After Lengthy Conversations

Premier Golda Meir Says 'Still Some Differences'

WASHINGTON - Premier Golda Meir of Israel said this week that there were still "some differences of opinion" between the United States and Israel on the Middle East despite her lengthy conversations with the Nixon Administration.

At a crowded news conference at the Washington Hilton Hotel, Mrs. Meir said she had come away from her two-hour meeting with President Nixon with the hope that "some of the misunderstandings have been cleared away."

The Premier declined to say whether Mr. Nixon had agreed to grant her request for an immediate resumption of deliveries of Phantom F-4 warplanes. But she left her audience with the impression that he had not.

That was confirmed later by senior Administration officials who said that Mrs. Meir had been given "very strong" assurances that the United States would fill Israel's military-supply needs over the long term.

The officials said that while the eventual delivery of warplanes, including Phantoms, was implicit in this pledge, no commitments had been made on immediate shipments.

Both President Nixon and Secretary of State William P. Rogers, with whom Mrs. Meir also met reportedly told her that it would damage the prospects of negotiations with the Arab countries if the United States publicly resumed Phantom deliveries at this time. The Phantoms from the chief striking arm of the Israeli Air Force. None has been delivered since June.

Asked if she had been satisfied by her talk with Mr. Nixon, Mrs. Meir said yes, and added, "I went away with the feeling that there is definitely an understanding of the problems in our area and the Israeli way of looking at them." She said, "I guess that's the most one can ask for a friendly government."

When the question of the Phantoms was raised at the newsconference, Mrs. Meir, who is 73 years old, paused for a moment and then said: "We want aircraft. We were never happy about the necessity of bringing this subject up in the open. I've done my best to explain why additional aircraft are needed for Israel and why, if delivered, such aircraft would not obstruct negotiations for a final peace agreement on a special Suez Canal agreement."

Having done that, she said, "We hope for the best."

The Premier conceded that the dispute over the Phantom deliveries and other issues had injected an element of strain in the relations between the two governments in recent months, but she insisted that they could be overcome. "Let me remind you that the relations between the United States and Israel were not born yesterday," she said.

"Even among friends, there are differences of opinion, arguments and sometimes misunderstanding."

Many of Mrs. Meir's remarks constituted a restatement of the Israeli position on the Middle East.

Beth Israel To Celebrate 50th Anniversary Of Temple

Temple Beth Israel, the oldest conservative synagogue in Rhode Island, will celebrate its 50th anniversary during the weekend of Friday, Saturday, Sunday, December 17, 18 and 19.

The temple, officially the Providence Conservative Synagogue, was started 50 years ago by a group of dedicated men, led by Harry Rosen, in a former German beer hall. The building, three times the victim of fire, has been rebuilt each time. It stands at the corner of Niagara Street and Atlantic Avenue and originally had its entrance on Niagara. Since the last fire it has been rebuilt with its entrance on Atlantic.

Special services will be held on Friday, December 17, with guest speaker Rabbi Samuel Kenner, New England regional director of the United Synagogue of America, national organization of Conservative congregations. The services will be conducted by Rabbi Jacob Handler and Cantor Karl S. Kritiz, accompanied by the temple choir and David Mitchell at the organ. Solomon Seinker, religious vice president and gabbai, is chairman of the services.

At Saturday morning services, which start at 8:30 o'clock, past presidents of the temple will be honored with aliyahs. A Kiddush in their honor will be held after services.

A dinner-dance on Sunday evening held in the Anna and Ira Galkin social hall, will complete the anniversary festivities.

TO PRESENT JOINT CONCERT: An After Concert Gala Party at the State House will follow the joint concert to be presented by internationally known opera stars, Roberta Peters, coloratura soprano, and Jan Peerce, tenor, on Sunday, December 12, at 8 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Auditorium. Mrs. Frank Licht is honorary chairman of the event which is sponsored by the Yeshiva University Women's Organization. Proceeds will be used for the university's 14 schools, including the Albert Einstein School of Medicine and Stern College for Women in New York City. Mrs. Archie Smith is coordinator for the concert which has been made available to the Yeshiva University Women by Artists Internationale, a non-profit corporation, whose founder and director is Dr. Earle F. Cohen.

Jewish Poor Grossly Neglected Says Zukerman, JLC President

NEW YORK — A former social worker has been elected to head the Jewish Labor Committee, Judge Jacob T. Zukerman of New York, who for nineteen years served as executive director of the Family Location Service, is new president of the organization of Jewish trade unionists.

He was appointed a Judge of New York City's Family Court two years ago and is also current President of the Jewish Daily Forward Association, publishers of the Yiddish-language daily newspaper.

Judge Zukerman has also served as President of the Workmen's Circle and President of the National Conference of Jewish Communal Service Workers.

In his acceptance address to the recent JLC Convention, Judge Zukerman refuted "the distorted image that pictures American Jews as having reached the zenith of influence in this country and having moved into the higher realms of the middle class, neglecting their historic ties to the labor movement and abandoning social causes. This great distortion in this overall image of Jewish influence is that it has led to a gross neglect of the Jewish poor in America" he stated.

"The effect of this distortion," Zukerman continued, has been particularly insidious.

$37,000 Disappears From Plane To Israel

TEL AVIV — Gold bars worth $37,000 disappeared from a plane en route from the US to Israel during a stopover at Heathrow Airport in London. The bars were on their way to be coined by the Israel Coins and Medals Co. as the "Let My People Go" coin. According to reports, someone who knew of the shipment stole the bars in the London airport warehouse where they were stored while the plane was refueled and cleaned. Lydda Airport police officials said there was no possibility that the bars left London and disappeared at Lydda.

KOSHER BEEF

NEW YORK — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced its first purchase of kosher ground beef to be used as part of the National School Lunch Program. It will be distributed to Jewish schools in New York City as part of the Lunch Program now in its 25th year.

Torch From Israel To Open Center Hanukah Ceremony

The Torch of Masada, symbolic of the freedom of Hanukah, will travel from Israel to Providence to officially open the Hanukah holiday in a special ceremony which will culminate in front of the Jewish Community Center building on Sunday afternoon, December 12. This year's candlelighting ceremony will be dedicated to the "modern Maccabees of the Soviet Union," the Soviet Jews who are struggling for their right to live as Jews.

The torch will be landed at Green Airport in Warwick and from there will be carried by a relay of teenage runners to a huge Menorah in front of the JCC building, where with appropriate ceremonies, it will be used to kindle the Hanukah lights.

Leaders of the Jewish community and leaders of the city and state will be present. Governor Frank Licht will attend the ceremonies which will begin at the Center at 3 p.m.

Included in the ceremonies will be addresses by Harlan J. Espo, Center president; Professor Marc Richman, chairman of the R.I. Conference on Soviet Jewry, and other officials. Hanukah blessings will be sung by Cantor Ivan Perlman of Temple Emanu-El, Cantor Norman Gewirtz of Temple Beth El and Stanley Freedman and a special Masada Choir.

The theme of the program will link Hanukah, the holiday which commemorates religious freedom, to the plight of Soviet Jewry. There will be a moment of silence marking the first anniversary of the Leningrad trials.

Initiated in 1967, with the cooperation of the Young Maccabi in Israel, the Masada torch relay is sponsored here by the Zionist Organization of America. The torch, lit by Young Maccabees in Israel, is brought to Lydda Airport and from there, by El Al Airlines, to JFK Airport in New York City. Masada runners carry the torch to the JFK International Synagogue and from there it is carried by runner relays through the streets of New York and then transported by American Airlines to all communities participating in the torch relay ceremony.

In Rhode Island the runners will proceed from the airport on Post Road (Route 1) to Elmwood Avenue, on to Broad Street at Trinity Square. They will proceed to Weybosset Street, Dorrance Street and through the south side of Kennedy Plaza to Waterman Street. From Waterman Street they will turn north at Wayland Avenue on to Angell Street to Elmgrove Avenue and continue to the Center building. They will start their run from the airport at noon.

The 12 foot high Menorah in front of the JCC building was specially designed and built by Harry Finkelstein of Providence, a Center member.

CREATES AWARD

NEW YORK — The World Zionist Organization has created the Zalman Shazar Educators Award to honor Jewish educators outside of Israel for their contribution and service to Jewish education. Three educators and, or institutions (one from the U.S. and Canada) will be honored next year. Applications are available from the World Zionist Organization, 515 Park Avenue, New York, New York 10022.

Home, Eban Both Proclaim Same Basic Goal Of Peace

LONDON — Britain's Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas Home and Foreign Minister Abba Eban of Israel spoke from the same platform last week.

They addressed the 23rd annual dinner of the Anglo Israel Association and agreed that bilateral relations between Britain and Israel were very satisfactory.

They also proclaimed the same basic goal of peace in the Middle East. Sir Alec declared, "We stand with Israel when she claims the right to security." He observed that "Peace in the Middle East cannot and will not be imposed from outside" and that Britain "can only offer our honest advice as friends."

Eban declared that whenever the situation in the Middle East shows signs of a change toward dialogue "I can assure you that Israel will be versatile and inventive in her search for peace."

Sir Alec said Israel's security could be protected in three ways: "By a peace agreement by refining permanent boundaries; by a physical arrangement in which Britain would be prepared to play her part."

He agreed with Israel that "the arrangements that prevailed before 1967 could not be relied upon any longer." The foreign secretary observed that "in the final analysis peace must spring from the heart. Dialogue must supplant confrontation. A certain risk must be run for the sake of peace."

Sir Alec reiterated that the Security Council's resolution 242 "Must be respected and positively used. To discard it or to tamper with it would be a retrograde step," he said adding, "We will work for a positive outcome of the debate at the General Assembly."

Eban repeated a point he has made on many previous occasions — that the present trend in world affairs is toward negotiation rather than confrontation, even between enemies and even when active conflict is occurring.

He noted that India and Pakistan are "on speaking terms" and "the heads of government in Elre and Ulster are meeting and talking." Only the Middle East, he said, seems to be an exception.

Eban met with Prime Minister Edward Heath for 35 minutes yesterday at No. 10 Downing Street and had a second meeting with Sir Alec which lasted 50 minutes.

It was announced that the British Foreign Secretary would visit Israel next March.

