

Nathan Sklar Looks Forward To Challenge Of New Position

By Celia Zuckerberg

Interested in helping retarded children for many years, Nathan E. Sklar Executive Director of the Jewish Family and Children's Service, will have a chance to expand on many of his ideas in his new position as executive director of the Retarded Children's Society of Dade County, Fla. Dade County, which has just under a million in population, includes Miami, Miami Beach, Coral Gables, Hialeah.

Sorry though he is to leave his present position, which he has held for the past 12 years, (Mr. Sklar says that he had a very good board to work with and that they allowed him to initiate new programs as well as allowing him to maintain high professional standards for his staff), he is obviously delighted with his new post.

The organization in Florida, which was originally started by parents of retarded children who felt an acute need for its services and later joined the United Funds recognizing its merits, is only three years old, and not much has been done in that short time. It is a "fertile field" according to Mr. Sklar.

The board of directors of the Retarded Children's Society, a non-sectarian organization he says, is eager to entertain new ideas and new programs. And to Mr. Sklar it is an opportunity to expand his horizons and go into community organization and social planning. He hopes to continue the family counseling but with a broader basis for established necessary services for a large group of dependent people — unfortunately mental retardation is a chronic condition and requires constant attention. There is "so much to be learned about the whole field," comments Mr. Sklar. "It is only in the last five years that money has been put into research, to try to find the causes of mental retardation, methods of prevention, educational training. We have no idea what the potential is in the way of social and occupational adjustment. That's the challenge!" concludes Mr. Sklar.

Mr. Sklar has been active in many phases of work involving the mentally retarded starting back in 1951 when, with the permission of the JFCS board, he organized the Parents Council for Retarded Children in Rhode Island. He served as professional advisor, until at his suggestion, they hired a full-time executive director.

In 1961 Mr. Sklar helped establish the Parent Counseling Project. He is now chairman of the advisory committee. He developed the prospectus for the special federal grant which enabled the establishment of an occupational training center for the severely retarded at the John Fogarty Center on Atwells Avenue. He is chairman of the Rhode Island Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers and he is also chairman of the Board of Registration of Social Workers for the state of Rhode Island.

What surprised Mr. Sklar was the fact that not only did he

Warn That Weddings Performed By Cantors May Not Prove Valid

CHICAGO — The Chicago Board of Rabbis, representing all three branches of Judaism, issued a warning last week that "acceptability of future weddings may be in doubt if performed without benefit of a rabbi." The statement was issued in connection with a recent court ruling that weddings performed by cantors were not valid.

Although the statement did not refer directly to the recent ruling by a Superior Court judge to that effect, the rabbinical

Egyptian Leaders Say Armaments Amassed For Attack On Israel

LONDON — Egypt's two top-most leaders, President Gamal Abdel Nasser and War Minister-Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer, announced boldly in Cairo that the rockets fired by the Egyptians, and other armaments exhibited in a "Revolution Day" parade, are being amassed for a war against Israel, according to Cairo dispatches received here.

"I want the world to know," said President Nasser, "that we will not allow Palestine to remain in the hands of Israel. As the world has seen, we are getting ready." Marshal Amer took the salute of Egypt's armed forces, alongside President Nasser, as Cairo watched the military parade celebrating the tenth anniversary of the Nasser coup which overthrew King Farouk, and declared:

"The United Arab Republic air force has full command of the skies in our area. Its armed forces are the strongest in Africa and the Middle East. The enemy facing the Arab world is Israel, an imperialist base. The

The luncheon will feature roundtable "buzz" sessions. Joseph Galkin, executive director of the General Jewish Committee will discuss "The Local Story" during the luncheon session. He will explain the programs of local beneficiary agencies of the GJC.

There will be questions and answers during both panel sessions.

Mrs. Burton A. Finberg will serve as hospitality chairman at the institute. Mrs. Julius Irving will be in charge of hostesses and Mrs. Bertram L. Bernhardt in charge of registration.

A villain that spreads dirt and smudge in the home

COOKING FATS AND GREASES

Chemical analysis of soiled walls and drapes conducted in hundreds of homes has revealed that cooking fats and greases are major enemies to a clean house. The steam that rises from the pots and pans on your stove is heavily laden with these fats and greases. When the vapors condense on the cool surfaces of walls, drapes or furniture, you have dirt. A hood over your stove will help control this source of dirt, collecting the vapors before they spread. If a hood is impractical, make it a habit to keep your exhaust fan running whenever foods are cooking. Oil Heat is clean because the fuel moves from an enclosed tank to an enclosed burner, producing a flame within an enclosed chamber. This chamber is not open to any part of the home except the chimney. However, the heat in your home . . . any heat, definitely provides a means for dirt and dust to circulate regardless of the fuel used.

