Emanu-El Plans Memorial Weekend, Prof. Fritz A. Rothschild To Speak

In memory of its late vice-president, Daniel Jacobs, through the generosity of the Fain family, Temple Emanu-El will present a weekend of inspiration and learning, April 7-9, with Prof. Fritz A. Rothschild of the Teachers Institute, Jewish Theological Seminary of America.

The weekend will begin with a Shabbos dinner, in honor of the faculty of the Religious School, tendered by the School Board of which Mr. Jacobs was chairman for many years. Members of the Board of Trustees have also been invited to the dinner, at which Rabbi Rothschild will speak briefly.

At the Sabbath Eve Services on April 7 after the dinner, Prof. Rothschild will deliver the Daniel Jacobs Memorial Sermon, entitled "Questions and Answers." On Saturday morning he will address the Youth Congregation during its services, and on Sunday morning he will speak at the Men's Club breakfast-meeting on "The Creation Story: Ancient Fable or Ultimate Truth?" Mr. Jacobs was once Men's Club president.

Rabbi Rothschild has been lecturer in Philosophy of Religion at the JTS Teachers Institute-Seminary College of Jewish Studies since 1960. He was born in Germany, emigrated to Rhodesia, Africa, in 1939, and came to this country in 1948. He was educated at Columbia University, and at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America where he received his Bachelor of Religious Education degree in 1951, and was ordained.

PROF. FRITZ A. ROTHSCHILD

After serving as Scholar-in-Residence at Har Zion Temple in Philadelphia, he joined the faculty of the University of Pennsylvania.

He has been active in adult Jewish education and has lectured extensively in the United States and Canada. His publications include a book, "Between God and Man: An Interpretation of Judaism from the Writings of Abraham J. Heschel" and articles on Jewish theology in "Commentary," "Judaism," "Conservative Judaism" and the "Encyclopedia Ivrit." He is co-author of a forthcoming volume on the aims of Jewish education.

German Line Buys 'Shalom'

BONN—The Hamburg-Atlantic Line announced last week in Hamburg the purchase of the 25,000-ton Israeli ship Shalom. The company said the ship would be renamed Hanseatic and assigned to the North Atlantic and cruises.

The last Hanseatic, nicknamed the Beautiful Lady of Hamburg, was badly damaged by an engine-room fire in New York last November and is now being scrapped in Hamburg.

The Shalom was built three years ago in France for Israel and can carry 1,100 passengers at 20 knots. Since delivery she has been on service between Haifa and New York. Hamburg-Atlantic hopes to have the ship in service by the end of this year.

Last October the Hamburg-Atlantic Line ordered another passenger ship, to be named Hamburg, from a Hamburg shipyard for delivery in April, 1969.

Two of the 10,000-ton liners were sold to Portuguese interests and the 10,000-ton Jerusalem was turned over to the Peninsular & Occidental Steamship Company of Miami, Fla., under long-term charter and renamed the Miami. The Miami is now offering weekly short cruises to the Bahamas. The Herzl is still being operated, mainly in the Mediterranean.

Shipping sources also pointed to recent reports from Israel that the Israeli Government had decided to grant Zim Lines a $675,000 subsidy to cover its losses from passenger ship operations in 1967.

Following this grant in February, the Israeli Government, one of the major partners in Zim, entered negotiations with the West German line. Informed sources here estimated the price of the liner at about $18-million. She cost $20-million to build.

Councilman Still Fears Greeks Bearing Gifts

JERUSALEM—The Jerusalem Municipal Council has approved a cultural exchange agreement with the municipality of Athens over the objection of the representative of the Poale Agudat Israel who cited an incident more than 2,000 years ago. He recalled how the Greeks defiled the Temple by slaughtering a pig on the altar.

The representative of the National Religious Party, who also serves as a Deputy Mayor, abstained from the vote with the explanation that, while the past should not be forgotten, today's Greece is a new one and that the modern city of Athens has no intention of carrying out any offensive acts in Jerusalem.

To Try Former Nazis For Babi Yar Massacre

BERLIN—Germany will prosecute ten former SS-men in connection with the wartime massacre of Jews at Babi Yar, it has been announced. They are charged by the Darmstadt Prosecutor with complicity in the killing of 34,000 persons at Babi Yar, near Kiev. A spokesman for the World Jewish Congress said that while it was known that all such places were under systematic investigation, this was the first time it had been possible to identify per-

Rabbi Lelyveld Asks Bishops To Implement Guidelines

NEW YORK—The president of the American Jewish Congress called on the nation's Roman Catholic bishops to implement their recently published guidelines for Catholic-Jewish dialogue by clarifying the church position on Jewish guilt for the crucifixion and combatting religious prejudice resulting from the presentation of Passion plays.

Rabbi Arthur J. Lelyveld of Cleveland, in a letter to Bishop John J. Carberry, chairman of the Bishops' Committee for Ecumenical and Inter-Religious Affairs, said he welcomed the guidelines as an "effective instrument in strengthening understanding between Catholics and Jews."

But he said he was "deeply troubled" by the "unfortunate" wording of one of the dialogue themes, which he said may be construed as being weaker than the Vatican Council pronouncement issued by Pope Paul.

And he cited the presentation of a Passion play under church auspices in Union City, N. J., described as "permeated" by a "crude and blatant anti-Semitic atmosphere . . . of hatred for the Jew"—which he said was "antithetical to both the letter and the spirit of Vatican Council pronouncements and to the trust of your own guidelines."

Rabbi Lelyveld said the guidelines spoke "eloquently and directly to some of the central problems of dialogue between Christians and Jews."

"We especially refer to your sensitivity to the need to avoid proselytization; to your acknowledgment of the 'living and complex reality' of post-Biblical and contemporary Judaism, and to your espousal of a frank and honest treatment of historic Christian anti-Semitism, including the need for maturity and discretion in the presentation of the crucifixion story."

He noted that the wording of the bishops' statement on the presentation of the crucifixion story urged that it be presented "in such a way as not to implicate all Jews of Jesus' time or of today in a collective guilt for the crime."

He contrasted this with the Vatican Council declaration, which said, "What happened in His passion cannot be charged against all the Jews, without distinction, then alive, nor against the Jews of today."

Rabbi Lelyveld commented, "It appears to us unthinkable that the very American bishops who fought so vigorously for a forthright and far-reaching declaration in Rome" intended their own to be "weaker."

"We had hoped that the American bishops would repudiate in its entirety the idea of Jewish guilt. For the persistence of the claim of such guilt, even when it is ascribed in limited fashion, makes inter-religious dialogue difficult," he declared.

Rabbi Lelyveld noted that last November a group of American authors, playwrights and literary critics had called for a world boycott of the Passion play at Oberammergau, Germany, in protest against that production's "intensely anti-Semitic script."

More recently and closer to home, he added, "another Passion play presentation has come to our attention which . . . appears egregiously to violate the guidelines set down by the Bishops' Committee for Ecumenical and Inter-Religious Affairs."

The production, advertised as "America's Oberammergau," was presented weekly from Feb. 26 to March 19 by the Holy Family Roman Catholic Church of Union City, N. J.

Apartment House For Aged Opens On Lower East Side

NEW YORK—Coming from the Bronx, from Brooklyn, from every part of the metropolitan area and from more distant places, returning to the Lower East Side in a style they never knew when this was New York's great melting pot, are 30 couples and 20 individuals, mainly in their 70's and 80's, who on Wednesday were welcomed by their landlord, as they moved into the nation's first apartment dwelling for the elderly built by a community-center. The project is the first in New York where they are eligible for the newly-authorized rent supplement.

The residence is the 12-story David L. Podell House, adjoining, and part of, the famed Educational Alliance at Henry and Jefferson Streets in Manhattan. Podell House represents a pioneering effort expected to set a national pattern for the integration of older persons into community activities, instead of shunting them off to segregated lives. A member of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies of New York, the Educational Alliance built the structure together with a new recreation center under Federation's "City of Life" Building Program at a cost of $2,000,000.

According to Joseph S. Gershman, president of the Alliance, Podell House will operate as a non-profit facility open to both Jewish and non-Jewish aged. They will have low-cost facilities suited to their needs, and a full range of social welfare, recreational, cultural and educational resources of the adjacent Israel and Leah Cummings Center. They will also enjoy a complete medical clinic offering free examinations, emergency care, and referrals to the neighboring Gouverneur Am-bulatory Clinic of Beth Israel Medical Center.

Unlike many Lower East Side landlords of the past, the Educational Alliance, which came into being in 1891 to help meet the urgent needs of hundreds of thousands of immigrants, has worked to make them feel at home in new quarters in their old neighborhood.

Over the last six months, the Alliance (the oldest community center established by Jews in America) has provided many opportunities for advance visits, so that residents might see their new quarters, determine what furniture they wanted to bring and become acquainted with the facilities.

On arrival, each tenant received a gift package in the Jewish tradition, containing "bread for the staff of life; salt for the spice of life, and sugar for life's sweetness." A traditional Lower East Side brunch including bagels and lox was offered.

The move to Podell House had been postponed for many months because of the long plumbers' strike. This caused severe hardship to many older people who had already given notice to landlords of apartments they were vacating.

The Podell apartments have special safety and comfort features: grab bars, handrails, air-conditioning, non-slip floors, automatic shut-off and temperature controls. A social group worker will participate with the Self-Governing Tenants Association to organize the community life of all persons in the Center.

A psychiatric caseworker will be available for immediate family problems and referrals. A floor leader has been designated to check on the health and welfare of tenants within the building, a feature particularly vital to those tenants living alone.

Nazi Tracker Wiesenthal Says Bormann Uses Double

NEW YORK — Martin Bormann, Hitler's deputy, is still at large and uses a double, said Simon Wiesenthal this week. Mr. Wiesenthal has tracked down 1,000 Nazi criminals, including Adolf Eichmann.

"Bormann," Mr. Wiesenthal said, "travels freely through Chile, Paraguay and Brazil. He had a strong organization dedicated to aiding other Nazi war criminals to evade authorities."

Mr. Wiesenthal, said that Bormann "uses five or six names . . . he has many friends, money. I get reports on him simultaneously from two places too far apart to let there be just one man."

Among those Nazi criminals still at large, whose whereabouts he does not know, Mr. Wiesenthal said, are Heinrich Mueller, chief of the Gestapo, and Richard Gluecks, head of the concentration camps.

