

ident Sadat Takes Over remier Of Egypt

— President Anwar announced Monday that he was taking over the post of premier in addition to the duties of leading Egypt through a period of military pressure against Israel and diplomatic activity aimed at a negotiated settlement.

He sharply criticized the United States for planning to send more F-4 Phantom fighter-bombers and A-4 Skyhawk light attack planes to Israel and thus creating an "extreme danger" of a military explosion in the Middle East, and he said that Egyptian relations with the Soviet Union had once again been but on a solid, satisfying basis.

The President made his announcement and policy statement in a private joint meeting of the People's Assembly, or Parliament, and the Central Committee of the Arab Socialist Union, the country's only political party. His two and a half hour address was rebroadcast to the nation on radio and television in the evening.

Premier Aziz Sidky had announced his resignation at a Cabinet meeting last week after 14 months in office.

New Secretary General

The only personnel change announced by President Sadat Monday was that Dr. Hafez Ghanem, a former Minister of Education, would become Secretary General of the Arab Socialist Union, replacing Sayed Marei.

Diplomats expect that the composition of a new cabinet, especially the choice of vice premiers responsible for several ministries and working directly under Mr. Sadat, will give a more precise indication of the direction in which the President intends to move.

The theme of Mr. Sadat's address was that Egypt must conduct a dual policy — military pressure on Israel and continued efforts aimed at a political settlement.

He said that European governments, which he did not identify, had told Egyptian officials that if Egypt wanted to be understood by the rest of the world and make her policy credible she would have to act on the military and the political levels.

The President said: "The stage of total confrontation has become inevitable and we are entering it whether we like it or not. The military situation must be made to move, with all the sacrifices that this entails. The military build-up must be completed so that the armed forces can carry out their mission with everything we possess. At the same time our diplomatic effort must be completed. This can be done before, during and after battle."

Mr. Sadat, as in the past, rejected territorial concessions. He also rejected the idea of direct negotiations with Israel, and said that Cairo would accept neither a "partial settlement" that was not linked to eventual full withdrawal by Israel from territory occupied in the 1967 war nor a "separate settlement" in which the interests of the Palestinian resistance and of Israel's other Arab neighbors would be sacrificed.

President Sadat stated that Egypt would insist on complete sovereignty over all her territory under Israeli occupation, thus rejecting a suggestion periodically raised in Western diplomatic circles that Egypt should grant Israel temporary rights, perhaps in the form of a lease, in such strategic areas as Sharm el Sheikh.

President Sadat clearly expressed a newly growing exasperation with the United States and made a point of depicting his relations with the Soviet Union as friendly and normal. Last summer he expelled 20,000 Soviet military men.

Labor Party Names Katchalski As Israeli Presidential Choice

TEL AVIV — Ephraim Katchalski, one of Israel's best-known scientists, was nominated by the Labor party last week as its candidate to become Israel's fourth President. The nomination by the ruling Labor party is tantamount to election.

Dr. Katchalski won the nomination by a 58-vote margin within the Labor party's 650-member Central Committee. His victory came after a bitter struggle that reflected the division between the two factions of the party led by Premier Golda Meir and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan. Mrs. Meir's faction prevailed but the margin was much thinner than many had predicted.

The Israeli presidency is a largely ceremonial office, similar in many ways to that of the sovereign in a constitutional monarchy. In addition to accepting the credentials of foreign ambassadors and signing treaties and laws, the president summons a member of Parliament to form a new government after elections.

Allow 44 To Leave USSR Without Tax

MOSCOW — An additional 35 Jews residing in Moscow have received permission to emigrate without paying the emigration tax. This brought to 44 the number of such waivers the Soviet Government has granted in two days, a Jewish source said.

Although there was no official explanation for the exemptions, the visa office told Jews there that an exception had been made in their cases, the source added. There was no indication that the tax had been altered or rescinded.

The exemptions began five days after the departure of the United States Secretary of the Treasury, George P. Shultz, and there was speculation that they had resulted from his talks with the Communist party chief, Leonid I. Brezhnev.

The tax was imposed last August to reimburse the state for the expenses of free higher education. Fees up to the equivalent of $30,000 are required to emigrate.

The tax unleashed controversy abroad and has become a stumbling block to increased Soviet-American trade. A majority of both houses of the United States Congress have said they will oppose granting most-favored-nation trade status unless the tax is abolished.

Until End Of Restrictions

Sen. Jackson To Continue To Press For Legislation To Bar Trade Concessions

WASHINGTON — Senator Henry M. Jackson said last week that despite "some encouraging signs" from Moscow, he would press forward with his legislation to bar trade concessions to the Soviet Union so long as emigration of Jews and others was restricted.

In a speech to the National Press Club, Mr. Jackson, Democrat of Washington, said his proposed amendment — backed by three-fourths of the Senate — would insure that Moscow did not "relapse into the old patterns" and again limit emigration by harassment and taxation.

Noting that the Russians had begun in recent days to let some Jews emigrate without paying a stiff tax based on educational levels, Mr. Jackson said that "it is my great hope that by the time our amendment is enacted into law — and we intend to see that it is — the practice in the Soviet Union will be such as to permit the President without hesitation to make the statutory report of compliance."

Under Mr. Jackson's amendment, and an identical one offered in the House by Representative Wilbur D. Mills, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, the Soviet Union would be barred from receiving either tariff concessions, known as most-favored-nation treatment or Government-backed credits so long as emigration was restricted or more than "nominal taxes" imposed.

Plans To Be Pressed

The Administration stressed again that it intended to press for the granting of most-favored-nation treatment for the Soviet Union as part of the obligation incurred last year.

In a report made public by the White House, the Council on International Economic Policy, said that "we must strengthen our ability to expand our own trade with the Communist countries."

It said that "an impediment" to trade that could be removed was the higher level of import duties on goods from Communist countries, such as the Soviet Union — that did not receive most-favored-nation treatment.

Apparently in an effort to counter the Jackson Amendment, the report also said that "most free-world countries, including Israel, already grant most-favored-nation status to Communist countries."

This assertion was immediately challenged by a member of Senator Jackson's staff who said Israel had had no trade with the Soviet Union since 1956. Israel has diplomatic relations and regular trade only with Rumania of the Communist states.

Notes Report from Moscow

Referring to some of the reports from Moscow, Mr. Jackson said in his speech: "I have heard it said that the Soviets are going to keep the ransom tax on the statute books but they won't apply it in practice."

"I say that we are going to put the Jackson amendment on the statute books, but in the hope that it won't apply to the Soviet Union because they will be in compliance with the free emigration provision."

