Dr. William Wexler Warns Of Anti-Semitic Report

NEW YORK — A Quaker report on the Middle East, issued by the American Friends Service Committee and which hews to a pro-Arab line and blasts US Zionist organizations, prompted the president of the Conference of Major Jewish Organizations, Dr.

William Wexler, to comment: "With 'Friends' like this, who needs anti-Semites."

The nine-member commission of American, British and Canadian Quakers, which released their initial analysis following two years of travels through the United Arab Republic, Israel, Jordan and Lebanon, concluded that Israel must take the initiative toward peace by committing itself to pulling out of the occupied territories and that the Arabs must then "recognize Israel's territorial integrity within agreed-upon boundaries."

In their study, the Quakers criticized American Zionist leaders for "a tendency...to identify themselves with the more hard-line elements inside the Israeli Cabinet...and to ignore the dissident elements in and out of the Israeli government that are searching for more creative ways to solve the Middle East problems."

Answering this charge and the warning of an anti-Semitic backlash, Dr. William Wexler, chairman of the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations, declared: "After reading the report, with its innuendoes of anti-Semitism, backlash and the threat of interfaith disharmony, I can only say that with such Friends who needs anti-Semites?"

The Quaker report also proposed that both Arabs and Israel recognize the Palestinian right to self-determination; that the Gaza Strip and the West Bank be at least temporarily internationalized; and that Jerusalem be unified, demilitarized.

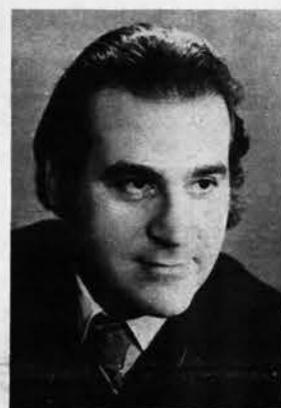

Plan Community Wide Program On Plight Of Russian Jews

In conjunction with the Community Relations Council, the Rhode Island Conference on Soviet Jewry will hold a two-day community-wide program on Thursday and Friday, May 14 and 15. Dr. Zev Katz of the Harvard University Russian Research Center will speak on Thursday, and on Friday, Owen Rachleff, director of European Affairs of the Anti-Defamation League, B'nai B'rith, will be the guest speaker.

A luncheon will be held on Thursday at 12:30 p.m. at Hillel House for rabbis, educators, communal workers, etc., where Dr. Katz will speak informally. He will give a lecture on "Marxisms: The Kremlin and Russian Jews," at 4 p.m. in Room 302, Wilson Hall at Brown University. There will be a dinner at 6 p.m. at the Wayland Manor for members of the co-sponsoring agencies, and a JCRC state-wide meeting will be held at 8 p.m. on Thursday at Temple Beth El.

Mr. Rachleff, the ADL delegate to the United Nations, also teaches at New York University, in the department of social science and history. He formerly taught at the New School for Social Research.

He will appear on Friday at 6 p.m. on the WJAR radio Talk-

Owen Rachleff
Back show with Dick Pace. He will also be the featured speaker at the 8 p.m. Sabbath service at Temple Emanu-El. His subject will be "The Kremlin and the Jews."

Dr. Katz was born in Poland and was educated in the Soviet Union during World War II. After repatriation to Poland, he went to Israel where he received an MA degree from Hebrew University. He also has a Ph.D. degree from London University.

Mrs. Segal Interested In Community Service, Education

By CELIA ZUCKERBERG

It is almost 50 years now since Mrs. Beryl Segal came with her husband from the little town in the Ukraine, Orinin, to the United States. She had been born and educated in Orinin — her father sent her to the Talmud Torah to study as he did her brothers. (This was unusual in the early 1900s. Women were supposed to know the business of keeping house, taking care of the children, and in some of the shtetlech of Russia, also the care of the one cow or two, and the chickens. Education was for the men.)

Brought here by the late Mr. and Mrs. Alter Boyman, the Segals were to have settled in Providence, but because Mr. Segal had relatives in the Midwest, they were sent to Minneapolis where they stayed for about two years.

Mrs. Segal grew up with the Zionist idea, as did all the other Jews in her town (and the other little towns in Russia.) "You lived with it," she says. So it is not surprising that when the Segals came to Providence, she joined the newly-formed Pioneer Women's organization. However, after Mr. Segal was graduated from Brown, they moved to Rochester where he took his Master's degree, and it was not until they returned to Providence in 1937 that she rejoined the Pioneer Women, the organization for which she has worked so hard and tirelessly over the years.

It is difficult to decide (and there is really no reason to make a decision) which has interested Mrs. Segal more over the years — community service or education.

She remarks on the fact that some things have really not changed so very much. In Rochester, she completed high school and then went on to enter the Collegiate Center of New York University where she took courses in education. Her daughter was only a baby at the time and she had to take her with her and leave her outside the classroom in her carriage during classes, as so many married students are doing these days. She found that both teachers and students would help keep an eye on the baby as she continued her education.

Mr. and Mrs. Segal have two daughters: Annette Hockman (Mrs. Jack) of Florida who has two sons, and Geraldine S. Foster (Mrs. Warren) of Providence, who has four children, and teachers at Nathan Bishop Junior High School.

Mrs. Segal, herself, has continued her education over the years including a course which has been given under the aegis of the Boston Teachers' College for the last six years in Hebrew Literature. Teachers originally had come from Boston to teach the course, which is now being taught by Dr. Aaron Soviv, executive director of the Bureau of Jewish Education. Mrs. Segal started her teaching at the religious school at Congregation Sons of Abraham on Broad Street, continued at Congregation Ohave Shalom in Pawtucket, and is now teaching at the Temple Beth El religious school.

Although Pioneer Women has been one of her primary concerns over the years, she has managed to work for many other community agencies. These include the former Red Feather Agency (now part of the United Fund); she has received Chen awards from the Israel Bond organization and served as Chen chairman three times; she is a board member of the Women's Division of the General Jewish Committee; in 1948 she worked for the Providence symphony orchestra campaign, and she has worked for Women's American ORT (Organization for Rehabilitation through Training).