Jeering Crowd Breaks Up Meeting In Trafalgar Square

LONDON—The much-advertised open-air meeting of the British Union of Fascists, led by Sir Oswald Mosley, took place last weekend at Trafalgar Square and was broken up by a huge crowd after lasting only 20 minutes. Many people in the crowd — Jews and non-Jews — wore the yellow Star of David as an expression of protest against the speakers.

The meeting broke up before Sir Oswald himself could speak and none of the other speakers at the meeting made specific references to Jews. Jewish organizations appealed to Jews to stay away from Trafalgar Square during the meeting; however, many individual Jews were in the crowd. They were far outnumbered by opponents of nuclear testing which Sir Oswald favors.

The crowd on Trafalgar

Square was almost to a man hostile to the fascist speakers. It broke through the police line and smashed the speakers' platform. At that point, a Chief Superintendent of Police, in charge of the police forces, officially stopped the rally announcing he was halting the meeting "to preserve public order and prevent rioting."

The Board of Deputies of British Jews had asked Jews to write to their representatives in Parliament to urge that public meetings organized solely to spread race hatred and incitement should be banned and, if necessary, that the Public Order Act of 1936 be amended for that purpose. The Board also decided to seek an early meeting with the Home Secretary to discuss measures needed to meet the situation created by the emergence in Britain "of a small but virulent nazi organization."

Prosecution Demanded

A Government spokesman informed the House of Commons last week that British police had not been able to find sufficient evidence to sustain a prosecution of the British National Socialist movement under the Public Order Act.

The issue was raised by Arthur Lewis, a Laborite, who asked Henry Brooke, the Secretary of State for the Home Department, if he had studied evidence sent him by a member of Parliament about the training of a quasi-military organization whose members described themselves as nazi storm troopers wearing uniforms to indicate their association with a political organization.

In his reply, Brooke said that the police commissioner had the situation "under close review," and that, if sufficient facts were obtained, the matter would be

More Jews Sentenced

LONDON — Another Soviet Jew has been singled out by the Soviet Union for a long prison term on charges of having "speculated in gold coins," according to a Moscow dispatch received here.

The Jew is Usher I. Reznik, of Moldavia, near the Rumanian border. His trial, conviction and sentencing to eight years' imprisonment were reported in the newspaper Sovetskaya Moldavia. The Soviet court claimed Reznik had been a member of a "big merchant family" in Bessarabia.

Earlier in the week, two other Jews had been sentenced to death after conviction of "economic crimes," according to an announcement in Izvestia, organ of the Soviet Government.

The Jews are L. Y. Feldsher, director of a knitwear factory in the Kirghiz Republic, Central Asia; and M. A. Goldman, manager of the knitwear department of another factory in the same area. The trial, at which these Jews were convicted, took place in the criminal court of Frunze, capital of Kirghizia. Izvestia stated that 50 persons were tried in proceedings that lasted four months, and resulted in death sentences for four of the accused, including Feldsher and Goldman. Others were given long prison sentences.

Observers here, specializing in analysis of Soviet affairs, pointed out that, as often in the past two years, the death sentences for Jews were given prominence by emphasis of their "Jewish" names and by the fact that, as in this case, at least half of those sentenced to death were obviously Jewish.

In Washington, Sen. Kenneth B. Keating demanded that the State Department instruct the newly-named U. S. Ambassador to the Soviet Union, Foy D. Kohler, to "exert all his influence" to reduce anti-Semitism

Recommend Dismissal

LONDON — The dismissal of Colin Jordan, leader of the British National Socialist movement, from his teaching position in a Coventry school, was recommended last week by the school's governors.

Jordan was suspended from his teaching job as an aftermath of a riotous anti-Semitic rally of his group in Trafalgar Square on July 1. The governors' recommendation that his suspension be continued and his services terminated by the school at the end of the year will now go before the Coventry school government sub-committee.

fact that Israel has an atomic reactor, functioning in secret, leads us to believe that she will use it for aggressive purposes."