"I'm not against trade with the Soviet Union," he said. "Long before the President went to Moscow, I was one of a handful of Senators who sponsored the East-West trade relations act to promote trade with the Soviet Union. But I believe that we ought to use our vast economic power to help bring freedom and dignity to thousands of individuals who have been willing to stand up and fight for their right to leave Russia. I am proud that America is fighting to help them obtain their freedom."

Israeli Arab, Jew Sentenced To 17 Years For Treason

TEL AVIV — An Israeli Arab and a Jew who were key figures in a Syrian-sponsored spy and sabotage ring were sentenced to 17 years imprisonment for treason by the Haifa district court this week.

The court said it did not impose heavier sentences because of the records of the two men — Daoud Turki, 45, described as the initiator and head of the ring, and of Ehud Adiv, a former paratrooper who was leader of the Jewish faction. They could have received 20 years imprisonment.

The two prisoners also received shorter sentences for other charges, but all the sentences will run concurrently.

The trial marked the first time in Israel's 25-year history that Israeli Jews had been accused and tried for banding together out of ideological motives to aid an Arab country.

Fifteen-year prison terms were imposed on Subhi Naarani, 28, and Anis Karawi, 23, both Arabs, who were said to have played lesser roles in the ring — but who had prison records for previous security offenses.

A second Jewish prisoner, Dan Vered, a 28-year-old mathematics teacher, was jailed for 10 years. His role had been limited and he had no previous record.

A two-year sentence was imposed on Simon Haddad, a 34-year-old Arab who had been involved in the ring for one month and who had pleaded guilty early in the trial.

After hearing the sentences all the prisoners except for Haddad sang the "International," the anthem of world Socialism.

Before imposing the sentences, the presiding judge, Emanuel Slonim, said that the court had taken into account the prisoners' actions, not the political views.

ORGANIZATION NEWS

TO SHOW ART

Marilyn Bilker, a Rhode Island College freshman of 40 Sargent Avenue will hold an art exhibit at the Jewish Community Center opening on Sunday, April 1.

In conjunction with the opening of the exhibition, Dr. P. William Hutchinson, managing director of the RIC Theatre Company, and Norman Ranone, a professional and RIC alumnus, will perform selections from RIC's "Contemporary Reading Hour," beginning at 3 p.m.

The exhibit will be on display through April 13.

Mrs. Bilker attended the Cooper Union School of Art where she pursued a career as a self taught textile designer. She received an award at the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art.

OPEN HOUSE

Parents of children in the Cranston and Warwick areas have been invited to an Open House meeting at the Jewish Community Center on Sunday, April 1, from 2 to 4:30 p.m.

Since February of this year the Center has been operating a special Road-Runner program for children in this area, providing bus transportation service to and from the Center on Wednesday evenings and Sunday afternoons. Nearly 200 area children have been involved in this program which will conclude at the end of April.

Sunday's meeting will give the parents who attend an opportunity to see the program in action and to discuss with Center leaders the terms upon which services to area residents will be continued.

Parents who would like to take advantage of the Center's transportation on Sunday may use the Center buses providing they call the Center in advance and inform them.

TRAINING PROGRAM

The Jewish Community Center is conducting a Babysitters' Training program for boys and girls in grades 7 to 9 on Tuesday evenings at 7 o'clock.

IN-SET LOUNGE

The In-Set, the Jewish Community Center's single young adult organization for those aged 21-35, will conduct a Drop-In Lounge program at the Center on Sunday, April 1, at 7:30 p.m.

The program will include table games, refreshments and informal hospitality. Admission will be free to Center members.

The first of its Film Festival program, a series of five full length feature films, will be presented on Sunday, April 8. The opening film will be Edgar Allan Poe's Tales of Terror, starring Vincent Price and Peter Lorre.

A recent revision of Center membership fees makes it possible for young adults to enroll as young adult club members, participating only in In-Set activities, at a reduced Center membership fee.

ART CLUB TO MEET

The East Greenwich Art Club will meet on Tuesday, April 3, at 8 p.m. in the Old Colony Bank on Main Street in East Greenwich.

Athelina Hubbard Latham, who is known for her personality pencil sketches, will present the program. A Providence native, she was graduated from the Rhode Island School of Design, Columbia University, Brown University and the Chicago Teacher's College. She taught in the Chicago school system for 13 years.

TO PERFORM

Gerald Cooper and Penny Reichhardt of Toll-Gate High School in Warwick will perform as soloists with the Toll-Gate High chorus at the Veterans Hospital at Davis Park on Thursday, April 5 at 7 p.m.

Your Money's Worth

By Sylvia Porter

Tax-Exempt Bonds

My husband and I have started to build up a portfolio of highest-grade tax-exempt bonds. The interest the bonds will pay us is, we think, sufficient to more than cover any foreseeable rise in the cost of living. We also own stocks of sound, growing corporations which should over the years increase in value to more than offset the decline in the dollar's purchasing power. We are mature enough to be seeking balance and diversification in our investments plus a comfortable degree of safety.

Of course, we can anticipate nothing in the way of capital gains. These are fixed-income obligations and our principal could, in fact, be seriously eroded if interest rates climb much higher. But we are not looking for appreciation on this part of our nestegg. We are not planning to trade in and out of the bonds. We are seeking income — tax-exempt so we know that what we get is ours to keep.

I report this personal financial tale as a way of introducing you to the startling fact that individual investors now own one-third of all tax-exempt bonds outstanding. And the prime reason we have joined these investors is that interest on these obligations is exempt from federal income tax — and, if you are a resident of the issuing locality, often from state and local taxes as well. The second reason is that, if you go first class and buy only top-rated issues (which is all we would ever buy), you also have a major degree of safety.

Even if you're only in the 30 per cent income tax bracket, (including state and local taxes), a tax-free 5 per cent bond equals 7.14 per cent in taxable interest; 6 per cent equals 8.57 per cent in taxable interest; 8½ per cent equals 9.29 per cent and 7 per cent is equal to a taxable rate of 10 per cent.

Or say you're in the 60 per cent bracket. Then 5 per cent tax-free equals 12½ per cent taxable; 6 per cent equals 15 per cent taxable; 6½ per cent equals 16¼ per cent taxable; and 7 per cent equals 17½ per cent.

Obviously, the tax advantages are eye-popping for the wealthy, but they can benefit you to a worthwhile extent in the lower tax brackets as well. (In the 20 per cent income tax bracket, including federal, state and local income taxes, 5 per cent equals 6¼ per cent, 6 per cent equals 7½ per cent and 7 per cent tax-free equals 8¾ per cent taxable.)

You probably notice that I'm not going above 7 per cent as an interest rate, although you can get far higher returns, tax-free, on low-quality municipal bonds. But going second-class in the municipal market can be dangerous and I'm not playing — particularly since you can buy top-rated tax-free obligations at what now seem adequate rates.