TO BE GUEST SPEAKER: Dr. Shlomo Avineri, professor of political science at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem and this year's visiting professor at Wesleyan College, will be the guest speaker at the Hanukkah lecture and party of the Bureau of Jewish Education. The affair will be held on Wednesday, December 15, at 8 p.m. at the Jewish Community Center. His topic will be "Israel and the Palestinians."

A traditional Hanukkah party will follow the lecture. Cantor Norman Gewirtz of Temple Beth El will light the Hanukkah candles and lead in community singing.

Mrs. Hyman Blazer, Mrs. Fania Gross, Mrs. Aaron Soviv and Mrs. Joseph Teverow will serve as hostesses. Latkes will be prepared by Mrs. Benjamin Chinitz, Mrs. Sidney Goldstein, Mrs. Norman Gewirtz, Mrs. Seymour Krieger and Mrs. Beryl Segal.

Offer Bovasso Work For Next Trinity Play

"Down By The River Where Waterlilies Are Disfigured Every Day" is the title of the next Trinity Square Repertory Company offering at the Playhouse. Having its world premiere performance on Monday, December 20, at 8 p.m., the new work by award-winning playwright Julie Bovasso is what can be termed the theater's "radical offering of its 1971-1972 interim season."

Miss Bovasso, winner of five Obie awards for her contributions to Off-Broadway theater, has been a recipient of a Rockefeller playwrighting grant, a grant from the New York State Council on the Arts and a Guggenheim Fellowship. As an actress, she is presently in rehearsal at the Brooklyn Academy of Music's Chelsea Theatre where she will be appearing in a new production of Jean Genet's "The Screens." "Waterlilies" will have a five week run at the Playhouse. It will be followed by a return of "Child's Play."

Interflora Offers Booklet On Flowers

Free copies of the booklet may be obtained by writing Interflora Catalog, 900 West Lafayette, Detroit, Michigan 48226.

LONDON — Jacob Tsur, chairman of the Jewish National Fund, reported on his return from a European tour "a marked decline in the influence of the New Left and their anti-Israel and anti-Zionist agitation" with Jewish youth on the continent. "The New Left seems to be losing its hold on Jewish youth," Tsur said. At the same time, he said, "Zionist organizations and groups in various European cities and towns do not have the impact upon Jewish life which one would have expected to find." He said that "here and there they are ineffectual and one hopes that the elections to the Zionist Congress will act as a stimulus for the Zionist movement in Europe."

NEW YEAR'S EVE!

Jewish Music Rocks Protestant Church

NEW YORK — In an example of unusual and possible unique programming, a Jewish quartet called the Arbaah Kolot ("Voices Four") rocked, rolled and horsed at the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, the largest Protestant house of worship in the world. The more than 400 young and old Jews and Christians who attended left $250 in contributions to Israeli university scholarships for Soviet Jewish immigrants. The money was collected by the New York Conference on Soviet Jewry.

Spokesmen for the church said it was definitely the first Jewish concert ever staged on its premises. The program included peace songs in Hebrew and English and traditional Hebraic tunes. Marvin Rosen, a member of the quartet, said: "The words are in Hebrew, but the message is universal. This event this afternoon is a celebration of our common tradition and our common humanity."

In the sermon preceding the concert the Rt. Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan, Bishop of New York, said: "We at the Cathedral are gratified to do something about the plight of our Russian Jewish brethren. It is our conviction that Soviet Jews — and, indeed, all others in the USSR — should have the right to emigrate to any country of their choosing..."

Bishop Donegan declared that "Christians, Jews and men of good will everywhere must join us in an outcry" so that the USSR will "come to know that the integrity of individual human beings is one thing which the world has an abiding concern for."

Arab Office To Check
All Foreign Films

NEW YORK — The Arab Office for the Boycott of Israel, based in Cairo, has decided to scrutinize all foreign films imported for showing in Egypt and Lebanon to weed out whatever it considers pro-Israel bias. "If the censors in both of these countries approve the showing of these films, special firms will be asked to make exact translations of the dialogue without any playing on words, and they will be distributed to the rest of the Arab countries," said Mustafa Halom Fahmi, head of the boycott office, according to Variety.

Fahmi cited the American film "Tobruk" (1967), which has been banned from those Arab countries that have not yet run it because, Fahmi said, it "shows how special Jewish regiments had fought with the Allies during World War II, when they were actually receiving their military training for their stealing later of Palestine."

ARAB-ISRAEL PROGRAM
JERUSALEM — The fifth year of the Arab-Israeli cultural program, conducted by the Hebrew University's Adult Education Center in the Ecce Home Convent of the Sisters of Zion Order in the Old City of Jerusalem, opened with an enrollment of some 400 students, including 120 Jews and a record of 280 Arabs. The Center is also promoting contact with the Arab population in a plan to initiate an Arab-Jewish cultural and social project in Acre.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By Roger E. Spear

Odd-Lot Trends And Their Significance

Q: I have noticed that in the past month odd-lot sales on the NYSE have been very near two times odd-lot purchases. It would appear that the public is selling twice as much as it is buying, but why always 2-to-1? F.A.

A: The phenomenon that you noted is more of a coincidence than anything else. Since 1960 the ratio has fluctuated from 1.4 times as many purchases as sales to 2.4 times as many sales as purchases. In 1962, 1966 and 1970, when odd-lot purchases exceeded sales by 10% to 40%, a major recovery began and the odd-lot trend sharply reversed itself, with selling predominating. These market low points also coincided with peaks in short sales by the odd-lotter, serving to confirm a market bottom. According to Garfield Drew, originator of the "odd-lot" theory, short selling by odd-lotter has reached a peak at every major market bottom since 1939.

The heavy preponderance of selling which characterized odd-lot transactions during September, reached a peak on the 20th of that month when sales exceeded purchases by 2.4 times. A gradual reversal of this trend has been seen since, with selling drying up. Although this has not been accompanied by any upsurge in buying, the ratio stood at 1.3 by the end of October. While encouraging, the momentum for a major reversal has not yet been seen. Nor has any confirming surge in the short sale figure been seen, although some build up in odd-lot short selling had begun toward the end of October.

Odd-lot trends are particularly useful in interpreting the psychological market reactions to major events. However, as a sample of the market, odd-lotter have accounted for the decreasing proportion of the whole, reflecting increasing domination by institutions. From 10% a decade ago, these transactions now account for only about 4% of Big Board volume. Nonetheless, these figures still provide valid insight into major market swings.

Warrants Have Speculative Appeal

Q: Recently my broker bought 150 shares of Gould, Inc. warrants (ASE). I specified that I wanted to recoup some recent market losses and he suggested these. Do they pay dividends? What are they really? V.D.

A: These warrants represent an option to purchase common shares, on a one-for-one basis, at $55 until June 30, 1976, when the warrants expire. Holders are not entitled to dividends nor are they eligible to vote. At expiration date the warrants cease to have any market value.

Warrants are attractive primarily because their low price allows the speculator greater leverage for his investment dollar. Since they represent an option on the common, warrants tend to move in line with the common share price. Your $1,650 investment, which bought 150 warrants, would have purchased only 35 shares of common. On a 5-point rise the holder of 35 shares of common would gain $175, whereas with 150 warrants the 5-point advance would mean a $750 capital gain. Thus your capital leverage is four times greater in the warrant.

Gould, Inc. appears to have better-than-average appreciation potential reflecting a $116 million torpedo contract, an improving market for original and replacement equipment and diversification through acquisitions. I would concur with your broker's selection for recouping your losses.

Q: I have $5,000 to invest but no stocks for me. What do you think of Borden, Inc. 5-3/4s of 1997? This bond is selling around 81 for a yield of over 7%, W.T.

A: This A-rated sinking fund debenture at the most recent quote of 83 returns a current yield of 6.9%. Held to maturity, the return is 7.2%, reflecting the 17-point discount at which it is trading. Although not a heavily traded issue, you should have no trouble either in buying or selling should the need arise. Available in either coupon or registered form, interest is paid June and December 15.

Redemption Terms Confuse Holder

Q: We have 1,200 shares of Wayne-Gossard preferred on which some changes are to be made after January, 1972. What are the changes and will the dividend be continued? We need income and would like advice on whether to hold, sell or convert. E.V.

A: Beginning February 1, 1972, Wayne has the right to redeem the preferred shares at $30 per share on 30 days notice. There are 346,939 preferred shares currently outstanding, redemption of which would cost $10.4 million. Redemption would be economically unrealistic since borrowing costs on this amount would undoubtedly exceed the $555,000 annual dividend expense on these shares. While the preferred shares remain outstanding, the dividend is a corporate obligation and is cumulative if omitted.

Third quarter earnings recovered 28% year-to-year on a 3% drop in sales. Continued improvement in profit margins could push full year earnings to the 90 cent level. Because the preferred is selling at a 14% premium over conversion value, exchange for the common would involve loss of capital. Wayne-Gossard preferred should be retained for the above-average return.

Q: I am a widow and would like to invest $4,000 to supplement my $4,200 annual income. I have been told that GAC 5-year 7% promissory notes are quite safe. Would this be a wise choice for me? J.W.

A: Although I am unable to find this particular debt offering, GAC and its subsidiaries have long term debt of $567 million bearing interest of between 4-3/4% and 12% and ratings of BBB and CCC. The last reported figure for interest charges earned was in 1968, 1.15 times when net was $2.64 a share. As of the first nine months of the current year GAC Corporation reported a net loss of $11.1 million.

A more suitable debt issue for you would be Beneficial Corporation 9-3/8s of 1978. Rated A by Standard & Poor's, this debenture is trading at a premium to yield 8.5% currently or 7.5% when held to maturity.

PROTEST NAZI MEETING

BRUSSELS — Organizations of former resistance fighters and Nazi victims protested angrily over a gathering of ex-Nazi collaborators here and demanded that the government cancel meetings sponsored by the Italian neo-Fascist Movimento Sociale Italiano Party, whose leader, M.G. Almirante is due in Brussels to address local supporters of his group. Also scheduled to take place was a meeting of the Waffen SS "Legion Wallonia" made up of Belgians who served the Nazis during World War II. They reportedly invited representatives of the German "Stahlhelm" (Steel Helmets) group, an association of former Nazi soldiers and of the French Fascist Charlemagne Division which fought with German troops on the Russian front.