Mr. Wiesenthal's chief interest right now is the apprehension of Bormann, Mueller and Gluecks.

At a news conference at the offices of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, 315 Lexington Avenue, Mr. Wiesenthal said there might be as many as 16,000 Nazi war criminals still living, either openly or in hiding in various parts of the world.

The 59-year-old Mr. Wiesenthal, once an architect in his native Poland, is visiting the United States in connection with his book, "The Murderers Among Us." It will be published this week by McGraw-Hill. The book was edited by Joseph Wechsberg. This is Mr. Wiesenthal's first trip here.

Mr. Wiesenthal said his job of tracking down Nazi criminals was not motivated by revenge. He performed his work "to seek justice for those six million Jewish men, women and children who died in the Nazi death camps."

This task has occupied an almost around-the-clock devotion since his release from the Mauthausen concentration camp in 1945 by the United States Army.

He said he had a personal list of more than 22,000 war criminals in his Jewish Documentation Center in Vienna. The center is supported by modest contributions from Jews. He has a staff of 16.

In a profile on Mr. Wiesenthal in the book, Mr. Wechsberg writes:

"Wiesenthal's constant preoccupation with terror has made him neither despondent nor callous. It is his strength and perhaps also his weakness that his files are not 'cases'; each to him is a human being."

Tel Aviv District Court Jails Religious Rioters

TEL AVIV—A Tel Aviv district court sentenced to four month imprisonment recently five members of a religious settlement at Revaha who rioted last May in Kaplan Hospital in Rehovot in protest against an autopsy performed in the hospital on the body of a Revaha settler.

He declined to discuss the motives for the settlers' action, declaring that the issue of post-mortems was not within the competence of his court. The issue has evoked widespread protests among Israel's Orthodox community.

Rabbi, Former Radio Star, Still Champions Minorities

TORONTO—Rabbi Abraham L. Feinberg, who retired in 1961 with the title of Rabbi Emeritus from Holy Blossom Temple, Canada's largest and wealthiest Reform congregation, is still willing to generate controversy. He is 67 years old now, and partly blind, but he made a trip recently to Hanot with two other clergymen and returned with what was then viewed as a symbolic invitation to President Johnson to visit Hanot for peace talks.

The former "Poet Prince of the Airwaves," he called himself Anthony Frome back in the 1930s when his lyric tenor was heard on New York and NBC radio. Then the rise of Hitler posed an unavoidable challenge.

He had left the rabbinate because he was sought after "more for dinner parties than for guidance," but he "began thinking about what was going to happen to the Jews, and I knew that there was only one thing for me to do," he recalled. "I had to go back to the rabbinate."

There, he made a new reputation as an impulsive, controversial champion of minority groups and individual liberties. If there was a demonstration for disarmament or for a nuclear test-ban treaty, or against apartheid in South Africa, racial injustice in the American South, United States policies in Vietnam or a visit to Toronto by former Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, the rabbi is ready to march, lend his name or send a telegram.

To members of his congregation who asked why he could not stick to spiritual affairs he replied: "Some people call it politics. I call it fighting for the Kingdom of God on earth."

He has been denounced in Toronto hate literature as "the Red Rabbi," and criticized regrettably by those who were disturbed that a man dedicated to goodwill could also demand abolition of Christmas observances in local schools and urge his congregation to boycott a concert by Walter Gieseking because of Nazi associations.

"Working for him is like hanging onto an electric drill," an employee once said. "You're afraid to let go for fear of what will happen."

He was born on Sept. 14, 1899, in the Ohio mining town of Bellair, the son of a Lithuanian cantor who had fled pogroms. He was graduated from high school at 14 and from the University of Cincinnati in 1920 with a Phi Beta Kappa key.

He took graduate courses at Chicago and Columbia universities, attended Hebrew Union College and was ordained a rabbi at 23. After serving congregations in upstate New York and in West Virginia, from 1927 to 1930 he was at one of New York City's largest reform congregations, Temple Israel.

Memories of singing fame linger. His wife, the former Ruth Katch of New York, calls him, "Tony." Their son, now married and a doctor in San Mateo, Calif., is named Jonathan Frome Feinberg. The Feinbergs also have a daughter, Mrs. Gershon Growe of New York City.

From his book-lined study in Toronto's fashionable Forest Hill village, Rabbi Feinberg has somehow found time to write an autobiography, "Storm The Gates of Jericho," published in 1964.

A review of the book in 1964 was generally sympathetic, but said there was frequent evidence of "the flamboyance that for years has delighted his friends and annoyed his foes."

Novel Needs Theme, Says Author Malamud

NEW YORK—Theme is necessary to novels, Bernard Malamud said recently at the National Book Award program, and added that he cannot welcome "a theory of the novel that will ultimately diminish the value of a writer's experience, historical and personal, by limiting its use in fiction."

Mr. Malamud's winning novel, "The Fixer," published last year by Farrar, Straus & Giroux, has as its theme the story of a handyman in Czarist Russia who, as a Jew, is accused of the ritual murder of a boy and who develops into a man of great stature by refusing to admit the "crime."

Mr. Malamud quoted Herman Melville: "To produce a mighty book you must produce a mighty theme." But theme, Mr. Malamud observed, is meaning, according to the latest in criticism, and that interferes with the ascendancy of form.

He added that a new novel would not come into existence as the result of a theory but "will, in all probability, appear when a single master of fiction sits down and writes it."

A subscription to the Herald makes a good gift.

U.S. High Schoolers
May Study In Israel

NEW YORK—Registration for a program of a year's study in Israel for second year American high school students, beginning with the 1967-68 academic year, is now under way, according to Rabbi Mordecai Chertoff, director of the America-Israel Secondary School Program. The program has been endorsed by Dr. Bernard E. Donovan, New York City Superintendent of Schools.

Two leading Israeli secondary schools, Alonit Yitzhak in the Shomron Valley about five miles from Caesarea, and Shafrir's Yeshivat Or-Etzion, in the Lachish area near Ashkelon, are participating in the program. Both will offer full American programs augmented by special courses in the Hebrew language and Israeli studies.

Mrs. Philip H. Tenenbaum

Miss Susan Joyce Gelfand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman P. Ferdman of 1440 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago, Ill., became the bride of Philip Henry Tenenbaum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Tenenbaum of 15 Vassar Avenue, on Saturday, March 25, at the Drake Hotel. Cantor Moses J. Silverman officiated at the 6:30 p.m. ceremony, which was followed by a reception in the grand ballroom of the hotel.

The bride wore a long gown of ivory silk-faced peau de sole, English net and pearl-beaded Alencon lace, with a sleeveless Empire bodice of lace and lace motifs extending to the A-line skirt. A chapel-length train fell from her shoulders. A double tiara of matching Alencon lace held her elbow-length pouf veil of ivory silk illusion, and she carried a cascade bouquet of grace palm orchids, stephanotis and variegated ivy.

Miss Diane Gelfand was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Sherwin Kite, Miss Elaine Stone, Mrs. Jack Ferguson and Mrs. Craig Wiess. They wore floor-length gowns of lime silk crepe with short sleeves, cowl-neckline and draped back.

Robert Tenenbaum was best man for his brother. Ushers were Mark Ferdman, the bride's brother, Mark Durchslag, Stuart Berman and Kent Colberg.

After a wedding trip to Jamaica and Nassau, they will live at 3550 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

Have you ever bought a lemon in a tray of tomatoes?

That over-ripe tomato that squished when you took it out of the tray. Made you mad didn't it? Let's face it, that was a "lemon". And you get one of these only too often when you think the price is right — but the produce isn't!

At First National we get rid of the "lemons" so you don't have to. We try to handle our fruits and vegetables so carefully that we seldom have to discard any. This is important to you because it means we can always offer you quality with realistic value. Mind you, we aren't perfect. So, if you should ever get a "lemon" in your First National fruits or vegetables, just tell our produce manager. He'll make it right in any way you please.

In Hollywood . . .

By Barney Glazer

By this time, it's no secret that Steven Hill, star of "Mission Impossible," will be conspicuous by his absence when the tv series returns next season. Guest star Martin Landau will probably replace Hill.

Numerous stories have covered the facts well, revealing that Hill's real name is Solomon Krakowsky, he is a deeply committed orthodox Jew, and he stipulated in his contract that he must leave the studio set each Friday night early enough to reach home before sundown.

The 45-year-old, Seattle-born actor also put it in writing that he would not work on Jewish holi-

Meanwhile, Martin Landau received more and more exposure while Steven Hill was seen less and less. It now appears that Landau, also Jewish but not orthodox, soon becomes the series' top star.

TV Guide and a magazine known as Los Angeles published stories about Hill. Los Angeles went into full depth about the actor's religious life on and off the set, including the fact that he brought his own kosher lunch to the set daily.

TV Guide's story by Les Raddatz chiefly played up Hill's talents and career biography, playing down the religious angle and tangle until the last few paragraphs. Raddatz then indicated that Hill's strict adherence to the tenets of his ancient faith made it clear that he could not do justice to his series role. Therefore, creator and executive producer Bruce Geller could not maintain a proper working schedule.

Following the story's publication, Raddatz received considerable mail from two extremist factions. One, using the anti-Semitic approach, screamed, "Get rid of that — and let's get on with the show!" disregarding the fact that Landau, Hill's probable successor, is also Jewish.

The other group, representing the sympathetic Jewish reader, threatened, "If CBS drops Hill just because he's Jewish, we'll never again watch the show."

In between, thousands of TV Guide's cool-headed readers, with more settled opinions have remained silent. Apparently, they hold the neutral assessment that Hill has a right to practice orthodox Judaism and CBS has a right to pursue a workable schedule.

And if they can't exercise their rights together, they'll have to do it apart.

THE Golden Years

LET'S STOP THE FRETTING ABOUT 'FRIENDS' AFTER 65

Your retirement will be more satisfying to you, and your life will be richer, if you will stop fretting about having a lot of friends after age 65.

It is an old-fashioned idea anyway—few people nowadays have any blood-brothers or sisters, and few have any wide circle of people they even know well. But most people who retire seem not to realize this. So deeply imbedded in them is the belief they must have lots of good friends that they frequently are making themselves miserable trying to collect a bunch.

It has been difficult to find a retired couple who saw the "friendship" thing clearly, and who also would talk. In an unlikely place — an airliner flying from Madrid to New York—such a couple showed up. They were the Alfred P. Bonners. They had been retired for four years, and were now returning from a long-dreamed trip to Spain.