Interest rates on municipal obligations are set both by the general level of interest rates and the credit rating of the issuer — and that is determined by the rating services. Triple A (AAA) is the best. Most responsible experts would argue that, if you wish to avoid any risks of default, don't go below the ratings of A.

Most municipal bonds are in denominations of $1,000 and up — although the $5,000 denomination is highly popular.

Writes Of Need To Throw Out Any Leaven Before Passover

Dear Friends:

We come to you early enough in the year so that you can make provision to put into effect the following laws regarding the forthcoming Passover Holiday.

According to Jewish Law the possession of leavened bread (chametz) during the holiday of Pesach involves the transgression of one(1) positive commandment and four(4) prohibitory ones. The positive injunction reads "On the first day you shall put away leaven out of your houses," (Exodus 12,15) and the negatives are contained in the following verses of the Torah: "Seven days no leaven shall be found in your houses," "Nothing that is leavened shall ye eat," "No leavened bread shall be eaten," "There shall not be seen with Thee any leaven bread," (Exodus 12,19; 12,20; 13,3; 13,7).

In order to avoid the violation of the aforementioned laws, the Jew who owns chametz would have to rid himself of it completely by burning it before the designated time on Erev Pesach. However, in order to alleviate hardship and difficulties arising from the burning of chametz the sages have instituted the rule of "mechiras chametz" the sale of the leavened bread to a non-Jew. Chametz that is neither burned or sold (legally) before Pesach May Not Be Used after the Holiday.

May we, therefore, urge you to comply with our laws of disowning the chametz on Passover by doing the following:

- 1) Sell your chametz on time.
- 2) Refrain from exercising any ownership over your chametz during the holiday of Pesach.

We are sure that you will give us your full cooperation in this sacred matter.

Respectfully yours,
Rabbi Emanuel Lazar

FROM FRIDAY TO FRIDAY

An Oleh In Israel

By BERYL SEGAL

In honor of Israel's twenty-fifth anniversary let us see what Israel does for her children who come to her from the four corners of the earth.

There are two terms in Hebrew for migration. These terms are characteristic to Hebrew and pertain to Immigration and Emigration to and from the land of Israel.

When a person decides to come to Israel he is referred to as an Oleh if he is a male, and an Oleah if the person is a female. If on the other hand the person is leaving the Land of Israel he is called a Yored, or a Yorda depending on whether it is a male or a female who is going out of the country.

This is because Israel is a mountainous land and one must either go up to it or down from it.

But there is also a spiritual aspect to the two terms. An Immigrant to Israel is an Oleh, one who ascends. An Emigrant from Israel is a Yored, one who descends. People ascend when they go up to Israel, to a life of holiness, of spirituality. They descend when they go out of Israel, seeking material goods, comfortable living and things of the flesh.

And so the immigrant is called an Oleh and together they are referred to as Olim. They are granted all the rights of citizenship as soon as they arrive in Israel either by ocean ship or by air ship.

We will follow one such family of Olim from the moment the family is met at the port of entry to the time when that family is on its own in the land.

The family is taken to an Absorption Center, or to a Mercaz Klita. There the Olim are given a place to live in, food to sustain them, and education to prepare them for jobs in the new land.

Most of the Olim do not know the Aleph Bet. They have to start from scratch, a most difficult task for adults. But with all the burdens of finding food and shelter taken over by the Mercaz Klita the Olim are free to devote all their time to learning the language and the land quickly.

To do this Israel has developed a method of teaching and retraining to fit the needs of every Oleh. This is done in the ULPAN, an Educational Center. When an Oleh family has school and preschool children, they are sent to classes of their own, so that parents and children learn at the same time.

There is no unemployment in Israel except for those who do not know the language. And so the doctor, the engineer, the lawyer and the mechanic learn Hebrew. The pace with which they acquire the new tongue is phenomenal. They study five hours a day, six days a week, for five to six months. The worries of rent and food and clothing do not weigh on their minds. The housekeeping chores are taken away from them as long as they live in the Absorption Center. The little children are cared for in the day-care centers. Even entertainment is provided for them.

What is the secret of the success of Ulpán teaching?

First and foremost is the dictum: Nothing but Hebrew. Hebrew is the language which will unite every Oleh with the life of the land. The Olim have no other common language. They are Russian speaking, English speaking and French speaking. And certainly the Olim from India, from Morocco and from the Arab speaking countries have no language in common.

Another element in their success is the individual instruction. The beginner's class may consist of twenty or thirty Olim. But as soon as the elementary or introductory lessons are completed the instruction becomes specialized. Doctors learn the terminology of their trade, and so do lawyers and engineers and teachers. They are instructed in smaller groups and their progress is spectacular. The same is true when some Olim show greater aptitude for language. They are detached from their group and put in special classes.

But the greatest assets are the Olim themselves. They are motivated. They are determined. They are anxious to go out into the world and practice their skills. There is a purpose in their learning, and purpose, as every teacher knows, is the best of motives.

And so the Ulpán attains its goal to teach Hebrew.

But while the Ulpán refuses to accept any answer in any other language than Hebrew, the Absorption Center management does speak in many languages. Besides the director of the center there are translators of as many languages as there are Olim groups: Russian, French, or Arabic.

At meetings of the Absorption Center the Olim air their gripes as is the way with groups the world over, wherever people are free to speak their minds. That they do in their own language and it is translated in Hebrew.

By the end of the allotted time the Olim are ready for becoming part of the community. The Absorption Center helps them contact places where they can get employment. They find homes for the families, and put the Immigrants in touch with Kupat Cholim, clinics where they receive free medical treatment.

The immigrant is an OLEH no more. He has acquired enough language skill to apply to the trade or profession for which he was trained. The Oleh is no longer an Immigrant. He can converse in Hebrew when he applies for a job. True, the Oleh cannot read the poetry of Bialik, the novels of Agnon or the philosophical works of Martin Buber. But if he is interested, he can find in Israel enough schools and museums and libraries to fulfill the spiritual needs of everyone.

The Lyons Den

NEW YORK: The Soviet government has asked Olga Korbut, the 17-year-old Olympic Gold Medal winning gymnast, to attend the New York Coliseum's International Automobile Show April 7. A trampoline will be installed in the Lada, the Russian car on exhibit, on which she will perform.

Linda Tuero, the tennis star — who was among the players in the $30,000 Lady Gotham Classic Tennis Tournament at the Felt Forum March 28 — was discussing her interest in parapsychology. "I became fascinated with the subject when I met William Peter Blatty, who wrote The Exorcist," she said. "We often spend hours discussing psychic phenomena. My interest even led to a second career — I've got a small role in The Exorcist film — playing tennis, of course."

