MORE THAN 7,000 GERMANS visited Israel last year—a 25% increase over 1961, it was announced in Cologne last week by the Israel mission. Many of the visitors participated in study tours which were arranged by German groups. The study comprised mainly university students, pupils of other German schools and members of various youth organizations.

THE JORDANIAN NEWSPAPER Falastin last week carried a report lending credence to rumors in Jerusalem that the Amman Government was planning to transform the sacred Jewish cemetery, on the Jordan-held Mount Olives into a public park.

THE 1962 SCHILLER PRIZE OF $2,500 was awarded in Mannheim recently to Elizabeth Bergner, famed Jewish actress who was forced to leave Germany when the Nazis came to power.

THE SOCIETY FOR CHRISTIAN-Jewish Cooperation in Wiesbaden has launched a public drive for $370,000 to erect a new synagogue in replacement of the one that was razed by the Nazis in 1938.

JEWISH PEOPLE ARE PARTICULARLY susceptible to leukemia, the World Health Organization has reported. In the current issue of its magazine World Health, the WHO said the blood disease, on the rise throughout the world, is serious in Denmark and in Israel. The incidence of the blood ailment is twice as high among the Jewish inhabitants of New York City as the rest of the city's population, according to WHO.

THE JEWISH COMMUNITY OF Denmark, which was established in the 17th Century, today numbers some 6,500 persons, the vast majority of whom live in Copenhagen. Most of the Danish Jews survived World War 2 by fleeing to Sweden during the Nazi occupation of Denmark.

ZIONISM STILL HAS A MISSION, as long as the Jewish question exists, Dr. Nahum Goldmann, president of the World Zionist Organization, declared at the 16th annual convention of the Dutch Zionist Association. Dr. Goldmann told the delegates that the greatest danger to the people was "its own illusions," not anti-Semitism. He said the Zionist movement was a bridge between Israel and the Galuth.

THE ITALIAN SENATE recently ratified the Italian-German agreement of June 1961, according to which the Bonn Government will pay $10,000,000 for the indemnification of Italian victims of Nazism, many of them Jews who had been deported to Germany during World War 2. The Italian Government now has to enact regulations for the distribution of the funds among the victims and their heirs within six months. During the indemnification procedure, the government will maintain contact with a special parliamentary commission and probably with the various organizations representing the deportees, including the Union of Italian Jewish Communities.

ISRAELI MINISTER OF EDUCATION Abba Eban arrived in Geneva from Jerusalem at the head of a 20-member delegation to participate in the United Nations Conference on the Application of Science and Technology for the Benefit of Less Developed Areas. Eban, who has been designated by the UN Secretariat General to serve as one of the three senior vice-presidents of the conference, is scheduled to deliver the final address at the closing session Feb. 20.

Jewish Schools In Greater Providence Continue To Grow

A continuing growth in the enrollment in Jewish schools in the Greater Providence community has been reported by Irving Brodsky, president of the Bureau of Jewish Education. This year's total enrollment figure of 2805 students in all departments of Jewish Education is a new record for the area.

Of this total enrollment, 1724 are attending two, three, or five day-a-week programs of education. Only 1081 pupils, mainly younger children and post Bar Mitzvah groups, are attending the one-day-a-week Sunday programs.

A feature of Mr. Brodsky's announcement was the large increase in the total number of pupils continuing their Jewish education beyond the elementary level. Of the 122 pupils in this category, 71 are enrolled in the Community Hebrew High School, which conducts classes in Cranston, Warwick, and at the Bureau.

Board Explains Attitude Toward Censorship Bill

JOHANNESBURG — The South African Jewish Board of Deputies issued a statement explaining its attitude toward a censorship bill currently before Parliament. The statement declared that a claim made by a member of Parliament, during the debate on the measure, saying that one clause in the bill was written at the request of the board, was "misleading."

According to the board, it had been invited by the government to submit its view on the measure to a select committee. The board said it had criticized the bill's provisions as "too wide," holding its definitions were "too vague," and criticizing the idea of applying censorship administratively. The board said it also criticized the introduction of prepublication censorship — a clause subsequently withdrawn from the bill.

Expressing the opinion that "any curtailment of freedom of speech is undesirable, except in circumstances which make such curtailment essential for the public welfare," the board said it felt there should be legislation to ban publication of material inciting to racial or religious hostility.

Trouble Shooter For Commission Resigns UN Post

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — Dr. Joseph E. Johnson, the UN Palestine Conciliation Commission's special trouble-shooter on the Arab refugee issue has resigned. The full commission — comprised of France, the United States and Turkey — met in closed session this week and accepted his resignation "with reluctance."

Dr. Johnson's official reason for resigning was that he had set a February, 1963, deadline for quitting when he assumed the PCC task in August, 1961. He said he had scheduled a world tour for his family beginning this month.