The reports from Cairo indicated that, in addition to the rockets fired Saturday, Egypt also possesses new MIG-21 jet fighters recently acquired from the Soviet Union, as well as the new, Soviet TU-16 bombers, plus Russian tanks and new, Soviet types of artillery.

Nasser boasted in his speech opening the "Revolution Day" celebration that he has still other secret armaments. He told his crowds: "You will not see all of my new weapons. Some will remain secret." He said also that, soon, he will open a factory for the production of "Egypt's own jet planes." Thus far, all of Egypt's jets have been acquired from the Soviet Union.

In Jerusalem, Maj. Gen. Zvi Tsor, chief of Israel's defense forces declared Egypt's firing of rockets must remind Israel that "we must take our security problems seriously." At the same time, both Gen. Tsor and Shimon Peres, Deputy Minister of Defense, stated that, thus far, Egypt's rocketry program has greater importance as propaganda than as an immediate military threat. Both spoke as Israel artillery started a series of exercises that will last four days.

Analyzing the Egyptian rocket firing from its military aspects, Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion, who is also Israel's Minister of Defense, emphasized the role played in Egypt's rocketry program by foreign experts.

Military experts in Israel generally do not consider Egypt's rockets as a major Egyptian technical achievement. It is known that some of the major components of Egypt's rocket had been shipped to Cairo from West Germany electronic and guidance equipment for the Egyptian rockets had come from other European countries and the rocket assembly was developed by a group of West German experts headed by Eugen Sanger.

Egypt's claim that the Cairo rockets are capable of hitting a target at 400 miles is believed to be exaggerated. However, even with a range of half that distance, an Egyptian rocket could hit a large area of Israel.

According to available information, no single-stage rocket manufactured in Egypt can go the distance claimed. It is believed that the rockets fired were not controllable in flight and were more closely akin to ballistic missiles. It was pointed out that, while target accuracy is not required by rockets with atomic warhead, the effect of rockets carrying conventional explosives is "minimal."

The use of the Egyptian rockets on any intensive pattern would require construction of a complete network of launching bases which would not be likely to remain undetected and would be vulnerable to destruction.

However, Defense Deputy Peres made it clear that Israel will board said that the proper role for a cantor in a marriage was to "participate with the rabbi in the ceremony by chanting appropriate portions of the service."

At the same time, a divorce was granted Mrs. Judith Pollard by Superior Court Judge David A. Canel, who had issued the opinion that "cantors could not legally perform weddings." He refused to grant Mrs. Pollard an annulment on those grounds, however, instructing her to seek a divorce action instead, so that the issue would be cleared in her case.

After Judge Canel issued his ruling, State Rep. Michael F. Zlatnik prepared a bill for submission to the Illinois legislature in January, which would legalize all previous marriages by cantors in Illinois.

In a related action, Rabbi Moses Mescheloff, president of the Orthodox Chicago Rabbinical Council, offered without charge the services of members of the council to "marry again" any couple involved in such a marriage where investigation would show possible jeopardy under Jewish religious law.

do everything possible to preserve the balance of military power. He stressed Israel "does not at all intend to underestimate this Egyptian effort just as we are not inclined to forget that Egypt is constantly working toward implementation of its aggressive intentions against Israel."

not solicit the job, but everything happened in just 12 days. On June 29 he received a telephone call about the position, he accepted on July 12, on July 13 he notified the board of the Jewish Family & Children's Service and on August 15 he will be leaving to take up his new position in Florida.

Asked whether his family minded moving to Florida (there are his wife Ruth, Barbara, 17; William, 14½ and Susan, 10), he said they were thrilled. To him and his wife actually it will be something like a homecoming since although both were originally natives of New Jersey they were married in Florida and when Mr. Sklar was in the service he was stationed in Florida.

Born in Meriden Conn. Mr. Sklar received his B.A. from Gettysburg College in Gettysburg, Pa., and his Master's degree in psychiatric social work from the Boston University of Social Work. He spent three years in the army as the Chief Psychiatric Social Worker in the Neuro-Psychiatric unit in the Army Air Force Convalescent Hospital. He was also Chief Psychiatric Social Worker in the Veterans Mental Hygiene Clinic in Newark, N. J.

Israel Arrests Jewel Thief

TEL AVIV — Berl Leib Farkas, 44, an international crook wanted by Interpol, landed in Haifa Port jail after disembarking from the Zim ship Jerusalem. Farkas faces deportation proceedings as the Israel government seeks to dispel any illusions among Jewish criminals abroad that the doors of Israel are open to them under the "law of the return." The law was amended in 1954 to authorize the Minister of the Interior to exclude persons with criminal records.

