Gift Of Torah Scroll Fulfills Nettie Wald's Lifelong Dream

By LOIS ATWOOD

From the time she was six years old in Romania, and played games on Simhas Torah with thick pieces of wood wrapped in towels to simulate the holy scroll, Nettie Segel Wald has dreamed of giving a Torah someday. This Wednesday evening her lifelong dream will be fulfilled when a new Torah scroll is dedicated at Temple Beth Am, in memory of her husband, the late Deputy Sheriff Sol Wald.

It will be the culmination of years of giving, which began when the couple first had $1,252 in the bank. Mr. Wald remarked that everybody leaves money when he dies, but "why not start something while we're alive?" When Mrs. Wald protested that they didn't have too much money themselves, and what about a donation of $100, he said they should take out $1,000 and give it.

That money went to the Hebrew Free Loan Association some 32 years ago, with the adjuration from Mrs. Wald that it should be dispensed without requiring endorsers, just on the word of the person needing a loan. "Every Wednesday night they call out our name—it's a separate fund," she added. Money is cheap today, but at that time "was very dear. I worked 72 hours for $2.95. . . I said, if we want to give, we'll give it freely."

Then they donated a room in the Home for the Aged and "after that they didn't let us live in peace. They were starting to build Miriam Hospital. My husband called me in and said, 'Let's give.' I said, 'But, Sol, we have no money.' " But Mrs. Wald started to work, too, and they donated a room.

"I can't keep $100 in my house," she said. She wishes she could go to work and give every cent she earned to charity. She donated the eternal light in Congregation Mishkon Tfiloh and a sterling silver crown to Temple Emanu-El, and has made many other gifts. She is a member of Emanu-El, but one nephew, Louis Friedman, is secretary of Temple Beth Am, and another nephew, Jerold Friedman, is on the board there.

She asked one of them if their Warwick temple had nice Torahs, and heard that they had only one they were almost afraid to touch,

Woonsocket Synagogue To Honor Rabbi Krauss

Rabbi Pesach Krauss of Congregation B'nai Israel, Woonsocket, will be honored Friday, June 24, at a special service and reception marking his departure from the congregation after 14 years of service. Lewis Z. Lavine and Martin Goodman are co-chairmen of the planning committee honoring Rabbi Krauss.

During his service at B'nai Israel, the congregation has erected a synagogue which received wide attention in architectural journals, and has developed an activities as they were afraid it might fall apart.

"How would you like a new one?"

"A new one! Huh! Who's going to give?"

"Your aunt."

"You should have seen his face," continued Mrs. Wald, who told him to call the temple president and tell him "your aunt's going to give a Torah."

Her nephew still refused to believe it. "You're kidding," he said.

She retorted, "People don't kid about a thing like that."

Although she and Deputy Sheriff Wald had quietly tried to investigate the subject for years, the purchase of a Torah scroll turned out to be complicated as well as expensive. She learned that it takes more than a year to write a Torah. Finally she sat in an office crying, as someone had ordered five scrolls which were ready, and another order for three Torahs was being filled, but she couldn't get even one. The woman in charge spoke to her husband in Hebrew, and he asked Mrs. Wald if she would spend the amount necessary. She asked how much it would be, walked out when she heard the price, thought it over and came back in and asked to look at them.

"I never touched one of those in my life, and always wondered how it feels to touch such a holy thing," she said, and her delight in the wonderful gift was apparent. She had to give him a substantial deposit on the Torah scroll she chose. When it was ready, she discovered that she also needed to buy a cover for it, an unexpected additional expense. The woman offered her an inexpensive second-hand one, but Mrs. Wald refused: "That beautiful thing I dreamt of all my life!"

The rabbi said to her, "You must love it an awful lot." And the Providence woman told him (Continued on Page 10)

Presidents Seek Role As Spokesman For 'Overwhelming Majority' Of Jews

NEW YORK—A major step has been taken toward the establishment of an organization to speak in behalf of American Jews of international problems concerning Jews in various parts of the world.

Dr. Joachim Prinz, chairman of the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations, disclosed that the conference had voted to transform itself from a group of individual organization presidents to a formal organization.

$410,850 Sold In Israel Bonds

The record amount of $410,850 in Israel Bonds was sold in the 1966 Rhode Island Israel Bond campaign, the largest Bond sale since 1951, it was announced by Joe Thaler, campaign chairman. He praised Rhode Islanders for their awareness of Israel's economic development needs and their increased investments.

Mr. Thaler lauded Mrs. Max Leach, Women's Division chairman, and campaign workers. He was also campaign chairman in 1964 and 1965, with each succeeding year showing an increased Bond sale from the year before.

mal, over-all body, representing the "overwhelming majority" of American Jews.

The conference was originally formed in 1955 as an informal grouping of 17 American Jewish leaders concerned with threats to Israel's security.

Included in the groups are such national secular agencies as B'nai B'rith and the American Jewish Congress along with the rabbinical and congregational arms of Conservative, Orthodox and Reform Judaism. Dr. Prinz noted that one major group, the American Jewish Committee, was not a member but expressed hope that it would join in the united effort.

The Jewish leader, who last year visited West Germany at the invitation of the upper legislative body and met with Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, said that the experience of the Conference of Presidents since 1955 "has demonstrated that American Jews of every possible cultural, political and religious conviction can be brought together to act unitedly and unanimously in matters of Jewish concern."

The revised structure, he said, will now be able "to speak with one voice and act in a meaningful, effective and economical way on the major Jewish issues of our time."

Stanley Grossman Renamed As Head Of GJC Campaign

STANLEY GROSSMAN

Stanley Grossman, textile executive, will head the annual General Jewish Committee campaign for the second consecutive year, it was announced today by Merrill L. Hassenfeld, GJC president, who said the drive will begin in early fall.

A GJC vice-president and past chairman of Initial Gifts, Mr. Grossman said the success of the 1965 campaign was due to the more than 1,000 workers and 6,000 contributors. He is past chairman of the Israel Bond drive; treasurer of the Jewish Home for the Aged; a director of the Jewish Community Center, Temple Beth El and the Urban League; vice-president of National Big Brothers Inc.; vice-chairman of the Pace Setters of the United Fund, and a member of the U.S. Advisory Commission on Civil Rights.

Harry Finkelstein To Attend Dedication Of Memorial

Harry Finkelstein, treasurer of the Rhode Island Chapter of the Jewish National Fund, has been designated Delegate Extraordinary for the JNF Study Mission and Convocation to be held in Israel this July, according to the letter received from Dr. Milton Aron, national director of the group.

Mr. Finkelstein, who has been active in the Zionist movement for many years, will leave this Thursday, June 23, for Israel where he will participate in the JNF study mission and convocation as well as the dedication of the John F. Kennedy Monument and Peace Forest to which the Jewish people of Rhode Island have contributed $10,000.

A representative of each of the 50 states and Washington, D. C. will attend the two week session in Israel which will culminate on July 4 in the dedication of the monument located in the Judean Hills overlooking Jerusalem.

The Kennedy Monument is made up of fifty concrete columns in a circular enclosure. Designed by architect D. Resnik, the final plan calls for a two-story round structure, seven and a half meters in height and almost 70 meters in circumference, "its grey white lines rising to the sky in the shape of a broad-stemmed tree and then cut — like the tragically severed life of the late President."

Mr. Finkelstein will spend a third week in France visiting his brother Simon whom he hasn't seen since 1953.

The Jewish National Fund is affiliated with all the major Zionist organizations, and for many years has pursued its policy of helping in the reforestation of, first Palestine, and now the State of Israel.

Among the organizations with which the JNF works are the general Zionists, Hadassah, Pioneer Women, Mizrahi Women, Farband Labor Zionists and the B'nai B'rith. Ernest Nathan is president of the Rhode Island chapter.

Judge Frank Licht who is shown in the picture with Mr. Finkelstein was also intending to accompany the group to Israel, but is unable to go.

Mr. Finkelstein has worked for many years for the Zionist cause, and is particularly active in the Farband, Labor Zionist Organization, where he is chairman of the local Farband group, and vice-president of the New England District #10.