Dr. Johnson, who is president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, has made several trips to the Middle East where he visited Egypt, Syria, Lebanon and Jordan, as well as Israel. Last fall, he proposed a plan for informal plebiscite among the refugees to determine how many might wish to return to Israel and be accepted by Israel. Neither the Arab states concerned nor Israel considered the plan feasible.

No Replacement Planned

WASHINGTON — Authoritative sources here indicated that no decision has been made by the members of the commission, on replacing Dr. Johnson and that the PCC will probably pursue its task on a diplomatic basis.

The feeling in the Near Eastern Division of the State Department was that Dr. Johnson's recommendations with regard to a solution of the Arab refugee problem will furnish "useful guideposts" for the future. Dr. Johnson never advocated any particular numerical or percentage formula for refugee repatriation, according to the Department.

The U.S. remains unprepared to publish the procedure or substance of the Johnson proposals.

Israel Denies Reports Of U. S. Proposed Settlement Of Arab Refugee Problem

JERUSALEM — An Israel Foreign Ministry spokesman last week denied reports in the Israel press that the United States proposed a settlement of the Arab refugee problem involving the return of 120,000 refugees. The spokesman also said he knew nothing about the reported arrival shortly of a high Washington official.

While no details have been disclosed concerning the recent consultations held here with the participation of Israel's Ambassador to Washington, Avraham Harman and United Nations delegation head, Ambassador Michael Comay, and although it is known that the consultations were prompted by American initiative aimed at breaking the refugee deadlock, it is understood that no new proposals have so far been submitted by Washington.

It is also known that contacts between Israel and the United States on the problem were to be renewed with the return of Harman to Washington. It is believed here that the United States will not ask Israel to take in a specific number of refugees as a unilateral concession and without a move representing part of a settlement agreement. It is understood that, so far, Israel's contacts with the United States and consultations on the issue here centered on the question of a general approach.

In Washington, the State Department officially denied reports to send a special envoy to Israel to negotiate with Prime Minister Ben-Gurion on the return of the Arab refugees.

Marvin S. Holland, Mrs. Max Alperin To Head 1963 Israel Bond Campaign

Marvin S. Holland, who headed the 1962 Rhode Island Israel Bond Drive, has again accepted the General Campaign chairmanship this year, and Mrs. Max Alperin has accepted the chairmanship of the Providence Women's Division, it was announced today by Judge Frank Licht, state-wide executive committee chairman.

In accepting the chairmanship this year, Mr. Holland described the current campaign as marking the beginning of the "Year of Redemption," when Israel will redeem in principal and interest the sum of $24,500,000 to American holders of Israel Bonds which will mature this year.

Active in communal causes in Providence and Pawtucket for many years, Mrs. Alperin is a past president of Pawtucket Group of Hadasah, past president of Pawtucket West High School PTA, a volunteer leader of the March of Dimes, a member of the board of directors of the Rhode Island Jewish Home for the Aged, membership retention chairman of Providence Chapter of the Women's Section of Brandeis University, and an active leader in the Sisterhood of Temple Emanu El serving on its Board of Directors, Donor Luncheon Chairman, and Chairman of the Jewish Theological Seminary Women's Division.

In Hollywood . . .

By Barney Glazer

Hollywood, California—In reply to my query about his weight problem, the illustrious actor Nehemiah Persoff wrote: "Dear Barney—As the result of my wife's brainstorm, my weight, which has gone up and down frequently, is now down. Tia led me to a tailor promptly and ordered some handsome suits. She particularly insisted that my trouser waistbands be specially reinforced so they won't give and inch. I soon learned that if I added only a few ounces I hurt something awful.

"I now have the choice of being comfortable, uncomfortable or going naked. I don't enjoy being uncomfortable, it's too cold to go naked, so I remain comfortable by keeping my weight down. Best wishes, Nick. P.S. Tia certainly knows her calories. She threw my old clothes away."

AS reported here previously, three famous song writing brothers—Henry, Charles and Harry Tobias—teamed to write a tune "Brother." Said The National Conference of Christians and Jews: "Your song is a perfect exposition of the basic idea of brotherhood for which we are working." Commented the Anti-Defamation League: "Your song represents important values in the country today. We are asking our regional offices to utilize it not only for Brotherhood Week but for 52 weeks during the year." Added the Interfaith Movement: "If 'Brother' were sung everywhere it would have as much meaning and significance as our National Anthem. We would like to adopt the song as a symbol in relationship to the aims and purposes of our Movement."

THIS chronicler regularly pens a special column titled "B'nai B'rith Celebrities" for the Southern California B'nai B'rith Record. Because it is devoted largely to stars who are Ben B'rith card bearers I am constantly on the prowl to jot down lodge affiliations. Unfortunately, 9 out of 10 stars confess they are not members. They hasten to excuse themselves with, "But I have played many B'nai B'rith benefits."