ASK HELP

AMSTERDAM — Members of all Dutch parties represented in Parliament, except the Communists, sent a cable to the Cabinet demanding that the Netherlands should act on behalf of Syrian Jews. The cable stated that the Jews of Syria should be allowed to leave that country, or at least be safe from torture and persecutions.

Richman Recalls Anniversary Of Soviet Show Trials Of Jews

The third day of Chanukah, 15 December 1971, marks the anniversary of the first Leningrad show trial, which was followed by nine further trials of Soviet Jews who had decided that the time for silence had passed. The Jews of the Soviet Union began to act. They requested their rights to live as Jews in the USSR as guaranteed to them by the Soviet constitution. They asserted their rights to leave the Soviet Union as promised to them in the United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights to which the USSR is a signatory.

The first Leningrad trial resulted in death sentences for Mark Dymshits and Edward Kuznetsov. The announcement of these penalties shocked the world and in response to protests from governments and individuals, the Soviet regime commuted these sentences to 15 years at hard labor on a "strict regime" diet.

Others sentenced at this same trial also received long sentences under harsh terms.

The purpose of the show trial was to frighten the three million Jews of the USSR into believing that they must bow down to the dictates of a government which is bent on the systematic cultural genocide of the largest remnant European Jewry to have survived the Holocaust.

The Soviet Jews were not silenced by the Leningrad trial. They were not frightened into abandonment of their national heritage any more than were the sons of Mattathias by the dictates of Antiochus Epiphanes. The Jews of old rebelled and fought off the Roman Empire to maintain their cultural and religious identity. The Soviet Jews of today are waging the same battle against a different enemy.

AND THE

HANUKAH FLAMES

BY BERYL SEGAL

(A Children's Story for Hanukah)

The Neon Man on the top of the building was always busy.

Every thirty seconds the green Neon Man would appear on the roof. Then he would quickly tip his hat, bow to the waist, throw out his cane and twirl it a few times in the air. The twirling cane would change into an arrow, pointing to the entrance of the building, and the word, big and red, would appear over the door: R-E-S-T-A-U-R-A-N-T

And the word RESTUARANT would disappear just as quickly as the eye could read it, and in its place, the Neon Man would appear again on top of the roof, doing his tricks over and over again.

Up and down. On and off. Green and red. In the evening they lighted up the street and after midnight they would disappear.

A FLAME IN THE WINDOW

One evening, soon after the stars in the skies came out, the Neon Man noticed a tiny flame in the window of a house across the street.

The Neon Man caught the gleam of the flame but he had no time to stop and look at it. He was too busy. He was then bowing down to his waist and was about to do the trick with his cane.

"Later. Later. Not now. Too busy. I will look at the flame again next time," said the Neon Man to himself.

Up and down. On and off. Too busy. Too busy.

When the Neon Man saw the flame again he noticed it came from a tiny candle. The candle was placed in a Menorah and it hardly lighted up the window.

The Neon Man soon forgot about the candle. He had an important duty to perform. He had to point to the door of the restaurant.

THEN THERE WERE TWO

On the second evening, when snowflakes began to fall on the ground and on the roofs, the Neon Man saw the candles again. This time there were two flames in the window.

On the third evening the Neon Man saw three flames, and then four flames on the fourth evening. Four little candles standing in the Menorah on the window, twinkling and waving their flames in the air.

"What are they?" the Neon Man asked himself.

The mystery of the flames increased as each evening they increased by one. The Neon Man counted them as he looked at the candles one evening. One. Two. Three. Four. Five. Six. Seven.

Very strange. But don't stop. A busy Neon Man has no time for mysteries.

THE NEON MAN STOPPED SUDDENLY

On the night when the Neon Man saw eight flames coming from eight candles in the window, something happened. The Neon Man suddenly stopped and could not do any of his tricks on the roof. He was just about to tip his hat and bow down to his waist when all life went out of him and he remained standing, a mere bundle of glass and wires, pale and full of black lines all over.

What an embarrassing position for a Neon Man.

But in the meantime the Neon Man saw the lamp on the street corner standing and radiating light. Since the Neon Man had nothing else to do he thought that this might be a good time to talk to the street lamp. The truth of the matter was that the Neon Man never had time for conversation, not even with the lamp standing so near him on the corner. He was always so busy.

THE CORNER LAMP NEVER FINISHED THE STORY

The Neon Man, now no more than the shadow of a man, whispered to the lamp:

"Did you notice the new little flames in the window over there? What are they?"

The corner lamp did not turn around. He never turns. He sees all. Hears all. He minds his own business.

And the Neon Man and the corner lamp began a conversation between themselves:

Lamp: Yes, I did. They are not new.

Neon: I never saw them before.

Lamp: I did. They were here last year, and years before. They appear when winter is here.

Neon: In winter? Every year? Lamp: Yes. They were here before you climbed up on the roof and began to do your tricks.

Neon: Were they here before you came to stand on the corner?

Lamp: Oh, yes. These little flames were here a long, long time before. They are Hanukah candles.

Neon: They are What?

Lamp: If you promise not to tip your hat, and bend your body and twirl your cane for a few minutes I will tell you what these flames are. Listen.

"Once upon a time . . ."

THE CORNER LAMP KNOWS

But just then the Neon Man turned green. He straightened out, tipped his hat, bowed down, twirled his cane, and the cane changed into an arrow pointing to the door of the restaurant, and the lamp could not go on with his story.

The lamp never will unless the life goes out of the Neon Man again, and unless it is in the middle of winter when the flames are swaying once more in the windows.

But every child in the Jewish schools knows the story of Hanukah.

And so do you. Don't you?

Six of the thirteen Declarers confronted by today's hand misguessed the Club Queen. You might say that if it is a guess then that is just about the right percent that should have been expected to make it. If you examine the hand more fully, you will see that if the hand is played the way all good Declarers should play it, there is no guess at all. One way stands out as the right way to "guess" which is more likely to hold it. Actually, it made the difference between making seven or six with some of the pairs reaching the Grand Slam. I heard some of the comments when that vital Queen was misguessed where Declarer would apologize and say it was too bad he hadn't guessed the other way but he had nothing to go on. You will see that he had much to go on and could have received even more information had he gone after it.

Mrs. Sally Schwartz was Declarer playing with Richard Hirsch, East was Dealer, no one vulnerable with this bidding:

P	3♣	P	4♣
P	4NT	P	5♦
P	7♣	End

Some pairs stopped at six and were happy they did when they failed to capture the aforementioned Club Queen. To comment on the bidding, North had a slight problem when South bid One Spade. He was too strong for Four Spades, but not good enough high-card-wise for three so he had no choice but to make a temporizing bid in Clubs. He would surely have time to show his great Spade fit later which he did. South, of course, had a great hand made even better when her partner bid Clubs and still better when he jumped in Spades. She had her doubts when she went for broke and bid seven for she felt it might just depend on that vital Queen but not being a shy bidder decided to go all the way. She felt she had two shots, either her partner would have that Queen or at worst she would finesse it. That she would have two ways to finesse would be something else.

Every West, on lead, led the Diamond 10, East playing the Jack and won by Declarer's Ace. Trumps were now drawn and most of the Declarers went right after their big problem and tried to guess the location of the Club Queen. Unfortunately, the majority of them, not realizing that they already had a clue and certainly not aware that they could elicit even more definite information, simply tried to guess and as we have stated so many times before, a guess is even money that it will be right or wrong.

Those that did guess right really didn't really deserve to get that extra trick and those who didn't were paid accordingly. What was their clue? First, the fact that East had played the Diamond Jack unnecessarily at trick one. What did that say? They could actually find out by doing what all true expert Declarers would do — test the Diamonds some more before tackling Clubs. Maybe something definite would show up and it certainly would. The first thing that should enter their minds when they see that Jack is that East must be short in Diamonds. So they should play the King from Dummy and then ruff Dummy's last one just to see what happens and on that third Diamond East will show out. This tells us that West had seven and East two. West also had one more Trump than did East. Now who was more likely to have the most Clubs? Obviously East. We know that the one with the most is more likely to have a key card (the Queen) than the other so we govern our play accordingly. We play Dummy's Club King first intending to finesse through East for that Queen. When West actually shows out our problem is completely solved and we make our Grand Slam or at least our thirteen tricks no matter what is bid. The hand can truly be claimed without even playing the last cards out.

Moral: When you have nothing better to do than guess, then go ahead and do it but if you can delay it while accumulating information all the while helping you form a better opinion than just a guess, obviously that is better.

ORGANIZATION NEWS

PLAN TRIBUTE
 A tribute to the memory of Etta Gladstone will take place on Sunday, December 12, at 8 p.m. at Temple Beth Shalom.

In keeping with the theme of Hanukkah (Festival of Lights) which begins on that evening, the two chandeliers in the main sanctuary and the new lights in the temple's Rosenfield Social Hall will be dedicated.

Rabbi Marc S. Jagolinzer will officiate at the ceremonies, assisted by Cantor Norman Gewirtz of Temple Beth El who will sing. The featured speaker of the evening will be Governor Frank Licht.

FAMILY BOX SUPPER
 The Children's Activities Committee of the Jewish Community Center will conduct their Annual Family Box Supper at the Center building on Sunday, December 12, from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.

The event will feature a box supper and entertainment. Each family will bring its own box supper and the Center committee will supply the traditional potato latkes, dessert and beverages.

Families planning to attend are requested to make reservations in advance at the Center office.

TO HOLD SUPPERETTE
 The Shalom Chapter of Pioneer Women will hold its annual Paid-Up Membership Supperette on Tuesday, December 14, at 6:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Gary Phillips of 45 Harvard Street, Pawtucket.

CHRISTMAS PAGEANT
 The Dr. Joseph H. Ladd School annual Christmas Pageant will be held on Sunday, December 19 at 3 p.m. This is presented by the residents of the school.

FELDMAN SHOW
 "Masada," a one-man art showing by Providence artist Walter Feldman, will have its preview showing at the Jewish Community Center on Sunday, December 19, from 3 to 5 p.m.

The exhibit will be on display at the Center for four weeks following the special preview program.

IN SET PARTY
 The In Set, the Jewish Community Center's young adult singles' organization, will conduct a Hanukkah Wine and Cheese Party at the Center this Sunday, December 12, at 8 p.m.