Owner of the State Sign Company, he is treasurer of the Knights of Pythias, What Cheer Lodge and of the Signwriters' Association of Rhode Island, as well as a member of the Central Lions' Club and Orpheus Lodge, AF & AM.

Judge Frank Licht and Harry Finkelstein

R. I. Rabbis Elect Braude

Rabbi William G. Braude of Temple Beth El was elected president for 1966-67 of the Rhode Island Board of Rabbis at a meeting last week at Temple Emanu-El. He succeeds Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen, new president of the Rabbinical Assembly of America, who spoke with regret of Rabbi Pesach Krauss' coming departure from Rhode Island. He noted the "fine work" done by the Board of Rabbis when Rabbi Krauss was president. The Board passed a resolution which will be forwarded to the next congregation of Rabbi Krauss.

Rabbi Joel Zaiman was elected secretary - treasurer of the R.I. Board of Rabbis.

MUSEUM SUPPORT

JERUSALEM—About $166,000 came from admissions, and a similar sum from the state, during the Israel Museum's first year of operation. Another $143,000 was given by such groups as the America-Israel Cultural Foundation, the Jewish Agency, the Friends of the Museum and the Jerusalem Municipality.

RABBI AARON GOLDIN

Funeral services for Rabbi Aaron Goldin, 54, rabbi of Congregation Ohave Shalom, Pawtucket, from 1940 to 1960, were held June 8 in Portsmouth, N.H., where he was leader of Temple Israel.

Rabbi Goldin, the first full-time rabbi the Pawtucket congregation ever had, was stricken June 7 at a testimonial dinner for a local official in Portsmouth.

The Pawtucket City Council eulogized the rabbi, noting that he had always practiced the Golden Rule while serving the Pawtucket area. Councilman Paul O. Boghosian Jr. described Rabbi Goldin as being "as fine a gentleman as I have ever met or known."

The council directed that a letter of condolence be sent to the rabbi's family in Portsmouth.

Born in Lithuania, he came to this country in 1929. He served as spiritual leader of Temple Beth Shalom, Rochester, N.Y., for five years before coming to Pawtucket.

During his two decades in Pawtucket, Rabbi Goldin built up the attendance of the congregation and served as a chaplain for the Ladd School, Exeter, and for the Pawtucket unit of the Fraternal Order of Police.

He is survived by his wife, Lillian (Deitch) Goldin, a daughter, Susan, and a son, Stephen, all of Portsmouth.

In Hollywood . . .

By Barney Glazer

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (TCNS)—When Joan Cohen attended Newton High School in Newton, Mass., little did she dream that one day she'd go to Hollywood, become an actress, and kiss some of the industry's most famous leading men. Joan's stage name is Joan Connors and her credits on Broadway and in television and films are as long as a summer's day. Joan recalls her biggest thrill. It happened while she was lunching with Barbara Luna in a studio commissary.

Suddenly, a strong pair of masculine arms encircled her from behind. "Don't turn around," begged a soft, firm voice. "I have a bet with an out-of-town friend at my table that you're Shirley MacLaine, so be a nice girl and let me win my hundred bucks."

Joan turned her head slightly and the stranger planted a long lingering kiss on her lips. Recognizing the gambling Romeo, Joan gasped, "My apologies to Shirley MacLaine but I enjoyed every minute of this fraud."

Glenn Ford thanked her with a smile and an extra hug. He walked away to collect his winnings.

DO WE have a professor of orthodox customs in the audience? A reader writes, "I heard of a recent wedding in London where the procedure was so orthodox the groom had to be married in a 'koshier suit.' In other words, the material obviously had to be special. Also, during the celebration following the marriage, men and women were not permitted to dance together."

Verification, anyone?

Of course, I do know that in "Fiddler on the Roof," men and women were not permitted to dance together but broke the tradition.

DANNY KAYE loves to conduct a symphony orchestra, and he does on occasion, but he admits he can't read a note of music. Whenever he schedules a concert, Danny takes no chances. He shows up with a bundle of batons.

The versatile performer describes conducting as "the greatest feeling of neurotic power a man can have." If he had set his mind to it, he could have become an outstanding conductor. His mother had hoped he would become an electrician.

At times, Danny confuses members of the orchestra he conducts. To make them play loud, he uses a full-length baton. For a diminuendo, he breaks off a piece of the stick. To make a musician wake up to a cue he either calls it loudly or sticks out his tongue.

Last time Danny conducted, things became quite hectic. Female musicians did The Frug, the French horn came in too early for "Die Fledermaus" and Danny chased him off the stage, and the first cellist allowed himself to be carried away completely during the Habanera from "Carmen" by in-

The bidding is somewhat automatic. The play, although it should be, is far from it. Few declarers approach these problems correctly. As the hand is, only the really fine players can see that there is a chance the contract can be made and many of them would not go about giving themselves the best chance to make it. The average player would settle for down one certain he must lose two Diamonds in addition to the two Clubs already cashed. Usually no one at the table can see that he might have made the hand so the result is considered normal.

Syrians Emptying Border Villages

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Syrian authorities have ordered the evacuation of villages close to the southwestern border of Israel. The evacuations followed Syrian accusations that Israel was massing troops in that area with the intention of occupying the demilitarized zone between the two countries.

Diplomatic sources said the Syrian Government was taking the matter seriously and has notified all Arab governments and the unified Arab military command in Cairo. The command was set up in 1964 to coordinate military plans against Israel.

The sources said the tense situation was the reason for strong warnings issued last week by Syrian military officials. Syria's Defense Minister, Maj. Gen. Hafez Assad, warned them that Syria would wage a "war of liberation" against Israel if Israel dared to wage aggression against the Syrian border.

U.S. - Israel Trade Tops $2,000,000,000

NEW YORK — Americans going to Israel for business or pleasure have made nearly 1,000,000 trips to Israel since the Jewish State was reestablished, the annual dinner of the American-Israel Chamber of Commerce and Industry here was told recently.

Nathan Strauss III, chairman of the Chamber board, said that United States - Israel trade has exceeded $2,000,000,000 since the Chamber was established 13 years ago.

Gen. Ephraim Ben-Arzi, chairman of the board of El Al Israel Airlines, said that the airline has purchased jets and jet engines from American suppliers totalling nearly $60,000,000 in value.

Gen. Ben-Arzi was presented with the Chamber's annual award by Maxwell M. Rabb, Chamber president, who said the airline had made outstanding contributions not only to U. S. Israel economic ties as a carrier of passengers and cargo but also as a major buyer of American equipment and supplies.

Gen. Ben-Arzi said that El Al was the first among international carriers to secure delivery positions for two U. S. supersonic aircraft which will make it possible to fly from the U. S. to Israel in less than three hours.

his two high Clubs and then switched to the Heart 10. At this point, most declarers would draw trumps and subsequently concede two Diamond tricks for down one. The more astute players would envision a slight possibility for the hand. If either opponent holds a doubleton Diamond King, he might be end-played. The idea is to strip the hand by ruffing out all the Hearts after drawing trumps and before touching Diamonds.

This, of course, is better than giving up but if you are against a really sharp defender it will probably not work out for when he sees all the side suits are gone and now declarer plays the Diamond Ace, a good defender, holding a doubleton King, will recognize his predicament and will jettison his King under your Ace. However, most players hate to part with a sure winner so can be put in with the King and forced to provide declarer with a sluff and a ruff. He can now get rid of his losing Diamond.

Think about the poor defender, though, as today's declarer played the hand. After the third trick she saw her problem and also realized that by playing normally her opponents would also be alerted to the exact same situation. Her next play was the Diamond Ace! It could do no harm but put yourself in West's place. Would you be able to figure at this time that the only way to set the hand is to play the King on Declarer's Ace. Very few of the finest players would.

Now there was nothing to it. Trumps were drawn, the other Heart honor played and the last Heart ruffed. Nothing was left in either hand but Diamonds and Trumps. Now a Diamond lead put West in with his King and the poor chap had no out card. He had to give the sluff and ruff.

