NAMED DIRECTOR

NEW YORK — Abraham S. Karlikow, a foreign affairs specialist for the Europan office of the American Jewish Committee for twenty years, has been appointed director of the office, located in Paris. He succeeds Zachariah Shuster who becomes the Committee's European liaison with the World Council of Churches and the Vatican.

SOLVE DIFFERENCES

MIAMI — The Jewish Federation and the Florida Regional Office of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith have announced that they have resolved their differences. ADL will continue as a beneficiary of the combined Jewish Appeal. The two had split a few months ago over differences in fund-raising activities.

seeking emigration to Israel, the Soviet authorities may have manipulated the number of Jews with a view to giving the impression that assimilation is an active force among Jews in the Soviet Union.

The assimilation view was backed by the two official demographers, Aron Y. Boyarsky, writing in Izvestia, the Government newspaper, and Lev Volodarsky, in an article in Pravda, the Communist party newspaper.

Mr. Boyarsky, who is director of the Research Institute of the Central Statistical Administration, said that assimilation was a "natural and progressive process, reflecting economic and spiritual proximity among ethnic groups, their friendship and equality, and their consolidation."

Feel Decline In Number Of Jews Due To Process Of Assimilation

MOSCOW — Two Soviet demographers said last week that a decline in the number of Jews reported in last year's census reflected a process of assimilation.

The two population experts thus appeared to give the official explanation for the largely unexpected decline of the number of reported Jews, from 2.27 million in 1959 to 2.15 million in 1970. Before the census, estimates both in the Soviet Union and abroad ranged as high as three million.

Some nationalistic Jews in the Soviet Union have questioned the explanation that an increasing number of Jews may have declared themselves to be Russians or members of some other nationality when the census taker inquired about ethnic affiliation.

According to these Jews, many of whom are active Zionists

Nine Jews Go On Trial In Leningrad For Supposed Attempt At Hijacking

MOSCOW — Nine Soviet Jews went on trial in Leningrad Tuesday, charged with organized anti-Soviet activity. Tass, the Soviet press agency, said that eight of them were accomplices of the 12 would-be hijackers convicted of treason last December.

Reliable Jewish sources said that entry to the Leningrad city court for the long-delayed trial was restricted to persons with special passes. Only close relatives of the accused were permitted to attend. The rest of the hundred seats were assigned to persons believed to be hostile to the defendants, the sources said.

No foreign correspondents were allowed to attend and the Soviet press and radio have ignored the trial. But Tass, in a dispatch for foreign subscribers, said that the indictment read in court charged that all nine had "entered into a criminal conspiracy and committed a number of punishable criminal offenses."

The nine defendants were all professional people, Tass reported. Jewish sources said they were all fervent Jewish nationalists, and many spoke Hebrew and most had sought to emigrate to Israel.

The nine are being tried in the same court where 11 of the would-be hijackers, nine of them Jews, were found guilty last December of planning to seize a Soviet plane last June 15 and fly it to Sweden, from which they hoped to get to Israel.

Two in that group, Mark Y. Dymshits and Eduard S. Kuznetsov, were sentenced to death, but their sentences were commuted to 15 years in prison camp. The nine others received terms ranging from 4 to 15 years. A 12th member of the group, also a Jew, was sentenced to 10 years by a military court in January.

Most of the nine persons now on trial were arrested last June 15 or soon thereafter. Similarly, nine Jews are awaiting trial in Kishinev and four in Riga on similar charges arising out of the planned hijacking. Jewish sources said those trials would be held this month.

Tass did not specify the charges against the nine, but Jewish sources said that the indictment read by Nina Isakova, the vice chairman of the Leningrad court, charged two of them, Gilya I. Butman, 39 years old, and Mikhail L. Korenblit, 34, with treason under Article 64-A, under which the 11 earlier defendants were tried.

Tass said that Mr. Butman and Mr. Korenblit, "together with other persons on trial, were actively involved in preparing the seizure of a passenger plane, in order to flee abroad." They were accused, according to Tass, of having financed the hijacking operation, led by Mr. Dymshits, a former pilot.

In a later dispatch, Tass said that Mr. Butman was the first to testify and that "he admitted that he was one of the organizers of the criminal group whose activities caused damage to the Soviet state."

Tass said that Mr. Butman, under questioning, "was forced to admit that he had pursued persons to take part in hijacking an aircraft for defection abroad." He said that the group "used their contacts with foreign tourists for communication with Israeli authorities so as to coordinate with them the criminal actions."

This was the first time that Israel has been publicly accused of any connection in the hijacking plane.

Tass said eight of the nine were accomplices, but did not say which person was not. Actually the plot was foiled before the would-be hijackers ever got into the plane.

Jewish sources said that all the defendants were charged with Articles 70 and 72 of the Criminal Code. The first covers anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda, and carries terms of six months "to seven years" confinement. Article 72 covers organized activity against the state and "participation in anti-Soviet organizations." The maximum penalty, like that for Article 64-A, is the death sentence.

Protests Trial Of Nine USSR Jews On 'Vague, Meaningless Charges'

Rabbi Saul Leeman of Temple Beth Torah, chairman of the Rhode Island Conference on Soviet Jewry and president of the Rhode Island Board of Rabbis, released a statement Wednesday, protesting the announcement of the opening of the new Leningrad trials of nine Soviet Jews on "vague and meaningless charges."