Admission will be open to all single Jewish young men and women aged 21 to 35. Miss Reeve Curran is chairman.

COMMUNITY DWINDLES
COPENHAGEN — The Bulgarian Jewish community which numbered 7,000 ten years ago has dwindled to 5,000 and will probably stay at that figure since Jews are free to emigrate and all those who wanted to leave have already done so.

Hello Again!

News of the Sports World by Warren Walden

A HORSE HAPPENING: The story in the Vineyard Gazette by Polly Woolcott Murphy starts "Horse racing again became a major Island event recently when 13 horses competed for first place in races held at the West Tisbury Farm of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hall." The headline was, "Hundreds Attend Horse-Happening." And the story continues, "It seemed fitting that West Tisbury which spawned Island harness racing (a few old sulkies are still stored in barns there) should again give birth to horse racing." Both girls and boys rode the steeds in the races and so "girl jockeys" are really not special in horse races. And they called it a "Horse Happening." Not since the 1880s and '90s when harness races were held regularly at a race track built by Johnson Whiting at the old Parsonage Farm, has the Vineyard seen such a spectacle, according to the Gazette story. "Everyone spoke of the possibilities of another such event."

THEIR DEEDS LIVE ON: Wherever sports are discussed, the names of Babe Ruth, Rocky Marciano, Jim Thorpe and others who have gone to the greater game, are frequently mentioned. Stars on the field of sport seem to achieve some sort of immortality. And so it was during a conversation the other day that Johnny Lewis, former baseball manager and now Senator Pell's administrative assistant, remarked, "He'll be remembered for years to come." He was referring to Nicholas Cariglia, widely known as an athlete, coach, official and educator. "Yes," Johnny said, "He was great on the athletic field but greater as a person. Nick Cariglia always had something good to say about everything. He played for me when I managed the PAAC teams in Tim O'Neil's League and he was a great fellow. I'll always remember Nick Cariglia as a gentleman as much as an athlete." Great achievements that live on. A short while later, Walter Dumm, the former jovial policeman phoned and during the conversation mentioned the late Tim Ferrick. "We'll never forget Tim," Walter said. "Such a great sportsman; such a great official! Whether it was baseball or boxing, he had the courage of his convictions; called 'em as he saw them; an honest man, a fearless man. We need more like him." And as the poem went, "Footprints that perhaps another, sailing on life's solemn main; a forlorn and shipwrecked brother — seeing may take heart again."

WHADAYA SAY, JOE? And Joe answered, "Bobby Cherry of Pawtucket; of Goff Junior High School; has joined the Cala Orange Club of boxers and I am training him." He won a 1st round KO under Joe's training for the first time and he'll be entered in the Golden Gloves competition at Lincoln Park early in January. The "Joe" referred to is Joe Celletti, ardent, enthusiastic advocate of boxing. "I'll be in Boston on December 11 at the 'All Star' boxing show in Hynes Civic Auditorium," Joe added. And along came Leo Pheloules, world's foremost exponent in the art of prognosticating where boxing shows are concerned. "Four ten rounders and three other bouts and Dennis McNamee on the card!" exclaimed Leo P. "You can say that I say it's a great show. Sure I'm going to be there." Hynes Civic Center is at Prudential Center in Boston, if you don't know. Resourceful, ingenious Sam Silverman will present the ring show there. . . . And, tut, tut, you must say something good or keep your yap — or is it trap? — shut. — CARRY ON!

American Catholics Laud Israel's Rule In Jerusalem

Rome — The third World Synod of Catholic Bishops which recently ended a five-week session here, was the forum for a "mini-war" of documents on the Middle East during the discussions on "world justice."

"An appeal to Christian conscience," critical of Israel and signed in Damascus by leaders of the Christian communities in Syria, was countered by a document signed by Catholic organizations in the United States advocating recognition of "the positive result of Israeli rule."

An Arab opinion was also given here by Patriarch Stephanos Sidarous, the Coptic Patriarch of Alexandria, in an interview.

Asked what solution he envisaged for the Holy Places, he said that he would like to see Jerusalem "an open city under a three-party religious administration" (Christian, Moslem and Jewish).

The patriarch expressed hope in the future because "the young people on all sides want peace . . . and so does Egypt's President Sadat."

The Damascus "appeal," distributed among the synod's 211 participants, alleged that the Christian and Moslem inhabitants of Jerusalem had been expelled, "physically liquidated" and replaced by Jews.

But the American Catholic document stated that "several spokesmen have talked about the Near East from an Arab-Christian position. However, there is no monolithic 'Catholic' or 'Christian' view regarding this complex political problem."

"In the interest of justice and peace, other viewpoints should also be presented, including a recognition of the positive results of Israeli rule."

Among these, the document said, there was free access to the Holy Places for the believers of all faiths and the Israeli Government gave adequate protection to the Holy Places of all faiths.

Before (the 1967 Six-Day War), the document said, the Jordanians did not allow Jews to go to the Western Wall to pray. Under Jordanian rule, of some 35 ancient synagogues all but one were destroyed, their sites being used as stables, hen-houses and latrines, and ancient Jewish cemeteries were also desecrated.

The American Catholic statement also emphasized that "the sufferings of all refugees should be considered, including the 600,000 Jews who left Arab lands when the Arab refugees left Palestine."

It ended with the warning that "if the synod is to be used for particular politics in the name of Christianity, this will inevitably be a scandal in the forum of world opinion."

The document, in the form of "a request to the bishops of the third synod" was signed by the National Catholic Conference of Inter-Racial Justice in the United States; the National Coalition of American Nuns; the social action committee of the National Assembly of Religious Women in the U.S.; and the National Federation of Priests' Councils of the U.S.

Israeli Government Offers To Assist In Rebuilding Shrine

JERUSALEM — The Israeli Government offered assistance to the Greek Orthodox Church in the rebuilding of fire-damaged sections of the Monastery of St. Catherine on Mount Sinai.

The 14-century-old structure houses one of Christendom's most treasured collections of Biblical manuscripts and church art, which apparently escaped the blaze that broke out in the desolate area 250 miles south of Tel Aviv.

Israeli Army units and Bedouin herdsmen in the area joined the handful of Greek Orthodox monks in a bucket brigade to extinguish the flames.

The Israeli Minister of Religious Affairs, Zerach Warhaftig, met Patriarch Benedictos, head of the Greek Orthodox Church in the Holy Land, to offer help in the rebuilding the gutted residential wing.

The Sinai Peninsula fell under Israel occupation in the six-day day of 1967. The Israelis have built an airfield near the monastery, enabling ordinary travelers to make day trips instead of expeditions.

Israel Asks Syria Change Laws Inimicable To Jews In Country

UNITED NATIONS — Israel has charged in the United Nations that Syria should suspend its general laws insofar as Jews are concerned "so as to prevent the application of such law or any of its provisions to Jews."

The charge was made by the Israeli representative, Ambassador Joel Barromi, before the General Assembly's Third Committee.

He said the deprivation of Syrian Jews of their citizens' rights under Syrian law was one of the powers vested in a special statutory commission set up in Damascus to oversee Jewish affairs.

The commission is composed of representatives of the security and military intelligence services, the Ministry of Justice, the Treasury and the Council of Palestinian Refugees, Barromi said.

"It has full power to make all such regulations as it deems necessary or expedient for the restriction of business and movement of Jews, their religious and educational activities and the administration of their property," the Israeli Ambassador said in the course of a 16-page report on the condition of Jews in Syria.

"The laws of succession and will do not apply to Jews," he said. "Jewish property of whatever nature devolves with the death of the owner on the State. Immovable property owned by Jews may not be disposed of by him, even during his lifetime. Notaries are not allowed to legalize documents submitted by Jews."

Continuing, Barromi stated that bank credit has been denied to Jews and notes due to them remain unpaid. Jews cannot engage in foreign trade.

"Jewish merchants in Kamishli and Aleppo, who traditionally purchased their goods in Damascus, cannot work now, being unable to get permits to go to that city," Barromi charged. He said further that mail sent to Jews inside Syria from abroad is detained and Syrian Jews are forbidden to write abroad, even to close relatives.

"It is obvious that in these circumstances religious Jewish life is severely curtailed," the Israeli envoy said. "Jewish communities are indeed permitted to operate on condition that every one of their acts be approved by government authorities. Most synagogues have been closed."

AJ Committee Calls For Calm And Reason

NEW YORK — The New York chapter of the American Jewish Committee called for calm and reasoned discussion by all groups in Forest Hills of the issues involved in the dispute over the construction of a low-income housing project in that middle class community. It defined these issues as "safety, adequate educational facilities, meaningful tenant selection, neighborhood job development, increased transportation and recreational facilities, and appropriate size of structures."

Describing the current dissonance over the project as a "shouting match," Edward D. Moldover, the AJC Chapter president, declared:

"No light is shed on the real issues by attacking as 'bigots' those who, motivated by deep concerns, oppose the project, or by defaming Commissioner Golar, who has proven himself over the years to be a friend of all groups in our city."

FAITH IN GENERALS
 JERUSALEM — Israelis put their faith in generals, a public opinion poll disclosed. The poll found that 75.5 percent of the population favored the appointment of generals to top public posts, including membership in the Cabinet. Only 17.1 per cent were opposed and the rest had no opinion.

Jewish cemeteries have been destroyed and confiscated for the construction of public highways. Only a few Jewish schools such as the Alliance Israelite Universelle School in Damascus are still open.

In Arab principal, responsible to the security services, supervises studies. "The use of the Hebrew language is forbidden which makes the teaching of the Hebrew Bible impossible," Barromi said.

The Israeli Ambassador's presentation was interrupted several times by angry delegates from Syria and Morocco.

Old Falsehood Revived

Rabbi Charlop Excoriates Doctor, N.Y. State Journal Of Medicine

NEW YORK — The director of the Rabbi Isaac Elchanan Theological Seminary of Yeshiva University has excoriated a pathologist and the New York State Journal of Medicine for publishing an "infamous accusation" of Jewish blood libel.