Series of Thefts

The Jerusalem Post listed Farkas crimes starting with the theft of seven kilograms of gold in Zurich in 1947. Five years later, he showed up in Mexico City and introduced himself as a leading international diamond dealer. He got away with $6,000 worth of loot. Using a forged passport, he went to the U.S. and got away with $4,000 worth of goods from various victims and then returned to Geneva, where he once again became a "diamond dealer." The loot this time was $8,600 in gems.

Other stopovers include Leeds (L600); Paris (F60,000); and finally South Africa, where he tricked people into trusting him with $5,500 worth of diamonds.

His operations were carried out under half a dozen aliases. The Israel Police were first informed of his activities in 1959.

Jewish Doctor Slashed — Kidnapped

MONTEVIDEO — A 34-year-old Jewish physician, Maximon Handel, was attacked here last week by four anti-Semitic youths who bundled him into a car and cut a swastika into his leg. It was the third anti-Semitic attack here in a few days and police made no arrests in any of them.

At the same time, Dr. Carlos Adroque, the Argentine Interior Minister, repeated in Buenos Aires, his pledge to act vigorously to prevent the recurrence of numerous anti-Semitic incidents which have shocked the Argentine Jewish community during the past month.

Dr. Handel was tricked by a telephone call from a person purporting to need medical aid. When he alighted from his car at the given address, he was beaten unconscious and hauled by the attackers into another car. When he regained consciousness, the men had fled and he made his way to a first aid station where he was hospitalized with a fractured skull.

Dr. Handel told police that he thought he heard his assailants say "Long Live Hitler" and "Death to the Jews." Dr. Handel has no political record of any kind.

In an earlier incident, Miss Soledad Barret, a non-Jewish Uruguayan girl, also was sized and branded with a swastika. In the first of the three attacks, Elbio Yamandu Ferrer, a Uruguayan student was hit upon the head. A number of physicians have reported false telephone calls and some threatening messages by telephone.

DAIA, the central body of Argentine Jewry, cabled a message of solidarity to the Central Jewish Committee of Uruguay. The DAIA urged the committee to combat Nazism which "is invading Latin American countries."

Dr. Adroque repeated his pledge, made originally in a nation-wide radio and television address on July 3, in a letter to Dr. Isaac Goldenberg, president of the DAIA. Dr. Goldenberg had sent a letter to Dr. Adroque, expressing the appreciation of Argentine Jewry for the earlier statement. "I thank you for the trust which I have evoked in you," the Minister wrote. "I repeat on this occasion that I will avoid by all means at my command the aggressions which degrade Argentine citizens and offend our fatherland. I made that statement on behalf of the government and I ask you to be as assured that the government will be inflexible."

Swastika Painters Lose Court Appeal

HARTFORD — An appeal by two Norwalk men from a 60-day jail sentence for painting swastikas on the Beth Israel Synagogue in Norwalk has been rejected by the Connecticut Supreme Court of Errors.

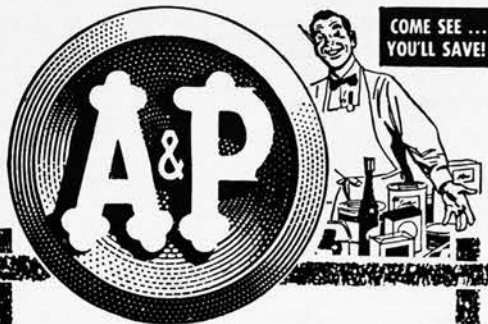

The convicted men, Harold Fahy and William Arnold, admitted during their trial that they had painted the swastikas on the synagogue on Feb. 1, 1960, but sought to have the court view the act as a prank. Fahy is a University of Virginia graduate. Arnold is a German national who was awaiting action on an application for American citizenship at the time of his arrest on the smearing charge. He was raised in Germany during the Hitler era.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

SOCIALIST SWEDEN — 'BUSINESSMAN'S PARADISE'

Sweden, birthplace of the cooperative movement and of much of the most advanced social welfare legislation in history, motherland of the Social Democrats and of direct economic controls, has long been known as the land of the "middle way" between the communism of the Soviet Union and the free enterprise of the United States. This was its boast in the 1930s, in fact, and I recall vividly how we studied her laws then to see how much Franklin D. Roosevelt was modeling U.S. welfare programs after those of this small northern European nation.