According to the Bonners, a retired couple can gather all sorts of so-called friends around them. But it takes great effort. And it's not worth it.

"A retired couple can use exactly the same techniques a 30-year-old social climber uses," Mr. Bonner said. "And they will bring results. The couple can join all the 'right' organizations, which they can identify by reading the newspaper. They then can jump in and work, work, work until glory begins to come, meanwhile cultivating carefully all the most popular people they run across joining a fashionable church, and contributing to the charity that is currently in vogue.

"It really is quite simple—just work, self-promotion, and some reasonable savvy. You can wind up with the wide circle of 'dear, dear friends' the social climber gets. And they're about as worthless. . ."

Mrs. Bonner thought her husband was stating the matter a bit brutally, but agreed he was right. "Since we married nearly 50 years ago," she said, "we have had probably 14 separate sets of friends. First the struggling young-marrieds, then the young mothers set, then the P.T.A. crowd, then the church set, then the business friends. They've all come and gone, and are generally forgotten. They were socialibility in their time. Nothing more."

The Bonners thought that radio and TV started undercutting the concept of "a lot of friends." Then, too, over the last 30 years people have developed more inner resources, more sophistication.

"Most affairs you engage in with your so-called friends are boring," Mr. Bonner said. "Maybe not golf or fishing, but all the social affairs. On any given evening we would prefer reading, working or television to the gaff we get when we go out."

The Bonners conceded retired people need outside human contacts. At least somebody to talk to now and then. They said that with modest initiative this could be taken care of at the market, at the church, with the neighbors, and in a couple of mild civic organizations.

ROBERT MORSE, Michele Lee, Rudy Vallee and Maureen Arthur star in the Mirisch Corp. movie "How to Succeed in Business without Really Trying." Morse and Miss Lee, both Jewish, starred in the original Broadway production.

Michele Lee Dusick is the daughter of Sylvia and Jack Dusick. He has been a popular makeup man in Hollywood for 20 years.

Michele has a brother, Kenneth, majoring in economics at the U. of California at Berkeley. She hastens to assure, "He doesn't wear a beard or long hair and is not involved in campus politics, although he does plan to enter law."

Married for one year to actor James Farentino, Michele continues to cling closely to her warm and deep feelings for her Jewish heritage.

BLUE CROSS HOLDS RATES

Blue Cross and Physicians Service will improve subscriber benefits without raising most subscriber rates, according to Arthur F. Hanley, executive director of the local health plans. The only rates subject to change will be those in large groups, where rates are determined by the use of benefits in each individual group. These rates could go up or down, depending on use of benefits last year.

As today's hand occurred at one of my playing clinics, we were able to replay it two more times to show the defenders how they could have set the hand as it was played and then to explain to the declarer how she could make the hand with any defense if she goes about it correctly.

No one was vulnerable. South was Dealer. The bidding:
 3C P 4S End

South decided to open with a Weak Two Bid even though she had but five Spades. She felt her suit was strong enough with the one hundred honors. North saw a very possible game provided her partner had a reasonably good two bid. Her Two No Trump response was the artificial bid designed to find out. When South rebid three Clubs, showing the maximum, game was reached.

The first time the hand was played, a small Club was led and the finesse taken and lost to the King. A Trump return allowed Declarer to draw Trumps and set up the Hearts for the necessary discards to make the hand. In fact, if West does not cash her Heart Ace, five will be made. We then played the hand exactly the same as far as the first trick was concerned but instead of returning the Trump, I told the defender now on lead to think for a moment, to look at that Heart suit which she knows will split evenly as she has only three herself. Also, that the Diamond King is sitting in the right position no matter who has the Ace but that if the Heart suit is established before the Diamond King is dislodged, not enough tricks are going to be taken to set the hand and yet, with a Weak Two Bid opening, she should know that her partner has to have some high cards. Any Trump tricks have to be lost if there are any. At trick two, if a Diamond is returned, Declarer will now have to lose two Diamonds, the Heart Ace and the Club already taken, down one.

The third time the hand was played, I said to declarer, after the Club lead, "Think, now, what is your problem? You can afford to lose a Club, Diamond and Heart but not more than one Diamond. If West can get in again and the Diamond Ace be off side you must lose the hand anyhow but at least give yourself the best chance for the hand." "Go up with the Club Ace, come to your hand with a Trump and lead a Heart. Continue this until the Ace is played, meanwhile drawing the remaining Trumps. If West cashes out she can take but the Two red Aces and the Club King. All the other losers go on the good Hearts.

Even a Diamond lead will not set the hand for now although two Diamonds will have to be lost, the Heart suit will provide discards for the Club losers. Before playing to the first trick, an extra ten to fifteen seconds to plan exactly the best chance for a hand to make will always be a worthwhile investment in time.

Jewish Creativity Can Flourish Here, I. B. Singer Tells Young Judeans

NEW YORK—A leading American Jewish author, Isaac Bashevis Singer, recently told the National Young Judea convention that "although it is easier for Jewish creativity to flourish in a Jewish culture, there nevertheless will be a great renaissance of creativity for Jews in America."

Speaking at the conclave held at Young Judea Camp Tel Yehudah, Barryville, N.Y., Mr. Singer added, "I do not feel that American Jews are doomed to assimilation. The desire for Jewish learning is not dying out; indeed, it is growing."

HUG IVRI SPEAKER—The Hon. Chaim Hadomi, Consul for cultural affairs at the Israeli Consulate in Boston, will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Hug Ivri on Sunday, April 2, at 8 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth K. Resnick, 535 Wayland Avenue. He will use color transparencies and tape recordings in his presentation of the many cultures of Israel. Educated in Tel Aviv and at the University of Tel Aviv and Hebrew University, Jerusalem, Mr. Hadomi is a member of Kibbutz Ramat Yochanan, where he has taught and been principal of the regional high school for the past 16 years. The Israel Ministry of Education sent him here in 1964 to study new methods of teaching high school science, and for the next two years he lectured on this at teachers' colleges and at Hebrew University. Anyone who speaks Hebrew is invited to attend the meeting.

CAMP NAOMI DIRECTOR BOSTON, Mass.—Alvin E. Caplan of Newton, Mass., has been reappointed director of Camp Naomi, Raymond, Maine, which is operated by the New England Region-Jewish Welfare Board. The camp is for girls 11 through 15 years of age.

Israel's Economic Ills

There has been speculation as to what course the State of Israel might have taken had it been set up on a different economic basis 19 years ago. Had its financial base not been the gifts of Jews the world over who rejoiced that their homeland was once again theirs—and this has continued to bulk large in the monetary arrangements of the country—then Israel would have been forced long ago to balance her budget, some say. Imbued with notions of thrift and careful husbandry, they point out that no country can go on indefinitely looking for a substantial part of its income in the form of donations. Sooner or later the economy must be got on an even keel and the country become completely self-sufficient.

They have been saying this, of course, ever since the early 1950s. A few grumblers were talking about balancing the budget back in the days when the disabled armored trucks, lying beside the road into Jerusalem, had not yet begun to rust. They spoke of the end of gifts and reparations, which they predicted would throw the little nation into a depression which would be more disabling than war.

But all the arguments for balancing the budget and stabilizing the economy foundered on two mighty points. The first, the primary, was and is the concept of Israel as the nation in which every Jew who seeks it may find a home. The flow of immigration is no longer what it was at first, but neither has it ever dried to a trickle. There are all too many nations from which emigration was and is still desirable; should Russia really lift the barriers, millions more might be expected to take advantage of the Law of Return. The second point on which the economy stumbles is the constant threat of war from the Arabs.

An artificial prosperity was induced by the reparations payments, and the loans and contributions from Israel's friends abroad. About a year ago the brakes began to be applied. Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir then gave a blunt diagnosis of the situation: "We have eaten and consumed more than we have produced, as if somebody else would foot the bill," he said. "Unfortunately there is nobody else to pay for us." The Government acted then to cut consumption and imports, and to make Israel more competitive on world markets. These pressures produced hardships, notably unemployment. The rioters who recently protested this by stoning the Tel Aviv city hall were reflecting the political tensions generated by the new deflationary policies.

Positive results are now apparent, though, despite the rioters. Israel's balance-of-payments deficit has been reduced; exports last year paid for 65 per cent of imports, compared to 53 per cent in 1964. The recession in the domestic market put pressure on producers to increase efficiency, and to concentrate on export sales. This process entails sacrifice and pain, but is necessary to Israel's economic health. Without closing her borders to immigration, or relinquishing her preparations for defense, Israel in its 19th year is moving toward economic balance and financial sanity.

FROM FRIDAY TO FRIDAY

Your Old Man Shall Dream Dreams

By Beryl Segal

And it shall come to pass afterward,
That I will pour My spirit
Upon all flesh . . .
Your old men shall dream
dreams,
And your young men shall see visions.
So spoke the prophet Joel of the days when the Lord will bring back the captivity of Judah and Jerusalem.

There is an old-young man in Sde Boker, in the Negev, who dreams and sees visions.

That man is David Ben Gurion, who is eighty years old this year.
He sits in his Negev Kibbutz and dreams dreams.

His latest dream and ambition, his life ambition, is to establish a College in the Negev. But that college is not to be just another college. It is to be a center of research into the climate, the geology, and the agronomy of the arid South and to accumulate knowledge of how to tame it, conquer it and to make the prophecy of Isaiah come true:

"And the desert shall rejoice
And blossom like a rose."

Two new Hebrew words will become familiar to us in the coming years, just as Shalom and Todah have become household words in the past.

These two new words are Midrasha and Negevology.

Midrasha is the college which Ben Gurion is now building in the Sde Boker, and Negevology is the Science of the Negev, the Israeli Southland which will be explored and pursued in that college.

According to Ben Gurion,
only a union of work and science, industry and agriculture, will bring the Negev back to life. And that can be done only in the Negev.
Industry and research will bring to the Negev men of vision and men who are imbued with idealism.

Both are needed.

At the present Israeli scientists have discovered in that wasteland a wealth of natural resources. They have discovered, and are discovering every day, new fields of oil and natural gas. There is in the Negev inexhaustible sources of Potash, Phosphates, glass sand, copper and salt. These can be shipped to markets in Africa and Europe by the seaports of Ashdod and Eilat.

But science alone is not enough for Ben Gurion. Says he:

"What Israel needs is not only science and technology, but the spirit of pioneering . . .