Moral: Don't give up if there is even a remote possibility. Figure out what it is and at least give it a try. Especially when it can cost nothing.

"Little Fur" storage...

More expensive for Harris, not for me, for William H. Harris gives me continuous storage. Here's how it works. If the weather turns cool or a real gala comes along, or we take off on a sudden trip, I can take my furs out of storage—and then return them up to 3 times, at no extra cost. Match that anywhere—for convenience. You won't catch me taking chances with my small furs by keeping them home all summer—not when Harris offers such service in their frigid vaults, Rhode Island's newest and most scientific! Lowest standard storage rates prevail.

A Remnant Returns

Four families whose ancestors professed Christianity in order to escape the persecutions of the Spanish Inquisition, have arrived in Israel. The 28 Marranos came from Palma de Majorca in the Balearic Islands, where 40 other families wait for transportation to Haifa.

The leader of the group, Francisco Milac, told newsmen that "for generations, my family knew we were Jews, though we had no religious training and we did not observe any Jewish holidays. Until a few weeks ago we did not even know of the existence of Yom Kippur but in spite of this we felt like Jews and are proud to be so." The first time the four Chuetta families ever visited a synagogue was in Marseilles before they embarked for Israel. They felt then, said Milac, that they had achieved their purpose. Sixteen members of the group were to be circumcised this week as they rejoined the faith of their fathers.

The Jewish consciousness of the little group was awakened by films about Israel, which they saw on Spanish television. The decision to settle in Israel came from a chance meeting with a visiting Tel Aviv physician who became interested in them and contacted the Association for Righteous Converts to Judaism. The Association sent its president, Dr. Ben Zeev, from Jerusalem to Palma, where he assured himself of their direct descent from pre-Inquisition Spanish Jews, and of their wish to come to Israel.

The Jewish Agency arranged for transport and housing, and right after arriving in Haifa the four families went to the new housing units set aside for them in Ness Ziona. Members of the group said they believed that "there are more than 500,000 conscious Marranos in Spain today and most of them wish to emigrate to Israel. We are only the first wave of a huge movement."

This generation has seen the destruction of one-third of the world's Jews. An unknown number of Jewish children were saved from the gas chambers by becoming part of Christian families, and were subsequently lost to Judaism. The Jews of Russia experience anti-Semitism which varies from subtle to overt, but their religious freedom seems to hang upon a slender thread.

Counterbalancing these is the return to Israel of Spaniards long since counted as lost to Judaism. The figure of 500,000 may be exaggerated, but not the hope fostered by the fact that not even 500 years of non-Jewish life could extinguish the Jewish awareness of these families, nor separate them forever from Israel.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

by Sylvia Porter

The number of "poor" Americans — officially defined as having a yearly income of about $3,000 or less for a non-farm family of four has been slashed a minimum of 6,000,000 since 1960. In the same period, the number of "near poor" just above this lowest income bracket has jumped at least 1,000,000. In totals today, 34,000,000 are living under the "poverty" line and 16,000,000 Americans are living right above it.

These facts, in a new study by Mollie Orshansky published in the Social Security Bulletin, are of course a testimonial to the power of our boom to pull up the impoverished. But they are a warning of what even a slight economic recession could mean to fully 50,000,000 Americans.

For this huge number, most of whose heads are hardly above the crest of our sustained prosperity wave, would be the first and hardest hit by any economic slowdown. As Miss Orshansky puts it: "The near poor already live at the brink of poverty or they move back and forth across the invisible poverty line. Then are never out of financial danger."

How precarious is the financial position of the "near poor" family today? How poor is "near poor?"

The line between the two categories is actually astonishingly thin. By Social Security's definition, based on U.S. Agriculture Department's low-cost food budgets, a "near poor" family of four lives on an income totaling only $2.60 more per day than the poor family's income, or 65c more per day per person. The near poor family's income is $78; the poor family's, $60 or less.

According to the Social Security yardstick, the poor individual today has 70c a day to spend on food plus $1.40 for rent, clothes, home maintenance, transportation, everything else. The near poor person has 93c a day for food, plus $1.85 for everything else.

The fact is that one in four Americans (including 22,000,000 children under 18) now exists at these levels. The fact is that 43 per cent of all Americans over the age of 65 today are either poor or near poor.

The fact is that the loss to the nation represented by this poverty is astronomical. If all the poor could earn just enough

FROM FRIDAY TO FRIDAY

Why Do You Go Every Sabbath?

By Beryl Segal

"Where are you going every Sabbath afternoon?" asks the little girl of ten as she winds her arms around my neck.

"I am going to the Temple. We study Chumosh and Rashi with the Rabbi."

"Didn't you study it when you were a child? And why do you keep going and going? Don't you ever have vacation?" she persisted.

"Yes, my child, and no, my child," I answered.

"Yes, I did learn Chumosh and Rashi in my youth, and no, we do not take vacations from studying."

I told the little girl, in a language that could be understood by a ten-year old, that learning, Jewish learning never ends. That learning, Jewish learning, is like the bread we eat and the air we breathe. Do you take vacations from eating and breathing?

But I doubt whether I made the matter clear to the little girl. She just said "Oh" and went out to play.

How can she understand the concept of a never-ending process of learning? She sees all around her people going to school, some for longer periods of time, some for shorter stretches, but all of them finally graduate, receive their diplomas, and they settle down to do what they were trained to do. The days of classes and studying have ended.

But how can a girl of ten, and ever older children, understand that Jews never finished their course of study. That was part of their being a Jew.

On three things the world stands, they were told in the Talmud. On Study. On Worship. On Charity. Study of the Torah is number one of the three.

And so Jews would work all day, and in the evening they would come to the House of Study to learn by themselves, and to listen to somebody else when they were unable to do so on their own. That was part of their daily duties to their souls.

And so my grandfather, the little girl's great-grandfather, who was a Shohet in our little town, had a room built for himself in the House of Study, so that he could sit there and learn undisturbed.

And my father who was also a Shohet in that same little town never missed a day without study-to cross the poverty line of $60 a week for a family of four, their total income would rise $12 billion a year. If all the near poor could earn just enough to cross the near-poverty line at $78 a week, their total income would rise $9.5 billion. It doesn't take any mathematical genius to translate these figures into multi-billion dollar totals of lost production, lost tax payments, lost spending power, etc.

Thus, even at this time, of pressures to hold down the Federal budget in order to curb the pace of inflation, Congress continues to vote record totals for the anti-poverty war. Even at this time, of our preoccupation with the problems of prosperity, thoughtful policy-makers continue to concentrate on the problems of poverty and to try to wipe out poverty's causes, primarily through education and training.

The statistical poverty line is actually no more than a figure of speech. Millions who have crossed over the official line are by no means permanently over it.

It has taken more than five years of upturn to reduce our poor by 6,000,000 to "only" 34,000,000 and to raise our near poor by 1,000,000 to "only" 16,000,000. It would take a pitifully short period of downturn to more than wipe out these gains.

Let it not be forgotten for an instant how many tens of millions of lives are at stake in our fight to achieve a sustainable prosperity and thereby to avert the danger of an economic decline.

ing. When he had to go out of town he took with him a Hok L'Yisroek, a volume that contained chapters of the Torah, of Talmud and of Commentaries, selected for every day of the week. That was the minimum a Jew had to study. To the maximum there was no limit.

That was the Jewish way. Every day of the week. Every week of the year. Study and Study again. For with the studying comes understanding.

I was therefore very skeptical of a speech made by the president of a national organization, of which there are many, at an annual convention of which we have an abundance, that we have nothing to worry about the future of Jews in America. They will survive. And as evidence of the survival of the Jews he pointed out three main, "Classic" signs of a healthy Jewish life.

1. The amount of money we spent on charitable institutions.

2. The number and beauty of the Synagogues we build.

3. The spread of the Hillel Foundations on the American campuses. Two hundred and seven Hillel Houses to be exact, and over a hundred waiting to be opened as soon as Rabbis are available, on the campuses of colleges and universities.

All signs of survival. But now along comes a boy who has attained the age of Bar Mitzvah and tells me that he:

1. Has never seen a Sabbath

table spread in his house.