Bill Benton, the former diplomat, Senator from Connecticut and advertising man, also published the Encyclopedia Britannica, in which he once ordered a revision of its treatment of "Adolescence." "We ought to put adolescents into a deep freeze, and let them out when they're 21," he said later ... When Benton, who died last week, was Assistant Secretary of State, he went to Paris for a UNESCO conference. His Russian chauffeur spoke many languages, including French.

Benton, wanting to show that he, too, spoke French, gave the driver a cigarette, saying: "M'sieur — your pous."

Lecturing at Yale his alma mater, Benton said: "Glamor isn't required in politics." When a student said FDR disproved this, Benton disagreed: "If FDR didn't have that Harvard accent and hadn't been so glamorous, he would've received far more votes ... Benton preferred being called "Senator," not "Ambassador." "Diplomats are a dime a dozen," he explained ... The spring issue of World Magazine carried an article by my wife, about her favorite health spa, Montecatini, in Italy.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY: Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Marks of Miami Beach, Florida, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Saturday, March 24, at a reception and dinner held at the Lucerne Hotel in Miami Beach. Mr. Marks was born in Providence and he and his wife, Anna, who were married in the Hebrew Institute on Benefit Street, on March 25, 1923, moved to New York in 1925 where they lived until his retirement in 1969 when they moved to Miami Beach.

Israel May Banish Some Missionaries

JERUSALEM — Israel may take steps to banish Christian missionaries from the Holy Land for trying, sometimes successfully, to lure Israelis away from Judaism, a government official has disclosed.

According to groups backing a proposal to oust the missionaries, 5,000 to 6,000 Israelis a year since the Six-Day War have been converted to Christianity by missionaries.

The government official said Golda Meir's cabinet will discuss the status of missionaries, including their possible banishment.

An Interior Ministry spokesman said about 10 of the some 1,000 missionaries in Israel were expelled last year while others left "after we gave them hints that they are not welcome."

Last week, there were three attacks against missionaries — arson attempts against the Mount of Olives Bible Center and the Mount Zion Press, plus an explosion at the home of the local leader of "Jews for Jesus."

A woman leader, Shira Lindsay, formerly of Dallas, denied trying to convert Israelis. She said she and her group are "Just Jews who found Jesus and the teachings of the gospel and have come to Israel because of this belief."

In honor of Passover.

The general approach Declarers take to playing a hand is called Technique. True, faulty technique might, at times, lead to the making of more tricks than an expert might make playing the hand more correctly because the cards happen to be exactly in the right place at which time they come up "Smelling like a rose," as the saying goes. Today's hand is very interesting for I watched as almost everyone did make the hand even though they did not play it exactly the way it might have been played. Unfortunately for those who went down, they probably played the hand more correctly percentage-wise than the ones who made it. The hand depends on catching the Trump Queen with four cards out against you. Those who adhere to an old saying, never really true, "Eight ever, nine never," meaning that one finesses for that Queen with five out but not with only four. The Queen did drop but it doesn't always and in fact there are many ways to find more about possible distribution before tackling such a problem.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Perlow were North and South, East-West vulnerable, East Dealer with this bidding:

 4♥ End

The bidding was automatic for any West who likes to sacrifice with good six card suits would be deterred by the unfavorable vulnerability. As you can see, all they would take if they played the hand in Diamonds would be their six Trump tricks, not too good down five! Their best bet would be to try to set four Hearts and they all began by leading three rounds of Diamonds, South ruffing the third. I watched as most Declarers went right after the Trumps for the success of the hand did depend entirely on not losing to the Trump Queen. They had already lost two tricks and there was a sure third loser in Clubs.

At trick four all but our Declarer led Trumps and almost every one of them played the Ace and King despite the fact that West had already shown up with six Diamonds and East only two. This should mean that Trumps are not likely to break evenly for even under normal circumstances a 3-1 break is more likely than a 2-2.

Building Housing Congregation Of Homosexuals Burns In LA

LOS ANGELES — A Los Angeles church housing both a Protestant and a Jewish homosexual congregation has been destroyed by a major fire "of suspicious origin."

The fire, which the police are investigating, has focused attention on the Jewish group and disclosed additional details on it. It calls itself alternately the Metropolitan Community Temple and Beth Chayim Chadashim (House of New Life).

Formed last April by four Jewish men, Beth Chayim Chadashim now has 60 members and welcomed 175 homosexual men and

This hand is already known to be far from normal. As it happens to be, the Queen is doubleton with West and falls on the second round so poor technique is not punished here, in fact the few who based their Trump play on their knowledge of percentages and also took into consideration the fall of the Diamonds, played the Trump Ace first and then finessed on the second round, losing to West's Queen and thus going down. What should they have done?

Good Declarers postpone making vital plays if they can in order to gain more information that might make their plan of attack different. The correct approach is before tackling Trumps three rounds of Spades should be played. Is there danger in that the second might be ruffed? A little but not much for that means that East has seven not likely and if West were to ruff the third North can overruff and that would get rid of an outstanding Trump. A discard on that third Spade is useless. One Club discard isn't enough. Both opponents follow on the three Spades. Actually, before playing any Spades at all the Club King should be cashed and noted that all followed.

Now comes another seeming risk, after the third round of Spades lead a small Club to Dummy. If West ruffs he will ruff your loser with a Trump costing you nothing but getting rid of one of those four Trumps but West follows and now you know eleven of his cards, six Diamonds, three Spades and at least two Clubs. Now you can make the hand if you play the top two Trumps and drop the Queen which, as you can see, will fall. Fine, but suppose the third Trump is with East as it still can be. It again can cost nothing to finesse for that Trump Queen. If it is with East the finesse will work after playing North's Ace first. If the finesse does lose, as it does, do you go down because you "misguessed" those Trumps? Not at all for that will be West's thirteenth card. He will have nothing to return but a Diamond which will provide a sluff and a ruff allowing you to discard the losing Club in one hand while ruffing in the other. If you counted the cards and took note of them while doing so you could see that it would be 100% correct to take the Trump finesse at this time for West has one unknown card. If you play for the drop and that card is not the Trump Queen down you will go when the hand should always make. Granted not many play hands this way but really it is the right way to approach the hand.

Moral: Although there is such a thing as Card Sense and it truly is innate, much of it also comes under the heading of technique and good technique can be learned but it takes lots of hard work.

women for High Holy Day services last autumn.

The congregation, which follows the Reform ritual and is believed to be the first of its kind, has enjoyed the support of two organizations. One is the Metropolitan Community Church, founded four years ago as a place of worship for Protestant homosexuals, which now has congregations in 40 U.S. cities and a national membership of 15,000.