We are indeed grateful for their professional contributions but would like to add their names to help offset a drastically reduced membership that now finds only 327,000 men and women enrolled out of six million Jews in the United States and Canada.

B'nai B'rith is the world's oldest, largest and most representative Jewish service organization. It has devoted four generations of unparalleled service to the Jewish people and humanity. It will celebrate its 120th anniversary this coming October.

I can remember the time during the late 30's and early 40's when thousands of hibernating Jews suddenly came out of nowhere to rush into a B'nai B'rith membership. The Hitler threat was upon us and they felt that this was no time for indifference. Obviously, the deluge of new memberships was a matter of selfish self-preservation.

The threat to Judaism today is no less, and I point this fact at our indifferent Hollywood stars. In the Soviet Union and its satellites more than three million Jews are being "liquidated" by special discriminations. In Argentina and elsewhere, physical violence has been experienced by Jews. The fate of thousands of our people still left in Moslem countries is uncertain. It won't take much to spread from a spark to a holocaust in this country. All of these towering issues are of direct concern to B'nai B'rith which has been doing its share to cope with them. Don't just shine there, stars. Join!

HOW TO SAVE ON TAXES The New 1962 Tax Form

(In collaboration with the Research Institute of America)

When you begin to fill out your individual income tax Form 1040 for 1962, you'll notice it is the now familiar one-sheet, two-page return. But as was the case last year, millions of you again will find that you must fill out much more than the basic two-page form.

You should have this information firmly in mind now so you can get the extra forms you need in plenty of time to study them carefully, fill them out properly and make sure you pay what you owe, but not one cent more than you owe, on your 1962 income.

If you received dividends, interest, pensions, rent or other types of income, you will have to fill out and attach to the two-page Form 1040 a separate two-page Schedule B, entitled "Supplemental Schedule of Income and Credits".

Of course, if you sold stocks, bonds or other property in 1962, you will, as in past years, have to complete and attach Schedule D.

If you had income from a business or profession, you will have to complete Schedule C, and farmers are expected to fill out Schedule F.

If you received "sick pay" from your employer while home because of illness during 1962, the Treasury would like Form 2106 from you.

If you paid and deducted the medical expenses of a parent, the Treasury would expect you to fill out Form 2948.

If you drove a car on business or incurred travel or entertainment expenses, Form 2106 is waiting for you.

If you owned shares of a mutual fund which didn't distribute its long-term capital gains, you probably will be involved with Form 2439.

If you are a widow or widower claiming a child care deduction, you would fill out Form 2441.

If you sold your old home at a profit and bought a new one, the schedule for you is Form 2119.

For millions of us, the form hardly will be the simplified, one-sheet, two-page return which it is claimed to be! Nevertheless, the 1962 form has cleared up an important ambiguity which existed in last year's 1961 form. This involves line 5, covering dividends, interest, rents, royalties, pensions, etc.

On last year's return, if you had $200 or less of interest and dividends and no other kind of income to report on this line, you did not have to give details of your interest and dividends on separate Schedule B. This was confusing because it left up in the air the question of how and where you should compute the $50 dividend exclusion and the 4 per cent dividend received credit.

Now line 5 on Form 1040 for 1962 has three separate subdivisions: 5a - dividends; 5b - interest; 5c - rents, royalties, pensions, etc. You must supply the details in Schedule B (or on a separate list if you had only interest income and wages) regardless of the amount shown in each category. This required use of Schedule B will automatically eliminate the confusion which bothered many of you in handling dividends properly on your return for 1961.

The simple card Form 1040A still is available to you if your gross income was less than $10,000 last year, consisted only of wages subject to withholding and not more than a total of $200 of interest, dividends (over the $50 dividend exclusion) and wages not subject to withholding.

But even if you qualify to use form 1040A, millions of you probably will pay less tax by filling out the more detailed Form 1040.

You would pay less tax by using Form 1040 IF your actual deductions total more than 10 per cent of your income, or IF you received exempt sick pay while home from work because of illness or injury, or IF you are entitled to the dividends-received credit, or IF you are entitled to the retirement income credit, or IF you are entitled to the special tax break for head of a household or widow or widower. If any of these "IFs" apply to you, do not use the simple card form.

Rollansky Reports Yiddish 'Dynamic' In Argentina

NEW YORK—The Yiddish language is "vibrant, alive and dynamic" among Argentina's 450,000 Jews, it was reported here this week by Samuel Rollansky, noted Argentine Yiddish writer. Rollansky is visiting this country on behalf of the Yivo Literary Society which is currently in the process of publishing 100 books of Yiddish literature.

Illustrating the strength of the Yiddish language in Argentina, Rollansky cited the fact that there are in that country 110 elementary Yiddish schools, eight high schools, two teachers' seminaries and one college for Yiddish high school teachers. Nearly 12,000 students are enrolled in all of the schools, from elementary to college, and there are 700 teachers on the faculties.