"Indoctrinated with Zionism," as she puts it, her major work has been with Pioneer Women, the group by which she will be honored for "her devotion and

Calls Soviet Charges 'Utter Fabrications'

JERUSALEM — The Foreign Ministry dismissed as "utter fabrications" charges published in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia that certain Jewish tourists in the USSR were serving as spies for Israel. A Ministry spokesman said the charge was a continuation of the anti-Israel "smear campaign" that has been going on in the Soviet Union for some time. Izvestia claimed that an American woman posing as a tourist was an Israeli intelligence agent sent to get secret information about Russia's space program. It identified her as "Feiga Kroun" but did not say when she was in Russia or whether she was arrested. According to Izvestia, the woman sought information about the closed Black Sea port of Nikolayev and the space center at Balkonur in Kazakhstan, while visiting Odessa, Izvestia also accused another target, identified as "Mr. Dugan," of working for Israel intelligence in Odessa. It accused Israel of recruiting tourists as spies since the Soviet Union broke off diplomatic relations, with Jerusalem during the June, 1967 Six-Day War.

Oil Company Experts Say Mideast Critical

NEW YORK — Middle East experts for the major oil companies are convinced that the political situation in the Arab world is more critical than at any time since the 1967 War, but they are not panicking about the prospects for their industry in the area — according to the New York Times.

The American businessmen believe that "the Arabs have become far too sophisticated to cut off oil supplies, except in the most extreme circumstances. But, the oilmen are quick to add, this only holds true if everything remains rational.

"If the Arabs were to stop production to spite the United States, industry in Europe and Japan would be severely crippled in six months, but the Arab nations would also suffer major setbacks, including the stoppage of money used to support the Arab guerrillas. It is an unhappy marriage but one that will likely continue in some form for quite a while if everyone remains rational, the oil industry believes," they said.

Scott Calls For Support For Jews In Soviet Union

WASHINGTON — Sen. Hugh Scott, Republican of Pennsylvania, said that the U.S. should support a declaration of freedom for the Soviet Jews, allowing them to leave the country if they wish.

Scott, Senate minority leader, expressed his views in a letter sent to the University of Pennsylvania's Hillel Foundation. "The tragic plight of the Jewish people in the Soviet Union demands that we continue and increase our efforts to bring the actions of the Soviet Union into national and worldwide focus," Scott wrote.

Soviet Jews can no longer suffer in silence. Their plea for justice, smuggled to the Human Rights Commission of the United Nations, deserves our support," he said.

I'M NOT ALLOWED TO GO WITH BOYS... BUT I SEE MY BOYFRIEND EVERY NIGHT.

THE WEEK'S LETTER: I am thirteen years old. And my problem is that I am not allowed to go with boys. My mother does not know I see my boyfriend every night. I don't see any harm in this. What do you think I should do?"

OUR REPLY: You should obey your mother's wishes. You are too young to be seeing boys without permission from your parents. Even with permission, every night? There is nothing wrong with seeing a boy — if you do nothing wrong... insofar as the difference between "right" and "wrong" are concerned. But, you must realize, it is wrong for you to disobey your parents. You are stepping into a path that has led many teenagers to serious difficulty with parents. It begins with just "seeing" someone against parental wishes; it leads to dates, to riding around in automobiles, then to going to places where young teens should not go. A day of reckoning always comes. Some teenagers are "grounded" and their parents make it stick. Other teenagers are grounded, but continue to slip out when no one is looking — and from this point on family life becomes miserable for all concerned.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

Both Miss Lennard and Mr. Abrams attend C.W. Post College in Brookvale, Long Island, N.Y. A January wedding is planned.

SECOND SON BORN

Mr. and Mrs. Martin P. Lewis of 12 Sunset Lane, Spencer, Mass., announce the birth of their second son, Mark Allen, on April 26.

Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lewis. Paternal great-grandmother is Mrs. Hyman Shushansky. All are of Providence.

TO RECEIVE DEGREE

Miss Deborah Nelson, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy M. Nelson of 254 Irving Avenue, is a candidate for a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in Music at Boston University. Miss Nelson will receive her degree during the University's 99th commencement program on Sunday, May 17, at Nickerson Field in Boston, Mass.

THIRD CHILD BORN

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip R. Geller of 89 Hyde Street, Cranston, announce the birth of their third child and second daughter, Karen Lynn, on April 23. Mrs. Geller is the former Sylvia Gorman.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gorman of 217 Deerfield Road, Cranston. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Geller of Lambert Street, Cranston.

Mrs. Howard W. Coleman

Miss Brenda J. Engle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Engle of 26 Ivanhoe Street, Cranston, became the bride on Saturday, April 11, of Howard W. Coleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Coleman of 12 Wilcox Manor, Pawcatuck, Conn. Rabbi Saul Leeman and Cantor Jack Smith officiated at the 7:30 p.m. ceremony which was held at Temple Beth Torah. A reception followed in the temple meeting room.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride was gowned in ivory peau de soie fashioned with a standing collar, fitted English net bodice with long sleeves, highlighted with clusters of seed pearls, and a semi-sheath skirt which fell into a chapel train. Her full length French illusion Camelot veil fell from a matching peau de soie crown accented with seed pearls. She carried a Bible covered with orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Melvin Coleman, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor, and maid of honor was Miss Mindy Geller. Both wore flash purple floor length crepe gowns styled with mandarin collars, short puffed sleeves and empire silhouettes.

Gayle Geller and Mrs. David Seidman, who were bridesmaids, wore similar floor length gowns. They also wore veils attached to matching crepe crowns.

Melvin Coleman served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Jerald Jessen, Gerald Kelliher, Sidney Volin, Carl Engle, brother of the bride; Arnold Cohen and Herbert Dawley.