The second major source of support has been the regional office of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations (Reform), through its director Rabbi Erwin Herman.

TO SPEAK: Abraham Carmel, author, lecturer and educator, will be the guest speaker at Temple Beth Israel on Sunday, April 8, at 8 p.m.

Mr. Carmel, the first ordained Catholic priest to convert to Judaism since the ninth century, lectures throughout America and Canada, and is presently on the faculty of the Yeshiva of Flatbush, New York. He has lived and taught in Israel, and hopes eventually to settle in Jerusalem.

The lecture is sponsored by the Anna and Ira Galkin Cultural Fund. Mrs. Leonard Sholes is chairman for the evening. The public is invited to attend.

News of the Sports World by Warren Walden

THEY WERE GREAT! The Friars! Congratulations to them! They were valiant! They were tremendous! They aimed high and you'll have to go all the way back to 1916 when the Brown University team played football in the Rose Bowl if you're looking for something that comes near the accomplishment of the Providence College Basketball team of 1972-73! Ah, talk about spreading the fame of Providence and Rhode Island as a vacation center, as a place with a brand-new Civic Center — the Friars focused the eyes of the Nation on our little corner of the earth. National telecasts and national newspaper stories were theirs. And they went to within a few successful shots at the basket in their efforts toward the National Championship. Coach Dave Gavitt and the players and the entire athletic department can hold their heads up high!

ON THE THRESHOLD: And now moving to front and center on the stage are the hockey playoffs and baseball. Syd Feldstein says, "I get more relaxing sports entertainment watching baseball but I also enjoy basketball and hockey." Leo Landesberg remarked, "Be careful of what you say because you may be reading about it in one of those famous columns." And John Minihan, who is friendly with the Frisch family that included the "Fordham Flash," started asking baseball questions. "Who played third base for the Giants when Frisch was playing second base?" questioned Minihan. And he was delighted when the answer was provided. "It was Heinie Groh of the famed 'bottlebat'." Not to be stopped with a question answered about the N.Y. Giants, Minihan offered another concerning the N.Y. Yankees of the same era. "Who was the center fielder who played between Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel?" questioned John. The answer forthcoming was, "Whitey Witt." "Correct," responded Mr. Minihan and then he continued, "I have another question that I think I'll tell rather than ask." The question concerned Whitey Witt again. "What did Witt request from Manager Miller Huggins instead of a raise in pay?" asked Minihan before telling the answer. "Well," said John, "Witt was so tired running back and forth and out into the deep center field territory, he asked Huggins for a bicycle!"

THEY ALSO SERVE: Think of the hundreds who serve behind the sports scene and are never mentioned in the headlines! Miss Florence Donovan is one. She has been a part of the R.I. Reds hockey operation for....? I will not reveal how long, Florence. I will say that Miss Donovan was a young girl when she joined the hockey-club staff. And she is still exuberant with youth. The years haven't caught up with Florence and they have a long way to go. "Tickets for the R.I. Reds Playoff games are on sale at the Civic Arena," Miss Donovan stated in her characteristic pleasing manner. Florence has been smiling and presenting a cordial, pleasant, hospitable greeting for the R.I. Reds in a consistent manner year after year. That's valuable for the whole operation. There just aren't enough like Miss Donovan in the world.

OTHER THINGS: Two men, who used their hands gesticulating while talking, went into the water when an ocean liner sank but didn't drown. Suddenly they looked up and found themselves near shore. Without thinking they had kept themselves afloat while talking. What's the point? Well, turn off the sound during any of those late TV talk shows and watch the hands waving and scratching. Such articulation! Such resourceful repertoires where explanatory vocabularies are needed! Two good ones who don't? — Jack Benny and Lowell Thomas. In reverse, maybe baseball pitchers should tell about throwing the ball and not throw it. There's a point there somewhere.

MORE FAME SPREADING: The Brown U. Soccer team should receive every help needed for its trip through the Soccer-lands of Europe. They'll be going early in June... B.J. McEnany suggests that the referee drop the puck at center-ice and that two wingmen race for it to start a hockey game for added excitement. Good idea but it would be a tough job knocking it through their skulls, B.J. — CARRY ON!

Report Tells Of Looting Of Equipment By Israelis In Sinai After June 1967 War

JERUSALEM — Millions of dollars' worth of equipment and property of Egyptian enterprises in the Sinai was looted by Israelis in the months after the June 1967 war, according to a confidential report prepared by the Israeli State Controller.

The property, mostly heavy machinery and industrial equipment owned by Egyptian mining and oil ventures, reportedly was carried away by individual Israelis and civilian contracting concerns that were engaged in various road-building, construction and repair jobs in the desert.

A reliable source familiar with the report said the looting took place in the months before the military government established effective control in the occupied area.

The account of the looting is contained in a lengthy report prepared by the Controller, a watchdog office that serves a role similar to the United States General Accounting Office. Its reports are submitted to parliament, after which they are published.

Ministry Won't Comment

Sources in the Defense Ministry declined to comment on the accounts of the report. They said, however, that the ministry had no objection to full publication.

The report is to be published April 25. Accounts of its contents appeared in the Israeli press. Reliable sources confirmed the press accounts as essentially correct.

The report seems likely to set off another controversy here about Israeli activities in the Sinai after the war. A major scandal developed some 15 months ago when charges of mismanagement and corruption were leveled against the directors of Netivei Neft, a government company that has operated the former Egyptian oil wells on the Gulf of Suez.

Army Errors Alleged

Details of the Controller's report on the looting have been presented in closed session before the finance committee of Parliament. The committee released a statement denying reports that it had decided to suppress portions of the report and promising that the full account of the looting would be published.

Nonetheless, Gahal, the right-wing opposition party, demanded a full-scale debate on the allegations.

Dr. Yohanan Bader, a Gahal member of the Finance Committee, charged on the Israeli radio today that property worth "tens of millions" had disappeared from the Sinai after the war. He did not describe the equipment, but informed sources said it included drilling and mining rigs, heavy electrical equipment and industrial supplies.

"What happened to the property?" He asked. "There is no doubt that almost all of it disappeared and that there were errors by the army, government institutions and companies and private thefts as well."

Dr. Bader said he was amazed that it was possible to move heavy equipment and installations from the depths of the Sinai and to conceal them within Israel without the proper authorities being aware of it.

"To my regret, these details are not given in the report," he said. "But during the investigations we will ask questions and maybe we will find the answers."

In the Netivei Neft case, a special commission of inquiry was established and heard testimony for four months. No criminal charges emerged, but the commission criticized the management of the company and the director resigned.

According to Israeli press accounts of the report, individuals and civilian contracting concerns dismantled and sometimes vandalized valuable equipment left behind.