An indication of the acceptance of Yiddish as a vital language by Argentine Jews, said Rollansky, is the fact that about 80% of all teachers are under the age of 30, and about 70% of them are native-born.

The Buenos Aires Jewish community, he said, pays about 40% of the Yiddish education budget annually, the rest of the funds coming from tuition and other fees. Students attend classes two and a half hours each day, five days a week. The Hebrew language is also taught in every Yiddish school at all levels. Additionally, there is a school where only Hebrew is taught.

Rollansky pointed out that the status of Yiddish is also illustrated by the fact that Argentina has two daily Yiddish newspapers, one weekly, five monthlies,

FROM FRIDAY TO FRIDAY

The East Side Story

By Beryl Segal

The East Side, the Jewish East Side, was in the public eyes these past few weeks.

A study made by Dr. Kurt B. Mayer and Dr. Sidney Goldstein of Brown University on the "social rank" in the population of Providence, based on education and occupation, was the spark that started the discussion. A Providence Evening Bulletin writer who popularized the study, as yet unpublished, brought the matter before the public. And the reaction of the two young Rabbis, mainly to the remark about a Golden Ghetto in the report, made it a Jewish issue.

We learn from the report of the study that the East Side of Providence contains within its boundaries the highest as well as the lowest in social rank. You find living on the East Side the Brown professor as well as the maid who comes in once a week to do his housework. In the East Side of the city live the Doctor and the Lawyer and the Engineer as well as the person who never attended a school.

We learn further from this study that racial and religious prejudice lie dormant in the East Side and it can erupt in a first rate race riot given an opportunity.

Furthermore, this same prejudice exists on the part of the "Yankee" families not only towards non-whites, but towards the Jewish population that lives in the East Side. When Brown University bought the old Dexter Asylum, these same "old families" were delighted to hear it. They had fears that the ground of the Asylum might be developed as a Jewish settlement.

The study, as reported in the Evening Bulletin, also revealed that the Jews came to the East Side within the last 30 years, and that the whole area is sometimes called, by Jews themselves, the "Golden Ghetto".

It was the name "Golden Ghetto" that prompted the two Rabbis, without consulting one another, to read sermons at two Friday night services. We will examine the sermons and their arguments, the one by Rabbi Joel Zaiman of Temple Emanuel, and the other by Rabbi Jerome S. Gurland, of Temple Beth El, both congregations on the East Side, at another time. This time let us take up the first statement, that the Jews came to the East Side in the last 30 years, and that as a result, the Protestant and the Catholic elements of the area have declined.

The truth of the matter is that Jews lived on the East Side for more than 100 years.

David C. Adelman, president of the Rhode Island Jewish Historical Association, in his work on the "First Mnyan" the original Jewish congregation in Providence, writes of the men in that first Mnyan, where they lived and what their occupation was.

Of the family of Joseph Sterns he says: "...they lived at 92 South Main Street".

Henry Solomons store was located at 140 North Main Street, and Jacob R. Hershshorn and Raphael Frank lived "at 11 Congdon Street, and were the first Jews to live on the East Side."

Solomon Cook had a clothing store on North Main Street, and Abraham Goodman lived at 18 South Main Street.

The Solomon brothers were tobacconists at 2 South Main Street, and Henry Green gives his home address at 271 North Main Street.

In fact the first congregation in Providence, Bnai Yisroel (Sons of Israel) was located at one time on South Main Street.

O, yes, there was a difference between the "old families" and the Jewish pioneers. While the men of old families had their uniformed chauffeurs take them down to their places of business, the Jewish pioneers simply walked down, or into their places of business. They lived either on top or in the back of their stores.

But they lived on the East Side, though without the luxury of "expensive one - family homes which hide quiet gardens behind their tree-shaded facades".

Dr. Seibert J. Goldowsky, editor of the Historical Notes published by the Rhode Island Historical Association, writes of "Jews in Medicine in Rhode Island". The year is 1875, and the first Jewish doctor appears in Providence.

He writes:

"It was not until eight years after that date (1867) that Dr. Bernard Cohen, pioneer Jewish physician of Providence, opened his office." The office was variously at 303, 347, and 402 North Main Street.

Then follow a succession of physicians, such as Dr. Saul Lewando, Dr. John Lauer, Dr. Aaron Markoff, Dr. Hyman Chester, Dr. Max B. Gomberg, and others, none of them among the living. All of them had their offices either on Benefit Street or on North Main Street.

What does that mean?

It means that Benefit and North Main were not unknown areas to Jewish patients.

There was even a Jewish midwife, a Mrs. Rosalie Friedman who lived at 363 North Main Street, and she certainly must have lived within easy reach of the woman in labor.

Who said that the Jews came to the East Side within the last 30 years?