He accused the Soviets of playing a "cruel and heartless 'cat and mouse' game" with human lives and called upon the American public to join in the protests to the Soviet Union for its "cruel and unjust treatment of its Jewish citizens."

Following is the text of Rabbi Leeman's statement:

We call upon the entire American public to join us in expressing our outrage and protest to the Soviet Union for its cruel and unjust treatment of its Jewish citizens, particularly those who have applied for visas to leave Russia and to emigrate to Israel.

We have just been informed that nine Jews are now being tried in Leningrad on the charge of "agitating and spreading propaganda to subvert Soviet authority." On this vague and meaningless charge many of the Jews are being held for future trials.

It is obvious to any careful observer of the Soviet treatment of its Jews that a cruel and heartless "cat and mouse" game is being played with human lives.

Item: Anatol Glod, a Jew, was arrested and removed from the bus on the way to the airport where he was to depart for Israel.

Item: Another Soviet Jew, Unrich Hegt, arrived in Tel Aviv alone, the visas of his family having been rescinded one day before their planned departure.

Item: Ruth Alexandrovich, a nurse, age 24, was imprisoned on October 7, 1970, one week before her wedding day.

Item: Over 90% of visa applications are summarily refused by Soviet authorities.

Item: The cost of a visa has recently been raised to the Russian equivalent of $1,000—a full year's salary for most Russians. Last December, 12 Jews were tried in Leningrad on the trumped-up charge of attempted hijacking. The death sentence meted out to two of them was commuted in the face of world wide expressions of protest. All 12 are now in Soviet labor camps.

Thus we see that the Soviet Union is not insensitive to the expression of world opinion. We, as fair minded Americans, dare not be silent. We urge all of our concerned fellow citizens to express their protest to Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin, USSR Embassy, Washington, D.C. Please write, phone or wire him today.

republics and other geographical areas reflecting the distribution of the ethnic groups, the official view has been that ultimately the different nationalities would come together and merge, presumably around the Russians, the dominant ethnic group.

In an attempt to illustrate this process in the case of the Jews, Mr. Boyarsky cited intermarriage as an important factor. He said that in the Ukraine in 1969 a third of all marriages involving Jews were mixed marriages.

Mr. Boyarsky said assimilation was also evident in the declining number of Soviet Jews who declared that they used their native language, which in the case of the Ashkenazic Jews of European Russia would be Yiddish.

In the 1959 census, 21.5 percent of Jews said they spoke their native language, but the 1970 count was only 17.7 percent.

Mr. Volodarsky, the other demographer, who is first deputy chairman of the Central Statistical Administration, said that "an important role in assimilation is being played by the Russian language, which is becoming a second native language for many ethnic groups."

"Many millions of people of various nationalities are regarding Russian culture as their native culture and the Russian language as their native language," he wrote.

Officially in the Soviet Union, Jews are not set apart on the basis of religion but are treated as a distinctive ethnic group on the same basis as Ukrainians, Georgians, Latvians and others. In contrast to most other ethnic groups with concentrated areas of settlement, Jews are scattered widely through the country without having a major republic in which a majority resides.

NO NEWS
LONDON — A traveler returning from the Soviet Union told the Jewish Telegraphic Agency that there was still no news of the five persons arrested in connection with last summer's alleged hijacking attempt in Leningrad and not in the dock at the December Leningrad trial. The five are Lev Leibovitch Korenblit, Lassal Kaminsky, Gregory Ilya Butman, Lev Naaumovich Yaggman and Vladimir Osherovich Mogilever. The traveler said that on January 8 several friends of the five approached the deputy prosecutor in Leningrad, the KGB (secret police), the Interior Ministry and the Leningrad party secretary, none of whom could or would give any information about the prisoners. The KGB officials, according to the traveler, said the matter was not their business. The wives of the prisoners then approached the public prosecutor on January 22, and were told by him that he would give them a reply within three weeks. As of March 6, six weeks later, he had not replied.

From the front tees it measures 6,793 yards and playing that in par is no easy match — not with 80 or more yawning bunkers strategically placed among 35 acres of water. Every green, every fairway, in the kind of shape that rewards a great shot and makes you want to forget a bad one. If you need proof, it's the same course where the $60,000 Concord L&M Golf Tournament will be played from August 26-29. Pro-Am Wed., Aug. 25. We also have the somewhat easier 18-hole "International" and the 9-hole "Challenger". Play one or play them all.
 If tennis is your game we've got 4 superbly surfaced indoor courts where you play under the most ideal lighting, day or night. When you want to swing outside you'll find 13 more. (The very same ones where Budge, Riggs, Talbert, Graebner, Segura, Ashe, Richey, and all the other world class players exhibit.) Rain or shine you've got nothing to worry about but your game.

Mrs. Sheldon P. Cohen

Miss Rhoda Faye Cohen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Cohen of 40 Bishop Drive, Framingham, Massachusetts, was married on Sunday, March 28, to Sheldon Philip Cohen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Cohen of 99 Oak Hill Avenue, Pawtucket. Rabbi Joseph J. Gold officiated at the 6 p.m. ceremony which was held at Temple Beth Shalom in Framingham.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride was gowned in silk organza and beaded reembrodered lace. Her gown was styled in the princess silhouette with a high scalloped neckline, pantera sleeves, a fitted empire waist and an A-line skirt. Lace was applied to the entire front of the dress, to the sleeves and to the full train. Her full short veil of Heathcote illusion was attached to a clip of matching Alencon lace. She carried a Bible with orchids and streamers of stephanotts.