It was the "middle way" then. It isn't now. Sweden has moved so far away from socialism and toward private enterprise that Business Week recently quoted a British banker as saying, "Sweden is a businessman's paradise," and experts who are analyzing the growth in the European economies in recent years to see what Europe is doing that we might copy here are increasingly urging attention to many of Sweden's policies.

ITEM: Sweden has the most liberal rules in the world governing the tax deductions businessmen can take when they invest in machinery and equipment. In comparison, our newly liberalized depreciation schedules still appear exceedingly tough and restrictive.

For instance, a Swedish corporation can fully write off what it spends for machinery and equipment within five years, thereby lowering its earnings subject to taxes and slash its tax liability. It can, if it wishes, write off 51 per cent of the equipment's cost within two years. Within these liberal limits, it also can arrange its depreciation any way it prefers.

Admittedly, a reason Sweden can afford this is that she relies much less than we do on corporation income taxes to balance her budget. But the key point is that, primarily as a result of this enormous incentive, private industry's gross investment in Sweden amounts to one-third of her total output, and her growth rate last year was an enviable 4 1/2 per cent — a goal for which we are striving, but failing miserably to reach.

ITEM: Sweden is still strongly pushing social welfare programs and her welfare spending this year will be 9 per cent above last year's. But — and this is THE CRUCIAL BUT — to finance these programs, Sweden is levying sales taxes on consumers, not hitting the businessman. This alone shows how far she has traveled from the system which, as Business Week put it, "once appealed to have-nots the world over. Today, Sweden is more like a giant corporation whose employees pay for most of their national 'fringe benefits' out of wages — freeing management to provide for a growing economic pie."

ITEM: Since the 1950s, Sweden has been shifting the burden of paying for welfare programs to those who benefit most from them. She cut the corporation tax rate from 50 to 40 per cent in the late 1950s, the top individual tax rate from 80 to 65 per cent. (Our rates are 52 per cent on corporations, 91 per cent top rate on individuals.) Her general sales tax is now up to 6.4 per cent.

Now direct taxes on Sweden's businessmen amount to 2.4 per cent of her total output against 4.5 per cent here while her direct taxes on individuals amount to 14.5 per cent of output versus 9.5 per cent here.

ITEM: Sweden has swung away from low interest rates to the orthodox policy of high interest rates to control inflation. Her interest rate levels are far above ours, but at the same time, she pays any interest on housing loans above 4 per cent, and thus subsidizes home building.

ITEM: Most significant of all, though, is the extent to which the Swedish government and businessmen are cooperating to speed and maintain the economy's growth. This is what the First National City Bank, in another reference to Europe's growth, calls the "something intangible in the atmosphere, a spirit of positive encouragement to enterprise."

This also is the point which German Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard makes in his book "Prosperity Through Competition," when he says "It is considerably easier to allow everyone a larger slice out of a bigger pie than to gain anything by discussing the division of a smaller cake."

What glorious irony it would be if just as we followed this Arctic Circle land to the "left" in the 1930s, we follow her to the "right" in the 1960s! We very well may too.

To Act Against Nazi Teachers

BONN — Officials of the Teachers College of Bielefeld gave assurances last week that action would be taken against two teachers who lauded the Nazi regime in a classroom discussion on the Nazi atrocities against Jews.

One of the teachers said he felt greatly honored at having experienced the Nazi era. The other called the mass slaughter of European Jewry by the Nazis

"a legend." A group of students took strong exception to this "distorting of the latest period of German history" and complained to college officials.

The Ministry of the Interior of Bavaria announced last week the dissolution of the right-wing Federation of Patriotic Youth and all of its subsidiaries. The Ministry said the activities of the organizations were inconsistent with the Constitution of Bavaria.

The Lyons Den

by Leonard Lyons

President Kennedy entertained a West African diplomat who was visiting Washington for a few days. The President asked what he thought of Washington, and the African said, "I like the people, but not the food." "With me," replied JFK, "it's usually been the opposite."

Tony Franciosa is flying to New York to test for the leading role in the new Dick Rodgers-Alan Jay Lerner musical, Richard Burton had expressed interest, but then decided he couldn't do it. . . . Abe Ribicoff raised $40,000 for his Senatorial campaign at a fund-raising luncheon in New York last week. . . . Edward Gilbert, the industrialist who fled to Rio, sold out his interest in Le Club here for 20 cents on the dollar.