2. Has never heard the Kiddush recited in his house.

3. Has never heard of the Hamotzi, the blessing over bread, in his house.

That boy and others like him, come from homes where the parents are good Jews, where the father is a substantial contributor to the United Jewish Appeal, and his mother is a graduate of a university where there is a renowned Hillel House on the campus.

So that all three signs of a healthy Jewish life do not work in the life of this boy and the lives of many, many other boys.

Could it be that another "sign" is missing from the picture?

Synagogue membership? Yes. Charitable work? Yes.

But there is also a need for study. And that is missing entirely from the daily life of the American Jew.

With all the millions of dollars we spent on Charity, we are very stingy where Jewish Education is concerned. We allocate thousands of dollars to all kinds of Defense organizations, but the Hebrew Day School has to go begging and borrowing to make ends meet.

The future of American Jews? It lies in the schools we built, in the traditions of learning we foster.

To be able to open a Jewish book and to find in it pleasure. That is the meaning of Jewish Education.

To be anxious to go back to Jewish books, and to find in them something new. That is the goal of Jewish Education.

How many children can do that? One in a community and two in a family.

Women Seek Reinterpretation Of Legal Status

NEW YORK — A call on the rabbinical authorities of the world to reinterpret Jewish law to overcome disabilities of women in matters concerning remarriage, divorce, inheritance and polygamy was adopted recently by the International Council of Jewish Women triennial convention in London.

Representing approximately 500,000 women in 19 countries, including the National Council of Jewish Women of the United States, the ICJW convention urged the rabbis to eliminate necessity of "chalitsa" (the ceremony in which a childless widow is "untied" from her dead husband's surviving brother if she wishes to marry again) when the man is not free to marry or is too young to do so, and to protect women against unreasonable refusal to give "chalitsa" or the demand for a reward on the part of the brother-in-law.

They also asked that it be made possible that a written declaration of release supplant the presently-required ceremony when two parties live at great distances or circumstances don't permit them to meet, that the rabbis eliminate disabilities of the "aguna" — the "chained wife" whose husband has disappeared, and do away with the possibility of polygamy and reconsider rules of inheritance which tend to favor sons to the disadvantage of widows and daughters, in countries such as Iran, where religious minorities live under the law of their religions.

Twenty-three women represented the National Council of Jewish Women of the United States at the gathering.

Student's Mother Still Wants Answer

Dear Editor:

In a recent controversy regarding the Hebrew High School graduation, my previous letter was, and is, absolutely factual. I have lived in this city all my life and enjoyed a reputation for impeccable character and integrity. I DID NOT misconstrue, misrepresent or quote out of context. If pressure was brought to bear upon the Director, it was not I, who made it come to pass, but HE, HIMSELF.

The semantics, used to create the illusion that I am demanding an undeserving diploma, was most odious.

The people have a right to know the answer to the same question that I asked. "WHAT HAS GRADUATION FROM PUBLIC HIGH SCHOOL GOT TO DO WITH GRADUATION FROM HEBREW HIGH SCHOOL? AND IS A CHANGE IN POLICY FIVE WEEKS BEFORE GRADUATION, JUSTIFIED?" The reply, despite its verbosity, said NOTHING!

I will not demean myself further with this fruitless issue, except to say: "I am not detracting from the accomplishment of those who are being graduated. They worked for and deserve to enjoy the fruits of their labors. I sincerely congratulate them and I hope all their undertakings, Will Find Favor in The Eyes Of The Lord!"

The Lyons Den

by Leonard Lyons

FOOD: During Lynda Bird Johnson's trip to N.Y. last week she went off to lunch with Mrs. Angler Biddle Duke, wife of the ambassador to Madrid. She thought that for a change she could forget about dieting, and have a luncheon different from those in Texas. "Miss Johnson," she heard her hostess, Mrs. Duke, order, "will have a lettuce salad, and a steak . . ."

PROJECTS: George Delacorte, the publisher who gave N.Y. the theater in Central Park, the fountain at Columbus Circle and the Hans Christian Andersen Story-Telling Center, will sponsor several other civic projects. He'll help Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein II build a fountain in memory of her late husband. And he'll build a restaurant, with picnic tables, around another fountain.

Delacorte, incidentally, was charged $300 by the Water Supply Dept. for the water used in the Columbus Circle fountain. He mentioned it to the mayor, who said the charge for such a generous civic gesture had to be a mistake. It was. He was billed for $100 extra.

PRIZES: When the Critics Circle chose "Marat/Sade" over "Philadelphia, Here I Come," by one vote, producer David Merrick felt depressed — at first. Then he remembered that he was the producer of both plays. He'd rooted for "Philadelphia," because it's still running. John Cecil Holm, of "Philadelphia," sighed about the award: "We're No. 2 — so we must try harder."

SAVING: Arlene Dahl, the bride of Alexis Lichine, tells this story of his economics: His usual Christmas gifts are his vineyard's ashtrays bearing the recipient's name. One week before their wedding Lichine gave her the ashtray he'd already ordered — with her maiden name.

GOWNS: Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. lunched at the Four Seasons, where he said he was puzzled over a news dispatch from Newport: It stated that his mother's preserved gowns would be displayed for the benefit of the local restoration group. "I'm for restoring the old Newport houses," said Vanderbilt, "but my mother left her gowns to my late sister."

MURALS: Marc Chagall's murals for the new Met at Lincoln Center will not be only for the eyes of the opera goers. The murals, lit at night, will be visible to all from the Plaza.

CRISIS: Last Thursday night the Andrew Goodmans gave a unique Oriental dinner party for Ken Mori, the designer, in their penthouse atop Bergdorf Goodman. Just as we sat down to dinner, the button came off my dinner jacket. Mrs. Skitch Henderson volunteered to sew it back on again. The problem was how to get needle and thread at that hour.

We waited, there atop Bergdorf Goodman, and at long last Andrew Goodman himself, a gracious host, went down and returned with the needle and thread. We adjourned to the drawing room, out of sight — for Mrs. Henderson was the first non-union member to sew in Bergdorf Goodman.

MEMOS: The first movie on LSD, "Hallucination," has just been produced by Herbert R. Steinmann. It co-stars George Montgomery and Danny Stone . . . Benny Goodman, now at the Rainbow Grill, next will appear with the Chicago Symphony. He'll give the first major performance of Carl Nielsen's Concerto for Clarinet and Orchestra.

Melvin Belli, who was Jack Ruby's lawyer, said last week: "They fired me. I'd have fired me, too" . . . Reginald Denham, director of "Hostile Witness," is writing a book with his wife, Mary Orr, the actress-author . . . Justin Kaplan, author of "Mark Twain and Mr. Clemens," is writing a book on Lincoln Steffens. His wife, Anne Bernays, just finished a novel for Trident, "Prudence Indeed." And her mother is writing a novel, too.

Time is preparing another cover story on Sen. Jack Javits . . . Gerald Kersh's wild new ribald novel is "The Angel and the Cuckoo" . . . Overlooked in the credit for the hilarious new film, "The Russians Are Coming," is Nathaniel Benchley — who wrote the original book . . . Jerre Mangione, who interviewed novelist Philip Roth on NET, forgot to mention his own two new books, "Night Search" and "Life Sentences for Everybody."

COMIC: George Jessel said at Billy Reed's that he's been studying birds and that Israel's national bird is boiled chicken . . . Jessel will have time to make one speech, before he leaves for Viet Nam, a speech to 300 psychoanalysts. He'll deliver the speech from a couch.

BULLFIGHTER: I first met Carlos Arruza, the bullfighter killed in an auto crash recently, at his home in Mexico City half a dozen years ago. He was angry at Hemingway then for stating that Antonio Ordenez was better than Manolete. He told me: "Ordenez is great and Hemingway's friend. You can talk highly of friends, but you must respect the art and memory of others."

"In my garage I have two Buicks, one from 1945, the other this year's model. Each was designed for its time. A Manolete comes once in 100 years. An Ordenez once in 50 years . . ." (Distributed 1966 by The Hall Syndicate, Inc.) (All Rights Reserved)

Recently Married . . .