Following a wedding trip to Las Vegas, Los Angeles and San Francisco, the couple will reside at 77 Prospect Street in Stamford, Conn.

and British Jews Britons.

The answer is simple: because in America and Briton a Jew can remain a Jew and still be a good American and a good Briton. Such anti-Semitism as exists is low-keyed, certainly not enough to make a man think about packing up. In fact, many Israells, Ben-Gurion included, overestimate the power of the anti-semites. In America and Britian anti-Semitism has never been respectable.

Cabinet Minister Dismisses Threats

BUENOS AIRES — Menachem Beigin, an Israeli Cabinet minister, said here the main reason the Nixon administration was delaying the sale of more jets to Israel was its desire to keep the way open for talks with Soviet Russia and make certain concessions.

He dismissed the threats by Arab countries to withhold oil from the West. "The Arabs cannot drink their oil but need to sell it," he said. Beigin, who heads the rightwing, nationalist Herut faction spoke at a reception given him by the Buenos Aires Jewish community.

Later he told newsmen at a press conference that the so-called Palestinian liberation movements were making some Jews feel that the Jewish and Israeli causes were morally unjust. He said such feelings were dangerous and Jews should not be ashamed. "The Arab nation exerts self-determination in 14 states while we claim only one relatively small state," Beigin said.

The Golden Age of Anglo-American Jewry

While in Israel, I spent a morning with ex-Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion who, at 83, is still a member of the Israeli Knesset (Parliament).

Ben-Gurion is not only a pretty fair country politician but the one Israeli of almost Biblical proportions. He was in modest ways perhaps a prophet. In 1948, Ben-Gurion insisted Israel needed an airline. Despite vehement protestations from his colleagues, one of whom charged that for Israel to finance an airline was like putting a top hat on a naked man, he had his way.

Three times in its history, El Al has been Israel's only link with the outside world. Nobody listened to the intense Russian, Zarkin, who insisted he had found a way to rid sea water of its salt but Ben-Gurion. Today in Eilat, Zarkin's process provides hundreds of thousands of gallons for the Negev farms and industries.

One of the arguments Ben-Gurion said he lost was his insistence that the appeal to American and English Jews should be for people not for money. It is true that the money from American Jews has literally built Israel but still Ben-Gurion believes allyah (immigration) would have been better. America, he reminds everyone, was settled by Europeans not by European money.

He was quite positive the day would come when 100,000

American Jews would immigrate to Israel every year. Which goes to prove that even the best of prophets often barks up the wrong tree.

Anglo-American Jewry is living in a great age of freedom and prosperity. There are 40 Jewish members of the British House of Commons, 38 Labor and 2 Conservatives. There are 2 Jewish Senators and probably more than 50 Representatives in the American Congress. Jews are prominent in industry, science, the arts, and in teaching. This is in all seriousness a golden age for Anglo-American Jewry, an age comparable with the golden age for Jews in Spain.

The United States and Great Britain have become markedly hospitable to Jews. Jewishness is often glamorized. It is in fact, so fashionable that assimilated Jews have become nostalgic about their earliest beginnings.

No one gives up a golden age. No one wants to give up a seat on the New York Stock Exchange unless the SEC tells him to. So the English and American allyah to Israel remains at most a thin trickle. On the other hand, the Israells have done their best to prove that their land offers Anglo-American Jewry more than a chance to realize Jewish values, that it is more than possible to make a good living in the country. They do not understand often why American Jews wish to remain Americans

Budget Cuts

American Jews are conscious of the military crisis in Israel; the daily headline and radio and television reports cover the continuing drama in the Middle East. Even without all the facts, we know what an enormous burden the defense of the Jewish state must entail.

How burdensome is indicated in the small stories one can read in the Israeli newspapers. Like the cut in the education budget which again will delay the extension of secondary education from 14 to 15 years. Like the cut in the budget from Bar-Ilan University which will mean cutting down activities and reduce its capacity to absorb new students and teachers from among the refugees who continue to find a haven in Israel.

Among the great assets Israel has in its fight for life is its educated youth. Without the help from the United Jewish Appeal to relieve the financial pressure brought about by huge military expenditures Israel may lose the fight on the home front.

FROM FRIDAY TO FRIDAY

Nathan Y. Temkin

By BERYL SEGAL

He was not a rich man that people might have come to pay him respect for financial gains.

He was not a leader of men; he would in fact admit to being just a follower and supporter of every worthwhile effort.

He was not a man of power and influence, that people might have come because of duty.

Neither was he a scholarly man, so that people might come to honor his learning.

They came just because they wanted to say farewell to Nathan Temkin. Because Nathan Temkin was a Good Man.

A Good Man is so rare that when one dies he leaves a void, and people come to look into one another's eyes, and ask each other, "Are you the Good Man who will take his place?"

This great congregation at Temple Emanu-El, for the funeral of Nathan Temkin on that rainy Sunday afternoon, were all people whom Nathan Temkin touched with his goodness at one time or another. This great assembly of representatives of Jewish organizations, headed by the Governor of the State and the Commander of the National Guard of Rhode Island, bore witness to the quality of the man. And when you ask yourself what that quality was, the answer is that He was A Good Man. Goodness emanated from this man and was given freely to everyone.

I met Nathan Temkin and his wife at a meeting of the Jewish Community Center, on Benefit Street, many years ago. Both he and Sara were members of the board. Sara Temkin was an unusual woman, highly cultured and full of enthusiasm for everything that was undertaken by the community. Since then, I often met them at meetings, lectures and concerts. But more often on the street. Nathan and Sara would always cross the street and shake hands and inquire after our health and exchange ideas about community matters.

Of late, I would meet Nathan on Hope Street, and I will miss his outstretched hands and his whole-hearted smile.