No Broadway show ever has been written amid such fancy surroundings as now enfold Noel Coward and Harry Kurnitz. Coward is writing the songs and Kurnitz the book for "The Sleeping Prince." They spent a month working at Coward's home in Montreux, Switzerland. Then they moved to the George V in Paris so that Kurnitz could play golf with the Duke of Windsor. Next month they'll finish the show while cruising on Loel Guinness' yacht.

Guinness, incidentally, bought a helicopter to fly from his Palm Beach home to his golf club. "Yes, I know it's only two miles by car," he said, "but the traffic always is heavy."

Jonathan Miller, one of the four Englishmen in the revue "Beyond the Fringe," will continue his other career when the show opens in New York. Miller, a practicing pathologist, will work at Bellevue Hospital. . . . Producer Laurence Feldman will install steam heat in the Westport Playhouse to operate it on a year-round basis. . . . Although Bobby Kennedy won't campaign this fall, his wife will participate actively.

When Joe E. Lewis was in Hot Springs, Ark., recently, Winthrop Rockefeller sent his private plane to take Lewis to his farm. "Your plane is terrible," Lewis told Rockefeller. "They only served me beer." . . . After a tour of the 36,000-acre showplace, Rockefeller accompanied Lewis back to Hot Springs. There, before a crowd, Lewis said: "Thanks, Winnie. It's a nice farm, but I don't think I care to buy it."

"Eros," the new magazine, is courting a censorship fight. Its new issue will feature a picture story on JFK, but also closeups of the rotic sculpture of the Black Pagoda of Konarak. . . . Mrs. Joey Bushkin named their new, fourth daughter Christina. Mrs. Bushkin, sister of Mollie Bragdo Bostwick, is about to become an aunt, too. . . . As soon as Carl Sandburg's health permits, he'll move to California to resume work on "The Greatest Story Ever Told."

Victor Moore once rebelled against being type-cast and sought a different kind of role. He was offered Moliere's "The Would-Be Gentleman," and was assured it would be "a definite change." . . . Moore asked: "Can I play the character as a shy, timid man?" Yes, he was told, it might be played that way. "Can I play him as a sort of hick-type, puritan and meek?" Yes, the producer agreed. . . . "See?" said Moore, rejecting the role. "It's no different."

The chance to play a different role came too late for Moore. In "A Month of Sundays" he turned down the role of a ferry boat captain, sighing: "Too many steps to climb to the poop deck."

Jan Peerce, the Met star, did a recital in Stuttgart, Germany, then stayed an extra day to sing as a cantor at the newly-restored synagogue. . . . Morrow & Co. published George P. LeBrun's memoirs, "It's Time to Tell," on his 100th birthday recently. . . . Actors Equity's balance sheet lists over $2 million in assets. Of this sum, almost $1.5 million was in securities — but that was before the stock market started its dive.

Kitty Kallen, the singer at the Persian Room, tells of an actor who went to a psychiatrist to be cured of his enormous conceit. After a month the actor paid his bill and said, "Thanks, Doc, for making me a nicer person. Now I'm a pleasure to be with, sincere, understanding and with humility. I now feel I'm perfect."

"Requiem for a Heavyweight" and "Bird Man of Alcatraz" will be the U.S. entries in the Venice Film Festival. . . . Tom Poston's joining "Come Blow Your Horn" has added $2,000 to the weekly gross. . . . When Sophia Loren stepped off the plane from Italy the other night, press agent Harold Rand was waiting at the ladder with a bouquet of flowers for her. The Public Health officer nabbed Rand and had him inoculated.

Howard Lindsay discussed the problem of fantastic production costs in the Dramatist Bulletin. He told of the early days when Wee & Leventhal, who sent shows on tour, were masters at cutting expenses. One day Leventhal, checking expenses, was puzzled by one item — 40¢ for cigars. The prop man said eight cigars were needed for the performances each week, 5¢ per cigar.

He said it was for the scene "where the fellow who's trying to be friendly says to the other fellow, 'Have a cigar' and the other fellow says, 'Thanks.'" . . . Leventhal ruled: "Okay. The friendly fellow will say, 'Have a cigar' and the other fellow will say, 'Thanks' — and then he will say, 'But I don't smoke.'"

Rabbi Urges More Stress On Prayer

ST. PAUL—A Reform rabbi called on his fellow clergymen here to subordinate preaching to prayer. It was reported in the New York Times.