Much of the equipment, reportedly was loaded onto trucks and hauled to Israel for use or sale. According to the Israeli paper Maariv, industrial equipment valued at some $9-million was removed from a site at Abu Zneia, on the Gulf of Suez.

This activity was apart from the officially sanctioned salvage of military equipment by the Israeli armed forces. For months after the fighting, the Israelis reclaimed and transported back to Israel hundreds of Soviet-supplied tanks, trucks, jeeps and mobile military equipment left in the sand by the retreating Egyptians.

This equipment was hauled to El Arish, where it was put on railroad cars and shipped back to Israel. Since then, Israeli armor units have been outfitted with former Egyptian tanks.

DRUG ABUSE DECLINES

JERUSALEM — Drug abuse is on the decline in Israel according to Shmuel Roth, chief of the police investigating department. Roth said that arrests of drug peddlers and drug users have dropped considerably and that the police are making greater efforts to eradicate drug abuse. He said that estimates of the number of drug addicts were based solely on the number of arrests made. Roth said that very little hashish and opium are available on the drug market. He said LSD has virtually disappeared except for occasional hauls, largely in Eilat and the police have no knowledge of heroin use in Israel.

GLASS-CERAMIC COOKTOP is a smooth, one-piece built-in unit with no dirt or grease collecting cracks or crevices. The General Electric Cleanline cooktop is easy to clean. Spills wipe up with a paper towel, and when it is not being used for food preparation the glass-ceramic surface provides additional countertop work space.

Cooking On Counter Top Clean; Provides Space

Remodeling your kitchen is an exciting experience today. Bright, bold colors are being used. Kitchen carpeting, wood grains, chrome and stainless steel are all popular. And new convenience appliances run the gamut from yogurt makers to Chinese woks.

Limitless new possibilities confront the homemaker who sits down to plan "her" new kitchen. Should I replace this appliance? Would the refrigerator fit over here? Is there a more modern oven? How can I squeeze in more counterspace?

Most of these questions require hard thought and careful planning, with one solution often creating another problem. General Electric, however, has recently introduced a product which provides the answer to the ever present need for more counterspace while at the same time updating and modernizing the built-in counter cooktop. The new "Cleanline" smooth surface cooktop has four heating elements located out of sight under attractive "sunburst" patterns. The two sizes of heating elements, which turn yellow when in use, offer full cooking versatility, and when not in use the entire glass-ceramic cooktop surface becomes additional counterspace.

No special cookware is needed for use on the cooktop as long as the bottoms are reasonably flat to make good contact with the easy-clean surface. The smooth one-piece surface makes it easy to wipe up spills with just a damp cloth, and there are no cracks or crevices to collect food or grease.

A special safety feature of the cooktop is a high temperature limit control which automatically switches off a heating element under a "no-load" condition, such as when you remove a pan from the cooktop and forget to turn the unit off.

When you think about more counterspace in your remodeling plans, remember one smooth idea — Cleanline cooktop.

Soviet Women Attend Meeting In Israel

JERUSALEM — A three-woman delegation from the Soviet Union arrived here to participate in International Women's Day, sponsored by the Israel Democratic Women's Organization which had invited them. Vera Shukhanova, a history lecturer at Moscow University told reporters that Soviet and Israeli women were "fighting the same battle."

The other members of the delegation, which represents the Soviet Women's Committee, are Dr. Zenov Ykubova, a lecturer in gynecology at the Kazan Medical School, and Eluyira Yakoshena of the Moscow Committee of Solidarity for Women.

PUT THE SQUEEZE ON cartons, bottles, cans, plastics and paper, reducing them to one-quarter their original volume. The trash compactor from General Electric fits in the same space as any 15-inch base cabinet and comes with interchangeable color panels providing the choice of white, harvest, avocado or coppertone.

Trash Compacter Helps Rid Kitchen Of Waste

A current trend in new kitchens, as well as kitchen remodeling, is the "sanitation center." Built around the kitchen sink, it consists of a built-in dishwasher, food waste disposer and trash compactor. This trio of modern appliances deals with all the after dinner clean-up chores in handy fashion, freeing the homemaker to be with her family or guests when entertaining.

The trash compactor is the newest member of the cleanup crew and is quickly becoming a necessity in the American kitchen.

We have greatly increased our use of cartons, packages, bottles and cans over the years and the compactor is the modern appliance that takes care of their disposal.

General Electric's compactor comes with attractive reversible color panels, giving you the choice of white, harvest, avocado or coppertone. You can change the color of your compactor to blend into your kitchen decorating scheme for several years to come.

The compactor fits the same space as any 15-inch base cabinet. You will probably want to install it near the sink for easy accessibility.

The compactor is easy to use. Just pull out the drawer, drop in the trash, close the drawer and push a button. The button will activate a powerful ram, driving it downward with a force of some 2,000 pounds. The trash will be compressed to less than one-quarter its original volume in less than a minute. You can toss in cartons, glass bottles, cans, bones, scraps, paper, plastics — all the disposable material that clutters a kitchen. An automatic aerosol spray keeps the compacted trash chemically treated to keep your house smelling fresh and clean.

The GE compactor will condense the trash of an average family of four for one week into one disposable bag. A handy bag caddy enables to you to easily remove a full bag and carry it outside for trash pickup.

When you buy a new home or remodel your present home be sure to consider a sanitation center — it's a great way to put the squeeze on trash.

New Food Waste Disposer Easy To Install

If you're one of the thousands of homeowners who have been putting off the purchase of a food waste disposer because of the trouble of getting someone to install it, then you'll be pleased to know there is now a model available designed with the home handyman in mind.

With a smattering of know-how about plumbing and electrical wiring, and a minimum of tools, the weekend do-it-yourselfer will find this new sound-shielded model from Hotpoint a relatively simple home improvement project. Easy to follow instructions for installation are printed right on the box in which the unit is packed.

Called the Barracuda, after the voracious salt water fish noted for its slashing attack, the Hotpoint disposer, like its namesake, makes short work of food scraps and leftovers.

Plumbed into the kitchen sink, it gets rid of food waste before it can become garbage and spread its unpleasant odors throughout the kitchen. Corn cobs, melon rinds, bones, soggy cereal, vegetable peelings and other large pieces of food waste are quickly and efficiently pulverized and flushed down the drain by a disposer.

A disposer not only helps keep the kitchen and sink clean, but is itself self-cleaning. The swirling action of the water scours it every time it is used.

Disposers can be used in most homes where the plumbing is connected to city sewer systems, as well as in homes on septic tanks. According to the manufacturer, installation of a food waste disposer in a home with a septic tank is like adding one more person to the family. And a disposer actually helps a septic system maintain proper balance by adding more biological material for bacteria to feed on, minimizing the harmful effect of detergents.