Rabbi Eli A. Bohem, the man who knew Nathan best, next to his immediate family, tells that when he retired, Nathan took it upon himself to do a Hessed Shel Emeth, a Deed of Kindness for which one does not expect either thanks or repayment. That Deed of Kindness was to go to the house of mourners and be of any little help he could to the family in the hour of distress. He would come to a home where people hardly knew him and arrange for a Minyan. He would take the son or daughter aside and instruct them in saying Kaddish. At the temple, he would stand by the mourner and say Kaddish with him. Many a man became his friend because of Nathan's assistance in these difficult hours.

Let me add two things of which his obituary did not write, but which show the quality of the man.

My wife and daughter, who were counselors at Camp Centerland, tell me that Nathan was known as the Chala and Lollypop man among the children. This he earned because of the standing order at the baker's to bring little Chalas for Friday Services, and for his coming in person to distribute lollypops among the children of Camp Centerland.

He once told me that he began this practice in the days when the Jewish Community Center was still called by the name of the Jewish Educational Institute, and his uncle, Louis Bolotow, was the chief campaigner and devoted his full time to the school. Cousin Nathan at that time began the presentation of candy to the pupils, to make Jewish learning "sweeter to their taste," in the words of Nathan Temkin.

And here is another Deed of Kindness which Nathan was in the habit of doing these many years. You may have noticed that among more than two dozen other organizations he also belonged to the Hebrew Culture Council. This Council meets once a year to distribute scholarships to Hebrew Speaking Camps and to assist in trips to Israel for the purpose of studying at some school, among high school students. Such a meeting is to take place, as a matter of fact, this Wednesday, the 13th of May, at the home of the president of the Council, Lillian Potter. Nathan alone was the collector of the sum of money needed for this purpose. When there were more applications for scholarships, Nathan would always say: It will be all right. Go ahead and grant them all, if they deserve it. I will see that there is more money.

Nathan will not be at this year's meeting. But we will mention his name with a blessing on our lips.

There was a Good Man and that man is no more, and we miss him.

Your Money's Worth

By Sylvia Porter

Crackdown on Swiss Bank Accounts

For decades, the world has been intrigued by "cloak and dagger" tales of criminals sagging untold millions of dollars of "hot" money in Swiss bank accounts known only by a number and that number known only to the Swiss bank and the criminal.

Finally, last December the House Banking and Currency Committee proposed legislation which intended to crack down on the tax dodgers, racketeers and white-collar criminals hiding illegal money in foreign secret bank accounts. After hearings, the House Committee reported an amended bill in late March. The following interview with Herbert P. Patterson, president of the giant Chase Manhattan Bank, reveals how American banks feel about this.

PORTER: The rumors are that big banks are against this crackdown. True?

PATTERSON: Certainly not. In fact, banks were in favor of a more effective bill than the one originally introduced. We along with other banks made specific recommendations to Congress and the Treasury how this bill might be stiffened.

PORTER: Specifically, what do you oppose in H.R. 15073, the bank secrecy bill?

PATTERSON: A few examples will illustrate the point. Transactions with any bank, savings bank, savings and loan association, securities or commodity broker involving currency, checks, notes, stocks, bonds, and so forth, will have to be reported as the secretary of the treasury may require. This provision is so sweeping that, literally, the secretary would be given authority to require a report on practically any transaction in the United States if money or a monetary instrument is involved. This clearly raises the specter of invasion of privacy.

As another example, every bank may be required to photocopy (not just microfilm) every check presented to it for payment and to keep records, as the Secretary may require, of every check over $500 handled by it. In addition, records of the identity of the party for whose account the bank is acting would have to be maintained. This would entail the maintenance of a great mass of records which probably would be of little value in cracking down on tax-dodgers and criminals.

PORTER: How would you suggest that the bill be improved?

PATTERSON: I believe that the bill should deal only with international transactions. Banks should maintain basic records of all checks arriving from or being sent abroad. Such checks for $2,500 or more should be microfilmed and the microfilms retained for a reasonable time. We would support an expanded system of reporting large and unusual cash transactions. Individuals might be required to report on their tax returns whether they have foreign bank accounts or foreign security accounts and customers with deposit type accounts might be required to furnish the bank their Social Security numbers.

PORTER: You would agree to keep additional records?

PATTERSON: Yes, if they are reasonable and will be effective in curbing the outflow of criminal money. Such records should, of course, be available by subpoena or similar legal process.

PORTER: Would the bill affect individual bank customers in any way?

PATTERSON: Most certainly. As I have already mentioned, the secretary could require a report by the domestic financial institution for every $5 check cashed by a housewife. In addition, the secretary may require the housewife to file a report on her "suspicious" transaction.

PORTER: How does the legislation infringe on the privacy of an individual?

PATTERSON: The reports that can be required could be used to obtain a running account on the life of any person or business to the extent there are dealings in money or monetary instruments or with a "foreign financial agency." I should think that such reports would be as disturbing and undesirable as the tapping of telephone conversations without approval by a court or random opening of private letters to examine their contents.

By Robert E. Starr

Under normal circumstances a simple finesse for the Trump King with four outstanding would be the proper play in today's hand but there were some special considerations to be taken. Most of the Declarers gave all of their immediate attention to that Trump King without examining the whole hand and what after effects might come into being should that finesse lose. They ended down one when the hand should have been made.

Mrs. Samuel Starr and Mrs. Henry Hall were North and South, East-West vulnerable, East Dealer. The bidding:

P	4	End

No comment is necessary on the bidding except to say that West's vulnerable overcall should have had more bearing on how the bidding ended with South Declarer at four Hearts, every West automatically and correctly led the Spade Queen, top of a three card honor sequence. This is invariably a good, safe lead.

All Declarers won in Dummy and almost all, ignoring everything that had been happening at the table already, did the natural thing, they took that very inviting Trump finesse for the King. When it lost, West returned the Spade Jack and East ruffed when North had to cover it with the remaining honor. Another Spade and a Diamond still had to be lost so the hand went down one.