Mrs. Harold Katersky

Miss Deen Joyce Miller and Lt. Harold A. Katersky were married June 12 in Temple Emanu-El at a 6:30 P.M. candle-light ceremony. Rabbi Eli Bohnen and Rabbi Samuel Ruderman of Fall River officiated. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Miller of Narragansett and East Greenwich, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Katersky of Tiverton.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white silk gown of peau de sole with a sabrina neckline, alencon lace on the bodice, finger-tip sleeves, and lace motifs around the skirt and on the full cathedral train, which was beaded with pearls, crystals, and paillettes. Her train flowed from a princess empire slim skirt. She wore a matching lace headpiece from which fell a full veil of English silk illusion, and carried a prayer book with white orchids, lilies of the valley and white roses.

Miss Barbara Katersky, the bridegroom's sister, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Robert Miller, the bride's sister-in-law, matron of honor. They wore shrimp organza floor-length dresses with kabuki sleeves, rose appliques and aurora tear drops, A-line empire skirts and matching organza bow headpieces. The bridesmaids, who were similarly attired in pink organza, were Mrs. Richard Chaset, Miss Laurene D'Amico, Miss Joan Gollis and Miss Ellen Zaslow, cousins of the bridegroom, and Miss Marjorie Halpern and Miss Wendy Roffer, cousins of the bride. All carried spray bouquets, the maid of honor's being of pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath; the matron of honor's of pink spring flowers, and the bridesmaids', of miniature pink carnations and roses.

Edward Katersky was his brother's best man. Ushers were Arthur Bergel, the bride's cousin; Dr. Robert Miller, the bride's brother, and Richard Chaset, Jason Kotlen, William Sayers and Ronald Young.

The bride's mother wore a long, fitted pink summer satin gown with pink metallic ribbon lace around the sweetheart neckline and on the bodice. The uneven scalloped hemline was reembroidered like the bodice. The bridegroom's mother wore a long potent pink gown with a sweetheart neckline, fitted sleeveless empire bodice overlaid with crystals and beads, and A-line silk shantung skirt.

The bride is a graduate of Lincoln School and Lesley College where she majored in elementary education.

Lt. Katersky is a graduate of the University of Rhode Island and an honors graduate of Boston University Graduate School of Business Administration. He is associated with the Foxboro Company.

The couple will honeymoon in Upstate New York.

Mrs. Stephen Freedman

Miss Sharon Diane Podolsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Podolsky of 5867 Solway Street, Pittsburgh, Pa., became the bride of Stephen Lloyd Freedman, son of Mrs. Aurelia Freedman of 27 Overhill Road, Providence, on Sunday, June 12, at the Penn Sheraton Hotel. Rabbi Aaron B. Ilson officiated at the 6:30 P.M. ceremony, which was followed by a reception.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white silk organza gown fashioned with an Empire bodice of Swiss embroidered flowers, short sleeves and a straight skirt. A band of flowers decorated the hemline. A full cathedral-length train of silk organza with blossoms scattered over it was attached at the waist. The elbow-length veil of silk illusion fell in tiers from matching flowers. She carried a prayer book with phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis and ivy.

The bridegroom's sister, Miss Ruth Freedman, and the bride's sister, Miss Barbara Podolsky, were maids of honor. Bridesmaids were Fran Browarsky, Marcia Malvin, Peggy Freedman and Susan Hartmann. Robin Stein, the bride's cousin, was junior bridesmaid.

George Katz was best man. Ushers were Steve Stein, Steve Katz, Barry Fain, Andy Freedman and Micky Blum. The bride's brother, Gary Podolsky, was junior usher. Jeffrey Levinson, cousin of the bride, was ringbearer.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple will live in Cleveland, Ohio.

Mrs. Fredric Kamin

Miss Elaine Phyllis Goldfine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Goldfine of 485 South Main Street, Woonsocket, was married on Sunday, June 12, to Fredric Stuart Kamin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sol Kamin of 164 Rangeley Road, Cranston. Rabbi Pesach Krauss officiated, and Philip Macktaz served as cantor at the 6 P.M. ceremony at Congregation B'nai Israel, Woonsocket. A reception in the social hall followed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's gown of peau de sole was made with a semi-scoop neckline, empire bodice entirely appliqued with re-embroidered alencon lace centered with clusters of seed pearls, and chapel-length detachable train. She carried a Bible cascaded with stephanotis, sweetheart roses and phalaenopsis garlanded with ivy.

Miss Leslie Kamin, the bridegroom's sister, was maid of honor. She wore a blue crepe sheath gown, with empire waist and eyelet bodice. Her cascade of white carnations was centered with blue pompons and garlanded with ivy.

Dr. Melvin Goldfine, the bride's brother, was best man. Ushers were David Goldberg, Michael Rubin, Louis Porreca, William Delano, Arthur Rosen and Dr. Francis Stein.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple will live in Petersburg, Va.

Mrs. Julius Rappaport

Miss Donna Joy Altman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Altman of 135 Concord Avenue, Cranston, became the bride of Julius Rappaport of 16 Eaton Street, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Rappaport of Middleboro, Mass., in a 6 P.M. ceremony on Sunday at the Quonset Naval Air Base Officer's Club. Rabbi Jerome S. Gurland officiated at the wedding, which was followed by a reception.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a princess-style gown of white silk organza trimmed with hand-cut satin floral appliques, with short sleeves, a high scoop neckline, an A-line skirt and a chapel-length Watteau train. Her elbow-length veil of imported silk illusion fell from a matching satin open pillbox, lace-appliqued and accented with seed pearls and crystals. She carried a crescent of white roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Clarence M. Bazar, the bride's aunt, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Marcia Rappaport, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Janis Berman, the bridegroom's cousin, and Miss Charlee Mae Bazar and Miss Julie Altman, cousins of the bride.

Arnold Rappaport served as his brother's best man. Ushers were David Jacobson, the bridegroom's cousin; Mark Altman, brother of the bride, Douglas Lemmo and Vito Rullo.

The bride, a 1963 graduate of Cranston High School East, was graduated in August from Johnson & Wales Junior College of Business, where she was a member of Alpha Pi Kappa sorority. Mr. Rappaport, an alumnus of Middleboro Memorial High School (1962), attended Franklin Technical Institute.

After a wedding trip to Miami Beach, Fla., the couple will live in Cranston.

Mrs. Herbert Yolin

In a candlelight ceremony last Sunday at the Somerset Hotel, Miss Lee Ann Rumerman became the bride of Dr. Herbert Yolin of 1473 Washington Street, Canton, Mass., son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Yolin of 6 Groaton Drive, Providence. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Rumerman of 280 Common Street, Belmont, Mass. Rabbi Earl A. Grollman officiated at the 6 P.M. ceremony, which was followed by a reception.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory Chantilly lace with a sculptured lace neckline and lace dome sleeves. The empire waist was accented with an A-line sculptured skirt. An ivory lace mantilla with an open crown was held in place by a silk illusion veil. She carried a crescent of white cascade roses.

Miss Ellen Rumerman, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Miss Carol Rovner was bridesmaid. Their icy yellow silk organdy gowns were made with bateau neckline, flared sleeves and empire waist accented with maize silk ribbon and an A-line skirt. They wore matching iced yellow bows. Miss Joanna Rumerman, the bride's sister, was similarly attired as flower girl.

Neal A. Yolin was best man for his brother. Ushers were Dr. John De Polvere, Saul Braunstein, Kenneth Perlow, Mathew Grob, Sheldon Frankel, Leslie Weinstein and Jerry Lubusky.

The bride is a student at Elliot Pearson School of Tufts University. The bridegroom attended Temple University and was graduated from the Fairleigh Dickinson University School of Dentistry. A captain in the U. S. Army Reserve, he served for two years in Germany. He is a member of Tau Epsilon Phi fraternity and the Massachusetts Dental Society. After two-week wedding trip to Nassau, they will live in Canton, Mass.