Mrs. Peter Levenson and

Mrs. Henry Gilbert, both sisters of the bride, were matrons of honor. They wore gowns of violet chiffon with a high ruffled neckline, bishop sleeves, an empire bodice and an easy skirt. Matching braid was applied to the neckline over the shoulder and then along the empire bodice. They carried cascades of spring flowers.

Junior bridesmaids were Sharon Levenson and Judith Levenson, nieces of the bride, and the flower girl was Shayne Gilbert, also a niece of the bride. They wore long sleeved light blue gowns with high collars, and carried baskets of spring flowers.

Norman Cohen served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Sidney Cohen and Lawrence Cohen, brothers of the bride, and Peter Levenson and Henry Gilbert, brothers-in-law of the bride. Ring bearer was Michael Cohen, nephew of the bride.

Following a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple are living in Warwick.

LOSE WORK DAYS

JERUSALEM — Israel lost a total of 390,000 work-days as a result of strikes by labor in 1970 as compared with 10,000 work-days lost in 1969. The Central Statistical Bureau, which released the figures, stated that the greatest number of strikes were those directed against municipal and governmental institutions. Higher wage demands formed the basis of the strikes.

Going Around In Circles . . .

A dramatic and positive change has taken place in the last five months in the Soviet Government's attitude toward its alienated Jewish citizens who wish to migrate to Israel. Last Christmas the world was shocked at the death sentences pronounced upon two defendants who had conspired with other Jews to hijack a Soviet plane. The global revulsion at that barbaric verdict not only saved the doomed men but apparently put Soviet policy on this matter into reverse gear. Since last January 1, about 2,500 Soviet Jews have been permitted to emigrate. Last month alone more than 1,300 departed, probably the largest number of such emigrants in any single month since Israel became a state.

The above is from a New York Times editorial of only a few days ago. Although everything was just as hopeful at that time as the above sounds, within the last few days, the Soviets have again changed their policy. They are now again putting on trial some of the men brought in on the hijacking plot and are trying them on subverting the Soviet Union.

What will happen no one knows, of course. But since complaints to your Senators and Representatives and to the representatives of the Soviet Union seemed to work the last time, this is what we should do again.

Shocked By Lack Of Taste Shown By AZA Editors

Recently the Little Rhody Chapter of AZA published a mimeographed leaflet as a project related to its work. In this publication were at least two separate references or articles of an extremely vulgar and obscene nature which have shocked a number of people and which introduce a new and unsettling dimension into what has been heretofore one of the interesting aspects of "B'nai B'rith." At first, I felt that such a travesty on journalistic endeavors would be better left alone to die of its own unworthiness. However, as a member of "B'nai B'rith" and as one working with young people, I feel that there should be public condemnation of such distortions of the work of "B'nai B'rith."

For the authors of the pieces involved, I can only express disappointment at their lack of taste, and their apparent inability to express themselves in a more suitable manner. For the sponsor or sponsors of this publication, assuming that they must have read the articles, it is alarming to realize that responsible adults, presumably identified with Jewish culture and heritage, should permit this organization to be used as the mouthpiece for such vulgarities.

Mrs. Potemkin Asks If A Fetus Is More Important Than Humans

Not too long ago, when the abortion law was being debated in our state, a local rabbi, claiming to represent orthodox Jewry in our state, appeared on the Open-Line program on WJAR, and said that the killing of a fetus was against the Jewish Law, unless the birth of this fetus meant the life of the mother.

Therefore, speaking for some Jews in our state, he was against liberalizing the existing abortion law.

I called the rabbi after his appearance on this program, and asked him, "Since it is so written that the fetus is life, and therefore sacred, as is all life to the Jew, how do you feel about the killing of innocent men, women and children that is being done by our government?" He said that that is different; he would not take any stand against such killings because those people are communists.

So, according to this rabbi, who said he is speaking for orthodox Jewry in Rhode Island, it is a matter of politics as to whether or not life is sacred. It all depends on what your political beliefs are as whether or not a full life should be allowed you.

Although I abhor the stand the Catholic Church has taken on this issue, because they are using their political power to influence legislators who belong to their faith, I must respect them for not being hypocritical. I am referring to the priests who showed President Nixon, during his recent visit to Rhode Island, where they stood on the Indo-China war. They are against the killing of a fetus; they are also against the killing of innocent human beings.

FROM FRIDAY TO FRIDAY

A Glimpse of Providence At the Turn of the Century

By BERYL SEGAL

Those of us who have lived in Providence at the turn of the century will be interested to relive the experiences of those days. For the generations not yet born at that time, it will be fascinating to compare notes with a girl who was the only Jewish student at Pembroke in 1910.

The Rhode Island Jewish Historical Association has the good fortune to be the repository of the papers of the late Bessie Bloom Wessel, who died at the age of 81 in New Britain, Connecticut, on April 11, 1969. The papers were donated to the association by her son, Dr. Morris A. Wessel.

The current issue (Volume 5, Number 4) of the Rhode Island Jewish Historical Notes, edited by Dr. Seibert J. Goldowsky, contains among other very important articles, the account of Dr. Wessel on "Jewish Life in Providence."

Did you know, for instance, that the Jewish population in Providence in 1903 was only 3,400 souls?

Dr. Bloom-Wessel complains: "There is much difficulty . . . in getting anything like accurate statistics."

And the reason she gives is because Jews were listed as Germans, Russians or Roumanians. Jews were not a nationality in the eyes of the census takers of the day.