Those Declarers who went down felt they had played the hand as it should have been played and that they had simply been very unfortunate to have such a series of events happen to them. Actually they should have foreseen much of this and taken steps to try to prevent it if it could have been prevented. First, they should have considered West's vulnerable overcall without either the Ace or King. Very likely a six card suit, this would give East a Singleton. Second, when East played the Deuce at trick one it should have given further evidence to that fact as with two most East's would start an echo. Third, there were so few high cards outstanding in the opponents' hands the King would tend to be much more likely with West, the bidder than East. With no bidding things would be different but now the odds change completely.

The play of the Ace on the first lead of Trumps is just about 100% safe. It might drop a singleton King in either hand. If the Trumps are divided 2-2, the East hand will have no Trumps left to Trump a Spade with. Even if the finesse would have worked, East would be the one who would win the Trump King and would have no way to get to West for a ruff even if he had a third Trump.

As the cards are, West wins the Heart King on the second lead of Trumps and now, when he plays a second Spade, East has no more Trumps to ruff with and the Hand is made. If you think about it this should have been the normal way to play the hand under the conditions prevailing.

Moral: Before taking a finesse, say to yourself, "What might happen if it loses that may not happen if I refuse that finesse." Then govern yourself accordingly.

TO PRESIDE OVER DISCUSSION: Judah M. Stone, Boston attorney, who is active in Jewish education and philanthropic organizations, will preside over a discussion on the relationship of federated charities to Hebrew day schools, at a regional conference of New England Hebrew Day Schools which will be held on Sunday, May 17, at the Providence Hebrew Day School.

The keynote luncheon speaker will be Professor Edward N. Beiser of the Brown University Political Science Department, who will speak on "The Role of the Hebrew Day School in the American Jewish Community."

Purpose of the all-day meeting is to intensify and strengthen regional cooperation between Hebrew day schools. Lawrence H. Hopfenberg is conference chairman.

Hello Again!

News of the Sports World by Warren Walden

LICKS? OR WAS IT LIX? — Or do boys on the playgrounds still play "Licks-Rotation?" It was the game of baseball we played when there weren't enough present for choosing sides for an impromptu game. Someone would shout "Licks!" Then he'd grab the bat and in order without order the shouts would go out, "Second Licks! Catch! Pitch, First Base and so forth." The batters would bat until thrown out and then take a place in the outfield to work their way through the different positions until becoming the batter again. Maybe before that, it was called "One Old Cat."

SOMETHING LIKE WHITTIER — And so last Saturday when the downtown section of Providence was invaded by a flock of Little Leaguers, I thought of "The Barefoot Boy." And I wondered just how Whittier would have written about the little fellows. "Blessings on thee, little man; Little Leaguer with collection can." The great poet wrote, "From my heart I give thee joy, I was once a barefoot boy." There wasn't a line about being regimented into a collection brigade. It kept keeping creeping hints of Fagin seeping into my mind.

IN PRAISE — This is not intended as a castigation or negative assessment of the adults who work so hard in encouraging the little fellows to play baseball. They are to be congratulated for their efforts. It is a fine gesture on the parts of the mothers and fathers and uncles and friends who devote their spare time in little league efforts. This is a suggestion for thought about some other method for raising funds, different from the hand-out system. It's a suggestion that maybe the little fellows should be taught that the world does not owe them a living, that there is a reward for industriousness. Maybe there would be value in a program that would teach the fundamentals of business or of providing a service for funds.

IN WOONSOCKET — Charlie Lagor will promote a boxing show at Mt. St. Charles Arena on June 3rd for the benefit of the Woonsocket Junior Police. Such shows or other kinds, entertainments, bean suppers or spaghetti dinners could help in raising little league funds. And the boys could be encouraged to help with paper-drives; also reminded that running errands, junking, raking leaves and so on have been honorable accomplishments in the past.

IN THE MEANTIME — On a beautiful Saturday these youngsters could be out playing "Lix" or "sides" and enjoying the intangible harvest of boyhood education gained in the wonderful world of childhood. — "Cheerily then, my little man, Live and Laugh as Boyhood can! — Ah that thou could'st know this joy - e'er it passes barefoot boy!" — John Greenleaf Whittier. Read it again.

THEN AND NOW — It was bad then and it is now. Fighting on the baseball field, I mean. Back before you remember when Del Gainer and Chick Gandil were first basemen, they engaged in fistcuffs and the comment was "Bad for the game." And now we read of a couple of fistic battles in the big leagues which are not big when such disgraceful occurrences take place. Hockey players engage in fights on the ice and I'm agin it, I am. Where does it fit in with the value of our sports presentations? Where are the lessons of sportsmanship that prove so valuable in the game of life itself?

SOUNDS INTERESTING — John "Wasso" McConnell, who was said to have at least five hundred legs while tending goal in the old game of Roller Polo, has received an invitation to attend an exhibition roller hockey program at Riverdale Rink on May 13th. The Channel 6 Personalities will play the Jane Dale Models in one game; W.S.V.P. (What does it mean?) Royals meet Kent Screen Print Rollers in another; and the Warren Magicians play Cambridge Social Clubs in still another game on the program. It all starts at 8:15 P.M. according to Alan E. Peterson of Riverdale. Excitement on the rollers. So maybe I should say, Roll On! — CARRY ON!

CALLS FOR CEASE-FIRE YORK, England — The United Nations Association, holding its annual meeting here, adopted a resolution calling on all parties in the Middle East conflict to observe the UN cease-fire and asking UN Secretary General U Thant to initiate peace talks.

Criticizes Israeli Government For Not Backing Emigre's Fast

TEL AVIV — A friend of Yasha Kazakov accused the Israeli government of short circuiting the struggle by the 23-year-old Russian emigre to secure emigration rights for his family in Moscow. Boris Sperling claimed that the government did not wholeheartedly support young Kazakov's eight-day hunger strike in front of United Nations headquarters in New York and actually "short circuited" it by calling on him to end his fast.

Mr. Sperling, speaking at the Commercial and Industrial Club here, hinted at possible sympathy strikes in Israel. As long as the government fails to carry on the struggle in the way "we understand it should be conducted, we will abstain from our normal work and carry on the struggle openly, shouting aloud what we have to tell the world," he said.

