really be unreasonable"... He once declared: "The only way to make a hit movie about George Washington is if Marilyn Monroe plays Martha."

He clipped the newspapers every day, for story-ideas. He circularized 4,000 libraries throughout the world, for the names of the authors whose books are most borrowed. Then Wald bought options on all those authors' available stories. And he managed, somehow, to get the best — Hemingway, Faulkner, D.H. Lawrence and James Joyce.

Jerry Wald held top posts at Columbia, RKO, Warner Bros., 20th Century-Fox. His epitaph, he said, would be: "Peace stranger; pass me by. I served under four mad emperors."

(Distributed 1962, by The Hall Syndicate, Inc.) (All Rights Reserved)

He noted that the Justice Ministry had made it clear that it did not defend Leibbrandt, who was imprisoned for treason during World War 2, and who is now trying to organize a right-wing movement in South Africa.

Porter also noted assurances that the Government would act when racial feelings were incited and trouble was created. He added that, while "this assurance was welcomed, we could have wished that the condemnation of Leibbrandt's telegram and his alleged private army had been more forthright."

The former Nazi agent sent the telegram to Miss Suzman last month, after she publicly attacked his new movement. In the telegram, Leibbrandt told Miss Suzman that "Mordecai alias Karl Marx, father and founder of modern communism, was a cursed Jew."

drew a hearty opening laugh by describing his customary ride in a New York taxicab. "I usually slink down in the backseat and ask the cab driver: 'Tell me about the Supreme Court.'"

He deplored our overseas relationships, pointing out that the American people are immobilized and should be awakened if they are to win the cold war with Russia.

"More recruits are needed today for our modern crusade than ever before," he emphasized, adding: "That's why I think that the little band in Israel is closer to the heartbeat of the world than we are today."

He stated the answer lies in exporting hundreds of experts in task forces who speak local languages and who can show hungry and illiterate, yet eager, people how to lay the foundation of a free society.

In closing, Justice Douglas said: "Once the peoples of the world feel the force of the free society and see that it is built on the creed of liberty and equality, democracy can become the most contagious influence on all the continents."

Later, when presented with a bible, Justice Douglas said: "Once before I was handed a bible and described as a man 'walking up and down with a bible in his hand.' When I got home, I looked it up in Job to identify that man. It was Satan."

In Hollywood...

By Barney Glazer

HOLLYWOOD, CALIFORNIA—William O. Douglas, Associate Justice, Supreme Court of the United States, visited filmland recently and delivered the first annual Independence Day lecture sponsored by the University of Judaism's Earl Warren Institute of Ethics and Human Relations.

On hand in the jam-packed hotel ballroom to greet the Supreme Court's great dissenter and one of the outstanding spokesmen of democracy in the world today, were:

Ted Post, director of many of television's major productions; Victor Carter, head of Republic Studios, who was Khrushchev's automobile companion on the Soviet leader's Hollywood tour. When Mr. K learned Russian-speaking Carter's religion, he protested: "Why did they have to give me a Jew as a guide?"; Herschel Bernardi, famous as Lt. Jacoby on the Peter Gunn television show, who will star in the Freeway Circuit's stage production, "Death of a Salesman," in September. "I'm thrilled with the role," said Bernardi, before the Supreme Court justice spoke. "I got into the script at least eight times and broke up each time."

Playwright Norman Corwin delivered a reading in which he stated: "I'm partial to independence and beholden to Judaism." Of the evening's distinguished guest, Corwin commented: "Thomas Jefferson and Justice Douglas could have traded jobs without any disturbance to either's beliefs."

Dr. Simon Greenberg, President of the University of Judaism, located in Hollywood, and the largest teacher training center in this country, described the honored guest as the "prophetic voice of America."

In his address, Justice Douglas

Negroes Use Hate Slogans In Picketing

NEW YORK — Negro leaders in Harlem were split this week over charges that a group of Black Nationalists had used anti-Semitic slogans in their protest against plans by a Jewish businessman to open a restaurant in the Negro area.