Do you remember the days when the North End was the main district in the city where the Jews lived? Shawmut, Charles, Douglas and Chalkstone Avenues were teeming with Jewish families whose main business was peddling.

Did you know that the average Jewish family lived on $10 a week? Dr. Bloom-Wessel has made a study of Hawes Street where on one side of the street lived "well-to-do" families and on the other side were the poor families. The difference between them was that the former lived on $15 a week, and the latter had an income between $8 and $10 a week.

When a Jew lived in this country between 15 and 20 years he moved to Pratt Street and along Benefit Street up to Doyle Avenue. Robinson Street in South Providence was considered the wealthy residence of the neighborhood.

It will come as a revelation to you that Bessie Bloom Wessel was the only Jewish student at Pembroke, and that Brown had about 20 Jewish students. Compare this with the present enrollment at Brown-Pembroke University.

These were the days when new immigrants arrived daily. Bessie Bloom-Wessel had the opportunity to observe the immigrants since she was the Director of the Immigrant Educational Bureau in Providence. She makes extremely pertinent observations about the Jewish immigrants. In one part of her paper she says of the Jewish immigrants:

"... brought up in a country where there is exceeding interest in political matters, these immigrants (Russian Jews) are keenly susceptible to all political and social movements."

She further testifies that many of the immigrants were "enthusiastic supporters" of the Poale Zion, and they showed knowledge not only of Jewish history but of political history in general.

Bessie Bloom-Wessel must have had a wonderful time with these immigrants; keen, eager, ready to argue every issue, questioning, full of drive.

The author of the article also tells us about the education of children among the immigrants. There were two great Talmud Torahs and three Sabbath Schools in the city. In the Talmud Torahs the children studied every day "the scriptures in Hebrew." No matter how poor a family was the children were sent to the Talmud

Torah where the pay was on a sliding scale, from full tuition to no tuition at all.

The article also contains chapters on Religion, Philanthropy and Politics. Of newspaper reading, Bessie Bloom-Wessel says that "there is scarcely a home . . . where a daily and frequently a weekly or monthly magazine is not read." These were Jewish dailies and weeklies. She says that one man distributed over 900 daily newspapers. The "Tageblatt" (Daily News) alone sent 600 newspapers into the city every day.

The Issue of the Historical Notes is full of valuable material, and every one of them deserves special treatment. Everyone of the articles is relevant to the history of the Jews in our state.

At the Annual Meeting on Sunday afternoon, May 23, we will hear plans for further work of this very important organization in our city, the Jewish Historical Association.

In addition, there will be a guest speaker, Rabbi Arthur A. Chiel of New Haven, Connecticut, who will speak on "Ezra Stiles and the Rabbis." Ezra Stiles, as you know, was a minister in Newport during the time when the city was in its glory. He was a frequent visitor to the Shul in Newport, and he wrote copious notes in his diary on his observations of the religious customs of the Jews.

The meetings of the Historical Association are, as usual, open to the public. You are welcome to come.

(The opinions expressed in this column are those of Mr. Segal, and not necessarily those of this newspaper.)

How to Curb Pollution and Cut Your Costs, Too

Don't buy products which are overly wrapped, such as individually wrapped slices of cheese. Remove the overwrapping and refuse to take it with you when you buy such items as toothpaste packed in a tube and then wrapped in a box.

Return coat hangers and tissue paper to the cleaners instead of throwing them away.

For cleaning, use a solution of one tablespoon of household ammonia in a quart of water; it does as good a job as aerosols costing 50 cents or more.

Buy smaller cars; they pollute less and cost less too.

"The consumer will by far bear the biggest burden of cleaning up our environment," said William D. Ruckelshaus, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, before an elite group of business writers attending a conference of the Society of American Business Writers in Washington last week. While the first solid estimates on clean-up costs will not be available until the EPA completes its pioneering study on this four to six weeks from now, no one doubts the costs will be astronomical.

Who'll pay? Not stockholders particularly. The impact of the environmental cleanup on stock prices and stock dividends will be "relatively minimal," Ruckelshaus remarked. Not all taxpayers either; the impact on them will be selective, with some taxpayers bearing a larger, some a smaller burden. The answer is that all of us, as consumers, will carry the burden — as ultimately we always do.

But we can cut the costs — curb pollution on our own and simultaneously reduce our current and future living costs too. Here's a tentative list of suggestions which the EPA has put together which we, as individuals, can follow to achieve this. Perhaps the guides will seem deceptively simple to you — but imagine the total effect if each of us went along with each proposal!

AUTOMOBILES:
Automobiles account for 60 percent of our air pollution, so, says the EPA, use a mass transit system to transport you to and from work. Join a car pool and cut down on the traffic which pollutes the air. Ride bikes. Walk more. (And, repeat: Buy smaller cars.)

Keep your car in good repair and have regular tune-ups at least twice a year. Have frequent oil changes and lubrication. Watch for gas leaks. Keep your muffler in good shape.

Buy a car with an advanced pollution abatement device.

If you have a '71 car, use 91-octane unleaded gas; consult your dealer if in doubt, and if unleaded is not available, use 91-octane low-lead gas.