"The spirit of pioneering is the moral power which springs from vision, and the belief in vision, and which arms the men imbued with it to overcome all obstacles.

"Without it, it is not easy to live in the Negev . . .

"The Negev can turn an ordinary person into a creative being . . .

"And this is the purpose of the Midrasha in Sde Boker, the College of the Negev.

"We seek to build a scientific research and teaching Center which will be a source of moral inspiration and courage, rousing people to a sense of mission, noble, creative, fruitful . . ."

And to make this dream of his a reality Ben Gurion came to the United States and Canada at the advanced age of eighty.

The Midrasha of Sde Boker will be the Oxford of the Negev, Ben Gurion said in his speech in Miami where he addressed a gathering of 3,000 delegates from the United States and Canada. It was the launching of the 1967 Israel Bond Drive and the marking of Ben Gurion's 80th birthday.

Nineteen days Ben Gurion and his wife Paula spent here as guests of the United Jewish Appeal.

During that time the octogenarian displayed such a wealth of energy and enthusiasm as befits a younger man.

He visited five cities in the United States and two cities in Canada.

He met with the Bible study
Society in America. Ben Gurion is among other things the chairman of the Bible Clubs of the World.

And he paid his respect to President Truman. Ben Gurion tells this story of his meeting with Truman in the days when he was President of the United States:

"Truman was President of the United States then, and I told him that I do not know what his place will be in the history of America, but I assured him that he will be immortal in the History of Israel."

And Ben-Gurion added:
"At these words President Truman cried for joy."

And so this man is a throw back to the days when Prophets were walking the streets of Israel:

He masterminded the State of Israel.

He was the Prime Minister of Israel since its inception until he resigned a few years ago.

He is the voice of Israel the world over.

He is the scholar and the Tal-mid Hacham, the man who always quotes the Bible, and finds in it sustenance for his visions of today.

And above all, he is as vigorous at eighty as he was at eighteen when he first stepped out of the boat that brought him to America.

(Mr. Segal's opinions are his own and not necessarily those of this newspaper.)

Backs House Bill Barring Arab Boycott Cooperation

NEW YORK—A bill now before the House of Representatives would make it illegal for American companies to cooperate with the Arab boycott of Israel. The American Jewish Congress last week urged passage of the proposal, which would make it mandatory under the Export Control Act of 1949 for American companies to refuse to supply information demanded by Arab boycott questionnaires circulated in the United States.

Stanley H. Lowell, co-chairman of the Congress' Commission on International Affairs, told the group's Governing Council that passage of the Bingham Bill would help give the 1949 law "the enforcement powers it has needed from the beginning."

The Export Control Act specifies that American policy is opposed to the Arab boycott of Israel because it is a restrictive trade practice imposed against a country friendly to the United States. The law asks, but does not require, that businessmen refrain from furnishing information that would assist the boycott.

An amendment to the law in 1965 provided that American businessmen report to the Federal Government any inquiries they received concerning a boycott of Israel. Mr. Lowell said that though the amendment had strengthened the law, "American businessmen to this day remain at the mercy of the anti-Israel boycotters."

He continued: "The proposed ban against furnishing information to the Arab Boycott Office would serve to protect American business firms from demands for confidential data and threats of economic reprisals for refusal to comply."

"As such, it would put all American companies engaged in foreign trade on an equal basis, rendering them invulnerable to Arab pressures and helping to maintain the freedom of world trade."

Under the law, Mr. Lowell said an American company called in by the Arab League Boycott Committee to divulge information about its investments or commercial dealings with Israel could dutifully report the receipt of such an inquiry to the Federal Government while supplying the requested information to the boycott authorities.

"The law as it now stands," he said, "thus enunciates the principle of noncooperation with the boycott but leaves the door open to compliance. Enactment of the Bingham bill or any one of 10 similar bills introduced in the House would end this practice and finally fulfill the purposes of the 1949 law."

Mr. Lowell observed that no companion bill had yet been introduced in the Senate, but a bill calling for a legislative inquiry into the impact of the Arab boycott on United States business has been introduced by Senators Jacob K. Javits of New York, and Harrison A. Williams of New Jersey.

Says Lay Involvement Might Unpetrify Prayer

MONSEY, N.Y.—A Conservative rabbi urged his rabbinical colleagues to relinquish their roles as "high priests" and perhaps also their long black robes, and act to involve laymen in leading Sabbath services.

The proposal was made by Rabbi Jules Harlow, director of publications of the Rabbinical Assembly of America, at a mid-winter Kallah (convention) of the rabbinical group's Metropolitan Council.

He asserted that "the problem of petrified prayer plagues many Sabbath services." He suggested that the most important step to correct this would be to "destroy the exclusive franchise on prayer which is held by the rabbi too often in the minds of laymen."

He asserted also that most of the English in prayerbooks could be described as "a hypnotic 'prayerese' which removes the entire enterprise of prayer from the lives of our congregants."

He also argued that services "should reflect what we feel passionately in unmistakable fashion." He pointed out that the Sabbath service contains a prayer on behalf of the leaders of the ancient Babylonian Jewish community and asked: "Why not for Soviet Jews?"

Quota System Reported At Clubs In California

LOS ANGELES—A charge that "virtually every private country and city club" in Southern California bars membership to persons on religious or racial grounds was made here by Bruce I. Nochman, regional executive committee chairman of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

Nochman made that charge after reporting that a survey has shown that 26 country and city clubs has a quota system for the admission of Jews to membership. Of the total of 59 clubs examined in the survey, he said, 27 reported that they have no religious bars regarding membership.

scaled down from exact Biblical specifications, of portions of the long-destroyed Temple. "Each time I taught the Book of Exodus," he said, "I realized the students had a great deal of difficulty visualizing exactly what the Temple would look like because of the complicated written descriptions and specifications."

Traveling Exhibit Displays Jewish Identity Badges

NEW YORK — A 4,000-year-old love letter written on a clay tablet, jewelry more than 2,000 years old, and forgeries of British stamps smuggled into Britain in World War II for use as anti-Jewish propaganda were seen here in an exhibition called, "Four Thousand Years of Jewish History."

The exhibition is owned by Emil Weitz, a collector of Jewish memorabilia for more than 30 years.

Mr. Weitz's hobby is collecting stamps, which he has mounted on panels with pictures illustrating aspects of Jewish history. The panels are the central part of the exhibition here.

On display are stamps, envelopes and seals depicting the persecution of the Jews by the Nazis. The Germans copied British stamps, replacing the crown with a six-pointed star. The inscription "This is a Jewish War" was printed on the stamps which were smuggled into Britain where they were used by members of the German underground.

Envelopes sent by Jews who escaped from Germany and set up committees to aid Jews still in German concentration camps are also being shown. The display includes German propaganda seals reading "When we suffer, blame the Jews," and "Fatherland, Protect us from the Jews."

Mr. Weitz has one panel showing that the six-pointed star has not always been simply a symbol of the Jews. Stamps from Morocco, Trinidad, Holland and a postal cancellation mark on a Russian stamp illustrate the point.

Mr. Weitz has set up panels showing Jewish identification badges through the years. In the 13th century, he said in an interview, the Vatican passed a decree that Jews must wear badges. His exhibition shows a striped badge worn in Britain and a horned hat worn in Germany in the 13th century for such identification.

The exhibition will be shown to various groups around the country.

"It was our idea to preview the exhibit to the community here and then to bring it outside New York to the community at large," said William Levine, director of the Information Department of the Jewish Agency.

CONSUL TO SPEAK—Yohanan Cohen, Israeli consul in Boston, will be one of the principal speakers at the conference on the Middle East sponsored by the R. I. Zionist District, to be held on Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. in the Temple Emanu-El social hall. Such public-affairs conferences are part of a national program of the ZOA as a public service to communities. Other speakers will be Alfred L. Atherton Jr., Prof. James H. Sheldon and Harry Torczyner.

Theatre Communications Picks Trinity Square

Trinity Square Repertory Company will be one of 13 regional theatres to receive the full service program of Theatre Communications Group, a Ford Foundation agency. Services include casting information, auditions, subscription campaign assistance, personnel research, visitations among theatre representatives, a program for printing and distributing new plays and travel provisions for theatre staff members to observe other theatres. For three years, until January, about 35 regional theatres had received these services, half of which are now limited to theatres chosen as "demonstration unit."

Roger Stevens, chairman of the Endowment for the Arts; Junius Eddy of the Office of Education, and visitors from New Haven, Seattle, Chicago and Minneapolis have visited the local theatre.

The demonstration unit includes also Alley Theatre, Houston; Arena Stage, Washington; APA Phoenix, New York; Milwaukee Repertory Theatre; Minnesota Theatre Company; Mummies Theatre, Oklahoma City; Playhouse in the Park, Cincinnati; Repertory Theater of Lincoln Center, New York, and The Seattle Repertory Theatre.

BAR MITZVAH—Robert Samuel Kerzner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Kerzner of 65 Taft Avenue, became Bar Mitzvah on Oct. 31, 1966, at Temple Beth Shalom. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Kerzner of 131 Lyndon Road, Cranston. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Abe Shatkin of Fifth Street. Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Isador Broomfield of Providence. Fred Kelman Photo

Knesset To Ask International Ban On Swastika Use

JERUSALEM — Israel's Parliament approved a motion appealing to all nations to adopt laws banning public use of the swastika in any form. The proposal will now be sent to all nations with which Israel has relations.

The motion, made by Herut leader Menachem Beigin, was adopted after the Knesset Foreign Affairs and Security Committee submitted a report urging all peoples who had suffered from Nazism to maintain a constant alertness against any recurrence of neo-Nazism so that the holocaust "which swept over our generation should never recur."

In calling on Parliaments throughout the world to bar the swastika, the committee said that the emblem, the symbol of Nazi Germany "which committed the most terrible of crimes—genocide—is identified by peoples with abominable crimes against humanity and its holding is therefore tantamount to public incitement to commit such crimes."

Jack Benny To Play In Benefit Concert

Jack Benny will appear in person with the R. I. Philharmonic Orchestra in a special benefit concert on Friday, April 7, at 8:30 p.m. Francis Madeira will conduct the program, in which the entire orchestra will participate.

Mr. Benny will play Zigeunerweisen by Sarasate, and Mendelssohn's Concerto in E Minor, Opus 64, Allegro. Other music played will be Offenbach's Overture to "Orpheus in the Underworld," Bizet's Suite from Carmen No. 1, Alford's Colonel Bogey March from Bridge on the River Kwai, Copeland's Hoedown from Rodeo, Rimsky-Korsakof's Capriccio Espagnole and Rodgers-Bennett's Selection from The Sound of Music. Ticket reservations may be made by telephoning 831-3123.