The truth of the matter is this. As David C. Adelman points out, the East Side tunnel was opened in 1914. That opened up the "hike across open fields" from "Hope Street down to the old Butler Hospital grounds." And Jews began to build up those open fields.

They did not replace the "old families", they built new areas that were never settled. Where you could "go without passing more than a dozen houses", as the writer in the Evening Bulletin speaks of the good old days on the East Side, now reside about 7,000 souls.

The Jews built the East Side, they did not dispossess anybody. The area around Temple Emanuel, the area surrounding the Jewish Community Center, the Butler development, the Cole Farm neighborhood, the College Field plat, and the homes on the Seekonk River. These were all built by Jews.

Better to have 1,000 residential homes than walking through open fields, and find no more than a dozen houses.

And the most important thing: the houses were not built for them, but they were built by them.

And here we come to the "Golden Ghetto" and to the reactions of the two young Rabbis.

Of this in the column next week.

Senator Pell Commends Segal

Dear Mr. Segal:

I have just read with great interest your article on the American Jewish Committee which appeared in the "Rhode Island Herald" last week.

I would like to commend you on what I felt was a well-written presentation of a thoughtful, sensible position. I was particularly interested in your views on Federal aid to schools since they are similar to my own thoughts on the subject.

To my mind, the important thing is that we educate the child. I believe strongly that any Federal monies that are of direct benefit to the child-monies spent on those things you mention such as lunch, transportation, and textbooks is money well spent.

If there is ever any way in which I may be of assistance to you, please do not hesitate to call upon me.

Warm regards.

Sincerely,
Claiborne Pell

Disagrees With Beryl Segal's Article

Dear Sir:

There appeared in the "Herald" of January 25, 1963 an article entitled "The American Jewish Committee and American Jewry" by Beryl Segal. I read this treatise with an astonishment that was only surpassed by my disbelief and indignation as I read the article a second time.

The philosophy of this exposition that the AJC is doing a disservice to the Jewish community by taking a forthright stand in support of its beliefs, it is in essence rocking the boat upon which we Jews precariously perch in a rolling sea of alien peril. I question the philosophy and attack the logic, and I do so with full and fierce pride in Judaism and confident in the conviction that our great American democracy can withstand this assault. The matter is not one of compromise, for one cannot compromise a principle, much less a constitutional prohibition if one in fact believes it to be a prohibition. Compromise of principle has been attempted before, and the mute testimony of millions of dead bear witness to its efficacy. From the feeblest attempt of the individual to escape responsibility by ignoring encroachments on freedom and democracy, to the frantic effort by so many Jewish "leaders" in Germany to escape identification and responsibility through assimilation, to Munich, and to innumerable instances throughout history, mankind has learned of the tragedy which can so quickly befall it when man denies the strength of his convictions to his family, his people, his nation and his God. I shall discuss Mr. Segal's article point by point, without considering whether the AJC represents, or deserves the support of the Jewish community.

First, there is criticism of the stand of the AJC in its opposition to prayer in the public schools. Brushing aside, for a moment, the inconsequential fact that the Supreme Court of the United States supported the AJC in the Regents prayer case, and that many non-Jews as individuals, and many non-Jewish groups supported the decision also, as well as many members of congress, the writer seems to feel that the fight is not really one to preserve American democracy since there were groups of unquestioned loyalty to democracy on both sides of the issue. Is not this in itself the very essence of democracy? Cannot two men differ as to what is or is not a threat to democracy, and cannot one of these men be right? I am intrigued by the fact that there is not a single reference to the United States constitution and one of its most significant cornerstones, the separation of church and state as set forth in the First Amendment. It was this very fear that the admixture of religion and politics could be the seed for the flowering of tyranny that led the people to demand the separation, and history stands tribute to their wisdom. The passage of time has served only to enhance that wisdom. If these selfsame principles and ideals did not motivate the AJC, I should like to know what their motives were? And if they are so motivated, is this cause for censure? These principles and ideals are not Jewish, nor are they non-Jewish, they are simply democratic.

Second, much the same arguments apply to the question of state or federal aid to parochial or private schools. Again the principle is clear and men of strength and faith, regardless of religious persuasion have chosen to take their stand, be it for or against. It seems that though the article criticizes the AJC stand against such aid, there would be no such criticism if that stand were in favor of aid, for then the Jewish community would not have to worry about angering anyone. Again, disregarding the insignificant fact that even the sponsors of the request for textbook aid in this state have tacitly admitted the unconstitutionality of such aid by rephrasing their request so that aid is sought for the pupil rather than the school itself, the writer would go even further and supply buses, free lunches, and a seemingly endless cornucopia of aid. Where does this aid stop? How much aid makes a parochial school a state supported institution? How much aid need be given before the Bill of Rights is violated? I suggest that it is not yet time to amend the federal constitution by pushing the First Amendment quietly out the back door like an immigrant parent who has suddenly become an embarrassment to his rich but callow offspring.