Rabbi Zevulun Charlop, who is also the rabbi of Young Israel of Mosholu Parkway, the Bronx, cited the article "Strange Murder of William Of Norwich, 1144" in the November issue of the Journal. Its author is Dr. William D. Sharpe of New York, director of laboratories at Columbus Hospital and professor at the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey at Newark.

Dr. Sharpe presents a five-page "medicolegal analysis" of Thomas of Monmouth's account of the murder of a Christian teenager, William, in the Jewish quarter of Norwich, England, during Holy Week, 1144.

Dr. Sharpe writes: "It is... definite that the Jews claimed the sheriff's protection and bribed him before William's body was found and that the Jewish community knew of his death long before the Christian community..."

The last time William was seen alive, Dr. Sharpe continues, "he was seen entering a house in the Jewish quarter, and his dead body was first seen in the custody of two Jews. In modern terms, the Jewish community were at least accessories after the fact."

Hussein Calls New Battle Inevitable Unless Israel Withdraws From Arab Areas

BEIRUT, Lebanon — King Hussein of Jordan said last week that another battle with Israel was inevitable as long as Israel continued to occupy Arab territory.

Delivering the traditional Speech from the Throne at a joint session of Parliament in Amman, Hussein warned that "there can be no peace while occupation, expansion and aggression continue."

The 60 members of Parliament cheered the 36-year-old King when he declared that "the Palestine question remains one of life and death to us."

The King, whose address was broadcast by the Jordanian radio, appealed for closing of Arab ranks, and said that Arab conflicts had been responsible for the continued occupation of the territory Israel seized in 1967, including half of Jordan.

He emphasized that the occupied West Bank area would be reunited with Jordan "sooner or later." He warned the West Bank residents against "falling into the trap of schemes for establishment of an independent entity." He added that advocates of an independent Palestine under Israeli occupation were daydreamers.

The King repeated his promise to give Jordanian Palestinians the right of self-

Rabbi Charlop said that "it was altogether incredible, almost a macabre nightmare, to discover this infamous accusation alive and well, exhumed for the pages of New York's official medical publication."

He continued: "Stripped away of all its niceties and scientific gibberish, (it) is little more than an ingenious rehashing of one of the basest canards invented by medieval Christianity to hold the Jew at bay."

Especially disturbing, Rabbi Charlop said, "is Dr. Sharpe's reliance on the word of a man, Thomas of Norwich, who wrote his account 29 years after the alleged incident and suffered from ludicrous anti-Semitic feeling."

Dr. Sharpe "should have told us that the linchpin of Thomas' version rests upon the hateful testimony of Theobald, a Jewish apostate who afterwards became a monk," the rabbi added.

He concluded: "One can only hope that the lack of objectivity, at once grossly and subtly pervasive, in Dr. Sharpe's offering is not reflective of the scientific inquiry which ordinarily carries the imprimatur of the Society."

Dr. Sharpe, a Christian, asked for comment on Rabbi Charlop's charges said: "I've heard this accusation several times — the familiar old thing."

ASKS FREEDOM
 PARIS — When Socialist Gaston Deferre, the mayor of Marseilles, welcomed the world's number one Communist, Leonid I. Brezhnev, to France's second largest city, he publicly called on him to respect ethnic and religious minorities in the Soviet Union. While Deferre, who was defeated for the presidency by Georges Pompidou, Brezhnev's host during his visit to France, did not mention Jews by name, his meaning was clear.

To Build Tel Aviv Theater In Honor Of Max Reinhardt

NEW YORK — A new theater to celebrate the legendary Austrian-Jewish stage work of Max Reinhardt, the legendary Austrian-Jewish stage director, will be built in Tel Aviv as part of its cultural center, it has been announced.

Plans for the building — a complex that will also house a drama school and the Reinhardt archives — were disclosed by Meyer W. Weisgal, a former Broadway impresario who presented Reinhardt's last production, Franz Werfel's "The Eternal Road," in 1937.

Mr. Weisgal said plans had also been made to take the stage director's body from the United States to Tel Aviv, where it is to be buried near the projected theater in 1973, the 100th anniversary of his birth. Mr. Reinhardt died in New York on October 31, 1943, at the age of 70.

The theater will be built next to the modern Tel Aviv Museum which was inaugurated last April as the nucleus of the new cultural center, which will also include a library donated by West Germany's Social Democratic party, a center for Yiddish studies and a sculpture garden. No mention was made at the time of the projected Reinhardt memorial, although the Tel Aviv municipality is understood to have earmarked $2-million to help in its financing.

Mr. Weisgal, the 77-year-old chancellor of the Weizmann Institute of Science at Rehovot, 15 miles south of Tel Aviv, who is known as a prodigious fundraiser and as a raconteur, said the idea began when the Austrian government donated $1-million for the memorial and friends of the late stage director pledged another $1-million.

"We kept it a secret until we had a design that was a fitting tribute to the pioneering spirit of Max Reinhardt," Mr. Weisgal added. "We have just chosen the plans of a team of young Israeli architects from among 50 competing designs. Now we can talk."

Some persons familiar with Israel's cultural scene suspected that the timing of the announcement was another manifestation of Tel Aviv's rivalry with Jerusalem, where the new Miles Sherover Theater is due to be inaugurated soon. And although Mr. Weisgal vigorously shook his white-maned head at this suggestion, a mischievous smile seemed to belie the denial.

An unusual feature of the projected Tel Aviv theater is that it combines a theater-in-the-round seating 1,100 with a slightly smaller open-air theater on the roof that can be used during the dry fall and spring seasons.

The Cameri company, which has specialized in modern and avant-garde plays, will become the resident company of the Reinhardt Theater, Mr. Weisgal said. The building will also have facilities for a drama school and the Reinhardt archives, which contain notebooks recording his triumphs in Berlin, Vienna and Salzburg, where he produced practically all the plays of Shakespeare, Moliere, Goethe, Strindberg, Wedekind, Ibsen and Shaw.

Israel Returns Egyptian Prisoners

TEL AVIV — Israel has returned three wounded Egyptian prisoners of war who are in need of medical attention, it was reported here. The return was confirmed by the International Red Cross committee in Geneva.

Their release was seen as a gesture by which Israel hoped to persuade Egypt and Syria to free Israeli POW's some of whom have spent 18-24 months in jail.

There are presently 11 Israelis being held in Egypt and three Israeli pilots in Syria, Israel holds 71 Egyptian POW's, 40 Syrians and one Jordanian. Israel has gone through foreign channels in efforts to secure the release of Eyal Achkar, an Israeli pilot who was seriously injured when his plane was shot down over Egypt on June 30, 1970. He has since been hospitalized in Egypt.

RECIPES FOR HANUKAH

APPLE SAUCE AND COTTAGE CHEESE PANCAKES

1 cup (1/2 lb.) small curd cottage cheese
2 eggs
1 jar (25 oz.) apple sauce
1 Tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup flour
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
Oil for frying

Combine cottage cheese and eggs and beat until well mixed. Stir in 1-1/2 cups apple sauce, sugar, cinnamon and salt. Add flour and baking soda, mixing well. Heat oil in large skillet. Use about 2 tablespoons of batter for each pancake and cook each side until golden. Serve with rest of apple sauce. Makes about 20 small pancakes.

POTATO LATKES

4 large potatoes, peeled
1 medium onion
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons flour (approximately)
Oil for frying
1 jar (15 oz.) apple sauce

Coarsely grate potatoes into a mixing bowl; drain off excess liquid. Grate onion into bowl; add eggs, salt and pepper. Stir in just enough flour so that batter holds together. Heat about 1/4 inch oil in a large skillet and drop in potato mixture by tablespoons. Fry pancakes brown and crisp on both sides. Serve with apple sauce. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

INDIVIDUAL PRUNE-POTATO PUDDINGS

3 medium potatoes
3 eggs, separated
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon salad oil
1/2 cup snipped pitted prunes
Whole pitted prunes

Preheat oven to 400 degrees F. Generously grease muffin tins (about 18 wells) and put in oven to heat while preparing mixture. Grate potatoes into a large bowl. Add egg yolks, instant minced onion, seasonings, oil and snipped prunes; mix well. Beat egg whites until stiff; fold into potato mixture. Spoon mixture into heated pans; top each individual pudding with a whole pitted prune. Bake about 20 minutes, until well browned. Makes about 18.

QUICK POTATO PANCAKES

4 medium potatoes, peeled and cubed
Ice water
2 eggs
1 medium onion, coarsely chopped
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons flour (approximately)
Oil for frying

Put half of potato cubes into blender; add enough ice water to cover. Cover blender and whirl potatoes just until grated. Drain grated potatoes and place in mixing bowl. Repeat with remaining potatoes. Put eggs and onion in blender, whirl to combine. Add to potatoes along with salt and pepper and enough flour to thicken batter slightly. Pour 1/4 inch of oil into a large skillet and heat. Drop about 1 teaspoon mixture for each pancake; fry crisp and golden-brown on both sides. Serve with warm Prune-Orange Sauce. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

PRUNE-ORANGE SAUCE

1 cup snipped pitted prunes
1 cup orange juice
1/4 cup sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon cornstarch

Combined snipped prunes, orange juice and sugar in a saucepan. Stir in lemon juice mixed with cornstarch. Bring just to boil over moderate heat, stirring occasionally. Serve warm with potato pancakes. Makes 1-1/4 cups sauce.

NUT PASTRY

Prepare pie crust for a 2-crust pie, and work in 1/4 cup blanched almonds and 2 tablespoons sugar. Roll out half of pastry and line 9-inch pie pan. Refrigerate until ready to fill. For lattice top: Roll out remaining half of pastry between sheets of waxed paper. Remove top sheet of paper, cut pastry in 1/2 inch strips. Leave pastry on paper and refrigerate until ready to use. This makes the delicate pastry strips much easier to handle.

PRUNE SWEET POTATO CASSEROLE

3 lbs. sweet potatoes, cooked, or 2 cans (1 lb., 8 oz. each) yams
1/2 cup dark brown sugar
1/4 cup butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon each pepper, cinnamon, ginger
1 package (12 oz.) pitted prunes

Cut sweet potatoes into thick slices. Combine brown sugar, butter, salt and spices. Place half of sweet potato slices in a greased 1-1/2 quart baking dish. Sprinkle with some of brown sugar mixture. Top with half of prunes, sprinkle with brown sugar mixture. Repeat layers. Bake in preheated 350 degrees F oven about 35 minutes until slightly browned on top. Makes 8 servings.