Latvian Court Sentences 3 Nazis In Absentia

MONTREAL — A Soviet court in Latvia has sentenced three former Nazis to death in absentia for murdering Jews during World War II. Michael Garber, president of the Canadian Jewish Congress, was informed by the Latvian Soviet Socialist Republic, part of the USSR.

Latvia sent him the full transcript of the trial, showing that one of the men found guilty now lives in Toronto, a second in Brooklyn, N.Y., and the third at Karlsruhe, Germany. The material, Garber said, will be translated from the original Russian into English and will be made available to Government authorities in Canada, the United States and West Germany.

Jewish Education Urged For Mandell's Daughter

NEW YORK—Jack Mandell, a member of the Wayne Township (New Jersey) School Board, who was badly defeated in a recent school board election with marked anti-Semitic overtones, has been urged by a Day School principal in nearby Passaic, N.J., to re-enroll his daughter in the Hebrew Day School which she formerly attended. The Mandell family lived in Passaic before moving to Wayne, according to Torah Umesorah, the national society for Hebrew Day Schools, which also released details of the correspondence.

"It is a pity," wrote Rabbi Lewis Brenner, principal of the Passaic Hillel Academy, "that you didn't keep your daughter in Hillel after you moved from Passaic. She could have been transported to Hillel, where she would have received the best in secular and Hebrew education."

Mr. Mandell, a central figure in a heated suburban school board election, was defeated in the prosperous township election after the school-board's vice-president, Newton Miller, warned the township's voters that Jews tended to be liberals, particularly in spending for education.

Rabbi Brenner wrote, "We were horrified to hear of your defeat at the polls, and we were shocked at the overwhelming majority of voters who voted against you. Now, my dear Jack, I can place before you a program for the protection and immunization of our children. I say that if my child or yours is going to be singled out and pointed out as a Jew, he or she should know what it is to be a Jew. It will not suffice to give our children a fast exposure to Jewish values and ideals. He and she need an intensive Jewish education. They must be exposed to total Judaism, and acquainted with all phases of Jewish life."

Braille Institute To Honor Hebrew-English Anthology Editor

NEW YORK CITY—Rabbi Harry J. Brevis of Los Angeles, originator of the International Hebrew Braille Code, will be guest of honor at a reception by the Jewish Braille Institute of America at its headquarters at 48 East 74th Street at 2:30 p.m. on Monday, April 3.

The reception will celebrate the Institute's publication of a second and expanded edition of the "Anthology of Hebrew Literature" in Hebrew and English braille, edited by Rabbi Brevis, which was first issued in 1935 by the Library of Congress. The new edition includes stories and poems by more than a dozen of the foremost contemporary Hebrew writers living in Israel, in addition to passages from the Bible and excerpts from medieval and modern Hebrew literature. Among the Israeli writers included is S. Y. Agnon, recent winner of the Nobel Prize for literature.

Rabbi Brevis will leave for Israel on April 5 to test revisions of the International Hebrew Braille Code, with pupils in the Jerusalem Institute for the Blind.

Educated at the University of Michigan and the Detroit College of Law, Rabbi Brevis was a practicing attorney when he lost his sight in 1925 at the age of 27. He decided to become a rabbi, entered the Jewish Institute of Religion, and was ordained in 1929.

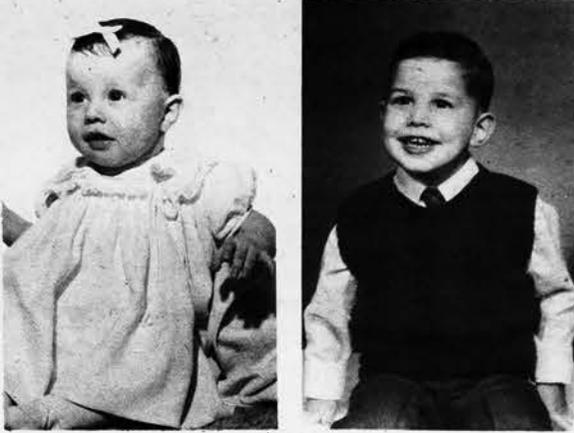

After serving as chaplain with the New York Board of Rabbis for six years, he became the spiritual leader of Temple Beth El in Batavia, N. Y., for 18 years, during which time he also served as chaplain at Attica Prison and at veterans hospitals in Batavia and Buffalo. His work in counseling prison inmates established important patterns for modern penology.

In the Introduction to his "Anthology," Rabbi Brevis pays tribute to the Jewish Braille Institute for its "monumental work during the past 20 years in bringing out, in Hebrew braille, the Bible and the traditional prayer books with their Conservative and Reform counterparts, as well as a number of other volumes."

The Jewish Braille Institute, which provides for the cultural and religious needs of the Jewish blind and serves thousands of sightless persons throughout the world without charge, publishes the "Jewish Braille Review," a monthly magazine. It also maintains a free circulating library of more than 15,000 braille volumes and an extensive collection of full-length recorded talking books.

MORE ABOUT THE RACE—(Of course it involves the human race) And Allen Peterson is very much a member of it but, when he starts talking about roller skating, one might suspect that he's a member of a Race all of its own. Mr. Peterson is an enthusiastic fellow, especially where roller skating is concerned. And why not? He has a right to be excited about sport on the rollers because he's the Pro at Riverdale Roller Rink in Natck, Rhode Island.

TOMORROW NIGHT — This may amaze you but it's the truth when I tell you that a 26-mile marathon roller skating race will take place tomorrow night (Saturday) at Riverdale. It will be raced over a course that calls for twenty laps to a mile which means that the racers will be going around and around like the song about the music which says "and it comes out here." The skaters hope they'll come out all safe and sound at the finish line. Just imagine! Twenty-six miles and twenty laps to a mile. That means they'll go around and around (wait until I get my pencil) five-hundred and twenty times. It's a dizzy pace all right.

MORE TOO—The 26-mile marathon is only a start. On Sunday from eight in the morn until two in the aft, there'll be a variety of competition in a roller skating speed Meet. All classes are entered and that includes children under eight years of age right up through the adult group. Allen Peterson is expecting more than 100 entries from different sections of New England. The longest speed contest on Sunday will be over a five mile course and that means (ahem, beg pardon, my pencil again) one hundred times around the rink. And, I almost forgot. There will be 15 teams of 2-men racing in relay fashion in the Marathon on Saturday night. Sounds interesting, doesn't it? Something a little different for some of you sports fans, eh!

MUSING OR MAYBE THINKING—Charlie Reynolds, having a quiet lunch unmolested, and some observers maybe thinking of him as East Providence City Manager or as Mayor of Pawtucket while some might have recalled his never-to-be-forgotten pitching performance for Providence College when the Friars won from Brown, 1 to 0 in 20 innings . . . Pat Lombardi smoking a cigar and gazing into space while maybe thinking of his motor-bike, the one he used for pacing the bicycle riders at the old Cranston Cyclo-drome. It was located off Reservoir Avenue near Park Avenue and seven laps were a mile. A great sport and a great spectacle . . . Joe Celletti, watching Harold Gomes boxing and probably wondering if Harold is getting in shape for a comeback. Joe remembers that Gomes once filled Pierce Stadium in East Providence for an open air bout . . . Frank Fallon, alone in his publicity office at Raynham Park, patiently awaiting the April nights that will bring crowds and excitement to keep him company . . . And those are the musers and thinkers.

HOPPING ABOUT A BIT—The NCAAU Championship boxing competition is sked for Boston Arena on April 3rd, according to Joe Celletti who will enter four boys in it including his son Rocco "Mickey." . . . The Atlantic Seaboard Circuit of Harness Tracks involves Rockingham, Foxboro and Suffolk Downs in New England and Rosecroft and Laurel raceways in Maryland . . . The Pawtucket Indians will play Waterbury in single afternoon and night games on Saturday, April 22nd . . . ### JWV To Hold Student Breakfast

The Jewish War Veterans of the United States of America, Department of Rhode Island, and Ladies' Auxiliary, in cooperation with the National Conference of Christians and Jews, will sponsor the Thrid Annual Student State-Wide Human Relationship Program Breakfast. Entitled "Classmates Today - Neighbors Tomorrow," it will be held on Sunday, April 2, at 9 a.m. at the Colony Motor Hotel. To be honored are high school students who best exemplify "the true spirit of 'living' brotherhood in both the school and the community."

U. S. District Judge Raymond J. Pettine will be principal speaker. Irving H. Levin, chairman of the program, announced that 42 public and parochial senior high schools will participate this year.

Three State winners, to be chosen that morning, will receive scholarships, watches, and plaques. Malcolm A. Tarlov, National JWV Commander, will make one of the award presentations. He is guest of the Rhode Island JWV, headed by Commander Harvey Green and Harold Fink, National Executive Committeeman, during a March 31-April 2 visit to the state.

R. I. AJC To Hear

Miss Judith Herschopf

"New Dimenstons in Christian-Jewish Relations" will be discussed at the next Fireside Meeting of the Rhode Island Unit of the American Jewish Committee. Mrs. Joseph W. Pulver, chairman, announced that on Tuesday evening, April 11, the meeting will be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bo Bernstein of Providence.

Miss Judith Herschopf, assistant director of the AJC Interreligious Affairs Department, who was a pioneer in interreligious dialogue, will speak. She has worked closely with Christian clergy and lay groups to bring about a better understanding of Jews and Judaism, and acts as a consultant to Christian educators preparing teaching materials.

The Fireside meetings are presented throughout the year as part of a regular program of reviewing vital issues.

PLAQUE DEDICATION

Ira Stone, president of the South Providence Hebrew Free Loan Association, is a member of the committee for the April 2nd dedication of a plaque honoring deceased directors. Rabbi Jacob Handler will be among the rabbis speaking at the dedication.

TO SPEAK AT URI

Israel Katsar, chairman of the Youth and Sport Department of Histadrut, will speak on Monday, April 3, at 7 p.m. at the University of Rhode Island. He will speak at the Memorial Union under the auspices of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations and the United Jewish Appeal, which are sponsoring his tour of American and Canadian colleges. Mr. Katsar is chief vocational guidance officer in the Ministry of Labor, and a member of Histadrut's Central Committee.