The restaurateur, Sol Singer, offered to reduce the racial tensions by asserting he was ready either to take in Negro partners in the proposed restaurant or to sell out to Negroes. He made the offer after undergoing three weeks of militant and occasionally anti-Semitic picketing, which arose from claims by the picketers that Singer planned to force a near-by Negro-operated restaurant to close.

The picketing was denounced by Jackie Robinson, a former star baseball player, who is now vice-president of Chock Full O'Nuts which operates a chain of restaurants, including several in Harlem, and by A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. Both are leaders in the Negro community.

Randolph called a press conference to discuss Singer's offer and to denounce "provocative, inflammatory" tactics of the Black Nationalists. He said that they had chanted such slogans as "Jew go away—black man stay." Robinson said, "All my life I have been fighting against this same thing as it applies to Negroes. Black supremacy is just as bad as white supremacy." The Black Nationalists last weekend started picketing a Chock Full O'Nuts restaurant in Harlem.

A villain that spreads dirt and smudge in the home

RADIATORS and BASEBOARD HEATING UNITS

Heat rises. If there is dust on your radiators or baseboard heating units, it will rise with the heat, soiling walls, drapes or ceilings . . . regardless of the type of fuel used. Your heating units and nearby walls should be cleaned periodically with soap and water. Oil Heat is clean because the fuel moves from an enclosed tank to an enclosed burner, producing a flame within an enclosed chamber. This chamber is not open to any part of the home except the chimney. However, the heat in your home . . . any heat, definitely provides a means for dirt and dust to circulate regardless of the fuel used.

REMEMBER . . . CLEAN MODERN OIL HEAT MAKES HOUSEKEEPING A LOT EASIER!

Request Police Ban Nazi Pickets

PHILADELPHIA — The Jewish Community Relations Council of Greater Philadelphia this week called upon the city's law enforcement agencies to take appropriate action to prevent the unlawful picketing, breaches of the peace and incitement to riot on the part of such groups as the followers of George Lincoln Rockwell and his American Nazi Party.

A statement setting forth the position of the JCRC was drafted and adopted by the council's board of directors, after consultation and study with prominent lawyers who willingly pointed out that the demonstrations of the self-styled nazis are designed to taunt, insult and provoke, and that such activities are illegal, as they constitute the crime of inciting to riot.

In New York, the American Jewish Congress replied to the charges of Young Israel. Taking issue especially with the charge that the AJC "has turned into a Civil Liberties Union," it stated:

"We regret the decision of Young Israel to terminate their affiliation with the American Jewish Congress, especially since the reason given for their action misrepresents the character of the Congress. It is not true, as they say, that Congress is merely a 'civil liberties' organization."

Dim Future For Algerian Jews

nounced only to prove to African states, friendly to Israel that Israel was not "pro-French" on the Algerian question.

Express Amazement

In Geneva, international circles—including the Red Cross, the World Health Organization and some officials at the European headquarters of the United Nations — reacted with amazement when it was disclosed that Algeria's Provisional Government has rejected the medical teams, which were ready to provide aid during the grave health situation in Algeria. They expressed astonishment over the "racist" attitude apparently taken in Algeria.

Despite their attitude of hostility toward Israel, two Algerian leaders took pains last week to assure Algerian Jews of what they said was their friendship. Vice-Premier Mohammed Ben Bella, who said a few months ago in Cairo that he would send Algerian troops to fight Israel, told a crowd in Oran that he and his brother Khidir "were intent on coming here, first of all to visit this bruised population, but also to address ourselves to the European population and our Jewish brothers."

Ferhat Abbas, leader of the former Algerian Provisional Government, said in Setit, Algeria, "I am addressing myself to my non-Moslem citizens — to the Christians who go to church Sunday, to the Jews who on Saturday go to the Synagogue."

"I say to them," The Moslem who goes to the mosque does not wish to monopolize the Algerian homeland. The Algerian homeland will not exist until such times as the Church, the Synagogue and the Mosque are united in the same fruitful efforts."

Reveals Religious Fanatics Trying To Subvert Israel

JERUSALEM — Information obtained by Israel's security services during its search for Yossele Schumacher has revealed the existence of Jewish religious fanatic groups in the United States, Britain, France and Switzerland who are seeking to subvert the State of Israel.