"The traditional sermon," he told the seventy-third annual convention of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, "ought no longer to occupy the central part of the service."

The plea to soft-pedal preaching was made by the Rev. Dr. W. Gunther Plaut, rabbi of Holy Blossom Temple in Toronto, Ont. He preached the annual "conference sermon" in the pulpit he held here for many years before going to Canada.

The conference, representing more than 800 rabbis of the Reform branch of American Judaism, had met for four days in Minneapolis.

Dr. Plaut told the rabbis that they should "stop following the Protestant tradition that exalts the sermon."

"Our religious services in the sanctuary," he said, "are to be clearly and unmistakably directed toward creating a true prayer experience."

Although emphasizing that preaching is worthy and valuable, he nevertheless insisted that it should be subordinated to the prayer service itself. In effect, the rabbi was stressing a strong tradition among Roman Catholics: the sermon, although instructive, must never take precedence over the worship of God.

Dr. Plaut was critical of rabbinic seminars for what he described as their failure to emphasize the practice of prayer.

THE UKRAINIAN Dance Company appeared here in the huge Shrine Auditorium and my only regret was that my beloved parents were not alive to witness this magnificent dance spectacle that would have restored many old-country memories.

Audience response was so enthusiastic, it is my earnest hope that some day our American performers will be greeted with the same enthusiasm in the Soviet Union instead of being surrounded with almost a complete absence of response, by official order, of course.

ED AMES, formerly of the four singing Ames Brothers, is smooth and forceful in his dramatic role as Paul Berthalet, the puppeteer, opposite Anna Maria Alberghetti in "Carnival" at the Philharmonic Auditorium. Ed hails from Malden, Mass. He abandoned his recording career temporarily and has emerged in full bloom as a talented and successful leading man.

LEONARD Bernstein's wonderful world of music in "West Side Story" is heard again, this time in Monte Proser's stage production at Frank Semmes' Moulin Rouge in Hollywood. It's a healthy companion to the Broadway and movie versions with Chita Rivera and Larry Kert from the Broadway cast, plus Carla (Anna Maria's sister) Alberghetti.

Sam Levenson, America's Sholem Aleichem who stepped up from an annual $3100 high school Spanish teacher income into a $150,000 yearly bracket as a gentle satirist of family life, once again melted an enthusiastic film-land audience into a state of delicious tzimmiss at his Coconut Grove opening.

Sam's humor is the tender, human kind that awakens memories of our own childhood, uncles, talkative tantes, and pious, hard-bitten parents and grandparents. Levenson's humor at the Coconut Grove, as well as at the Catskills, invites kindly laughter without a scapegoat.

The story that will stay with me forever is the one about Sam's mother, who became so exasperated one day by the frivolities of her offspring that she threatened to throw herself out the window. This, despite the fact, reminded Sam, that she lived in the basement.

LOTS of fun on the "Laramie" set with Robert Fuller, John Smith, cast, and crew, celebrating the 200th episode of their popular television series. Everyone I met had the same endorsement for Fuller and Smith: "Two of the sweetest guys we've ever had the pleasure to work with in all our career."

To which, I add a hearty: "How true." Bob and John are two of the sweetest and sincerest men I have ever interviewed in the Hollywood stem. The three of us are on the way to cementing a close and lasting friendship.

"Laramie's" associate producer, Dan Ullman, related on the set how his wife Gloria once came up with an idea that he write a 60-second television spot to stop the inroads of intolerance.

"It was to be a point of view story," interrupted Gloria. "It was our idea to light up an actor in a way that he'd look like Boris Karloff. Then, we'd change the lighting and presto! Same man, but now a very affable person."

"This was to prove our tolerance theme — it's all your point of view."

Dan's brother, by the bye, George Ullman, was agent for

Gives Details Of Assembly On Education

MINNEAPOLIS — Details of the forthcoming World Assembly for Jewish Education, which will be held next month in Jerusalem with the participation of delegates from 33 countries, were given here last week by Label A. Katz, president of B'nai B'rith, who is also co-chairman of the Conference of Jewish Organizations which is sponsoring the Assembly.

COJO is a consultative body of 10 major Jewish organizations from five continents. Its chairman is Dr. Nahum Goldmann.

Addressing a regional convention of B'nai B'rith here, Katz reported that the six-day assembly on Jewish education will be attended by 200 delegates, 100 alternates and 100 observers. The American delegation will be composed of 60 members and 30 alternates, about equally divided between educators and community leaders who are active in Jewish education affairs.