If you have a pre-'71 and your car does need some lead, use low lead gas of the lowest octane level on which your car can run

BRIDGE

By Robert E. Starr

Last week we discussed Second Hand Low and how wrong it was to automatically follow this adage. Today's hand will refute the other half of the legend, Third Hand High. Yet as I watched this hand go around the room just about every East player did automatically play their highest card as third man which play gave the Declarer a much easier opportunity to make the hand. What they did was not terrible and actually was just what almost all reasonably good players would do in the same circumstance. Look at the hand and give yourself an honest answer whether you would have done the same.

♠ 7 5 4	♥ Q 9 8	♠ A Q 9	♥ 10 6 5 3

Walter Weinberg and Sy Kasoff were East and West all Vulnerable South Dealer with this bidding:

A couple of pairs holding the North Hand were a bit conservative after their partner opened One No Trump and only bid Two which was passed by South who had given his all when he opened the bidding as he did. They really should have shot for the game. Twenty-five points should make game most of the time and as South had promised at least sixteen that should have made them a bit bolder. Regardless, the play and defense is the same. The idea always being to make the most tricks either as Declarer or Defender.

Most Wests led a small Spade. In a suit contract they would lead the Jack from that holding but at No Trump their play was correct. Here is where East again has to make the key play just as he did in last week's hand. Almost every East, without giving the matter any thought whatsoever, went right up with their Ace. They later said, "We can't finesse against our partners." Should they have? Actually it wouldn't be a finesse really. They should have thought like this: "If my partner has the King it doesn't make any difference which card I play, the Ace or Queen, either will win and we will run the suit . . . But if I play the Ace and Declarer has the King, which is likely anyhow under the bidding, I had better play the Queen not the Ace and I had better do it quickly. . . Obviously the bidding has shown me that my partner has no entries to get back to cash his Spades because I have just about all the high cards our side has. I must try to maintain communication with partner. So I will play the Queen hoping South will take it right away with his King."

Now think along with South. Unless East makes a Federal production of playing the Queen, thus giving the location of the Ace away, South will be very unlikely to hold off his King for fear he will lose it. If West has the Ace and East's play will make it seem so, a lead back by East will go right through that King and he will get nothing in that suit at all. He will most likely jump on the Queen and then hope for the best. If the Club finesse works and the Spades are divided he will make the hand.

Remember, he cannot see the location of the outstanding cards, but East, from South's bid, has a pretty good idea where they are. He knows he has all the possible entries. He has both the Club King in back of the Ace, Queen and also the Diamond Ace. What can West have other than the Spade Jack? So West has to rely on his partner to get him the entry to his Spades. If East acts as above the entry will be there but if he goes up with the Ace, Third Man High, South can hold off until East has no more and then make the hand.

Moral: This hand shows a definite situation. When you have the necessary ingredients, learn to make this play but make it quickly or you will give the show away.

ASWAN DAM
PARIS — The highly-touted Aswan Dam is proving to be a flop, according to a story in the international Herald Tribune published in Paris. Noting that the Dam was built with Soviet aid — one of the largest and most expensive in the world — the report states that it is also the most damaging of all such projects built in recent years in under-developed countries with the help of outside capital. It cites the warning uttered in 1960 by the well-known Arab hydrologist, Dr. Abdul Azi Achmad, who criticized the Aswan Dam plans as unsuitable for Egypt and warned that it would have tragic consequences

FLIGHT OF JEWS

LONDON — A flight of Jews who were allowed out of the Soviet Union made its way recently to Vienna. CBS newsman David Levy was on the plane. His remarks were heard on the CBS Radio Network. He reported "Sad thoughts about those they left behind in Russia dampened the spirits of the 20-odd Jewish men, women and children who landed here in Vienna. The flight from Moscow in a Tuplev-134 stopped over in Kiev on the way, picking up more Jewish families there.

SAME DIFFERENCE: After all these years and with the baseball moguls thinking of many ideas to give baseball a shot in the arm, may I suggest changing the name of the great old erstwhile "National Pastime." The bases don't seem to mean as much as swatting the ball or heaving it at the batter. Some of the broadcasters have already changed some of the names. For instance, they insist on calling a pitcher a "worker." Such a one will "work" today and so and so is "working" in the Bullpen. And according to some of the announcers, players don't "throw" the ball any more. It is now said many times that the shortstop gets the ball and "goes" to first base with it. Also, some of the announcers insist in changing the name of the sphere from "ball" to "baw." There has been one broadcaster who bordered on clairvoyance when he would tell what a player was thinking instead of what he was doing and another brought a semblance of extra-sensory perception into play while telling what was going to happen.

A ROSE BY ANY OTHER NAME, ETC.: Another announcer kept reminding how cold it was at the "baw-game" and how he wished he could be somewhere else. I kept shouting at my radio, "Tell us about the ball game—we don't care how cold you are and where you'd like to be!" Oh well, Webster clearly explains the pronunciation of "y-o-u" with the sound "oo" but announcers are saying "ya" or "yuh!" They call the player at the plate a "hitter" and sometimes he strikes out so the old-fashioned term of "batter" is more appropriate. But "Base" ball! The bases are there and so is the field and so are the stands. So how about a new name for the game that has changed so much from its original version? Confusing? Well, how about the fellow from jolly old England who remarked,

"Funny people over here. They take a little glass for a drink; put in some whisky to make it strong and add a little water to make it weak. Then they put in some lemon to make it sour and add some sugar to make it sweet. And then they sat, here's to you and they drink it themselves!"