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. David L. Richman of 91 Midland Avenue, Tarrytown, N.Y., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ronnie Gail Richman of 20 Ware Street, Cambridge, Mass., to Jay Lawrence Leib, son of Mr. and Mrs. Saul Leib of 422 Wayland Avenue, Providence.

A graduate of Pembroke College (A.B., 1964), Miss Richman is a graduate student at Boston University, and will receive her master's degree in August. Mr. Leib, a graduate of Hope High School and the University of Rhode Island (B.S., 1961), is owner of the Lafayette Radio Electronics franchise in Worcester, Mass. A first lieutenant in the Reserves, he served two years in the U.S. Army.

An Aug. 6 wedding is planned.

MISS WINN MARRIED

Miss Phyllis Winn of Chicago, formerly of Providence, was married recently to Dr. Alan Freidson of Schenectady, N.Y., formerly of Cranston. The 1 o'clock ceremony was held on the lawn of Dr. Bernard Freidson's home in Saratoga, N.Y., and Dr. Freidson was his brother's best man.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Warren Zisserson, was attended by Miss Bernardine Zisserson and, as junior bridesmaid, Miss Debbie Freidson. Guests from Boston, New York, Maryland, Chicago and Providence were present. After a wedding trip to Montreal, Canada, they will live in Schenectady.

RECEIVES MEDAL

Howard Goodman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goodman of 240 Gallatin Street, was the recipient of the Leadership Medal of the National Federation of Jewish Men's Clubs. The medal was presented by Julius Lightman, president of the Men's Club, at closing day exercises of the Temple Beth Israel Sunday School on June 12. This award is given annually to the student who shows "outstanding services to God and his fellow man."

SON'S BIRTH IS ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Richard John Blechman of 12508 Village Square Terrace, Rockville, Md., announce the birth of their first child, a son, Jeffrey Scott, on June 1. Mrs. Blechman is the former Iris Cecile Garber. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Garber of 39 Overhill Road. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Nelson E. Blechman of Washington, D.C. Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Sam Garber and Mrs. Harris Salcofsky of Providence, and Mrs. Gus Blechman and Mrs. Jack Goldman of Washington, D.C. Mrs. Esther Surtis of Washington is great-great-grandmother.

ANNOUNCE FIRST CHILD

Mr. and Mrs. Melvyn Rodinsky of 18 Glencoe Street, Brighton, Mass., announce the birth of their first child and daughter, Jill Robin, on May 17. Mrs. Rodinsky is the former Judith Nancy Selwitz of New Haven, Conn. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Selwitz of Elm Street, New Haven. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Eli Rodinsky of Staniford Street, Providence. Maternal great-grandmother is Mrs. Pearl Selwitz Sukal of Springfield, Mass. Paternal great-grandmother is Mrs. Sara Bernon of Providence.

THIRD CHILD BORN

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gold of 131 Weetamoe Drive, Governor Francis Farms, Warwick, announce the birth of their third child and second son, Eric Jason, on June 1. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. David Mermelstein of Gallatin Street. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gold of Pinehurst Avenue.

Miss Jean Princess Wiener, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving A. Wiener of Pawtucket, was married on Saturday, June 11th, to Stephen Robert Comar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome M. Comar of Winnetka, Ill. Rabbi William G. Braude and Cantor Norman Gewirtz performed the 9:30 P.M. ceremony at Temple Beth El. A reception and dinner in the meeting hall followed the wedding.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of light ivory peau de sole, with a bateau neckline, elbow-length sleeves and an A-line skirt. Re-embroidered alencon lace accentuated the empire bodice and skirt and formed the chapel-length wattleau train. Her mantilla was of matching alencon lace on English net and she carried two lilies.

Mrs. Ronald Davis, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Brooke Kruger and Mrs. Jeffrey Kassoover, Miss Eva Friedlander, Mrs. Herbert Turney and Mrs. I. David Borenstein. They wore long blue dresses with a sleeveless Schiffli embroidered empire bodice and a semi-fitted controlled A-line skirt.

Ronald Davis, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man. The ushers were Sandy William Wiener, brother of the bride; Nathaniel Sack, cousin of the bridegroom, and Michael Saper.

The mother of the bride wore a custom-made French import of blue ribbon lace with a bateau neckline, and a shoulder-to-hem cascade of blue chiffon.

The bride, a 1963 graduate of Pembroke College, did graduate work in zoology at the University of Chicago. She is a biology instructor at Roger Williams Junior College and Kendall College in Evanston, Ill.

The bridegroom, a 1962 graduate of Earlham College, Richmond, Ind., is with the Maremont Corporation of Chicago.

After a wedding trip to Antigua and Barbados, the couple will reside at 531 Deming Place, Chicago, Ill.

program which includes a Sisterhood, B'nai B'rith Lodge, AZA and other youth groups, and a daily and Sunday religious school.

Rabbi Krauss has served as president of the Rhode Island board of rabbis and participated in all major community affairs. A rabbinical graduate of the Jewish Theological Seminary, he has served as educational consultant at Camp Ramah and has taught, organized and lectured in the field of adult Jewish education. He has presented Judaism to non-Jewish groups around New England.

He was appointed by the mayor to the Biracial Council of the City of Woonsocket, was chairman of Israel Bonds in Woonsocket, and has served as a member of the board of directors of Providence

Hebrew Day School and on the executive committee of the Bureau of Jewish Education of Greater Providence.

Rabbi and Mrs. Krauss will be honored by civic and congregational leaders and friends at the reception next Friday.

POLYGAMY

IRAN— Polygamy was until recently practiced by the Jews of Iran, but an Israeli mission of rabbis has concluded an agreement with rabbinical authorities in Teheran to bar the practice so distasteful to the modern Iranian Jewish women. They won the ban by appealing to Rahel Shazar, the wife of the President of Israel, through their own affiliate of the International Council of Jewish Women.

Mrs. Wald Gives Torah Scroll . . .

how she must have been seven or eight years old when she first hoped to donate a Torah, "but as God is my judge, I never really believed it." She chose a beautiful new cover of cherry red velvet with golden lettering.

Mrs. Wald said she tells everyone "to give charity and see how good it feels," and also that God is good to those who give. People say to me, "You must have had an awful lot of money," but when we got married we didn't have two cents.

She and Mr. Wald, a deputy sheriff of the Sixth District Court for 17 years, agreed in everything, she said. "A wife today will say, 'That's mine,' and he will say, 'That's mine.' 'We didn't.'" She fortunately had a rooming house and cottages at Sharon Springs, which brought in around $1,000 a week — often just in time for another donation.

As the generous Providence woman reminisced about her happy, full life, she recalled the Catholic family who had never known Jews until the Walds moved into the flat above them. Mrs. Wald became such a good friend of the motherless daughters that they refused to attend Mass unless she went with them . . . which led to involved explanations when nuns and later a priest came to call. Asked why she came to the church, she told him, "I like my neighbors."

Mr. Wald was a director of the Free Loan Association for 35 years, and she belonged to about 14 organizations — among them, Miriam Hospital, Temple Emanuel, the Providence Hebrew Day School, the Sheltering Society, Veterans Post French 23, and Pioneer Women — but she resigned from many when they went up to $6 dues. Mrs. Wald believes she was the first woman whose name was on a cemetery street — one of those at Lincoln Park Cemetery is named Sol and Nettie Wald Street.

Her only regret in the fulfillment of a dream which began about 60 years ago in Romania (shortly before she came to Providence) is that Mr. Wald is not here to share in making the gift and in the dedication ceremonies, to begin at 7 o'clock on Wednesday evening, June 22, with a festive procession from Warwick Avenue and Gardiner Street to Temple Beth Am. Rabbi Hershel E. Portnoy will officiate at the service, to be followed by refreshments, and to which the general public is invited.

"My father used to tell us, 'To give to the Free (Loan Association) means food. Next is a home; if a person is sick they need a place to put their body. After that is a hospital,' she recalled. "And I used to jump up and say, 'I want a Torah.' My father said, 'The best you leave for dessert.' And now I get my dessert."