The second largest delegation will be that of Israel with 30 members. Great Britain, France and Argentina will each have a 10-member delegation. The presidium of COJO has been allotted 20 delegate seats at the assembly and 60 others have been allocated to Jewish communities of 28 other nations.

Katz told the 800 delegates representing B'nai B'rith units in the Midwest that COJO "has properly left the planning of the assembly to leading Jewish educators here and abroad."

While each delegate participates "ad personum" and unrelated to any organization affiliation, the assembly is "formidably bolstered by the participation of leaders from all areas of Jewish education, and notably by education leaders from the three branches of Judaism," he stressed.

COMMON MARKET
TEL AVIV — The European Common Market is expected to open official negotiations with Israel next September. Arab threats of a joint blockade if the negotiations are carried out, have been disregarded by the Market countries.

AGENCY SET UP

Opening lead: 3 of spades.

East took the first trick with the queen in her own hand and then drew trumps in four rounds, sluffing the king of diamonds and a heart from the dummy. East then led her two top spades from the board and when the jack failed to fall, cashed two top hearts, returned a spade and sluffed a diamond, thereby losing a spade and two diamonds for one trick set.

Comment: When the jack of spades did not fall, East should have led spades once more, ruffing with the last trump in her hand, and thus establishing an extra trick in spades while keeping the heart entry to the board. East would have then made contract.

This hand was played by a bridge group that has been meeting regularly for 12 years. Although not professionals, all of the players are above average. How would you have bid and played this hand?

Protest Road in Polish Cemetery

NEW YORK — A letter protesting against Polish Government plans to build a road through the old Jewish cemetery on Gesia Street, in Warsaw, was sent last week by the American executive of the World Federation of Polish Jews to Poland's Prime Minister Joseph Cyrankiewicz.

The letter, signed by Benjamin Teller and Isaac Gotlib, chairman and secretary of the executive here, stated that the projected road through the cemetery would be considered a "sacrilege." The letter appealed to the Polish Premier to intervene "in order to prevent such an action, which would cause grief and arouse serious resentment among millions of Jews in the United States and over the world."

Stop Hate Group Meeting in Ga.

ATLANTA, Ga. — Speedy action by the national headquarters of the Veterans of Foreign Wars resulted in cancellation of an agreement by a Georgia VFW post to allow use of its facilities for a rally called by a group of anti-Semitic agitators, it was disclosed here last week.

A post at Stone Mountain, Ga. rented its facilities to a group calling itself "The Defensive Legion of Registered Americans, Inc.", for a rally at which some of the announced themes were to have been the "American Jew-communist conspiracy," and similar topics.

Elliot Goldberg, commander of the Atlanta Jewish War Veterans Post, said that officers of the local VFW group had made the facilities available without knowing the nature of the group. The VFW national commander, Robert E. Hanson, moved promptly and sent a telegram to the Georgia Department Commander, directing him "to take all steps necessary" to prevent the meeting from being held at Stone Mountain VFW facilities under penalty of canceling of its post charter.

Social Workers, Lawyers Unite

NEW YORK — A new national body to improve services to the public by lawyers and social workers and to promote understanding and active cooperation between the two professions was established recently.

Known as the National Conference of Lawyers and Social Workers, the group was authorized by the board of governors of the American Bar Association and the board of directors of the National Association of Social Workers. Eight representatives have been named to the body from each of the two professional associations.

In preparation for a meeting in New Orleans early next year, the national conference has started work on statements of principles, in regard to adoptions and the relationship of lawyers and court social services. Other areas suggested for future action include development of local legal-social work forums; a statement on the use of paid legal counsel by social agencies to improve social work understanding of legal implications in case situations; involvement of social workers as consultants to committees of the Family Law Section of the ABA; contacts with law schools in respect to student-social worker relations; joint research; and joint teaching programs.

Start Oil Survey Off Israeli Coast

TEL AVIV — A Canadian-backed prospecting company last week began a comprehensive geophysical survey of the continental shelf area off the Mediterranean coast of Israel in a hunt for new oil fields.

The survey, covering 1,200 square miles, was started by the Petrocana Co., which was organized for that purpose by the Sancana Co. of Canada. The Petrocana firm has been granted exclusive licenses to search for oil in the Israeli Mediterranean offshore area and to develop what petroleum potential it may find. A recent report on Israel's oil potential listed the offshore area and the coastal plain as the most promising.