TESTIMONIAL DINNER

The South Providence Hebrew Free Loan Association will honor Samuel Bazar and Louis Strauss with a Testimonial Dinner on April 9 at Temple Beth Torah-Cranston Jewish Center. A cocktail hour from 6 to 7 p.m. will precede the dinner, which is planned for 8 o'clock. Entertainment and dancing will follow.

Committee members are Samuel Jamnik, chairman; Nathan Rosenfeld, Louis Soren, Samuel Kaufman, Elisha Scollard, Abraham Charifson, Sidney Pepper, Irving Adler and Ira Stone, president, ex officio. Reservations may be made by calling Mr. Stone at HO 1-5604 or 791-1949.

BETH AM PLANS BAZAAR

Temple Beth Am will hold a merchandise bazaar, an art exhibition by the Warwick Arts Foundation and a carnival on Sunday, April 9, from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Emiel Freedman is chairman and Lucille Freedman, advisor, and co-chairmen are Bernard Bleder and Daniel Cerel.

Departmental chairmen are Alice Goldstein, Art Foundation; Marilyn Belinsky and Lucille Freedman, snack bar; Judy Bander and Harold Bander, children's games; Bernard Feld and Milton Filler, other games; Bea Friedman, secretary; Emiel Freedman, garden center, and Charlotte Salk, Evelyn Goldstein and Edith Klemmer, publicity.

MISHKON TFILOH BRIDGE

The Sisterhood of Congregation Mishkon Tfiloh will hold its annual bridge on Wednesday, April 5, at 8 p.m. in the social hall of the congregation. Mrs. Samuel Rotkopf is chairman and Mrs. Morris Goldstein, co-chairman. They will be assisted by Mesdames Joseph Bernstein, Morris Fishbein, Nathan Goren, Morris Kagan, Jack Melamut, John Newman, Murray Perlman, Samuel Schaffer, Archie Smith, Morris Tippe, Annie Weber, Seymore Winograd and Miss Dorothy Berry, ex officio.

REGIONAL WELCOME

BROOKLINE, Mass.—The New England Region of the United Synagogue of America will welcome 10 new Conservative rabbis of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, among them Rabbi Noach Valley of Temple Beth Am, Warwick, on Thursday evening, April 6, at Temple Emeth, Chestnut Hill. Archie Chaset, chairman of the New England Region Youth Commission, will be one of the special guests at the dinner, at which Dr. Saul I. Teplitz of Woodmere, Long Island, will speak.

'JWV WEEK'

Gov. John H. Chafee has signed a proclamation that the week of April 2 through April 9 is Jewish War Veterans Week. A JWV display is in the window of a downtown department store.

LOW-COST COLLEGE LOANS

These are the weeks when teenagers and their parents the nation over are grabbing for the mail, eagerly searching for the special letter which will begin: "The Committee on Admissions is pleased to inform you that you have been accepted for admission to..."

We've just gone through it. Cris, 17 going on to college this fall, has received her special letter, we have appropriately congratulated her and now Sumner and I are studying other pieces of mail which outline "minimum" costs per college term and suggest what the "extras" can amount up to.

So now I know in terms of our own bank accounts what I've been writing about when I've been reporting the soaring costs of college education in our era. Now I'm beginning to appreciate how these costs can crush the middle-income family with youngsters who are just average students. This family isn't poor enough to qualify for assistance on the basis of financial need. These youngsters haven't good enough grades to qualify for merit scholarships. And the interest rate—repayment terms on the typical education loans they could obtain aren't easy enough to soften the month-to-month pinch.

What then is the best answer for this middle-income family and this average student—numbering in the millions on this March 27, 1967?

Their best answer today is a low-cost loan under the 1967 Higher Education Act's new program of Federally-guaranteed loans.

The 1966-67 academic year marks the first full year this program has been in operation. Although 480,000 loans totaling $400 million have been made to date, this is only a starter and the program is yet to be fully implemented. Millions of families who could and should take advantage of the program still have only a vague idea of what it is and you may not even know the program exists. Thus, this two-column series of Q. & A. to give you vital information.

Q. What are the key provisions of the program?

A. Under this program, long-term low-interest loans are available to students attending or accepted for admission to an accredited institution of higher learning.

Regardless of your family's financial status, you, the student in good academic standing of an approved institution, are eligible for these loans, and the loans are made directly to you, not your parents. The objective is to encourage you to take over from your parents at least part of the financial burden of your education.

Q. How much can the student borrow?

A. As an undergraduate student, you can borrow up to $1,000 for each academic year of full-time study to a total of $5,000. As a full-time student in graduate or a professional school, you can borrow as much as $1,500 a year. The combined maximum for both undergraduate and post-graduate study is $7,500. The loans, in short, can cover a significant percentage of today's average higher education costs.

Q. What about interest charges on the loans?

A. The rate charged cannot be more than 6 per cent simple interest, meaning it's really 6 per cent a year and not double or more than double the stated rate as it may be on other popular forms of loans.

If the family's adjusted gross income is under $15,000 a year, the Federal Government pays the entire 6 per cent interest cost while the student is in school, and pays half of this interest or 3 per cent during the period of loan repayment.

If the family's adjusted gross income is more than $15,000, the student must pay the 6 per cent interest while he is in school and while he is repaying the loan. (adjusted family income is total income minus $600 for each exemption claimed.)

Q. What are the repayment terms?

A. They are designed to make repayment comparatively easy. Monthly repayments do not start until nine months after you, the student, leave school. You may repay as little as $360 a year. If you borrow more than $2,000, you may have from five to 10 years after your graduation to repay in full. If you join the Peace Corps after college or you enter military service, there is a special moratorium on payments. If you wish to speed up your payments, you can do so without penalty.

Q. Are there any other costs besides interest?

NEW TOASTMASTER—David P. Sugarman of Providence was installed as new president of the Providence Chapter, Toastmasters International, at a meeting on March 21 at the Rhode Island Yacht Club. Also installed were William Brady of Warwick, vice-president; Charles Russell of Chepachet, secretary; Arthur Gladney of Barrington, treasurer, and Alfred Silverstein of Providence, sergeant at arms.

TECHNION ELECTION
TEL AVIV—Dr. Sidney Goldstein, British-born Professor of Applied Mathematics at Harvard University, was elected chairman of the board of directors of Technion Institute, Israel's technological research and training center at Haifa. The 64-year-old scientist came to Israel in 1950, where he served under Technion's then-president, Gen. Yaacob Dori.

He is credited with a large role in shaping Technion's programs, and in drawing up its operating procedures.

The United Kingdom And The Ten Lost Tribes

Isalah, the prophet, wrote that the remnant of Yawheh's people would be found in the "isles of the sea." Isn't it reasonable this remnant may be the people of the British Isles?

Grant me the possibility and I shall proceed to unravel the great archaeological riddle of the ages: What happened to the ten lost tribes?

The men of Dan escaped slaughter when Shalmanaser subjugated the ten tribes. As they made their way across Europe, they left indelible evidence of their journey. They called the places they stopped after the name of their tribe: thus Danube, Dnieper, Denmark, etc., all of which lay along their route of march. The men of Dan eventually settled in Ireland and were known as Tuatha de Danaana.

None of this is imaginary research. One has only to dip into the work of the eminent Rabbi S. Raisin to see how well documented and probable this hypothesis is.

Along with the Danites, the other coastal tribes, the Asher, Manasseh, Ephraim, and Simeon, escaped Shalmanaser's fury. Obviously, the Simeonites became the Simoni (or Cimerti) of Wales.

The Danites called their new home arzalet, which means "another Land of Israel" and gradually they also came to call themselves Gauls which is a metamorphosis of the word "Golim" meaning exiles. Some of them called themselves Saccae which derives from Succoties and means "dwellers in booths." These were the fellows who emigrated to the next island and came to call themselves Scotsmen for all "Scotch" means, as any student of Anglo-Saxon know is "Irisher."

Others from Ireland emigrated to Wales and the folk ethos remained strongest here. David remained their favorite name and became their patron saint, although they forgot their Hebrew for as Isalah said, "For with stammering lips and with a strange tongue shall it be spoken to the people."

Returning once again to the Old Testament for more verification, we see that when Zedekiah, the last ruler of Judea, was carried off into captivity by Nebuchadnezzar, his daughter, Tea Tophi, found refuge under the guardianship of Jeremiah. Jeremiah also saved her royal escutcheon, the harp, and the Wonderful Stone, the foundation stone of the temple of Mount Zion. When Tea Tophi married Heremon, the ruler of the Danites, the Lion of Judah was united with the Unicorn of Joseph, a characteristic of all English heraldry.

Last but not least, consider that the word "Britain" may well be a corruption of the Hebrew "Britham" meaning the "people of the Covenant."

What do I mean by all this? Simple. The Presbyterians, Baptists, Methodists, Episcopalians, and the Irish Catholics are really my cousins—all right, so it's a few times removed. All of us knew it all along.

Moshe Stekelis, Prehistory Professor, Dies On Eve Of Jordan Expedition

TEL AVIV—Prof. Moshe Stekelis, credited with the retrieval of 40,000 archeological items, including four stone-age skeletons, died in Jerusalem recently at the age of 69.

He was professor of prehistory at the Hebrew University. Announcing his death, the university said that in 40 years he had made "numerous discoveries which shed light on early man and which are invaluable in reconstructing the process of his development."

Prof. Stekelis collapsed in his home during a meeting about arrangements for a trip to the Jordan Valley, where in 1959, he and two scientists of the Hebrew University found traces of a civilization 250,000 to 500,000 years old.

Prof. Stekelis, who was born in Russia, earned a degree in archeology at the University of Odessa. Shortly after getting his degree in 1924, he was exiled to Siberia for his Zionist activities, which were illegal in the Soviet Union. He continued research in prehistory and anthropology during his three years of exile.

After his release, he continued his research in the Crimea but in 1928 he moved to Palestine.

In 1960, an expedition led by Professor Stekelis discovered the remains of one of the earliest human creatures on the west bank of the Jordan River at Afqim, two miles south of the Sea of Galilee.

The discovery, from the oldest Pleistocene period, was the third of its kind, the others being in Ain-Hanech in Algeria and Oldoway in what is now Tanzania. Crude bone implements, the earliest ever found, were among the important discoveries unearthed at Afqim.