Kazakov ended his fast at the urging of his father, Joseph. The elder Kazakov telephoned his appeal from Moscow to the Israeli UN Mission. The message was conveyed to his son by Ambassador Yosef Tekoah, chief Israeli representative to the UN.

Officers who will be installed are Greta Labush, president; Hannah Stern, senior vice president; Frances Carrezza, junior vice president; Enid Ross, treasurer; Rose Chernov, recording secretary; Jean Penn, corresponding secretary; Mary Fink, chaplain. Bertha Sherman will act as conductress.

DEL SESTO TO SPEAK

Judge Christopher Del Sesto, associate justice of the Superior Court, and an alumnus of Boston University, will be the guest speaker at the Annual Dinner Meeting and election of officers of the Boston University Club of Rhode Island, it has been announced by Aaron S. Helford, president. The meeting will be held on Wednesday, May 13, at the University Club at 6:30 p.m.

Judge Henry E. Laliberte, Chief Judge of the reorganized district courts, and also an alumnus of the university, will act as toastmaster.

WIN AWARDS

Winners of the 23rd Annual Brotherhood Essay Contest of the Reback Winsten Post, Jewish War Veterans, were announced this week.

First prize was won by Thomas Sabbagh of the Jenks Junior High School who will receive a government bond and a gold medal.

Second prize went to Annette Nazareth of the Middle Junior High School of Cumberland who will receive a gold medal; third prize to Denise Scotti of Goff Junior High School who will receive a silver medal; fourth prize, Alan Batastini of Slater Junior High School, a silver medal, and fifth prize, Debra Boucher of Central Falls Junior High School, a bronze medal.

The subject of the contest was "Our Heritage from George Washington" and was open to all junior high school students in Pawtucket, Central Falls and Cumberland.

Judges were Dr. Paul E. Sheldon of the Pawtucket Congregational Church; Mrs. Ellen O. Spilka, coordinator for Interrelated System for northern Rhode Island; Richard Green, Blackstone Valley Boy Scouts. Members of the Post committee were Joseph Elowitz, Melvin Harriet and Herman Braff.

CENTER CAMPS TO OPEN

Program plans for Camp Naomi and Camp Joseph of the Jewish Community Center Camps in New England are being completed for the 1970 season, according to Leonard M. Katowitz, executive director. Both camps are located in Maine and provide a varied program of activities for boys and girls from 8 to 15 years of age. The program includes swimming, boating, water skiing, sports, athletics, dramatics, nature study, tripping and outdoor camping programs as well as Jewish cultural program activities.

Further information can be obtained by calling the local Jewish Community Center or by writing to the Jewish Community Center Camps at 120 Boylston Street, Room 216, Boston, Mass., or calling 617 542-3880.

FAVORABLE RESPONSE

NEW YORK — The AJCommittee's request that Mayor John V. Lindsay make the City Commission on Human Rights a full City Department has received a favorable response from Mayor Lindsay. In a letter to the Mayor several days ago, Haskell L. Lazere, Director of the New York Chapter, asked that all city offices and agencies dealing with social problems and race relations be put under the Commission.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By Roger E. Spear

Telephone Offering Should Be Accepted

Q: We have shares of American Telephone & Telegraph at $70. I would like to use savings to buy more; my wife says no. Who is right? — A.L.

A: The opportunity now afforded to Telephone shareholders to purchase 8 3/4% debentures would seem to me to offer a fine compromise for you. Holders of 35 shares have the right to purchase at par this $100 principal amount debenture together with a warrant to purchase two shares of common. The debenture offers generous return with a high degree of safety. The warrants, whether exercised or sold, offer the potential of capital appreciation. All told, this is a highly attractive package that shareholders should accept if possible.

Q: Please give me your candid opinion of Susquehanna Corp. I have taken a rather large position in the stock at $9. Is this a turnaround situation? — H.S.

A: No stock position — large or small — should be taken unless you personally or your broker can keep in close touch with developments. This is true of any investment but is vital in a speculative situation.

Susquehanna is a complex organization covering four rather broad fields: technology, building materials, industrial and natural resources. Sales for 1969 dropped 8% to $130 million, and earnings of 73 cents a share were substantially lower than the $2.20 reported in 1968. Results included tax-loss carryforward credits and gains on the sale of property equal to 42 cents and 95 cents a share in 1969 and 1968 respectively.

A late 1968 tender offer for Pan American Sulphur shares resulted in litigation which was finally settled this March. Additional shares acquired recently give Susquehanna control of more than 50% of Pan Am Sulphur's shares.

The IRS has recently proposed additional tax assessments for years 1955 to 1965 and has questioned $4.8 million of claimed tax-loss carryforward.

While Susquehanna has admittedly a low base from which to recover, the question is how long this process will take. Because many problems still exist, I would not favor holding.

Plough: A High-Grade Growth Issue

Q: For retirement, we are building a portfolio committed primarily to growth stocks. Can you suggest a suitable purchase at this time? — A.F.

A: Plough, Inc., which produces cosmetics, medicines and household products and operates a radio network, appears to fit your objectives. Well-managed with an excellent trade position, PLO has exhibited a genius for stable growth over an extended period. Profits increased at a compounded annual rate of approximately 15% over 1957-1969. Moreover, this medium-sized (1969 sales of only $134 million) producer has achieved this healthy growth at a seemingly effortless pace.

The company has no long-term debt and less than 7 million common shares outstanding. Net sales for 1969 improved 10% while per-share profit, assuming conversion of outstanding preferred stock and after deduction of federal surtaxes, was $2 compared with $1.85 in 1968. Continued gains are expected in 1970.

Normal annual growth of 5%-8% for Coppertone products should be maintained, with strong gains expected for the Di-Gel division. Massive advertising support and an expanded sales force should substantially improve Maybelline sales; and reduction of the surtax should contribute to 1970's profit progress.