MONEY FOR RESEARCH

WASHINGTON — The late Thomas Gerber, former editor and publisher of the National Jewish Ledger, a local weekly, left an estate valued at an estimated $250,000, bequeathing $100,000 of the total to a new foundation to be devoted to research into advanced surgical methods for repairing heart damage, it was disclosed here prior to the probate of the will.

Hello Again!

Sports News By Warren Walden

TO BE OR NOT TO BE — And it looks as though it's going "to be" where Mr. Louis A.R. Pieri is concerned with the R.I. Reds of hockey. Mr. Pieri has been selling his hockey club and reding to his blueberry patches in Maine for the past decade, at least. Following last season's disastrous demonstrations by his skaters, he almost definitely had had enough. "It's much more serene with the blueberries," he said. "They don't get upset and shout abuses at me." And so, I can imagine the enthusiastic Pieri getting un-enthused as he gazed at his blueberries blooming in the hot Sun of which we have had a little during the past few weeks. Result? He and Buster Clegg and Fernie Flaman have been attending a hockey meeting in Montreal this week.

MY BINOCULARS PLEASE — And that is what Pieri probably requested of Buster Clegg as he scanned the hockey horizon seeking new talent at the National League draft sessions in Montreal. Which reminds me of the time he requested binoculars from me early one morning in Lexington, Kentucky, in order to watch his horse work out in the misty hours before dawn. Either the binoculars weren't good or the horse was darker-hued in the dampness before the day, because we were watching the wrong one. And so, let us hockey fans hope that the glasses are bright and shining and that Mr. Louis A. R. has been able to focus them on a whole batch of capable performers because his R. I. Reds need a complete overhauling. Anihoo, it must be the rareness of the cold June that sub-consciously started me thinking about hockey and ice. And that reminds me that the condition of Mike Fitzsimmons was reported as good at Miriam Hospital where Mike underwent surgery. He has been assisting Chief Engineer Ernie Stinson in the ice-making procedure at R. I. Auditorium for several years.

HERE, THERE — EVERYWHERE — It's nice to know that Bobby Jones predicted a career of high achievement for Ronnie Quinn, an outstanding ambassador for Rhode Island in the golfing world. Ronnie is a thoroughbred in or out of golf. He'll be demonstrating that in the Jimmy Fund match at Alpine Country Club on June 29th when he tees off with a pair of "greats" from the big circuits, Tony Lama and Ken Venturi. Jim Grant of Connecticut, whose father twice won the New England Amateur Championship, will complete a foursome . . . Puleese! Radio announcers! Stop saying Sked-you-all! Webster says it should be: "Sked-you'll!" . . . And remember, it's not a "Baw Game." . . . — (Ya unnerstant, doncha).

YOOO HOO — CASSIUS — Ernie Terrell and Doug Jones, fighting for the World Heavyweight Championship, will be on closed circuit TV at R. I. Auditorium on June 28th . . . The Tim O'Neill Amateur Baseball League is still going but Tim O'Neill Field in Roger Williams Park is almost gone. Could and should be a thing of beauty and a joy forever. Thousands were entertained there once but now it's eroded and corroded. Do something somebody . . . According to Joe McHenry, Eddie Mathews remarked that it was a wet day when Max Surkont fanned eight Redlegs in a row and that nobody could use wetness better than Max. Andy Coakley could make a dry ball do what a wet one did. He pitched what he called the "spitless spitter." . . .

Reason Westy Whizzer wasn't in the big Raynham Classic — he sprained a toe . . . When Fred Trevillion drew the No. 1 post for that event, he exclaimed, "Someone had to be lucky and I'm he!" . . . Trevillion first came to Raynham from England with the great Trev's Perfection which was a near-perfect greyhound . . . Larry Hughes, owner of Miss Whirl, had collected more than $86,000 with her before the Raynham International . . .

BIGGER AND BETTER — The annual Jewish Bowling Congress Banquet is fast becoming the biggest event in the Rhode Island sports picture . . . If you didn't know it, don't say I told you that Sports-caster Harry Platt played the part of a good-natured policeman in Sock and Buskin Alumni's "Arsenic and Old Lace." Versatile fellow, eh . . . NOW YOU KNOW — That Rhode Island Day at Fenway Park will be at night on August 12th . . . Mike Kenyon, who formerly milked thirty cows each morning before attending Chariho High School where he was an outstanding baseball pitcher, is establishing an impressive record with the Grainville, South Carolina, team. He was signed with a Class A contract by the Mets and it includes a clause calling for a two year course at the college of his choosing . . . Wonder if Dr. Naismith had the slightest idea that his peach-basket game would gain such wide favor? The People to People program of Rhode Island will send a basketball team to Iceland and Scotland on June 22nd.

NOT HORSEING — Palestine Temple of The Shrine may have a mounted drill team on the field at Fenway Park soon. Horses have not been allowed in the past; might dig up the turf . . . Joe Lindia is arranging a bus trip to Coopers-town on Hall of Fame Day when they enshrine Ted Williams there . . . And remember — "Nobody grows old by merely living a number of years; people grow old only by deserting their ideals." — CARRY ON!

Truman Hopes To Attend Ceremony In Israel

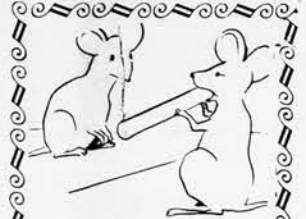

JERUSALEM — A spokesman for Harry S. Truman said recently that the former President would come to the ground-breaking for the peace center named for him at Hebrew University if at all possible. The ceremony is set for July 11.

A statement quoting David Noyes, Mr. Truman's personal representative, was made public at the university a day after Mr. Noyes had left for Rome and hours after the university had closed for the weekend.

Mr. Noyes, whose news conference was canceled earlier, was quoted as having said: "All that can be said in all candor is that if at all possible for him to undertake so arduous a journey, he would surely wish to be witness to a project which is so close to his heart."

A statement said that though the center would be built on the hilltop campus, it would be "conducted as an independent and international facility" with "no connection or involvement with any one government."

"They say it doesn't hurt you if you don't inhale."

OHAVE SHOLAM GRADUATION

Graduation and closing exercises of the Pawtucket Hebrew School of Congregation Ohave Sholam will be held on Sunday, June 19th at 10:30 A.M. in the vestry. Samuel S. Cohen, educational director of the school, will present diplomas to the graduates, Stuart Neal Cutler, Michael Wayne Dobro, Bruce Abowitz, Henry Dizenhaus, Murray Korman, Clark Miller, Deborah Salzberg, Rhonda Shapiro and Joseph Vascovitz. Participating in the exercises will be Andrew Baker, Gary Buck-ler, Judith Carter (who will play accordion solos), Bayla Fine, Peter Fine, Diane Korman, Amy Lenz, Toni Lenz, Jo-Ann Salzberg, Lynne Salzberg, Phyllis Schuster and Jill Smith, members of the class taught by Mrs. Abraham M. Mal. Also participating will be Robert Baker, Regina Faust, Charles Fine, Stephen Fine, Jan Geller, Larry Korman and Gail Salzberg. Mr. Mal, president of the synagogue; Herman Geller, chairman of the Hebrew School, and Mrs. Geller, Sisterhood president will extend greetings.

TO PRESENT MEDALS

David Penn, Department senior vice-commander of the Jewish War Veterans, was guest speaker at a breakfast meeting of the Reback Winsten Post of Pawtucket last Sunday at Congregation Ohave Sholam. Other guests of honor were Harold Pansy and Aaron Mittleman, past Department commanders. Matthew E. Segool was inducted into the post by Mr. Mittleman.

Joseph Elowitz, chairman of the Essay Contest Committee, announced that medals would be presented to winners at the Jenks Junior High School on June 14, at the Goff Junior High School on June 15, and at the B.F. Norton School in Cumberland on June 20. Commander Munroe Abowitz reported on the State Convention held at the Yankee Motor Inn earlier this month. Joseph Fox was officer of the day and Mr. Elowitz, chaplain. Mr. Abowitz and Melvin Harriet served the breakfast.