Jewish Leader Wins 2 Weeks In Russia

LONDON—A British Jewish leader who has been very active in the effort to induce the Soviets to ease their pressures on Soviet Jewry won his first raffle—a two-week holiday for two in Russia. Sir Barnett Janner, member of Parliament and former president of the Board of Deputies of British Jews, bought 40 tickets in the raffle sponsored by a Sussex county club of which he is a member. His reaction was that he was not certain he would be able to go, that his wife was "very amused" and that he and she were "not frightened" about making the visit and did not think there would be any difficulty in getting visas.

The Lyons Den

by Leonard Lyons

VIOLENCE: Nunnally Johnson, the playwright-scenarist, was at the Running Footman, where he told of having heard producer Gilbert Miller say: "I'd like to see all Communists lined up against a wall and shot". "Why?" Johnson asked him.

"Because," the producer said, "I don't believe in violence."
BIGNESS: Israel's Ambassador Avraham Harman was at a dinner with Chief Justice Warren. The envoy said that one of the things that impressed him most about America was that there are 1,500 symphony orchestras in the U.S.A. He'd found one even in Casper, Wyo. The Chief Justice cited his own favorite statistic about Casper:

When he was governor of California, Warren and other governors were taken to a governors conference in Hawaii. They traveled via an aircraft carrier. The governor of Wyoming reported there were more phone lines aboard that flat-top than in his hometown of Casper.

NAME: An MGM executive asked director Tony Mann if he'd be interested in the film version of "Baker Street." He mentioned it would star the three Peters—Peter O'Toole as Holmes, Peter Sellers as Watson, and Peter Ustinov as Prof. Moriarty. "No, I'd be wrong for it," Mann replied. "Get Peter Glenville."

POLICY: Ambassador Arthur Goldberg has indicated to the White House that when and if his successor is named, the man should be a career diplomat. Unlike Adlai Stevenson or Goldberg, a career diplomat would be accustomed to taking orders from the State Dept.

VIRTUE: Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark spoke at the Bar Assn. dinner here recently. He told of the Most Virtuous Lady in the World, who died and found herself in Hell. She phoned St. Peter, who asked her to be patient because Heaven was overcrowded. Two weeks later she phoned St. Peter again. They were teaching her to drink and smoke.

Patience, St. Peter urged; a room in Heaven would be available for her shortly. The next week the Most Virtuous Lady phoned again: "Hello, Pete? Forget it."

AWARD: After her matinee in "Hello, Dolly!" Martha Raye received a plaque from the American Legion. It was in recognition of her 14 months of work in Vietnam, and other wartime tours. Miss Raye studied the plaque, and said: "Until today I thought the American Legion was what a Frenchman joined when he wanted to forget..."

REASON: S. Hurok, the impresario, will be given a testimonial dinner at the Americana May 15, by the Stage Directors and Choreographers Workshop. When he was asked why he consented to a testimonial, Hurok said: "I happen to love hearing good speeches about me."

MEMOS: Fellini is conferring with Tony Curtis in Rome, about replacing Marcello Mastroianni in "The Journey of G. Matorna"... Robert Anderson, author of the new comedy hit, "...When the Water's Running," has completed another play, "I Never Sang for My Father"... Gwen Davis finished her new novel, "Sweet William"... David Merrick heard Burt Bachrach's "Casino Royale" score, and came to terms with him for a Broadway musical.

Andre Previn now the Houston Symphony's conductor-in-chief, will conduct 10 concerts a year with the London Symphony in Festival Hall... Sam Brown, the New Jersey director of the American Jewish Congress, has been named U.S. alumni secretary of Jesus College, Oxford... Mrs. Stanley Baker is leaving his bed and board only for this week: Baker is using their bed and room for filming his torrid love scenes with Joanna Pettet in "Robbery."

Sam and Bella Spewack, whose hits range from "Boy Meets Girl" to "Kiss Me Kate," are writing a play... Eva Gabor will be signed by Joe Gates for the CBS-TV circus special to be taped in Paris next month... Charles Goren now has 55 bridge books on the market, in nine languages... Thornton Wilder's new mystery novel, "The Eighth Day," is Book-of-the-Month here, and also has been selected by the British Book Club.

BLAME: William Schuman, head of Lincoln Center, was at the Four Seasons, discussing fund raising. He told of a husband who examined his bank statement and blamed his wife: "You're overdrawn"... "I'm not overdrawn," she replied. "You're under-deposited."

SHOW: Hugh O'Brian and Anita Gillette starred not long ago in "Guys and Dolls" at the White House. O'Brian said he'd made sure that LBJ flew off to Guam to the appropriate music of "Luck, Be a Lady Tonight"... Miss Gillette's White House dinner partners were Gov. Romney and Vice President Humphrey. She photographed the cast on Humphrey's hand.

Romney said he predicted great things for Miss Gillette—who replied: "Likewise."

Study Challenges Interpretations Of Halacha

NEW YORK—Interpretations of Halacha as restrictive and dogmatic are challenged in a scholarly work on "The Nature and History of Jewish Law," just published by Yeshiva University as part of its "Studies In Torah Judaism" series.

The volume's author is Rabbi Mendell Lewittes, an internationally known rabbinic scholar who is spiritual leader of the Young Israel of Montreal and teaches at the Jewish Seminary of Canada.

The work seeks to demonstrate, according to Dr. Leon D. Stitskin, its editor, the fallacy of thinking of Jewish law as embodying "only negative attributes, dogmatically imposed upon man to restrict his freedom and confine his activities."

Dr. Stitskin, director of publications at Yeshiva University, added that the volume has particular importance because it should help readers "guard against some prevalent misguided notions about the halachic discipline which tend to lock the door to the outsider seeking to enter."

Specifically, he said, it shows that "a religious extremism that would substitute blind dogmatism for disciplined intellectual vigor and sectional isolationism for love of 'Klal Israel' (the whole of the Jewish people) constitute impetrable impediments to the advancement of Torah Judaism."

Dr. Lewittes' monograph goes beyond most studies of Jewish Law because it not only clarifies basic rabbinic principles, but also includes methodology of Halacha, the types of literature it has produced, the major contributors to its strength and an analysis of the contemporary challenges to its dominant role in Jewish life.

The volume, the ninth in the "Studies In Torah Judaism" series, may also serve as an introduction to the philosophical analysis of Jewish Law provided by Dr. Samuel Belkin, president of Yeshiva University, in his famous "In His Image," Dr. Stitskin said.

The "Studies In Torah Judaism" series is designed to offer a rationale for Judaism grounded in Biblical, Halachic and Philosophic sources.

Rabbi Lewittes, an alumnus of Yeshiva University and former editor of the Rabbinical Council Manual of Sermons, also is known as author of the 12th volume of the Yale Judaica Series, and for many learned articles in important journals.

The annual meeting of the Hebrew Free Loan Association of Providence will be held on Sunday, April 2, at 2 p.m. at Temple Beth Shalom. Officers and directors will be elected at the meeting, which all members are invited to attend.

TO SPEAK AT BETH SHOLOM

James J. Longolucco, special assistant attorney general of Rhode Island, will be guest speaker at the family night services at Temple Beth Shalom today at 8:15 p.m. Rabbi Charles M. Rubel will conduct the services, and the children's Hebrew School choir will assist. Mr. Longolucco will speak on "The Prevention of Crime in Rhode Island." He will answer questions afterward. An Oneg Shabbat will follow his talk. The public is invited to attend.

BETH TORAH LUNCHEONETTE

The Sisterhood of Temple Beth Torah-Cranston Jewish Center will hold a donor kick-off petite luncheonette at the home of Mrs. Donald Cohen on Tuesday, April 4, to plan the coming Donor Luncheon. Chairman of the event is Mrs. Abraham Levine, with Mrs. Morris Schwartz and Mrs. Jerome Deluty as co-chairmen.

PIONEER WOMEN'S BOARD

Pioneer Women will hold its board meeting on Thursday, April 6, at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Samuel Solkoff, 97 Fourth Street.

MEETING CHAIRMAN—Mrs. A. Louis Rosenstein was named chairman today of the annual meeting of the Women's Division of the General Jewish Committee, to be held on Tuesday, April 18, at 12:30 p.m. at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel. Mrs. Rosenstein, a member of the Women's Division Board of Directors, is past chairman of the Vital Gifts Division.

Mrs. Leonard I. Salmanson, president of the women's group, also announced the appointment of Mrs. Nathan Samors as hospitality chairman for the meeting. Mrs. Arthur Kaplan, chairman of the nominating committee, will present the 1967-68 slate of officers.

Center Names Chairmen To Fund Drive Divisions

Major Gen. Leonard Holland will be chairman of the General Solicitations Division of the Jewish Community Center Building Fund, and Mrs. Leo Gleklen will head the Women's Division. It has been announced by Bertram L. Bernhardt, general chairman. Both divisions will work as one unit. Gen. Holland, Commanding General of the R. I. National Guard, has been chairman of the American Cancer Society Crusade, a trustee of the Center, a member of the Miriam Hospital board, and chairman of the Pawtucket UJA. Mrs. Gleklen has been secretary of the Center's Board of Directors and a member of its Personnel Committee and of the National Council Of Jewish Women.

Assisting Mrs. Gleklen as co-chairmen are Mesdames Stanley Grossman and David Meyers. Vice-chairmen are Mesdames Joseph Adelson, Joslin Berry, Edward Bomes, Joseph Chernick, Richard Fierstein, Karl Foss, Leonard Goldman, Simon Gordon, David Horovitz, Louis Kramer, Martin Lifland, Isadore Low, Edward Spindell and Paul Young.

Working with General Holland are Dr. Joslin Berry, Dr. Bernard Berstein, Melvin Chernick, Norman Bomzer, Arthur Eisenstein, Samuel Finegold, Bernard Gladstone, Joseph Gladstone, Leonard Granoff, Louis B. Rubenstein, Solomon Selinker, Sol White, Leonard Blazer and Sidney Green. Martin Goodman will be Woonsocket area chairman.

HADASSAH STUDY GROUP Providence Hadassah Study Group will meet on Thursday, April 6, at 10 a.m. at the Wayland Square Branch of the Roger Williams Savings and Loan Association. "American Jewish Beginnings" is the discussion subject, which Mrs. Samuel Kouffman will lead. Mrs. Barney Goldberg will present the current events.

Arrangements for the meeting have been made by Mrs. Aaron Soviv, Hadassah education chairman. Coffee hour hostesses are Mrs. Samuel Yolin and Mrs. George Ludman.