LEATHER PUSHERS—(LIVE BOXING): The wonderful medium of television almost put the game of boxing out of business. Televised ring shows night after night; hungry for talent; putting the small clubs out of business; cutting off the supply at the so-called grass-roots. And now with such enterprising men as B.A. Dario and Ronnie Dario and Eddie Imondi on the scene locally, boxing is reviving especially with the magnetic presence of Don McNamee listed for action. This boy McNamee is said to what it takes for emulating the progress and success of Rocky Marciano. He's heading for "big time" and a shot at the title.

LURKING?—IT'S HERE! And in the meantime, closed circuit television has arrived after lurking in the offing. The tremendous success of the All-Frazier television presentation is tempting promoters in all fields. During the past week, three attractive boxing bouts from three cities were advertised for a single closed circuit screen. More such shows, if successful, will further drain the supply of talent.

MORE FUN BEING THERE: However, the Dario-Imondi group will present live fisticuffing fireworks at R.L. Aud. next Monday with the dynamic Don McNamee in a headliner on an action card.

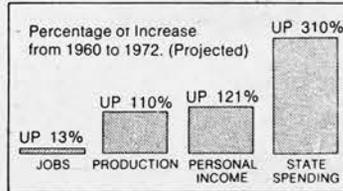

ALL STARS AT THAYER ICE RINK: Another "don't miss" is the "boxing and Karate" show scheduled for Thayer Ice Rink in Warwick and sponsored by St. Peter's Athletic Association Friday night, May 14! Don McNamee will box there in a ten bout program directed by former World Champion Harold Gomes; Willie Pep will be present, the former champion being the newest member in Boxing's Hall

Have you voted yet?
 Freeze the state budget.
 Yes or no?

A non-partisan council comprised of 50 of the State's leading business and professional people have studied the Rhode Island financial crisis. Here are the findings:

Based on the figures, this much is clear: State spending yearly increases have rapidly out-stripped the people's ability to pay.

We must freeze state spending at this year's spending level until a new model budget is proposed in May by The Council For a Better Rhode Island.

If this proposal is going to carry weight, it needs your support. Immediately! Your vote in the largest unofficial referendum in Rhode Island's history is urgently requested. If you're 18 or over, vote. And tell your family and friends to vote with you.

RUSSIAN BLACK BREAD

- 4 cups unsifted rye flour (or rye meal)
- 3 cups unsifted white flour
- 1 tsp. sugar
- 2 tsp. salt
- 2 cups bran cereal
- 2 tbs. caraway seeds, crushed
- 2 tsp. instant coffee
- 2 tsp. onion powder
- 1/2 tsp. fennel seed, crushed
- 2 pkgs. active dry yeast
- 2-1/2 cups water
- 1/4 cup vinegar
- 1/4 cup dark molasses
- 1 square (1 oz.) unsweetened chocolate
- 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) margarine
- 1 tsp. cornstarch
- 1/2 cup cold water

Combine 2-1/2 cups water, vinegar, molasses, chocolate and margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are warm (margarine and chocolate don't need to melt). Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour mixture to make a soft dough. You will usually find you have a good deal of the flour mixture left over, a great deal of which is needed for kneading the bread.

Turn out onto lightly floured board. Cover dough with bowl and let rest 10 minutes. Then knead until smooth and elastic, about 10-15 minutes (dough may be sticky). Place in greased bowl,

BENEFACTOR TO JEWS

MEXICO CITY — The Cuban authorities put no obstacles in the way of those Cuban Jews who express their wish to leave the country, it was learned here from highly-placed sources. The only problem that the Cuban emigres face is the need to secure a transit visa of some Latin American country to which they can temporarily transfer, and from which they can plan their further moves. Because Mexico was until now the only Latin American country having diplomatic relations with Cuba (of late Marxist Chile has resumed diplomatic connections with Fidel Castro), Cuban Jews looked to Mexico for transit visas. But the Mexican authorities require of each emigre a financial guarantee that he will not remain permanently in the country. To the aid of some 120 Cuban Jews, who were not able to furnish the Mexican government with satisfactory guarantees, came a benefactor, the well-known banker and Zionist, Elisha Sourasky, who gave his personal guarantees for these emigrants and thereby secured the necessary transit visas.

FIRE IN ARABA
JERUSALEM — A fire raged through the chemical combine of Araba, located in the Negev between Beersheba and the Dead Sea, ravaging a section of the plant and gutting three giant acidification tanks and other equipment. The cause of the blaze was not immediately known, nor was an estimate immediately available of the amount of damage.

So, You Think It's Easy To Get Married?

So, you think it's easy to get married?

So did Hershel Smith and Claudia Ann Mills. "We decided it would be nice to be married in Israel," says Mr. Smith. They called the Israeli Consulate in Boston before they left and asked them what would be necessary and were told all they needed was a certificate from a local rabbi that the two of them were single and were Jewish. Well, in the case of the two of them, this was simple, and they left for Israel with the proper credentials (they thought).

They found out that having the necessary papers (and pictures of themselves) was not quite enough. They first had to go to religious court so it could render a decision—that they were both Jewish and single. Since Mr. Smith is an attorney, one would think that this would not offer too much of a hurdle, and he says the secretary of the court was very nice.

And so they went to court. The clerk put the matter on the docket to be taken care of within two days. Their intention to wed had to be advertised in the papers—actually, Mr. Smith says, this ordinarily takes three weeks—but they were given special treatment since they came from the United States to be married, and so the advertisement was put in three different newspapers at the same time which would cover the law.