All the firm's food waste disposers such as the Barracuda are completely corrosion resistant, with all parts coming into contact with water produced from stainless steel, glass-filled polyester or brass.

CHIEF VICTIMS

LONDON — Jews, formerly residents of Libya, have been the chief victims of a law under which the Libyan government has confiscated all moveable and immovable property and assets of foreign nationals. The matter of confiscations was discussed in the House of Lords. Lord Janner stated that the confiscations were carried out under the provisions of Law 57 of 1970 and that of 643 victims, 628 were Jews.

Carpeting On Walls And Floors Helps Block Out Noise, Drafts

One prescription for a good night's sleep is a pretty bedroom that's big on comfort and small on care. Carpet used on the floor and walls not only does its own thing for glamour, it helps block out cold and noise — a special plus for drafty bedrooms or those next to the children's.

The tartan plaid, with its classic good looks, turns functional when used for the bedspread, paneled screen and unique curtain and valance combination that adapts just as well to a four poster bed. Pull the curtains and light and noise virtually disappear. The final coup of this cozy cocoon is its wear-well appeal. Fabrics and carpet are made of Herculon olefin fiber — well known for its durability, color fastness and super easy-care qualities. Spots and spills quickly whisk away with simply a sponge, water and the suds of a light detergent.

Discuss Appointment Of American Rabbi For Moscow Embassy

NEW YORK — Spiritual leaders of the three major faiths said last week that the State Department had "under serious consideration" the appointment of an American rabbi for the United States Embassy in Moscow.

The rabbi would, they said, "minister to Jews in the rapidly growing American colony in Moscow, which includes the diplomatic corps, businessmen, scientists, journalists and students." Roman Catholic and Protestant chaplains are already stationed at the Moscow embassy.

The report was made at a news conference at the Regency Hotel by the Rev. Donald R. Campion, editor in chief of the Jesuit weekly, America; Rabbi Arthur Schneier, spiritual leader of the Park East Synagogue in this city; and the Rev. Dr. Harold A. Bosley, senior minister of Christ Church, United Methodist, New York.

The three, who recently returned from the Soviet Union and a tour of Eastern Europe, are leaders of the Appeal of Conscience Foundation, with headquarters at 119 West 57th Street. The foundation is composed of religious and lay leaders concerned with religious freedom for all denominations.

Rabbi Schneier, who serves as president of the foundation, said the three had been told by a State Department official that "no impediment" should stand in the way of the stationing of a rabbi with the embassy in Moscow.

U.S. Declines Comment
WASHINGTON — The State Department declined comment on the reported plan to appoint an American rabbi to the Moscow embassy.

The right of the United States to station chaplains at its embassy in Moscow is specifically provided for in the 1933 agreement that re-established diplomatic relations between the two Governments. Some department sources said there were no chaplains with official status in any other embassy so far as they knew.

EXPRESSES ANXIETY

TEL AVIV — Grave anxiety for the safety of Israel's international civil aviation was expressed here on February 22 by a senior official connected with Israel's aviation program. He said that "what Israel has invested to secure its flights and safeguard passengers on Israeli planes is next to nothing compared to what Israel will have to invest for similar security for planes and passengers after the Libyan plane downing." El Al, which resumed normal flights after mechanical supervisors ended a four-day strike, is taking maximum precautionary steps to assure the safety of all flights, it was disclosed.

PERES WARNS

TEL AVIV — Transport Minister Shimon Peres warned that any Libyan attempt to attack an Israeli airliner in retaliation for the downing of a Libyan Boeing 727 over the Sinai would "constitute a most serious provocation."

Peres said that Israel was "taking all essential steps necessary to defend the aircraft of our national airline and to safeguard international air links with Israel."

WELCOME AT THE END OF THE DAY, this supper featuring cranberry brown bread and meat rolled in cabbage with cranberry sauce. It's a treat which workers and kibitzers alike will enjoy. Recipes accompanying the picture use Ocean Spray cranberry products that make the delicious difference.

Cranberries Add Interest To Meat Or Brown Bread

Cranberries, you know, are one of the most versatile of fruits. Consider just two delicious ways to add new interest to your meals with America's favorite little berry. Cranberry Brown Bread and Meat Rolled in Cabbage with Cranberry Sauce make a hearty, welcome supper any winter evening.

The Brown Bread is a modern version of an old favorite made easy with the use of a gingerbread mix. Meat Rolled in Cabbage with Cranberry Sauce is a meal in itself.

MEAT ROLLED IN CABBAGE WITH CRANBERRY SAUCE (Makes 6-8 Servings)

2 large onions, sliced
2 cans (16 ounces each) tomato sauce
2 tablespoons salad oil
1 can (16 ounces) jellied cranberry sauce
2 pounds ground meat
½ cup apple juice
3 slices white bread, crumbled
½ cup lemon juice
½ cup rice
1 large head cabbage, cored salt
pepper

Cook onions in oil until tender. Mix meat, bread, rice, salt and pepper to taste. Combine tomato sauce, cranberry sauce, apple juice, lemon juice and onions. Simmer tomato sauce mixture while preparing cabbage leaves. Meanwhile, in large saucepan in boiling water, place cabbage. Remove from heat; cover and let stand 10 minutes. Remove 1 cabbage leaf at a time. On each leaf, place a heaping tablespoon of meat mixture. Roll up leaf and tuck ends in to keep meat in place. Carefully place all rolled leaves in sauce; simmer 2 hours. These can be frozen and reheated in oven.

CRANBERRY BROWN BREAD (Makes 2 large or 3 small round loaves)

1 ½ cups fresh cranberries, chopped
½ cup yellow cornmeal
1/3 cup sugar
½ cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 package (14.5 ounces) gingerbread mix
1 cup cranberry juice cocktail
Mix cranberries and sugar; let stand 1 hour. Combine gingerbread mix, cornmeal, flour and cranberry juice. Fold in cranberries. Pour batter into 2 well greased 1-pound coffee cans or into 3 well greased 1-pound cranberry sauce cans, filling cans 3/4 full. Bake in preheated moderate oven (375 F.) for 40 to 45 minutes or until bread is firm to the touch in center. Serve hot or cold.

Obituaries

El. Burial was in Sons of Israel and David Cemetery.

The widow of Jacob Ernstof, she was born in Austria, a daughter of the late Harry and Clara Manshel. She had been a Providence resident for more than 70 years. She had previously lived in Bristol.

Mrs. Ernstof was one of the oldest members of Temple Beth El, and belonged to many charitable organizations.