ROAST DUCKLING WITH PRUNE COMPOTE STUFFING

1 package (12 oz.) pitted prunes
1/2 cup orange juice
4-1/2 to 5 lb. duckling
1/2 lemon
Salt and pepper
1 large tart apple
1 seedless orange
2 ribs celery, chopped
1 medium onion, chopped
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon each pepper, cinnamon, ginger

Cover prunes with orange juice. Remove as much excess fat from duckling as possible without tearing skin. Rub inside and out with lemon and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Quarter unpeeled apple, core and then chop. Chop unpeeled orange. Drain prunes, reserving juice. Combine prunes, chopped apple and orange, celery, onion and seasonings. Stuff neck and body cavity with mixture. Skewer openings and truss duck. (Spoon any leftover stuffing mixture into greased baking dish and place in oven for last half hour that duck roasts.) Prick duck skin all over. Place duck, breast side down, on rack in roasting pan. Roast in preheated 325 degree F oven. After 1 hour, turn duck breast side up. Baste with reserved orange juice every half hour. Roast total of 2-1/2 to 3 hours. Place on platter and remove strings and skewers. Arrange any stuffing which was baked separately on platter. Skim fat from pan drippings and make gravy if desired. Makes 4 servings.

PRAISE JEW

BONN — West German President Gustav Heinemann and Chancellor Willy Brandt were among the hundreds of well-wishers who cabled the Secretary of Council of Jews in Germany, Hendrik Georg Van Dam, to congratulate him on his 20 years of service on behalf of Germany's Jewish community. Brandt stressed in his message that Van Dam who celebrated his 65th birthday, has done "much to make tolerance and respect among people and religious communities a yardstick and an example." Dr. Heinemann said that Van Dam "had sparked off a new trust among Germans and German Jews."

The Lyons Den

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK: Albert Blinder, the lawyer, bought a suit in a New York Department store. The suit had been made in Poland. In a pocket, Blinder found a note written in Polish and had it translated. It read: "Please be careful of the trousers. The zipper is imperfect."

Artur Rubinstein was elected to France's Institute of Beaux Arts . . . Pierre Cardin is designing the costumes Rubinstein will wear when he appears in Paris for the investiture . . . The father of Jean-Paul Bemondo, the French actor, is a renowned sculptor. The senior Bemondo is designing the sword Rubinstein will wear for the occasion. When Rubinstein appeared in Philadelphia recently, he played two full concertos — one of them as an encore.

Garson Kanin's new book, "Tracy and Hepburn," is already a best-seller. Kanin did not ask, nor legally need, Miss Hepburn's approval . . . The photograph of Kanin on the inside of the book's jacket is by Eva Rubinstein, daughter of the Artur Rubinsteins . . . Lorna Levant, daughter of June and Oscar Levant, is working her way through college by teaching piano . . . Edward G. Robinson is in Israel to do a film entitled "Neither by Day Nor by Night."

The movie version of "Man of La Mancha" co-stars Sophia Loren and Peter O'Toole. They share top billing. In English-speaking countries, O'Toole will get top billing, and Miss Loren will get top billing in the rest of the world . . . William Devane, the New York stage actor, has been signed to co-star in the film . . . Burt Lancaster raised $100,000 for the ACLU at a party at Hugh Hefner's West Coast mansion.

The German and British rights to Martha Rofheart's "Fortune Made His Sword" have been sold. There also has been a six-figure payment by Dell for the paperback rights. It's Miss Rofheart's first novel, which Putnam's is publishing. Film negotiations are proceeding now . . . Caskie Stinnett, editor of "Travel and Leisure," recently visited New Guinea. When he learned that some of the natives practice cannibalism, Stinnett asked the guide to spread the word that "I have a high percentage of mercury."

Brooks Atkinson, the retired drama critic, went to see the play "Lenny" at the Brooks Atkinson Theatre. He commented afterwards that if he owned the theater he would not have allowed such a shocking play to have been booked into it . . . Roberta Peters is being sought for a Broadway role, but has decided to stick to opera . . . Glen Campbell, the folk singer, will headline the Christmas show at Harrah's in Lake Tahoe, Nevada.

A well-known film producer invested $3 million in a movie starring the politically active wife of the film's director. The director concentrated so much on his wife that she won fine notices, but the picture was a disaster. When the producer saw the first screening, he said to the director: "Next time you decide to send a public love letter to your wife, please don't do it on my money."

Robin Moore, author of "The Green Berets" and "The French Connection," wrote the biography of Arthur Fiedler. Mrs. Fiedler was most cooperative with Moore, supplying the details she heard about her husband's torrid romances with renowned international stars — before she met him.

It was Fiedler himself, however, who cut out those sexy portions which are frequently a factor in the making of a best-seller.

Melba Moore is completing a two-week engagement at Chicago's Palmer House. Pursuant to her promise of visiting penal institutions, as she tours throughout America, recently she performed for 1000 inmates in the Cook County (Chicago) jail . . . S. Hurok is bringing to America the Polish Folk Dance Troupe for a national tour. He is also importing the Hungarian Gypsy Orchestra. Both are attractions for next season.

Noel Coward and Michael MacLiammor, the Irish actor, are both 71. When they meet, Coward greets him: "Michael, you are six weeks and five days older than I am — and don't you dare deny it." MacLiammor is starring in his third one-man show in London. His first was as Oscar Wilde; his second on James Joyce, and his third is on W.B. Yeats . . . Joseph Levine, the producer, is writing his autobiography in longhand.

If there is a movie in it, he will do it himself.

The Abominable Snowman

Back in 1964, Professor Boris Porshnev of the Historical Institute of the Soviet Academy of Sciences announced to his colleagues and to the world that he had singlehandedly amassed a great deal of evidence to support the theory that the "yeti" or Abominable Snowman is a survivor of the Neanderthal Age. The Snowman supposedly inhabits the Eurasian mountain range which includes Mt. Everest.

This intrepid Russian himself led an expedition to the Himalayas. One of his party saw what he took at first to be a bear but the bear stood upright and ran away from the Russian searching party. This is of course not prima facie proof it wasn't a bear. In fact, a sensible bear ought to run away from a Russian searching party. Look what the Russians have done to the bear's image.

To come back to the Snowman, however, I have had no communiques from Boris since nor for that matter has the Soviet Academy. Boris may still be halloing around the steep slopes of the Himalayas. At that, he may be smarter than we think.

No one ever heard of the Abominable Snowman until the turn of the century. Its conception coincidentally is simultaneous with the Loch Ness sea monster or dragon. The first rumors about the "yeti" seeped out of Asia Minor in 1911.

In 1921, the British dispatched a reconnaissance party to Mt. Everest where, sure enough, they discovered the yeti's tracks in the snow.

In 1930, the yeti kidnapped a peasant maiden and transported her over the snows to his cave. But I believe they found the girl later earning her living in a Lhasa billiard palace hustling suckers in straight pool.

In the 1950s and early 1960s, the unidentified flying objects eclipsed the yeti. An off-duty policeman in Keokuk has little hope of ever laying eyes on the Abominable Snowman but he has enough leisure to spot a UFO. The UFO's are probably regrouping during the 70s and I look forward to the reemergence of the Abominable Snowman.

We all need anchors and the Abominable Snowman is one of the anchors that keep us stable in the ultracomplex world we live in.

The Snowman is as rude and primitive a conception as any ever investigated by a scientist or camera fanatic. To suspect cavemen still roam our world is to suspect that we have not made as much progress as we sometimes boast we have.

Hitler Impersonator Embraced in Munich

NEW YORK — An actor who impersonated Adolf Hitler on the streets of Munich during the filming of a television play says he was surrounded by people who wanted to embrace him and shake his hand.

According to New York Post TV columnist Bob Williams, Swiss-born Actor Billy Frick, appeared in a Nazi uniform with a Hitler hairpiece and paste-on mustache.

He told Williams, "I was astonished by what I encountered. The Germans still have Hitler in their hearts. Everybody wanted to shake my hand. Women embraced me in Munich. There were women who wept. An old man on crutches from war wounds threw his arms around me and showed me his medals. They all took me for Hitler. There wasn't a single heckler."

MONEY ASKED

NEW YORK — Soviet authorities in the Ovir (visa) department have ordered Yacov Gluzman — whose wife, Rita, has been in the United States for the past month seeking aid in securing his release — to pay 900 rubles for the document he has been trying to obtain since his wife was permitted to leave with her family and his unborn son two years ago, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency has learned. The sum reportedly is required in order to terminate his Soviet citizenship.

PETITION KNESSET TEL AVIV — A group of Israelis demanding an end to "religious bigotry" in questions pertaining to marriage announced that its members would petition the Knesset to institute civil marriage in Israel. The Public Committee for Civil Marriage has designated that date as "Mamzer Day" to focus attention on the plight of a brother and sister who were denied marriage licenses because the religious authorities consider them "Mamzers" (illegitimate).

Says New Rabbi Will be Named

MOSCOW — A New York rabbi who flew here for the funeral of the Chief Rabbi of Moscow expressed confidence that the vacant post would be filled soon despite a shortage of trained rabbis in the Soviet Union.

Rabbi Arthur Schneier of Park East Synagogue, 163 East 67th Street, who met with Pyotr V. Makartsev, the Soviet official supervising religious affairs said in an interview "I think it is in the Government's interest to see to it that a person of scholarship and stature is appointed without delay."

The choice, which must have Government approval, will be made by members of the Chiral Synagogue, the only house of worship for the 5 per cent or so of the capital's 250,000 Jews who are believed to attend services.

Mr. Makartsev, deputy chairman of the Council on Religious Affairs, said that the Chief Rabbi, Yehuda Leib Levin, had "rendered great service and will be difficult to replace."

The rabbi, who died recently at age 77, was a controversial figure. Some Jewish organizations abroad and sections of Moscow's Jewish community hoping to emigrate to Israel accused him of being a spokesman for the official Soviet line in opposition to Zionism. Others felt that he had ably represented religious Jews.

634 EMIGRATE
NEW YORK — 634 Canadians and Americans emigrated to Israel on both permanent and temporary bases during October. The largest group, 298, departed from New York, while 33 left from Philadelphia.