Following this, they had to take the decision of the court (as to whether they were Jewish and single) to the Office of the Rabbinate where they were registered for the marriage. (This includes a file which is made up for you with your picture and vital statistics which will stay there permanently.) This took about nine days to straighten out and included quite a bit of running from here to there to accomplish.

Mr. Smith says that the Israelis are very interesting people. The first reaction of many of them when they are asked to do something is, "It's impossible!" After an hour and a half of vigorous discussion, they decide perhaps, it can be done. There was also another stumbling block. His Hebrew, Mr. Smith said, is all right, but he does not have a rapid-fire style of delivery. He has to think for words occasionally. And he had a slight problem in the Office of the Rabbinate. After he finally convinced the rabbi to whom he was talking that he should allow them to be married while they were still in Israel, he found it WAS possible to get married (finally), but, for some reason, two marriages were not allowed to take place in the same city at the same time. (He is a little unsure as to whether this is the exact meaning of what he was told, but they couldn't be married at 4 p.m. when they wanted to. They were married at 7 p.m.)

Of course, being in Israel, this brings up another problem. In the United States, and probably in most countries, days are counted from 12 midnight to 12 midnight. However, in Israel the day starts at sunset the night before and ends at the next sunset. So the Smiths were married on Sunday, April 18 to our way of thinking, but according to the marriage certificate, they were married on the 24th of Nissan, which would be April 19 to us.

As is usual in cases of this sort, when the action is going on, life is terribly difficult. Once the matter has been resolved, it becomes rather amusing. And this is the way Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Smith, who finally managed to get married in Israel, feel about it now.

They arrived in Israel on April 2 (and left on the 22nd) and had hoped to be married before April 9 when Passover started. Because of all the red tape which had to be untangled, they were given special permission to be married in the weeks after Passover when ordinarily weddings do not take place.

However, with all the problems, they did manage to see some of the sights of Israel, and according to Mr. Smith, they would love to go back to see more of the country.

Of course, what adds a bit more to this story of frustration is the fact that they hired a man to take wedding pictures for them (in color) and decided to take the film home with them to have them processed, since they felt it would take too long to wait for its mailing from Israel. They sent the film to the company in the United States which makes and processes it, and found that all they had were rolls of blank black and white films. (That is why the picture with this story is the one taken at the wedding of Mr. Smith's sister which had occurred a short time previously.)

The formal wedding story follows:

The King David Hotel in Jerusalem, Israel, was the setting for the marriage of Claudia Anne Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Mills of Warwick, to Z. Hershel Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Smith of Providence. Rabbi Levi Yiphhak Rabinowitz of South Africa officiated.

The bride is attending the University of Rhode Island where she is studying nutrition.

Mr. Smith is a graduate of Brown University, Boston University Law School, and received his Master's degree in Taxation and International Law from New York University. He is a member of the law firm of Smith and Smith. His father is the Rhode Island Commissioner of Public Utilities.

Mr. Smith is the grandson of Mrs. Joshua Bell and the late Mr. Bell, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith.

Mrs. Smith is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Mills, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Levin.

Following a wedding trip in Israel and Paris, Mr. and Mrs. Smith are making their home in Providence.

JERUSALEM — Israel is now accepting applications for return by some 100 Palestinian politicians deported since the Six-Day War. Already returned are half a dozen political celebrities from Nabulus and Gaza, who had been deported in September in the wake of the plane hijackings by the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine. Israeli authorities believe the evicted Palestinians are more eager to leave strife-torn Jordan than they are to live in the Jewish State.

JDL Members Jailed For Disorderly Conduct

NEW YORK —Seventy-nine members of the militant Jewish Defense League were arrested this week on charges of disorderly conduct for staging a sitdown that obstructed traffic on Third Avenue, near the Soviet Mission to the United Nations.

Nineteen of those arrested were less than 16 years old.

Shouting their slogans, "let my people go" and "am Yisroel chai" (the people of Israel live), the demonstrators lay down on Third Avenue at 67th Street, for about an hour before the police began taking them into custody.

Deputy Inspector William O'Donnell said the demonstrators had made no attempt to resist arrest. No injuries were reported as a police wagon removed demonstrators in groups to the East 67th Street police station.

The station house is diagonally across the street from the Soviet mission, between Lexington and Third Avenues. Twenty-eight were booked at the East 67th Street station. The remainder were taken in other patrol wagons to the West 68th Street station house. Four of the 77 were also charged with interference with government administration.

Earlier, about 300 first staged a demonstration at Dag Hammarskjold Plaza and then marched up First Avenue to East 67th Street and across to Third Avenue, where they were stopped by barricades.

The police said that Eli Schwartz, who identified himself as chairman of the Jewish Defense League's youth movement, had instructed the demonstrators, "sit down, you won't be arrested." Many of the youthful demonstrators wore yarmulkes—the traditional prayer hat.

Mr. Schwartz said the demonstration was also a protest against "the apathy of the Jewish community, which will march for such things as civil rights but does nothing when the problem is on its own doorsteps."

The four alleged leaders, who were charged with disorderly conduct as well as obstructing governmental administration, were Mr. Schwartz, 20 years old of 440 West 42d Street, the headquarters of the Jewish Defense League; Samson Levine, 18, who gave the same address; Ben Frollich, 21, of 1761 51st Street, Brooklyn, and Isaac Jaroslavitcz, 17, 952 44th Street, Brooklyn.

without knocking. Even if your car has a very powerful engine, always use the lowest octane, lowest lead fuel that keeps your car from knocking. Learn the octane and lead requirements of your car.