Thirdly, I commend the ADL in its fight against discrimination. So long as one shred of bigotry remains directed against any minority group, America has not fulfilled her promise and her destiny. Why do Negroes fight to enter all white schools, colleges, and restaurants? Why doesn't the NAACP instead publish a list of all such institutions so that no Negro will be discomfited in applying for admission? It is not the necessity for a Jew to finally sleep in a restricted hotel that the ADL and the AJC are fighting for, rather it is once again the principle, the principle that a man has a right to eat, sleep, live and attend school where he wishes regardless of faith or color, the principle that in a modern civilized democracy discrimination must be excised like a cancer wherever and whenever it appears lest it fester and spread through the whole body politic finally causing its agonizing death. Where is the line to be drawn?

In closing I would like, however, to make this point both for myself and I hope and pray for the great majority of the Jewish community in America. If a question arises which we feel endangers American democracy, we shall stand and fight it to the last end, be that end bitter or sweet, and we shall do so not because we are Jews, though proud we may be of that fact, not because we alone bear the burden of discrimination, but because we love freedom and democracy. Where can you draw the line?

Feldstein Asks For Apology

To the Editor:

It was with intense repugnance that I read Mr. Saperstein's column in the Rhode Island Herald of February 8, 1963. As a publication which should have as its aim the expression of the thoughts and opinions of the Jewish Community of Rhode Island, your newspaper has fallen far short of any such responsibility.

Mr. Saperstein not only "infers" that the Negro is impeding the progress of the professional sport of basketball, but he actually stumbles to the conclusion that so long as the Negroes are the stars of the National Basketball Association, this league will be unable to attain status as truly professional. It is not my purpose to debate Mr. Saperstein on this subject.

Something of a much deeper and greater consequence is concerned here. As members of the Jewish faith, we have been the recipients of a certain profound heritage down through the ages—a heritage which stresses the importance of equality and brotherhood among men. In our modern age, we can indeed be proud of the work of such an organization as the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith which works towards the goal of human equality and the abolition of bigotry. Yet, every so often a voice is heard in the crowd—even a voice as diminutive as the column of Mr. Saperstein—which threatens to defeat the progress of such organizations.

Although when he wrote the column I'm certain that Mr. Saperstein did not have the intent of creating an atmosphere of prejudice, he has produced just such a result. As we approach National Brotherhood Week (February 17th to 23rd), it would indeed be appropriate if an apology were printed for Mr. Saperstein's remarks. Or, if the Herald does not feel such a course to be imperative, perhaps Mr. Saperstein could expand upon his remarks and modify and explicate his original statements.

I am convinced that Mr. Saperstein is not expressing the feelings of the Jewish community, and I trust that neither is he stating the policy of the Herald. This must be presumed to represent another example of "One Man's Opinion".

Sincerely yours,
Edward D. Feldstein

To Build Jewish School In Florence, Italy

FLORENCE, Italy - Ground-breaking ceremonies were held here for a new Jewish school and community center building to be financed by the local Jewish community and the Conference for Jewish Material Claims Against Germany through the Joint Distribution Committee.

Taking part in the ceremonies were representatives of the Florence Municipality, the Israel Embassy, the JDC and Union of Italian Jewish Communities. Construction of the Jewish school is in line with recent efforts to reconstruct Jewish school buildings throughout Italy with the aid of the Claims Conference and locally-raised funds and to attract more Jewish children and intensify studies in Jewish subjects, especially Hebrew.

There are a total of 2,200 Jewish children throughout Italy attending Jewish kindergartens, elementary and secondary schools in addition to those enrolled in ORT's vocational schools and those attending special Talmud Torah courses.

Acquit Ex-Policeman Again On Charges Of Nazi Collaboration

TEL AVIV - Zvi Ben Zeev, a former ghetto policeman in Poland who has since emigrated to Israel, was acquitted last week in Magistrate's Court here of charges of having handed over Jews to the Nazis in 1942. The judge ruled that after 20 years, he could not convict the defendant on the testimony of two women who were young girls at the time and who had undergone terrible ordeals.

The judge said that although Ben Zeev, who was known as Grausam when he was a policeman in the Dombrowa Ghetto, had been identified by two persons, it was difficult to make sure that during an action by Germans they could notice this policeman among so many soldiers and policemen. Ben Zeev was acquitted of similar charges 10 years ago.

Tells Afro-Asians That USSR Resorts To Racism In Pursuit Of Goals

WASHINGTON - Rep. Torbert H. Anti-Semitism in the Soviet Union provides "a somber lesson for all peoples of the free world," he said.

Soviet pretenses in the area of minority rights are "indeed hollow when viewed against the background of anti-Semitism in Russia today."