This was revealed this week by the chief of the security services - whose name is never publicly used - when he reported to the Israeli Cabinet and in a news conference with editors of Israeli daily newspapers.

The official said the hatred of Israel by some Jews abroad stemmed from a conviction that the existence of a Jewish State at this time defied the will of God, since they believe God wanted Jews to suffer in exile until the coming of the Messiah.

Reveals Details

According to a spokesman for the Cabinet, the security chief described activities by "fanatic factions" involved in the case, and told of anti-Government actions by some persons. He implicated a famous Hasidic Rebbe. "Many of the disclosures were most revealing, and are not known publicly despite the spate of publicity given the case," said the spokesman.

The security chief told the editors that the abductors of Yossele had considered having plastic surgery performed on the boy, to prevent his identification. The suggestion that the plastic operation had already been performed was used by his abductors in an attempt to blackmail certain religious personalities in Israel into continuing to work against the boy's return, the security chief declared.

According to the official the abductors had not intended at any time to return the boy to Israel, as their main objective was a "holy war" against the State. The ultra-Orthodox groups involved in the Schumacher case were alleged to be engaged in a wide anti-Israeli plot and to have acted against the incorporation of Jerusalem in the Jewish State.

Yossele was hidden by his grandfather, Nachman Starkes, nearly three years ago, when the elder man feared that the boy's parents, Alter and Ida Schumacher, would not give him a sufficiently Orthodox education. The boy was later spirited out of Israel by unknown persons, and was found living in Brooklyn recently. He has now been reunited with his parents in Holon, a suburb of Tel Aviv.

Rabbis Arrested

On suspicion that they had been involved in the hiding of Yossele from his parents, two young rabbis were arrested by police this week in Bnei Brak, a town near Tel Aviv, known for Yeshivot and ultra-Orthodoxy.

Haim Weisner, 23, one of the rabbis arrested, is the son of the dean of the Hachmey Lublin Yeshiva, and a son-in-law of the late Rabbi Meislich of Jerusalem, whose name had earlier been connected with the abduction. The second rabbi arrested, Rabbi Maklef, is also 23.

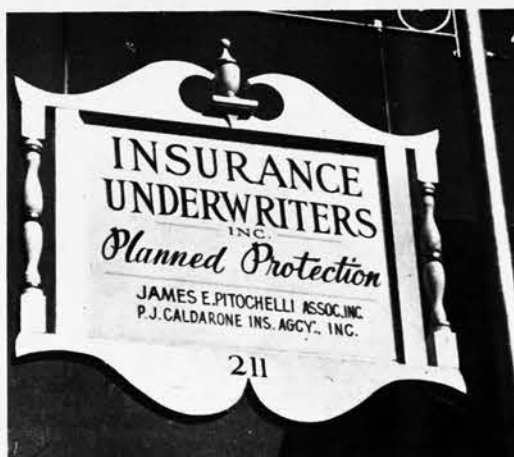

Yossele will take the stand soon in Jerusalem District Court in the trial of a couple charged with hiding him before he was spirited out of Israel. On trial will be Zalman and Rachel Kutt, members of the Poale Agudat Israel collective village of Kommemiut, where the child reportedly was held for a time after he was abducted.

It was indicated that Yossele will be asked when he was at Kommemiut. This is a point of contention at the trial because the defense maintains that the couple harbored the boy before the issue came up before the Israel Supreme Court which ordered his immediate return. On that basis, the defense has argued the Kutts are not guilty of defying the court order.

In another development in the Yossele case the attorney for the child's parents here announced the Schumachers will sue Rabbi Avraham Gertner of Brooklyn, in whose home the boy had been apprehended, for the suffering undergone by the parents.

DAYAN HITS MAPAI

JERUSALEM — The Jewish Agency executive gave full support to its president, Nahum Goldmann, on the issue raised against him by Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion on some diplomatic talks Goldmann held in the U. S. with Philip Talbot, for Near Eastern Affairs, and Dr. Joseph E. Johnson, U. N. Palestine Conciliation Commission special envoy on Palestine refugee problems.