Moonlighting and the Jobless

Fact One: Our jobless rate has been hovering between 5.8 and 6 per cent for a year, longest and highest for a decade.

Fact Two: Simultaneously, the number of Americans holding two or more jobs is around an all-time record of four million, with one in 20 U.S. workers "moonlighting."

Who are the moonlighters, why are they, what do they earn, how do they affect those who have no jobs at all?

(1) The "who" is easy: teachers, policemen, mailmen and other postal workers, firemen, guards, farmers, musicians, state and local workers, pilots. Many are also highly paid corporation executives who hold second jobs as board members for other companies. A typical moonlighter is a family man between 25 and 44. Only 765,000 of today's millions of moonlighters are women.

Among the key moonlighting industries are: TV repairs, watch repairs, retail sales, teaching, entertaining, construction, forestry, transportation, real estate, bus driving, carpentry, hospital work, accounting, bookkeeping — plus a wide variety of other services, ranging from acting to taxi driving. So widespread is moonlighting in colleges that at some, says the Labor Department, salaries are purposely kept low because it is assumed that most faculty members will find second jobs.

(2) The "why" is also a cinch: soaring costs of college education and of the necessities of life; debts (one in 10 holds a second job to pay off debts); luxury living, including two vacations, two homes; the desire to build up a second set of work skills or to establish a new business; simply the love of work.

(3) As for the "what they earn," the answer is enough to make moonlighting worthwhile to most. Extra earnings at second jobs average about $30 a week, with one in three male moonlighters taking home $50 or more and one in four men in the 25-44 year age bracket earning $70 or more. At $2.50 an hour, just 15 extra hours of work a week will expand your family's annual income by nearly $2,000.

A second job also can be an ideal opportunity to explore a new occupational field to find out if you would enjoy switching. It can be the right way to turn a hobby into a money-making "reserve career." It can provide a badly needed change of pace, a new creative outlet, an exciting challenge.

(4) But does moonlighting take jobs away from the unemployed?

NO, was the conclusion of an AFL-CIO study of precisely this question. Many moonlighting jobs are in the moonlighter's own business or in a skill which is his own. Often moonlighting involves only temporary work — such as during the Christmas rush — hardly the answer to the needs of the unemployed worker. Frequently, the jobs are during off-hours or in geographically inaccessible places to the unemployed. And very often, they require skills and talents not possessed by unemployed workers.

Let's say, therefore, that you are among the important minority who want or need a second job — for any of the reasons mentioned above. How do you go about moonlighting?

• Explore the possibilities in your neighborhood of turning a treasured hobby into a paying proposition. If you play the guitar, can you teach the instrument to others. Or find a spot in a dance band occasionally? Or hire yourself out for parties?

• Consider carefully what would be the best hours for you, then canvass possible employers. A few hours each evening? Or would working one full day a week fit in best? Or what about working a long weekend now and then?

• If your moonlighting can be done at home, find out about the valuable income tax deduction for which you might be eligible for an office at home.

• One caution before you take on a moonlighting job if you now work for someone else: your employer might have a policy forbidding this. One in five employers bans moonlighting and some labor unions also forbid their members to hold second jobs. The reasoning of employers is that the nature of the second job might produce a conflict of interest — for instance, in the case of an engineer who would do research for another corporation in the same industry.

But that conflict of interest is so obvious, it doesn't warrant elaboration — and since the majority of employers do permit moonlighting, the choice is really yours.

• And don't feel guilty about taking a job away from the unemployed or flinch when you are unjustly accused of so doing. In the overwhelming percentage of cases, the jobless worker simply could not or would not take your place.

Norway Looks For Rabbi

COPENHAGEN — Norway's tiny Jewish community has been without its own rabbi for several years. Dr. Bent Melchior, Chief Rabbi of Denmark, launched an appeal here for the appointment of a rabbi for Norway. He warned that unless a rabbi is appointed, Norway's Jewish community faces "total assimilation."

Dr. Melchior has voluntarily officiated at services in Oslo two or three times a year. But, he said, his occasional presence is not sufficient to help maintain Jewish identity in Norway. He said the Jews of Denmark should be prepared to do all they can to help obtain a rabbi for their fellow Jews in Norway.

Call For More Money For Jewish Education

LAKESWOOD, N.J. — Leaders of Orthodox Judaism have demanded that Jewish federations and welfare funds throughout the country "substitute cash for rhetoric" in support of Jewish education, particularly a network of all-day Jewish schools.

After two days of discussion and expressions of concern over the plight of Jewish education, at a special meeting at the Brunswick Hotel, 100 top officials of the Orthodox movement called on the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds to allocate $100-million for Jewish education and the all-day Jewish schools.

Led by Rabbi Bernard L. Berzon, president of the Rabbinical Council of America, the Orthodox body that sponsored the meeting, the delegates appealed to leaders of Jewish philanthropic groups to start reordering priorities in the financing of programs and institutions maintained by the American Jewish community.

In denouncing the "the frequent rhetorical declarations" from Jewish philanthropic leaders, Rabbi Berzon described the Jewish day school as "the relevant single factor in the preservation of the Jewish community and the sine qua non of Jewish survival."

At its annual meeting in Pittsburgh, the Council of Jewish Federations asserted that American Jews must raise $550-million next year for domestic and overseas needs. Of this sum, 1,500 delegates who attended the meeting said that $100-million must be earmarked for social service and various other projects, including Jewish education.

At the same time, Max M. Fisher, president of the federations group, urged the delegates to re-examine their obligations to the all-day Jewish schools.

27 Rhode Islanders To Hear Golda Meir

A delegation of 27 Rhode Islanders, headed by Governor and Mrs. Frank Licht, will attend the United Jewish Appeal's annual conference in New York City from Friday, December 10, through Sunday, December 12.

The address by Prime Minister Golda Meir of Israel, on Saturday, December 11, will be a highlight of the conference.

Those attending from Rhode Island in addition to the Governor and his wife, are Max Alperin, president of the Jewish Federation of Rhode Island, and Mrs. Alperin, president of the Women's Division of the JFRI; Mr. and Mrs. Bernard E. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Fishbein, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Galkin, Mr. and Mrs. Albert I. Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill L. Hassenfeld, Mrs. Gertrude Hochberg, Israel Resnick, Kenneth K. Resnick, Miss Betsy Ress, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ress, William Robin, Dr. and Mrs. Jacob Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin L. Zurier, Mrs. Roz Goldberg and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin S. Holland.

SABBATH SERVICE: Attorney-General Richard J. Israel will deliver the sermon at the annual Sabbath Service of the Men's Club of Temple Beth Israel on Friday, December 10, at 8:10 p.m. His sermon will be on "Justice, justice, shall ye seek . . ."

In addition to Rabbi Jacob Handler and Cantor Karl S. Kriz, members of the Men's Club who will participate in the services include Milton Schoenberg, Ira Stone, Arthur Richmond, Charles Bojar, Nathan Schwarz, Herbert Feldman, Irving Kellstein, Bernard Labush, Hyman Schachter, Solomon Selinker, Harry Katz, Carl Lefkowitz and Peter K. Rosedale.

An Oneg Shabbat in honor of Attorney-General and Mrs. Israel will follow the services.

Hausner Discloses Letter Of Sadat's Salute To Hitler

SIAMSHA LAKE, N.Y. — Gideon Hausner, the chief prosecutor in the Adolf Eichmann trial, disclosed what he said was an 18-year-old letter by Anwar Sadat, now President of Egypt, saluting Hitler for his leadership of Germany in World War II.

Hausner, who was Israel's Attorney General from 1960 to 1963 and is a Knesset member, read the letter to the 2,000 delegates to the assembly of the United Synagogue of America.

According to Hausner, some Egyptian personalities were approached by an Egyptian newspaper to write a hypothetical letter to Hitler, if indeed he were alive and residing in South America as then rumored, he said on Sept. 18, 1953, Sadat, then a rising officer in the Egyptian Army, provided the following reply:

"Dear Hitler: I salute you from the depths of my heart. Though you have apparently lost your war, you are the real winner, for you succeeded in breaking the lines between Churchill and his accomplices. True, you have made a few mistakes by fighting on too many fronts, but you have become an eternal leader of Germany and no one ought to be surprised if you will rise to power again or if the world will see another great Hitler."

been tried on charges of preparing and circulating anti-Soviet material or undertaking actions hostile to the state. Their right of emigration has rarely been contested directly, but Jews who seek to leave are harassed in many and varied ways. The more than forty Jews who are now in Soviet prison and labor camps are not statistics. They are men and women, mothers and fathers, sons and daughters. They are young and old, from country and from city. We cannot remember all of their names, but we should think not of forty Jews but of people: Boris Azernkov, a dentist; Hillel Butman, an engineer; Marks Dymshits, a pilot; Reiza Palatnik, a librarian; Boris Penson, an artist; Viktor Stilbans, a physician; Izia Zalmonson, a student; and many others. They come from Kiev, Leningrad, Riga, Moscow, Odessa, Sverdlovsk, Kishinev, and other parts of the USSR.

Harassment does not stop the Jews of the USSR from requesting exit visas. Arrest for the distribution of Hebrew texts and their study does not stop the copying of books and their study. Convictions of over forty Jews in this past year because of their active efforts to emigrate, or to study and teach Hebrew does not stop others from doing the same.

On Sunday, 12 December 1971, we will light the first candle of Chanukah. This ceremony commemorates the Jews of old who won their struggle for religious and cultural identity. How much more does it represent the miracle of Soviet Jewry — awakened from a generation of silence — demanding the right to live as Jews and to emigrate to the land of their ancestors — Israel?

When you light the candles each night of Chanukah, remember the trials and the imprisoned Jews of the USSR. Remember more, the millions of Soviet Jews remaining, sojourning in a land which neither wants to let them live as Jews nor to leave for the Jewish homeland. Remember our brothers and pray for their salvation.

COUNCIL LUNCHEON

The Student Council of the Continuing Education Division of the Rhode Island Extension Division will hold its annual Christmas Luncheon on Friday, December 17, at 12:30 p.m. The luncheon will be held at the Colonial Hilton Inn in Cranston.