Q: I bought Research-Cottrell at a higher price than it is now. Should I hold or sell at current levels? — L.K.

A: Research-Cottrell reported a 47% advance in sales for the first quarter ended January, 1970. Net income rose 7% but, because of a greater number of shares outstanding, per-share results were flat year-to-year at 12 cents. Under current market conditions, high-multiple glamor stocks, such as RC, are extremely vulnerable to profit taking.

With national concern now sharply focused on pollution, competition will increase proportionately. However, Research-Cottrell should maintain its leading industry position as a pure "pollution" company and should benefit more than most from stepped-up research and spending in this field. The longer-term prospects are encouraging. Hold shares.

N.Y. Telephone Changes Sabbath Observer Stand

NEW YORK — The New York Telephone Co. has dropped a long-standing policy of refusing to hire computer programmers who are Sabbath observers, following several months of negotiations with the National Jewish Commission on Law and Public Affairs, Julius Berman, COLPA president, reported.

The test case involved a Brooklyn Jew who applied for examination for such a post and was rejected.

Mr. Berman said the applicant was told specifically that the firm did not hire Sabbath observers for such jobs because their religious requirements could create complications in the company's computer operations.

Seattle University Reinstates Rabbi After Students Protest

SEATTLE, Wash. — The administration of Seattle University, a Jesuit institution, has bowed to student demands, supported by the faculty senate, and agreed to reinstate Rabbi Arthur Jacobovitz as a member of the faculty, to teach one course in Judaica in the next spring term. Previously, the administration had dropped the Jewish theology courses which Dr. Jacobovitz had given there since 1961, on the grounds of economy although the rabbi, who is Hillel Foundation director at the University of Washington, had offered to teach without fee. More than 1,100 students signed the petition urging the rabbi's reappointment.

grant of $1,000 to permit continuation of Rabbi Jacobovitz's two courses in Jewish history and Jewish theology, but the university administration allowed only $500 for one course. The Seattle University student newspaper, the Spectator, reporting the student demands for retention of the Judaica courses, said that "there has been hardly an issue in recent times which has aroused so unanimous an expression of student and faculty feelings as the call for rehiring of Rabbi Jacobovitz." Rabbi Jacobovitz began teaching this term at St. Thomas the Apostle Major Seminary, where men are educated for the Catholic priesthood. With two priests, he is presenting a seminar there on "Judaism and Job in the 20th Century."

Israel Supreme Court Rules Against TV Ban

JERUSALEM — The Supreme Court told an Orthodox Jew in effect that he was free not to view television on Friday night and had no grounds to ban viewing by others. The court rejected one of two orders calling on the Broadcasting Authority to show cause why Sabbath television should not be abolished. The second order, filed by three Orthodox members of the Broadcasting Authority, is pending before the Court. A five judge panel ruled that an order filed by an Orthodox young man from Tel Aviv had no standing because his privacy was not being invaded. The Court said he could refrain from turning on his set. It also said that the applicant failed to prove his contention that he might have been employed in television if he had not been religious.

dedication" at the Annual Oneg Shabbat which will be held in celebration of Israel's Independence Day, on Friday, May 8, at 8:15 p.m. at Temple Beth El.

Pioneer Women work with their sister organization in Israel, the Moetzet Hapaoalot, which supports extensive social service programs for women in Israel. They sponsor, in Israel, a network of vocational training centers for women who are newcomers to the country and must develop necessary skills to obtain employment. Also under the sponsorship of Pioneer Women is a network of day care centers which allows women with small children to work.

In 1920 a small group of eight or nine women in New York started the organization to help establish a well in Israel. In Providence seven women started the group in October of 1925. Mrs. Segal says that when she joined in 1937, she was particularly influenced by three women who were active in the organization — the late Sarah Boyman, Lisa Beck and Anna Phillips.

In Providence now there are three groups: Club I which is made up of the older members of Pioneer Women, and the Shalom and Dvora Dayan clubs which were formed by younger women. There is also the Pioneer Women's Council which coordinates the activities of the three groups when necessary. Mrs. Segal has been president of Club I, a national board member and Council chairman, and now works as coordinator of the three clubs.

In the earlier years, Mrs. Segal says, the principal effort of the Pioneer group was in preparing women for farm and agricultural work in Israel. The emphasis has shifted now to industrial and technological skills. They now help maintain two agricultural schools, two schools with VIZO, and in Petah Tikvah they have a horticultural school. They also maintain community centers in Jerusalem and various trade schools where women can learn such things as home economics, sewing, beauty culture, and how to become waitresses. And, of course, they maintain the day care centers for working mothers, as well as five institutions for children from broken homes. They also work among the Arab women, teaching them not only Hebrew and home economics, but the principles of equality with men.

This progressive and liberal organization, which now has approximately 600,000 members, operates in 13 countries, with Israel and the United States containing the largest number of workers.

The members of the three Providence clubs (there are about 500) have a variety of interests. They, of course, raise money for the work of the Moetzet Hapaoalot in Israel; they conduct educational programs, including news reviews concerning the United States and Israel, and they participate in communal life.

The more than half million dollars which is now collected annually in the United States goes to Israel. Mrs. Segal still remembers the time when in order to raise money, there were women who washed curtains and baked challah.

Mrs. Segal, a calm, pleasant, motherly woman, continues, as she has for many years, with her interests: her family, the community and education. All seem equally important to her and she works as hard as for all. May she continue for many more years.

ORGANIZATION NEWS

TO INSTALL OFFICERS

The officers of Hope Link #46, Order of the Golden Chain, will be installed at a meeting to be held on Saturday evening, May 9, at 127 Dorrance Street.

Officers are Paye Schachter, worthy matron-elect; Myer Slinger, worthy patron-elect; Rose Slinger, associate matron-elect, and Carl Passman, associate patron-elect.