Sobeloff Outlines Changes In Detroit Jewish Community

DETROIT - The changes in Detroit's Jewish community organizations, services and locations in the last quarter century were outlined here by Isidore Sobeloff, executive vice-president of the Jewish Federation, in a report to the mid-winter delegate assembly of the Jewish Community Council here.

Pointing out that the location of present social service agencies mirrored the local Jewish population's neighborhood movements, Sobeloff said that "all of the visible physical assets of our organized community of today represent relatively recent growth and are the expression of the comparatively new community."

Observing that Detroit's organized philanthropic effort has grown from 6,000 contributors in 1937 to more than 20,000 in 1962, Sobeloff said campaigns have grown from $250,000 in 1937 to $4,860,000 in 1962.

APPOINTS DELEGATES
 Dr. Bernard Carp, executive director of the Jewish Community Center, this week announced the official appointment of the delegates to the Center Survey Mission, which is to leave for Israel on March 3.

Delegates will be Mrs. Helen Blotcher, Mrs. Anne Hillman, Miss Norma Friedman, and Dr. and Mrs. Frank Goldstein. Miss Nancy Hillman has been appointed as a special youth delegate.

These representatives of the Center will visit community centers in Europe and Israel and bring back a report of their meetings with members and leaders for presentation to the Providence board of directors in April.

'SKIT-O-RAMA'

Teen Clubs, sponsored by the Center Youth Council of the JCC, will present a "Skit-O-Rama", an evening of original skits, on Monday at 7:15 P.M. at the East Side Center Building.

The skits, by which the clubs vie for a Skit Competition Trophy as part of their Honor Club Program, will be judged by dramatics instructor, Gordon Argo. Mr. Argo will select the winning entry on the basis of creativity, production and performance.

the community brought about by such historical developments as "the European tragedy; the establishment of Israel; the growing proportion of native born American Jews; material prosperity; cultural assimilation; an indifference to Jewish values; changing role of the synagogue; fragmentation of Jewish life; role of the Federation; and a growing sense of security," Sobeloff said.

Emphasis Visible

The shifting emphasis in community relations now visible, Sobeloff said, is toward strengthening the Jewish community itself. "The role of community relations becomes that of...serving as the instrument through which the views and efforts of the Jewish community are shared with the general community on matters of common concern."

He said the council recognized the necessity of working toward positive goals and abandoning the "defensive posture so much a part of our community for the last quarter of a century."

Walter E. Klein, executive director of the council, presented a summary of current council activities in open occupancy in housing, legislative prospects for strengthening civil rights, programing for improved intergroup relations, changing patterns of race relations and working within the Jewish community.

N. Y. Board Of Rabbis Offers To Send Matzos To Jews In Soviets

NEW YORK - An offer to send matzo to Russian Jewry in time for Passover, coupled with a proposal for an exchange of rabbis between the American Jewish community and the Jewish communities in the Soviet Union, was made here this week by the New York Board of Rabbis.

The Board comprises 800 Orthodox, Conservative and Reform rabbis in the metropolitan area of New York.

The offer was made by Board president Rabbi Israel Mowshowitz on his re-election to the presidency at the organization's 82nd annual meeting. Rabbi Mowshowitz said the Board was "prepared and would welcome the opportunity to provide matzo to those Jewish communities in the Soviet Union that want them for distribution through their local synagogues." At the same time he voiced conviction that "religious exchanges, like cultural exchanges, would contribute toward an increase in amity and better understanding" between the people of the United States and the Soviet Union.

Adapting Rocket As Tactical Weapon

LONDON—Israel is perfecting its Shavit II meteorological rocket and adapting it for use as a tactical weapon, according to the latest edition of Jane's All the World Aircraft. This is the first time that Israel is listed in the rocketry section of the reference book.

Noting that the rocket weapon would have a potential range of over 60 miles, the editors of Jane's write that very little information about Israel's rocket development is available but give some details of the Shavit II's performance.

The rocket is said to weigh between 500 and 600 pounds and is powered by solid fuel. The vertical range is given at about 45 miles. Jane's also gives additional details on Egypt's missile, noting that it has a range of 300 miles, is about 39 feet long, three and one-half feet wide and is powered by liquid fuel. (In Tel Aviv, Army circles declined to comment on the rocket report in Jane's.)

Commission Finds Rabbi Detained In Prison Illegally

TORONTO — Rabbi Norbert Leiner, of New Jersey, who was detained in Toronto here more than a year ago as a suspect sought by police for burglary, had been arrested "illegally," was subjected by the arresting officers to "foul and abusive language," was "struck in the face twice without any justification whatever," an Ontario Government Royal Commission found here this weekend.