Mrs. Carol Blanck is chairman, and Mrs. Gail Saglio, president, is chairman ex-officio. Students, faculty and alumnae are invited to attend.

Soviet Union Supplies Egypt With Bombers

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union has supplied Egypt with a number of medium bombers equipped with air-to-ground missiles during the last few weeks, State Department officials said.

The weapons, which are code-named Kennel by the Western alliance, are the first air-to-ground missiles to be introduced into Egypt by the Soviet Union.

An unspecified number — but fewer than ten — of the twin-engine jet bombers were reportedly detected by United States intelligence as they were flown into Egypt by Soviet pilots during the last few weeks. Each bomber carries two missiles beneath its wings.

Confirming the detection, Charles W. Bray 3d, the State Department spokesman, said that the development had forced him to qualify his statement earlier that the Soviet Union had been demonstrating "restraint" in its recent shipments of military equipment to Egypt.

He said that the evaluation had been based on the amount of equipment delivered to Egypt before November 1, the cutoff date for an intensive review of the Middle East arms situation ordered by Secretary of State William P. Rogers. Mr. Rogers also said in an interview published by United States News & World Report that the Soviet Union had been acting with restraint in recent months.

The information on the new shipments, officials said, was confirmed only in the last few days.

Mr. Bray said that as a result of the evidence of additional shipments, the United States "obviously will be assessing the implications of this development" on the arms balance. In his published interview, Mr. Rogers said that the United States had concluded that as of November 1 the military balance between Egypt and Israel had not shifted.

Mr. Bray declined to say whether this evaluation had been changed as a result of the new information.

The United States has been using its contention that the balance of power in the area is stable as an explanation for its refusal to grant the Israeli request for additional supplies of Phantom and Skyhawk warplanes.

Israel has challenged the American assessment of the military situation and maintained that the Soviet Union has continued to ship a steady supply of military equipment to Egypt during the last few months. Maj. Gen. Itzhak Rabin, the Israeli Ambassador here, repeated this contention after a meeting at the State Department with Joseph J. Sisco, the Assistant Secretary for Near Eastern and South Asian Affairs. He said that Israel was still actively pressing for a renewal of shipments of Phantoms and would "not take no for an answer."

The bombers, TU-16's code-named "Badger," are a standard item in the Soviet inventory. A squadron of the planes, equipped primarily for reconnaissance and without the missiles, is based in Egypt to support the Soviet fleet in the Mediterranean. They frequently have been seen flying over and presumably photographing the ships of the United States Sixth Fleet.

United States officials said that they were unsure of the mission of the new missile-equipped planes, but they suspect that they are meant for use against Israeli forces in the occupied Sinai Peninsula rather than in support of the Soviet fleet. All the planes bear Egyptian markings.

The Kennel and the Kelt — another missile that can be fitted to TU-16's — are designed primarily for use against ships, but they can also be directed against land targets, officials said. Their range is said to be about 100 miles.

The Israelis have a more sophisticated air-to-ground missile in the American-supplied Shrike, which is fitted to the F-4 Phantoms.

KOLLEK PROTESTS

JERUSALEM — Mayor Teddy Kollek has protested to Justice Minister Yaacov Shimshon Shapiro over what the Mayor called the appointment without proper procedure of a new religious council here by Dr. Zerach Warhaftig, Minister for Religious Affairs. Religious councils are responsible for the purveying of Jewish religious services to their local populations, including the payment of the salaries of rabbis, supervisors of ritual slaughter and other functionaries. The councils are appointed by the Religious Affairs Minister, but should reflect the wishes of the religious segment of each town or city, and the final appointments normally are made after consultation with the municipal councils.

Ultraorthodox Jews In Israel Threaten Doctors Of Pathology

JERUSALEM — Dr. Alexander Laufer, a mild-mannered middle-aged professor of pathology and head of the laboratory of surgical pathology at this city's Hadassah Hospital, opened the mailbox at his modest home here one day recently.

Inside was an envelope addressed in unfamiliar handwriting to Dr. Laufer. It bulged along the bottom with a cylindrical lump about the size of the tip of one of his little fingers. Knowing what the letter inside the envelope would say and what was making the envelope bulge, Laufer called police and turned it over to them.

Inside was a 6-mm. bullet and an unsigned note which said, in effect:

"This time the bullet arrived by post. Next time — if you continue desecrating the dead — you will receive it in the head."

The letter to Laufer — and many if not most of Israel's estimated 60 pathologists have received comparable ones — is the latest device in a campaign by some of the ultraorthodox Israelis to halt medical autopsies in this country.

Police are investigating the murder threats being received by the pathologists — but the threats are continuing.

Health Minister Victor Shemtov has said he is on the side of the pathologists — but the letters persist.

Doctors in three Israeli hospitals have staged one-day protest strikes against the harassment of the pathologists — but the campaign against them goes on.

There seems to be no doubt who is conducting the campaign — but some uncertainty over the individual identities of those who are staging it.

They are believed to be ultraorthodox Israelis, mainly a handful of young men who are convinced that autopsies defile the bodies of the dead and somehow compromise if not preclude their resurrection when the messiah comes.

Many pathologists have received abusive and denunciatory telephone calls, some of them in the middle of the night.

To Laufer and most of his pathologist colleagues, the intensifying campaign against them is vastly more than a personal vendetta, it is — as one of them said bitterly — "an attempt by extremists employing direct intimidation tactics to damage the practice of medicine and thus the health and lives of our people."

ENGAGED: Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Greenglass of 24 Highland Street, Revere, Massachusetts, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Donna Linda Greenglass, to Philip Stuart Lapatin of Brighton, Massachusetts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lapatin of 65 Third Street.

Miss Greenglass, an honors graduate of Northeastern University where she received her Master's degree in Educational Research, is currently a candidate for her Doctorate at Boston University.

Mr. Lapatin was graduated from Classical High School, summa cum laude, and from Cornell University with a Phi Beta Kappa. He is now a second year law student at Boston University where he was selected to write for the Law Review.

A June 11 wedding is planned.

Zealots' Campaign Causes Closedown Of Hospital

JERUSALEM — Strikes closed two government hospitals last week and a general strike that would shut down all hospitals was threatened as pathologists reacted angrily to the continuing campaign of abuse and death threats by religious zealots opposed to autopsies. Police were sharply criticized for their failure so far to apprehend the perpetrators of threats and harassment of pathologists. The Histadrut Central Committee demanded stronger police measures and the Tel Aviv Municipality issued statements condemning the campaign of abuse.

The chairman of the Pathologists Association asked the Israel Medical Association to consider a general strike at all hospitals because 24-hour strikes at single hospitals have failed to end harassment or to stimulate more vigorous police action.

Closed down were the Tel Hashomer Hospital in Tel Aviv, the country's largest hospital and the Hillel Yaffe Hospital in Hadera. Pathologists at both hospitals had received threatening letters. Authorities estimated that at least 60 pathologists are threatened or harassed each day in hospitals all over the country.

A spokesman for the Pathologists Association sharply rejected a "mediation" offer by Avraham Verdigger, a Knesset member of the Orthodox Poalei Agudat Israel faction. He said, "The offer is like that of a burglar who calls on you to negotiate a compromise after he has forced entry into your home." He said the attacks on pathologists were a crime and it was up to the police to bring the guilty parties to justice.

ARRIVE IN ISRAEL
TEL AVIV — Ruth Aleksandrovich's long battle to emigrate to Israel ended last week when she and her father, Isaac, and her fiancé, Isaiah Averbuch, arrived at Lydda airport 24 hours after leaving the Soviet Union. A few hours later, the 24-year-old Riga nurse, who had been imprisoned after the show trial of Soviet Jewish dissidents, went to the Western Wall in Jerusalem, where she talked with her brother and Abraham Zalmanson.

FEDERATION SOLUTION TUNIS, Tunisia — President Habib Bourguiba said that a federation between Israel and her Arab neighbors was the "only positive solution" to the Middle WARWICK D-DAY: Abe Aron is chairman of Warwick D-Day, the intensive one-day house-to-house canvass for the annual campaign of the Jewish Federation of Rhode Island, which will take place on Sunday, December 12.

Volunteer workers will report at Temple Beth Am at 9 a.m. for breakfast and a final briefing. Following the card solicitation, the workers will report back to the temple.

Assisting Mr. Aron are Emil Friedman and Dr. Marshall K. Bornstein, co-chairmen.

Kollek Thinks Kahane Should Leave Israel

NEW YORK — Teddy Kollek thinks Rabbi Meir Kahane should get out of Israel — and stay out. The Mayor of Jerusalem, in a radio interview here, said of the chairman of the Jewish Defense League, who has taken up residence in Israel: "As far as I am concerned, he is an unwanted import and you can have him back, as quickly as possible."

What Rabbi Kahane and his "young little boys" are doing in Israel is "trying to intimidate some Arabs" and "they will only create trouble and the result will be they will get into trouble," Kollek warned.

He said that if the JDLers were really determined to aid Israel's security they would do so by joining the Army, or the police.

Voting Method Chosen By Zionists Upheld

JERUSALEM — A high Zionist tribunal has upheld the method selected by the American Zionist Federation to choose delegates to the next World Zionist Congress.

In a ruling handed down here the Congress "Court of Honor" decreed that mail ballots were a proper means of election, thereby denying a challenge brought before the Court by the Zionist Organization of America and the United Zionists-Revisionists of America.

The tribunal also endorsed the AZF's plan to select 55 percent of the delegates by ballot and 45 percent by party nomination. But it voided an inter-party agreement on the distribution of delegate seats which the ZOA and the Revisionists claimed was exclusionary.

King Faisal Denies Report On Pilgrimages

JERUSALEM — Cairo radio reported that King Faisal of Saudi Arabia has officially denied reports that he would permit Israeli Moslems to make the pilgrimage to Mecca.

The report apparently originated with Sheikh Mohammed Ali Jaabari, Mayor of Hebron, who said last week that he received a message from King Faisal through an emissary.

Jaabari said he planned to send a delegation to Amman to discuss measures to enable Israeli Moslems to make the pilgrimage.

TO ENTER CABINET

JERUSALEM — Gen. Yitzhak Rabin, Israel's Ambassador to the United States for the past three years, is slated to enter the Cabinet late in 1972 or early in 1973, it has been learned from reliable sources here.