Mrs. Charles M. Blank

Miss Susan Beth Weisberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Weisberg of 135 Hillside Avenue, became the bride of Charles M. Blank, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Blank of 23 Butternut Drive, New City, N.Y., on Sunday, June 5. Rabbi Joel Zalman and Cantor Ivan Perlman officiated at the 2:30 P.M. ceremony at Temple Emanu-El, which was followed by a reception at the bride's home.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a peau de sole gown designed with re-embroidered alencon lace, an empire bodice, A-line skirt and short sleeves. An alencon lace motif was applied on the skirt, which had a detachable train. Her elbow-length bouffant veil was of silk illusion, and she carried a bouquet of long-stemmed marguerites.

Maid of honor were Miss Joan Weisberg, sister of the bride, and Miss Nettie Blank, sister of the bridegroom, who wore pale pink linen gowns with fitted waist and trimmed in green. They carried colonial bouquets.

Harris Schrank was bestman. Ushers were Robert Berman, Martin Cooper, Mark Furstenberg, David Ganes and Michael Sorgen.

After a wedding trip to Vermont, the couple will live at 55 Magazine Street, Cambridge, Mass.

Bas Mitzvah Ceremony Includes Special Cantata

Eight girls performed an original cantata, "Prayer and Its Fulfillment," and became Bas Mitzvah in an unprecedented ceremony at Congregation B'nai Israel, Woonsocket, last Friday. The largest congregation in the synagogue's history was present at the service, conducted by Rabbi Pesach Krauss.

Samuel Deutsch, principal of the school, composed for the occasion, and directed the cantata, which related the Siddur contents of prayers to the prophetic predictions fulfilled in modern times. The girls chose their own declamations for the ceremony, which marked the completion of a year's study of religious duties and of the Hebrew prophets.

Girls who became Bas Mitzvah were Debra Cohen, Marcia Cohen, Susan Goldenberg, Nancy Goldstein, Joan Lavine, Sylvia Salzberg, Inez Sherman and Patricia Tobin. Guests from all over New England and from as far away as Los Angeles were present. Congressman St. Germain attended the ceremonies.

The new Bas Mitzvah program is still in the experimental stage, according to Mr. Deutsch, who seeks to relate the ceremony to classroom work in preparation for the event, rather than to preserve the isolated ritual. Similar programs are being considered in other Conservative congregations, although it requires much research by the participants.

BETH DAVID MEN'S CLUB

Paul Samuels was elected president of the Men's Club of Temple Beth David at a meeting last Sunday. Others elected for the coming year were Harold Millman and Jerry Aron, first and second vice - presidents, respectively; Philip Rubin, treasurer; Ted Slavsky, Milton Bronstein and Herbert Wagner, corresponding, recording and financial secretary, respectively; and Charles Kilberg, Cy Goldenberg, William Kanopkin, Nathan Knlager, Isadore Wolf, Max Tippe, Earl Resnick and Jacob Diamond, board of directors. They will be installed on June 26.

HADASSAH BOND CHAIRMAN

Mrs. Louis Kirshenbaum was installed as a three-year member of the board of directors of Providence Chapter of Hadassah on Tuesday. She is also Hadassah chairman for Israel Bonds.

Israeli Cabinet Votes Stronger Sabbath Law

JERUSALEM — Israel's Cabinet has voted to strengthen the Sabbath Observance Law by recommending to the Knesset (Parliament) that factory workers or owners be prohibited from working on the factory premises during their weekly rest days.

The newly-recommended law, yet to be considered by the Knesset, was adopted by the Cabinet as a result of an agreement made with the National Religious Party prior to the formation of the present coalition Government.

The new amendment would also prohibit members of cooperatives from working on their rest days in industrial enterprises or workshops belonging to their cooperative.

The amendment however specifically exempts members of kibbutzim although it states that work on rest days must be limited only to chores "necessary for the upkeep of the farm." Exempted also are night clubs, cafes and gasoline filling stations.

Non-Jews, according to the revised version of the Sabbath law, may keep weekly rest days "in accordance with their surroundings, or in accordance with their religion, whichever they choose."

Under the present law, shopkeepers and their employees are now barred from working on the Sabbath. The Cabinet voted that the ministerial committee empowered to issued permits for Sabbath employment for essential work would also regulate the new clauses now recommended.

DEBT SETTLERS should assume responsibility for the debts of settlers who have left the moshavim.

Graduation Program

The Providence Hebrew Day School will present "A Decade to Remember," a special program planned by Dean David Jehuda in honor of its junior high school graduates, on Wednesday, June 22, at 7:30 P.M. in the school auditorium. A coffee hour will follow the graduation program.

According to Mrs. Sol Resnik, coeditor of the Ladies' Association publication, "HA-OR," the seven students completing ninth grade plan a variety of eventual careers. Francine Abrams, who will attend Hope High School, wants to teach. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Abrams, she was president of the Student Council this year. Lillian Amcis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Amcis, will study at Hope and at Hebrew High School. She hopes to go into social work, working with underprivileged children and their families.

Helen Gelade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boris Gelade, will attend Classical High School and plans eventually to teach elementary school. Dov Barkay, son of Rabbi and Mrs. Barkay, will attend Malmontides in Boston, and hopes to study architecture. Steven Flalkoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Flalkoff, will attend Malmontides or Yeshiva University High School (other students consider him the scholar of the class).

Eric Flescher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Flescher, has won second and first prizes in science fairs and plans a scientific career. He will attend Hope. Philip Kaplan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kaplan, will go into law or civil engineering. He will enter the Long Beach Hebrew Day School next fall.

Temple Beth Sholom Sets Summer Study

The Education Committee of Temple Beth Sholom, with the cooperation of Edward Adler, principal of the Hebrew School Department, announces the establishment of a Guided Summer Study Program at the temple's School Department this summer. The program, for students of the temple school, "is designed to help combat the fact that over the summer months, children tend to forget at least part of what they have learned. When they return to class in the fall, six to eight weeks is spent in reviewing the previous years' work before any new subjects can be undertaken."

The program will include the art of prayers, story reading in Hebrew, lettering and handwriting, Bible tales in English and Hebrew songs. This is believed to be the first such program to be established by a congregational school.

COUNCILLETES

New executive officers of Councilletes are Joanne Gross, president; Debby Kaplan, Ellen Robin, Ruth Indeck and Ellen Semino, first, second, third and fourth vice-presidents, respectively; Andy Brown, recording secretary, and Jody Josephson, treasurer.

Bob Banner's orchestra will provide music and entertainment.

ORT INSTALLATION HELD
Providence Chapter of Women's American ORT (organization through rehabilitation for training) held their annual installation of officers on June 16 at Linda's Restaurant in Cranston. Officers installed are Mrs. Alvin Kurzer, president; Mesdames Irish Schreiber, Julius Manecofsky, Merrill Temkin, Raphael Pitchon and Edward Appel, vice-presidents; Richard Strauss, treasurer; Jerry Elmhorn, financial secretary; Melvin Lipson, corresponding secretary; Marvin Findling, recording secretary, and Harold Salk, parliamentarian.

BETH SHOLOM SCHOOLS

Closing exercises and registration for the Temple Beth Sholom Hebrew and Sunday Schools will take place on Sunday, June 19, at 10 A.M. Students of all classes will present a short program demonstrating various aspects of the curriculum, with music, and a greeting by Rabbi Charles M. Rubel. Prizes for attendance at junior congregation Services, achievement certificates and awards to the best students in each class will be given during the program, directed by Edward O. Adler, principal and Mrs. Theodore Noth, Hebrew instructor, with the assistance of the Sunday School staff, Mrs. Amnon Horvitz, Miss Esta Dress, librarian, and Miss Francine Abrams, assistant to Mrs. Horvitz.

Registration for the academic year 1966-67 will be held at 10 A.M. in the Joseph Rosenfield Social Hall prior to the 10:30 A.M. exercises to which parents and friends are invited. Children 6-7 years of age will be accepted in the primary grades. Children of eight or children entering third grade in public school will be accepted in first grade of Hebrew School.