The report on the Leiner case, which was probed by the Royal Commission since January, 1962 was filed here by the head of the commission, Justice Dalton Wells. According to the report however, Rabbi Leiner did refuse to respond to "reasonable questions" posed by the arresting officers. The policemen, on the other hand, were absolved of intentional anti-Semitism but were criticized for not understanding the religious contentions of a rabbi who, legitimately, objected to riding in a police van on a Friday night or to signing police documents on the Sabbath.

Rabbi Leiner, who is suing 18 policemen for beating him, was arrested on a Friday night, on Jan. 26, 1962, as he was on his way home from religious services. He was a teacher in a Hebrew school in this city at the time. Wells pointed out in his report that the rabbi in no way resembled the suspect for whom the police had spread a dragnet.

The Lyons Den

by Leonard Lyons

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, accompanied by her sister and brother-in-law, the Radziwills, attended George Plimpton's party for the Paris Review on Sunday night. It was at that party, incidentally, that Norman Mailer—who'd written an Esquire article about Mrs. JFK's looks—finally saw her at close hand. A writer who came late noticed Mrs.

Kennedy and said "That sure is The Look this year—and this chick has almost made it."

George Hamilton will portray Moss Hart in the movie version of Hart's autobiography, "Act One"... The furnishings, for the English baronial drawing room set in "Enter Laughing," all came from the Newton, Conn., home of producer Gilbert

Miller... Sir John Gielgud, now involved here in "School For Scandal," has his next project set. He will direct and star in the adaptation of Thornton Wilder's "The Ides of March" in London.

Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, the scientist, came to lunch at the Algonquin this week during The Big Freeze. He said of the long, cold spell: "When Spring comes this year, August will be glad to see it."

Robert Morley's son, Sheridan, is the new president of the Oxford Univ. Dramatic Society. The young man just directed "The Good Woman of Setzuan" there... Lee Strasberg head of the Actors Studio, hopes to arrange exchange-fellowships with the Stanislavsky Theatre group in Moscow... Byron Mitchell, Vivien Leigh's juvenile-lead in "Tovarich," used to be Miss Leigh's secretary three years ago, when she starred in "Duel Of Angels."

Norman Thomas, who was the Socialist Party's nominee for President six times, once met Gov. Alf Landon, the 1936 Republican nominee. Landon introduced Thomas to Mrs. Landon: "Dear, this is the man I've been telling you about—the one I liked in '36."

The appointment of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., to the Dept. of Commerce post is the first step in the long-range project to run him for Governor of N.Y.... John Daly, as co-director of the Overseas Press Club's Correspondents Fund, invited striking members of the N.Y. Reporters Assn. to borrow from the Fund. All they need show is overseas experience.

Burton Crane, the N.Y. Times man who died this week, was on the Han River bridge in Korea, when it was dynamited. Crane, who'd once received OSS training in bridge-blowing, staggered off after the explosion and said: "Whoever did it was a fool—used too much dynamite." He escaped capture by walking through marshes, where the disturbed frogs' croaking almost gave him away. "If I'd known this," said Crane to his colleagues—who'd seen his play in Tokyo—"I'd never have adapted Aristophanes' 'The Frogs.'"

Fidel Castro assigned Ernest Hemingway's former butler, Rene, to take charge of the Hemingway home there again. The place had been running to seed... As far as all the principals are concerned, the White House-Adlai Stevenson to-do over the Sat. EVE. Post and the Cuba crisis, is over and forgotten... When Geraldine Stutz, pres. of Bendel's couldn't appear on time for the TV taping of "Girl Talk," the show's press-agent, Meredith Anderson, replaced her.

Russel Crouse, now collaborating with Howard Lindsay on their next script, tells of the time the late Neysa McMein's ouija board propelled them into a Pulitzer Prize play. Miss McMein always introduced odd games at her parties. This night she had a ouija board, and Russel Crouse was persuaded to try it—talking to the "spirit" of Alec Woollcott... His question was: "When will Lindsay and I start again?"... "Now," came the answer.

Crouse phoned Lindsay and said: "I'm coming right over, to work." And before they retired, that night, they'd completed four pages of the play which became "State Of The Union."

Lindsay & Crouse's first collaboration was "Anything Goes," the musical starring Ethel Merman, Victor Moore and William Gaxton, the musical comedy man who died this week. Gaxton's most memorable role was as Pres. Wintergreen in "Of Thee I Sing." He also appeared in the sequel, "Let 'Em Eat Cake," which flopped... When George M. Cohan played the President in "I'd Rather Be Right," he asked Gaxton: "As one Pres. to another, any advice?"... "Just this," replied Gaxton. Don't let 'em write you a sequel."

Gaxton and his widow were married for 45 years. He said of their wedding: "We both wore white; I was in the U.S. Navy at the time." Gaxton became independently wealthy with astute business investments. One was housing development in Conn., "Gaxton Park"... Frank McHugh attended the opening ceremonies, and said: "I just had to come. I knew Bill Gaxton when he was broke and slept in the park. I wanted to see him with a park of his own."