WATER:
Fix leaky toilets and faucets; the steady flow wastes an appalling volume of water. Don't run water while you're washing your hair, brushing your teeth, washing dishes. When buying a washing machine, favor the one that will enable you to reduce the use of water.

In winter don't use salts to free walkways of ice, and in summer water your lawn during the off-peak periods.

Don't buy paper products colored with polluting dyes.

Hadassah. (This is the Women's Zionist organization) We went to Hadassah to bring to public attention one main point. The Jewish organizations are not doing enough for Soviet Jews.

Do not regard this as a typical "pro militant, anti-Jewish establishment organization letter." There are certain facts that escape the attention of the public that have to be clarified.

There is an American Jewish Conference on Soviet Jewry which represents 5 out of the 6 million Jews living in the U.S. The Conference has 26 charter members which include B'nai B'rith, A.J.C., A.D.L., and Hadassah. Unfortunately the Conference does not have a budget, nor an office staff, and in the words of the New York Times, "The Conference is a paper organization."

Think of it for a minute! The ONE organization that was set up by the whole of American Jewry (with all their millions) has no money! The fault lies on the heads of such great Jewish leaders as Mrs. Faye Schenk, Dr. William Wexler and Richard Cohen. They will be deserving of many chapters in a book called "While Three Million Died."

We pleaded with Hadassah to give money to the Conference and to get their members into the streets. Volla! Here is the catch. The Conference is not a tax exempt organization. Hadassah does not give money to non-tax-exempt organizations. Yet as a charter member of the Conference, it refuses to vote for the incorporation of the Conference!

At this time of the year when God moves to Narragansett Pier, the High Holy Days approach us. When we beat our breasts this year and ask God to forgive us, he will not forgive, because we were not prepared. And so the question remains with us. The question that will haunt us for the rest of our lives. Are we prepared to do—what must be done? I have a premonition that will not leave me. By the time we answer—I fear it may be too late.

A few words for Rhode Island Jews. The trials are starting again in Russia. The cattle cars are rolling through Europe. And that question—that question that has lifted Jewish youth to great heights and Jewish leaders to great depths: Are we prepared to do what must be done? Are we prepared to see Russian concerts come to Rhode Island—and not disrupt it, because what will THEY think? Are we prepared to see travel agencies send tourists to Russia—a Russia that even during the harassment battles with Jewish militants said: "We want your tourists, we guarantee them safety." Are we prepared to see one Russian product sold on the counters of any store in Rhode Island. Are we prepared to see one private company lead trade missions to Russia—when Russia needs these products? Are we prepared to go to Boston, New York and Washington to attend mass demonstrations? And so we go back to the question—are we prepared to do what must be done?

Anti-Establishment, Pro-Kahane Fan Attacks Gutterman's Letter

Rabbi Leslie Y. Gutterman of Temple Beth El seems to be undergoing a spiritual crisis over the "mock heroics" of the JDL in making life uncomfortable for Russians. Disgusting! I wonder if the rabbi has ever been able to recover from the mock heroics of the Jews of the Warsaw Ghetto.

He is equally distressed that young Shaye Cohen "chose to present his case by a nasty defamation of Beryl Segal written in a rubric of self congratulation." Pitiful! Perhaps Mr. Cohen should be forced to study the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith's shogun attacks upon Meir Kahane, for instruction in the arts of selfless discourse and sweet reason.

"It is upsetting," he writes, "to see the memory of the Six Million used in a self-serving and manipulative way in order to score a debating point." . . . Is that what this is to you? A game? A DEBATE? . . . You can't answer the argument and so your TACTIC is to remove it as an issue by trying to bully JDL into not using it. No, not bully JDL into not using it. You know JDL can't be bullied. To bully your audience into not thinking about it. That's all this whole thing is to you people, an exercise in tactics.

How many of us have attended UJA Federation luncheons and dinners where we were shown newsreel shots of dead Jews, piled up like cordwood? As a money-raising gimmick! You people are disgusting. And how much of that money, incidentally, has been shoveled over to non-Jewish causes and agencies so that the officers of the established organizations might, just might get invited to their country clubs for dinner.

The Holocaust happened and I say that we are never to forget it. Whenever there are Jews in trouble in any part of the world, every other Jew worthy of the name, will think of the Six Million. And every Jew worthy of the name will remind every other Jew that he who will not learn from the lessons of history, is doomed to repeat it. But your tactic is to say that it is sacrilegious to speak of the Six Million in a "self-serving" (Jew-serving?) way. Well, let me tell you something about sacrelege. You abandoned those Six Million Jews. You leaders of the established Jewish organizations did nothing to save them. Nothing! The reason Roosevelt did nothing was because he read the Jewish leaders right. Roosevelt was no fool. He understood that whatever protests were being made and whatever action was being requested was for the record only. And there wasn't even very much of that.

All right, You ask me not to mention the Six Million who died in the Holocaust and this is my answer: Six million Jews died in terror and degradation and you did nothing. Six million Jews died and you did nothing. Six million Jews died and . . . you . . . did . . . nothing.

The same nothing that was being done about the Russian Jews until Rabbi Meir Kahane, may his tribe increase, was forced to do something. And you will never forgive him for it. What little you are doing now, and I wish someone would tell me just what you ARE doing, you are doing because he has shamed you into it. That's why you hate him and JDL so. That's what you will never forgive him and JDL for.