SIXTH BUREAU LECTURE Rabbi William G. Braude of Temple Beth El will speak on "The Eternity of Torah" at Temple Emanu-El at 9 p.m. on Thursday, April 6. This sixth lecture in the Adult Education Program of the Bureau of Jewish Education will be preceded by classes at 7:45 p.m. in Hebrew, modern Jewish history and Yiddish literature.

AT DONOR LUNCHEON—Mort Freeman, concert artist and folk singer, will entertain at the Donor Luncheon of the Sisterhood of Temple Emanu-El on Monday, April 3, at 12:30 p.m. in the meeting house. Mr. Freeman, who also serves as cantor at Emanu-El High Holiday services, will be accompanied by Mrs. Louis B. Rubinstein.

Mrs. Mervin Bolusky, chairman, is being assisted by Mesdames Harold Jagoliner, co-chairman; Benton Odessa, hospitality; Mortyn Zietz, treasurer; Sol Haas, reservations; William Melzer and Louis Horvitz, publicity; David Allen, program; Stephen Wasser, hostesses; Fred Strasmich, decorations; Milton Dubinsky, worker's luncheon; and David Horvitz, ex officio.

Proceeds of the luncheon will be used to intensify the Temple Youth Program.

Israel Believed Ending Transatlantic Services

BONN—Shipping observers said here last week that the transfer of the Shalom to West German registry by the end of this year, foreshadowed the end of a chapter in Israeli shipping operations—the maintenance of flag transatlantic passenger services.

These services were started late in 1955 with the 10,000-ton Israel. She was followed in 1956 by her West German-built sister ship, the Zion. Two more 10,000-ton West German-built passenger liners, the Jerusalem and the Theodor Herzl, were also assigned to occasional transatlantic passenger and cruise service from United States ports in 1957.

However, after the Shalom was placed in service in 1964, Zim Lines found it difficult to operate profitably in the Atlantic with five ships.

It has been known for some time that because of high operating costs the Zim line had been hard pressed to hold passenger shipping losses to a minimum. As a result of losses in the transatlantic operations, the line last year decided to turn to increased cruising and this year is only offering four transatlantic round-trips by the Shalom.

JDC Orders Passover Supplies For Europe

NEW YORK—The Joint Distribution Committee has ordered over 545,325 pounds of Matzoh and other Passover supplies for shipment to some ten countries in Europe to enable needy Jews to observe the Passover holiday, it was announced by Charles H. Jordan, JDC Executive Vice-Chairman.

Funds for Passover relief and other JDC welfare and rehabilitation programs are provided mainly by the campaigns of the United Jewish Appeal.

The supplies this year include 441,500 pounds of matzoh and matzoh meal, 1,000 pounds of matzoh Shmura flour, 600 sets of Shmura matzoh, and 1,666 cases of Passover wine to Eastern Europe, and 41,200 pounds to France. Other countries to which Passover supplies are being shipped are Albania, Belgium, Greece, Italy, Portugal, Spain and Melilla and Cueta in Spanish Morocco. The shipment to Italy also includes 1,400 bottles of Passover wine.

Purim Carnival

Purim came last week and with it, the annual Purim Carnival held by the teen-agers at the Jewish Community Center. They had game booths of all kinds—with mouse races, blackjack, underwater money, and of all things, a doll-diapering derby (there was one young man who managed to beat his girl friend consistently in this—probably had a baby brother or sister at home). A dance followed to finish the festivities of one of the happiest Jewish holidays.

And Dance

A Purim Queen

AVIS JACOBSON leads off the march of the contestants with Stephen Shapiro.

Jewish Enrollment In Prep Schools More Than Doubled In Near-Decade

WASHINGTON — The rate of Jewish enrollment at American prep schools has grown to more than two and one-half times that of general enrollment in the past eight years, B'nai B'rith reported recently.

A study conducted by B'nai B'rith Vocational Service shows the number of Jewish students at 107 selected prep schools in 30 states and the District of Columbia jumped 50% from 1958 to 1966 compared to an 18.8% increase for overall enrollment.

In addition, other data strongly indicate that Jewish enrollment at hundreds of other prep schools throughout the country is rising at about the same rate.

Dr. S. Norman Feingold, B'nai B'rith Vocational Service national director, attributed the boost in Jewish enrollment to the elimination of religious quotas and similar barriers by many schools, and to an evident concern among Jewish parents, particularly in areas where public high schools are overcrowded or otherwise deficient, to provide their children with better preparation for college.

Dr. Feingold estimated that 20,000 Jewish youth are currently attending prep schools. He predicted a rise to possibly twice that number in the next decade.

Results of the study, together with detailed information on admission requirements, accreditation, tuition, boarding facilities, student aid, summer programs and religious facilities at each of 573 American and 20 Canadian prep schools, are reported in "Prep School Guide for Jewish Youth," a 224-page analysis and directory published last month by B'nai B'rith Vocational Service.

Of the 593 schools that responded to a B'nai B'rith questionnaire, 354 American and 18 Canadian schools reported that Jewish students represented 7.5% of their collective enrollments.

One-tenth of the schools said that Jews make up between 11 and 15% of their enrollment. Four percent — 22 schools — have more than 50% Jewish enrollment.

Ninety-five schools — most of them church-affiliated — said they had no Jewish students. But all added that they would welcome Jewish applicants.

The study shows that schools with a relatively high proportion of Jewish students are concentrated in New England and Middle Atlantic states. But every region of the country has schools at which 15% or more of the student body is Jewish.

A spot survey of schools which did not furnish enrollment data showed that nearly all had some Jewish students.

An indication of the growing acceptance of Jewish students by prep schools is the high response — nearly 70% — to the B'nai B'rith questionnaire, Milton Berger of Philadelphia, chairman of the B'nai B'rith Vocational Service commission, said. In the 1958 survey, only one-third of the schools responded.

Higher Jewish enrollment is, of itself, attracting more Jewish parents to investigate prep schools, Mr. Berger said.

"A parent might have been reluctant to enroll his child in a certain Southeastern prep school that eight years ago had only six Jews out of a student body of 335," he said. "The same school today has 398 students—58 of them Jewish."

Parental interest is evident in the increasing number of inquiries on prep schools being received by B'nai B'rith Vocational Service's 21 regional offices, Mr. Berger said.

Data included in the "Prep School Guide" show that tuition generally ranges between $2,000 and $3,000 a year at boarding schools; $500 to $1,000 at non-boarding schools.

Information published in the Guide was compiled by Sol Swerdloff, chief of the Division of Manpower and Occupational Outlook in the U. S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics and William Mead, a statistician in the Labor Department's Office of Statistical Standards.

TRINITY PLANS FORUM

A forum on Project Discovery, the program enabling 40,000 high school students to attend four plays by the Trinity Square Repertory Company, will be held at the Playhouse on Monday, April 17, at 8:30 p.m. Panel members will be Adrian Hall, artistic director; Charles O'Connor, Providence superintendent of schools, and Junius Eddy of the U. S. Office of Education. The community is invited to attend the forum, at which coffee will be served.

Your Money's Worth

A. There may be an insurance premium up to 1/2 per cent per year on your unpaid principal balance. This will be charged by the student loan guarantee agencies in accordance with the 1965 Act.

Part II
 Q. Where are these guaranteed loans available?

A. As of now, about 5,000 commercial banks with about 4,000 branches, roughly 9,000 bank offices, located in all 50 states are participating in the loan program.

Also, about 400 mutual savings banks, savings and loan associations and credit unions are authorized to make the loans. Directly cooperating with the program are about 800 colleges.

Most of the lending institutions are concentrated along the East and West Coasts, in New England and the Mid-west. The weakest loan areas are in the South and Rocky Mountain States.

Q. What's the best way to apply?

A. You, the student, to whom the loan will be made, should write to or go to the financial office of your college and ask for the names and locations of banks or other financial institutions near your home which are participating in the program. Then go to one (or more) of these institutions and ask the appropriate officer to help you complete the necessary forms.

If your college is among the 800 or so tied in with the program, its financial aid office may help you with the forms. If it is not, the aid office still will give you the locations of the participating financial institutions in your home community.

Q. Does a bank or other institution have to lend you the money?
 A. It does not. Whether you obtain a loan and in what total, will depend on the lending institution and the student loan guarantee agency and the amount of your education expenses.

If you're turned down by every bank or lending institution, to which you apply, write to the state guarantee agency for advice and discuss your problems with your college financial officer.

Q. Does the college select your lending agency?

A. No. You can go to any eligible participating lending institution, preferably in your home community.

No matter whether your college or your bank or other institution initiates your application, you will receive your check from the lender upon endorsement of the loan by the appropriate state or private guarantee agency.

Q. What about students at nursing schools?

A. You may get these loans if you are enrolled in a collegiate school of nursing leading to a baccalaureate or graduate degree. You also may borrow if you are attending a two-year college program in nursing leading to an associate or equivalent degree.

But this is the best program devised so far for the middle-income family and the non-scholarship student, and right now a Treasury task force is studying it to see how it can be improved.

Whatever changes may be ahead, the time for you to get all your spade-work done is NOW— as early as possible before the 1967-68 academic year begins in September.

Tower Of Babel A Launching Pad, Suggested 18th Century German Rabbi

LOS ANGELES—More than 200 years before Sputnik, a German scholar and Rabbi wrote a book of commentaries and sermons on the Pentateuch in which he suggested that the Tower of Babel had been constructed as a base from which airships could take off on their way to the moon.

Jonathan Eibeschutz's discussion of Biblical space travel, in his book Tiferet Yehonatan, is one of the more unusual items in the Theodore E. Cummings Collection of Hebraica and Judaica in UCLA's Research Library.

The Cummings Collection is the largest single collection of books—35,000 volumes—in the library's Jewish Studies Collection, which totals over 60,000 volumes.

The Jewish Studies Collection was begun in 1956 when a department for Hebrew language and literature was established at UCLA. By 1962 the collection numbered nearly 10,000 volumes.

About 300 current books are added to the collection each month, and several small collections are purchased each year.

The collection is divided into four major parts: Bibles and Bible studies and commentaries; Jewish history, language and literature of the Sephardic (Spanish) Jews and Judaism.

Most of the books in the Cummings Collection, reports Shmuelon Brisman, the library's bibliographer of Hebraica and Judaica. He cites the collection as one of the most important ever received by the library, and of critical importance to the development of Hebrew studies at UCLA.