She is survived by a son, J. Milton Ernstof of Waterbury, Vermont; two daughters, Mrs. Daniel Robinson and Mrs. Walter Adler, both of Providence; five grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren.

SAMUEL LUDMAN

Funeral services for Samuel Ludman, 78, of 55 Higgins Avenue, who died Tuesday after being stricken while vacationing in Miami Beach, Florida, were held Thursday at the Sugarman Memorial Chapel. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

The husband of the late Rebecca (Weinstein) Ludman, he was born in Russia, a son of the late Morris and Baila Ludman. He had been a Providence resident for more than 70 years.

Mr. Ludman was the owner and operator of the former Progressive Public Market in Woonsocket for almost 40 years until retiring ten years ago.

He was a member of Congregation Sons of Jacob and Temple Beth David, and past treasurer of the Providence Hebrew Sheltering Society.

He is survived by two sons, Nathan Ludman of Cranston and Dr. Harold Ludman of Westbury, Long Island, New York; a daughter, Norma Cohen of Cranston; two brothers, George and Benjamin Ludman, both of Providence, and nine grandchildren.

JOSEPH BERNSTEIN

Funeral services for Joseph Bernstein, 80, of 286 Beckwith Street, Cranston, who died Tuesday, were held Thursday at the Sugarman Memorial Chapel. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

He was a mutual clerk at New England race tracks for 35 years until his retirement last year.

The husband of the late Esther Bernstein, he was born in Russia, a son of the late Abraham and Fannie (Edelstein) Bernstein. He had lived in Providence for many years before moving to Cranston 25 years ago.

He is survived by a brother, Archie Bernstein of Cranston; two sisters, Miss Irene Bernstein, with whom he lived, and Dorothy Fradin of Providence.

owner's name is not on record with the issuer and, if you hold the bond, the presumption is you own it. Usually, you'll clip a coupon every six months and collect interest from a paying agency or your own bank. You must safeguard bearer bonds as you would cash, for if "your" bonds are in someone else's possession, how can you prove they are yours? If your bearer bonds are stolen, you may be completely out of luck — just as you would be if your cash was stolen.

Most are serial bonds. A certain number will mature each year, will be paid off and retired. The range of maturities may be 5, 10, 14, 20 years or perhaps 30 or 40 years, which means you can decide the date on which you want your capital back and then choose a maturity that fits.

A key caution: unless you're very hep in the bond markets, get guidance from a broker or banker you respect and who knows you and your circumstances. If you're buying a mutual fund which specializes in tax-exempt bonds, study its record and its portfolio policies with utmost care. Don't try to make a killing. If you do, you might be the one who is "killed."

ENGAGED: Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Parkin of 212 Ausdale Road, Cranston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss JoAnne Parkin, to Allen H. Silver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Silver of 143 Merrymount Drive, Warwick.

Miss Parkin is a graduate of Cranston High School East and the University of Rhode Island. She is currently teaching in the Providence school system.

Mr. Silver, who was graduated from Pilgrim High School, is a senior at the University of Rhode Island.

An October 28 wedding is planned.

PROTEST INTERVENTION
JERUSALEM — Twenty-six Jews from Vilna have protested to the International Postal Union that Soviet authorities were intercepting mail addressed to them from Israel. They demanded an investigation of this alleged violation of international postal agreements. Israel's Transport and Communications Minister Shimon Peres has received a copy of the letter and another copy was sent to the Lithuanian Minister of Posts. The signers said that each one of them had definite proof that mail from Israel was intercepted and offered to turn over their evidence to any committee the IPU might set up to investigate the charges.

PASSES LIFE SENTENCE

BONN — A Hamburg district court has passed a life sentence on Otto Tuchel, 63, a former Nazi police officer found guilty of murder and abetting the murder of Jews in the Riga ghetto between 1941-42. Another police officer, Friedrich Jahnke, 62, was sentenced to three years in jail for abetting murder. Two others, Emil Didrich, 59 and Max Neumann, 60 were found guilty on the same charges but were freed on grounds that they acted under orders. About 25,000 German and Latvian Jews were shot in the Riga ghetto.

AJC Leader Feels Organizations Fail To Give Jewish Education

WASHINGTON — The head of the American Jewish Congress charged here that Jewish communal organizations were "failing to meet their primary responsibility of providing American Jews with a basic Jewish education and a deep sense of identification with the Jewish people."

As a result, asserted Rabbi Arthur Hertzberg, president of the Jewish organization and human rights agency, "there is an alarming ignorance of the content of Judaism, a profound crisis of faith — particularly among the young generation — and a growing indifference to the idea that Jewish tradition has something to contribute to the world and its problems."

Meeting to Begin

Rabbi Hertzberg addressed his organization's policy-making national governing council at the Mayflower Hotel on the eve of the biennial convention of the congress's national women's division. Some 500 women representing various sections of the country gathered here for the four-day meeting.

The governing council adopted a resolution calling for programs to intensify Jewish education "for our leadership and our grass-roots members" and urging the "reordering of national and local Jewish priorities."

Activist Jewish youth and other groups have been sharp in their criticism of the allocation of communal funds to camps, community centers and other institutions that they have described as "deficient in Jewish content."

They have singled out for special criticism Jewish philanthropic support of hostels that have become nonsectarian and in large measure supported by state and Federal funds.

Commitments Urged

While urging the "transformation of Jewish organizational life to emphasize Jewish knowledge and content," Rabbi Hertzberg cautioned that "Jewish continuity cannot be assured by turning inward so that we worry only about 'what's good for Jews.'"

"There can be no security for the Jewish community by retreating to the ghetto," he said. "If we take our religion and ourselves seriously, we must as a people speak out courageously for those concerns of human dignity, equality and freedom which are authentic to the Jewish spirit."

"But commitment to good works is only one aspect of what it means to be a Jew in America today. We must also make a commitment to ourselves and our future as a people."

Rabbi Hertzberg's call came as Jewish educators across the country were stepping up their demand for greater communal support of Jewish day schools which combine secular and Jewish studies.

"Illusory and Frustrating"

Approximately 80,000 children are now enrolled in some 400 all-day Jewish schools, about half of them in the New York metropolitan area. The majority are under orthodox sponsorship.

Dr. Alvin I. Schiff, educational consultant for the Jewish Education Committee of New York, has described the Jewish day school as "the most effective instrument for transmitting the Jewish heritage to our youth."

But Isaac Toubin, executive director of the American Association for Jewish Education, has warned that it is "illusory and frustrating to expect that Jewish education alone can preserve the old or help create a new Jewish community in America."

Mr. Toubin said it was "the breakdown of the home as an influential factor and the gap between the community's affirmations and practices that is responsible for the alienation of the young Jewish generation."