"SHOW AND TELL"

More than 18,000 Girls Scouts in Rhode Island are planning a "Show and Tell" Jamboree celebrating 50 years of Girl Scouting in Rhode Island. This will be held at Narragansett Park in Pawtucket on Sunday, May 24, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The 47 neighborhoods which comprise the seven districts, ranging from Bellingham, Mass., to Pawcatuck, Conn., are preparing the Golden Jubilee. There will be 47 booths on the first floor depicting every aspect of scouting. There will also be puppet shows and a mini theatre as well as demonstrations of cookery, dances and on stage performances.

PLAN SERVICE GROUP

A FISH group will be started in Providence on June 1. This is a group which offers a free 24-hour, 7-day-a-week emergency service which can be reached by telephone.

FISH services include transportation to hospitals or clinics, emergency babysitting, providing a meal where someone is too ill to prepare it or hasn't for some reason funds to provide it for their family, overnight accommodation, and translating in Portuguese and Yiddish.

The first FISH chapter was formed by an Anglican Church in Oxford, England. It has now become interdenominational and world wide.

On the East Side of Providence volunteers will be recognized by the symbol of a Fish interwoven with the Star of David. The boundary lines are North and South Main Street on the west, the Seekonk River on the east, Pawtucket line on the north and the Seekonk River on the south.

A steering committee, made up of 15 people from the East Side, presently act as board of directors, but at present more volunteers are needed. Further information may be obtained by writing to FISH, Inc., P.O. Box 6491, Providence, R.I. 02904.

Council Of Jewish Women Plan Annual Installation

The Annual Installation meeting of the Providence Section, National Council of Jewish Women will be held on Wednesday, May 13, at 12:15 p.m. at the Ramada Inn in Seekonk, Mass. The Chatterlocks of Pembroke College will entertain.

Mrs. Maurice Shore will be installed as president by Mrs. Morris Goldman, a National Board member and a member of the executive committee.

Other officers to be installed include Mesdames Elliot Goodman, vice president, administration; Herman Gross, vice president, community service; Irving Leven, vice-president, education; Bruno Hoffman, vice-president, ways and means; Irving Goldfarb, treasurer; Claire Limer, financial secretary; Jerome Corwin, recording, secretary; Jason Segel, corresponding secretary; Cyril Berkelhammer and Max Silverman, mailing secretaries.

Elected directors with terms expiring in 1972 are Mesdames Irving Baker, Alan Fine, Louis Nass and Reuben Pollack.

Directors whose terms expire in 1971 are Mesdames Richard Loebenberg, Daniel Miller, Berenice Rothschild and Samuel Yolin.

Honorary board members are Mesdames Bertram Bernhardt, A.G. Blotcher, Pierre Brunschwig, Bernard Carp and Samuel Markoff.

Mrs. Maurice Shore

Members of the nominating committee are Mesdames Herbert Brown, chairman; Cyril Berkelhammer, Martin Dittelman, Eugene Nelson, Howard Presel, Erwin Strasmich and Marvyn Woronov.

The Woman of the Year Award will be presented at this meeting. Mrs. Harry Schlossberg is chairman of the day. Mrs. Herbert Brown is in charge of reservations and Mrs. Reuben Pollock is preparing the decorations. Mrs. Pollack and Mrs. Schlossberg are also in charge of transportation.

Poll Shows More Women Than Men In American Jewish Population

PRINCETON — There are 52 American Jewish women to every 48 American Jewish men, with most of them 50 years old or over and most U.S. Jews are college educated Eastern businessmen and professionals making more than 7,000 dollars a year, according to Gallup Poll data based on surveys made in 1967 and 1968.

The poll found that 44 percent of US Jews attended college, 51 percent are businessmen and professionals, followed by white collar workers, 18 percent; "Non Laborers," 17 percent, and manual laborers, 14 percent. 84 percent are Easterners, with only 7.6 and 3 percent, respectively, in the West, Midwest and South. But 54 percent of the college educated Jews are Southerners.

The 50 and over age group claims 44 percent of the national total, with but 19 percent in their 20's. 64 percent are Democrats, 19 percent Republicans, 24 percent Independents and 3 percent "other."

Overall, Jews were found to comprise 3 percent of the national population, with 1 percent of them non white.

TO STAR IN "MAME": Patrice Munsel, Metropolitan opera singer and TV and musical comedy star, will appear in the title role of the Broadway Theatre League presentation of the Broadway musical, "Mame," which will open on Thursday, May 14 at the Veterans Memorial Auditorium. It will play for four performances, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, May 14, 15 and 16, and for a Saturday matinee on May 16. Stephen Gustafson will be seen as the ten-year-old nephew Patrick, and Robert Lunny will portray Patrick when he is older. Sam Kresen has the role of the snobbish trustee of Patrick's fortune, and Brian Moore if the genial southerner who marries Mame. Sandy Spring will appear as Mame's actress-friend, and Donna Curtis as her housekeeper, secretary and general factotum. Hazel Steck and Ed Fuller will appear as the banal, bigoted Upsons. John Bowab will direct and Diana Biaffa is choreographer.

HEALTHFUL CLIMATE SAFED — Prices for dwellings in Safed have risen, due to an increasing demand by elderly citizens wanting to make their homes in this ancient town. They believe that Safed promotes longevity because of its unusually healthful climate.

Cites Jewish Parents' Problems In Combatting Communication Gap

WINNIPEG — Jewish parents are having special difficulties in seeking to deal with parent-child conflicts and communication gaps, an Ontario provincial official told the annual meeting of the Jewish Welfare Fund of Winnipeg.

Allan Grossman, Ontario Minister of Correctional Services, said this was so because historically the home has been the social and geographical focal point of the Jewish child's life. In this jet age, however, he added, youngsters spend far less time in the home "under the watchful eye of their parents," who must "compete with a fantastic number of outside influences."

He asserted also that if the family unit was to survive "in today's chaotic and fluctuating environment, parents must make a greater effort to keep abreast of the times, moving earlier in their children's lives to establish the kind of trust and rapport and understanding that will prevent
